The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Barry Goldfarb
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

robert roth
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Evan McDermit
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Barry Goldfarb
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ann Sikes
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mark Bruns
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Holly Williams
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cliff Johnson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lorrie McFatridge
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lorrie McFatridge
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Julie Clayman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mrs. Jeanette Capotorto
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Barbara Rosenzweig
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jennifer Hayes
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cliff Johnson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Gladys Murphy
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joseph Sul
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Peter Kraniotakis
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Perry Johnson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jennifer Hayes
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Russell Griffin
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Gladys Murphy
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bunni Steele
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Currie Barron
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Peter Kraniotakis
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Perry Johnson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bunni Steele
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lauren Bouyea
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joseph Sul
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Virginia Miller
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Eve Himmelheber
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

James Noordyk
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lorrie McFatridge
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lauren Bouyea
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Griesi
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

James Noordyk
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Eve Himmelheber
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Vivian Griffin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Julia Elzinga
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Griesi
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lyle Collins
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kimberly McConkey
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael J Fergot
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Raymer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Greg Sutherland
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Cort
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Aleda Richardson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cristy Murray
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Cort
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Aleda Richardson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Anna Simle
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

M M
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jennifer Wittlinger
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Daniel Levitt
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Steve Cardell
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Anna Simle
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Justin Maul
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Donald Begalke
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jennifer Wittlinger
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Elizabeth Martel
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jeff Silvani
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Colleen Paul
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Elizabeth Martel
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jim Hemmingsen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Colleen Paul
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David McAllen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

marjorie angelo
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ivan Egersdorfer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David McAllen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Paul C Barry
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Taylor Gillespie
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Barbara Stanford Tanguma
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jill Berliner
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tom Edwards
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

James Noordyk
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

JG Zettergren
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

marilyn cohen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Thomas Delegal
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kimberly Perszyk
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Taylor Gillespie
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carolyn Sweeney
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Barbara Stanford Tanguma
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Monica Firely
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lisa Graves
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

KEVIN SMITH
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jacomina Newman-Osmon
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Douglas Donehoo
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nancy Bennett
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

R Roy Johnson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

George Neste
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Julia Elzinga
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lisa Graves
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nicole Scott-Harris
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jacomina Newman-Osmon
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Douglas Donehoo
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Leslie Jenkins
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Thomas Milcarek
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nicole Scott-Harris
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

R Roy Johnson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carolyn Sweeney
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nancy Bennett
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Patricia Doyle
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

KEVIN SMITH
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Burjor Dastur
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Thomas Milcarek
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Leslie Jenkins
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Richard Berger
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Matthew Maloney
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary Mason
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Thomas Klusaritz
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Anne Martin
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Thomas Klusaritz
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Roberto Romo
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary Mason
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jim Geear
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Roger H. H Harrell
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Roberto Romo
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sandra Vieth
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marco Pardi
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

James Glucoft
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Katherine Lawrence
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jim Geear
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Vijay Sheldan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marco Pardi
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

James Glucroft
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bill Graham
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mark Phillips
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mrs. Patricia Gallo
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Donna Hayes
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Barbara Michel
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Vijay Sheldan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Karen Jenne
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sharon Delaney
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bob Moyer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Colin Hart
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sally kaufmann
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Pat Chambers
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Loretta Lehman
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Edward Moore
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Karen Jenne
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Courtney Riches
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Courtney Riches
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

James Dawson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Scott Wiliamson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Loretta Lehman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Peter DiSpigno
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Edward Moore
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Pam Rensch
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Scott Wiliamson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Royal Tetteemer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Glisan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Royal Tettemer
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marcia Kent
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Elsa Johnson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

James Dawson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Glisan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joyce Brown
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brian Waak
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dimitri Marek
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marcia Kent
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Herman S. Simms, Jr.
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jan Mosgofian
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lara Wright, MD
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nan Weilage
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mrs. Terri Barreras
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Letty Perez
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mrs. Terri Barreras
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lara Wright, MD
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Judith Zetting
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nancy McRae
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marie Fontana
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tracey Vetter
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Letty Perez
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ann Davidson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jane Butler
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

SALLY SPELBRING
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Judith Zetting
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Geller
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Karen Shivley
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jane Butler
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nancy McRae
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Karen Shivley
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kay Glisan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ellen O Wasfi
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Deborah Wertz
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Springer
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Macyle Candela
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Barbara Damm
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Springer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

susan zarzycki
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Macyle Candela
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Barbara Damm
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

susan zarzycki
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

KELLEY BURTT
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Henry Lahey
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

William D
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Christine Amisano
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jeanine Lord
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

William D
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

William Navran
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Patricia Mcfarlane
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jeanine Lord
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

KELLEY BURTT
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Isalien Jamar
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Theo Giesy
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

James Fydrych
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

susie hannam maggs
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joan Chryst
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mark Grossman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Matthew A.
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sarah (Sally) Cole
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lori Richardson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

susie hannam maggs
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Barbara Kent
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

K.G.H. Nicholes
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Toop
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lynette Coffey
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Haslag
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sherry Monie
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Martin
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sarah (Sally) Cole
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Edward Kush
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

s Forrest
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Francis Scalzi
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Edward Kush
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Pam Morarre
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Patricia Mcfarlane
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Pam Morarre
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Townill
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Paula Shafransky
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nelia Greene
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Townill
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Paula Shafransky
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Eve Saglietto
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gloria Mallet
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gloria Mallet
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Diana Rankin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Judy Ilan
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

madelaine moir
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Diana Rankin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Eve Saglietto
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Camp
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

madelaine moir
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Pieter Hull
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robyn Phillips
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Kay Cunningham
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Shannon Wylam
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Herman Best
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Pieter Hull
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sandi Walters
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Aaron Hubbell
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Judy Ilan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robyn Phillips
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ana Rodriguez
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Herman Best
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ana Rodriguez
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Elinor Yahm
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Aaron Hubbell
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Shannon Wylam
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mrs. Patricia Gallo
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

susie M
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Blaine Gott
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

sandra arapoudis
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sarah Sheets
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Glenn Frantz
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Alexander Goncharenko
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

sandra arapoudis
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Silvia Cappi
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Glenn Frantz
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Elinor Yahm
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

T Capshaw
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Evelyne Lapouge
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sarah Sheets
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Alexander Goncharenko
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Silvia Cappi
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Erin Sandler
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Rob Bagley
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Stephen Lum
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Dennis Wayne Allen
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Matt Brewer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Erin Sandler
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

monroe edwin jeffrey,
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kevin Moran
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Rob Bagley
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Don Hill
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

William Navran
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Fran Sears
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

A Adams
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sandra Taylor
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

monroe edwin jeffrey
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Don Hill
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kevin Moran
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Todd
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Denise Lenardson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mrs. Marilyn Waltasti
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Fran Sears
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Fay Benson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Renee Landuyt
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Donald Jackson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

A Adams
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Laurette Culbert
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mrs. Marilyn Waltasti
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ellen Johnson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Eleanor Rodda
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tobi Wilde
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Beatrice Kozak
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Laurette Culbert
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Marian Cooley
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joan McCormick
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

ms. sandra silva
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

ms. sandra silva
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joan McCormick
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Abler
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kathy Kibbie
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Bartlett
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jenneane Breidenbach
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Irwin Schpok
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kathy Kibbie
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Bartlett
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

James R Monroe
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Prior
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joel Kaplan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Abler
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

James R Monroe
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Subina Garyet
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sabrina Fiodorow
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Donna Charlap
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Monique Edwards
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Debbie Sayre
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Adele Meroni
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joel Kaplan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sarah Gallagher
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Monique Edwards
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Fay Benson

Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rosemary Coffey
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sarah Gallagher
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Adele Meroni
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Pete Cooper
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Eileen Daniel
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Den Stetter
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Stephanie Schueler
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joan Viers
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Cooper
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Frost
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Cabe
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael J Kalafut
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Cabe
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cal Lash
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rosemary Coffey
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Paul Werstein
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Liz Amsden
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joan Viers
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cal Lash
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Cabe
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Duncan Brown
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Eileen Daniel
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brandon Kozak
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Christy Lewis
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mrs. Diane Clark
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Shane Pyles
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Applebaum
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Doug Poore
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Barb Crumpacker
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Deborah Friend
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Deborah Friend
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mrs. Diane Clark
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Pamela Townsend
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Alan Guma
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tiffany Snyder
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nick Szumlas
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Barb Crumpacker
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Pamela Townsend
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rita Montague
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tiffany Snyder
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

lisa simonin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nick Szumlas
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

lisa simonin
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Steve Ridley
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Georgia and John Locker
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carolyn LaBerta
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carolyn LaBerta
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Applebaum
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Steve Ridley
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jerome McGinn
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bob Baxter
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Douglas Mitchell
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bruce Cratty
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Martha Diaz
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bruce Cratty
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

James Conway
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dick Hogle
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kay Prather
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dick Hogle
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

James Conway
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

RedLion York
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Douglas Mitchell
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Martha Diaz
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joanne Bruggemann
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Keven Johansen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Debra Edelaton
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Elizabeth Morris Downie
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Black
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

D Rex Miller
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joanne Bruggemann
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

[Redacted]

Margaret Walker
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Keven Johansen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Aida Brenneis
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

D Rex Miller
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Margaret Walker
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Pat Barnes
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Burton Steck
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Aida Brenneis
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carolyn Ryan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Pat Barnes
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Holly Brown
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Em Crone
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jeannie Smith
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kristina Lamons
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Richard W. Alexander
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kristina Lamons
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Howard Weiss
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Em Crone
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Iltis
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jeannie Smith
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Harrington
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Howard Weiss
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,
Line Ringgaard
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Harrington
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dorothea Stephan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Iltis
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dorothea Stephan
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Roxanne Williams
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Line Ringgaard
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Roxanne Williams
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sherrylee Felger
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Halena Seiferling
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rai Montalvo
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sherrylee Felger
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susan Fladager
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carol Pennington
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rai Montalvo
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jennifer Elsbury
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Greg Grieman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kenneth Miller
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bobbie Turner
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Steven Wojcik
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carol Pennington
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tina Lynch
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bobbie Turner
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Teresa Yi
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susan Fladager
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Shonna Davis
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Teresa Yi
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John & Sandy Zinn
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brian Colleran
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Konstantina Balaska
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Why should I pay taxes if large corporations don't?

Sincerely,
Kay Sloan
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ernst Mecke
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brian Colleran
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Burwasser
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

benson hausman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Debi Mueller
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jane Berry
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kay Sloan
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Konstantina Balaska
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Judge Leverich
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Burwasser

[Redacted]
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Arnn
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Frank Asturino
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Renee Burcham
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brent Anderson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Arnn
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

June Green
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Norma Harri
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jym Dyer
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Frank Asturino
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Andrew Levesque
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

June Green
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Norma Harri
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Patty Poock
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Frank Fredenburg
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Andrew Levesque
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brianna Cervantez
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bill Mayers
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Drew Degen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Shari Petrie
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rowan Everard
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nancy Booth
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Todd
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Patty Poock
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Goodman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rowan Everard
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Shari Petrie
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carol Fly
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Wanda Webber Snyder
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

suzanne zelnik geldys
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Shannon Whitmore
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Goodman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Yefim Maizel
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Chris Alfano
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bruce Higgins
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Wanda Webber Snyder
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Beverly Herbert
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bruce Higgins
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Shannon Whitmore
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Drew Pelton
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gloria J Howard
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Yefim Maizel
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kairen Brooke-Anderson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Drew Pelton
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Vivian Duong
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Larissa Matthews
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jan Toister
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rob Weinberg
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,
Josef Luftman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Larissa Matthews
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Vivian Duong
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mike Kane
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Josef Luftman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Toni Mabry
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lori Leigh
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rob Weinberg
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mike Kane
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jeff Pekrul
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Toni Mabry
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lori Leigh

Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

larry baird
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

William Williams
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jeff Pekrul
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

larry baird
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Dunn
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joseph Rzeczycki
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kym Garcia
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dave Bilski
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

William Short
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joseph Rzeczycki
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Phillip Noe
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Melissa Kallick
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Alan Reynolds
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Richard Swain
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Prellwitz
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brian Ainsley
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Alan Reynolds
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Melissa Kallick
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Neil Prater
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brian Ainsley
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Steven K. McKendall
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joseph Weiss
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Neil Prater
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Pete Wilson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joni K Lamb
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Prellwitz
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bridget Hinojosa
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joseph Weiss
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

douglas werner
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joni K Lamb
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bridget Hinojosa
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nancy Parker
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Georgina Wrigh
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Schmittauer
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Schmittauer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Raelyn Michaelson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ken Lengel
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Molly Flaherty
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Cannell
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Piero Soligo
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Raelyn Michaelson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Piero Soligo
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Molly Flaherty
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

C Foglietta
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Paola Dejesus
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Abigail Bates
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

C Foglietta
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ann Sikes
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Noel Crim
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Sheardy
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Candace Jarrett
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jean Bevsek
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Abigail Bates
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Noel Crim
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dianne Gove
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Adam Schrader
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jean Bevsek
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Candace Jarrett
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Suzanne Watson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Peter B. Sweeny
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Adam Schrader
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rocco DeBellis
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dianne Gove
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Peter B. Sweeny
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Georgina Wrigh
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Judy Grosch
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Judy Grosch
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ted Leibowitz
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Leonard Polletta
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Suzanne Watson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ted Leibowitz
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

alan lee
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Stephen Haskell
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Laura Newman
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

alan lee
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Elroy Kursh
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Laura Newman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Stephen Haskell
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Phillip Hansen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Frances Harriman
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Anne Meyer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dennis Marceron
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dennis Keenan
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

V. Klubek
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dennis Marceron
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Laurie Schmidt
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dennis Keenan
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Laurie Schmidt
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tom Wind
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

V. Klubek
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Reginald Martin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dylan Jones
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Leonice Mertz
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Reginald Martin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Reginald Martin
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Heidi Supkis
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robin Gaffney
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tom Wind
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sharon Sprouse
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sharon Sprouse
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joyce TenEyck
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Debbie Bonnet
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Margaret Hooper
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Debbie Bonnet
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Ristig
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Maureen Peterson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary Furlong
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Margaret Hooper
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Deborah Dobson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary Furlong
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

George Spruill
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Asano Fertig
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gregory Rice
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mark Schiller
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Todd Fisk
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Asano Fertig
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

William Parkinson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Todd Fisk
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Steve Donley
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Barbara Wyler
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jack West
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mark Schiller
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

William Parkinson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Leslie Gold
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tulsi Milliken
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jack West
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cathi Rigsby
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Ristig
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Steve Christian
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Steve Christian
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marlene Bertke
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rik Masterson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kristin Klass
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jude Hyzen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

S Logan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nancy Duke
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Steve Christian
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Steve Christian
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cathi Rigsby
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kristin Klass
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brad Mallory
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marlene Bertke
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Marion Tidwell
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mrs. Phyllis Erwin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jude Hyzen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sherrill Barbary
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Inge Wagner
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Debby Roegner
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rik Masterson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

S Logan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nancy Duke
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Marion Tidwell
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Debby Roegner
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brad Mallory
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Drew Martin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marian Ueki
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Daniel Hutka
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mark King
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jack Conklin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cord Monroe
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Patience Heyworth
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mark King
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Patience Heyworth
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cord Monroe
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ellen Sanford
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marcia Dale-LeWinter
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ak Griffin
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Patrick Bosold
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sharon B.
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cindy Mannhalter
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marcia Dale-LeWinter
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ellen Sanford
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

JoAnn Polley
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Patrick Bosold
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marian Ueki
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ak Griffin
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carol Reitschky
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Fayten El-Dehaibi
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary True
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Fayten El-Dehaibi
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ruth Heath
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cindy Mannhalter
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nancy O
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

stacy parr
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

M J Strimbu
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Janice Vranka
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nancy O
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary True
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tim Atwater
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Paulette Fiehrer
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Liz Krum
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Liz Krum
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

M J Strimbu
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Melissa Gaskins
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jay & Cathy Harter
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nancy Wooten
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dr. Scott Whitener
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mrs. Carol F Castonguay
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Paula Ozzello
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jay & Cathy Harter
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dr. Scott Whitener
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kellie Smith
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brendan Connell
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Paula Ozzello
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Doris Maha
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brian T Truax
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ginger Schedler
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jamie Heath
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jamie Heath
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ginger Schedler
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brian Truax
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brendan Connell
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joseph De Feo
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Alex Nielsen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Douglas Fedele
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

A Fenn
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

curtis rehfuss
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Douglas Fedele
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Patrick Russell
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Anne Perkins Perkins
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jane Nachazel
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Ireland
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Alex Nielsen
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Douglas Fedele
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Anne Perkins Perkins
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Angela Negri
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sarah Cooke
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Matthew Franck
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mark Trumbull
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Angela Negri
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Matthew Franck
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Elizabeth Dawson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jim Mee
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marilyn McMullen
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Vicki Kruschwitz
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jim Mee
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joseph De Feo
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

thomas reif
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Elizabeth Dawson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Melvin Bautista
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Debbie Baughman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Norm Hartz
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mark Wirth
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Julia Ortiz
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Vicki Kruschwitz
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Debbie Baughman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary Goodman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Norm Hartz
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Angie Affolter
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mark Wirth
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Matthew Boguske
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

lee williams
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Peter Carafides
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Misty Speck
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jonathan Sampson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Richard Lamb
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Valeria Santos
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Louise Miller
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Karen Dahmer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Karen Dahmer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Peter Fagan
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jack Bubenick
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Richard Lamb
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Louise Miller
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Julia Ortiz
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Walter Zasadnyj
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Fred Madden
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Walter Zasadnyj
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary Lou Ramirez
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jack Bubenick
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,
Harald Grote
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

G D Abbott
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Deborah Dobson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Betsy Eaton
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary Lou Ramirez
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Randall Herz
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Angie Affolter
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Louise Mann
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Alana Mawson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Randall Herz
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carolyn Johnson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Crombie
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Alana Mawson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Greg Skutches
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Catherine Elverston
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Greg Skutches
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ellen Segal
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Crombie
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carolyn Johnson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jeff Regel
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Galina Heuer
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

E GLick
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ellen Segal
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Abby Dahlquist
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Matthew Boguske
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Galina Heuer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Loree Stinson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mike Kelly
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jeff Regel
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Orion Corcilius
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kinney Evitt
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carolyn Kenton
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kinney Evitt
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mike Kelly
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Cox
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Loree Stinson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robyn Johnson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Gloria Hafner
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carolyn Kenton
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Cox
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Patricia Andersen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Gloria Hafner
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Christopher McConnell
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lesley Brill
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

bonnie corey
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robyn Johnson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Miss Jean Marie VanWinkle
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Aaron Rainbolt
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

bonnie corey
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lesley Brill
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Paul Merrell
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Arlene Epperson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Ferguson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Aisha Farhoud
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michelle Morales
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Ferguson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ralph Palmer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kairen Brooke-Anderson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ryan Harlow
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Aisha Farhoud
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michelle Morales
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Thelma Follett
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Bugbee
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr James Mulcare
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Helen Yeomans
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kathleen Koch
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ryan Harlow
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Wendy Li
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr James Mulcare
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Chris McGratty
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gail Goodell
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Thelma Follett
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Bugbee
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Anthony Gatenby
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Paul & Nancy McEuen
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Alice Bradshaw
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Maria Cruz
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dona Carbone
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Janice Macaulay
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kathleen Koch
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Doug Jablin
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

KAREN JONES
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Edward Rowell
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Wendy Li
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Maria Cruz
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tim Speirs
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

KAREN JONES
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Doug Jablin

Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ann Leonard
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Edward Rowell
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Patzke
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tim Speirs
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

William O'Hare
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Len Lorette
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

William O’Hare
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Kantner
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Stephen Friedrick
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Barbara H
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Shay Chan Hodges
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Heather Ruckman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Petty
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Stephen Friedrick
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Petty
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda McClendon
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Alice Kelly
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Judy Habib
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Alice Kelly
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Penny Altman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Donald
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rosemary Scully
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Pat Halderman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Erma Lewis
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda McClendon
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Pat Halderman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rosemary Scully
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Patricia Katz
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Matthew Gray
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Elliot Pliner
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bo Breda
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Thomas Cox
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Matthew Gray
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Vincent Nicoletti
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cheryl Dzubak
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Donald
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cheryl Dzubak
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Alice Ross
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joshua Saks
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Vincent Nicoletti
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sheila Siegel
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cynthia Morgan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Carpenter
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Alice Ross
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Elisabeth Holder
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

tamarra walden
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jamie Reynolds
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jennifer Kardiak
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary Helen Venos
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Harman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mark Hollinrake
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cynthia Morgan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marie Schopac
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Carpenter

Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jamie Reynolds
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Elisabeth Holder
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michele Balfour
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Steve Bloom
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Camille Gilbert
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mark Hollinrake
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Camille Gilbert
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michele Balfour
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marie Schopac
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Yvette Irwin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Emil Montaneli
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mark Hanisee
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susan Shapira
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Hector R. Amaro
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Anne Munitz
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Audrey Samelson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lyle Dougherty
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Abbott
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Subrata Sircar
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Paul Van Steenberghe
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Hector R. Amaro
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jeff Carter
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. B.a. McClintock
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Emil Montaneli
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Stadelman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Prof. Denise J. Tartaglia
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michelle Murphy
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Audrey Samelson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dale Peterson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tom Thomas
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Harlisa Asumen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nancy Lang
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ruth Hooper
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tom Thomas
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dale Peterson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Regina Hudgins
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Chris McGratty
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lynne Preston
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Paul Van Steenberghe
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Walling
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carol Sears
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joan Pajewski
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lynne Preston
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Steven Harris
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Becky Arney
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tom Brink
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

William Magee
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Walling
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mark Gowan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Becky Arney
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

William Magee
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Karen Greenleaf
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tom Brink
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Beverly Farr
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Wallace
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Edwin Holmberg
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

H. Guh
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

H. Guh
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Georgeanne Samuelson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Curt Peterson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Pat Dunn
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Beverly Farr
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susan Coen
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sharon Smead
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Edwin Holmberg
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Day
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Suzanne Cook
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Wallace
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sharon Smead
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Georgeanne Samuelson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Suzanne Cook
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Steve Overton
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely, A Baddeley

Andrea Baddeley
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Steve Overton
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ann Shanklin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Donald Lanktree
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ann Shanklin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lorraine Heagy
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lucia Durand
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Donald Lanktree
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

laura braggiotti
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Andrea Baddeley
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Brandes
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Patrick Sullivan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gerard F. Gaudin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lorraine Heagy
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lorraine Lowry
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Paul Markillie
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gerard F. Gaudin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Edward McAninch
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Patrick Sullivan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kristen Lowry
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Suzanne Saunders
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jiazhu Zhang
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nannette Gover
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Priscilla Klemic
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Phyllis Perna
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nannette Gover
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mike Eads
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Irena Franchi
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Margo Margolis
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Doris (Jody) Wilson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Suzanne Saunders
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jiazhu Zhang
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Katrina Yurenka
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Catherine Palmer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Suzanne F Hedrick
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Shay Chan Hodges
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary F
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Phyllis Perna
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Katrina Yurenka
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Beverly Smalley
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nancy Link
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Doris (Jody) Wilson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Doris (Jody) Wilson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Irena Franchi
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Broadwater
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Elizabeth Ferguson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susan LoFurno
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Denise Vandermeer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susan LoFurno
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brenda Wyrick
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Sgambati
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Broadwater
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

lucas lenhert
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Teresa Quinones
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Denise Vandermeer
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Julie Viken
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brenda Wyrick
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Teresa Quinones
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

lucas lenhert
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Doreen Charest
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Lieblein
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Julie Viken
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Annah Gardner
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Anthony Condelli
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Diana Leonard
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dana Eppstein
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Lieblein
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Doreen Charest
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

E.g. Leffelaar
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Annah Gardner
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dana Eppstein
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susan Flyer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Juliet Pearson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

I am counting on your leadership.

Sincerely,

Susan Swan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

E.g. Leffelaar
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Laurie Kuntz
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susan Flyer
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Laurie Kuntz
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

William Smart
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Buford Goodwin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Andrew Sharp
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Andrew Sharp
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brenda Newton
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Stuart Lynn
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Corinne Pettey
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Peter Vann
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rick Potthoff
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gail Payne
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Patricia Moran
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Richelle Kogan
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brenda Newton
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gail Payne
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Fern Stearney
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Patricia Moran
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ralph Miner
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Charles Powers
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Melanie Dupre
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Malgorzata Picinska
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Corinna Hasbach
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Molly Huddleston
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Zoe Chapman
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Zoe Chapman
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Clare Farabaugh
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Malgorzata Picinska
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kathleen Perkins
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Corinna Hasbach
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Charles Powers
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Molly Huddleston
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tia Douglass
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Elissa Mericle-gray
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Clare Farabaugh
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dawn Mason
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Suzanne Armstrong
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bonny Bellville
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Theresa M. Campbell
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mark Moise
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Theresa M. Campbell
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ruby Cole
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Piotr Sliwka
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Alan Haggard
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Steve Deibele
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mark Moise
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Fran Tessmer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

michael teague
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

ronald saunders
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Chris Strickwerda
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Elissa Mericle-gray
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mark Grenard
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Michael Tomczyszyn
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jon Johnsen
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Greg Bell
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Michael Tomczyszyn
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Fran Tessmer
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Gabriel Sheets
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Andrew lii
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jaime Becker
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Chris Strickwerda
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Crystal Wolf
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Kathryn Johnson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jon Johnsen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Greg Bell
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tommy Morgan
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Steve Deibele
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Crystal Wolf
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mark Grenard
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Gabriel Sheets
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susanna Askins
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Karl Schumaker
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kenneth Reeves
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Natalie Brod
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nancy Hartman
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lenore Cymes
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

A. Utzman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jessica Beaudry
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jordan Lewis
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sean Robison
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Edmund Doran
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jessica Beaudry
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Malcolm Groome
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

A. Utzman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sean Robison
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Martha Mattes
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Malcolm Groome
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Christopher Pelham
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Edmund Doran
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joanne Coffey
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Martha Mattes
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary Ellen Miller
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

MaryAnn Gregory
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marcellus Armstrong
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dennis Miller
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dennis Miller
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Helen Wooll
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

J Michael Bossert
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

KL Eckhardt
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dr. Todd Walker
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Frannie Ruggiero
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Natascha Tarmann
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Alexandra Curran
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Helen Wooll
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Helen Wooll
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Frank B. Anderson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dr. Todd Walker
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Matt Kroner
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Alexandra Curran
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jennifer Morski
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Karen Jones
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Frannie Ruggiero
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Frank B. Anderson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jeffry Yaplee
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dennis Miller
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dennis Miller
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jennifer Morski
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jason Brock
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jason Brock
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Matt Kroner
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Karen Jones
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carter Neal
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

john harris
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joanne Osuna
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mark Martin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Luchsinger John
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carter Neal
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jean Wyman
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Beverly Eckman-Onyskow
Eckman-Onyskow
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Beverly Eckman-Onyskow Eckman-Onyskow
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carol Cline
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

john harris
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Anne Easterling
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

john harris
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jean Wyman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Anne Easterling
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

G P
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

G P
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Aquileo Hernandez

Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ellen Gold
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Roberta Branagan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Garrick Updyke
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mike Johnson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ellen Gold
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Miranda Friske
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mark Pride
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Garrick Updyke
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Daisy Bagnoli
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ted Whitney
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

JoAnne Wirtz Ryan
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, we urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Harry and Jill Brownfield
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Daisy Bagnoli
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

JoAnne Wirtz Ryan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Beth Warichak
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cathy Maravetz
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Andrea Alexander
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

E. Lee
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Connie Allison
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Terry Crogan
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rick Lanham
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

E. Lee
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Andrea Alexander
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Judith Hansell
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tom Tillery
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Connie Allison
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cherie Free
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Vernon Hill
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tlaloc Tokuda
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Trudi Budd
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carolyn Frazee
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nancy Godwin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Terry Crogan
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Stanley Brewer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Maureen A Absten RN
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mike Morrison
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lee Dietterich
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Todnem
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cherie Free
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Elise Marks
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dominic Roy
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rick Lanham
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Maureen A Absten RN
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jason Crawford
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Wendy Monterrosa
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Elise Marks
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dominic Roy
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jason Crawford
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gary Ostlund
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gary Ostlund
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sol Munves
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Steve Nicovich
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ina Cantrell
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joseph Kucak MSW, LCSW
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bonnie Gorman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Stewart Fisher
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mike Morrison
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joseph Kucak MSW, LCSW
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ken Balizer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bonnie Gorman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ina Cantrell
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Diane Hashem
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bonnie Steiger
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bruce Fischer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bonnie Steiger
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Diane Hashem
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susan R Clark
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

L.m. Holmes
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bruce Fischer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Steve Nicovich
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Neevel
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Reuben Litten
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nancy L Carl
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Stephanie Reynolds
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lisa Saltalamacchia
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dr Copas
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nathalie Cantin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Stephanie Reynolds
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dr Copas
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ed Elliott
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

India Rance
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joe Ward
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Harold T. Hodes
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lisa Saltalamacchia
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Noah Link
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susan Gardos
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Barbara Porter
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Billy Kemp
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Daphne Figueroa
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tom Leppala
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Colleen Sheely
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Suzanne Holden
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Bridges

Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Barbara Porter

Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Caroline Sévilla
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tom Leppala
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Daphne Figueroa
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Debra Ober
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Amy Marino
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Redding CPA
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brandon Gregg
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Bridges
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Debra Ober
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Florence Wagner
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Suzanne Holden
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

melissa miller
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Caroline Sévilla
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Amy Marino
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming ANY PORTION of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should NOT be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kathleen Watson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Peter Haroutian
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

melissa miller
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nancy Harrison
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brandon Gregg
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Redding CPA
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Peter Haroutian
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Heather Cross
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jenice Jackson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Moshe Adler
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jenice Jackson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jeanne Claridge
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Heather Cross
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mike Johnson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Laurie Willets
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joseph DeGruchy
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ronald Koshinz
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ronald Koshinz
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Laurie Willets
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rosiris Paniagua
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Jlva Masheder
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Flem Messer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Jlva Masheder
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rosiris Paniagua
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joseph DeGruchy
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dean Sherwood
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Anne Craddock
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Chris Scholl
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely, PAMELA

Pamela Wallace
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Chris Scholl
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Victoria Miller
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gene Peeper
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Victoria Miller
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Julie Garber
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Julie Garber
As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Norman Crouter
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

J A Trosper
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joan Miller
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Sansbury
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Corinne Dodge
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Adi S
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Thomas Owsiany
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Corinne Dodge
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

The U. family
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

The U. family
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joan Miller
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mark Gallegos

Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Kessler
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. John Keiser
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mark Gallegos
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brian Sparks
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

carol severe
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. John Keiser
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

bev lips
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Kessler
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mark Daharsh
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Sansbury
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Taylor Brown
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Eric Roth
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

The U. family
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lenny Obolsky
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Eric Roth
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Danielle Spitz
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lenny Obolsky
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

bev lips
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gary Torlone
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Catherine Williamson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Taylor Brown
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Denis Hillman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Danielle Spitz
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susan Anderson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carol Borota
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Miranda Friske
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Dowdell
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dr. Stanley Whitman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susan Anderson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dorothy Holtzman
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dianne Ensign
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rich & Eileen F. Heaning
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kevin Smith
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dr. Stanley Whitman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kim Kensinger
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kim Kensinger
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Houseman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rich & Eileen F. Heaning
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dianne Ensign
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marie-Claude Perigon
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kim Kensinger
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Houseman
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Daniel
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gary Golio
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ruth Bauer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sean Gallagher
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

J Shedd
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Alan Haggard
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Daniel
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Virginia Brandford
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ruth Bauer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

J Shedd
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Randall
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Christine Becker
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Janice Frankel
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jared Jackson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Patricia Godwin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Christine Becker
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brandon Sutton
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Laura Jensen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brandon Sutton
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Amy Henry
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

a mogavero
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Amy Henry
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Darryl Rodgers
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kevin Nguyen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Melissa Hutchinson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Darryl Rodgers
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Heather Scheiderer
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rita Heinz
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary Ann Rotondo
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kathleen Brown
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rev. Max Burg
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary Ann Rotondo
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rev. Max Burg
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sam Stamport
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rita Heinz
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Randall Riggins
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sam Stamport
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Roberto Freeman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Aimee Millensifer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

S Reiff
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lisa Barrett
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

William Christwitz
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Leonard Bottleman
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

KAYLEEN A DEVIER
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lisa Barrett
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Drew Roenneburg
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lyn Younger
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carol Dearborn
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Christine Lomaka
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dr. Helen E. Hughes, R.N.
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Drew Roenneburg
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary Ann Leitch
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

S Reiff
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

William Christwitz
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carol Dearborn
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Christine Lomaka
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ron Williams
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Veronica Ambler
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Scott Zellner
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Allison Alberts
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ellen Bardo
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Veronica Ambler
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Allison Alberts
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ron Williams
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rob Wilkerson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Stephanie Llinas
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Yvonne Zola
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rob Wilkerson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Stephanie Llinas
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Yvonne Zola
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Yvonne Zola
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ellen Bardo
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kyle Peterson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Yvonne White
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linc Conard
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Thomas Renninger
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Yvonne White
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Thomas Dawley
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Teresa Giddens
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

ROBIN NADEL
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

j. eggers
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linc Conard
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Henrik Fallian
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sabrina Carey
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kelsie Baltrusch
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Thomas Dawley
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

 Dear Attorney General Lynch:

 As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

 The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

 Sincerely,

 Marta Calleja
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kelsie Baltrusch
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

j. eggers
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sabrina Carey
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Henrik Fallian
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Jacqui Foster
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Max Kaehn
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Hillary Colby
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

G Amigon
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Spencer Campbell
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

James Julien
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

James Upp
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Susan C Thompson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

G Amigon
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Susan C Thompson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

James Julien
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Spencer Campbell
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Poulette Whitfield
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dave Segal
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Poulette Whitfield
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joseph Reel
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Virginia Brandford
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kim Kensler-Prager
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marie van Dijk
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kim Kensler-Prager
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joseph Reel
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jayne Carter
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

M L Quinn-Gruber
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mike McGilaway
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary Eisenfeld
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mike McGilaway
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jan Hunter
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Penny Patterson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Paul Duick
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

steve abrams
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary Blanchard
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

steve abrams
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Karen Lozow
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marcia Mathison
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susan Benton
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gary Dalecky
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Damon Mills
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. and Mrs. Cregg MCCULLIN
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bruce D. Johnson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Damon Mills
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Shonda Hannah
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Margaret Hasselman
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. and Mrs. Cregg MCCULLIN
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary Blanchard
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Fauna-June Fauth
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bruce Johnson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Peters
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Fauna-June Fauth
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Patrick Craig
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Peters
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Roche
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kev Suscavage
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kaydell Gaasvig
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Shonda Hannah
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Arnie Knudson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

C. Schandall
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kev Suscavage
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Richard Laba
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

C. Schandall
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

helen durant
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ann Zahner
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Fredric Salstrom
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Fredrick Seil
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Deborah Ludwig
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Alexandra Bryant
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Thomas Boyd
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Pat Rolston
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of theDeepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Brebner
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kerry Ellen Clark
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Thomas Boyd
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Brebner
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kerry Ellen Clark
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

manmeet toor
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Libba Campbell
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

manmeet toor
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Clinton Turnbough
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joanne Urban
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Libba Campbell
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Anthony Madejczyk
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Chad Alvarez
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Phillip Anderton
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bernard J Grisez
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kathleen Tracy
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

paulline bedford
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Anne Erikson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Frost
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

J. Lellinger
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nick Gaetano
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marsha StLouis
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

robert davidson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nick Gaetano
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Wolff
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ramona Krause
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bernard J Grisez
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Frost
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bernard J Grisez
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

paulline bedford
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kathleen Tracy
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Patrick Soby
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

robert davidson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Patrick Soby
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Christopher Coles
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Christopher Miller
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

J. Lellinger
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Annette Raible
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Paula Brungardt
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Elaine Edell
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Christopher Coles
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Anita Vogel
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Richard Dunn
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Edward Day
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Richard Dunn
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

D.e. Whitcomb
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ariel Marbury
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Leslie Mcculloughpayne
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brookrt Smith
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ariel Marbury
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brookrt Smith
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Paula Brungardt
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

D.e. Whitcomb
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Freya Goldstein
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gary McCuen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Coleman Davis
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joyce E. Holdread
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Geoffrey Pruitt
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Paul Servizio
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gary McCuen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Erika Lindsley
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marilyn Mueller
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Elizabeth Gricus
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

L. Nagel
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Elizabeth Gricus
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Paul Servizio
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lois Clymer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Newkirk
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tatiana Schlaffer
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

L. Nagel
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Coleman Davis
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marilyn Mueller
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lois Clymer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Wolff
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Heather Buchanan
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

William G. Webster, Sr.
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Alison Baker
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jill Hissom
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jill Hissom
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jill Hissom
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jill Hissom
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Meyer
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Audra Morse
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jamie Louis
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Stan Fitzgerald
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jamie Louis
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Katie Benbow
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gary Reese
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marcy Vaj
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Katie Benbow
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Eugene Frost
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Barbara Visota
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ray Davis
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Laura D
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

George Quasha
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carolyn Hinton
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dorothy Holtzman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lee Miller
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Amy DeSantis
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bea Shemberg
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Eli Edgecomb
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bea Shemberg
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Laura D
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joan Palmer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

ian burns
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Peter Hoysan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Vanessa Thibodeaux
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brandy Dominy
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jane Jatinen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dixie Mullineaux
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brandy Dominy
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Vanessa Thibodeaux
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Scott Johnson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joyce Branfman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Adam Daharsh
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Scott Johnson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dixie Mullineaux
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,
Karen Hayashida
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

bruce Gordon
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Justin McCullough
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Justin McCullough
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brandon Villella
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Theresa Smith
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Puca
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

James Moran
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sarah Doenmez
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Puca
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Elizabeth Bartolf
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

James Moran
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

kaatje Adams
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Muriel Edwards
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Elizabeth Bartolf
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ali Ö?üt
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

susan wilson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

kaatje Adams
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Art Rosenberg
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Albert Voegeli
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carol Berkowitz
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,
Karen Hayashida
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Albert Voegeli
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Julie Griffith
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

J. Gilbert
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

J. Gilbert
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

William Dane
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Andrew & Kathleen Wittenborn
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Beverly Bradshaw
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Andre Meaux
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

t brock
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Isaac Salazar
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Beverly Bradshaw
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Fer Jimenez
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Andre Meaux
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Andrew & Kathleen Wittenborn
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gary Lofgren
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

George Baldridge
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mark Gruettner
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Isaac Salazar
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lydia Levinson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Julie Wissinger
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Diane Yanas
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ellyn Sutton
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Judy DiAgosta
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Diane Yanas
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lynda Marigold
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ellyn Sutton
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Anderson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Frankie Harvey-Shea
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Julie Wissinger
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Anderson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Thomas Hawkins
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gloria Pilkington
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ali Ö?üt
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

George Baldridge
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Judy DiAgosta
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gloria Pilkington
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Andrew Politzer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Anna Thurman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jasmina Bricic
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jasmina Bricic
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Aaron Bonar
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Patricia LaRocco
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kathryn Brown
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying any more of the cost of it.

Sincerely,

James Connolly
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Alan DAVanzo
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kathy Bawel
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Smith
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ismael Baquedano
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Smith
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ismael Baquedano
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Alan DA'Avanzo
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Barb Scavezze
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

denbar denbar
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

robert swartenberg
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

chris koch
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Barb Scavezze
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

robert swartenberg
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

chris koch
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Andy Colee
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Libda Pullano
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Donald Cadenhead
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Wm Smith
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Eileen Conner
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Penny Potter
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Gebauer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jeff Crane
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Wm Smith
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Eileen Conner
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jeffrey Shuben
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

doug krause
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary Kay Szynskie
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

doug krause
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jeff Crane
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

James Stewart
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Penny Potter
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Janet Crist-Whitzel
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jeffrey Shuben
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

James Stewart
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Peter Maly
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kathleen Kaiser
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Barry James
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ursula Finkel
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sandra F Wilson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Barry James
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Janet Crist-Whitzel
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Thomas Lux
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Thomas Lux
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Edgar Cabral
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marilyn Rietzel
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Edgar Cabral
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rochelle Johnson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Braund
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rochelle Johnson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Katherine Leahy
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Constance Plumley
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Josephine and Frank Tosiello
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Loretta Fisher
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sean Sheeley
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Loretta Fisher
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cindy Parrone
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lucy Tyndall
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carrie Brummette
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Bob Rolsky
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lee Margulies
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Alan Smith
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rick Sparks
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carrie Brummette
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Walt Maruschak
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lucy Howard
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Bob Rolsky
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lucy Tyndall
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rick Sparks
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lucy Howard
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Alan Smith
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lawrence Brick
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nancy Fowlie
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Glenn Finch
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lawrence Brick
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Skip Cross
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Glenn Finch
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Skip Cross
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tanya McKown
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Don Robertson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Richard Stehlik
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tanya McKown
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Loewyn Young
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kye Quickel
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

William H
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Patricia Grenfell
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Melissa Hopkins
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Chelsee Boehm
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Paulson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Chelsee Boehm
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ann Berndt
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joan and Robert Bennett
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ann Berndt
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ann Berndt
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Yankaus
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Art Sweeny
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Steven Esposito
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Art Sweeny
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Matthew Vorstermans
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Pachter
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Matthew Vorstermans
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Calvin Mannes
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Hashi Hanta
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

S.P. Franklin
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dean Knauer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Laura Matturro
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Christina Maris
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sara Raskie
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dean Knauer
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

L B
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Elaine Livingston
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

[Redacted]
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

James Maloney
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

blue mcright
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Heidi Peters
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

James Maloney
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sara Raskie
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

blue mcright
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gerardo Fuentes
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Heidi Peters
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Pamela Jensen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marguerite Boyens
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Glenn Rape
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marguerite Boyens
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Pamela Jensen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

William Cannon
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gerardo Fuentes
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying any more of the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Margaret Dyson-Cobb
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Antonia Matthew
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Craig Peariso
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Eric Vance
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Craig Peariso
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jim Gallagher
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Eric Vance
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Antonia Matthew
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lydia Clarke
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Molly Wilson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gösta Montelius
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joanne Hesselink
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

C S
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lydia Clarke
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Courtney Birkett
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sara Lavenhar
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gösta Montelius
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Weller
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joanne Hesselink
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dennis Martin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Weller
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Charles Murray
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lynn Salter
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rebecca Kimsey
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jodi Beers
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Bell
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jill Hirschi
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Daniela Emery
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Pachter
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Beverly Cotton
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carolyn Pettis
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rebecca Kimsey
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Bell
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jill Hirschi
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carrie Darling
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Donald Fricker
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

William Bader
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jeffrey Hollar
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Diana Kostka
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Beverly Plaviak
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carrie Darling
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Karen Joslin
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carolyn Pettis
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

William Bader
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jodi Beers
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rita Santos Santos
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Louis Priven
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ira Levine
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nick Gillett
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kelly Pham
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jonathan Wilsnack
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Bertaina
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Donald Fricker
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rita Santos Santos
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jonathan Wilsnack
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gabriella Garofalo
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brian Zaborszki
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Angelic Rubalcava
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Bertaina
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

susi Westwood
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Karen Joslin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Claudia Cerda
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Angelic Rubalcava
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brian Zaborszki
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

russ ziegler
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jerry Smith
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gabriella Garofalo
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Meghan McCutcheon
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Wohlberg
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

russ ziegler
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

susi Westwood
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jeremy Stubbs
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jerry Smith
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

barbara neri
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Greg King
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Meghan McCutcheon
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it!

Sincerely,

Eric Edwards
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kymberlee Harris
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jeremy Stubbs
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Eric Edwards
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jack Green
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

barbara neri
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Greg King
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Johnson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Paula Kursh
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Matthew Crowther
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Paula Kursh
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Margaret B King
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rutvij Talavdekar
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rutvij Talavdekar
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gary Stephenson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kelly Pham
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gary Stephenson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Matthew Crowther
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Richard Crawford
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sandra McLuckie
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sandra McLuckie
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Romeo Tango
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Margaret B King
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Monet Shook
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Deborah Voves
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cheryl West
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Deborah Voves
debvoves@gmail.com
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Johnson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Chris Bradford
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Wallace & Cathleen Lambie
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jim Czerniak
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Chris Bradford
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jim Czerniak
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dale Shero
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bonnie Kenny
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dale Shero
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mark Levin
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Eric Horwitz
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Jim Hanley
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Larise Boughner
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Eric Horwitz
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Yolanda Ferguson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joseph Thompson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Frank Smith
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tess Husbands
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kenneth W Christlieb
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Robert Blumenthal
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tess Husbands
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Yolanda Ferguson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Hipsher
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Floyd O'Brien
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kurt Speidel
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Diana Wiley
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Robert Blumenthal
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ray Malinda
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Glenda McMurry
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kenneth W Christlieb
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jon Laubert
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sheila Owens
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Deborah Howard
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rich Panter
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

j j
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Frank Smith
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Hipsher
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lavonne Engelman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rich Panter
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kurt Speidel
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lavonne Engelman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joyce Case
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. William G Rose Jr
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

feliz nunez
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

feliz nunez
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

j j
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

jim Barber
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joy Heaviland
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Jane Engelsiepen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

jim Barber
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sharon Sullivan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marjorie Clisson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lori Lyles
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bill Johnson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Vanessa Carbia
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Pamela Rosar
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Christian Rocklein
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lori Lyles
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sharon Sullivan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carla Earl
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bill Johnson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

William Gotz
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bruce Hoeksema
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Diane Wynne
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dr. Anca Vlasopolos
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Vanessa Carbia
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joseph Hatch
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Karen Burke
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Beth Stanberry
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

C Pearson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Charles Bowman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tamera Bennett
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Diane Wynne
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. William G Rose Jr
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Karen Hedwig Backman

Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marlene Stalter
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joseph Hatch
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Chad Johnson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Karen Burke
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Thomas Morse
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Pam Engler
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Karen Hedwig Backman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Croitiene ganMoryn
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Thomas Morse
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

T M
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Patricia Bowen
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gloria La Fleur
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Chad Johnson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jean Glassman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Wendy Farrell
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gloria La Fleur
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Adam Silva-Miramontes
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jean Glassman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cathy Lambeth
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Barbara Spiers
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cathy Lambeth
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jo Sanders
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Chris Ballard
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Staci Evans
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jo Sanders
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Selina Sweet
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Chris Ballard
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Staci Evans
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Selina Sweet
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jean Teach
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Richard Siegel
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Amy Holt
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Richard Siegel
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sandra Huber
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dorothea Vecchiotti
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Shirley Gunn
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jean Teach
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Heather Beery
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sandra Huber
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Christopher Holmgren
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Somers
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Vin Agmeno
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Vin Agmeno
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Shirley Gunn
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Arlene Zuckerman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jessica Ramirez
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Vin Agmeno
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Arlene Zuckerman
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dave Fronske
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary Holleran
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Richard Zoah-Henderson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gail Tharpe-Lucero
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Somers
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

C Kent Argenta
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dave Fronske
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Allison Peak
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Christa Leduc
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Richard Zoah-Henderson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

[Redacted]
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Allison Peak
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cheryl Watters
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kathleen Espamer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

karan prakash
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Maxine Hayes
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

e Wait
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

James Sterner
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Christopher Holmgren
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kathleen Espamer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Henry Browning
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Maxine Hayes
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Donald Lancaster
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linc Cole
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Steve Allison
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Steve Allison
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Brusen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jessica Ramirez
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

jeanne cormier
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Krikourian
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Richards
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Krikourian
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lynne Schrupp
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Matthew Holder
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jane Neave
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Janet London
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lynne Schrupp
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Noreen Stevenson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Matthew Holder
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

William Gotz
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Walter Fox
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary Holleran
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ruth Hill
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Janet London
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Adam Belanger
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Brusen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Shalini Bosbyshell
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Walter Fox
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Noreen Stevenson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Harold Johnsen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Adam Belanger
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Shalini Bosbyshell
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nancy Hartman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

T.J. Warenz
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rhonda Bradley
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jeanne Crowley
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Judy Sachter
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Scott Nied
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

T.J. Warenz
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Scott Nied
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Tift
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Beth Hawes
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Timothy Schacht
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Reeve Love
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

T. Fernandez
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lisa Gherardi
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michelle Collins
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Timothy Schacht
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michelle Collins
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Louis Anipen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susan Swolinski
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lisa Gherardi
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Alice Slining
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joseph Erdeljac
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Alice Slining
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John P. Davis
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Louis Anipen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Anna Tangi
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Seth Clarke
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

A. Todd
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kathleen Bobb
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary Wheeler
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Seth Clarke
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Anna Tangi
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Yan Fantalov
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rhonda Bradley
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John P. Davis
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

A. Todd
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joan Andon
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sundriya Grubb
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ernest Hill
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary Wheeler
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mark Ondrejicka
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nancy Partin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Grace Golata
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gary Johnson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ernest Hill
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sundriya Grubb
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carol Mock
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Hannah Tomes
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carolyn Redden
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Barbara Wallesz
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Hannah Tomes
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Karen Mayer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jeaneane Williams
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carol Mock
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carolyn Redden
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Shirley Espeland
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

M D
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Candace R Bassat
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Veronica Watene
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Karen Mayer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sally Garfield
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Kane
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

James Schmidt
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Kane
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Veronica Watene
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sally Garfield
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Karen Samuelson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Wallace Iimura
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

James Schmidt
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Candace R Bassat
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Katherine Hammer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Katherine Hammer
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Karsh
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Guma
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mike Smith
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Patricia Zylius
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Karen Samuelson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mike Smith
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dean Zimpfer
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jonathan Weinberg
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jonathan Weinberg
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Edward Huey
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

william brooks
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Liz Helenchild
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Trueasley
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Dudley and Candace Campbell
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Cloonan
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sue Staropoli
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Isabel Molloy
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

william brooks
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dwayne Dassing
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Max DeNise
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tj Brooks
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dwayne Dassing
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Isabel Molloy
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Barb Olson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Max DeNise
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Antonio Sarmiento
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jeff Middour
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rev. Gordon Hills
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dan Potter
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nancy Beavers
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Janice Keiserman
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Maryjon McAvery
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Antonio Sarmiento
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jack Middour
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kayla Warden
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rev. Gordon Hills
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary Malo
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Howard Miller
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kayla Warden
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sandra Middour
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Candice Bicoy
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Nields
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Howard Miller
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Candice Bicoy
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

adrian landon
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Robert A. Vanderkamp
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Emma Bartholomew
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Catherine Lambeau
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kathleen Eaton
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Robert A. Vanderkamp
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary Malo
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

winn wilson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Emma Bartholomew
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Monique Trahan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Bush
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

winn wilson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kathleen Eaton
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sam Holm
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marcie Thezan
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Monique Trahan
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jason Gabriel
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jeanine Yows
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

adrian landon
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Callie White
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

chris jones
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bill Denham
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jeanine Yows
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

William Wurtz
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kathryn Buttles
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ann Rennacker
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Catherine Becsky
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Catherine Becsky
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lisa Allarde
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lisa Allarde
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Paul Brinegar
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ann Rennacker
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

William Wurtz
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lori Troupe
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Christian Traylor
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Wendy Rosenfeld
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gary Wilson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carolin Eville
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Christian Traylor
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kay Norman
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

kay m
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

António Rodrigues
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Paul Brinegar
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

MARCEL LIBERGE
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sandrine Coulon
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Phoebe Reeve
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carolin Eville
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gary Wilson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

kay m
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susanna McAdam
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Lynne St. John
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Valerie Majercsik
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Phoebe Reeve
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Deborah Thelen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susanna McAdam
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Valerie Majercsik
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Burgundy Booher
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Christian Rocklein
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ellen Shoun
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Paul Dyer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Deborah Thelen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joanne Kondratieff
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Burgundy Booher
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ellen Shoun
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ronald Shank
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joanne Kondratieff
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Paul Dyer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sherry Howard
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Wendy Rosenfeld
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Karen Kirschling
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bob Douse
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Kolakosky
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

James Haldy
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sherry Howard
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

a kasbarian
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Steven Vaughan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bob Douse
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

James Haldy
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Kolakosky
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Susaan Aram
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Florence Sandok
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

a kasbarian
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

B. C. Dashiell
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

B. C. Dashiell
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Florence Sandok
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jean Francois Salberg
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Harold Pike
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Pietro Fornara
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

António Rodrigues
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Pietro Fornara
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lisa Standke
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ellen Mendelsohn
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brenda Nelson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Alan p
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

J. Fred Thornton
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

[signature]

Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brenda Nelson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

scott fishel
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary McCoy
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Patricia Auer
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Alan Peltzer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

J. Fred Thornton
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Patricia Auer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Vivian Schatz
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Alison Zyla
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jill Davine
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michele Santoro
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ron Anderson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

a c
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ron Anderson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Valerie Mehring
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

dorothy kornelis
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John & June Owens
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John & June Owens
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John & June Owens
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Alice Neuhauser
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Alan Schwartz
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Alice Neuhauser
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Judy Calder
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Eric Moore
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

K Liddle
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Catherine Newkirk
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Meagan E Gill
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Adele Gleason
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sue Kartman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Meagan E Gill
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Thomas Conroy
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ed Cornwell
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Catherine Newkirk
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marjorie Dearmont
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

JoAnn Webb
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Adele Gleason
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bill Groves
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Alan Schwartz
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sylviane Mahaux
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ed Cornwell
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jason Ralston
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sylviane Mahaux
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Elizabeth Bartolf
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Elizabeth Bartolf
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Elizabeth Bartolf
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bill Groves
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Adrian Smith
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sue Kartman
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Chris Simpson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sandra Schachter
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

eric webber
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ron McCutcheon
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rogers Turrentine
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Chris Simpson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ray Orley
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Paulette Whitcomb
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Virginia Breza
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Judy Lubow
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Karyn Goff
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rogers Turrentine
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Kraus
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Paulette Whitcomb
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Virginia Breza
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Kraus
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Elizabeth LeFever
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Illig
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Angela Schieferecke
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

manuel rodriguez
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mike Proto
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Daniel Salmen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Deborah Reade
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Stephen Young
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Deborah Reade
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sandra Middour
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dharmesh Mandalia
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sandra Middour
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Oleg Varanitsa
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dharmesh Mandalia
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joshua Angelus
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Oleg Varanitsa
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Stephen Young
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Alan Cunningham
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Carroll
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Petras
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brian Todd
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Petras
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joyce Wheaton
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Alba Stroube
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Alba Stroube
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joyce Wheaton
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda McDougal
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Paul Bell-Tull
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

K. Nilsen
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sarah Smith
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Charleen Kubota
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Steve Steele
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ray C. Telfair II, Ph.D.
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Karl Mortimer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

K. Nilsen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Steve Steele
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Charleen Kubota
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sr. Veronica Blake
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Clint Lenard
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sarah Smith
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cynthia Molinero
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joshua Angelus
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Karl Mortimer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Donald Hyatt
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Earnest
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Caressa Al-Khateeb
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dr Joseph C Clancy
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cynthia Molinero
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sr. Veronica Blake
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joseph H. Brown
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Donald Hyatt
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Suzanne Kruger
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Barbara King
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. DAvid Griffith
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Suzanne Kruger
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

andrew frantz
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Inness
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Charlotte Gallardo
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Andre Tarverdians
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Deborah Wiggin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Jamie Bryan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Judith Jorgensen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Larry Mahlis
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Hon. The Hon. Eddie Rose
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Deborah Wiggin
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Jamie Bryan
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Inness
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Phillip Markis
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Charlotte Gallardo
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Larry Mahlis
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Hon. The Hon. Eddie Rose
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Elena Mancini
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

C Porrello
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Daniel Safer
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

C Porrello
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Elena Mancini
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Garland Ward
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ld Roncalli
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gloriamarie Amalfitano
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Charlotte Gallardo
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Richard Valencia
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Stewart
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Moon
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gloriamarie Amalfitano
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Eva Yachnes
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jason Brown
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Garland Ward
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jason Brown
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nina French
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Moon
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Richard Valencia
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robin Shushan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robin Shushan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ankush Bansal
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ben Kloeppe
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Richmond
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Richmond
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Melinda Parke
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Matt Straw
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gerhard Borchers
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Karen Cahill

Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carol Springer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Melinda Parke
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carol Springer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Charles Carruthers
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Chris Bihler
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Harold craw
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dave Matthews
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Donald Eddinger
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Donald Eddinger
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sara Loeppert
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susan Smith
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dave Matthews
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

William McKenzie
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Peggy Baughns
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sara Loeppert
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Regina Lewis
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nancy Weatherwax
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Peggy Baughns
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dr. Prisca Gloor
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Barbara Carr
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susan Lloyd-Piralli
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Barbara Carr
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Paul Blackburn
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

JoAnn Miller
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Stewart Rosenkrantz
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

William DuSold
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

JoAnn Miller
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Andrew Giddings
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carol Green
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Melodie Howard
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael V L Bennett
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ruth Fichter
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Gillaspy
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Andrew Giddings
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Barbara Singer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

William DuSold
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ron Ives
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jerry Mawhorter
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carol Green
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jovy Jergens
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Gillaspy
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Taiya Boni
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jovy Jergens
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Chris Hughes
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary Metcalf
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Walt Bogner
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

P. Brooks McGinnis
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Philip Glaser
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Chris Hughes
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

P. Brooks McGinnis
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Julian Betoney
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

michael beltran
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Alstad
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

J.Patricia Connolly
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Norelli
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Pam Fletcher
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gail Nichols
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dr. Prisca Gloor
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bruce Pollock
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Candace Gabriel
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Pam Fletcher
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Norelli
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gail Nichols
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rob Schrock
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Candace Gabriel
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rob Schrock
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rob Schrock
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Donna Harris
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

michael beltran
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bruce Pollock
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rachel Cilley
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Laura Snyder
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Leslie A Cassidy
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bruce Schacht
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ken Kornfield
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rachel Cilley
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Leslie A Cassidy
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Daniel Mackay
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ken Kornfield
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Laura Snyder
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Daniel Mackay
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Angela Hughes
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary Ann McFarland
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jim Kaedden
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jim Kaedden
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Angela Hughes
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Peterson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Juha Cantori
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mrs. Shirley Davis
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Stephen Russell
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marie Jo De Maestri
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Peterson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mrs. Shirley Davis
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mark Beringer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

robert dubois
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joseph Velardita
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Karen Kovick
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Patricia Sousa
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Karen Kovick
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Julia Knight
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Trudy Lambert
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Hillary Demetropoulos
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

William Graham
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cameo Eiben
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Julia Knight
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Hillary Demetropoulos
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jamie Lynn Guy-Ostrowski
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

William Graham
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cameo Eiben
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Trudy Lambert
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Karen Arnheiter
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jamie Lynn Guy-Ostrowski
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Steve Kowal
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

e l dupras-carceles
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nadine Mroz
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Priscilla Drake
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Baker Smith
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brian Deeley
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nadine Mroz
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tina Brown
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marie Jo De Maestri
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cindy Fine
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tina Brown
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ted & Susan Clark
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cindy Fine
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brian Deeley
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Ranta
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Nettleton
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

James Sajdak
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Aixa Fielder
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rick Russell
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Aixa Fielder
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Peter Lundell
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Priscilla Drake
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Helen Goldstein
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David J. Smith
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Manfred Holm
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rick Russell
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tim Miller
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Christine U
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Christine U
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Daniel Aunkst
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tim Miller
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jacqueline Jenkins
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

judith root
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Helen Goldstein
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Trina Novak
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Thomas Gourley
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Craig Kerber
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Andrea Kehoe
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jesse S. Roa
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jesse S. Roa
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Pat Wagner
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Beth Herndobler
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Craig Kerber
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Nettleton
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Karen Perry
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Patricia Armstrong
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Thomas Gourley
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Beth Herndobler
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

K. Cash Luck
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Karen Perry
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Beth Collom
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Theresa Kelly
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jesse S. Roa
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Travis Holland
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Farah Germain
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Drena LaPointe
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

D. Spaulding
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Theresa Kelly
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Drena LaPointe
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

K. Cash Luck
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Andrea Kehoe
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Anthony marinelli
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jeevake Attapattu
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jeff LaFlamme
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Farah Germain
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

D. Spaulding
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Anne Dugaw
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jeff LaFlamme
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Roger Anderson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Lemus
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Agnes Gillespie MD
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Roger Anderson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kimberly McCartney
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joshua Sirt
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dr. William Butler (geologist)
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joshua Sirt
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

lawrence holmes
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dr. William Butler (geologist)
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jerry Chittenden
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Laura Kramer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jack Burke
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Pamela Porter
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jerry Chittenden
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

lawrence holmes
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jack Burke
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sunday Sommers
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Martha Brown
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, PLEASE include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sally Rist
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jack Phillips
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Laura Kramer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

MARY COPELAND
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ruth Boroshok
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sally Rist
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Raquel Bone
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susan Hayward
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

M Hooper
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ruth Boroshok
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Raquel Bone
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Breana Driscoll
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Breana Driscoll
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joan Yates
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

M Hooper
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

MARY COPELAND
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jan Kleckler
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. John Kerschbaum
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gustavo Correa
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

J.A. Jennings
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kenneth Piner
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Judith Shackelford
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jo Ann Herbert RN, BSN
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tony Tsang
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jo Ann Herbert RN, BSN
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tony Tsang
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Hazel Scotto
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Todd Tanner
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Alex Laio
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nina Z.
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mo Kafka
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Alex Laio
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nina Z.
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jim Kleppin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Bittner
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Hazel Scotto
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kim Fleischer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rebecca Levinson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Patricia Claytor
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Stacey Vaughan
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rebecca Levinson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jim Kleppin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Patricia Claytor
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

TONIA HOWE
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Stephanie C. Fox
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sean Attri
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brad Jolly
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Stephanie C. Fox
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jill Gibson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

C. Warren Pope
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brad Jolly
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jill Gibson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

C. Warren Pope
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

S. Kohler
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Virginia Stringer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Alberto Gutierrez
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

norton starr

Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Case 2:10-md-02179-CJB-SS   Document 16022-7   Filed 03/22/16   Page 11493 of 13201
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Thomas J Windberg
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mrs. June Cattell
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Thomas J Windberg
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dan Schneider
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ruthann Lees
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Barbara Speidel
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sean Attri
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mrs. June Cattell
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ruth Anne Brighton
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Katherine Barnhart
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dan Schneider
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Arvin Blakeney
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Peter Curia
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Patrick Divine
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Shauna Haines
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jared Cornelia
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sheila Martin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jared Cornelia
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

E. Dantuono
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nancy Kilgore
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joseph Barreca
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Arvin Blakeney
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction!!

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it!

Sincerely,

Thomas Simon
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lois Owens
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Thomas Simon
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Halima Foster
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Arleen Kalenich-Pace

[Name redacted]

[Name redacted]
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jill Simon
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Matthew Carlstroem
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Arleen Kalenich-Pace
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jordan Hall
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gary Decillis
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Phillip Hope
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lynn Alexander
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

S. Kohler
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Phillip Hope
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tripp Carter
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joanna Farrar
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Matthew Carlstroem
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tripp Carter
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Candice Lowery
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Edward Norkus
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joanna Farrar
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Frick
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Don Rubin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Bernie Saftner
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Amanda Quinn
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kellie Crawford
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joseph Barreca
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Betty Weinstock
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sarah Murdoch
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Noah Evans
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Natalie Van Van Leekwijk
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Paul Beach
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Natalie Van Van Leekwijck
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sarah Murdoch
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Frick
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Helen Glidden
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sheryl Samuel
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kevin Clark
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

frederique joly
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rita Caruso Santamaria
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kevin Clark
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rita Caruso Santamaria
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kellie Crawford
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael K. Shead
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

June Neumark
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I URGE you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Martin Margolis
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gabriel Morner
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Ely
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Christopher Lepple
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rebecca & David Brown
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Audra Soulias
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

diana kliche
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rebecca & David Brown
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robin Gorges
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gabriel Morner
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Deb Hirt
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Audra Soulias
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

diana kliche
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Ruch
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Charles Bates
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Vinson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Boyd A Davies Jr
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Anthony Mehle
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Elinor Parzen
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jenneva Haskins
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Hankins
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Boyd A Davies Jr
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

DONNA A
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Richard Tregidgo

Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Katherine Richardson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Myers
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Hankins
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Charles Bates
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Myers
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nicole Edwards
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jenneva Haskins
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jenneva Haskins
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Katherine Richardson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Deb Hirt
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sierra Oudeans
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nicole Edwards
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Virginia Crooks
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Graham Lingley
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kathryn Burns
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Shabsin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kathryn Burns
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Francois Verly
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gary Brooker
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bryan Kelley
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Ogden
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Angelika Altum
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bryan Kelley
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Tom Smith
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cecilia Lieder
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Judy Whitehouse
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Angelika Altum
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jane Williams
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Judy Whitehouse
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ralph Notaro
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ralph Notaro
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Martha McNulty
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ryan Draper
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Philip Ramsey
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joanne McMillan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gary Brooker
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Richard Helton
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Celia O'Kelley
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jeff Brown
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Doug Pynn
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Celia O'Kelley
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Richard Helton
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

jean greenwood
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Hessenauer
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michele Reynolds
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Howard Weeks
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jesse Morpaw
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

jean greenwood
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Deb Hirt
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

C Weinstock
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Howard Weeks
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Audrey Lopes
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lavonne Schackmann
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rosemary Jack
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

DeDe Johnson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Erica Stanojevic
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

DeDe Johnson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jan Pfeiffer-Rios
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Hessenauer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Revel Paul
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jan Pfeiffer-Rios
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jan Pfeiffer-Rios
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Colleen McMULLEN
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Revel Paul
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carole Smudin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Alice West
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Grover McCoury
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Peter Belmont
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sharon Knobel
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Paul Parowski
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Grover McCoury
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Alice West
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kristy Hansen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

rick young
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Karen Kirchdoerfer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bruce Cozzini
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Beth Hoke
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Peter Belmont
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Siamak Fooladi
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

rick young
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

rick young
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Karen Kirchdoerfer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dona VAN ECK
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Siamak Fooladi
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Daniel Rosenberg
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Daniel Rosenberg
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Beth Hoke
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

E Ross
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bruce Cozzini
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lorraine Klein
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Leona Leven
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

A Frey
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

E Ross
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

James Roberts
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Karen Stamm
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Amanda Holland
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Amanda Holland
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Raeann Scott
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

pat dellitalia
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Raeann Scott
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

pat dellitalia
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Steven Fenster
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Denise Walters
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Judi Richardson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Steven Fenster
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Barrett Kemp
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

George Ferris
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jerry Haldeman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Barrett Kemp
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tracy Beckenbach
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tracy Beckenbach
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jerry Haldeman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Barbara Beierl
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Stephen Russell
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lauren Rapp
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and innocent taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jean Farris
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lauren Rapp
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

KENN REYNOLDS
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jackie Martinez
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Guy Eve
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Silvia Munger
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

KENN REYNOLDS
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ken De La Rosa
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ken De La Rosa
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susan Wayne
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marietta Scaltrito
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Guy Eve
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Melissa Mays
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Beverly Foster
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Pati Tomsits
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Silvia Munger
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Iris Rochkind
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Johnson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kathleen Bradbury
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marietta Scaltrito
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Iris Rochkind
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Pati Tomsits
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kim McDonald
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kim McDonald
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ilona Vaupel
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Johnson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

F Corr
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tiffany-Marie Austin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carolyn Nikkal
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jessica Andrews
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Stacy Nisperos
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jessica Andrews
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Diana Nihem
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Debra Evon
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Stacy Nisperos
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Phillip Cripps
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tiffany-Marie Austin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Danny Blitz
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

F Corr
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lucia Port
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Nichols
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Phillip Cripps
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Danny Blitz
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Homer Stone
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Renata Selig
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jody Kim-Eng
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

gabriele lauscher-dreess
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rebecca Miller
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rebecca Miller
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Robert Luke
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

M Santos
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

LaShond Stevenson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Anna Freeman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

gabriele lauscher-dreess
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Robert Luke
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

LaShond Stevenson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nancy Worsham
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robyn Little
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Savannah Gil
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cato Dubo
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Raechelle Raimondo
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nancy Worsham
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robyn Little
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Savannah Gil
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kathleen Hollingsworth
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

chris micolucci
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Keith Ohler
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sara W. Baker
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

chris micolucci
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sharon Rothe
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Holly McDonald
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kathleen Hollingsworth
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Dorinda kelley
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

michael daveiga
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sara W. Baker
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Keith Everton
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

michael daveiga
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Richard D Jones
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Taylor Finch
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bonnie McGill
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Keith Everton
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

RyVonne Werner
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tracey Quinn
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Don Patterson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Taylor Finch
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tracey Quinn
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Evelyn Och
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

James Spencer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jim Ritscher
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kathleen Selz
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Isabel Denham
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

sonette tippens
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Philip Ramsey
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jerry Weinstock
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marie Garescher
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jerry Weinstock
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Look
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Arthur Connor
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary Pritchard
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jerry Weinstock
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Arthur Connor
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Larry Leszczynski
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Holly Dorsett
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

RUSSELL LINK
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Holly Dorsett
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Alan Moore
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jill Ocon
As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

E. Thomas Costello
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Olga D Grovic
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dorinda Scott
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

E. Thomas Costello
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Liss
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dorinda Scott
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Charles Trebes
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

James Perkins
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Diana Saxon-Brooks
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Deborah Peri
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Liss
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

James Perkins
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kyle Stephens
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jeanne Baker
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nancy Fohn
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Diana Saxon-Brooks
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carol Schutt
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Glen Popple
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kyle Stephens
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

M B
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jeanne Baker
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carol Schutt
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joel Shaw
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Charles Trebes
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Miriam Israel
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Glenn Church
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Esteban E
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jennifer Pittman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brian Hoppe
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Esteban E
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Fred Brown
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Glenn Church
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Wadsworth
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brian Hoppe
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Randolph Willoby
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Daniel Biiitner
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Wadsworth
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bonnie Lynn MacKinnon
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Randolph Willoby
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bonnie Lynn MacKinnon
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John McGovern
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Reevyn Aronson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Ziegler
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Reevyn Aronson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John McGovern
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary Nolan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Ziegler
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marsha Shaiman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Darrell Smith
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Alan Moore
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Shelley Toye
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Roger Dykhuis
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marsha Shaiman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Darrell Smith
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Angela Treat Lyon
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Uwe Thomas
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary Nolan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kamia Taylor
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Timothy Shivers
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Pat Vescio
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Timothy Shivers
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sarbagha Falk
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bradley Houseworth
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jeff Chandler
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Patricia Chambers
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Paul Zendzian
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ron Parsons
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lotte Sonnenschein
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bradley Houseworth
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jeff Chandler
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Pat Vescio
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Esther Leonard
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Paul Zendzian
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sarbaga Falk
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Larry Powell
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susan Newgent
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jane Cindric
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lisa Koerner
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lisa Koerner
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Stephanie Hillman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Randall Woodbury
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Anthony Montapert
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Vicki Bynum
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Anthony Montapert
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Stephanie Hillman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Maxwell Nettler
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Davidson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Chad Halsey
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Chad Halsey
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

William Rowland
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Steve Marinilli
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Scott Holtman
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

gwenn meltzer
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

gwenn meltzer
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Scott Holtman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Denise Bowie
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

J'Ulene Laque
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Richard Longley
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

J'Ulene Laque
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Judith Singsen
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Judith Singsen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Judith Singsen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Daniel Stopfer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ruth O'Neal
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Indira Smith
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Christiane Fitzgerald
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joseph Edge
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jerry Spellman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robin Rutan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Shirley McNall
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Walker
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Helen Coronado
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Charleen Steeves
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Swiger
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Shirley McNall
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Richard Lombard
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Christiane Fitzgerald
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Charleen Steeves
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gregory Pfister
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jerry Spellman
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rosario H Torres
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Martha Griswold
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Richard Lombard
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kelly Bracy
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gregory Pfister
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Chuck rocco
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rosario H Torres
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Barbara Rose
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brian Wingenroth
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Blair Campbell
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Adam Nazimowitz
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Javier Flores
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Barbara Rose
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael O'Brien
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Martha Griswold
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

So Allen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kelly Bracy
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Roberta Churchill
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Roberta Churchill
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Richard Geiger
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

So Allen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Phil Hembury
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Phil Hembury
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Connie Muetzel
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jeff Hanna
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rene Mcwade
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Connie Muetzel
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sally Lambert
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Chris Panila
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rene Mcwade
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Josephine Scherer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Chris Panila
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Alice Polesky
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Adam Nazimowitz
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lukas Maturi
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Patsy Glaser
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kathy Huffman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lukas Maturi
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susan Hooton
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kathy Huffman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mike Deiotts
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Angelika Engels
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Paul Szymanowski
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Richard Rider
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

RyVonne Werner
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Juan Hernandez
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Amy Immel
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Juan Hernandez
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Richard Rider
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Stephen La Serra
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Paul Szymanowski
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Stephen La Serra
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Amy Immel
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cortney Zaret
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carolyn Shaw
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ricardo Aguiluz
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Angelika Engels
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ricardo Aguiluz
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jenette D’Alessandro
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ramon Hass
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cortney Zaret
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Laura Lopez
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Angie Unruh
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ramon Hass
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Laura Lopez
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Thomas Koven
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sam Stetson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Angie Unruh
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sara Campbell
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sherilyn Coldwell
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Julia Morgan
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Julia THollaug
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Julia THollaug
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Julia Morgan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Charlie Allen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sara Campbell
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Porter
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joanne Thielen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Betty Hall
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lynn Greene
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Royan Charles
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Karen Vasily
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Royan Charles
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marie Claire DeLuna
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Betty Hall
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marie Claire DeLuna
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Hydar
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lolly Bennett
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

JC Honeycutt
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Al Ferrucci
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dr Solveig Strauch
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Al Ferrucci
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

H Ellis Griffin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Walter Nadboy
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jack Miller
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Katherine Worden
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Walter Nadboy
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kathy Wright
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gail Frethem
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dr Solveig Strauch
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kathy Wright
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gail Frethem
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Chris McCarty
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lenore Dolph
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

mary hunt
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

bruce bauer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,  Betsy Spada

Betsy Spada
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susan Chenelle
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Debbie Thomas
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jenet Johnsen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

bruce bauer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dakota Newbry
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jenet Johnsen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Karen Holman
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Arthur Waterbury
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dakota Newbry
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Karen Holman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susan Chenelle
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely, Betsy Spada

Betsy Spada
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Leif Erickson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Arthur Waterbury
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Hill
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Van Horn
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tim Thompson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Hill
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely, Judy Moses

Judy Moses
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Meryle A. A. Korn
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

sacha defoy
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tim Thompson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

sacha defoy
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Van Horn
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ron Riskin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Hopkins
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Chris McCarty
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Patty Navarrete
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nick Yashirin
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Veronica Bourassa
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Patty Navarrete
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Annette Hartsorne
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mrs. Julie Skelton
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mrs. Julie Skelton
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

dorian samaniego
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Janet Lindsey
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Denny Boehm
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

dorian samaniego
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Denny Boehm
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Stacy Cornelius
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Janet Lindsey
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rosalie Sable
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Shelley Strohm
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Fisher
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Vinnedge Lawrence
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ken Jenkins
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Fisher
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Reuben Wade
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

manny garcia
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Vinnedge Lawrence
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

christy sacks
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Thomas Libbey
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Betty Combs
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Veronica Bourassa
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Thomas Libbey
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Betty Combs
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Laura Jobe
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ken Grzesiak
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rhonda Green
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Steven Larson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

jim whitehead
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

missy izadog
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Laura Jobe
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

jim whitehead
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rochelle Rubin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marjorie Wilson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nancy Field White
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susan Strelec
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Craig Hollander
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mogens Brandt
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rhonda Green
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susan Strelec
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ron Carlson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mogens Brandt
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ron Carlson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Helen Strader
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

P. Hays
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Elizabeth Paulson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dimitri Lefever
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Helen Strader
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jacqueline Campbell
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nancy Heck
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jim Haas
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

P. Hays
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nancy Heck
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dimitri Lefever
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kirill Gliadkovsky
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rick Snyder
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

thomas phillips
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jim Haas
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Barry Saltzman
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

thomas phillips
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kelsey Price
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gary Archie
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Barry Saltzman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Stephanie da Silva
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tom Gwin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kelsey Price
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Janet Rising
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary Ellen Serina
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Betty Tackitt
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Corinne Lambden
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Stephanie da Silva
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Belkiss Mayr
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tom Gwin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Didear
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Frank Marwood
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

William Peckham
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary Ellen Serina
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sheila Dempsey
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Debra Moore
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sheila Dempsey
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Frank Marwood
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

William Peckham
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

janet lawlor
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bruce Stotts
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dee Steele
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Maurice Samuels
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Angie Sieb
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bruce Stotts
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Heather Kovach
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

William Cline
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jack Milton
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Elizabeth Osborne
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Margaret Graham
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Maurice Samuels
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Margaret Cathey
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Katherine Muehlbauer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Deanna Mousaw
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jack Milton
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Timothy Raymond
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Darlene Brooks
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Merelyn Dolins
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Merelyn Dolins
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

maurice oldis
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Foley Jr
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

D O'Dowd
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Faye Bennett
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bill Russo
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Felicia Bruce
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

maurice oldis
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bill Russo
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Andreas Ohland
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jonathan Reynolds
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Barbara fox
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kirk Paulson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joe Brenner
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sophie Turinsky
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kirk Paulson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jonathan Reynolds
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sophie Turinsky
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Schneider
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Schneider
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tom Wenzel
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Laura Zakin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tom Wenzel
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Martha Carrington
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Laura Zakin

Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Martha Carrington
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

lewis gersten
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Charles Miller
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Paul Petruccelli
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Darra Newhouse
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

[Redacted]

[Redacted]
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Paul Petruccelli
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marianne Amann
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Peter Whipple
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

sarah boucas neto
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

sarah boucas neto
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

George Byrne
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Andreas Ohland
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Neal White

Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nicholas Startare
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marilyn Cramer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Emily Alexander
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gretchen Zeiger-May
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Monroe
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

george craciun
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marilyn Cramer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gretchen Zeiger-May
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Emily Alexander
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sharon Maxson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Helen Simpkins
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Thomas Brenner
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

[Signature]

Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sharon Maxson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Elaina Hatsis
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Laurie Reed
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Peto Gerth
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary Baltz
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Thomas Brenner
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Helen Simpkins
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gerard Rohlf
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Peto Gerth
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Elaina Hatsis
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary Baltz
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nicholas Startare
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ginnie Gavrin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Richard Stoflet
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ginnie Gavrin
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

J Beverly
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Chris Ness
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Patricia Dishman
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dr, Virginia Jones
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carol Fertig
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Chris Ness
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ronald Sohn
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mike Peale
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Patricia Dishman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ellen Dryer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tyler Otto
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Karen Snell
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tyler Otto
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Pete Klosterman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Peter Bentivegna
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr Steven Lee
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Helen Templeton
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Peter Bentivegna
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr Steven Lee
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Georgia Stauffer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Callaway
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Billie Abbott
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joan Heilman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gina Megay
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Timothy Raymond
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gina Megay
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joan Heilman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Callaway
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Patrick Conn
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Stephen Brace
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kenneth Busch
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Stephen Brace
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Terry Hart
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marvin Wingfield
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Fiona King
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lynn Ross
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sharon Lucas
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

d johnson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susan Mayer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

d johnson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

becky kurth
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susan Mayer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lynn Ross
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dan Jensen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Katherine Glatter
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dan Jensen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kathleen Kuczynski
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Andrea Bounds
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carmen Campbell
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Stuart Francis
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carol Masuda
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Stuart Francis
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tara Kerr
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carmen Campbell
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Paige Nichols
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David AND Carol Butler
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Paige Nichols
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lance Powell
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David AND Carol Butler
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Deborah J. Cruz
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lance Powell
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Terry Tedesco Tedesco-Kerrick
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carl Mesick
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Wiseman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Wiseman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Terry Tedesco Tedesco-Kerrick
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Laurie Reed
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Eric E. Symborski Jr.
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

C. McDonald
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

L Warren
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Eric E. Symborski Jr.
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

C. McDonald
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

RACHEL CLARKEROBERTS
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Lefevers
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jess Stombaugh
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

ellen Desruisseaux
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Nancy M. Kevelin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Helen Jones
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kirk Fernald
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Nancy M. Kevelin
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Nancy M. Kevelin
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dominique Reimann
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dana Furgerson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Lefevers
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Helen Jones
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kevine Cove
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mrs. Janice Hall
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Haydn Huntley
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dana Furgerson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mrs. Janice Hall
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Larry Forrest
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Alexander Kreisel
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bettina Stokes
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lamar Savage
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bettina Stokes
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lamar Savage
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Quentin Fischer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jill Suess
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Eric Edelman
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Lana Henson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Manual Laber
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

ken mincin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Manual Laber
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

ken mincin
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jill Suess
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

susan finney
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

ML Sage
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Janice Bailey
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Victoria Urias
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Victoria Urias
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

susan finney
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

e neiman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

ray bellamy
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Duwayne Anderson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Diane Sirois
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Madeline Shaw
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Fowler
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bruce Young
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Fowler
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

e neiman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Madeline Shaw
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Karen Hotchkiss
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Harlan Scott
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Harlan Scott
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Theresa Knapp
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Karen Hotchkiss
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Theresa Knapp
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David White
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

A P Cranston
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Haydn Huntley
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tony Cranston
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Barbara Dell
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Shari OConnor
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Shari O'Connor
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Peter Beatty
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dennis Wu
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Beth Braun
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rob Stonecipher
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Diane Pekarcik
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nancy Bauer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dennis Wu
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Stacy Bouillard
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nancy Bauer
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jonathan Hancock
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ann White
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John & Mary Kurzynski
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

MI Sage
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

A.L. Hern
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cynthia Gilliard
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

J Manning
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lee Dietterich
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mark Makkonen
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cynthia Gilliard
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sandra Naidich
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mark Makkonen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Stacy Bouilland
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Karen Collins
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Dean
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David White
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jonathan Hancock
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dana Wakiji
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Reba N
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Helen Greer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Laughlin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marion Menna
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Barclay Hauber
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Guy Amsler
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Leonard Heether
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Anne Buchanan
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cathy Goodrich
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Zachary Stevens
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Sandra Lynn
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Acadia Cutschall
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lawrence Kegeles
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Sandra Lynn
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marc Dumas
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Acadia Cutschall
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marc Dumas
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sarie Bryson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joan Bradley
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cliff Owens-Leech
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Frances McDonal
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rachel Hutcheson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sarie Bryson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marge Roebuck
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ken Meinhardt
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ken Meinhardt
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nicolas Caballero
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Catherine Leamy
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

john polite
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

malik griffin
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

malik griffin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nicolas Caballero
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Richard Epperson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Shaw
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jo Forkish
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert M. Brown
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Stephen Pazdziorko
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Catherine Leamy
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Judy Vann
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Phoebe McLeod
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Richard Epperson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ilya Speranza
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Stephen Wallace
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ilya Speranza
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

William Sherman
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Emily Hurn
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mark Peltan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jo Forkish
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Arline Mathews
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Kipnes
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dave B
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Leckliter
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

mike collins
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Daniel J. Sanchez, Sr.
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mark Peltan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Kipnes
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Vanessa Jamison
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Daniel J. Sanchez, Sr.
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jason Schulman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Frank Parker
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joanna Leary
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jillian Fiedor
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Katherine Blum Russell
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marjorie Lohrer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Laurence Margolis
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jillian Fiedor
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Katherine Blum Russell
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Pederson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ken Peterson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Catherine Learmonth
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ken Hedges
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Vanessa Carlson

Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Diane Paolazzi
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Vanessa Carlson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

William Pell
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Charles Shaud
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Catherine Learmonth
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ken Peterson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Diane Paolazzi
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Walter Jaehnig
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mark Cohen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, please include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Thank you.

Peace!

Gene and Dori Peters
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

bill haegele
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mark Cohen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Janet Barstow
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

LeRoy Martinez
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Diane Tessari
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Scott Messick
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Scott Messick
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

LeRoy Martinez
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Hy Lampe
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brittany Smith
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Kenneth Lapointe
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brittany Smith
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cynthia McWilliams
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Kenneth Lapointe
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Flora Donovan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marc Lionetti
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Staci Anderson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mickey Mccarthy
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Staci Anderson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mark Leiner
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cornelia Powell
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Calli Madrone
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kurt McInnes
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

bettyi jackson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Sherson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kurt McInnes
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Heather Hanly
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Heather Hanly
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sandra Thomas-Dale
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Taylor
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary A Leon
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sandra Cobb
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kenneth Brinson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Taylor
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Stephen Dempsey
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

P F
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kenneth Brinson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dana Good
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sandra Cobb
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

P F
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Diane Basile
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Coreen Plewa

Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Holly Quick
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jeffrey Fernandez
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Diane Basile
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marc Lionetti
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Alisa Battaglia
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Coreen Plewa
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Pankratz
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joanne Snyder
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement thatbars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Alisa Battaglia
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Steven Jacobs
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joanne Snyder
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Chris Holder
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dr. George B. Kauffman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Fralick
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Fralick
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dana Good
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dr. George B. Kauffman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dennis Keller
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Heather La Riviere
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Gret Rowe
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Gret Rowe
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ljubica Sefer-Stefancic
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Frank Lewis
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Gret Rowe
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Fiona King
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ljubica Sefer-Stefancic
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

james mccord
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Peter Burchard
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sharon Small
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Benny Martino
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Benny Martino
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Benny Martino
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carla Hervert
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rebecca Anshell Song
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Peter Burchard
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kirsten Andersen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Frank Lewis
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carla Hervert
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Stanley McDonald, Jr.
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sandra Hillerstrom
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Adrian Vetter
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Maxine Lowwery
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joseph Novel
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Syd Satterlund
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Maxine Lowwery
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joseph Novel
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Thomas D. Aubin
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Frederica Huxley
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carole McCarvill
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jordan Kelso
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

J Manning
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

daniel pecoraro
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Keller
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Kitts
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Keller
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Esther Confino
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Esther Confino
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tom Pitman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Thomas D. Aubin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Norse Lassandreo
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Kitts
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tom Pitman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sandra Hillerstrom
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Norse Lassandreo
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Danielle Tran
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Deanna Pouttu
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

M McQuillen
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sheri Bresson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sheri Bresson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

M McQuillen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Deanna Pouttu
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ella Reeves
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lesley Wilson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rebecca Anshell Song
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susan Perez
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cheli Bremmer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cheli Bremmer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jim Sheldon
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gordon Grant
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Teresa Alcorn
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Barbara Legaz
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lesley Wilson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susan Perez
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kurt Bauereiss
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gordon Grant
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Suzanne Ewing
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kurt Bauereiss
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Suzanne Ewing
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dirk Reed
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Teresa Alcorn
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Adolf Kruger
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Patricia Baker
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Raymond Crannell
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joe Hamm
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Adolf Kruger
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tara Meehan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Chad Anderson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

steve billups
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

dody h
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bridget Palecek
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Steve Zelman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Steve Zelman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

D. Kimura
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dc Katten
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. John Konrad
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bridget Palecek
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mrs. Kathi Thonet
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Barry Cutler
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Vanessa Lundblad
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Alison Miller
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Daniel Marzani
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Maria Figueroa
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dc Katten
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Vanessa Lundblad
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Vera Brandt
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. John Konrad
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Laura Strong
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

D. Kimura
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary Bandor
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Devin Henry
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kenneth West
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Vera Brandt
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Maria Figueroa
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Daniel Marzani
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cliff Carson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Devin Henry
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Kyle Embler
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. John Konrad
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely, Stephanie G. Valys
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary Bandor
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Maria Bustamante
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Maria Gabrielle
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ellie Meehan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Maria Bustamante
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Maria Gabrielle
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Stephanie Valys
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Claudette Schiratti, RSM
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kenneth West
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Liza Martin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Clinton Nagel
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Elizabeth Gardner
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Catherine S. Gross
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Clinton Nagel
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Elizabeth Gardner
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Virginia Green
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

mike kaufman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Miguel Liriano
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Peter Sutton
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jason Barnes
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dan Nolan
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Peter Sutton
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Miguel Liriano
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sandra Dieterich-Hughes
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dan Nolan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Janet Shulman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Pamela Stearley
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Pamela Stearley
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ann Carlisle
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jennifer Walters
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ann Carlisle
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Peter Addyman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kelly Murphey
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carol Rigrod
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kelly Murphey
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carol Rigrod
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Peter Addyman
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kathleen Coffman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marjorie Weiss
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Amanda Brewer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kathleen Coffman
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Amanda Brewer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Amanda Brewer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mark Williams
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dan Wade
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Diane Vandiver
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lynda Strecker
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dan Wade
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carolyn Norr
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Diane Hanas
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Elaine Kellerman
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Daniel Maslana
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Christian Paul Schneider
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Diane Vandiver
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lynda Strecker
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Katherine Harband
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Daniel Maslana
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

L Der
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Richard Franken
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Janover
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Darryl Apps
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Martha Evans
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Martha Evans
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ben Arnold
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Peggy Tribble
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Barbara Vilaseca
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mike Montes
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Peggy Tribble
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ben Arnold
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Barbara Vilaseca
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Stanley Fistick
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Evelyn Jerenberg
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Alan Capelle
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Stanley Fistick
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mike Montes
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Hunt
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ian Marshall
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Beam
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Alan Capelle
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Krystle Chandler
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Hunt
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mitchell Diamond
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Evelyn Jerenberg
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary Peterson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Warren Nystrom
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Gocinski
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Krystle Chandler
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ian Marshall
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Randy Borns
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Terry Poulson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Karen D Felts
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Adrienne Simmons
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Karen Kalavity
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jefree Annderson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Terry Poulson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Randy Borns
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Karen Kalavity
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Paula Hollie
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Karen D Felts
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mrs. Faioa Schwarzenberg
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Adrienne Simmons
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Thomas Bauer
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Melanie Rushing
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Thomas Bauer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Melissa Hinz
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Melanie Rushing
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gordon ILLG
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kathy Hart
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Doug Stopke
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Erik Schnabel
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Anthony P. Vessicchio
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gordon ILLG
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kathleen Bernardo
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Maddie Dillon
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Suzanne Guest
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Maddie Dillon
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Suzanne Guest
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Keith Runion
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Diana Barney
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Keith Runion
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Reilly
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kimberly Short
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Frank Rose
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Moss
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Miguel Ramos
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Frank Rose
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Miguel Ramos
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Leighta J
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Eleanor Bowen
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nicola Nicolai
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Charles Caron
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nicola Nicolai
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susan Wolinsky
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

SCOTT MARX
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susan Wolinsky
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Daniel Rickson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Margo OConnell
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Anthony Barron
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Scot Seader
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Daniel Rickson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Steven Tichenor
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Schaechter
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Schaechter
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carolyn Bartholomew
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sheila Kojm
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

SCOTT MARX
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

MR. & MRS. BRUCE Revesz
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Claudia Van Gerven
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Richard Hoff
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

MR. & MRS. BRUCE Revesz
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary Fay Helmon
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sheila Kojm
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Claudia Van Gerven
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary Fay Helmon
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Fermin Morales
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Karen Naiman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Maris Arnold
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Kasvinsky
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Joseph Shulman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cathy Cretser
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Joseph Shulman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Spencer Walsh
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kathie T
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gretchen Clay
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sandy Willard
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Spencer Walsh
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Edmund Nespoli
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sandy Willard
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tecari Shuman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Richard Werry
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Suzanne Smith
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tracy Peltier
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ron Berti
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jessica Koran
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Goodhew
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jane Burt
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jessica Koran
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Suzanne Smith
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ben Murray
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ben Murray
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Hortense Henderson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Patricia Copenhaver
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Karl Hamann
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Doris Mundinger
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Patricia Copenhaver
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kathleen Grossman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Small
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kathleen Grossman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kris Thompson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

C M
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Damian Velez
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jane Burt
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Elizabeth Sampson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

James Hopkins
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kris Thompson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

C M
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Hortense Henderson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Elizabeth Sampson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

James Hopkins
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kelly Hancock
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

luong tran
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jen Scibetta
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nalei Kahakalau
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Elizabeth Kiernan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Elizabeth Kiernan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nalei Kahakalau
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Peggy Burgin
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

nina clausen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Christy Nakama
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sue Ward-McCurdy
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Peggy Burgin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Christy Nakama
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gayle Doukas
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ray Bartlett
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Elizabeth Bradshaw
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Valerie Blackmore
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ray Bartlett
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

luong tran
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Raymond Courter
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Alexis Campbell Jansky
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Donald Kent
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, please include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction. The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

J Lukas
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

alex verboven
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Judith Martinez
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Leah Leifer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Judith Martinez
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Norma Schupp
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Alexis Campbell Jansky
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dr. Brian Leggiere
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rick Gordon
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

jill harmer
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dr. Brian Leggiere
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Norma Schupp
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rick Gordon
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rick Gordon
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary Mahoney
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Camille Young-Martin
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jessica Murphy
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Wil Thomson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gary Sasso
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jessica Murphy
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. William E McCullough
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Camille Young-Martin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marilise Tronto
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary Mahoney
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Gelfer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sara Marshall
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Richard Klune
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marge Fear
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Gelfer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Margaret H. Wilson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Richard Klune
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susan Lilly
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marge Fear
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Margaret H. Wilson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carolyn Suchenicz
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. David G
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Allen Terrill
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

nina clausen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Randolph Hogan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

C Green
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kelly Taylor
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

C Green
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Allen Terrill
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kelly Taylor
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nancy Anvari
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jeffrey Spencer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Victoria Olson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Melissa Gutierrez
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nanette Oggiono
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Alice McKeage
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Victoria Olson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nanette Oggiono
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jeffrey Spencer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Judith Skenazy
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Eve Powers
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kindy Kemp
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Julaine Morley
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Eve Powers
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marilyn Smith
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Julaine Morley
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Judith Skenazy
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

George Crowell
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marion Marsh
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Scott Toland
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary Zeller
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

George Crowell
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carlene Steel
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joan Chapman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kathleen Sigel
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marion Marsh
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Matt Brzezinski
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rebecca Hickey
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

madolyn jenkins
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

madolyn jenkins
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Matt Brzezinski
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

sean brennan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Rossi
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Scott Toland
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Rossi
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

sean brennan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

B Doris Dubuc
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, we urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David and Judy Gold
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

B Doris Dubuc
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kathryn Hargreaves
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joseph Crichton
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Caroline Bergdolt
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kathryn Hargreaves
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Caroline Bergdolt
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tia Peterson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tia Peterson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ray Kalinski
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bette Feltham
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Paul Cope
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Tischhauser
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ericka Bjorngaard
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

mary lehman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Vago
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Donald Kowall
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sandy Kucinki
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary K Orrange
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

glenn hood
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Tischhauser
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary K Orrange
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sandy Kucinki
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

glenn hood
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Vago
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kathleen Lee
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sandy Levine
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sylvia Duncan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kathleen Brentlinger
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Merry Ossenheimer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joseph Haemmerle
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

William L. Parker
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Steve Wilson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Randall Davis
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Merry Ossenheimer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Anne Williams
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kathleen Brentlinger
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joseph Haemmerle
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sylvia Duncan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Anne Williams
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Richard Turegano
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Richard Turegano
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ronnie Rouse
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dereka Ogden
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

A. Brennan
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jeffrey Watson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Tucker
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Roy Poss
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Terry Angelli
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sean Ebersole
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dereka Ogden
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dereka Ogden
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ann Coz
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Terry Angelli
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Kiernan
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Tucker
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Shawndra Hayes-Budgen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michelle Hofmann
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David McKeever
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jeffrey Watson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Roy Poss
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

A Puza
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

I. Engle
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Louis Brown
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Kiernan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David McKeever
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carol Sinclair
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Shawndra Hayes-Budgen
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Back
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

julie walters
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carol Sinclair
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Edward Savage
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Back
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Richard Nelson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bud See
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Edward Savage
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kelly Irwin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

K Tyler
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Terri Henry
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kelly Irwin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marcia Bushnell
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marcia Curran
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jayson Dilcher
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bud See
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Wadie Wallace
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bruce McGraw
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Catherine Clark
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bruce McGraw
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carole Pooler
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Terri Henry
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Virginia Laplante
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dr. Peter Stone
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

G Yuzawa
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carole Pooler
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Melinda Armistead
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Donny Seals
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Thomas Cierech
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Martha Spann
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dr. Peter Stone
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Virginia Laplante
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

G Yuzawa
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Melinda Armistead
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Donny Seals
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

craig conn
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kristy Collins
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tom Harper
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kristy Collins
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dennis Nicholson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Bachalis
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

craig conn
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Patrick F. Fern
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Pam Bryant
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Pam Bryant
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joyce Jaske
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Patrick F. Fern
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Bachalis
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Deb Lincoln
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Pam Bryant
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Pam Bryant
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Deb Lincoln
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tom Harper
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sandra L. Jones
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joyce Jaske
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tom Bryson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Adam Vrbanic
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Maria Kalousi

Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Maria Kalousi
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Karen DeLuca
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sandra L. Jones
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lois Hoot
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lee Bartell

Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Debbie Lynch
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lee Bartell
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Debbie Lynch
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Julie Watts
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely, Jenni Post

Jenni Post
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary Ann McDonough
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ellen Collier
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Laquisha Jean
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Caren Bar-Zvi
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ellen Collier
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jesse Goldin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Herb Evert
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Caren Bar-Zvi
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary Ann McDonough
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jesse Goldin
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary Ziesche
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cynthia Romberger
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

C R Moses
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Grant Fujii
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary Peterson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cynthia Romberger
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Grant Fujii
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Laquisha Jean
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Francis Mangels
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Neil Lewis
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cary Sipiora
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Vern Maresh
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Neil Lewis
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

william lawson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gail Hyde
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dillon Pierce
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

william lawson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Francis Mangels
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lewis Deene
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Vern Maresh
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gail Hyde
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Judith Salzman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lewis Deene
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

LuMarion Conklin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Helene Eastwood
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Judith Salzman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

LuMarion Conklin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Stuart Fuchs
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Stuart Fuchs
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mark Hanson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

thomas cunniff
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Edward Rubin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Blake O'Quinn
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mark Hanson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Virginia Douglas
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tamara M
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Janet Needler
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kelle McLaughlin
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Janet Needler
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Fritz Seegers
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kelle McLaughlin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Fritz Seegers
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

LuMarion Conklin
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susan P. Vessicchio
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Frank
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

James Sipoccz
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rachel Meltzer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Veronica Z
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rachel Meltzer
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely, Robert D. Frank

Robert Frank
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

James Sipoccz
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Deborah Cate
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Veronica Z
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Seemin Qayum
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Schimpf
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Timothy Hagerman
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

James Balder
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Stanley Veyhl
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Deborah Cate
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Theodore Trevor
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jane Spaeth
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Timothy Hagerman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jane Spaeth
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Matt De Leuw
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary Giannakou
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tim Mommers
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susan Cook
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Peter Joyce
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Laura J. Peskin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carolyn Redding
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Peter Joyce
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susan Cook
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Laura J. Peskin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Elkins
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carolyn Redding
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Norm Conrad
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Muller
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Debbie Williams
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

craig conn
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Elaine French
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

craig conn
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Barbara Cerridwen
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Elaine French
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

William Rothman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Barbara Cerridwen
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

William Rothman
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dr. Alexander Henrich
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include STRICT language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must NEVER be repeated and taxpayers should NOT be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Patricia McHugh
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary East
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lavada Weaver
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dr. Alexander Henrich
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Patricia McHugh
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Anne Chapin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

donna zeuch
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jeff Reynolds
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Elizabeth Hunt-Nickerson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Christine Klein
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lavada Weaver
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

s Brandes
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jeff Reynolds
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

donna zeuch
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary East
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

James A Clark Jr
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nancy Farha