

Citizens' Responsibilities on Terrorism

There are several indicators to look for that preceded a terrorist attack. When citizens know what to look for and how to report suspicious activities, terrorist acts can be prevented.

Activities that are indicative of the following types of behavior:

Surveillance - People who spend an inordinate amount of time watching the activities of others

Elicitation - Attempts to obtain information

Probing - Tests of security measures and systems

Acquisition - Efforts to acquire supplies that are suspicious in nature or amounts

Suspicious behavior and activity - People who act in an inappropriate manner or who engage in activities that would cause concern

Dry runs - Behavior that would indicate possible pre-attack practice

Deployment of assets - Activities suggestive of staging for an attack

Law enforcement officers cannot be everywhere! They need your eyes and ears. The whole community needs to be alert.

Please give schools, medical facilities, governmental facilities, public utilities, shopping malls, and places of assembly particular attention.

Report any and all suspicious activities!

Report any activities that are suspicious to your local police department and/or the FBI's Joint Terrorism Task Force at 414-276-4684.
