U.S. ATTORNEY'S OFFICE FOR THE DISTRICT OF NEW JERSEY, RUTGERS-NEWARK LAW SCHOOL TO CO-HOST JUNE 8
SYMPOSIUM ON CYBER AND INTELLECTUAL PROPERTY CRIMES

NEWARK, N.J. – Computer-related crimes and the theft of trademarks and other intellectual property represent a growing area of concern to the legal and business communities. On Tuesday, June 8, 2010, the United States Attorney's Office for the District of New Jersey and Rutgers School of Law–Newark will co-host the “Cyber & Intellectual Property Crime Symposium” for members of the private bar and corporate counsel offices. Attendees will hear from security and legal experts about the threats posed by cyber and intellectual property crimes; handling data breaches and cyber attacks; cooperation between law enforcement and the private sector; data breach notification obligations; and tested strategies for defending against the most common threats.

An admission fee of $25 includes materials, light breakfast and lunch. CLE credit is available. Registration for the symposium is required by June 2 at: law.newark.rutgers.edu/cybercrime.
