Maple Grove loan officer sentenced for participating in mortgage fraud scheme

MINNEAPOLIS – Earlier today in federal court, a former loan officer at Wells Fargo Bank was sentenced to prison for participating in a $4.3 million mortgage fraud scheme. United States District Court Judge Ann D. Montgomery sentenced Larry Gene Hillard, age 57, of Maple Grove, to 13 months in federal prison on one count of conspiracy to commit wire fraud. In addition, he was ordered to pay approximately $1.4 million in restitution. Hillard was charged on March 10, 2011, and pleaded guilty on April 26, 2011.

In his plea agreement, Hillard admitted that between 2007 and August 21, 2008, he participated in 12 fraudulent transactions with Truang Quang Tran and Thanh Van Ngo, owners of Invescorp. In his capacity as a loan officer at Wells Fargo, he received from Tran and Ngo personal information regarding several people for the purpose of running credit reports on them. He then gave those reports to Tran and Ngo. He subsequently received a loan application in the name of one of the people.

In addition, he provided Tran and Ngo with specific information about the assets and income required to qualify for a particular loan. A short time later, he received loan applications that contained the information he previously provided. Hillard also prepared fraudulent loan applications.

The loan amounts for the 12 properties involved in this fraud scheme totaled more than $4.3 million. The loss amount was more than $1.4 million. The case was the result of an investigation by the Federal Bureau of Investigation. It was prosecuted by Assistant U.S. Attorney Christian S. Wilton.

Tran was earlier sentenced to 24 months in federal prison for his role in the scheme. On April 20, 2011, Ngo was sentenced to 12 months and one day in prison. Three co-defendants also have been sentenced.

This law enforcement action is in part sponsored by the interagency Financial Fraud Enforcement Task Force.
