EXHIBIT 4C
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tiffany Hayden
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Connie Lippert
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mark Aziz
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ronald Yeomans
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Chloe Barbier
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Maggie Kohanek
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jary Stavely
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Helen Ludbrook
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jeffrey Ward
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Walter Tulys
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jusef White
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Howard Perlman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michel Collin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Justin James
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ryan Milholland
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Stacey Wood
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Elisabeth Bezemer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Francis Henninger
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lenore Nieters
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mark Leeson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Martha Person
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Julia Kloehn
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Peter Ayres
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Justin James
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Walter Tulys
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Roger Thomas
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Armand LeGardeur
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Louis Baccarini
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Clifford Provost
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rhoda Levine
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ranjit Chacko
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Connie Lippert
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marty Carlson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Patricia Phelps
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Shari Sharp
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Matt Burns
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jerry Kranz
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lacey Wozny
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Clifford Provost
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Helen Ludbrook
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mindy Leighton-Toth
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jennifer Miller
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marlene Olveda
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Chemen Ochoa
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rhoda Levine
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ranjit Chacko
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

ron huber
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nancy Baise
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,
Derek Gendvil
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Amy Landsman
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Laura Kiholm
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Karen Shanley
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Armand LeGardeur
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Christina Chohon
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brandon Keller
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kris Steinke
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Adrienne Hudson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Elaine Dorough Johnson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

[Redacted]

Lawrence Shipley
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jeanene Gilmore
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lenore Nieters
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kara Duffy
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Bartlett
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brandon Keller
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lenore Roiz
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Clyde Williams II
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Amy Landsman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Helmut Terjung
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Keith Thompson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lauren Vigna
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kara Duffy
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tim Brellow
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Garry Kramchak
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kris Steinke
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Christina Chohon
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Paul Leyva
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kelly Hart
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Urich
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jeanene Gilmore
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mitch Parkinen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Louis Baccarini
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Karen Shanley
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lara Ingraham
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nancy Baise
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gerald Rosen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Franklin Munguia
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jennifer Baron
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

eh estes
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Howie
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Randi Holt
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Franklin Munguia
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Paul Leyva
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Davis
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Earl Morse
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gerald Leslie
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Circus Szalewski
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Bartlett
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Immaculate Wesley
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joanne Lowery
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Elaine Dorough Johnson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carl Tronco
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Felicia Riedel
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Keith Thompson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joanne Sieck
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Randi Holt
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tim Brellow
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Harry Wohlsein
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Earl Morse
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marilyn Fenstermaker
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Elizabeth Martin
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Juanita Wilkins
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

ron huber
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kathleen Carr
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Steve Meier
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gary Rogers
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gerald Rosen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Howie
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sandra Welp
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Circus Szalewski
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Davis
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joanne Lowery
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jeff Stromgren
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susan Norvell
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Laurie Schick
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nate Pusateri
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kathy Moraski
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carole Kruse
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Donald W. Henderson, Ph.D.
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Martha Richards
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Karen Scanlon
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Victoria Borin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Katherine Treffinger
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marilyn Fenstermaker
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Judy McClung
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Aleta Cavender
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Frances Smith
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

virginia heard
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cheryl Arvio
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Roger Weingarten
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Terrie Allen
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. David Kannerstein
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Beatrice Berger
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Charles Schadel
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tom Spradley
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kathy Moraski
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Judy Mcclung
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Terrance Hyk
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Stephanie Mundis

Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Victoria Borin
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Catherine Tierney
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Stan Rose
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Caitlin Burke
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Deane Plaister
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susan Torres
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nate Pusateri
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Katherine Tildes
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

stephen landau
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Terry Bentivegna
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Karolyn Switzer
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Terrance Hyk
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Timothy Simmons MD
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dennis Bischof
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Caitlin Burke
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Aleta Cavender
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Catherine Tierney
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cheryl Arvio
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Katherine Treffinger
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Laurie Schick
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Martha Richards
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nia Cherrett
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jean Thornsbury
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ron and Marjorie Kardos
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mrs. Charlotte Alexandre
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Frank Lahorgue
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary MacGregor
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary MacGregor
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Terry Bentivegna
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Oliver Block
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brian Hudson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Charles Schadel
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

James Keough
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Terrie Allen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Timothy Mullen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Karolyn Switzer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sandra Welp
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

George Abaunza
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ben Johnson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Teresa Kohl
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Morton
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jean Hopkins
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Karyn Walden-Forrest
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gerald Wolfe
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Gulliver
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Larry Taylor
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brian Hudson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Timothy Simmons MD
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Noel Rome
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Floyd Massey
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary Troland
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kristine Anderson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mrs. Charlotte Alexandre
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Frank Lahorgue
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John A Miller
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rex Lettau
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Morton
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dorothy Romanet
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bernard Weiner
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marilea White
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jason Reinhardt
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

George Abaunza
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gerald Wolfe
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dr. Charlotte L. Keys
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Karyn Walden-Forrest
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Teresa Kohl
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Noel Rome
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Karen and Jeff Hay
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Darlene Byrd
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mavis Brauer
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Janice VrMeer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Gulliver
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Mikulka
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Martha Gunnarson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Maskarinec
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dr. Charlotte L. Keys
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sam Orlich
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Jed Aicher
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Timothy Mullen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rex Lettau
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susan Detato
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Larry Taylor
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Felmet
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kathleen Corby
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tanner Ferguson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Maskarinec
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cecilia Moller
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Matthew Cleveland
Darlene Byrd
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Julie Block
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Chris Drumright
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ben Johnson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

L Harding
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Jed Aicher
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brian Schwartz
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brent Rocks
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susan Detato
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Janice VrMeer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary Dunleavy
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bill Dubey
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Phil Bell
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Erich Bauman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kathleen Corby
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jae Bevan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Matthew Cleveland
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

C Susan Johnston
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Acacia Lawson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Toni Kimball
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Margie Stewart
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Walter Hoelbling
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kate Barnes

Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Aviva Myers-Taylor
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Heidi Bliss
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

L Harding
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Fjaere Mooney
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary Dunleavy
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Bawaya
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Delibos
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Aviva Myers-Taylor
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

George Yonne

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Erich Bauman
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

C Susan Johnston
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Fjaere Mooney
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary Mizzi
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Paul & Jackie Bogacki
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jill Alibrandi
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

stephen landau
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gracie Campbell
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

H Clarke Gentry
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Thornberry
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

raquel buxton
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sarah Aquino
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Christy Kurtz
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Glory Arroyos
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bill Dubey
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Delibos
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Margie Stewart
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Shirley Jenkins
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

William Neill
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ryan Wilkerson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jill Alibrandi
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Steeves
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nicholas Monitto
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nezka Pfeifer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Lindorff
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Richard Pross
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Esther Prexl
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

raquel buxton
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sarah Aquino
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Daniel Kurz
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Barbara Muller
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rosemarie Grubba
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Galbreath
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Christy Kurtz
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Christopher Horner
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cecilia Moller
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Matt Stedman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

G. Marzocchi
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Craig Fortier
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rosemarie Grubba
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Steeves
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jan Hall
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brent Rocks
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Glory Arroyos
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Barbara Patchen
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Esther Prexl
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Eric Naji
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Daniel Kurz
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

William Neill
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Christopher Horner
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gregory Roll
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ying Cooper
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

George Yonnone
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Faye Soares
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ellen KELLEHER
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michiko Wilson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Suzanne Gordon
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Boger
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Trish Stevens
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Barbara Muller
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Luben Stoilov
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ryan Wilkerson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Lindorff
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

McLean Smith
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

g marzocchi
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gracie Campbell
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kathryn Christian
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Scott Danner
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Leah Hallow
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

OneHeart Inc
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon is that it is bound to be repeated if they are allowed to continue down the same path. Taxpayers suffer the environmental consequences, they should not have to carry the tax burden as well. I ask you to close any loophole that allows BP a deduction for destruction.

Sincerely,

Ms. Barrie Stebbings
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susan Deemer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Patricia Barth
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Wendy McKee
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Oliver Block
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ken Brink
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

J Nedbor
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Delshaun Smith
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Congdon
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Lonnie Albrecht
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gary Price
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Philip Purpuri
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Alexander Wallace
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ed Bennett
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mostyn Thayer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

McLean Smith
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Willa Bing Harris
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Acacia Lawson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Stephen Mather-Lees
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Congdon
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Adam Wojdac
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susan Deemer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jj L.
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Scott Danner
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Suzanne Gordon
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Martha Barrett
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kimberly Leeper
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gary Price
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gregory Roll
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ken Brink
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Shari Farrar
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Delshaun Smith
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Asa Javier BaRa
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mei Mei Miriyam Sanford
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mona Callahan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Wendy McKee
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Ellen Rice
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Margaret Kuns
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Trish Stevens
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Alexander Wallace
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Alma Sills
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Stephen Nickels
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Alessandro Raganato
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Evelyn Noel
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jj L.
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ed Bennett
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joel Isaacson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Ellen Rice
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ken Cooksey
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Louis Marks
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Diane Hise
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

julia dashe
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joseph Holloway
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carolyn Giles
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Beverly Poncia
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kimberly Leeper
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Quintana
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tasha Carpenter
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Faye Soares
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

James Bishop
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mark Rinehart
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

DeWayne Halfen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Margaret Kuns
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Tietgens
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jacky Forgan
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Roger Shady
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ken Cooksey
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

DeWayne Halfen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

michael chase
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Daniel Barclay
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

James Bishop
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mona Callahan
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Thomas Dahl
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kelly Epstein
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tasha Carpenter
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mark Rinehart
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Karin Lindberg
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Don Vergara
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Diane Hise
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Darrell Schmidt
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carolyn Sol
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mike Knoll
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mariano Svidler
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tony Lentini
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jared Brenner
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Andrew Philip
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carolyn Giles
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Janice Carlson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Danielle Arbuckle
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Henry Schlinger
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jacky Forgan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Don Vergara
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Donna Slivka
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ray Bustos
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lori Kunkel
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joseph Holloway
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Quintana
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tony Lentini
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Richard H McCombs
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Donna Turiano
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Tietgens
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

B. E.
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

This environmental accident has been one of the most tragic moments of our ecological history and parts of this area are still reeling from it.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jill Sarkady
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Danielle Arbuckle
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Henry Schlinger
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Claflin Sr
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Thomas Dahl
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Donna Rusciolelli
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Merry Bolt
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marta Daniels
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mike Knoll
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bruce Culver
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Janice Carlson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

michael chase
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Richard H McCombs
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ray Bustos
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tim Stein
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Fritsch
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Perkins
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Karin Lindberg
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lori Kunkel
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Judy Cohen
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Donna Slivka
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marilynn Morgan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jill Sarkady
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joanie Thomas
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Victor Soule
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carolyn Sol
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Chris Gordon
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

PJ Janowitz
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Donna Rusciolelli
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Maritza Castillo
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Perkins

Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sam Heaton
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms Christine Gasco
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Clay Starlin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Donna Turiano
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Orlando Melendez
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Pike
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Paul Lau
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Sloan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lindsey Densing
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Maritza Castillo
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Merry Bolt
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Amal Youngblood
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Victor Soule
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kelly Epstein
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dr. Carolyn N Rosenstein
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lee Ann Greaves
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Katherine McCanlies
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lindsey Densing
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Judy Cohen
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Orlando Melendez
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Pike
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

PJ Janowitz
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Paul Lau
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Fred Goodsell
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Sloan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Chris Gordon
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dan McCurdy
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bonny Peters
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kathryn Horvat
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kathryn Horvat
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Roger Schlemmer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it!!!!!

Sincerely,

Phillip J Crabill
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms Christine Gasco
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Johnson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tim Harrison
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

B. E.
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mallory Hattie
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lee Ann Greaves
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Amal Youngblood
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tim Harrison
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kevin Caffrey
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Maryellen Todd
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Patrick Cannon
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Solo Greene
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Katherine McCanlies
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Stephen Batzer
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Shari Grounds
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ainslie Gilligan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Pamela Porter
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Renee Such
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lynn Michaelson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mallory Hattie
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Amy Elepano
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susan Wigfield
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Hirst
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kevin Caffrey
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bruce Wallace
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rolando Rodriguez
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gloria Grimm
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lynne C.
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Phillip J Crabill
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ellen Woodbury
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rolando Rodriguez
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Stets
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dean Koehler
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Zaccagnino
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Breiby
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Renee Such
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

sherry fishman
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Solo Greene
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lee Rogers
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mike Glick
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Neil Olson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Chad Armijo
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Sixtus
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ellen Woodbury
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Pamela Porter
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Prof. ellen goodman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Julie Svendsen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Amy Elepano
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Charles Alexander
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Miriam Sexton
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Chad Armijo
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Liz Sherblom
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Margot Lenhart
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marianne Currie
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Earl Berkson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lucy Kenyon
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mike Glick
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Neil Olson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Zaccagnino
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mrs. Donna Bonetti
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rolando Rodriguez
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Douglas Frye
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cindy Moczarney
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

S. Janet Payne
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brenda Kennedy
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Pam Borso
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ainslie Gilligan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Liz Sherblom
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Miriam Sexton
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Sixtus
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lee Schondorf
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Margot Lenhart
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marina Morrone
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nancy Hoffman
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr James L Wolcott
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Fischoff
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Guen Han
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Elliot Helman
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sharon Garren
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jason Nardell
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lucy Kenyon
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jeanette Redmond
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jean Poole
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marina Morrone
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cindy Moczarney
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ewan Schmid
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mrs. Donna Bonetti
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Josh Patrick
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kelly Blank
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marianne Currie
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Deborah Weitzman
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Melanie Mahoney Stopyra
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr James L Wolcott
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kim Caulfield
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Julia Dolan
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Esther Megill
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Vidya Sivan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Regina Flores
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tracey Sadiq
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

B Lemonik
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Lees
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Melanie Mahoney Stopyra
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Terry Warkentine
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Julia Dolan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Al Krause
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Regina Flores
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

ellen phillips
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Griselda Sloan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nancy Hoffman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mark Daniels
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Vidya Sivan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Pam Borso
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carolyn Engel
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tom Korpas
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Miriam Angress
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

bob hammond
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

daniel weiss
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sharon Garren
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brent Stewart
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sarah Nash
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Justin Moreau
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Harrell Dean Swink
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dean Rose
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Karen Bucklin
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bonnie MacRaith
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kathleen Stevens
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. John Diamond
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sarah Nash
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Courtenay Smith
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

B Lemonik
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ewan Schmid
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Al Krause
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carolyn Engel
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mark Daniels
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Christopher Kowalski
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Amanda Fisher
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Raymond Tracy
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Harrell Dean Swink
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Hedy Epstein

Ms. Hedy Epstein
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ericha Courtright
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Dan Anderson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

bob hammond
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Esther Megill
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dieter Krantz
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Dan Anderson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Christopher Kowalski
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Diane Lamb
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joel Bishop
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lisa Halpern
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Angie Burnham
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tiffany Haverfield
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Chasteen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ericha Courtright
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Courtenay Smith
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

August Scheer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cristian Cupertino
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Judith Wilson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. John Diamond
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Diane Lamb
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brent Stewart
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Paula Eaton
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Fischoff
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Leo Woods
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cody Oppermann
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kelly Rauch
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lisa Halpern
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Hurley
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Paul Gregory
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Robert Lesko
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Martha Sammartano
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dr. Harrison B Albert
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Suzanne Carney
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kelsey Ransick
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

William Holcomb
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Steve Kaye
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jason Kemple
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marlena Lange
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brian Nakasone
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Paula Eaton
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Karen Y. Grubb
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

August Scheer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kelsey Ransick
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Johanna Fears
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Robert Lesko
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jason Kemple
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Midge Neuman
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rebecca Canright
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tracey Sadiq
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mark Richmond
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tracey Sadiq
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

heather beauchamp
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Martha Sammartano
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ed Fiedler
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Edward Conte
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

chenie kaur
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cristian Cupertino
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Elishева Biernoff
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mark Canright
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mark Richmond
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Anthony Flores
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Daniel Anderson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Peter Michaels
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Leo Woods
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lynn and Edward Smith and Hill
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Anthony Flores
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Patricia Wilburn
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Azarias DeVillier
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ed Fiedler
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Hurley
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carol Keller
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Elisabeth Benton
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Peter Michaels
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Elisheva Biernoff
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Edward Conte
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Randy Crawford
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Donald Cronin
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tom Dancer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Spanski
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Matt Loper
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Patricia Browning
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

chenie kaur
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brook Heimbaugh
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sheri Henry
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Donald Cronin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Matt Loper
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lynn and Edward Smith and Hill
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michelle Mackenzie
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lynn and Edward Smith and Hill
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Daniel Anderson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Judith Lord
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sherry Ross
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kathleen Nuss
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gail Richardson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Magnan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Harriet Cohen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tom Dancer
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michelle Mackenzie
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Patricia Wilburn
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Natalie Rabinowitz
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

HARVILEEN MOEBS
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Maurice Hill
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rebecca Canright
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Elisabeth Benton
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Monique Musialowski
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Eva Landeo
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ann Hoffman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Hayden Kaden
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susan Thing
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Patricia Browning
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Spanski
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Karen McHugh
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gail Richardson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

john griffith
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Constance Engle
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joan De Jong
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Patricia Vance
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Benny Masdon
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

George Gallagher
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brook Heimbaugh
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tom R
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cynthia Backhaus
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Harriet Cohen
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

MICHAEL O'BRIEN
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mrs. Claire Perricelli
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Harvey Neese
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

William Heaton
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Eva Landeo
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Parker
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brendan Park
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mike Lanka
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Stanton
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tyra Pellerin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Frances Whiteside
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Pat and Gary Gover
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Judy Savard
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

George Gallagher
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Constance Engle
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brendan Park
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Campanella
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mark Molloy
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ann Hoffman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

William Heaton
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lynn Brooks
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rick Cerutti
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tyra Pellerin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Patricia Okruhlik
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sabine Williams
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Maurice Hill
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. mike hlat
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Parker
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Fante
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Daniel Willner
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Shulamit Decktor
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Yvonne Johnson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. mike hlat
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mike Lanka
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rick Cerutti
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lillian Hall
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susan Callaway
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Benny Masdon
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

christian hartleben
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Fante
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Andrew Dunbar
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kyle O'Hannon
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Yvonne Johnson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Josal Diebold
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Paul Mallatt
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Rohdenburg
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Patricia Okruhlik
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Monique Musialowski
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Csaszar
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Aimee Mendes
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Barbara Goldman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

christian hartleben
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Hayden Kaden
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sarah Richey
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Josal Diebold
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Liz Crawford
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bert Corley
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Russell Munsell
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Csaszar
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joseph Booker
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Charlotte Jacob-Hanson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gene Hatfield
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sarah Chi
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dale Sims
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Stanton
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sarah Richey
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dameta Robinson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Heidi Bean
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Doris Bandel
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Amanda Gordon
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Juno Farnsworth
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Heidi Bean
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Aimee Mendes
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Patricia Borri
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dorothy Lawson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

R. Ward Bissell
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brenda Kennedy
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mrs. Ronda Snider
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Maria Nowicki
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lowell Palm
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

LeeAnn DuVall
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mark Molloy
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joseph Booker
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Amanda Gordon
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Charlotte Jacob-Hanson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Denise Hercher
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gene Hatfield
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sarah Chi
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lowell Palm
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Arkady Vyatchanin
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

julie stinchcomb
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mallory A. Haws
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dameta Robinson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Francis Drake
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Francis Drake
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Amanda Tedrick
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

LeeAnn DuVall
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Arkady Vyatchanin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tung Vu
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susannah Lustica
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Maria Nowicki
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Paul Lifton
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brieaux Poche
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Stephen Stales
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Alan LaPayover
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

K L Paul
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

julie stinchcomb
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Elizabeth Ondyak
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Denise Hercher
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carlos Lores
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Harkin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Adam Graffunder
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lawrence Eliot
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms Hannah Banks
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rose Rios
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

gayle palmer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robin Reinhart
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Corey Mesler
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

K L Paul
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tung Vu
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Adam Graffunder
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Karen Stonehouse
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Stanley Barreto
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Luwana Wanaisie
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Portia Ckark
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Martin Fox
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Alan LaPayover
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Guy Cargulia
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Edward Brown
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jeannine Leffel
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dorothy Lawson
Dearest Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sue Moon
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms Hannah Banks
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carlos Loes
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gary McDonald
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Louis Fry
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Karen Stonehouse
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Katherine Wood
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Stanley Barreto
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Josh Rhodes
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Portia Ckark
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

laurence Wuillemin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jeannine Leffel
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rachel Klug
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Letitia Dace
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Louis Fry
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Katherine Barrett Zywan
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Josh Rhodes
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sundra R Allen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Alan Brown
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Leslie Just
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

tara score
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sue Moon
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Katherine Wood
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lise Hull
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Richard Kelly
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Crouch
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rose Rios
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Thomas Llewellyn
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ellen Smith
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Edward Brown
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, we urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rose Martin
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cheri Koehler
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marlene K Kallstrom
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marlene K Kallstrom
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Judith Elzinga
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tom Lankering
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Katherine Barrett Zywan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tiffany Ehnes
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ce E
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Alan Brown
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Stan Kaluzny
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lee Martin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sundra R Allen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gary Prior
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

anthony odonnell
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Patrick Randow
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sandy Lawler
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Alessandro Raganato
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Frank A. Brincka
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jamie Fillmore
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Letitia Dace
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Leo Bierling
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tiffany Ehnes
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gary Prior
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lesli McLain
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rob Jursa
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Chris Hennessey
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

anthony o'donnell
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bobbie Daniels
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Frank A. Brincka
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gerald Rabl
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Resa Blatman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Diana Corwin
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

George Felton
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Christopher
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

R. Arno Wess
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sandy Lawler
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Alex A. Bobroff
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Russell Meister
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Stan Kaluzny
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Zada Rose
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jamie Fillmore
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Maria Grin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jonathan Lyons

Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carol Collins
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

greg schaffert
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Chris Hennessey
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Fletcher Chouinard
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

George Erikson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gerald Rabl
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Judith Epstein
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Anita Johnson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bobbie Daniels
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Talila Stan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Janet Marks
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kim Raubolt
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Amy Ryberg
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Richard Hassinger
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carol Keller
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bill Chockla
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Diana Corwin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nancy Fifer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

LORRAINE D. Johnson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tom Lankering
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Amy Ryberg
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gisela Schloss-Birkholz
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Turney
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Judith Epstein
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

leslie spoon
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brian Christian
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Zada Rose
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Amber Still
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Billie Frank
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kathleen Bungarz
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

R. Arno Wess
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tom & Marcia Hauck
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Daniel Barclay
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kim Raubolt
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Maria Grin
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Steve Kiffmeyer
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Janet Marks
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bill Chockla
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Heather Nemeth
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Richard Hassinger
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Talila Stan
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

LORRAINE D. Johnson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Mary Reader
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

CHRISTINA CHAPMAN
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gisela Schloss-Birkholz
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

leslie spoon
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Steve Kiffmeyer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Judith Burt
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Judith Burt
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brian Christian
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Arvidson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Please don't hit US in the pocket book again.

Sincerely,
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

CHRISTINA CHAPMAN
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Graciela Barajas
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ruth Steenwyk
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

C Emerson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Harry Colwell
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lesli McLain
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jorge Torres
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Barrett
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Graciela Barajas
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Peggy File
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Arvidson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

C Emerson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ruth Steinberg
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bob Gendron
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dennis O'Brien
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it. Amen!

Sincerely,

Sue Sherrill
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Timothy Biel
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Natalie Randle
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Larry Meersman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Thomas Blair
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jorge Torres
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kathleen Bungarz
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ruth Steenwyk
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Edward Freeman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bob Gendron
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Burns
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rochelle Willis
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Miss Cori Bishop
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

James Rice
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carla Behrens
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Angela Padgett
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

J. F.
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

william kuestner
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Natalie Randle
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bonnie Monroe
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bill Polesnak
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Misty Kirkconnell
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Elliot Clymer
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Harry Colwell
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Harry Colwell
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Timothy Biel
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ruth Steinberg
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ruth Steinberg
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Eckler
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Sullivan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

taylor call
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Socorro Sepulveda
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Vicki McAlister
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Larry Meersman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Angela Padgett
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Eckler
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Helen Mueting
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nina Wickett
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michelle Fehring
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Shawn Ristvedt
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Samsen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Elliot Clymer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gail Padalino
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bob Weber
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Darlene Norwood
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

M Willia
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Peter Ajemian
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Vicki McAlister
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michelle Fehring
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Derek Lee
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marilou Hawkins
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Sullivan

Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bob Weber
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nina Wickett
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Edward Colley
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Shawn Ristvedt
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dr. Alan Olander
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ben Stoddart
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Wes Lowe
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Max Calvillo
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Thomas Blair
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kevin Leary
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. James Stone
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

James DiMunno
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Andrew Rikarts
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Derek Lee
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mrs. Kelly Warner
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dr. Alan Olander
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mrs. donna Sue Jacobi
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

M Willia
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ian Burns
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

M Willia
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bonnie Templeton
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

William Watts

Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Terry Gomoll
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Peter Ajemian
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Andrew Rikarts
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Alex Carlson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ben Stoddart
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Edward Colley
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lee Politis
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Rick Benjamin
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ian Burns
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Samsen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Keiser
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

James DiMunno
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kenneth Jones
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

j.doug ezell
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tom Tripp
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Alan Aten
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lee Politis
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

chris cayton
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Theresa Lianzi
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Napoleon Salvail
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Betty Combs
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Alex Carlson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Suzan McGlinch
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tom Tripp
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Suzan McGlinch
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Andrea Zajac
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Wallace
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Rick Benjamin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Katharine Owen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Megan Petkewec
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Betsy Bannerman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Craig Fitzpatrick
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, we urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

j+s e
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Steve Roth
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Renee Bourgea
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Noam Eisee
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Roxanne Hewitt
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Theresa Lianzi
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Steve Roth
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rick Edmondson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Wallace
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tamekka Davis
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Noam Eisee
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Andrea Zajac
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Phillip Markis
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Catherine Jones
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Julie Horne
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Alan Aten
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tamekka Davis
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Christopher
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Beverly T. McMurray
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Patricia Savage
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Miss Cori Bishop
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Phillip Markis
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Felzke
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely, j. doug ezell

j.doug ezell
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. & Mrs. John Garner
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Hold their feet to the fire!

Sincerely,

Anna Sullivan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

andrea caine
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Virginia Cowie
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lynn Malgeri
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rick Edmondson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Roxanne Hewitt
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Penny Raco
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Matthew Culmore
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Frieda Rusert
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

D Grossman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Richard Boyce
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Laura Craig
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Julie Horne
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joemarlin Cotter
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Bahr
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Laura Craig
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Melody T
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Thom Peters
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ken Freedman
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

D Grossman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bert Barry
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sabina Astete
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Eva Papoutsi
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Amy Vernon-Jones
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tanya Renelt
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Professor Colony
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Lumsden
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Virginia Cowie
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary Sandberg
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Felzke
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Katharine Owen
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Eileen Hunter
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bert Barry
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lynn Malgeri
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Eva Papoutsi
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Antonio García-Palao Redondo
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Julianna Greensides
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

James Kinsey
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Shawn Simonson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary Dougherty
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Donald Rumph
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Donald Rumph
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. & Mrs. John Garner
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Donald Rumph
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sandy Valencour
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Thom Peters
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Annie Richardson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sharon Kurach
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Shawn Simonson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nancy King
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Braudy
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Julianna Greensides
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susan Caffery
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tracy Vrba
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary Dougherty
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kate Sherwood
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Esther Salem
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ted Gelletly
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nora Nelle
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Eileen Hunter
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bruce Crenshaw
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Claire Keys
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Wesley Wolf
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Penny Raco
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joy Gerardi
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sarah Bahuman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary Sandberg
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kate Sherwood
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nora Nelle
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Antonio García-Palao Redondo
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

jeannie Ross
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tracy Vrba
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sabina Astete
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sister Carol Boschert
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ed Sousa
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gary Sorensen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sue Shave
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Di Naya
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Di Naya
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Claire Keys
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bruce Crenshaw
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ronda Reynolds
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Patricia Curtis
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ce Baldwin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mark Laird
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Donald Rumph
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Patricia Victour
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert B. DiGiovanni Jr.
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Meghan Cronin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

K Otti
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Braudy
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Elaine Piper
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ed Sousa
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Wesley Wolf
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Donna Billing
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Erik Johnson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kathleen Mathews
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

William Logan
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lois Pfluger
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joan Pilz
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

L. P. Rees
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

K Otti
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Roger Gonnering
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Christopher Ware
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sandra Sterling
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Anna Peterson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Vincent Lullo
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sue Shave
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mike Rueli
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Shawn Abrahamson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ce Baldwin
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Patricia Victour
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Lauren Price
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John McConnell
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Margaret Sweeton
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carol Himmelman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jack Duffie
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Amy Vernon-Jones
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Vincent Lullo
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gary Sorensen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Paul Antze
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

courtnay cook
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Patricia Curtis
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rosemary Tann
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sandra Hoppmann
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Lauren Price
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Adam Burg
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Shawn Abrahamson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dana Slawson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jacqueline Nulty
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mike Rueli
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

April Dorey
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Richard Spicer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Parsons
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Adam Burg
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carol Himmelman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Josh Gold
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Erik Johnson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Anne Durkalski
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gary Heymann
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

William Logan
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lynne Teplin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary Browne
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

A Burgett
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Peggy Loe
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Richard Spicer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Amy Grace
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Wade Worthington
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Daniel Tham
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rosemary Tann
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Landers
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Daniel Tham
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Daniel Tham
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Daniel Tham
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Daniel Tham
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Victoria Richey
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Terry Gomoll
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kiwibob Glanzman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

April Dorey
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jacqueline Nulty
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Paul DeStefano
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Colleen Carter
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ronna Bejarano
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Amy Grace
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Landers
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lynne Teplin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Martha Picarriello
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Julian Faledas
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary Browne
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Patricia Cipolla
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

A Burgett
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Margaret Sweeton
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gary Heymann
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Patricia Cipolla
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robin Peterson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Colleen Carter
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jena Wagner
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Cotton
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Richard Kok
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robin Peterson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

nick evanson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lorri Redmon
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kiwibob Glanzman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Louis Schmidt
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Richard Kok
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Karen A. Collins
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Darleen Alkhalili
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Catherine Kerrigan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Janice Peischl
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

JASON HARPSTER
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Soldan
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Friend cariglia
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

JASON HARPSTER
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Larry LaPointe
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Janet Harper
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rochelle Thomas
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Catherine Kerrigan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carl Detels
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tim Stein
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Parsons
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Karen A. Collins
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rochelle Thomas
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Elizabeth Scadova
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Louis Schmidt
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Thomas Valencour
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Pat Halter
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Zene Peer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Trish Pool
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Victoria Behar
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kathleen Medina
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Elaine Friedland
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Taunja Beck
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Krista Lohr
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Donald Mackey
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Allen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Pauline Moore
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joyce Clark
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

frances h rogovin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Arifa Goodman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Caryn Cowin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Matty Giuliano
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Zene Peer
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

JeVerna Haynes
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Summer Crabtree
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Donald Mackey
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carl Detels
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Maybelle Cross
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

valerie robbins
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Reed
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Caryn Cowin
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Matty Giuliano
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

W CAREY
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Elizabeth Scadova
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carol Putnam
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Soldan
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

KEVIN FIFE
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

frances h rogovin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joyce Clark
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Pauline Moore
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Arifa Goodman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

W CAREY
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Patricia Kanavy
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carl Skipworth
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jill Gates
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Maurya McCall
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Judy Bristol
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Deann Piehl
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Laurence Key
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Martin Hecht
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Seckendorf
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Beatrice Wadland
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Patricia Kanavy
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Elaine Friedland
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Holden
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carol Putnam
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sandy Beck
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carl Skipworth
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

valerie robbins
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Allen
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sinclair Bain
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Martin Hecht
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bracha Nechama Bomze
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Reed
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bobbiejo Winfrey
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Laurence Key
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Howard Holmes
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Mundth
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mark Moore
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bracha Nechama Bomze
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Darcey Snow
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dr. John Wiesner
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Martha Burbeck
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Seckendorf
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Seth Marcus
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Elizabeth MacNeil
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Denise Hawkins
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

William Buss
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Steve Bubbenmoyer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Martha Burbeck
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Don Wyatt
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Arnold Advocate
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

William Buss
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Elizabeth MacNeil
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jean-Pierre Gregoire
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Seth Marcus
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

trina cooper
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tarla Walton
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Doris Applebaum
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carolyn Ridpath
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Mundth
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carol Mitchell
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Anthony Antimuro
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Barton
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mike Shea
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dr. John Wiesner
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Heather Donovan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Russell Dagon
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Arnold Advocate
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jane Byard
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Grace Bowne
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joseph Penola
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Bauer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Daniela Honorato
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Janice Thompson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

andrew brockinton
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michelle Williamson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joseph Penola
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Carr
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Doris Applebaum
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Olga Grushko
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Daniela Honorato
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Steve Hoelke
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Donna Murphy
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Edward Barnard
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gregory Light
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michelle Williamson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marrion Steele
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Olga Grushko
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Grace Bowne
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Janice Thompson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Glyn Challinor
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Larry T Caudill
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kelly Armour
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jeffry Hanus
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Laura Overmann
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it. Get it?

Sincerely,

John MacDaniel
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Karen Spradlin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Philip Patino
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Patricia Winne
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Steve Hoelke
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Roger Williams
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jane Byard
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carolyn Meade
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Pamella Dixon-Harvey
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lisa Knight
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Christian Giuffre
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Friestad
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Douglas Hensley
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kelly Armour
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Glyn Challinor
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ann Hollowell
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jeffry Hanus
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joan Simmons
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Adam Loomis
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Annie Prince
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Darlene Hamilton
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Roger Williams
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Patricia Winne
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jo Roberts
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ann Hollowell
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

gail Urbach
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Darlene Hamilton
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

James Williams
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ari Wickramaaratchi
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Minerva Hallowell
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Greta Aul
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lisa Knight
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Manda Hodson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Paul Berland
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Courtney Morgan
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Steven Nasir
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it. Get it?

Sincerely,

John MacDaniel
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

william toner
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Humphrey
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Margie Borchers
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

lynn manzione
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ricky Blanton
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Steve Swartz
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Courtney Morgan
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Manda Hodson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Arnold Marrero
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Phil Rockey
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Margie Borchers
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary Bates
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Cleary
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ian Engle
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bonnie Thompson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Steve Swartz
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Vandiver
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Troya Tiseo
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kevin Metcalf
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Anna Schoenberger
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

James Williams
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ari Wickramaaratchi
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Troya Tiseo
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Paul Sering
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Patricia Grogan
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Wilson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Debbie Appel
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ian Engle
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

william toner
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bonnie Thompson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ricky Blanton
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kevin Malone
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Humphrey
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Paul Sering
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. P` Scoville
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Keith Smith
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kerry McNeil
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Roger Williams
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kevin Malone
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Steven Rosen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Amy Weappa
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. P`Scoville
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

K Weickhardt
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kevin Metcalf
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Victoria Roth
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Toni Freeman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Donald Singer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Amy Weappa
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ralph James
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Roger Williams
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Donna Fabiano
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Javad Dadvand
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Frank Sabatini
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ed K
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Terri Livingston
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Frederick Kennedy
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Keith Smith
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dean Dye
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I strongly urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kasey Kelm
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ivan Russell
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kerry McNeil
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Toni Freeman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Steve Gamblin
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Donna Fabiano
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Curtis Eckstein
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joshua Wines

Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tonya Michel
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

SANDRA PETERSEN
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kasey Kelm
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

William Jastromb
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Laurie Neill
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joan Pilz
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rick Daley
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ivan Russell
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Steve Gamblin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Curtis Eckstein
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dean Dye
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Heidi Ahlstrand
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Frank Sabatini
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

shannon Patty
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Heidi Ahlstrand
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Patrice Beck
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Blackberry Farm
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tonya Michel
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lee Robinson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Wendy Clifton
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jamie Greer
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Daphne Abrams
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marcia Kohler
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kay Hayward
Mr. Under Secretary of Defense James F. Stewart

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mark Youd
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Amy Phelps
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Terri Livingston
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Diane Luck
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

k. eggers
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marcia Kohler
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Wendy Clifton
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Anna Woletz
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Neil Kijek
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marianne Szalega
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jamie Greer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Patrice Beck
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Peter Meyer
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Gosselin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Daphne Abrams
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

shira blum
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Andrew Costigan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cami Leinard
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Neil Kijek
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bianca McArrell
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Yuji Saeki
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nancy Holle
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Aron Ralston
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Janice Ferguson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bill Holt
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Light
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cassandra Martineau
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Chris Byknish
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ryan Garno
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Catherine Regan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Teresa Allen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Yuji Saeki
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary Price
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Peter Meyer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cami Leinard
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robin Covino
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bill Holt
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Peter Kuhn
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ann Winship
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dr. Jessica Fielden
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Obeid
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Janice Ferguson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Thometz
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

ron bogin
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dave Baron
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ignacio Olivieri
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cindy Bushway
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kevin Bissonnette
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Peter Kuhn
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Black
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Peter Arneson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brandie Deal
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary Barbezat
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dave Baron
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robin Covino
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marian Weaver
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Stephani Borda
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rita Riley
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

April Parkins
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jennifer Haney
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Karin Haag
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary Price
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Obeid
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joan Pilz
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary Zieser
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Richard Brewer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Katie Young
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

ron bogin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Nagel
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mirabai Nagle
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marian Weaver
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Black
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Katie Young
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Vincent Lipert
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Melanie Rising
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

f ditlow
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Vincent Lipert
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

James Miller
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bernard Bochantin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jennifer Haney
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Josephine Girardin
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Vickie Gonsoulin
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Erika Acosta
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mirabai Nagle
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Elizabeth Carivan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bianca McArrell
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bruce McEwen
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Anne Harvey
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Ashley
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jeff Davis
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Nagel
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Janet Suttpm
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Melanie Rising
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Erika Acosta
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sandra Goodstone
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Guy Johnson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Hal Forsen
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lawrence East
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Karin Haag
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Craig Warren
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gary Madole
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Stephani Borda
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Anne Harvey
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susan Plubell
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bruce McEwen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Maude Bunn
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Pinkham
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Josephine Girardin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Fay Payton
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Amy Levi
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

f ditlow
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Luna Gooding
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Craig Warren
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bernard Bochantin
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Pamylle Greinke
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kristian Koerwitz
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Floyd Maples
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lou Ann Kilburg
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gary Madole
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

michael edwards
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Hasselbrink
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gaius Poehler
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

carol banever
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Peggy Schramm
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Scott Cottrill
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Pinkham
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Loretta Ayrer
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Luna Gooding
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Vickie Gonsoulin
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gaius Poehler
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Scott Cottrill
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Judith Gustafson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Evelyn Coltman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marie Venner
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Allen
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

James Kinsey
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

James Kinsey
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Alec Herr
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

michael edwards
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jeffery McConaughy
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kristian Koerwitz
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Peggy Schramm
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Zachary Mcatee
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Pauline Kahney
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sandra Goodstone
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Frederick R Bauer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marie Venner
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Barbara Clewett
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ruth Woodcock
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Regina Woiler
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mark Koritz
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mike de Lange
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Allen
Loretta Lynch
department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Helen Mendoza
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Leland Chambers
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mrs. MaryAnna Foskett
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Judith Gustafson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Matthew Koch
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Pauline Kahney
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mark Koritz
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Valerie Sarelas
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Regina Woiler
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Teresa Collins
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Wendy Fast
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Phillip Bell
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Helen Mendoza
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susan Plubell
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Judy Jensen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mrs. MaryAnna Foskett
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jeffery McConaughy
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Donna Dupree
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Valerie Sarelas
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Holoduek, Jr.
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jake Schwartz
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Angela Maeda
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Larry Lewis
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Elaine Eudy
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Andrea Haresign
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sidney Ash
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Leland Chambers
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ward Stalnaker
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nancy Kasten
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

tom wyman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jessea Greenman

Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brandie Deal
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Judy Jensen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Holoduek, Jr.
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Martin Diedrich
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marian Vargas
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Larry Lewis
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

George Olson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Paul Goedinghaus
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Elaine Eudy
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Helen Bailey
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Donna Dupree
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Allen Wollscheidt
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Hasselbrink
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sidney Ash
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rose Henderson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Larry Olivier
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Micki Meredith
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jake Schwartz
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jennifer Fairchild
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Simone Ossipov
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jennifer Ruth
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Martin Diedrich
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Zachary Mcatee
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

andy sessa
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nancy Kasten
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary Gutierrez
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jessea Greenman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Larry Olivier
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dorothy Battle
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Senkus
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Allen Wollscheidt
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Elder
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Hynda Rome
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Helen Bailey

Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Miriam Baum
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Christopher Riff
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

debbie moran
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rebecca McDonough
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kory Welsch
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Senkus
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Neal Peterson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ross S.
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carolyn Wensman
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Graham
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dorothy Battle
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joanne Neale
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Miriam Baum
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Aaron Gardner
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susan Smith
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Paul Goedinghaus
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

andy sessa
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

andy sessa
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rebecca McDonough
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gayle Larson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Hynda Rome
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Su Jacob
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Gerry Milliken
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

debbie moran
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carolyn Wensman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Stephanie Clark
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Neal Peterson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary Headrick
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Shannon Roth
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susan Smith
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Donald Wilson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Roger Baston
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Zachary Nelms
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ann Dente
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Barbara Rosen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Graham
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mark Brodersen
 Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Simone Ossipov
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Meredith West
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Symonds
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Kramer
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

James Cooke
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kimberly Shaub
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

zita fox
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

brenda lee
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

zita fox
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,
Jeff Christy
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Aaron Gardner
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Theresa Morris
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Natalie Quiet
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Roger Baston
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Matthew Edmonds
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Meredith West
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gail Gaebe
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Theresa Morris
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Karen Erikson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

brenda lee
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

zita fox
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Zachary Nelms
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

zita fox
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kimberly Shaub
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Deanne O'Donnell
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Betty Goller
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Malia Heckathorn
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Wendy Worth
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Steve Walsh
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary Headrick
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Peggy Schultz
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

DOonna Pope
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Natalie Quiet
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lesley Woodward
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Matthew Edmonds
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Earhart
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jeffrey Conner
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Charlotte Webb
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jerome Onufer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Alfred Staab
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Robert Hall
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ginger Florian
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Chad Evans
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marcia Laris
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Debbie Williamson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lesley Woodward
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gail Gaebe
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lesley Woodward
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Betty Goller
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lesley Woodward
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jeremy Day
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Wendy Worth
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Paul Dolinko
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Patricia Sharp
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

James Ashcraft
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

George Erceg
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sandra Zylberman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Helen M. Lembeck
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Debbie Williamson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Shawn Hall
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Steve Kaylor
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Amy Elder
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kimberly Thompson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kathryn Sharp
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Struan McArdle
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Chad Evans
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carol Faust
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Charlotte Webb
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

marion c. woods
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jeffrey Koppel
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Robert Hall
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Paul Dolinko
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

James Ashcraft
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

ernest smith
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Steve Walsh
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Shawn Hall
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Zachary Cramer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Steve Kaylor
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Janet Zampieri
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sandra Zylberman
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kimberly Thompson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Struan McArdle
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Helen M. Lembeck
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

George Erceg
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Patricia Sharp
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Amy Elder
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Catherine Regan
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Miss Deborah Lancman
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ruth Nielsen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. George Phillips
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Persico
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Zachary Cramer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

ernest smith
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Gerry Milliken
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

trina cooper
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Laurie Forbes
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kurt Kiebler
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Eileen Prefontaine
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

eric janty
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ernest Montoro
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Eleanor Westmoreland
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Orr
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ruth Nielsen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Janet Zampieri
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jeremy Day
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Miss Deborah Lancman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nikki Refghi
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Laurie Forbes
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sandra Garber
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lawrence Crowley
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nikki Refghi
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kristin Rosenqvist
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Melissa Sprouse
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

eric janty
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bryan McCarthy
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Beth Engelman
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Clara Bleak
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Matthew Bolles
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Allison Delavan
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marilyn Mazur
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Orr
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Clive O'Donoghue
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ernest Montoro
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ernest Montoro
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Eleanor Westmoreland
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Beth Engelman
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lawrence Crowley
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Stutsman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lawrence Holtzman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dr. James Hanson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

oren horst
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary Eide
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Pawel Karpinski
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Suzanne Wooldridge
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Andrew Stanger
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jerry Kessinger
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

George Lindelof
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Albert R. Matheny
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lawrence Holtzman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dennis/April Clobes
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jacquelyn Wrycha
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jacquelyn Wrycha
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dennis Ledden
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dawn Loper
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement which bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Richard Johnson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Candidus dougherty
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Hope Millholland
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Windy Childs
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Julia Michel
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carolina Goodman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Suzanne Wooldridge
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jill McManus
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Pawel Karpinski
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

George Lindelof
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

George Lindelof
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Fiedler
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Halley Jacobs
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Albert R. Matheny
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

oren horst
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Richard Morgese
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jennie Brawner
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gerald Mahoney
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Fiedler
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Markowitz
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ken Jewell
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

T Cho
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jacquelyn Wrycha
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Valerie Schadt
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Windy Childs
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Halley Jacobs
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jackie Wolf
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sister Carol Boschert
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Rynes
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Janet Rexroth
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement which bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Richard Johnson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Steven Zserai
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jerry Hillman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda McVarish
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

We Burgart
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Rynes
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

James Norton
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ginger Peeler
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Chris Rattigan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Strode
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Janet Rexroth
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Margaret Crawford
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Valerie Schadt
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Kenneth Bird
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gerald Mahoney
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jackie Wolf
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

MICHAEL DIGREGORIO
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Steven Zserai
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Strode
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely, don

Don Dicken
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

robert zeller
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

K G
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Elizabeth Meszaros
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bill King
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

J Swanson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mick Alderman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Pat Williamson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Clayton Denman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

James Norton
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sandy Barnard
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Chris Rattigan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Katarina Lang
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bill King
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mick Alderman
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Daniel Calvino
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kim VonderHaar
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Clayton Denman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sybille Dubois
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Janie Lucas
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Naira Bribiesca Hueper
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary Buttitta
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Céline EXCOFFIER
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jerry Hillman
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

James Mandler
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gina Bond
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sheila Black Grubman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

todd Miller
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joseph Klimovitz
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Naira Bribiesca Hueper
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

ted wray
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Christine Seeling
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Andrew Scholten
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda McVarish
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Huarachi
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Sherry J Marsh
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

James Mandler
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael F. Kolassa
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gina Bond
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Céline EXCOFFIER
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kim VonderHaar
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Janie Lucas
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

William Soronen
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

William Crane
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Katarina Lang
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

ANDREA ROBINSON
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Middleton
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Melinda Geiger
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Billie Leyendecker
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Amanda Lewis
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Roberta Beneduce
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Julie Medbery
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Charles Stidham
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Huarachi
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Pat Pire
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Eileen Wheeler
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Karen Stimson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Gene Fox
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

William Soronen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sheila Black Grubman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dick Hannigan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

kenneth gillette
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Greg Stawinoga
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Roger Vortman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

William Whitaker
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Middleton
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sandy Barnard
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Pat Pire
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Steven Wiese
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Greg Stawinoga
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

kenneth gillette
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Yvette Fallandy
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Zilm
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary Buttitta
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mrs. T Reading
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Steve Sheehy
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Weeks
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Philip Noel
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Karin Sandahl
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Audrey Price
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dennis Ledden
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bob Steinberg
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael F. Kolassa
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Zvi Bassan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert D. Missimer, Jr.
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Florence Rogers
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Barbara Frances
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Donna Jensen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lucretia OToole
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Martha Hanson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brian de Castro
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Heather Savino
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Rede
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert D. Missimer, Jr.
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bob Steinberg
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Renee Moreno-Creer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Audrey Price
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Amy Hatfield
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Heather Savino
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Friestad
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nicole Amador
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Florence Rogers
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Sherry J Marsh
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Antonio Bayona
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joan Caiazzo
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Barbara Frances
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

justine karadontes
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Drew Stafford
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Duane Spicer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Claudia Wornum
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ronald De Shon

Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Antonio Bayona
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Rede
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robin Sharpe
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joan Caiazzo
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sheila Schally
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Renee Moreno-Creer
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Conrad Ionski
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sidney Schultz
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Amy Hatfield
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Harry Hunter
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gina Whitlock
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lucretia OTtoole
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Scott Vayo
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Deborah Labb
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

William Crane
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary Garza-Aragon
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nicole Amador
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Deborah Labb
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Conrad Ionski
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carol Laitinen
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joie Budington
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Judi Poulson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary Waitz
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated, and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Greg Wiederin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Harry Hunter
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Macelhiney
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Scott Vayo
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jami Made
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jason Byrer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joie Budington
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Armando A. Garcia
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

William Moriarty
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Greg Wiederin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dana Smith
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bo Sawczyn
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mitch Wilson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kathe Jacobsen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carol Laitinen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Melissa Sunderland
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Armando A. Garcia
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary Waitz

Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Cynthia M Arnold
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jk Anderson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sheila Schally
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mitch Wilson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ted LaPage
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gilia Humrich
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

George Youngren
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carl Vogel
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Cynthia M Arnold
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Macelhiney
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

William Moriarty
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gloria Cadet
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jami Made
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Krueger
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary Sims
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Charles Abele
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Alec Behr
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gina Whitlock
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gary Laclair
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Claudia Mansfield
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gilia Humrich
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Krueger
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Loren Miller
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lorna Wallach
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary Sims
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Irene Roos
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dorothy Cheo
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

susan johnson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jk Anderson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Eula Rice
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mike Yamate
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gene Goff
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joe Beland
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Alison Bond
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Alec Behr
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ed Cornejo
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mark Porter
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

James Dixon
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Irene Roos
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lorna Wallach
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lawrence Merlino
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gary La Clair
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Kathleen Mead
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Maureen Mehler
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joe Weis
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Patricia Rudner
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Stephen Walker
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

susan johnson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

George Ferrell
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Alison Bond
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Todd Clark
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Katia Scaglia
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Claudia Mansfield
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Maureen Mehler
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Keith Havens
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Eula Rice
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Paul Metzloff
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kasey Konkel
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lynell Withers
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Pat Keener
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carl Pflug
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Katia Scaglia
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Phyllis Swank
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

D.B. Pope
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Anita McNamara
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Richard Smith
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Elizabeth Ramsey
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lanier Hines
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Unger
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brian Mahoney

Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gary Jones
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mark Porter
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lynell Withers
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Steven Presley
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

anthony oliveria
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

James Dixon
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carol Weaver
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Amit Shoham
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Pat Keener
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

shirlee maddren
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Anne Johnson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

anthony oliveria
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carrie Walker
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

NO TAX DEDUCTION ON THE FINE. I DO NOT GET TO DEDUCT FINES FROM MY TAXES.

Sincerely,
Pat Norton
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Albert
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lawrence Merlino
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Elizabeth Ramsey
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brian Mahoney
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lanier Hines
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gregory Freeman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lisa Kearney
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kathy Wagner
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Robert Rippetoe
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Steven Presley
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

J Woodhull
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sharon Parshall
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gary Jones
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lisa Kearney
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Camelia Mitu
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Charles Almack
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Janette North
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lance Polya
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Margaret Gibson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Robert Rippetoe
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Camelia Mitu
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dave Gladstone
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Mitchell
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Peter Klein
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Phyllis Swank
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Charles Almack
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Monica Goodrich
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Albert
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Robert Albert
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Teresa Musial
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Janette North
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Janet Fraidstern
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

h oziran
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Robert Albert

Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

J Woodhull
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dianna Wood
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sandra Siegner
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Teresa Musial
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Georgia Shankel
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary Splan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Janet Fraidstern
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lyn Goldinger
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

h ozeran
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

James Senger Jr

Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dixon Withers-Julian
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nick Leventis
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Carol Blanchard
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Wendy Culp
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susan Hartford
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Miles Patterson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jeffrey West
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dianna Wood
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joseph Agonito
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mark Lane
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carol Hill
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Carol Blanchard
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jeffrey West
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Anita McNamara
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Millard Atkins
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tom Cordaro
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Todd Hammond
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Wendy Culp
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Mary Whitehead
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Paul Keough
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susan Hartford
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cyrus Martin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gail Marks
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

jon powers
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jeff Bloomfield
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tom Cordaro
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. ERIC THU
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Wilma E Ralls
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kimberly Hughes
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carol Hill
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cyrus Martin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Donna Commey
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lyn Goldinger
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Thomas Ronan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Metters
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Richard DiMatteo
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dixon Withers-Julian
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Mary Whitehead
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Millard Atkins
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dave Gladstone
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jeff Bloomfield
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Neuhauser
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Janice Stine
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. ERIC THU
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Harry Blumenthal
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Maryann G. Strain
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kimberly Hughes
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Richard DiMatteo
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Terri Blevins
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Walter Simmer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Catherine Gaibrois-Chevrier
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tom Hilgartner
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joseph Agonito
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Shelley Kilbon

Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Burns
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Metters
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Boles
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Thomas Ronan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Glenn Fain
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gail Marks
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Christopher Dowling
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

C D Metzger
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Diane Sullivan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Donna Delisi
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gail Walter
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Alan Peltzer
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

J.b. Ciesielski
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Mathews
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

A. Zamudio
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Maryann G. Strain
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Deb Hahn
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Shelley Kilbon
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Thomas McLaughlin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Christopher Dowling
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Paul Addington
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John LeFevers
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dr. Steven G. G Kellman
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Patricia Freewoman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lisa Goldman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Mago
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Mago
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Roberta Stuemke
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tom Hilgartner
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Catherine Gaibrois-Chevrier
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Harry Blumenthal
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

denise nyman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Petkovic
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sam Naifeh
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

C D Metzger
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gail Walter
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Diane Sullivan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Richard Harrison
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Honora-Bright Aere
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Donna Delisi
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Terri Blevins
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jan Moore
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jacob Lamphere
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

J.b. Ciesielski
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dorothy Tennies
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Deb Hahn
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Stevenson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary Thorne
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Donna Commey
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Edward Bisker
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mike Berwaldt
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Mathews
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Terry Pavletic
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Amy Williams
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

denise nyman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rob Tanner
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dennis Satterfield
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Erik Diaz
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Honora-Bright Aere
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mike Berwaldt
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dr. Steven G. G Kellman
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Roberta Stuemke
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Thomas McLaughlin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bruce Johnson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joy Cash
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Stevenson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Amy Williams
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kathleen Barnebey
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Theo Van Wijk
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary Thorne
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Day
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lisa Goldman
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Richard Harrison
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary Vermeulen
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Judi Kerr
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Karen Purcell
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Edward Bisker
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rob Tanner
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Greg Allbee
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Judy Schomaker
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Kathleen Mead
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Francis Mastri
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it. Please, your position is one that is supposed to represent what is right. Protecting a corporation like BP and selling out the American people will be detrimental to a country that is continuing to fail. Help us recover please.

Sincerely,
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Barbara Ardinger
Loretta Lynch
Departments of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Aviva Ehren
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Barbara Yurchuck
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kristin Kokal
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Michael Laird
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Greg Allbee
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bruce Johnson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Shelley Bobb
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Theo Van Wijk
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kathleen Barnebey
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Maggie Curati
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Amy Pick
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Alecto Caldwell
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Francis Mastri
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Keith Gagomiros
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Aviva Ehren
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Katherine Meyer
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kristin Kokal
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lisa Nardi
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Zach Sievert
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

ROBERT C. BARTLEY
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Shelley D. Dahlgren, PhD
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Shelley Bobb
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Barbara Ardinger
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Vaseem Contractor
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Stan Tyson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susan Powers
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Keith Gagomiros
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

R Lovesky
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Amy Pick
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jaszmene Smith
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Pardee
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jane Lewis
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ruth Woodcock
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction. Please make sure they can not deduct these costs from their income tax as well.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Emily Willoughby
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Pamela Culp
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Steve Wozniak
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kathryn Moody-Arndt
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Stan Tyson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jesse Greer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Sackin
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jane Lewis
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gary Mazzotti
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Vaseem Contractor
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Steve Wozniak
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Pamela Culp
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Francine Ungaro
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Paul Addington
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kathryn Tomaszik
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Genny Genevich
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Patricia Freewoman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kim White
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jean Cheesman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Frank Boyle
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gary Mazzotti
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Doreen Frega
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sandra L Lawrence
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Constantine Bogios
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

nic todd
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Francine Ungaro
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kathryn Tomaschik
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Elizabeth Argo
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

ROBERT C. BARTLEY
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Melanie Waggett
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lisa Bergerud
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Eric Pranausk
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Emily Willoughby
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jennifer Starr
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Londa Fowler
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Doreen Frega
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

nic todd
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lisa Bergerud
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Anne Summers
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Elizabeth Argo
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

J Clemenich
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Frank Boyle
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Esther Fiegel
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kathleen Crittenden
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dorothy Solomon
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Claire Coleman
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Barb Mathes
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carrie Etter
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sandra L Lawrence
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Eric Pranausk
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Keith Robillard
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

andy andrews
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Claire Coleman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kathleen Crittenden
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Constantine Bogios
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Minshall
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Richard Ouren
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Samuel Durkin
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lois Bernstein
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Barb Mathes
Dear Attorney General Lynch.

I am privy to inside info concerning the deep level of culpability of BP higher ups in this disastrous fiasco. Their behavior was unthinkable and heinous. It was, in real terms, an act of terror against their crew, contractors, customers, and the country and physical environment of the USA. As the chief enforcement officer here, it is incumbent on you to extract the complete price for the consequences of BP criminality.

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

mick nickel
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Keith Robillard
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

andy andrews
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Samuel Durkin
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Barb Lee
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Maxime Devilliers
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Roger Delmar
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Maxime Devilliers
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Evelyn Aron
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Monica DuBina
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mark Burton
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sally Courtright
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Shaun Thomas
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that BARS BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must NEVER be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

PLEASE DO NOT MAKE THE TAXPAYERS PAY FOR IT!

Sincerely,

Mary Vermeulen
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sherry Bowles
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Minshall
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

William Resetarits
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Felske
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Catherine Whiteside
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Anne-Marie Mitchell
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brian Sullivan
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Roger Delmar
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Timothy Munsey
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Richard Ouren
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Evelyn Aron
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Doug Musick
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Carla Tuke
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Catherine Whiteside
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nancy Loftin
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robyn Hallonquist
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mark Burton
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mike MacGuire
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rosemary Busterna
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

William Resetarits
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Margaret Mogg
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Doug Musick
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Larry Karns
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Carla Tuke
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Krall
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Corinne Dubord
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jeffrey Gomes
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Vera Krokonko
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brian Sullivan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Laurel Facey
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda McCarthy
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Melissa Cooper
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jeffrey Hemenez
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Charles Mullen
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jeffrey Gomes
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Don Benefiel
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jeffrey Hemenez
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda McCarthy
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary Wilson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Betty Lou Miller
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Whitney Cloud
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dorethea Simone
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

M Wire
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rosemary Busterna
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rod Moren
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lisa Powers
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Buch
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Corinne Dubord
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Alan Gross
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Melissa Cooper
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carmen Ramirez
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

W Kent Wilson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carmen Ramirez
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Margaret Mogg
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Doris LeVasseur
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mark Kaplan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Karen Boyd
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Stephanie Jones
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ken Kohler
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary Iorns
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

M Wire
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mal Gaff
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carol Chowdhry
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mrs. Judith A Bohler
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Charles Mcmahan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lisa Udel
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Charles Mcmahan
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rod Moren
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Doris LeVasseur
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

bradford harrington
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Don Benefiel
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gretchen Carnaby
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Fanny Aragno
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Allison Castle
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Timothy Dodd
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ann & John Christenson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

marguerite Larson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mal Gaff
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carol Chowdhry
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Shannon Gruber
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Linda Bescript
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cindy Spoor
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Charles McMahan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lisa Udel
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mrs. Judith A Bohler
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Pam Smith
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lisa Powers
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gloria Wurst
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Karen Vergara
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

jim dyer
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

bradford harrington
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Timothy Dunn
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary Whitley
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jon Lo
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ken Kohler
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Shannon Gruber
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

deborah walsh
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

marguerite Larson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gloria Wurst
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jeff Burger
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jennifer Hall
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Zoe Alexander
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jennifer Fairchild
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

veran randle
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Wendy Anctil
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mrs. Shannon Jacobs
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marge Nealon
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary Whitley
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Meg Madden
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jennifer Hall
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

fred meade
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jeff Burger
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Anthony Mendousa
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Bell
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lori Fromm
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Conti
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Chris Grimley
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Stephanie Jones
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Leila Mohseni
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Victoria Linehan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

duane howe
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Roderigues
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mrs. Diane Z Fascione
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Anthony Mendousa
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Zoe Alexander
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Morgan Craig
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

fred meade
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Krall
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Beth Dennis
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mike Friehauf
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Chris Grimley
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Morgan Craig
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Jongen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mrs. Diane Z Fascione
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. David Hermanns
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

duane howe
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

James Shepherd
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mrs. Gail Linnerson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Victoria Linehan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lori Fromm
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Byrne
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mike Friehauf
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Warhurst
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

C Hoppe
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Roderigues
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Christopher Panny
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Elizabeth Wilkes
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. David Hermanns
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Allison Castle
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Leila Mohseni
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

William Edwards
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Meryl Rogers
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jason Kaler
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dennis Trembly
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Christopher Panny
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Edwin Hasson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bonnie Goss
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Patricia Lane
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Hoeman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mrs. Gail Linnerson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Prabu Gopalakrishnan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Eric Simpson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dominic Libby
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

James Shepherd
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Thank you.

Sincerely,
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mrs. Marilyn Mason
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marilyn Lange
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Edwin Hasson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

andrea f.
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Molder
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susan Hampel
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dennis Trembly
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jordan Awasthi
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carol Vallejo
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Catherine Johnson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bonnie Goss
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mrs. Marilyn Mason
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bonnie Preston
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Richard Johnson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Prabu Gopalakrishnan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susan Hampel
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Molder
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ruth Noble
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Steve Babyak
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jordan Awasthi
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Hoeman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Christina Power
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Steve Babyak
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Alex Kemper
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

ashley yonker
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ruth Noble
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

edward Cassidy
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Lee
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Randy Johnson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Hannah Stanton
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Alan Gross
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Judy Genandt
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kay Johnson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

edward cassidy
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

elga konietzny
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Christina Power
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Weldon Williams
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

C Parker
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kay Johnson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

john stone
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Weldon Williams
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mike Souza
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ed Martin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jan Kutchen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kate Blessing
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Melissa VerDuin
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Erick Diaz
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

elga konietzny
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jeff Burns
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

C Parker
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ed Martin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gail Tanner
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

BrendaLee Lennick
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Edwin Homeier
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Edouard Dawson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Stephanie Kob
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jean Siegel
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Thomas Peel
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Melissa VerDuin
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. George Lawrence
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kate Blessing
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jeffrey Hearn
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

BrendaLee Lennick
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Thomas Peel
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Deb Hyde
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Pamela Slass
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Thomas Bell
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

TONI THOMAS
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rochelle Wood
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

James Hector
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lindsey Caudill
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

M. Rae
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely, Tina Tine'

Tina Tine'
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jeffrey Hearn
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Edouard Dawson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Deb Hyde
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

James Hector
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Patrick Malone
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sharon Longyear
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lindsey Caudill
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Natasha Brenner
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ieva Berzins
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Debbie Donnelly
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jonathan Rubin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

James Degner
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

M. Rae
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Anna L
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Isabella La Rocca
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Matt Johnson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Debbie Donnelly
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Paul Huddy
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brand Kidney
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rochelle Wood
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tony Lentini
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely, Tina Tine'
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sharon Longyear
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rodolfo Cardona
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Harry Newman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Charles Omiya
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Watt
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Timothy Miller
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brand Kidney
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lucinda Windsor
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Suzanne Challinor
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Scott Coon
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

marc fried
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Paul Huddy
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Watt
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

tracy faunce
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joseph Guzman
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Naython Williams
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tim Miller
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Harriet Miller
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Timothy Miller
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lisa Hughes
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Donna Hortsch
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Charles Wirth
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

marc fried
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

June Gordon
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Roberta Weissglass
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Suzanne Challinor
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mike Hogan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

tracey faunce
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jim Garrett
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Chris Keefe
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Naython Williams
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Harriet Miller
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Elvia Allen
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Russell Se
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Patrick Malone
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Charles Wirth
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lucinda Windsor
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lisa Hughes
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mike Hogan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michelle Broadrick
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joe Russo
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

June Gordon
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

James Bengel
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sue Bedrick
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Barbara Efraimson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jon Kroeger
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marijeanne Sarraille
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Florkowski
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Donna Hortsch
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joseph Leedy
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Anne Pope
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Roberta Weissglass
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jim Garrett
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Timothy Shanahan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Ellison
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Howard Gross
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Trina Walls
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Daniel Rowen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Elvia Allen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cathy Brownlee
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susan Hicken
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Belinda Berkemeijer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Anne Pope
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Deborah Cheek
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joseph Leedy
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jennifer Radecki
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Daniel Rowen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cathy Brownlee
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Ellison
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kathy Michaelson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Aaron Kogan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Barbara Efraimson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sister James Marie Gross
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jim Patton
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dennis Sien
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Deborah Cheek
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Margaret Carter
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jim Patton
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kathy Michaelson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tom Rogers
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ronald Powell
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mrs. Joyce Crowley
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Belinda Berkemeijer
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dennis Sien
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sister James Marie Gross
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gary Moore
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Richard Boyce
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Florkowski
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bradford Kral
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Stacey Zuckerman
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dorothy Rossi
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Betsy Villasana
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jan Scott
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lynette Ridder
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ronald Powell
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gary Moore
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Chuck Massoud-Tastor
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Stacey Zuckerman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mrs. Rebecca Pollinzi
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lynette Ridder
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susan Hicken
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dorothy Rossi
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lauren Kahn
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

W B
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Daymon F. Sadler Jr
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Steve Ikenaga
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jack Morgenstern
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jeannine Bloss
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Donald Beardshear
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Thomas Brenner
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lauren Kahn
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

J Knop
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gary Hultman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jeannine Bloss
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Isabella La Rocca
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Elaine Stucky
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tom Jennings
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mike Souza
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

shirley jackson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jack Morgenstern
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Elliot Chase
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Elaine Neth
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Thomas Brenner
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Dianne Douglas
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Poss
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

david miles
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Dianne Douglas
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susan Dunham
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

shirley jackson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jan Scott
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Natalie Kovacs
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bettina Hempel
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Gennarelli
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marsha L. Jarvis
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary Cooney
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tom Jennings
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Vic Bostock
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dr. Dominic Brisson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Janna Piper
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marsha L. Jarvis
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jeaneen Andretta
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Poss
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sharon Goldstein
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ed Vant, Jr.
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Christopher Key
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tom Nelson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Vic Bostock
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brian McFarland
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Vincent Alvarez
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Stephanie Stone
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

david miles
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Gennarelli
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Takako Ishii-Kiefer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Erick Hedrick
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dan Avery
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brian McFarland
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ray Decker
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Janna Piper
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tom Nelson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tom Nelson

Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lynn Hailey
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Emily Dickinson-Adams
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

robert kimble
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ed Vant, Jr.
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dr. Dominic Brisson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Helena de Vengoechea Rudd
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kathleen Sumida
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

James Heidt
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Emily Dickinson-Adams
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rosemarie Caruso
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

SallyMarie Jones
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gerri Kappler
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kathleen Welsh
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Devlon Clouser
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kathleen Sumida
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rosemarie Caruso
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rodney Whisenhunt
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gerri Kappler
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Star Seastone
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

bob speiser
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Star Seastone
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Dutton
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Steve Schrempf
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rev. Nagi Mato
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lisa Hunkler
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

James R Swenson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Miller
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

SallyMarie Jones
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lisa Hunkler
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rev. Nagi Mato
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cathy White
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Peggy Krainman
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nancy Robinson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Miller
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jean-François Fauconnier
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cathy White
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Dale
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Eliot Pozehl
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Barbara Anderson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Petroni
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Carolyn Treadway
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Peggy Krainman
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kent Scott
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Star Seastone
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon MUST NEVER be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Darshana Maya Greenfield
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Star Seastone
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

linda coley
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Carolyn Treadway
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Petroni
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brenda Evans
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jeff Chapman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Diane Lamont
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Karen Baouche
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Barbara Swyden
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

linda coley
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jeff Chapman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lila Osborne
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Barbara Anderson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Adam Barnes
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nick Salerno
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sandra Chase-Rockwell
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carmen Silva
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Diane Lamont
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sharon Miller
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Glen Sandberg
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Darshana Maya Greenfield
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lawrence Holtzman
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Victor Spada
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Christopher Heuman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Martina Sierra
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lawrence Holtzman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Karen Baouche
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Javier Rivera
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mason Arion
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jim Conroy
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Barbara Webber
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Christopher Heuman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Karl Koessel
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sheridan Ryder
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Janet Schreiber
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tor Nichols
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Javier Rivera
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

mike fontana
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Karl Koessel
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jim Conroy
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dr. George B. Kauffman
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

mike fontana
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Craig E Brown
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Glen Sandberg
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Mark Gotvald
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Stephen Muchowski
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Holly Kukkonen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marilyn Barthelow
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Hadden
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jean-François Fauconnier
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Eva Thomas
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Elloie Jeter
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mike Riley
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Zoe Strassfield
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dr. George B. Kauffman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Peter Caesr
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marguerite Shuster
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

christine kender
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Daniel Ewing
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Betsy Lindemuth
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Eric Schickendantz
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Mark Gotvald
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Thomas Schweickart
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Elloie Jeter
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Thomas Musselman
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Hadden
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

William Alexander
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Spencer Berglund
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

christine kender
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary Theisen
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mike Riley
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Eva Thomas
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ava Venturelli
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Spencer Berglund
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kay Von Tress
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brenda Taylor
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Deniel Germanotta
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Eric Schickendantz
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marilyn Barthelow
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Curt Sayers
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Moneca Dunham
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kay Von Tress
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Angela Grattan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

C Provol
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Amy Wolfe
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ava Venturelli
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rc Dutra
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michelle Ford
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

James Angerer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

C Provol
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Richard Hale
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Liz Galst
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Dubovec
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary Pepin
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Liz Galst
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Myron P
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Judy Moran
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Amy Wolfe
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brenda Taylor
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Richard Hale
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Judy Moran
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carol Jagiello
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

We as tax payers did not spill that oil, BP did!

If we as tax payers spill oil on our driveway we have to clean it up, NOT BP! That we expect and respect! But what we cannot respect is large companies expecting us as tax payers to pay for their mess let alone clean it up for them!

Sincerely,

Vivien Britton
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

D Carr
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Craig E Brown
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Felicity Tanous
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kay Tyler
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Al Good
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ananda Patterson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

norman hines
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

M.E. Scullard
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susan Wechsler
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joseph Heininger
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carol Garber
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Christopher Lord
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

norman hines
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Suzanne Ours
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Eckler
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Deb S
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michele Shave
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Felicity Tanous
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Al Good
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sabreena Barton
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

M.E. Scullard
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Klausing
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ginger Ikeda
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susan Wechsler
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Aaron Rusch
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Eckler
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Deb S
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Christopher Lord
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Christian Dollahon
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jennifer Falk
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Grace Helfrich
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jennifer Falk
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Aaron Rusch
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Karen Hauck
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Evy Mayer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Vivien Britton
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Stock
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Francisco Egipciaco
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Justine Tilley
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Becky Haugse
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Paul Vee
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Samantha Siler
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Francisco Egipciaco
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Justine Tilley
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Grace Helfrich
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Hall
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Worley
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Samantha Siler
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Stokes
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Becky Haugse
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Denise Black
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gabriel Maxwell
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Thomas Dannecker
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Charles Cowger
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rick Shapiro
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Diane Sevald
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gabriel Maxwell
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Laura Colston
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

James Taylor
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

M Stockwell
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Julie Taylor
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tammera Hinshaw
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Thomas Dannecker
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tyson Hewitt
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rick Shapiro
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gary Bellert
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Julie Taylor
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Charles Cowger
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Schwartz
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susan Waltner
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Laura Colston
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dr. T. Randall (Randy) Mock, M.D., Ph.D.
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tammera Hinshaw
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

tim wright
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brenda Hammond
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Donna Knipp
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kathleen Rengert
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Diana Lemus
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susan Waltner
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael McDonald
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Stacy Bloodworth
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Donna Knipp
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kathleen Rengert
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jacqueline Potoski
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Christine Trunk
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susan Hicken
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael McDonald
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joanna Griggs
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Denice Cornell
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Stacy Bloodworth
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jonathan Martinez
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

ralph stephens
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

tim wright
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

kj king
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Karen Y Hogan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Diana Lemus
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kara Hodges
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Petra Jaerling
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gemma Hensey
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Schwartz
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Priscilla Martinez
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jonna Johnson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joanna Griggs
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Priscilla Martinez
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bill Macartney
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rania Bratberg
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Denice Cornell
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sabine Painter
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

ralph stephens
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carolyn Andre
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Christine Trunk
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Petra Jaerling
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kara Hodges
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

edward abbey
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jim Bungarden
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ysa Hammond
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tom Beatini
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brandy Petrovic
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dale Janssen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Julie Seitzman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

First Name Gibb
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marilyn Stern
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

First Name Gibb
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marilyn Stern
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Matthew Slifka
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jacqueline Sowa Colyer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Cardinali

Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marilyn Stern
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ian Simmons
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

George Meskus
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dale Janssen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jim Bungarden
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jeriene Walberg
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Trisha Townsend
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bill Both
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tom Beatini
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

First Name Gibb
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Nona Weiner
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Karen Howard
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

jack murphy
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dr. Janet Maker
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Mayne
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Riley Canada II
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Trisha Townsend
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sharon Baker
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kathryn Panaro
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bill Both
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kathryn Mosher
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kermit Brooms
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Karen Howard
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Deborah Veneziale
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

James Stamos
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Mayne
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nancy Porter-Steele
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Torrieri
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mrs. Bonnie Weber
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ginny White
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jeriene Walberg
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sharon Baker
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tom Wroblewski
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dr. Janet Maker
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joseph De Meis
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Deborah Veneziale
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Timothy McBride
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kermit Brooms
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Terry Luster
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Daniel Rebson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lee Skinner
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Torrieri
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sherri Andrade
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carol Thompson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Judy Yenney
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joseph Lawson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Coleen Brock
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ryan Dodson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susan Teegardin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sherri Andrade
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carol Thompson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Daniel Rebson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jonathan Crews
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jimmie Martin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susan Teegardin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ryan Dodson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Charles Carroux
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susan Jordan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Barrett Guthrie
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rebecca Helton
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Judy Yenney
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michelle Hayward
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ruth Sugerman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mrs. Wendy Holzman
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joel Christine
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Young
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joseph Lawson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Amy Mueller
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

RICHARD AMERLING
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ibrahim Hafid
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susan Jordan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

carol broll
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dona Patty
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Skot McDaniel
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

F Meek
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Amy Mueller
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

thaly guerrero
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Pat Berger
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dave Dunkak
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tiamoyo Gilchrist
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lane Rolland
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dave Dunkak
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

carol broll
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tom Wroblewski
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ian Haggerty
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kelley Keisch
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kirk Zinkowski
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lisa Daloia
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

James Scoville
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ibrahim Hafid
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Douglas Thayer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carolyn Villanova
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Karen Newberg
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lisa Daloia
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Morgan Brown
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Martha F. Hoar
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cecelia McCarty
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Pedro Mier
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Patricia M. Williams
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lane Rolland
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Pedro Mier
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Beatriz Pallanes
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kirk Zinkowski
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ashleigh Steil
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

JESSE COUNTERMAN
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cecelia McCarty
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tiamoyo Gilchrist
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ashleigh Steil
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sherwood Reese
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michelle Hayward
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Stack Kenny
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dianne Lane
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Patricia Brinkmann
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kelley Keisch
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Rice
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

susan rump
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

George Anderson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Deborah Holcomb
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sangeeta Benbow
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Winkel
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cathy Bilsky
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Basker
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Beatriz Pallanes
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

melek korel
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Debbie Taylor
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Martha F. Hoar
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sangeeta Benbow
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brigid Keeley
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Hand
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carolyn Villanova
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Karen Liao
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cathy Bilsky
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Debbie Taylor
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dave Marott
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Stack Kenny
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Stack Kenny
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dianne Lane
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brigid Keeley
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bruce Moyer
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dave Marott
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Watson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

susan scott
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Lemlin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nancy Holmes
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Fred Myrick
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jesse Mallory
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Karin Ralph
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bruce Moyer
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Hand
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joshua Katzman
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dr. Phillip Freeman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Do not be pressured by the Republican puppets of the "Dirty Fuels" businesses to let their bosses off the hook.

Sincerely,

Michael Revord
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robin Mitchell
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susan Stavros
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lana La Fata
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Hilary McIndoo
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Johnson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Watson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

melek korel
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Becki Fulmer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely, James J Provenzano

James Provenzano
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joshua Katzman
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Harriet Adams
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nancy Holmes
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jesse Mallory
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Richard Fassino
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Fred Myrick
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Angela Miller
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sue Van Loon
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

William Pritchad
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Johnson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

maryanne pilgram
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jonathan Gillespie
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carolyn Haupt
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Holly Marczak
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Garry Clark
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

James Provenzano
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Angela Miller
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Paul Davenport
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Patrick Whalen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Eric Fournier
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Eric Fournier
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cathy Caldiwe
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues -- I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated, and taxpayers should not be paying any associated costs.

Sincerely,

Mark Bartleman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

William Pritchad
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sue Van Loon
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Patrick Whalen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Paul Davenport
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carolyn Haupt
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jan Beeman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gary Hargrove
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Greg Clerke
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael VanZant
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Richard Schoonmaker
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Vsevolod Gurevich
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Karen Hauck
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gary Hargrove
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Daniel Marston
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Shawnie McAdams
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Scott Brookover
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Naomi Jacobs
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Catherine Blake
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bren Cozad
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Donna J. Fasanella
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Janice Cechony
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael VanZant

Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kathryn Moore
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dorothy DeVitto
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Greg Clerke
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Daniel Marston
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carmen Mitchell
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Allison Pierce
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Scott Brookover
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Shawnie McAdams
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joel Porter
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms Jackie L Tryggeseth
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Lowell
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary Miller
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ann Pacey
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marjorie Ostle
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dorothy DeVitto
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Julie Viergutz
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cindy Michaels
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Fran Maroney
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sue Hoffman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Melissa Bauer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Melissa Bauer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carmen Mitchell
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mark Swanson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

James Whitelock
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bob Steininger
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kurt Swanstrom
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jane and Rino Servadio
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Powell
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Charles Wirth
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ann Pacey
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Allison Jones
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Stephanie Carter
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Charles Wirth
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Powell
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jane and Rino Servadio
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mike Bushaw
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

James Whitelock
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bob Steininger
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

meredith ryan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Patricia Howie
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Karen Orner
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Stephanie Carter
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Allison Jones
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Shelly Running
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Ritter
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Emil Aanestad
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Aaron Hobson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Maureen Besancon
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

meredith ryan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lilian Robinson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Eleanor Anderson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Karen Rarick
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

ROBERTA STERN
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sherri West
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bren Cozad
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Timothy Warner
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Schwartz
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ryan Hanson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Maureen Besancon
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sheryl Eaton
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Maria Asteinza
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Victor Ponce-Juarez
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sherri West
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Julie Clark
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Barbara Wyly
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

ROBERTA STERN
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ryan Hanson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Elizabeth Sexton
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ruth Eblen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Ritter
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mike Bushaw
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carol Doty
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Catherine

Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

James Ploger
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sheryl Eaton
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Timothy Warner
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Aaron Hobson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Patty Daugharty
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jim Burns
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Victor Ponce-Juarez
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

R. Lance Loughlin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Anna McCreery
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carol Doty
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary Puffenberger
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joseph Johnson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

William Willis
As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Evan Pinkney
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Julianne Ramaker
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Laura Stefacek
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

James Ploger
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jerome Cohn
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. David Leithauser
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Eileen Sullivan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Eugenia Alvarez
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Chuck Graver
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jim Burns
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ricardo Pacheco
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rafael Flores
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary Puffenberger
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

D Nicholson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Alva Pingel
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

LAURA HALL
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Aaron Krohn
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Amanda Legsdin
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rosemary W
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ricardo Pacheco
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Andrea Alagammai
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

R. Lance Loughlin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Chuck Graver
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

LAURA HALL
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Knud Padborg
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Judith Pearson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Aaron Krohn
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rima Rosenthal
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Sarabia
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Karen Rarick
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Karen Rarick
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Catherine Phipps
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rosemary Smith-Campbell
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement thatbars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Eileen Sullivan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Judith Pearson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Andrea Alagammai
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Alva Pingel
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Sarabia
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mark Laity-Snyder
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rosemary Smith-Campbell
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kerry Kuhn
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Thomas Hernandez
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Steve Robey
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rima Rosenthal
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jamie Moffitt-Graham
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

James Pruitte
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lex Hames
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Colin Hetzel
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Chandra Rambo
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bruce Hallett
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Fay Renardson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Maurizio Sini
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rosemary W
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rosemary W
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

D. Arslani
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

James Paul Gorman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lisa Hoch
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Leo Brown
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Neil Bacher
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bruce Hallett
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jranne Mackay
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Leonard Douglass
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mark Laity-Snyder
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dana May
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Richard Beaulieu
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Samantha Martinez
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Jon Bazinet
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Steve Robey
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jranne Mackay
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Scott Bishop
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ron Giddings
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Samantha Martinez
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jim Domenico
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Eric Mattei
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

belen lopez-deleon
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Don Jones
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Richard Beaulieu
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

tari pantaleo
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ofelia Lam
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Scott Bishop
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Eugenia Alvarez
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Andrea Chisari
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

w Lindauer
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mike Standerfer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Patricia Quimby
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carol Johnson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Theresa Titone
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Liedike
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Randolph Zimmerman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Margot Fogerson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Andrea Chisari
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

belen lopez-deleon
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jeffery Pelath
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Penny Brown
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carol Johnson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Liedike
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Ballard
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Steve Hamlin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Theresa Titone
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Peter Coan
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

tari pantaleo
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mark Swanson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nancy Slanger
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Char Hill
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Daniels-Lee
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Helen Vradelis
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

e. frederick bassett
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

karla walters
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Margot Fogerson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Laura Park
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Daniels-Lee
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Wendell
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gustavo Sandoval
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ralf Schuetz
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

j Howse
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Adam Kay
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bobby Singh
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Helen Vradelis
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jill Ganassi
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bobby Singh
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joy Mankoff
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Laura Park
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Adam Kay
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ralf Schuetz
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jean OHara
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michelle Bourgoynes
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Catherine Kilgore
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Deb Stewart
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jeffery Morgenthaler
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Justin Prem
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jill Ganassi
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Melody Martin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Mayer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary Gricki
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jamie Green
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gustavo Sandoval
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carol Whitehurst
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Peter Childs
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Monika Seegler
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Deb Stewart
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Stewart Wiggers
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Howard Karsh
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bruce Desiderio
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Collings
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Monika Seegler
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Char Hill
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jeffery Morgenthaler
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Stewart Wiggers
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Melody Martin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nick Dumont
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Catherine Kilgore
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bruce Desiderio
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Pat Patterson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carol Whitehurst
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Puchli
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Judy Yll
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Shoshanah Stone
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Shoshanah Stone
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Judy Yll
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Buford Cummings Jr.
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Angela Orozco
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Louis Micich
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John M Long
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Fred Sapulpa
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gail Roberts
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kalinke ten Hulzen
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Scott Kennedy
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

jacki masar
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John M Long
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ed McCullough
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Allen Gibas
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Puchli
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Downing
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tomate Lechuga
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rashid Patch
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

James Trujillo
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rachel Heumam
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Heidi Jurka
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Patrick Spurlock
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jason Nichols
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Theresa Perenich
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kay Keys
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David S.
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Culp
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

victoria wade
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susan Ellis
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ingrid Broecker
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rashid Patch
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Steven Ganter
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lorie Long
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Allen Gibas
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Martha Abatuno
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Steven Ganter
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Theresa Perenich
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

victoria wade
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Iris Edinger
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Culp
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Niara Isley
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kay Keys
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rachel Scott
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susan Ellis
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rachel Scott
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Louis Santiago
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Martha Abatuno
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sandra Olson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kathe Garbrick
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Janice Hamersky
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Niara Isley
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bro.James van Koolbergen,CFC
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Vicki Stefancich
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cuauhtémoc González
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

James Heller
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

jill greer
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Denise White
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Erika Wanenmacher
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Louisette Pochat
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jamie K Donaldson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dennis Wolff
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

James Trujillo
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

jill greer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

James White
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kathe Garbrick
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cuauhtémoc González
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dennis Wolff
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Vicki Stefancich
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Erika Wanenmacher
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mrs. Sandy Lynn
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

jan jordan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sandra Faverio
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Layken Bovaird
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Denise White
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Ordway
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Burkhard Broecker
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Edward Larkey
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

S. Scott
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

jan jordan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ginger Carter
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sandra Faverio
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brenda Walstrom
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

GF Wade Jr
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rachael Neffshade
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Beth Pulawski
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tabatha Chapman
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joshua Belknap
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Werner Jacob
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joshua Belknap
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ginger Carter
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Beth Pulawski
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Layken Bovaird
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carol Else
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Barbara Clary
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carrie Mann
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Katharine B. Johnson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Werner Jacob
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Melissa Mazias
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marjorie Gelber
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Maria Teresa Agozzino
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Russell Somerset
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

m gutierrez
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

kenneth walters
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carol Else
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tabatha Chapman
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lorie Long
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Lippner
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Richard Young
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marjorie Gelber
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

kenneth walters
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sharon R Fortunak
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Anthony Fleury
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Maria Teresa Agozzino
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Evelyn McChesney
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nicole Casebolt
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Richard Baker
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kathleen Ventrella
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Richard Burlage
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dennis Finn
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sara Sims
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Judith Knouff
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Lippner
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Evelyn McChesney
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Inez Goodin
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cathy Zimmerman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sharon R Fortunak
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nicole Casebolt
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Krumrein
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Tom Hicks
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

jessica mitchell
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

James Cooley
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Diane Berl
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Judith Knouff
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Cobb
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

James Cooley
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Carmody
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Richard Baker
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Inez Goodin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Chris Lewis
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Claudia Petrikowski
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kathleen Ventrella
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Pat Hobbs
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Chris Lewis
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Kathi Kibbel
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jim Davis
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Luke Steichen
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nancy K Simpson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nancy K Simpson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jill Brothers
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Etta Robin
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Pat Hobbs
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dylan Nguyen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Pamela Mitchell
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Donna Ford
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Gregory MD
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kate Crowley
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Luke Steichen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Janet Rafferty
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Barron Black
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jessica Luna
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Gregory MD
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nancy K Simpson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nancy K Simpson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

James Hildebrand
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kate Crowley
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Barron Black
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michelle Carter
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rich Barrett
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Richard Knablin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Janet Rafferty
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

William Sutton
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jason O'Reilly
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Patricia Wilson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brandye Brown
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michelle Carter
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Shannon Milhaupt
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Debbie Imhoff
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dean Mcmillen
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Matthew Mochel
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kym Waugh
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Richard Burlage
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Donna Ford
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Constanza Correa
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Pamela Brocious
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

William Sutton
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

James Hildebrand
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Shannon Milhaupt
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Patricia Wilson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Stephen Wilcoxon
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cynthia Mahlau
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Judy Romanowski
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carol Verdicchio
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Richard Knablin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Kestella
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. R. Zierikzee
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Vinny McElhiney
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Julia VandeGrift
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

VIRGINIA ARADIO
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lloyd Loring
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carol Verdicchio
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael B Wisper
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bob Keeland
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Phillip C'de Baca
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Debi Aldrich
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Melissa Mazias
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Andrew Locatelli
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lilly Knuth
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Judy Romanowski
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Vic Berry
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Mike Michael Seyfried
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dean Mcmillen
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Longobucco
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Helen Rynaski
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated, and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Deborah Gouge
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jona Petrikowski
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. S. Chapek
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Debi Aldrich
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Eric Magers
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Mike Michael Seyfried
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jamie Gannon
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kym Waugh
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Scott Krauser
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Melissa Lamkin
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Eric Weissberg
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Luanne Sievers
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Longobucco
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Longobucco
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Phillip C'de Baca
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lorrie Ogren
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Eric Magers
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lilly Knuth
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Deborah Gouge
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Luanne Sievers
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Niendorf
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary Wood
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sherry Sprayberry
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Victor Tweed
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Heidi Carton
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Helen Rynaski
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ronald Nowicki
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Geoffrey Fisher
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jamie Gannon
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Eric Weissberg
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Miklos Bosarge
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

kathy jongsma
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Priscilla Harrier
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Philo Caps
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sherry Sprayberry
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Heather Miller
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Miklos Bosarge
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Daly
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Adam Pastula
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Diana Washburn
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ashley Lewis
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Heather Miller
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Av Harville
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

James Ward
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dan Michaud
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

kathy jongsma
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jan Tyler
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Anne Alexander
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Priscilla Harrier
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Catherine Breen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Geoffrey Fisher
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

E. Ingrid Anderson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Alva Johnson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kristi Smith
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Melissa Hughes
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Richard Plancich
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Diana Washburn
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joseph Appleton
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Catherine Breen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kristi Smith
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Alva Johnson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kim Nero
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Catherine Gould
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kim Nero
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

E. Ingrid Anderson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Katherine B. White
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Melody Smith
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Alan Holt
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Catherine Gould
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joseph Appleton
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Karla Klueter
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bo Baggs
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carl Kalisvaart
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carol Keck
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Karen Burroughs
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Alan Holt
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marilyn Brunger
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kathy Schreibeis
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sue Wilkin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bo Baggs
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

MJ Timmins
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Beverly Rae
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Melody Smith
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bill Acord
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Av Harville
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Matthew Janusauskas
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carol Keck
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Karen Burroughs
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Glen Pappas
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kurk Schoner
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Patricia Hilleary
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brookie Judge
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kara Graul
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sandy Ma
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kurk Schoner
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Richard Wilson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Patrick A. Sigala
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carl Kalisvaart
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

MJ Timmins
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Clancy
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Karla Klueter
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Theresa Willis
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Glen Pappas
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brookie Judge
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bita Edwar
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Andrew P Connolly
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Justin Madia
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kathy Schreibeis
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert McGeachie
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

P. Melanie Vliet
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Patricia Collins
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marilyn Brunger
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sandy Ma
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bita Edwar
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Eileen Weisinger
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mark Davis
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jerry Ravnitzky
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Samuel Austin
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Theresa Willis
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

James Bumgarner
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Judith Adrian
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bill Gilbert
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Clancy
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Gelder
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tammy Routley
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Eileen Weisinger
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ray wenrich
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

James Bumgarner
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

adam kaplan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Samuel Austin
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

William Gerdes-McClain
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rich Meier
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Roger Rohe
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

shawn thomas
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jerry Ravnitzky
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Andrew P Connolly
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

William Gerdes-McClain
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Larry Van Gelder
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gary kurkowski
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lynne Glaeske
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

George Garcia
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Justin Madia
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

sarah gilbert
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lauri Rizio
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brian Paul
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lauri Rizio
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

sarah gilbert
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gary kurkowski
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tim Kellerman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cris Usher
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Christian Hobbes
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Leonard Silver
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cherryl Friedman
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

George Garcia
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ray wenrich
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nikisha Ross
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kay Ware
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cherryl Friedman
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Pamela Scott
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brian Paul
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Wallace Rhine
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nancy Harlow
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Leonard Silver
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carol Affleck
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joan Conca
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Arlene Renshaw
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Leonard Houghtaling
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cris Usher
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Pamela Scott
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jeri Sawall
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Jon McWilliams
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Leslie Lindsay
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marleen Neus
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cameron Mosley
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nancy Harlow
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jim Watkins
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Leslie Lindsay
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

B Bergeron
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Runa Schlaffer
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joan Wilson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Andrew Locatelli
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rachel C
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Shirley Harrington-Moore
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Shirley Harrington-Moore
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joan Conca
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marleen Neus
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Theresa M. Johnson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Andrea Ferrari
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jim Watkins
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cameron Mosley
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cathie Ernst
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Pat Mace
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Theresa M. Johnson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

J. Brian Graham
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cordale Brown
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mark Lusch
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Pat Mace
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mayra Garcia - Hughes
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

B Bergeron
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Runa Schlaffer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Arlene Renshaw
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Paula Surmann
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cordale Brown
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joan Wilson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lee Pritchard
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

George Ludwig
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mayra Garcia - Hughes
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sharon Bourke
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kristin Gallanosa
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lee Pritchard
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Wil Levine
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mark Lusch
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

faye karson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Paula Surmann
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

George Ludwig
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Judy Landress
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Benoit Muracciole
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Stacey Gunderson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Judith Snider
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kristin Gallanosa
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

William Wallin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

William Wallin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

shemayim elohim
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Judith Denham
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

S. E. Williams
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

N Refes
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Judy Landress
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Heather Fox
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carl Prellwitz
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cray Ross
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

William Wallin
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Heather Fox
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

JANET Carmichael
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael weiner
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gary Haven
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robin Craft
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

James Kelbaugh
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Young Klessig
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary Young
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Grover Gregory
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cray Ross
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carl Prellwitz
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Pam Spritzer
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

JANET Carmichael
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

S. E. Williams
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sharon Bourke
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sergey Falko
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Young Klessig
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susan Klein
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Wendy Tokuda
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Bower
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Laura Regan
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Terry
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Daniel Demetzky
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Eliz Hunter
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kenneth Hughes
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Julie Brou
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Donna Myhre
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Wayne Langford
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Frank Rouse
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cheryl Rebischung
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Heather Sanchez
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Barbara Bailly
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brian Grau
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

BP needs to pay all of it.

Sincerely,

Thomas Bolker
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Terry
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Shawn Tays
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susan Dunaway
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cameron Dillon
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Barbara Bailly
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Heather Sanchez
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

jEANET MCGEE
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ronald Paige  MSG USA Ret
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Joyce O Raby
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sergey Falko
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brian Grau
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susan Klein
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Shawn Tays
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Bower
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robin Craft
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Daniel Demetzky
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Margo Salone
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

MARY JO KUFFNER
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cameron Dillon
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

vicki hughes
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kenneth Hughes
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joyce Kaechele
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Karen Rivers
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Larry Lepley
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Betty Neuenschwander
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Daniel Saltz
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Max C
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Annapurna Moffatt
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Max C
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Stewart Smythe
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

melissa fleming
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Stephen Girard
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Erik Montalvo
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Deborah Sevy
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lisa Stimpson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Frank Rouse
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Constanza Correa
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Karen Rivers
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Anita Moeder
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kim Dicey
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Erik Montalvo
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Myra Rieger
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jan Emerson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Patti Rospert
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Larry Lepley
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Alex Mattson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sharon Newman
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Melissa VerDuin
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lynn Eland
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rita F.
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tricia Murphy
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Wanda Walker
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lisa Stimpson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Anthony Stratton
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

BOB HAGELE
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Deborah Sevy
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joyce Kaechele
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lynn Mansfield
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael McConaghy
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Myra Rieger
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Anita Moeder
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Herman Schiller
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

michael forcade
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rita F.
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Patsy Lowe
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lynn Mansfield
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jan Emerson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Penny Pearce
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dolores Congdon
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Anthony Stratton
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dr T Mikus
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lynn Eland
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tricia Murphy
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

michael forcade
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Herman Schiller
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Annapurna Moffatt
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dr T Mikus
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Haavind
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mrs. Elizabeth Butler
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nelson Baker
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Daviann McClurg
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Stewart Smythe
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Penny Pearce
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Burton Jaffe
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Garitty
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

James Hickman
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Patsy Lowe
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

linda paleias
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Constance Sutton
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lorraine Weber
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Eldon Haines
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nelson Baker
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Doris Henry
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Doris Henry
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Doris Henry
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Corry Schafer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sandra Farkas
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

James Hickman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Laurie Davis
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bill Vom Weg
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Egli Veronika und Andreas
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms Jackie L Tryggeseth
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Laura Herndon
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Doris Henry
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Anne-Marie Mallon
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Garitty
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

tom van lear
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

LISA PATTON
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

tom van lear
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kenneth Hughes
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Elizabeth Taylor
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Paula Crook
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

LISA PATTON
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Judy Bumgarner
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jennifer Scott
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Egli Veronika und Andreas
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Linda Smith
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Weiner
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Amanda Summers
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jennifer Scott
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ruth Candio
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ann Lazaroff
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Elizabeth Taylor
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Madeleine Lee
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

