

U.S. Department of Justice

National Drug Intelligence Center

Office of the Director

319 Washington Street, 5th Floor

(814) 532-4601

Johnstown, PA 15901-1622

Fax: (814) 532-4690

Testaments to NDIC's Contributions and Value October 2008 – December 2010

U.S. House of Representatives

December 1, 2010 (Judiciary Report (111-670 Part 1) on the Fairness In Cocaine Sentencing Act of 2009)

NDIC's report is cited on pages 23-24 of the report, another example of NDIC information being used by policy makers.

"National Drug Intelligence Center (NDIC) National Drug Threat Survey (NDTS) data for 2007 show that 40.1 percent of state and local law enforcement agencies report cocaine or crack cocaine as the greatest drug threat in their area-higher than for any other drug.¹⁶ Moreover, NDTS data show that nationally, the percentage of state and local agencies that identified cocaine [powder or crack] as the drug that most contributed to violent crime (46.9%) and property crime (40.9%) was much higher than for any other drug. Compounding the problem posed to the nation by cocaine-related crime is the relatively high number of cocaine abusers."

United States Attorney – Western District of Michigan

October 29, 2010 (Press Release)

"Cocaine & Money Launderer From California Sentenced in West Michigan to Life in Prison." "The ATF and Lansing Police Department investigated the case, along with the Great Lakes Regional OCDETF Office in Chicago, Illinois, and analysts from the National Drug Intelligence Center in Johnstown, Pennsylvania."

U.S. House of Representatives – Ultralight Smuggling Prevention Act of 2010

September 24, 2010 (Representative Heller)

NDIC was referenced in support of this legislation: "The 2010 National Drug Threat Assessment released by the National Drug Intelligence Center identified ultralights as a new means drug cartels are using to smuggle drugs into the United States."

United States Department of Justice

Sept. 2, 2010 (Press Release)

OPERATION HAVOC YIELDS 21 ARRESTS - ... "The indictments are the culmination of a long term Organized Crime Drug Enforcement Task Force (OCDETF) investigation...." "The enforcement action netting the arrests was conducted by ICE-HIS and DEA with the invaluable assistance and cooperation of the United States Marshals Service (USMS), Laredo Police Department, Webb County Sheriff's Office, Border Patrol, Customs and Border Patrol, Webb County District Attorney's Office, National Drug Intelligence Center and the Texas Department of Public Safety."

Honorable Pedro R. Pierluisi – U.S. House of Representatives

July 27, 2010 (Letter to Attorney General Eric Holder)

Mr. Pedro Pierluisi, Delegate to Congress from Puerto Rico cited a 2009 analysis prepared by NDIC (2009 Puerto Rico HIDTA Drug Assessment) in his letter to AG Holder, which is a prime example of NDIC providing key intelligence to policymakers.

U.S. House of Representatives – Congresswoman Giffords

May 26, 2010 (Remarks on the Border Security Crisis)

NDIC intelligence was cited in support of legislation that she introduced: “In the 2010 National Drug Assessment released by the National Drug Intelligence Center, they identified ultralights as one of the newest ways drug cartels are using to smuggle drugs into our country. And according to the CBP Air and Marine Operation Center, or AMOC, based in Riverside, California, there were 193 suspected incursions into our country and 135—make that 136 with the incursion 2 weeks ago—by ultralights from October 1 to the present time.”

United States Attorney – Southern District of California

May 14, 2010 (Certificate of Appreciation)

Citation: “In recognition of your outstanding efforts in 2010 with the preparation and development of the prosecution against members of the Arellano-Felix drug trafficking organization. Your hard work, commitment and dedication were invaluable in achieving our future successes in dismantling this illegal criminal enterprise.”

U.S. Department of Justice – Acting Deputy Attorney General

May 11, 2010 (National Internet Crimes Against Children’s Conference)

EXCERPT: “For that reason, the PROTECT Our Children Act of 2008 required the Department of Justice to conduct a threat assessment of the risks posed to children by child exploitation. The National Drug Intelligence Center (“NDIC”) invested more than a year of its time and interviewed more than 100 child exploitation prosecutors, investigators, and experts in the field, and reviewed thousands of pages of documents from investigations, criminal cases, research studies, and the National Center for Missing & Exploited Children to compile the assessment.”

U.S. Senate – Caucus on International Narcotics Control Hearing

May 5, 2010

Senator Feinstein, during her opening remarks cited NDIC’s National Drug Threat Assessment: “The National Drug Intelligence Center’s 2009 National Drug Threat Assessment indicates that Mexican Drug Trafficking Organizations represent the “greatest organized crime threat to the United States.”

Assistant Director Janice Ayala of the U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement credits NDIC: “The impetus for Project Big Freeze was the National Drug Threat Assessment report by the Justice Department’s National Drug Intelligence Center (NDIC). This 2009 report identified gangs as an imminent threat to the national security and public safety of our country. The report classified 28 gangs as exceedingly dangerous due to their involvement with cross-border criminal activity linked to Mexican and Asian DTOs.”

Government Accountability Office – Report to Congressional Requesters

April 23, 2010 (Letter/Report)

EXCERPT of NDIC intelligence quoted by GAO for their report: “According to the 2009 National Gang Threat Assessment by the National Gang Intelligence Center (NGIC) and National Drug Intelligence Center (NDIC), as of September 2008, there were approximately 1 million gang members in the United States—a 25 percent increase over 2005 membership levels. The assessment found that street gangs that operate throughout most of the United States are a significant threat that has become magnified as national- and regional-level street gangs migrate from urban areas to suburban and rural communities. According to the assessment, gang members engage in a host of criminal activities such as homicide, extortion, drug distribution, and other crimes.”

Director Kerlikowske – Office of National Drug Control Policy

April 16, 2010 (Letter to Acting Deputy Attorney General)

“I do want to continue the superb NDIC support to State and local law enforcement personnel...” “We appreciate the tremendous work that NDIC puts into the National Drug Threat Assessments and your service to our nation.”

U.S. Department of Justice

March 25, 2010 (Press Release)

The National Drug Intelligence Center (NDIC), a component of the Department of Justice and the nation’s principal center for strategic drug intelligence, has released the National Drug Threat Assessment 2010 (NDTA 2010), detailing drug trafficking and abuse trends within the United States. “In receiving the 2010 National Drug Threat Assessment, Attorney General Eric Holder stated, “This report presents a comprehensive analysis of the drug threat to our nation and will be valuable in helping direct our fight against drug trafficking and abuse.”

U.S. House of Representatives – Resolution 1032

March 9, 2010

The House of Representatives cites information from NDIC in support of their resolution as follows: “Whereas the National Drug Intelligence Center, a component of the U.S. Department of Justice, has identified Mexican drug trafficking organizations as ‘the greatest drug trafficking threat to the United States...”

Drug Enforcement Administration (DEA) – Special Agent in Charge

February 22, 2010 (Letter)

“I would like to recognize the exceptional support provided to our Narcotic Task Force (NTF) Commercial Interdiction Unit (CIU)...”

Director of National Intelligence

February 2, 2010 (Annual Threat Assessment of the US Intelligence Community for the Senate Select Committee on Intelligence, Pg. 31)

Director Dennis C. Blair cited the National Drug Intelligence Center as authority regarding intelligence on drug sales by Mexican and Colombian drug trafficking organizations in the United States.

Director, Vermont Department of Homeland Security

December 17, 2009 (Email)

“...I had an opportunity to review your latest US-Canada Drug Trafficking Bulletin and found it to be incredibly informative and insightful in our ability to understand the trends that we face today in drug enforcement.”

U.S. Department of Justice – Office of the Deputy Attorney General

December 3, 2009 (Letter)

“I am writing in strong support of the nomination of the National Drug Intelligence Center’s (NDIC) Document and Media Exploitation (DOMEX) Program for receipt of the International Association of Law Enforcement Intelligence Analysts (IALEIA) 2010 Award for Excellence, Organization. As the Deputy Director of the Department of Justice (DOJ) Organized Crime Drug Enforcement (OCDETF) Program, I have seen first-hand the significant contributions DOMEX has made to the OCDETF mission through its partnership in several OCDETF co-located strike forces.” “NDIC’s DOMEX Program leads the field in providing real-time, comprehensive analysis of seized evidence to allow law enforcement to timely exploit the leads developed from their seizures to develop additional evidence leading to the significant disruption or dismantlement of drug trafficking organizations.” “There is no better evidentiary exploitation and analysis organization supporting law enforcement today and is most deserving of this prestigious award.”

United States Attorney – Western District of Michigan

December 3, 2009 (Press Release)

“U.S. Attorney Donald A. Davis, Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco, Firearms & Explosives (ATF) Special Agent In-Charge (SAC) Thomas Brandon, Detroit Field Office, and Lansing, Michigan Police Chief Mark Alley announce the arrests of seven defendants in two states in connection with “Operation Holiday Express,” an Organized Crime Drug Enforcement Task Force (OCDETF) Investigation led by the U.S. Justice Department’s ATF in cooperation with the Department’s National Drug Intelligence Center in Johnstown, Pennsylvania, the Lansing Police Department, and LA IMPACT, a drug enforcement task force operating in the greater Los Angeles area.”

Assistant U.S. Attorney – District of Massachusetts

September 11, 2009 (email)

“Thank you SO much for the time and effort that you took...” “This was an unsolicited gift-but one that is MOST appreciated.” “We have really enjoyed working with you and reaped the benefits of all your hard work.”

Remarks by Attorney General Eric Holder

July 22, 2009 (PR Newswire)

“...OCDETF and the National Drug Intelligence Center have begun to place Document and Media Exploitation Teams in the Atlanta and Houston Strike Forces. These DOMEX teams allow Strike Force analysts and agents to capture and exploit evidence in complex, fast paced investigations, and to develop trial exhibits for prosecutors quickly and effectively.”

U.S. Department of Justice

May 12, 2009 (Press Release)

“Doctor Sentenced to 10 years in Prison for Illegal Prescriptions.” “This case was investigated by Diversion Investigators of the Drug Enforcement Administration (DEA), the National Drug Intelligence Center (NDIC), and the Fayette County Sheriff Department’s Drug Suppression Task Force...”

Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) Press Release

February 2, 2009

“According to the 2009 National Gang Threat Assessment released by the National Gang Intelligence Center (NGIC) and the National Drug Intelligence Center (NDIC)...” “The assessment was developed through analysis of available federal, state, and local law enforcement information...”

Office of U.S. Senator Ben Nelson (Nebraska)

January 28, 2009

“We greatly appreciate the information provided in the National Drug Threat Assessment for 2009 produced by the NDIC”

U.S. Senate Bill #132 credits NDIC's National Drug Threat Assessment in their findings

January 6, 2009

SEC. 3. FINDINGS. "Congress finds that – (4) according to a recent National Drug Threat Assessment, criminal street gangs are responsible for much of the retail distribution of the cocaine, methamphetamine, heroin, and other illegal drugs being distributed in rural and urban communities throughout the United States"

"THE ACCOMPLISHMENTS OF THE U.S. DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE 2001 – 2009"

January 2009

The Department of Justice published their most significant accomplishments for 2001 through 2009, which included contributions by the National Drug Intelligence Center.

President George W. Bush and Director Walters of the Office of National Drug Control Policy

December 11, 2008 [Press Release]

NDIC's 2009 National Drug Threat Assessment was referenced during a press conference regarding "Recession in Illegal Drug Market Signaled by Falling Youth Use With Higher Prices and Decreased Purity for Cocaine Nationwide". Specifically, the Press Release from the Executive Office of the President stated in part: "As reported in the 2009 National Drug Threat Assessment of the National Drug Intelligence Center, 'counterdrug agencies have made measurable progress against cocaine production, transportation, and distribution, contributing to a reduction in cocaine availability in the United States.'"

Office of National Drug Control Policy (ONDCP)

December 9, 2008 [Letter]

Nominated an NDIC Intelligence Analyst to receive the International Association of Law Enforcement Intelligence Analyst Award for Individual Excellence. In the letter of nomination, ONDCP stated: "The [NDIC] Indian Country Drug Threat Assessment of 2008 far surpassed expectations and filled an existing void on drug trafficking and impact faced by federal and tribal law enforcement."

United States Attorney - Middle District of Georgia

December 5, 2008 [Letter]

Cited NDIC's assistance as "instrumental" in the three year investigation of a doctor, charged with running a "pill mill" operation, wherein multiple people lost their lives. The U.S. Attorney wrote in a letter to NDIC that "The (NDIC) analysts took the seemingly insurmountable amount of evidence (4,000 patient computer and physical charts) and assembled the information in a way that proved the premise of our case."

"NDIC is an invaluable tool that I have recommended to multiple districts with similar cases ranging from individual doctor prosecutions to internet pharmacies. I can not imagine preparing for one of these type cases without the assistance of the analysts from NDIC."

California State Senator Dave Cox

December 1, 2008 [Letter]

Wrote to NDIC Director Walther and stated: "I would like to express my sincerest gratitude for the invaluable assistance the NDIC provided in this case and encourage you to continue the mutually beneficial services rendered by your agency."

Attorney General's Award for Excellence in Management

October 28, 2008 [Copy of awards program]

NDIC Deputy Director Irene Hernandez was presented with this award for outstanding administrative or managerial achievements which have significantly improved operations, productivity, or reduced costs.

Office of National Drug Control Policy (ONDCP)

October 3, 2008 [Memorandum]

In a letter to the NDIC Director wrote: “NDIC is doing an excellent job of producing a large number of products that serve a variety of customers within ONDCP.”

Office of the Director of National Intelligence

October 2, 2008 [Letter]

Praised NDIC's Document and Media Exploitation, and specifically wrote: “The National Drug Intelligence Center (NDIC) has been a pioneer in the realm of Document and Media Exploration (DOMEX), developing unique, robust capabilities such as the Digital Evidence Laboratory and the Real-time Analytical Intelligence Database.”

U.S. Senate Bill #366 – “Copper Theft Prevention Act of 2008” credits NDIC's National Drug Threat Assessment in their findings

October 1, 2008 [Copy of Bill]

(a) Findings.-Congress finds that-

(6) the 2008 Threat Assessment of the National Drug Intelligence Center shows a growing threat of methamphetamine use;