I am really surprised. Barksdale is a very good manager and very experienced. Netscape is getting to be more and more important us to watch!!

AT&T Wireless (McCaw) announced this AM that Jim Barksdale would leave to become CEO of Netscape. Steve Hooper, the McCaw CFO, will succeed Barksdale.

Barksdale is a smart, good manager. I would anticipate that this move will presage Netscape getting its act together (especially from a business model perspective). They could become a bigger competitive threat than we had anticipated.
