You have asked for comment on the Paramount Decrees and if still effective. In my opinion yes they are and should stay in place. If anything all studios should be subject to them. Since Disney is not included this will open the door for them to continue to ask more percentage and require things like, in the Star Wars films we are required to play it for 4 weeks and play it all four weeks in our largest theater. This to me is an unfair practice. If you get caught not adhering to this practice they will increase the percentage they take for playing the film.
