Mr. Tom Cloud
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Dave White
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jen Grasso
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Scheirman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Scheirman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jen Grasso
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dipal Gandhi
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers MUST NOT be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Daniel Hulseapple
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dipal Gandhi
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kriss Crowdis-Mann
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dennis Tackett
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Shell Lavender
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Shell Lavender
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Marcia  Hoodwin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Miriam Neff
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Marcia Hoodwin
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Miriam Neff
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Elanor Bagenstose
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Caroline Lajoie
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Greg Movsesyan
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John A Beavers
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carol Kefalas
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kathy Fodge
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carol Kefalas
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary Pilafian
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Leon Epperly
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marjorie Watanabe
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Leon Epperly
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kathy Fodge
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Walter Schmitt

Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary Ting
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joseph Bear
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Walter Schmitt
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lana Schmitt
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Larry Brown
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Larry Brown
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Diane Smith
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Angelease Rosa
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lynn Bywaters
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

MARJEAN DODEN
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

MARJEAN DODEN
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

C W
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Bruce
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jytte Klie
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Diane Smith
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Bruce
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

C W
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Pat Menges
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jytte Klie
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Pat Menges
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Eric Fosburgh
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Esther Lerranz
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Esther Lerranz
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Laura Aldridge
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Laura Aldridge
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dr Trudy Jacobs
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

William Lademann
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

William Lademann
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Chris Mccully
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Vincent DiTizio
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lary Graves
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Vincent DiTizio
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Chris McCully
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Larry Sydow
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Larry Sydow
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

James Hipp
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Nancy Balassi
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brad Cleavenger
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

James Hipp
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Nancy Balassi
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brad Cleavenger
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ordell T Vee
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Benjamin Betz
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Benjamin Betz
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ordell T Vee
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jean Pauley
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Donna Hart
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nadya Tichman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kellie Karkanen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Franco De Nicola
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nadya Tichman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

tim Oswald
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susan Ndiaye
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

tim Oswald
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susan Ndiaye
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Valerie Dickow
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Valerie Dickow
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dennis Underwood
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sheila Mandell
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dennis Underwood
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Valerie Dickow
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Valerie Dickow
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dr. Mark Escajeda
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

charles card
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dr. Mark Escajeda
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

charles card
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Roland Pesch
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kathryn Ebersole
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Roland Pesch
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jeanne Howard
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jeanne Howard
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Henry Morgen
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Henry Morgen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Glen Ihrig
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Petrulias
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Sydney Wright
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Glen Ihrig
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Whitney-Bear Bradsher
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Corey Parker
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Corey Parker
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kathy Shimata
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

William Cromwick
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bruce Cutts
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

William Cromwick
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sandra Lockwood
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Beverly Jennings
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Russell Weisz
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Ritchie
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Russell Weisz
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Melvin Taylor
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kate Bolton
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Melvin Taylor
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kate Bolton
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susan Ristow
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Janet R Snow
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bruce Sadowskas
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Oscar Alvarado
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bruce Sadowskas
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Raymond Marshall
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary Will
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jane Shabtaie
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Hersha Evans
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary Will
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jane Shabtaie
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kathryn Dawson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Emily L. Ferguson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kay Warren
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kathyrn Dawson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

marilyn gockowski
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kay Warren
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

marilyn gockowski
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

c bullard
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lisa Geyer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Cruder
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lisa Geyer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Cruder
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

carleen mulloy
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Miriam Dunbar
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Remy Goglio
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Remy Goglio
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carrie Long
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Paul Euchler
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joseph Dadgari
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Casey O'Malley
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joseph Dadgari
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Paul Euchler
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jordan Burton
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jordan Burton
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Paul
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gregory Monahan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gregory Monahan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Donald Goppert
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Merlyn Heyman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Merlyn Heyman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Donald Goppert
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Paul
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Terry Johnson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susan Cornwell
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dianne German
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Bullard
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Gayle Janzen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dianne German
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dianne Hudson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dianne German
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jean Chin
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Jon Hager
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dianne Hudson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tim Kosier
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Maxine Litwak
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tim Kosier
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carolyn Harris
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carolyn Harris
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Melitta von Abele
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Thomas Jones
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Jon Hager
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Danielle Jesensky
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Thomas Jones
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carol McMahon
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carol McMahon
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Susan Hanger
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Vesna Glavina
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Vesna Glavina
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tammy Weaver
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Andrea Giolli
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Danielle Jesensky
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Andrea Giolli
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bridget Koch-Timothy
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Tanya Arguello
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Martha Dahlinger
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Tanya Arguello
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Tanya Arguello
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marilyn Folden
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Hailstone
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lakota Crystal
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lakota Crystal
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert W. Pann
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert W. Pann
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

G Allen Daily
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

G Allen Daily
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dr. Frank W. Sannella
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dr. Frank W. Sannella
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Candyce Smith
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kathlene Croasdale
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Candyce Smith
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Claudia Bloom
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sue S.
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brian Bollman
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Mattox
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sue S.
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brian Bollman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Derrek Newell
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Anita DeBias
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Anita DeBias
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Anderson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Fenstermaker
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Anderson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Fenstermaker
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Pamela Corradini
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Pamela Corradini
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Diane Soddy
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carol Auld
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Diane Soddy
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

frank belcastro
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

frank belcastro
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

R.g. Tuomi
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rawan Almomani
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Craig Clapper
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Craig Clapper
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Janet Walton
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Janet Walton
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Earl Roberts
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms Candy LeBlanc
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms Candy LeBlanc
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ted Ho
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jennifer Vogt
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Amy Hartzog
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jennifer Vogt
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rawan Almomani
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Ogren
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jerry Horner
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Deb Klein
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dana Bordegaray
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jerry Horner
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Ogren
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Deb Klein
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bracha Leib
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bracha Leib
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Virginia Krutilek
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

steven watts
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rachel C
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Virginia Krutilek
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Julie Moyer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

steven watts
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Julie Moyer
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rachel C
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Peter Roche
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tad Drouet
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kate Harder
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kate Harder
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary Boyle
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

[Redacted]
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Leena Hasan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jeanne Thompson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jeanne Thompson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the 5 States of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that BARS the BP company from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must NEVER be repeated and taxpayers should NOT be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marco de la Rosa
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Pamela Gilchrist
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Elizabeth Asnicar
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

mr michael Levitt
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

mr michael Levitt
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sharon Wong
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sharon Wong
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marcus Christian Hansen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the 5 States of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that BARS the BP company from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must NEVER be repeated and taxpayers should NOT be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marco de la Rosa
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gertrude Battaly
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mike Eddy
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marcus Christian Hansen
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lib Smith
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lib Smith
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bruce Allen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brian Ferguson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Catherine Hancock
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brian Ferguson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Catherine Hancock
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lauren Baldwin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Janice Nathan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joseph Olonia
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susanne Weil
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joseph Olonia
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Evelyn Parker
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mike Hacker
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Alice Suter
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Evelyn Parker
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Charlotte Walker
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

bryn lehman
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Anne B.
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sandi Martin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Czachurski
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Daniel R
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Czachurski
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

bryn lehman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Charlotte Walker
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rose Koutsakis
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Shirley Azevedo
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rose Koutsakis
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Maura Kelsea
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Maura Kelsea
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

victoria kniery
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jennifer Kilgore
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Anthony Ivankovic
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Alondra Mello
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Stephanie Netzberger
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joseph Wiesner
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

J Stiufflebeam
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

J Stiufflebeam
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Shawn Owen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Catherine George
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Shawn Owen
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Bloom
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Bloom
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Duncan Baruch
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mitchell Ewing
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mitchell Ewing
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Yuriko Hazlett
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Yuriko Hazlett
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Patricia Hogard
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Maria Jaunakais
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Harold & Kay Pickering
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Alethea Putnam
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joann Lininger
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Patricia Hogard
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joann Lininger
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Harold & Kay Pickering
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Alethea Putnam
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ruth Mizrachi
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Uma Veloo
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Amy Bergmann
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ruth Mizrachi
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

R-Laurraine Tutihasi
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Malcolm Clark
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carol Bacon
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joan Angelosanto
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

jorge belloso-curiel
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carol Bacon
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Katherine Brown
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joan Angelosanto
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

R-Laurraine Tutihasi
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Doug Paterson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

James Hansen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Doug Paterson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

James Hansen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

john deltognoarmanasco
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John DelTognoArmanasco
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brian Klubek
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lisal Jacobson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brock Auerbach-Lynn
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brock Auerbach-Lynn
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

James Allbritten
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jody Bitner
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Charles Warwick
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Chuck Daly
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Patti Grabowski
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Chuck Daly
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Patti Grabowski
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Amy Hartzog
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

James Deshotels
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ellen McConnell
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

James Deshotels
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ellen McConnell
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marcia Oreilly
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Frank Stroupe
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marcia Oreilly
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Alex MacCollom
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gina Mori
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brenda Lahm
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sharon Crapo
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Piero Zoro
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sharon Crapo
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brenda Lahm
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Piero Zoro
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Chere Fuessel
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Chere Fuessel
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Amy Christenson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Frey
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Amy Christenson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brenda Simon
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Patricia Miller
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lauren Wagner
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Patricia Miller
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lauren Wagner
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

mariebessie crawford
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

mariebessie crawford
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Janet Kuncl
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sasha Mendez
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Janet Kuncl
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nancy Carter
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sasha Mendez
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Beth Carr
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

mariebessie crawford
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

jose Diaz
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Beth Carr
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

jose Diaz
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kristine Moore
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Margie Gilbert
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kristine Moore
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Matthew O'Brien
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Matthew O'Brien
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The debacle of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the check.

Sincerely,

Richard Ordonez
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Deb Staudt
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sue Biederman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Walter Pinkus

Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ramon Trumbull
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ramon Trumbull
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Carlon
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Carlon
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely, Joan Stanton

Joan Stanton
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joan Stanton
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Elda Luisi
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Judy Allen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Laura Collins
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Judy Allen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Laura Collins

Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Christine Tindall
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ben C
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brad Daniels
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brad Daniels
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

matt woodward
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

matt Woodward
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Brian Smalley
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

christina welteroth
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Brian Smalley
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joan Read
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Christine Tindall
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. David Sherman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. David Sherman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Eddy
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Edie Bruce
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Edie Bruce
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ruby C Brown
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Yancey
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Yancey
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary Anne Orlich
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Scott B. Morris
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Scott B. Morris
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sumit Shah
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Scott B. Morris
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sumit Shah
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Janet Correll
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Carney
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ellen Epstein
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,
Ms. Maria Celia Hernandez 11-19-2015
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Paul Drake
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

SUE Duncan
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Janet Correll
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Haney
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Barbara Tucker
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Paul Runion
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Arnie Hummasti
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Haney
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Arnie Hummasti
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

SUE Duncan
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

William Cunningham
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

William Cunningham
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ronald Ratner
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rachel Lileet-Foley
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Margo Vanderhill
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Peggy Sue
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bonnie Jaskolka
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bonnie Jaskolka
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Suzy Fraser
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Chrysanne Vogt
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Karen Kravcov Malcolm
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Buzz Alpert
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Karen Kravcov Malcolm
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Buzz Alpert
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Mary Ferraro
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Granny Ralls
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Steve Perron
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Christopher Doney
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Mary Ferraro
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lascinda Goetschius
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Christopher Doney
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

marcos velez
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Anton Feokhari
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Anton Feokhari
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Beverly Mick
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Beverly Mick
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Probyn Gregory
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Probyn Gregory
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jessica Johnston-Walsh
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bob Ray
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ed Wertheimer
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Thomas Noble
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

lillian hom
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ed Wertheimer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Steve Bianchi
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nancy Taylor
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Taylor Aiken
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Taylor Aiken
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sara Brigham
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sara Brigham
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Holly Hall
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Holly Hall
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dr. Raymond Katz
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Micaela Pronio
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Margaret Bradbury
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Deimile Mockus
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Margaret Bradbury
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Johanna Stone
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Deimile Mockus
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tori Childers
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Peter Lee
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Peter Lee
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

c s
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

c s
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Barbara Bonfield
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Barbara Bonfield
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kathi Ridgway
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ash Bradshaw
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bruno Milone
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

bill lamorte
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

bill lamorte
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

c hidy
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bruno Milone
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

[Redacted]

[Redacted]
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Teresa Fine
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Anne Baierschmitt
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Frances Blair
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jerry Charlson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Anne Baierschmitt
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jerry Charlson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jerry Chagala
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ash Bradshaw
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Frances Blair
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Emily Fogarty
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Roger Podewell
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Roger Podewell
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dennis Eicholtz
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nancy Diskin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

P M
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Thomas Hutton
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tara Price
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ryan Pelowski
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tara Price
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ryan Pelowski
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Alex Berg
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Laurie Kittelson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brent Bray
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brent Bray
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Laurie Kittelson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cheryl Faris
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Arnold Ruiz
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Arnold Ruiz
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Aaron Novack
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Aaron Novack
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

teofan tomescu
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Olga Abella
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

teofan tomescu
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sondra Crouch
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Laurel Tumarkin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mike Williams
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gregory Kimber
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mike Williams
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tamara Saarinen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Laurel Tumarkin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Greg Wert
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Byron Griffin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kathleen Nelson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bruce Nicholson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bruce Nicholson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kathleen Nelson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Aleida Saadati
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gregory Kimber
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Aleida Saadati
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dana Wilson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dana Wilson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carl Stapler
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carl Stapler
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tamara Saarinen
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lorna Paisley
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lorna Paisley
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Heather Mack
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Heather Mack
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Heather Steele
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Glyn Deputy
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

anne Eneman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Glyn  Deputy
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Alan Somers
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susi Brothers
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susi Brothers
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marlies Lee
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marsha Wilson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Alice McGough

Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marsha Wilson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Alice McGough
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Christopher Lee
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jayson Luu
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Yousong Mei
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Klaudia Nowak
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Yousong Mei
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Domenico Mastrototaro
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Fredrica Hicks
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gino Pastorino
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Persephone Maywald
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kimberly Wiley
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dr. Harriet McCleary
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susan Cox
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kimberly Wiley
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susan Cox
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Frank Mele
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Chrystel Hohmann
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Chrystel Hohmann
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Fredrica Hicks
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Andy L
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Stephanie Iverson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ken W Simpson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

James Merrill
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

James Merrill
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susan Selbin
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Varnum
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sharon Bolton
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susan Selbin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. susan pelican
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sharon Bolton
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Frances Onesti
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Frances Onesti
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mindi White
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

James Mitchell
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ann Eppler
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Karl Moore
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kevin Hughes
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jaime Grimwood
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Charles Tribbey
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Charles Tribbey
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rebekah Daniels
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ann Eppler
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brandon Allendorf
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

William Barrett
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Steven Lehti
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Steven Pearce
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Devon Kennedy
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Devon Kennedy
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Steven Pearce
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Eric Andersen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Liz Sigel
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Matthew Crane
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Liz Sigel
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Matthew Crane
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tim Lawnicki
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Julie Squire
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Brodnax
Brodnax
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mrs. Patricia Chang
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sharon Brunner
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sharon Brunner
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Julie Squire
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mrs. Patricia Chang
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Martha Spencer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Phil Shephard
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jessica Leng
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cosette Freeman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Edith Maldonado
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Herbert C. Ziegler
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bruce Rutherford
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Brodnax Brodnax
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Peter Paget
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bob Johns
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

paul ievins
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Helene Harrison
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Shanovia "Navee" Escoe
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Julie Ciancio
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Miranda Rudnicki
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Vivian Sovran
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Seckel
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Patricia J. McTaggart
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Seckel
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dr. David D. Markwardt
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dr. David D. Markwardt
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mrs. Mary R. Wolfe
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kathryn Barry
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Leslie Dee
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Maher
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Paulette M. Switzer-Tatum
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Leslie Dee
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Maher
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Paulette M. Switzer-Tatum
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kevin Loucks
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lynne Chesire
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lynne Chesire
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Karl Armens
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marsha Malone
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marsha Malone
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Paul S
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Anton Feokhari
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kelly McVey
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Breeden
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sabrina Sarne
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Breeden
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kelly McVey
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Richard Hanson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lana Touchstone
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ernest Pacheco
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

C. Martinez
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Bravender
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

JONNY PICKLES
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rebecca Bierbaum
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rebecca Bierbaum
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

The Dennis Family
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ryan Acebo
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sabrina Sarne
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Skip Amdahl
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Skip Amdahl
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Keith Horton
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Skip Amdahl
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

The Dennis Family

Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sarah Dallosto
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Janene Frahm
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Janene Frahm
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rob Wells
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Linzmeier
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

D Bakas
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Anton Feokhari
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Anton Feokhari
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Linzmeier
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Polly Jackson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Polly Jackson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tyler Owens
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Barbara Pelczynska
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Laurence Skirvin
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Thomas Nelson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bambi Magie
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Irene Robinson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Andreas Vlasiadis
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Andreas Vlasiadis
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mikal Baker
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

leanne bynum
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Celeste Hong
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Celeste Hong
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Jason Fish
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Jason Fish
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Deb Federin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Anton Feokhari
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Anton Feokhari
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ben F. Garcia, Ph.D.-ABD
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ben F. Garcia, Ph.D.-ABD
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ben F. Garcia, Ph.D.-ABD
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Richard Abel
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tamara Voyles
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tamara Voyles
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mike Dotson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mike Dotson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Anja Kollbach
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Anja Kollbach
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tammy Barr
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Kondelis
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Daniel Mottert
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Griffin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

J A Ellis
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

J A Ellis
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Horton
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Horton
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

J A Ellis
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Horton
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bob M
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Griffin
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carolyn Vaughan
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bob M
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

THEODORE SPACHIDAKIS
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brian Ksiazek
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Kast
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

THEODORE SPACHIDAKIS
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Burger
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Kast
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Burger
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Lockwood
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

clara pichi goossens
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Lockwood
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Chuck Smith
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

clara pichi goossens
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Chuck Smith
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Tim Milam
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Roy Tansill
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Tim Milam
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mark Walters
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Roy Tansill
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mark Walters
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tina Steele
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tina Steele
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Ruth Clifford
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lesley Patton
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lesley Patton
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Ginger Young
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cami Cameron
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Catherine Bowerman
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cami Cameron
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sarah Newman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Thomas Tizard
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gail Forrest
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Arch McCulloch
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Thomas Tizard
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Graciela Huth
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Graciela Huth
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gail Forrest
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Arch McCulloch
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jetro Lappalainen
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jetro Lappalainen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Duncan Reilly
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Duncan Reilly
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Caroline Drought
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Laura Avant
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Caroline Drought
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Laura Avant
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael and Christine Silver
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael and Christine Silver
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

P.G. Anderson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Otmar Neuhoefer
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

P.G. Anderson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Otmar Neuhoefer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Christine Carol Abraham
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

louis kimes
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

louis kimes
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

louis kimes
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ron Flax
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Valerie Pound
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dale Stroub
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dale Stroub
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Valerie Pound
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

billy daniels
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

billy daniels
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Arthur Riding
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Karen Larsen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Arthur Riding
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Karen Larsen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

j kapLan
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

j kapLan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Philip Onofrietti
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Allen Price
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Allen Price
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Heyward Nash
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Licia Crawford
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Heyward Nash
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bruce Shilling
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Heyward Nash
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bob Crone
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Pamela Gibberman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bob Crone
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Pamela Gibberman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tracy Grauel
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tracy Grauel
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Courtney
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dennis Hoerner
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dennis Hoerner
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Gaumer
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susan Ring
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Rick Faiella
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lonnie Patterson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lonnie Patterson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Rick Faiella
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kathleen Powell
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kathleen Powell
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kari Walters
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kari Walters
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Chad Halsey
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Katherine Hinson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Katherine Hinson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joanne Phillips
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kim Krupinski
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kim Krupinski
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lynn C. C. Lang
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lynn C. C. Lang
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Donald Hunt
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Donald Hunt
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rosemary Battaglia
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rosemary Battaglia
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dr. Ron Goldman
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kim Chamberlain
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kim Chamberlain
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Charles Lange
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Charles Lange
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

mary wickwire
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Guenther Seidel
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Guenther Seidel
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Guenther Seidel
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

[Signature]

Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sarah Alvarez
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Allen Elliott
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ariana Saraha
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ariana Saraha
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Leslie Young
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tabitha Thomasson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tabitha Thomasson

Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Nevin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Maureen McCauley
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Maureen McCauley
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Maria bon
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Maria bon
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Karen Cook
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Julie McCarthy
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Pat Blackwell-Marchant
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Julie McCarthy
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Patricia Matejcek
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely, Renate Uhl

Renate Uhl
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Elizabeth Penn
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely, Renate Uhl

Renate Uhl
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ann Clarkson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

N. B.
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gary Meyers
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gary Meyers
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Heyward Nash
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Heyward Nash
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Heyward Nash
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Heyward Nash
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Smith
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Smith
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Sakura Vesely
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Sakura Vesely
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

William Gray
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

William Gray
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jean Hall
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Andrea Amari
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Martha Koester
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Martha Koester
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Danuta Radko
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jean Hall
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Danuta Radko
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lauren Schiffman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lauren Schiffman
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

betsy cousins-coleman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jose R Ramos
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jose R Ramos
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Crystal Conklin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Crystal Conklin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gregory Elems
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gregory Elems
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Teddy Sedlmayr
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Teddy Sedlmayr
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

James Vragel
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

James Vragel
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Candy Bowman
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Candy Bowman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mrs. Carol Taggart
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mrs. Carol Taggart
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cheryl Hanks-Hicks
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cheryl Hanks-Hicks
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

sharon leeds
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Beth Van arkel
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Beth Van arkel
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Maki
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Maki
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

steve volk
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Clayton Hunter
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Miriam Rivers
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Janice Weiland
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Karen Milliken
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Karen Milliken
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

K R
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

K R
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Clayton Hunter
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brian Larson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rev. Bonnie J. Faith-Smith
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brian Larson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rev. Bonnie J. Faith-Smith
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lynton Herbert
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Isabel Cervera
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brent McCoy
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brent McCoy
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Isabel Cervera
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Corey Harper-Winans
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Corey Harper-Winans
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

J. Atwell
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

J. Atwell
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tim Isaksson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

R. D. Peterson, Ph D
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bradley Richardson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

R. D. Peterson, Ph D
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Diana Morgan-Hickey
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Diana Morgan-Hickey
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ruth Mendes
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Peggy Mccauley
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Christina Burton
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Christina Burton
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joy Mamoyac
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Wolfgang M. Egger
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Alejandro Ceruelo Delgado
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Wolfgang M. Egger
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Steven Markgraf
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Stephen Bellomo
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Steven Markgraf
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Deborah Colotti
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Julian Dörmann
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Julian Dörmann
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Coughlin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Coughlin
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Karen Baker
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Karen Baker
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dana L Beck
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dana L Beck
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Evan Kroeker
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Peter Vaessen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ann Kennedy
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Peter Vaessen
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ann Kennedy
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Cecil
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Steve Bloom
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Eric Voorhies
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Eric Voorhies
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

James Bochenek
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Alex Stavis
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Alex Stavis
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Penny Derleth
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Penny Derleth
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ann Wales
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Hal Trufan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Hal Trufan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

George Davis
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

George Davis
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carla Christenson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Oscar Revilla

, NC 28024
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carla Christenson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Oscar Revilla
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Aedan Lake
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jodie Echard
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jodie Echard
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Aedan Lake
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

kelly caffrey
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jacquelyn Swank
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jacquelyn Swank
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Chanda Farley
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Alexandra Rappaport
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Alexandra Rappaport
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Chanda Farley
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Phyllis Washington
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Phyllis Washington
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mavis Knight
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mavis Knight
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tom Robinson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mavis Knight
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tom Robinson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

B. Conelley
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Abigail Howes
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Patrick Watson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Patrick Watson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lawrence Lujan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Quinet
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lawrence Lujan
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Quinet
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Shawn Thompson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Shawn Thompson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Earl Gregg Swem III
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Earl Gregg Swem III
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Earl Gregg Swem III
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sandra Koppel
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sandra Koppel
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joy Murphy
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jeffrey Warme
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mick McMahon
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mick McMahon
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Andreas Offenborn
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Andreas Offenborn
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Becky Lechner
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Becky Lechner
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kyle Petlock
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kyle Petlock
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Beth Hall
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Harry Mello
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Beth Hall
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Harry Mello
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mark Newlon
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mark Newlon
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ruth Koblenz
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joann Wells
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joann Wells
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bergit Hofbaur
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kerry Moore
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Stacie Charlebois
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Angela Bernal
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Patti Walker
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Doug Vermeulen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Doug Vermeulen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jerry Kolasinski
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jerry Kolasinski
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jan Mitchell
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Stacie Charlebois
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ann Demuth
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Catherine Foley
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nancy Hh
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rick Snyder
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nancy Hh
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

R Chesterton
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

R Chesterton
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Barbara Jannicelli
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mona McFarlane
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Shadle
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Shadle
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Francine Toor
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tim Guy
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tim Guy
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

kathy smith
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

kathy smith
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gemma Crutchfield
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gemma Crutchfield
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Erika Anderson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gemma Crutchfield
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lynda Constable
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lynda Constable
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Erika Anderson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Doris S. June
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Julie Diaz
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Sharon Mylott
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Clayton Conway
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Clayton Conway
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ian Songan
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ted Nimmo
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ian Songan
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ted Nimmo
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rebecca Schopfer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rebecca Schopfer
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bruce Burns
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,
Brandon Viverata
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brandon Viverata
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Stefano Bovero
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Thomas Tripp
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Thomas Tripp
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Katie Picardy
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Katie Picardy
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gregory Mikkelson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susan King
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susan King
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sonia Zainko
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ronald Garner
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ian Kruger
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ian Kruger
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Christopher Armerding
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Christopher Armerding
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Annie Wei
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Annie Wei
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

christine moore
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

christine moore
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

rohana wolf
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rachelle Brou
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

rohana wolf
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rachelle Brou
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Caroline Williams
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Caroline Williams
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Chris Holleman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

J. Dana Forbes
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Chris Holleman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Seth Brownstein
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sylvie Karlsda
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Aileen McEvoy
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Aileen McEvoy
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Zoltan Croll
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rena Jackson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Zoltan Croll
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rena Jackson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sylvie Karlsda
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Louise Blackman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bob Ford
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Louise Blackman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jacqui Trevillian
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jacqui Trevillian
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nora Sotomayor
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Holly Stachnik
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jane Leatherman Leaetherman Van Praag
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Holly Stachnik
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Esperanza Aritmendi
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jennie Blodgett
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Anthony Westman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ramona Hi
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Roger Montgomery
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Roger Montgomery
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Emanuela Bedendo
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ceacy Henderson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sheila Teisher
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Klara Firestone
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jack Halley
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Dickey
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jack Halley
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Dickey
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dorothy Coleman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Julia Hudgens
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dorothy Coleman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Margaret Perrin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Yvonne Hardgrave
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Peter Antonets
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Peter Antonets
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Aaron Libson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Todd Kerekes
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Todd Kerekes
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

jeannine piro
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

jeannine piro
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Margaret Runfors
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Margaret Runfors
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Arnold Ruiz
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Larry McLean
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Deborah Brown-Ridley
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Deborah Brown-Ridley
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Laurel E Brewer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

ronald bougie
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

ronald bougie
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Laurel E Brewer
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kevin O'Donnell
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kevin O'Donnell
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

dk singer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

dk singer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Janna Zeilstra
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kenneth Ashe
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jean Goetinck
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Andy Hughes
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jean Goetinck
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Andrew Gill
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Andy Hughes
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Eugene Bradford
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Andrew Gill

Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Eugene Bradford
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

roy adsit
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

roy adsit
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Wayne Cochrane
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marianne Carlin
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Becca Greenstein
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marianne Carlin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Craig Drew
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Deborah Wall
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Deborah Wall
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ellen Cupp
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Miriah Reynolds
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Miriah Reynolds
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Pat Bunte
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Pat Bunte
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Steve Jones
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Steve Jones
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tom Cate
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Edith Williams
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Catherine A Pisacano
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

GARY SHOPE
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joan Martorano
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rita Lemkuil
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rita Lemkuil
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lisa Hanes Goodlander
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Beth Mantiply
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Beth Mantiply
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ellen Moyer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

matthew genaze
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gerard van Tol
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

matthew genaze
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gerard van Tol
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Donna Hungerford
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Maud van Tol
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Donna Hungerford
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

D Cohen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Orlin Braddy
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nina Davis
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Orlin Braddy
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Luke Ouradnik
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nina Davis
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Luke Ouradnik
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John & PJ Liebson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

James Zubko
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

James Zubko
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kevin Bannon
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kevin Bannon
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Undlin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Undlin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Kenneth Ruby
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Kenneth Ruby
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Dierig
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Dierig
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Raymond Ferguson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Caroline Sévilla
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Raymond Ferguson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Caroline Sévilla
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Collins
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ava Collopy
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Collins
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ava Collopy
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

james anderson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sonia E. Goldstein
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sonia E. Goldstein
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

james anderson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

William Forbes
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Patricia Gladding
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

William Forbes
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Patricia Gladding
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kathryn Martin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rachel Onstott
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kathryn Martin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rachel Onstott
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bob Ostrander
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bob Ostrander
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

F Bean
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

F Bean
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rita Mahoney
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rita Mahoney
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rose Burke
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Valerie A Dare
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rose Burke
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Albert and Betty Hoehn
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Albert and Betty Hoehn
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kim White
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kim White
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Roberts
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Al Trutter
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Revis Osler
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Revis Osler
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tracey Peterson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tracey Peterson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

mike cavalier
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Al Trutter
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

thomas hart
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

thomas hart
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,
Maria Sagrario Barrio
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

michael casler
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lawrence Gioielli
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lawrence Gioielli
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Saraphine Métis
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rita Meuer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rita Meuer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rita Meuer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Paul Dougherty
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Benjamin Luchini
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dorothy Mathews
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Benjamin Luchini
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sheila Richard
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Eric West
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mojca Kavar
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mojca Kavar
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jessica Bundy
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jessica Bundy
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tina Gardner
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jill Schreier
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John S Pearson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John S Pearson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jill Schreier
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nancy Evans
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nancy Evans
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

William Shields
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

William Shields
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Browning
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Elizabeth Knowlton
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Browning
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Douglas Chalmers
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Anna-Marie Soper-O’Rourke
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Anna-Marie Soper-O'Rourke
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Reynolds Aultman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Steven Hernandez
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Reynolds Aultman
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Steven Hernandez
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rhonda Anderson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary Barhydt
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary Barhydt
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Richard Turner
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brent Hepner
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brent Hepner
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sharon Narushoff
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sharon Narushoff
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Phyllis Attanasio
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sandi Zangerle
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sandi Zangerle
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tracei Cagle
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tracei Cagle
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Margo Wyse
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kim White
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Holly Qualls
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sally Purbrick-Illek
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Holly Qualls
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sally Purbrick-Ileke
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Elizabeth DellaValle
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Elizabeth DellaValle
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dakota Allen
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Stephen Kubick
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rita-Ann FitzGerald
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rita-Ann FitzGerald
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nerissa Morgan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gertrude Robinson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gertrude Robinson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lenore Sivulich
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lenore Sivulich
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

kris b
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Donna Mulvey Gieber
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sue Schlick
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Donna Mulvey Gieber
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sue Schlick
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

William Boden
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Barbara Miller
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

William Boden
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Barbara Miller
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Anthony Robiolio
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Louise Bikoff
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tammy Bittler
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tammy Bittler
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Peggy Ricci
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brenda Norris
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brenda Norris
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Chris Thomson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carla Takacs
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ilya Turov
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Beverly
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mike Gilmore
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Rowe
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Alicia Aubart
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated, and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Weingart
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gail Troy
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Pat Holloway
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joseph Wenzel
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joseph Wenzel
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ted Pratt
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Wanda Mourant
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ted Pratt
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Pam Robbins
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Pam Robbins
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gene Polito
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Erna Beerheide
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gene Polito

Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susan Campbell
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Allie Pappano
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Allie Pappano
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Eric Outten
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Zuzonna Huot
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Eric Outten
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Scott Seppi
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Scott Seppi
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mark Forrester
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nathan Shaw
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Morten Christoffersen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Morten Christoffersen
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

N. Powers
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

N. Powers
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

James Welch
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Patricia Tholl
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Patricia Tholl
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely, Gerald St. Germaine

Gerald St. Germaine
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Evelyn Bell
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joel and Mary Bonham
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely, Gerald St. Germaine

Gerald St. Germaine
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Caressa Al-Khateeb
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dennis Ledden
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jo Anne Gould
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Merryl Woodard
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Merryl Woodard
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dennis Ledden
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John van Kleef
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Kathryn Rose
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Kathryn Rose
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Anne Christine Anderson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Emily Metz
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Emily Metz
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John van Kleef
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gary Anderson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rose Moran
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jennifer Harris
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Thomas Gilmore
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kathi Brinkman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kathi Brinkman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ann Diamond
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kathi Brinkman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Salome Argyropoulos
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Loraine Yow
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Salome Argyropoulos
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jan Dudek
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Loraine Yow
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jan Dudek
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ann Miller
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ann Miller
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Madeline Perkins
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Madeline Perkins
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lorelei Stierlen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jo R Jones, DVM
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lorelei Stierlen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

[Signature]
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bob Rusk
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sunder Alwani
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Hallie Barnes
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Hallie Barnes
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

linda waters
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

linda waters
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Colleen Hutchins
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Richard Ricciotti
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Colleen Hutchins
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Necole Cook
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bob Rusk
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Necole Cook
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Eileen Smits
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Eileen Smits
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Kaufmann
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rita Mullis
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rita Mullis
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Phyllis Turner
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Phyllis Turner
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marie Littlefair
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Dr. F Taylor
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Roel Cantu
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Roel Cantu
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marta Martinez
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marc LaComb
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marylee Kishel
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Maxine Jaffee
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Leanna Hollon
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Maxine Jaffee
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Leanna Hollon
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gina Campbell
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jeff Hibbard
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gina Campbell
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Martha Izzo
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jeffery Blanton
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jeffery Blanton
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Anthony Guarisco Jr
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Anthony Guarisco Jr
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joan How
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Doris Verkamp
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Doris Verkamp
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joan How
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Adarsh Ayyar
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Adarsh Ayyar
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Andy Middleton
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Andy Middleton
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

TOM HYPSE
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Scott Stueve
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

L. Childs
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joseph Klein
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Barb Fath
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joseph Klein
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Barb Fath
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Alexandra Sipiora
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Alexandra Sipiora
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Sidaway
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Sidaway
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Chuck Atkinson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Chuck Atkinson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Yvonne Irvin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mike M
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Yvonne Irvin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mike M
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jean Hartje
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Raymond Fox
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Thomas Gent
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Bayait
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kathy Kestell
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Thomas Gent
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kathy Kestell
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Bayait
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Alexandra Schulz
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. John Teevan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. John Teevan
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Donna Bookheimer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Donna Bookheimer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Connie Slaten
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary Ferrigno
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

CarolAnn DePalma
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

CarolAnn DePalma

Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Geiger
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jo Adamson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Geiger
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

M Moore
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cathie Kwasneski
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Roger Maxwell
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Roger Maxwell
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rosemary Colson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rosemary Colson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Phillip Godsey
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary Turner
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Sargent
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nancy Wedow
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Sargent
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nancy Wedow
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nancy Wedow
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Maren Kentfield
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Pat Rabin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Pat Rabin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marjorie Miller
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Catherine Ribeiro
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Catherine Ribeiro
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Abraham Masri
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Justin Tobias
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Oneida Arosarena
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Justin Tobias
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Oneida Arosarena
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Aloysius Wojocockowicz
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Abraham Masri
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Clement Thurn
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Clement Thurn
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Janet Chase
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Barbara Delgado
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Janet Chase
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Barbara Delgado
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ralph Milliken
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Priscilla Rocco
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Benjamin Willer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

R Wells
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Vic Mandarich
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Priscilla Rocco
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

William Wrage
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Alan Jasper
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Alice Dugar
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Alan Jasper
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

stacey harris
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Alice Dugar
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mark Dorsten
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mark Dorsten
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Katia Iannacome
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Glen Kappy
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Merle Showers
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tina Wilson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Monika Guernsey
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tricia Van Oers
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tina Wilson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Trish Bunyard
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

MuQi Quintanilla
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Claudia Richner
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Claudia Richner
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David O'Grady
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David O'Grady
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dionna Bittle
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dionna Bittle
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

mary hobbs
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lydia Elliott-Buettner
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

mary hobbs
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Don Bianchi
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Don Bianchi
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Pamela Cramer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Scott Trees
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Than Hansen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

gregory whynott
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

JoAnn Algasso
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Scott Trees
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joan Gussow
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joan Gussow
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

patsy coffman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Harvey Reed
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Harvey Reed
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming ANY portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Barbara Bruce
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

suzanna davis
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

suzanna davis
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carol Carlson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carol Carlson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dane Ailill
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dennis Semprini
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susan Vergne
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ramona Kopnick
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susan Vergne
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Donald Garlit
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Don Leisen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Danny M.
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jagruti Joshi
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joyce Mole
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nancy Pape
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Thomas Jacoby
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Thomas Jacoby
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Stephanie E.
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bonita Becker
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Martin Sheehan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

STeve MAdasHell Lange
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Martin Sheehan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Donna Malvin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Richard Tidd
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Richard Tidd
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dychi Fujimaki
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dychi Fujimaki
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Clyde Pedigo
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Margaret Herten
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. James Rokosch
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Margaret Herten
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sean Colburn
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mark Greaves

Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mark Greaves
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mark Greaves
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Daniel Sotello
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susan Smerdel
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sean Colburn
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Danny M.
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joan Fisher
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction. The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Peter Koch
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jim 202
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jim 202
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ronald Carter
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jim 202
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Kramarck
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Melissa Matson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ralph Morehouse
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Judith Hinch
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Judith Hinch
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

phyllis lafferty
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Melissa Matson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mark Stout
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mark Rossetti
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ramsay MacLeod
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary Jensen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary Jensen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mike Post
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mike Post
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jane Crick
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jane Crick
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Christine Erdner
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

lisa dunphy
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

lisa dunphy
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

A Feywine
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

A Feywine
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Travis Jennings
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Laura Bernstein
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Edwards
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

George Motisher
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Thompson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Emma Jennings
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bryan Baier
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Stephanie Limpert
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Thompson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bryan Baier
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Stephanie Limpert
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rob Barnes
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Charles Brumleve
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kyle Jessiman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kyle Jessiman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Edye Calderon
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Maria Pelova
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary Ann Millay
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Maria Pelova
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mark Joy
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mark Joy
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

william hovatter
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ramiro Herrera
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ramiro Herrera
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Amanda Santmyer
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Amanda Santmyer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kathryn VanOosting
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Geraldine Ring
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Donald Davenport
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Norma Chin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Donald Davenport
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Margaret Bullitt-Jonas
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Edward Reichbach
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Edward Reichbach
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Erline Towner
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Erline Towner
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

joe madero
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Steven Kostis
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Steven Kostis
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Randi Langas
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cornelia Jensen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John P. Rooney
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cornelia Jensen
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary Rutland
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Deborah Spencer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Deborah Spencer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Neal Howerton
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Neal Howerton
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bianca Sodfried
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bianca Sodfried
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Suzanne Pinto
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Suzanne Pinto
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Julie Griffith
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Natalie Price
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Heidi Haehlen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Natalie Price
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marilyn Couture
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Caitlin Meyer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Leslie Sheridan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Browning
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Browning
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Allison Risdon
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Allison Risdon
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Roseann Fiore
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Evelyn Hutt
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Evelyn Hutt
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Snope
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

M Krikava
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

James C Parkinson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Todd Gukelberger
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kamran Chaudhary
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kelli Parks
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Justice Griffin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Stacey Wolfe
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Herman Hardy
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

BEN GREGO
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

BEN GREGO
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sarah Dorwin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tara Hottenstein
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cheryl Ryder
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cheryl Ryder
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tara Hottenstein
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marilyn Kaggen
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marilyn Kaggen
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mike Bloedel
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

emanuela sala
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

emanuela sala
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

mariya stimson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kathy Oppenhuizen
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

carol pre
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cody Gumz
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kathy Oppenhuizen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Wilson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary Raymond
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary Raymond
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael McKay
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sara Soens
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sara Soens
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

GERALD GREEN
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

GERALD GREEN
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Aaron Frick
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

gordon mastro
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Janet Pecci
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Janet Pecci
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Janell Smith
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Janell Smith
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Pamela Hamilton
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Pamela Hamilton
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Shannon Marshall
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

ELIZABETH MARSHALL
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

ELIZABETH MARSHALL
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Shannon Marshall
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Cornell
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carol Baumann
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Leslie Rife
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carol Baumann
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Allison Risdon
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Judith Burke
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nathaniel Hammerli
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nathaniel Hammerli
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cathy Mathias
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Holly Hope
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kathy Washington
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nickie Kelly
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

amy hanley
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Suzann Finch
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jean Vavrek
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Christine Centineo
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Koster
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Koster
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Scott Letendre
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Christine Centineo
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Scott Letendre
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Melissa Paige
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Melissa Paige
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jane Gulley
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sarah Lanzman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

F. Robert Wesley
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Doug and Jan Parker
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

F. Robert Wesley
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sarah Lanzman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Doug and Jan Parker
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Pam Abirached
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

gussie Segal
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Maureen Slotto
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Chris Evans
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Barbara Davidson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kimberly nieman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Martin Hazeltine
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Martin Hazeltine
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Charles Speegle
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Christina Jackson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Christina Jackson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Virginia McEwan
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Reid
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Reid
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Subotnik
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sandra Williams
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely, David Subotnik

David Subotnik
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sharon Miville
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sharon Miville
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sandra Williams
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Erin Wright
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Samuel McCulloch
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lynne Bemer
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sharon Cook
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Edward O'Connor
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Edward O'Connor
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Craig Rozniecki
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Craig Rozniecki
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lisa Grandstaff
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

diane wickline
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Barbara Sullivan
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Barbara Sullivan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Eowyn Grecco
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Eowyn Grecco
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Harrison
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brian Pomerantz
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

john scahill
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

john scahill
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Aaron Frick
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Wuethrich
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brian Schiebel
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brad Anderson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ellen Hertzmark
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Margaret Minges
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

James Geary
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

James Geary
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lucinda Murphy
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lucinda Murphy
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Charles Mace
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Amber Ford
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Janet Quartaroli
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

D O
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marie Petrasy
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marie Petrasy
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Denise Maurer
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Denise Maurer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Martha Durham
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

john deptula
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Anna Rossell
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Donna Myhre
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marion Ehrlich
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Catharine Stringfellow
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

elena tam
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marion Ehrlich
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Deborah Piatt
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tom Dodge
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tom Dodge
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Alexander Gaya
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Alexander Gaya
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Anita Jones
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nancy Boyce
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nancy Boyce
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rebecca Tesch
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bob Nace
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dr Thomas Martino
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rebecca Tesch
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Suzanne Hamer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bob Nace
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jill Chadbourne
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jill Chadbourne
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Erasmo Joseph
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Josh Kaye-Carr
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Josh Kaye-Carr
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Erasmo Joseph
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Erasmo Joseph
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rachel Campbell
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rachel Campbell
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Don Swanson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Don Swanson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ron L Hubbard
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

L Ferber
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carl Kohls
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ron L Hubbard
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Pedro Rodriguez
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Pedro Rodriguez
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Karen Fletcher
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

cynthia roberts
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Karen Fletcher
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

cynthia roberts
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Pragati Harde
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lee Jordan
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

James R. Whitefield
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Alexa McMahan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Pragati Harde
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lisa Thorne
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Richard Marshall
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mohammed Ra
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Richard Marshall
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jordan Lahanas
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ann Kuter
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jennifer Schmidt
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susan MacGregor
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Sarver
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gregory Penniston
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gregory Penniston
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jordan Lahanas
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bradley Barrett
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brian Bucknam
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David LaValle
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brian Bucknam
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Paul Hawley
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David LaValle
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Paul Hawley
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bradley Barrett
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bruce Cole
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bradley Barrett
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bradley Barrett
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Matt Reola
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kathleen Salvas
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Matt Reola
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sheila Ward
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sheila Ward
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jon Kasper
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jon Kasper
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Johnson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Johnson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jennifer Reame
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jennifer Reame
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

William Winstanley
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

William Winstanley
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dawn Ziegler
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marjorie Williams
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Heidi Ahlstrand
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dawn Ziegler
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Heidi Ahlstrand
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Pierpaoli
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Liane McGhee
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Liane McGhee
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Deanna Kepler
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sylvia Witte
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Thomas Perrette
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Thomas Perrette
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kelsey Taylor
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lawrence Pfleger
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lawrence Pfleger
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ann Kuter
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Fred/Mary Worman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Clay Hansen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Patricia Henderson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Patricia Henderson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Raymond Vosilla
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Amy Tabb
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cathy Goodrich
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gina Sanfilippo
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

matt majersky
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

matt majersky
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Matthew Tarpley
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Glebs
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert K Smith
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert K Smith
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Billie Stapleton
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joanne LaFreniere
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Steve Van Allen
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Billie Stapleton
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joanne LaFreniere
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Steve Van Allen
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Eva Schmelzer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Eva Schmelzer
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lauri Lincoln
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Monte Millick
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Kevin Rolfes
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lauri Lincoln
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Victor Sytzko
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Kevin Rolfes
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Monte Millick
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Hayley Keeney
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Debbie McCarthy
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brian Sadlo
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Debbie McCarthy
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cathren Murray
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kait Reisner
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kait Reisner
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jill Lavallee
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sarina Amato
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jill Lavallee
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sarina Amato
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bridget Law
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

James Padier
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Strelke
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Patricia Jerrels
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Strelke
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Martin Wolf
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Karen Deckel
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Karen Deckel
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Beth Redwine
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tiana Brachel
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Randall Wayne
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Howard Scott
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

aaron tyler
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Randall Wayne
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susan Lewis
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marta Martinez
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susan Lewis
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Karen Kelly
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Karen Kelly
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Wayne Goin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Wayne Goin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Denise St John
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Denise St John
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

karen krause
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jared Hancock
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jared Hancock
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Philip Heinegg
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rose Lagerberg
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Doris Queener
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cate Harrison
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rose Lagerberg
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cate Harrison
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Felicia Colvin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Felicia Colvin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Paglierani
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lisal Canning
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joseph Worley
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joseph Worley
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Julie Bach

Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Julie Bach
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Daniel Cupp
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Christiansen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Barbara Martin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sue Duerr
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Reimers
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Reimers
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Randal James
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Randal James
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nancy Wasser
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Irek Sipowicz-Hicks
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Irek Sipowicz-Hicks
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mihai Grigoriu
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mihai Grigoriu
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mihai Grigoriu
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sergi Goldman-Hull
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sergi Goldman-Hull
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michal Pober
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Judith Hance
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marina Wong
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marina Wong
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Caleb Drake
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Caleb Drake
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kathleen Hilliard
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tammi Turner
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tammi Turner
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bobbie Glass
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Julian Ricardo
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Eleanor Horneman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Eleanor Horneman
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jennifer Mundine
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Francis Spreitzer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Irma Rose
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Francis Spreitzer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Thomas Martin
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jerry Orr
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jerry Orr
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Melody Kouba
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Melody Kouba
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Judith Foran
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Judith Foran
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Christopher Brewer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

L. J. Lanfranchi
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary Ellen Weiner
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

L. J. Lanfranchi
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary Ellen Weiner
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mark Warren
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Matthieu Brillet
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joan Robertson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joan Robertson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

nan buckley
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

nan buckley
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Peggy Smith
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ivanna Gomez
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ivanna Gomez
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Paula Moseley
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jim Aldrich
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jim Aldrich
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Melis Basman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jennifer Palmer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

erin garcia
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

erin garcia
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Melis Basman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dimitris Dallis
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dimitris Dallis
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sheila Powers
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joel Harrison
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sandra Speicher
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Daniel Colaluca
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Liberty Brigner
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Soares
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Soares
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Janet Glover
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nancy Motts
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cheryl Pohl
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Frances Mican
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cheryl Pohl
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

rich kunkel
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Elizabeth Root
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Elizabeth Root
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

M Margit Winckler PhD
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Alice Brody
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Donald Saucier
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Donald Saucier
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

James Hansen
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sandra Dubinsky
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Barbara Walrafen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Anne Sobel
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Demaris Hollembeak
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kathy Grant
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ruth Van Laningham
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Richard Han
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joe Buhowsky
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brian Gingras
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joe Buhowsky
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Karen Cheesman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Karen Cheesman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sue Harwood
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sue Harwood
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Heike Feldmann
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Heike Feldmann
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sue Harwood
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Alan Brown
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lucius Dionysus
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Andree Armand
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Andree Armand
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Pamela Robinson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lucius Dionysus
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Donna Charter
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bush Nguyen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Doug Grainge
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Doug Grainge
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nancy Neumann
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Donna Carswell
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Thank you.

Sincerely,

The Rev. Allan B. B. Jones
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Craig Choma
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Craig Choma
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Federica Bracciotti
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Federica Bracciotti
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

C Rising
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

C Rising
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kevin Turner
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susan Mattice
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Angela Porcelli
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Angela Porcelli
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mark Mansfield
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Andrea Smith
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Andrea Smith
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Deborah Fobes
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Eugene Atkin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Karen Naifeh
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Betty Barkman
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Karen Naifeh
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Yvonne Pratt
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Yvonne Pratt
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

amy gignac
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Richard Brunke
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Angela Porcelli
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Danielle Cortese
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Arnold Strang
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Arnold Strang
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Caitlin Brooks
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Erin Rowe
Dear Atty. Gen. Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Erin Rowe
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jeff Willoughby
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kate Ague
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. C. H.
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susan Zimmer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susan Zimmer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Chuck Sheaffer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Chuck Sheaffer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. C. H.
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kathy Steinert
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kathy Steinert
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kenneth Kudelchuk
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

E.D. Crum
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

E.D. Crum
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susan MacGregor
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

J Bronfman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

J Bronfman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Susan Fox
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

LeRoy Boyce
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

LeRoy Boyce
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Howard
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Howard
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

margaret karambis
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

margaret karambis
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

alessandro pajno
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Daniel Giesy
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

scott o'connell
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Daniel Giesy
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

alessandro pajno
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Miller
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Miller
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Melissa Rothner
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Melissa Rothner
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Helen Torosian
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Anita Alcantara
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

C.J. Davis
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ralph Watson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Beth Ullmer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Beth Ullmer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Hilary Emberton
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Hilary Emberton
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

s biondi
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

C Ridgway
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Judy Buchsbaum
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

C Ridgway
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Judy Buchsbaum
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gina Dahlstrom
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gina Dahlstrom
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Clinton Anderson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Clinton Anderson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Suzanne Cornell
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary A Kelly
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary A Kelly
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Angela Makki
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Patricia White
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I implore you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lisa Vaughan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

joe edwards
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Terry Usrey
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Terry Usrey
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Madeleine Ascott
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rui Cruz
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Madeleine Ascott
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gene Jones
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Julie Munoz
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rui Cruz
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Julie Munoz
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Martha Picarriello
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Dzikowski
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Dzikowski
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Meagan Fastuca
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cathy Coleman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cathy Coleman
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Emily Clark
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kim Drusky
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kim Drusky
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Shirley Henschen
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Shirley Henschen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ronaald Cavalier
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ben Oscar Andersson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sandy Levine
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sandy Levine
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mark Beckwith
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mark Beckwith
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Evelyn Trevethan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rick Davis
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Pat Sloan
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Madhuri Mix
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Madhuri Mix
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michelle Davis
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Graeme Magruder
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Sagen Smith
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mark Johannsen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Annie McMahon
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Annie McMahon
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Denise Brown
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Stacy Pasetta
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Denise Brown
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that BANS BP from claiming ANY portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must NEVER be repeated and taxpayers should NOT be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ashley Sells
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Greg Singer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that BANS BP from claiming ANY portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must NEVER be repeated and taxpayers should NOT be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ashley Sells
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Alicia Liang
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jack Stapleton
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Alicia Liang
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Guy Harrison
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Guy Harrison
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kris Brooks
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kris Brooks
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Elisabet Vaquer Pasqual
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Elisabet Vaquer Pasqual
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ken Gantos
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Luanne Mierow
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Luanne Mierow
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carol Bruns
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Timothy Mandeville
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Deborah Parker
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Dorothy Miller
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Dorothy Miller
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Christina Meyer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

carol tucker
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Glenyth Turner
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Glenyth Turner
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marsha King
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Huebner
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Huebner
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susan Reamer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Helen Cu
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susan Reamer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Helen Cu
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

William Van Bel
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kathleen Field
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

William Van Bel
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nic Lee
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Andreas Lange
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jerry Castor
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Rogers Jr.
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Rogers Jr.
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nic Lee
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Natalie Hendricks
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Natalie Hendricks
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jeremy Lyons
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jeremy Lyons
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susan Osada
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susan Osada
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kevin Ryle
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kevin Ryle
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

EJ Frost
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Doris Bailey
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

EJ Frost
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Doris Bailey
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mark M Giese
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cheryl Wait
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cheryl Wait
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Yvette Banton
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Yvette Banton
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Barbara Lamb
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Darlene O'Grady
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Darlene O’Grady
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary Sharpee
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary Sharpee
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kevin O'Carroll
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kevin OCarroll
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Maggie Davidson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Maggie Davidson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Elaine Kimbler
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Elaine Kimbler
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mark M Giese
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,
Dennis Wilwerding

DJ Wilwerding
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marjorie Smith
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jennifer Tanner
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jennifer Tanner
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary Fravel
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ronda Good
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jeanette Holmgren
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Janet Hornsby
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jeanette Holmgren
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Janet Hornsby
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Todd McKenney
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Philip Lom
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Todd McKenney
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Philip Lom
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Shawn Lewis
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Shawn Lewis
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jennifer Childers
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jennifer Childers
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Fred Pratt
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Fred Pratt
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Deborah Thornton
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Janice Stine
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Deborah Thornton
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lily Laija
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lily Laija
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joshua Burson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joshua Burson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Margaret Franklin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Quando Gerst
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Karen Smith
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dee Downing
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Karen Smith
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dee Downing
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

philip barreca
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Eric Newman
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Eric Newman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susanna Brinnon
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Chandra Sherin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Amanda Esposito
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Christine Tendle
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kevin Darcy
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cathy Wriedt
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Christine Tendle
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cathy Wriedt
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kevin Darcy
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Axel Vogt
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nancy DeJarlais
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Axel Vogt
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Minette Plaza
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ann Steele
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lolette Stanley
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Diane London
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

freddie williams
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tuule Ingel
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tuule Ingel
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

freddie williams
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Aaron Brunette
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Anderson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Anderson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Elaina VanMaaren
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dennis St.Pierre
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Leah Froemsdorf
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Janet Prieur
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Janet Prieur
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Harriet Shalat
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Harriet Shalat
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carol Costello
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carol Costello
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Anne Horn
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Anne Horn
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Antonette Badami
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rev. Joe Futterer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rev. Joe Futterer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jose Abirached
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Margaret Larrick
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

e d barber
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Margaret Larrick
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tod Wirtz
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tobias Meeker
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tobias Meeker
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Daniel Stillwaggon
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Benjamin Wimmer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Benjamin Wimmer
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sara Berglund
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sami Turetsky
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sami Turetsky
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Merle Neidell
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Philip Fletcher
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jolie Blackburn
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Philip Fletcher
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Phil Tompetrini
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Walter Vos
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Walter Vos
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Daniel Olson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Luci Fowler
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susan Burns
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Luci Fowler
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susan Burns
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Saul Thomas
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

dalyn ortega
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

mike baker
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

mike baker
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

dalyn ortega
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Elaina VanMaaren
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cynthia Nguyen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Peter Haroutian
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Peter Haroutian
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bambi Magie
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Caroline Sévilla
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Caroline Sévilla
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dan Armstrong
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dan Armstrong
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Shawn Fontain
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Shawn Fontain
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Christine Bowani
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bahar Hesabi
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Christine Bowani
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

George Johnson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

George Johnson
Loterra Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

kevin smith
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

kevin smith
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jeff Hibbard
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Heather Biernat
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Heather Biernat
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Heather Biernat
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Heather Biernat
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Sandgrund
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Umberto Gonzales
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Umberto Gonzales
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Helen Jo Williams
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Helen Jo Williams
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robyn Bem
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brad Kinder
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brad Kinder
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Glenn Crawford
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Connie Miller
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Glenn Crawford
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jeanne Puerta
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jeanne Puerta
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joseph Kaleel
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Diana Morales
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Leah Froemsdorf
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Harold Crooks
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Wayne Kelly
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Adil Mehta
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sam Clark DiBrell
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sam Clark DiBrell
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Adil Mehta
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Phillip Alward
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Phillip Alward
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mario Melo
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mario Melo
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Christina Krauz
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Christina Krauz
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Eric Schmall
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Eric Schmall
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

P Beach
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Eleanor Thompson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kevin Schmidt
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kevin Schmidt
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Edmund Skowronski
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

JEAN FRIDAY
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Edmund Skowronski
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Connie Wedding
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Connie Wedding
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carol Ballou
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Raymond Roberge
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carol Ballou
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Raymond Roberge
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Maureen May
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kimmo Virtanen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and TAXPAYERS should NOT be paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tammy Scheuffele
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Harriet Shamblin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Thesesa Galvin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Thesesa Galvin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Harriet Shamblin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Harriet Shamblin
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Lees
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

karan prakash
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

karan prakash
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carol Walker
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary Heiser
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Em Han
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Em Han
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Elaina Valzania
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nancy Bohan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nancy Bohan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Al Zickler
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Melissa Hanmer
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Melissa Hanmer
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carlos Cunha
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carlos Cunha
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Diane Larson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Diane Larson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Olenjack
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Olenjack
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sabrina Napier
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Cavallerio
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Leslie Udaykee
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

jim doutre
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Cavaliero
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Charles Dineen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Charles Dineen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Curt Roelofs
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Maryanne Appel
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Maryanne Appel
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Stacie Slay
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Stacie Slay
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ginny Rosenkranz
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ginny Rosenkranz
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Beth Sellars
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Beth Sellars
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

anne wolf
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Miles Hopkins
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Miles Hopkins
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

cindy gabrielsen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

cindy gabrielsen
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

michael woods
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Kallechey
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tiffany Keefer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Kallechey
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tiffany Keefer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Holly Wells
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Holly Wells
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

William Herrod
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Adil Mehta
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Alvin Almodóvar
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Alvin Almodóvar
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cecil Camune
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cecil Camune
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joe Detaranto
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joe Detaranto
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Arthur Leibowitz
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Louise Buttermore
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

A. McGarry
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

A. McGarry
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Omar Campos
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Omar Campos
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Hal Anthony
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Emerson Tjart
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sabine Buergermeister
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

ange hissler
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon should never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Natalie Clark
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

ange hissler
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Janice Hayne
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Janice Hayne
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Hechtman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Hechtman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ellen Evans
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Katheryn Pinkerton
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Art Steele
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Andy Lopez
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Andy Lopez
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Art Steele
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Andy Lopez
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Andy Lopez
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Alex Everett
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Alex Everett
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sylvie Karlsda
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Herron
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Herron
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Barbara Hunter
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Roberta Wagner
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Soeren Johnson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Don Geren
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Adam Kane
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lisa LeBlanc
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lisa LeBlanc
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jack Lupo
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Adam Kane
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jack Lupo
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Art Bassett
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Art Bassett
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Regina Phillips
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Regina Phillips
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kellie Starr
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kellie Starr
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sharron L laplante MD
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rhetta Alexander
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gregg Yeomans
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Warren Vogt
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ken Goldsmith
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ken Goldsmith
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Pearlly Bouddhara
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Pearlly Bouddhara
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jeff Willoughby
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mia Stein-Kodzik
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mia Stein-Kodzik
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

D.g. Sifuentes
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Deborah Sandoval
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely, Sharon

Sharon Holland
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Deborah Sandoval
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rabbi Dr. Adele Plotkin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Canter
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Canter
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kelly Allison
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ruth Tisher
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ruth Tisher
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ruth Tisher
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lowell Gomes
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jeffrey Erwin
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jeffrey Erwin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Theresa Guilarte
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brigitta Wenzel
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Wanda Sheaffer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ramsey Fendall
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ramsey Fendall
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Wanda Sheaffer
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

George Boggs
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

George Boggs
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rebecca Chang
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rebecca Chang

Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Elizabeth Bush
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Theobald
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

H Upton
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sylvia Silliman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sylvia Silliman
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sonia Rego
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sonia Rego
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sonia Rego
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Richard Cote
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Richard Cote
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Toddy Perryman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jenifer Hartman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Toddy Perryman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gene Candelaria
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gene Candelaria
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

China Altman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susan Godoy
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

China Altman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda McTaggart
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Parillo
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Parillo
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Alexa Unruh
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gina Pantier
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gina Pantier
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jane Bauman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Hal Smith
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kera Ung
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kera Ung
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Baca
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Baca
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lynn Snyder
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jack Meyer
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jack Meyer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Diane West
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Diane West
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brian Baltin
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tiffany Hutchins
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brian Baltin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tiffany Hutchins
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Dunkum
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Dunkum
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rosalie Caliendo
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Catherine Jurgensen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tracy Marlue
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tracy Marlue
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Phillip Clark
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Terry Vaccaro
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Terry Vaccaro
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Spencer Hoggart
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Spencer Hoggart
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Diane Cote
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jani Saari
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bonnie Hoffer-Steiman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bonnie Hoffer-Steiman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Diane Weyer
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Diane Weyer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

James Cantey
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Smith
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brady Watson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brady Watson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Heather Dale
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Heather Dale
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Donald Shaw
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Vicki Warner-Huggins
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Donald Shaw
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Vicki Warner-Huggins
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

car schumann
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dave Redix
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Wendy Curtis
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Hope Crescione
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Hope Crescione
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Joy Ellen Martin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Elizabeth Tuminski
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Elizabeth Tuminski
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Stephen Evans
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Stephen Evans
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must NEVER be repeated and taxpayers should NOT be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Stephanie Gaspar
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Julie Siler
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. [redacted]
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Seth Humphrey
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sue & Dinald E Jay
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sue & Dinald E Jay
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marie Alabiso
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jerome Jagla Jr
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rose Tilley
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rose Tilley
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

C Rising
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

C Rising
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

c t
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

c t
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

William Ninde
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Carie Rodriguez
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Carie Rodriguez
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Chris Johnson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Chris Johnson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jennifer Johnson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. DEBORAH SMITH
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mark Greaves
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. DEBORAH SMITH
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lindsay Pugh
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lindsay Pugh
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Laura Staples
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Laura Staples
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

barb Drake
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dr. Gene Ammarell

Gene Ammarell
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Valeska Gann
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mrs. Rita Gallelli
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Valeska Gann
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,
Dr. Gene Ammarell

Gene Ammarell
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dr. Adina Parsley
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Danelle Laflower
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mark Smith
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cynthia Loewy
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joann Palladino
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bill Ventre
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Justin Pauls
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dan Staudacher
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bill Ventre
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Justin Pauls
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cindi Haag
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Royal Graves
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cindi Haag
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Royal Graves
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary Strand
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

jill knecht
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary Strand
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary Hamilton
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gladys Eddy-Lee
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Eva Cernik
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Frank Hunnicutt
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jeanne Neath
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jeanne Neath
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Alice Hodgdon
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

m may
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

m may
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

B Taylor
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

B Taylor
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Alice Hodgdon
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jessica Stabler
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jessica Stabler
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

karen steele
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Roe & Family of 6 Votes
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Stephen Means
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Stephen Means
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Patricia Peterson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Patricia Peterson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Kelly
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Kelly
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Riley Stoermer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Elias Torstensson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Elias Torstensson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

George Grant
As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it. Make BP pay!

Sincerely,

Mae Mae Basye
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Angie Bahris
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Angie Bahris
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Christopher St. John
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Christopher St. John
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Paul Ghenoiu
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Richard Picone
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

This comment relates to the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast. I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

M Kirby
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Paul Ghenoiu
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

c biler
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

c biler
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary McCarthy
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

This comment relates to the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast. I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

M Kirby
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Caroline Miller
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Caroline Miller
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lily Witham
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Eric Dougherty
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Eric Dougherty
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dana Craig
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dana Craig
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tom Wenzel
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tom Wenzel
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Millisa Combatti
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Diann Graetsmith
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

James Klein
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

MARILYN WAYTE
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dr. Roger Seapy
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dr. Roger Seapy
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sandra Fujita
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

ilia iatroo
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary M. Mason
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary M. Mason
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gwen Richards
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Margaret Vernon
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Margaret Vernon
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Isabelle Richard
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rocio Ungaro
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Isabelle Richard
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary Cross
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rocio Ungaro
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Anton McInerney
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Anton McInerney
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Astrid GERJETS
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Astrid GERJETS
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Beth Heller
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Iem powers
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

elem powers
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

MaryJoy Martin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Patricia Hegger
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

k p corrigan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

MaryJoy Martin
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

k p corrigan
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Anna Wieder
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Anna Wieder
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Frank Sherman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Andrea Schnarr
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Astrid Giese-Zimmer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Astrid Giese-Zimmer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jennifer Johnson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jennifer Johnson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

aron shevis
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

aron shevis
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Helene Willson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brynne Sheriff
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Norman Lathrop
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Heide Catherina Coppotelli
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Heide Catherina Coppotelli
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susannah Peel
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Vera Staub
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susannah Peel
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susan Dixon
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Anton Sober
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Radden
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Radden
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Leslie Bradford
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dm Graminski
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ronald Rutzky
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lisa Robertson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ronald Rutzky
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lisa Robertson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sam Dratch
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joe Sergeant
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joe Sergeant
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joe Sergeant
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Hugh Havlik
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Simpkin
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Simpkin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sandra Miller
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sandra Miller
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

LOUISE TAYLOR
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Leo Mara
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Leo Mara
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Monty Bilberry
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Monty Bilberry
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nancy L. Lutz
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nancy L. Lutz
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sara Kaplan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sara Kaplan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rhonda Wilson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Chris Armitage
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Peggy Moody
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Peggy Moody
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

J Hilton
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

J Hilton
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Emily McDonald
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

fran malsheimer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

fran malsheimer
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Paul Cameron
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nancy Crimmins
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Paul Cameron
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Diana Obermeyer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cynthia Harris
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

mike schmitt
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

mike schmitt
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joe Kerka
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joe Kerka
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

James R. Foreman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carol Hedlin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carol Hedlin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

john o'sullivan
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

lynn Salzberger
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susan Lozoraitis
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

lynn Salzberger
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lynn Kush
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lynn Kush
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kevin Jones
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kevin Jones
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Clinton Keaton
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Clinton Keaton
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ewa Piasecka
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Karen Anderson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Hilary Newman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Hilary Newman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

c Ploughman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Amber Angel
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Amber Angel
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ariana Decker
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Howard Moore
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dr Gordon C Thomasson PhD
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dr Gordon C Thomasson PhD
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rees Urban
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rees Urban
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Edward Rengers
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kevin McDaniel
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Edward Rengers
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kevin McDaniel
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Julianne Walsh
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Shauna Sparlin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Shauna Sparlin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Pfersich
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ann Miller
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Vicki Joseph
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Vicki Joseph
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Loretta Busam
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Loretta Busam
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Margaret Hanson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nancy Huber
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nancy Huber
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Randy Draper
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jeanne Schlatter
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jeanne Schlatter
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Charlotte Sibley
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Paulo Nührich
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Paulo Nührich
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Victoria Kempf
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Heather Steele
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Karl Johnson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

William Klock
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tom Nulty Jr
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Pat Magrath
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tom Nulty Jr
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Pat Magrath
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sue Chard
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sue Chard
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mike Price
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mike Price
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Debbie Norcross
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

amy s
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tom Peace
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tom Peace
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jeffrey White
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jeffrey White
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Barbara Samuels
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Randall Nord
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Randall Nord
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Maryann Golonka, HM
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dorothy Rocklin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Melodie Chrislock
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

N Henning
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

N Henning
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jeffrey Welty
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Beth Allen
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Diane D
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kevin Oldham
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Becky Lippmann
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Becky Lippmann
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jessica Johnston-Walsh
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jessica Johnston-Walsh
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Peter Tesoro
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Peter Tesoro
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

doris aptekar
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jerry P.
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jerry P.
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Miss Sandra Couch
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Miss Sandra Couch
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Julie Robichaud
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

doris aptekar
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cheryl Mueller
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cheryl Mueller
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Debra Moore
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Charles Muise
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Charles Muise
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Moore
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Fernanda Leite
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Fernanda Leite
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Derek Knehans
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

MARY E ROBBINS
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

MARY E ROBBINS
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Randall Foreman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ralph Tobin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

kellie f
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ralph Tobin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

kellie f
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Coate
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Harold Urban
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carole Reiner
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Les Roberts
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Philip Dooley
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

les roberts
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

DeeAnn Bradley
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Riff Millar
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Eleanor Smithwick
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Riff Millar
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Amy Bell
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

K Hanlon
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dina R
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

marci Robinson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

marci Robinson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bernita B Smith
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bernita B Smith
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Karen Berger
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Karen Berger
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Forster W. Freeman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

J. G.
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carl Gershenson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jane Satanoff
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carl Gershenson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lyn Capurro
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lyn Capurro
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dawn Velez
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tom C Sullivan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tom C Sullivan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tom C Sullivan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Robert Jones
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Robert Jones
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Arlene Pincus
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Arlene Pincus
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Daniel Mink
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Pauline Caulk
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Daniel Mink
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rick Luttmann
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jennifer Gary
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary McElroy
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary McElroy
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jennifer Wiley
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lawrence Alice
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jennifer Wiley
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tanya Koester-Radmann
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Grace Payne
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

C James Ringwald
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joanna Cutting-Brady
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kathy Holland Medanic
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kathy Holland Medanic
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joanna Cutting-Brady
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kathy Holland Medanic
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Chiu Cheng
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Chiu Cheng
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Veronica Rehne
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Veronica Rehne
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ron Meier
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary White
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

LINDA BRESNAN
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

LINDA BRESNAN
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ron Meier
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ramsay Kieffer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Fred Kinner
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Barbara Small
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Charles Suozzo
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sibyll Gilbert
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Katherine Slawinski
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Christine Smith
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Katherine Slawinski
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ellis Coleman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Louella Green
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Vickie Hershberger
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

roth woods
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Vickie Hershberger
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sharon Hill
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sharon Hill
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

L Bres
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

L Bres
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Terence Travis
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Terence Travis
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joan Arnold
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Chris Winkley
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Chris Winkley
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Amanda Melrood
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Amanda Melrood
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Brosh
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Brosh
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Turner
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

S Owens
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

S Owens
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mike Morgan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

mira wiegmann
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

mira wiegmann
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sally Hoover
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sally Hoover
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sally Hoover
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Moore
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Shannon Rossiter
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated, and taxpayers should not be left paying any part of its cost.

Sincerely,

Sean Edmison
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Emmanuel

Emmanuel Ruvalcaba
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Emmanuel Ruvalcaba
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ed Lee
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lawrence Schuchart
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Aaron Bush
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Aaron Bush
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Elizabeth Maschka, CSJ
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marty Crowley
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Juan Colmenares
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nicole Enslow
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nicole Enslow
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Alice Tobias
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

roslynn budoff
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jamila Garrecht
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joseph Lahm
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lisa Piecora
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lisa Piecora
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joseph Lahm
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lynn Terrill
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lynn Terrill
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cara Barnhill
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jane and Don Greiner
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Melanie Baldi
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Melanie Baldi
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Donna Anderson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Timothy Shivers
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Timothy Shivers
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Barbara Najarian
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Barbara Najarian
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Barbara Najarian
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kristin Vyhnal
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lori McKenna
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rachel Pope
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lori McKenna
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rachel Pope
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kristin Vyhnal
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Diane Tabbott
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Diane Tabbott
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Andrew Lewis
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gary Granat
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nan Cota
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Patrick Flynn
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nan Cota
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Morgan Sirlin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joseph A. Yencich
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joseph A. Yencich
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sharon Colucci
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Paul Borcherding
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Patrick Flynn
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Paul Borcherding
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gena DiLabio
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary Mataja
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary Mataja
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Timothy Shivers
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Staci Morris
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Staci Morris
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Barbara St. John
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Becker
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dennis Branse
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dennis Branse
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

christina welteroth
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Catherine Lawlor
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Catherine Lawlor
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

j lemley
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

M. Steere
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

M. Steere
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Daniel Heuer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Daniel Heuer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. John Konrad
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Christiana Hart
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tim Hoyt
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tim Hoyt
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Christiana Hart
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. John Konrad
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Michael Rotcher
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Don Hammond
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

thomas funkey
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Steve Dudzinski
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Steve Dudzinski
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Teresa Donahue
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Teresa Donahue
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susan Lemont
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susan Lemont
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nick Berezansky
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jef Harvey
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cheryl St. George-Calleri
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nick Berezansky
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cheryl St. George-Calleri
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jef Harvey
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rory Alden
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rory Alden
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kate Fuqua
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Stephen Donnelly
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Stephen Donnelly
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bryan Bell
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kate Fuqua
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Vanessa Malanga
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

G. Austin Smith
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

G. Austin Smith
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cynthia Hart
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Kaitlyn McKee
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brian Willey
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brian Willey
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Melissa Elbrecht
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Melissa Elbrecht
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Barbara Jarvis-Lefebvre
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Barbara Jarvis-Lefebvre
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

L. Glasner
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Anita Coolidge
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Anita Coolidge
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Maggie A.
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

L. Glasner
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Barbara Cohn
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jerry Yeager
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jerry Yeager
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Siddharth Mehrotra
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Martha F. Hoar
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Martha F. Hoar
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Charles Shaud
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Todd Lafleur
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Hilary oakden
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Todd Lafleur
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Allan Widmeyer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Hilary oakden
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Allan Widmeyer
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Stephen Bohac
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

William Rogers
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sara Bonnette
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joe Cooper
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joe Cooper
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Elizabeth Whipps
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Elizabeth Whipps
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

G Joan Jarvis
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

G Joan Jarvis
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Luis Jaramillo
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Teresa Jones
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Luis Jaramillo
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Teresa Jones
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Timothy Green
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Richard Stark
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jerome Lewis
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Stephen Couche
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Stephen Couche
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kevin Pierson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kevin Pierson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Donna Browne
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

r Wager
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

r Wager
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Scott Campbell
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Craig Fausnacht
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Craig Fausnacht
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kathy Dickovitch
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kathy Dickovitch
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dawn Kosec
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Alexander Yeung
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Clara Halfin
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Clara Halfin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joyce Winebrenner
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

joseph Dangelo
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joyce Winebrenner
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ann Ogden
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Douglas McCracken
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sharon Took-Zozaya
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Wayne Mortimer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Shirley Oney

Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Denice Lessard
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lexie Ross
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Warren Nystrom
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Pamela Schaberg
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marie-Jeanne Leduc
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marie-Jeanne Leduc
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carolyn Douglas
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carolyn Douglas
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Olga Grushko
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Olga Grushko
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mrs. Peggy Fugate
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Wanda Berry
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Artineh Havan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

George Parks
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

George Parks
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

mauricio carvajal
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

mauricio carvajal
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mark Alexander
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

George Heupel
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Wayne Mortimer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Artineh Havan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

HEATHER WALKER
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

HEATHER WALKER
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Valerie Pound
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Karen Tanner
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susan Ostlie
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susan Ostlie
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rachel Meyer
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

Do not let BP get away with more criminal behavior -- do not let BP claim any part of its settlement costs as a tax reduction. BP needs to be strictly held accountable for its destructive actions in our waters and land. No tax breaks for BP!

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I implore you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carla Cicchi
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Julia McGovern
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Julia McGovern
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Stephanie de los Rios
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Stephanie de los Rios
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Eric Rose
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Heather Turbush
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Eric Rose
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Julie Ruben
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Heather Turbush
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Claudia Bracey
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sandy Dumke
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Josephine Fletchall
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Josephine Fletchall
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lorraine Alippe
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Scott Blum
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gladys Schmitz
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gladys Schmitz
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sarah Jae
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jennifer English
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jennifer English
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sarah Jae
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

William Hoenes
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

James Porcello
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Trina Seefeldt
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

James Porcello
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lawrence Jacobson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lawrence Jacobson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tiffany Baker
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Janet Ague-Kennedy
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marianne Cartwright
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. John Oda
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bryce McDowell
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marianne Cartwright
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bryce McDowell
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Paul Angelino
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Paul Angelino
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Thomas Brenner
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Thomas Brenner
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Virginia Glasgow
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Anna Kramer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Maynard
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Anna Kramer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Maynard
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mel Daniels
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Laura Fleming
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cheryl Matson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Thomas Becker
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cheryl Matson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mel Daniels
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

 Douglas Snyder
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Colin Mirgis
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Douglas Snyder
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Colin Mirgis
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Malaika Thompson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Malaika Thompson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marta Borbon
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sandra La Mont
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sandra La Mont
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Shaw
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sheryll Punneo
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sheryll Punneo
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Christopher Raupp
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Christopher Raupp
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

DONALD BURGESS
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Barnwell
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

DONALD BURGESS
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Barnwell
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Scheree Davis
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Scheree Davis
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Wooden
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Wooden
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Evgenia Vyatchanin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Evgenia Vyatchanin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Paul Vesper
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Patrick Green
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Patrick Green
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Laura Grossman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kathleen Burke
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Laura Grossman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kathleen Burke
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Eileen Anderson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Eileen Anderson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Eileen Anderson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Aimee Kwiatkowski
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Aimee Kwiatkowski
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dale Hillard
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dale Hillard
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Denay Trykowski
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Karen Fitzgerald
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Debbie Mannion
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Debbie Mannion
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jeremy Duchow
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carol Caddes
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carol Caddes
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Cavanaugh
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Arnold Ruiz
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Martha E. Martin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Arnold Ruiz
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Martha E. Martin
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lloyd Reynolds
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lloyd Reynolds
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Samantha Peterson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nan Mayo
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nan Mayo
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Samantha Peterson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jessica Clem
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jessica Clem
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jaylen Schmitt
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Barbara Trees
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Diana Covington
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Diana Covington
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lee Pesochin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lee Pesochin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bob Petermann
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kathleen Crotwell
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kathleen Crotwell
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

James M. Tandoo
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

James M. Tandoo
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jane Yater
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jane Yater
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mrs. Nicole Berkheimer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Melba Dlugonski
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mrs. Nicole Berkheimer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Melba Dlugonski
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Alice Winfree Bowron
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Varga
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Varga
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bruce Nicholson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bruce Nicholson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Beverly Linton
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Beverly Linton
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Arlene Griffin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Barger
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Vincent Rowe
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Vincent Rowe
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lydia Vignau
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lynn Artz
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Diane Gaertner
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Diane Gaertner
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brenda Weber
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brenda Weber
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Petersen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Petersen
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nathan Coles
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nathan Coles
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rich Warner
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

R Solner
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

R Solner
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Allan Campbell
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Allan Campbell
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Laakea Laano

Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Laakea Laano
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Klaus Fischer
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Isabel Tessier
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

judith hazelton
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Laurie Miner
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

judith hazelton
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jeff Stewart
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Terry Copen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Terry Copen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

William Harold II Hinkson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

William Harold II Hinkson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jean Mattke
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jim Rankin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Scott Crockett
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Scott Crockett
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Terrell DeVilbiss
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Srijan Chakraborty
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

paula honkanen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Amy Heyneman
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Kaye Fissinger
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Kaye Fissinger
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lori Broger-Mackey
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lori Broger-Mackey
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ashley Farreny
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sandy Carter
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sandy Carter
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Felix Prael
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Felix Prael
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joshua Jones
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rob Englund
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rob Englund
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jesse Caldwell
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jesse Caldwell
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Masaru Oka
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Masaru Oka
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Donna Lucier
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Frank Tonhazy
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary Ann Moore-Weir
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

M/M Harry Frey
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jane Galbraith
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Peter Altman
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Peter Altman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Piero Rendoni
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

BILLY WOODS
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carol Sidofsky
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carol Sidofsky
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Norman Traum
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Norman Traum
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Russel Deroche Jr.
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Camille Leung
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Camille Leung
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Yvonne Barker
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Yvonne Barker
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ruth Petzold
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ruth Petzold
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ginny Schneider
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ginny Schneider
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jerry Tobe
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Maria Sagrario Barrio
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rob Haine
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jacky Westoby
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jacky Westoby
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jim Weaver
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Christopher Maida
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Christopher Maida
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bobbie Castle
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bobbie Castle
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

James Nation
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

James Nation
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dave Renaud
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Larry Smith
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

thomas funkey
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

thomas funkey
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Care Care
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Care Care
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

thomas funkey
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Herbert Gross
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Herbert Gross
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sandra Smith
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Helena Lin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

William Borgeld Jr
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rebecca Casstevens
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joanna Ward
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joanna Ward
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Barbara Boyd
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Barbara Boyd
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Debbie Larkin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Debbie Larkin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mikail Barron
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mikail Barron
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Janet Petermann
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Janet Petermann
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Barbara Macke
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Barbara Macke
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dan Spilman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Scott Dulas
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Scott Dulas
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Diane Sparks
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Kristian Glover
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Kristian Glover
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Shannon Thor
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Shannon Thor
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Greg Schmitt
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Steven Whitehill
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Steven Whitehill
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nancy Dollard
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nancy Dollard
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carolyn Barker
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Daniel Rausher
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jorge Almeida
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jorge Almeida
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ronald Bach
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ronald Bach
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Hedda Matheson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Hedda Matheson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Alan Powers
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Douglas Young
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dr. Lisa E Davis
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dr. Lisa E Davis
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lola Reed
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lola Reed
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carrington Petras
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

emily hall
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sheleeza Deen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

jane schmit
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Donald Workman
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tony Greiner
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tony Greiner
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Delilah Johnson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Alexander Christ
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Alexander Christ
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carrington Petras
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Charles Kapela
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dane Gottschall
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Christina Stemwell
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Christina Stemwell
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Diana Fisher
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Diana Fisher
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Diane Faircloth
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Diane Faircloth
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Alverson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Elizabeth Shehan-Hussein
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Elizabeth Shehan-Hussein
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Barbara Doucet
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jo Ann Kovar
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

E Peterson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jo Ann Kovar
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

E Peterson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tamara Ashley
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tamara Ashley
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

tyler harrington
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nancy Moore
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nancy Moore
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

tyler harrington
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Wood
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Amy St. Lawrence
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Amy St. Lawrence
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Anita Wisch
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Anita Wisch
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Anita Wisch
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Franklin Swart
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Anne Neel
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Anne Neel
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gaetano Rizzi
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gaetano Rizzi
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

R. Brodell
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susan Clark
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Deborah Montero
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Deborah Montero
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

August Oberti
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

E Suzan Matero
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nancy Nardella
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nancy Nardella
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Karen Hunter
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Patricia Lasek
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Patricia Lasek
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kamilah Gilbert
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary Junek
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Fiona Priskich
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Fiona Priskich
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dale Musselman
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dale Musselman
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lynn Jenkins
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lynn Jenkins
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Thomas Bennett
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kris Larsen
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Stephen Katof
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rebecca Klemme Eliceiri
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Gorr
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rebecca Klemme Eliceiri
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Betty_Ann Duggan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Erinn Peters
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Erinn Peters
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Craig Provost
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

T Colver
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

T Colver
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Chiara Testoni
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Corielle Riddell
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Corielle Riddell
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Fairall
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Fairall
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joanne Linden
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Alexandra Schulz
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Lynn Walker
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Melinda Bailey
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cathy Swanson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marie Brandt
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jo Wiest
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jo Wiest
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rolf Bandle
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rolf Bandle
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Charles Gaulke
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Charles Gaulke
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Smith
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Callie Sjostrom
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Katy Kotiadis
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nicole Schildcrout
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nicole Schildcrout
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brian Genoa
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brian Genoa
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Randall Phillips
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Randall Phillips
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sharon Lieberman
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sharon Lieberman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sharon Lieberman
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dorothea Ericsson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Charles A. Kiley III
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dale Musselman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ranjit Chacko
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Myrna Castaline
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Leslie Calambro
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Leslie Calambro
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Aaron Smucker
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Aaron Smucker
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Diane Stein
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Diane Stein
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Jody Walters
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Jody Walters
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

June Yashiki
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

June Yashiki
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

casey martinez
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Christina Bailey

Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Randy Nies
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Suzanne Menne
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Seibert McCormick
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Seibert McCormick
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Suzanne Menne
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Stephanie Longo
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Stephanie Longo
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dennis Brand
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Elizabeth Collins
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Elizabeth Collins
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Scott Newell
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sarah Davis
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sarah Davis
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

L. Licari
Dearest Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sandy Tessmer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sandy Tessmer
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Regina Harper-Odom
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brenda Reese
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nina Garfinkel
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dan Faucher
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dan Faucher
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susan Castillo
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susan Castillo
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Belinda Bothwick
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Titta Tolvanen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Titta Tolvanen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mark Ricci
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mark Ricci
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susan Mitchell
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susan Mitchell
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Patricia Vorderstrasse
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Glover
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Glover
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jenine Moscove
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jenine Moscove
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Hugh Carola
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Hugh Carola
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susan Fasten
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susan Fasten
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Staci Evans
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sharon Wildfang
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Fern Schlesinger
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mike Niehus
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Fern Schlesinger
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Chris Carbone
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Chris Carbone
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

R R
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

R R
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Corey Schade
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Corey Schade
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Melania Padilla
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Melania Padilla
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Patricia Gaynor
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Patricia Gaynor
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lauryn Slotnick
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joan Martinez
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lauryn Slotnick
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Pat Preziosi
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nancy Ogden
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Pat Preziosi
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Katherine Stephens
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nancy Ogden
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Richard Khanlian
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Richard Khanlian
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Denise Trochei
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Eileen Wunderlich
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Eileen Wunderlich
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bibi Eng
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bibi Eng
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kate Montelione
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Steve Kent
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Manny Wong
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Christine Mallar
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Christine Mallar
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Christine V Fink
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Christine V Fink
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Toni Smalley
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Virginia Ogburn-Matthews
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rita Spencer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rita Spencer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

jay lazer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

jay lazer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

The U. family
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Daniel Hauck
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Daniel Hauck
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

CLAUDIA RIVERA
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

CLAUDIA RIVERA
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Laurie Hardies
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Zoe Bird
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cathy Curtis
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brian Mertan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sarah Stahelin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Elaine Tyrie
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sarah Stahelin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John F. Kreft
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Glenn Koehrsen
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

William Gaieck
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lori Otto
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lori Otto
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Elena Gonzalez
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Elena Gonzalez
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bruce Abbott

Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bruce Abbott
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

George Lloyd
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

George Lloyd
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gerald Blume
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

elliot lang
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cynthia Miller
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cynthia Miller
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

C. Kasey
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

C. Kasey
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Y. Tseng
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

andarin arvola
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jennifer Taketani
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jennifer Taketani
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Migdalia Velazquez
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Migdalia Velazquez
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Christopher Wynkoop
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Christopher Wynkoop
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Siptroth
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

andarin arvola
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

andarin arvola
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

andarin arvola
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

andarin arvola
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sherry A
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joseph Phillips
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joseph Phillips
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kathleen Gulbransen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Margaret Simonsen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Margaret Simonsen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Stephanie Cunningham
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction. Shameful! No way should a legal settlement for damages ever be tax deductible by the party that caused the damage! What kind of true settlement would that be?

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it. Make BP pay in Full every penny of the settlement.

Sincerely,

Lora Leland
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Stephanie Cunningham
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jill Franzese
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Levinson Rodriguez
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Levinson Rodriguez
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Beverly deGero
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lea Cahill
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nancy White
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lea Cahill
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nancy White
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Miles Hopkins
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary Simon
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Elea Kunz
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Hillary Maurer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Doris Munger
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Doris Munger
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lance Fredricks
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

George Hartman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Stephen Smith
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Stephen Smith
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

sally reagan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

sally reagan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Eugenia Redding
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jenni Kovich
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Laurie Fraker
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Manuel Vega
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Manuel Vega
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

zeke finkelstein
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

zeke finkelstein
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Yolanda Clay
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Yolanda Clay
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Melanie Meunier
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Melanie Meunier
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jean Jenks
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Sanford
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

William Stanton
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Hal Glidden
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Hal Glidden
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jeffrey Nutting
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jeffrey Nutting
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Suzanne M. Volk
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cindy Black
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cindy Black
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Taylor Jones
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Taylor Jones
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jose Borbor
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bert Leysath
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bert Leysath
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nicole Corbin
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nicole Corbin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary Masters
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary Masters
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Barbara Heil
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Patrick Twomey
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Patricia Daniels
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jacki Hileman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Christine Ballewske
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Christine Ballewske
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Wendi Postma
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Wendi Postma
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Diane Kossman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mark Alexander
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lemoine Radford
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kip Valesano
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kip Valesano
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michelle Flowers
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sylvia Barnard
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

George Hartman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mynka Draper
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sheila Silan
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

ElsaMarie Butler
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

ElsaMarie Butler
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Francisco J. Velez
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Francisco J. Velez
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bridget Law
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kathleen Coffman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lawrence Daniell
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Maureen Gregory
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Penelope Lord
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Clark
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Clark
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Chris Devine
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Chris Devine
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ronald Starkey
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ronald Starkey
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

James Chapman
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Deb Ginn
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Danielle Shannon
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Helen Evison
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Helen Evison
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Helen Evison
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Felicia Dale
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Felicia Dale
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Catherine Stephens
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Catherine Stephens
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jonathan Avery Wright
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Karolyn McCall
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Peg LeClair
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Peg LeClair
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Anna Frances
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Audrey Collins
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Angel Alaris
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Elizabeth Lempp
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Clotilda G. Devlin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Anne Cooney
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Doris Fodge
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jeremy Feldman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Emma Rivera
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Emma Rivera
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Pascale Macleod
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Pascale Macleod
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

michael healy
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

michael healy
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

carine jackson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

carline jackson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Deborah Stucklen
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Deborah Stucklen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Bonnell
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mark Harris
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Vic Burton
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Vic Burton
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Lipinski
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jonathan R. Eden
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jonathan R. Eden
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Keith Milligan
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Keith Milligan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kiesha Pearson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kiesha Pearson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kiesha Pearson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Marleen Dutra
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Chris Sherman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Loretta Crisci
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Toni Arnold
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ronald Walters
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Garth Casaday
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Margaret Koren
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Margaret Koren
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Garth Casaday
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Patty Martin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marlene Toepel
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marlene Toepel
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ed Bour
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

satya vayu
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

satya vayu
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susan Prater
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kathleen Doyle
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mrs. Trina Rowles
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Margaret Vickers
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jason Husby
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jason Husby
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Diana Duncan
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Hutchison
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Hutchison
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Arleen Weiss
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kathryn Radabaugh
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Janet Sullivan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Janet Sullivan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brenna Tinsley
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

sean wilde
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

sean wilde
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Donald Murphy
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Donald Murphy
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

christy monroe
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Diana Blanks
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Peter Zanello
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Vicki Lawson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Allison Herr
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Doug Brown
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Doug Brown
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joyce/henry Moser
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Elisabeth Ruby
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Elisabeth Ruby
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ginger Pierce
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nikolaos Milonas
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nikolaos Milonas
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ayesha Godfrey
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ayesha Godfrey
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lenny Fuchs
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Martha L. Ralphe
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Alice Anne Martineau
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Alice Anne Martineau
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Scott Grinthal
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Scott Grinthal
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sheree McFarland
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary Nutter
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lynn Lytton
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Catherine Miller
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Catherine Miller
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

D. Black
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kari Sievers
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kari Sievers
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Judy Kirkpatrick
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Victoria Meier
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, we urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it. Thank you for your efforts and consideration.

Sincerely,

Rod and Terrri Jones
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, we urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it. Thank you for your efforts and consideration.

Sincerely,

Rod and Terrri Jones
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Elizabeth Lamers
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Elizabeth Lamers
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Meghan H
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Deborah Bryant
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Deborah Bryant
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rosa Strayer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rosa Strayer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,
Sharon

Sharon Zamkoff
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sharon Zamkoff
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Keith
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Keith
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Katherine Trewin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sue Keller
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sue Keller
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marie Catrino
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marie Catrino
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Paul Laudeman
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mrs. Barbara Brunell
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lisa Becks
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lisa Becks
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ardeth L. L. Weed
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ardeth L. L. Weed
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dana Kelly
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Alicia Divens
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Alicia Divens
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michele Van Orden
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michele Van Orden
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Adi S
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Kurt Schwenk
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Kurt Schwenk
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kenneth Large
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Deirdre Mullin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Deirdre Mullin
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Vicki Fox
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Meghan Houston
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Meghan Houston
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brian Pierce
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Melissa Hastings
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Melissa Hastings
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Craig Howerton
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dwight Haynes
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

stephenie stephens
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

stephenie stephens
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary Hicklin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary Hicklin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lori Snyder
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lori Snyder
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Valerie Hildebrand
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Shanna Cardea
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Shanna Cardea
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Hildebrandt
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Hildebrandt
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary T Bundy
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary T Bundy
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

d s
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jacob Wilson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

d s
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marta Martinsen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Glenn Franko
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary Grant
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

SD Murray
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

SD Murray
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary Grant
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Shelva Wood
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Shelva Wood
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

dawn mitchell
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

dawn mitchell
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Vivian Tineo
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Vivian Tineo
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rebecca Straw
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joanne Luongo
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joanne Luongo
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

J B
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,
Natalie Ryan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Natalie Ryan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Merrill A. Carter
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Douglas Peterson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Douglas Peterson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Tucholski
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Wendy Weldon
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Wendy Weldon
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Suzanne Berry
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Suzanne Berry
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

deirdre downey
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

S Klof
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Orr
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Orr
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Vince Mendieta
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Vince Mendieta
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susi Hulbert
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susi Hulbert
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Megan Fox
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Megan Fox
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jennifer Sellers
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michelle Mehlhorn
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Pamela Saunders
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Pamela Saunders
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Barbara Barnett
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Barbara Barnett
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Anita Wisch
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Anita Wisch
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rashida Basrai
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rashida Basrai
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Chris Washington
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Renee Vincent
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Elaina VanMaaren
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Alisa Sawich
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Trisha Cooley
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cheron Holman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ronald Kaufman
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Julie Rowe
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Amy Cervene
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

DEBRA J WEBB
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Elaine Balgemann
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Elaine Balgemann
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Elaine Balgemann
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Elaine Balgemann
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Debbie Tenenbaum
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marc Gripman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marc Gripman
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tracy Wang
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Giles Sydnor
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Giles Sydnor
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Johanna Bensalel
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Johanna Bensalel
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ray Lou
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Adam Ostler
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Adam Ostler
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dolores Wood
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dolores Wood
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated, and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brett Forrester
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jon Willner
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jon Willner
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not pay the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Olivia Lim
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,
Dr Richard Newman

Dr Richard Newman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,
Dr Richard Newman

Dr Richard Newman
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jean Maier
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

William Schoene
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

William Schoene
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

stuart greenburg
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

stuart greenburg
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jim Dignan
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

stephanie clark
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

stephanie clark
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary Munson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary Munson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Elizabeth R Jackson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Elizabeth R Jackson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Laurie Solomon
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Laurie Solomon
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Simmons
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Thomas Dabetic
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

F Hammer
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lynna Dhanani
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Caroline Cassa
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

James Mundy III
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marianne Larkins-Strawn
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marianne Larkins-Strawn
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susanna Purucker
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susanna Purucker
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Laraine Lebron
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Vincent Jacobs
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Vincent Jacobs
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert M. Deems
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert M. Deems
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marguerite E. Donovan, CSJ
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mike McCampbell
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

joan milford
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

joan milford
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

K Miles
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Virginia Mainus
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Aaron Larimore
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Aaron Larimore
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Arlene Forward
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Arlene Forward
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Andy Berkvist
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Andy Berkvist
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Troy Rodriguez
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Denise Shapiro
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Denise Shapiro
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Stephanie Buresh
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Matt Cutts
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Matt Cutts
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gail Lynch
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gail Lynch
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Haendel Zamor
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sam You
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sam You
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Karen Sharrar
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Karen Sharrar
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Peter Paluch
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Desiree Nagyfy
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Anne Klein
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sandy Moffitt
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brad Watson
Emma long
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely, Donye Sacco

donye sacco
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

donye sacco
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Janet Moser
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robin Singer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robin Singer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robin Singer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Hopkins
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Hopkins
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sarah Suhich
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

dan henderson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Karen Ross
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Melissa Simon-Felix
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

Regarding the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast:

I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any part of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon ought never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying any part of its cost.

Sincerely,

Mike Strawn
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Caroline Duley
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Caroline Duley
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sheree Bala
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Patricia Driscoll-Shaw
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Patricia Driscoll-Shaw
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ursula Hofer
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michelle K Macy
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michelle K Macy
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bruce Olson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Donald Mackler
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bruce Olson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Catherine Miller
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Catherine Miller
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Isaac Hayes
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Isaac Hayes
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Erica Sohl
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Erica Sohl
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susang-Talamo Family
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susang-Talamo Family
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tom Amend
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Russell Burke
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Russell Burke
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Keith Wolcott
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Corinne Italiano
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lillian Goldsmith
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Elizabeth Barrett
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gloria Merlino
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ann S Johnson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ann S Johnson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jeanne Busacco
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jannemieke de Groot
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Deb Dearing
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jannemieke de Groot
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

April Tarabocchia
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

April Tarabocchia
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Pamela Rutledge
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Pamela Rutledge
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ronalee Phares
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ronalee Phares
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

M Kolar
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

George Selkirk
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rochelle Briscoe
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rochelle Briscoe
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

M Kolar
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Beth Olson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Laura Weiss
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kathleen Williams
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kathleen Williams
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

vida bossinas
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

vida bossinas
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

vida bossinas
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Christopher Tracy
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Virginia Davis
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Virginia Davis
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

L. Parrish
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

L. Parrish
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marsha Lowry
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marsha Lowry
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Clyde Stephens
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Valerie Jones
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Wendy Stevens
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Wendy Stevens
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Beckie Moore
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Christopher Harrison
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Roger Harrison
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carol Kommerstad-Reiche
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carol Kommerstad-Reiche
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Valerie Hauser
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Monica Duhart
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Monica Duhart
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dennis Letman
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dennis Letman
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Hunter
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Hunter
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carolyn Grizzell
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carolyn Grizzell
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Katya Kuzmina
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Angela West
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Flynn
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Flynn
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Schmoldt
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nancy Gilleo
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Meier
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nancy Gilleo
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Morgan Michel
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Edwina R. Smith
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Edwina R. Smith
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Paul Tuff
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michele Wolfe
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michele Wolfe
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nick Barcott
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nick Barcott
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Deborah Fexis
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Deborah Fexis
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lee Hettema
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Patricia Walker
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Patricia Walker
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

D Michaels
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jonathan Memmert
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jonathan Memmert
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cavin Leeman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Sutkowski
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

amy dingman
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

amy dingman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

William Nusbaum
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susan schena
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Renee Gregory
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cecelia Nelson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cecelia Nelson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sally Angelo
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lena Fine
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lena Fine
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kate Kosse
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely, Paul Sanchez
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Paul Sanchez

Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kate Kosse
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jennifer Josephy
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Phyl Newbeck
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Patricia Tehan
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dr. Gregory Pais
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dr. Gregory Pais
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Patricia Tehan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gina Dahlstrom
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Martha Winsten
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Martha Winsten
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Richard Carling
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Richard Carling
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

gail mirza
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Steven Federman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ella Melik
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Steph Vesey
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Steph Vesey
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Gary Grice
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Bellows
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michelle Oroz
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michelle Oroz
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Bellows
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Terry San S.C.
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Wayne Carr
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marguerite Donnay
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marguerite Donnay
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jeri Caskey
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary Davis
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary Davis
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

James A. Torgeson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

James A. Torgeson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

James A. Torgeson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kenneth Kinder
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Flater
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Elizabeth MacKelvie
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lucy McCullough
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Daniel Cavanaugh
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Daniel Cavanaugh
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Andree Armand
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Andree Armand
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Leotien Parlevliet
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Leotien Parlevliet
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Janice Scofield
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Twalla Haley
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marilyn Davis
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marilyn Davis
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Linderman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

deborah Patton
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

deborah Patton
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ellin Baskin
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Chris Shinaberger
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

joie winnick
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

joie winnick
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mindye Fortgang
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lars Johnson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Katharine Flebotte
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Katharine Flebotte
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susan Balik
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

SHARON LEE
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

SHARON LEE
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Babette Bruton
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Babette Bruton
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. John Lewis
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gregory Dudley
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robyn Miles
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robyn Miles
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Johanna Elias
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Johanna Elias
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

shereen McDade
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Randy Harper
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Randy Harper
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John McDonald
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jeffrey Steele
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jeffrey Steele
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Diane Kent
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dorothy Wiseman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert and Dolores Scheelen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dorothy Wiseman
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joan Kaplan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Elke Romer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Elke Romer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Pat Brunson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Pat Brunson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cindy Pirie
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cindy Pirie
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Judith Bennis
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Judith Bennis
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Leonard Friedman
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Leonard Friedman
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Anne McBride
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lisa Gee
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lisa Gee
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Erin P
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary Martha Thiel
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sherry Chance
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sherry Chance
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Victoria Pawlick
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bill Hamm
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bill Hamm
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mark George
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mark George
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Elsenhans
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Balster
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Denise Bunge
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sharon Karson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ruth Ostrenga
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Florie Rothenberg
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Barbara MacAlpine
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Vicky Matsui
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Vicky Matsui
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Felicity Dorsett
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Felicity Dorsett
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kenton Lindley
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kenton Lindley
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kathleen Angotti
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susan Peterson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susan Peterson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Rachel Neff
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Rachel Neff
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Yola Hesser
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, we strongly urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that BARS British Petroleum from claiming ANY portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must NEVER be repeated and taxpayers should NOT be left paying the cost of these corporations' CONTINUAL flouting of existing laws.

The WELL KNOWN FACTS that
1) the cynical and illegal lack of adequate safe guards and redundancies on the well were the REASON that the well failed and
2) this magnitude of this outrageous pollution event means that it can NEVER be cleaned up are reasons enough to bar the tax deduction.

Furthermore, these companies SHOULD BE BARRED from doing business with the U.S. as well as BARRED from drilling in U.S. territorial waters.

LET THE PUNISHMENT FIT THE CRIMES AGAINST HUMANITY AND OUR PRECIOUS ENVIRONMENT!

Sincerely,

Judy Hoyle
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

caryl simon
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

caryl simon
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mika Godzich
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mika Godzich
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nicholas Sherman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Patti Packer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ambrosia Danu
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jonathan Wexler
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Myra Dewhurst
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jonathan Wexler
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Myra Dewhurst
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Alicia Jackson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Alicia Jackson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Benvineto Watson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brad Nelson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brad Nelson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ben Robbins
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jack C. Holmes
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jack C. Holmes
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ben Robbins
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dan Kittredge
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dan Kittredge
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Janice Gloe
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Adam Bernstein
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Adam Bernstein
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sharon Wushensky
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Donald Laurentius
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jane August
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Gill
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

catherine chen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

catherine chen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joy Lindsey
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joy Lindsey
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Allie Tuesday
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Allie Tuesday
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Peter Schultz
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Peter Schultz
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Judith Landy
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Judith Landy
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Judith Landy
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gunilla Karlsson, Ph.D.
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gunilla Karlsson, Ph.D.
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Glenna Harris
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Glenna Harris
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jane Pittari
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Judy Johnson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Judy Johnson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Alicia Kern
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Jean Standish
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Jean Standish
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tess Olsen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ben Basin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

S. Nam
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ellizabeth (Betsy) Warriner
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kevin Leslie
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Chris Leverich
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Chris Leverich
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susan Kilgore
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lynn Levine
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jessine Foss
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Peter Engonidis
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Peter Engonidis
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Peter Holcomb
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carol Sword
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Peggy Cope
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Julie Beer
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Peggy Cope
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Julie Beer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Andrew Altamirano
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Andrew Altamirano
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bill Huguley
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

András Bozsoki
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Laura MacWaters
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

András Bozsoki
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jean Teach
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nikita Metelica
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nikita Metelica
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Anne Weech
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Anne Weech
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

K Turrubiate
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary Neuendorf
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sandra Lady
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Alicia Evans
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cathy Cole
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dennis Hadenfeldt
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bonnie Britzman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bonnie Britzman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Christine Weinst
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Candice Schellenger
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sampson Chan
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Julie Alley
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Julie Alley
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

A. Obermeier
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Andrew Liefer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cesar Serralta
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cesar Serralta
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Margean Kastner
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Julija Merljak
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Julija Merljak
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Scott Peterson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Scott Peterson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Alexander Klimek
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Alexander Klimek
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Anne-Marie Hewitt
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lajeanne Leveton
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Vince Mendieta
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Vince Mendieta
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carol Carpenter
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cornelia Layton
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jim Wilson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susan Will
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susan Will
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mark Hurmence
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kathryn Lilley
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Megan Steva
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Megan Steva
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Pilar Maschi
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Catherine Basile
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I strongly urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Art Hanson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I strongly urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Art Hanson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Frank Bures
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joe Tutt
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joe Tutt
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

S. Kessler
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Chris Downs
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Chris Downs
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

p clark
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mrs. rhonda lawford
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mrs. rhonda lawford
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ashley Council
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ashley Council
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

William Bishop
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Peggy Heisel
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dennis Letman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Teresa Scherzer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Teresa Scherzer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jonathan Walter
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jonathan Walter
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Elizabeth Fisher
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cristina Tirelli
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Seriously,
Miriam K.

Miriam K.
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Seriously,
Miriam K.

Miriam K.
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Shirley Bayless
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Shirley Bayless
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Allison Bening
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Debra Ware
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Debra Ware
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Natalie A. Carter
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Natalie A. Carter
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Stepp
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Stepp
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I strongly urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mrs. Natalie Hanson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I strongly urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mrs. Natalie Hanson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sarah Hayes
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Joseph Quirk
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Joseph Quirk
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Patricia Corbett
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dan Blakey
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dan Blakey
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Karen Hughes
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Barbara Langan
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Barbara Langan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ken Hutchens
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Paul Rosato
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Paul Rosato
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Melissa Mancini
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

William O'Driscoll
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kirk Lumpkin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Isabel Jaime Tamayo
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

munish Chawla
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Peggy Lynch
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Peggy Lynch
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Isabel Jaime Tamayo
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Daniel R
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Adrienne Kirshbaum
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Charles Connolly
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Donna Sharp
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Trudy Maney
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Trudy Maney
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Deborah Gandolfo
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Paul Kalka
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Patricia B
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Patricia B
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. d.a. roy
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. d.a. roy
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Charlene Root
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sebastian Rerak
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sebastian Rerak
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Al DeRoy
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

jennifer meyerson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Geralyn Farwell
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Geralyn Farwell
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lauren Fenenbock
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mercedes Armillas
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mercedes Armillas
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lauren Fenenbock
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susan Oake
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Elizabeth Red Elk
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Meryl Pinque
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Meryl Pinque
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ilse Ziemann
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ilse Ziemann
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Julianne Catinchi
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Julieanne Catinchi
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

J.C. Ford
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert DeBevoise
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Thomas Cope
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mark Reuter
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mark Reuter
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Friedman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Friedman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carmen L
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Janet Wynne
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

EDWARD JUSTIN LEE
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

EDWARD JUSTIN LEE
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Daniel Bachmann
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Daniel Bachmann
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Chris Kotzer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Chris Kotzer
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Demetrius Martinez
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Demetrius Martinez
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tom Mohan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Len Carella
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robyn Bem
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Selma Goode
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Selma Goode
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joseph Nowak
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joseph Nowak
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Magnus Holmen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dwight Snyder
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dwight Snyder
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Debra Csenge
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

THOMAS D. HERZOG
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

THOMAS D. HERZOG
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Debra Csenge
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marybeth Arago
 Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marybeth Arago
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

J Niblack
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Georgia Griffin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Georgia Griffin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cynthia Lee
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Thomas Brustman
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Thomas Brustman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Samantha-Rose Johnson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Brad Miller
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Brad Miller
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

laurel Powers
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Walker Bennett
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Walker Bennett
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Matt Peters
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

William Cusick
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Peter Kahigian
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Peter Kahigian
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Charis Rosales
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Charis Rosales
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Shelli Stewart
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Niki Hoyle
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Niki Hoyle
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Patrice Taylor
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Patrice Taylor
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gomi Bin
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gomi Bin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Katharine Molnar
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Katharine Molnar
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Steven F. and Mary C. Jennings
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Steven F. and Mary C. Jennings
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Janet Tice
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Janet Tice
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robin Davis
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robin Davis
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jered Cargman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jered Cargman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rebecca Shedd
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rebecca Shedd
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Arnold Wajenberg
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Arnold Wajenberg
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lauren Gedlinske
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lauren Gedlinske
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Katherine Anne Stansbury
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Elizabeth Panus
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Elizabeth Panus
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Glenn Lmbert
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Glenn Lambert
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Mitchel
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Peter Kahigian
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Peter Kahigian
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

wendy Kalthoff
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

wendy Kalthoff
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jennifer D Harris
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jennifer D Harris
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nicholas Davidson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nicholas Davidson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Shannon Williams
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Eileen Snitzer
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Eileen Snitzer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Christina Clarke
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Andrei Smarandoiu
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kenneth Brazzel
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Teresa Woods
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Judy & Doug Beers
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Steven W. Smith
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Steven W. Smith
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robin Vesey
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kim Halizak
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kim Halizak
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Cole
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Alice Hatzenbeller
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lori Kegler
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lori Kegler
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Loventhal
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Frey
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carla Haim
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Andreas Niesen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Donna Barrett
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Donna Barrett
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

carolina varga
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

carolina varga
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ted Schultz
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ted Schultz
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

jim doutre
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

James Walton
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Deja Lizer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Deja Lizer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Vicki Denissen

Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Olivia Ascione
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Olivia Ascione
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Oliver Glace
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Oliver Glace
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kyle Harmon
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kyle Harmon
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jason Rispin
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jason Rispin
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Shannon Schneble
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gabriel Almazan
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gabriel Almazan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Penny Parker
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Alexis Morris
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Alexis Morris
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Geraldine Card
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Geraldine Card
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I ask you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

matt miksys
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

matt miksys
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Adriana Baltazar
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Julie Martin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Horacio de la Cueva
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Doug Ayers
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Adriana Baltazar
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

dara niruyi
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

sabine greger
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

sabine greger
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

michael waters
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kristofer Lind
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Margret Head
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Margret Head
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Damon Brown
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Damon Brown
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Laura-Jean Slykhuis
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Laura-Jean Slykhuis
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jaylen Schmitt
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tenaya Egbert
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tenaya Egbert
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Chilton Bowman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Chilton Bowman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Chilton Bowman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

[Signature]

[Name]
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Shunko Jamvold
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Shunko Jamvold
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lindsey Weedston
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Roosevelt Williams
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Roosevelt Williams
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dylan Orbach
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dylan Orbach
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Giulia Carducci
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Giulia Carducci
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Andrea Oettinger
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

jeanette zawacki
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jane Herschlag
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jane Herschlag
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

c. raedig
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

c. raedig
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Andreas Riris
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ulle Koiv
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ulle Koiv
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Massimo Fornaciari
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Massimo Fornaciari
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree among BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers must not be left paying the cost of it.

Signed,

Mr. Danny Dyche
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Luis Jorge Rivera-Herrera
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Erin Kowalewski
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Erin Kowalewski
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

William Wolfgram
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Steven Urquhart
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jamie Myers
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jamie Myers
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

James Howard
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Daniel Vaughn
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carol Macilroy
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carol Macilroy
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bob Sparks
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

George & Ilse Sakheim
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Valeria Cervellati
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Valeria Cervellati
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ray Levy
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ray Levy
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

heather tyson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

heather tyson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

alex youngs
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

alex youngs
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sam Miller
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sam Miller
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brian Grad
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Leanna Ahern
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Leanna Ahern
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sudhir Pandit
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sudhir Pandit
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joy Kaubin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Querido Galdo
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kate Lenthall
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kate Lenthall
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Veronica Feinstein
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Hannah Looney
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Hannah Looney
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Scott Franks
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Scott Franks
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Elicia Preston
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

kali kosta
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michelle Huizar
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Russell Elliott
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Russell Elliott
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Janet McKee
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Douglas Hodge
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kim Wilbur
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sandy Brown
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sandy Brown
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joseph Nowak
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joseph Nowak
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Colleen Cleary
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Colleen Cleary
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Thomas Cannon
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Thomas Cannon
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Thank you very much.

Sincerely,

Kimberly Walker
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Daniel Klein
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Daniel Klein
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Anna Bengel
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Anna Bengel
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Samuel Tennis
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jesse Salsbury
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jesse Salsbury
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lanelle Lovelace
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lanelle Lovelace
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Amanda C
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Amanda C
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Krista Mahoney
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Krista Mahoney
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Vivek Golikeri
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Vivek Golikeri
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kevin Charnas
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Margaret Merino
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Margaret Merino
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Waine
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kathleen Rivard
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kathleen Rivard
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

j k
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cathy Ream
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kevyn Lutton
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kevyn Lutton
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kimberlie Franklin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kimberlie Franklin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Ferrandino
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary Jo Parys
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Whitney Metz
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Aliz Vanilia
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Whitney Metz
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Aliz Vanilia
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary Jo Parys
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Judy Fukunaga
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Judy Fukunaga
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cari Moore
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Leslie Beall
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Boyd Gilbreath
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nicole McAtee
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nicole McAtee
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michele Langston
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Fay Strobel
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Curt Johnson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Daniel R
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

LouAnn Ballew
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

daniel espalin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

daniel espalin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Mulder
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Renee Robertson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Suzanne Salerno
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Suzanne Salerno
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary Salerno
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Drew Stafford
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Val Schroeder
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Val Schroeder
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lyn Lukich
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lyn Lukich
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary Bobb
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary Bobb
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kathleen Lovell
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

William O'Rourke
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

William O'Rourke
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Mark Levengood
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Mark Levengood
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Alison Ramadei
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Alison Ramadei
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ken Morrison
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Leanne Primrose-Brown
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Rose Marie Menard
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joan Christensen
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joe Cuviello
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Rose Marie Menard
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joe Cuviello
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Barbara McKee
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Barbara McKee
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rosalyn Rohloff
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rosalyn Rohloff
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dolainia Fabiano
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jennifer Harrison
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jennifer Harrison
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Valerie Champagne
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Valerie Champagne
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jeff Levicke
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kate Goetz
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kate Goetz
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Elizabeth Schlein
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Elizabeth Schlein
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jacquelyn Swank
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Whitman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Whitman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Chris Carlon
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Chris Carlon
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Steven Kranowski
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Steven Kranowski
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sampson Chan
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sampson Chan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

OREN YARBER
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

OREN YARBER
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Sodrel
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Amanda Ehrnst
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

nikki wojtalik
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Amanda Graham
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Amanda Graham
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lynn Alexander
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nadia Gatti
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

debbie thorn
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

debbie thorn
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

It's ONLY right!

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Kagan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Elizabeth Walters
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Kagan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary Schloetter
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary Schloetter
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mike Lundgren
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Chris Conley
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Alexander Clark
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jacob Grigsby
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jacob Grigsby
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Illisa Kelman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Illisa Kelman
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Alexander Clark
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rebecca Birkel
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rebecca Birkel
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Thomas Jefferson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Thomas Jefferson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bernard Rafferty
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bernard Rafferty
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Melissa Simmons
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lauren Fleming
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dennis Hall
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dennis Hall
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

skip Cowles
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

skip Cowles
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sharon McNamara
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kimberly Spiegel
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kimberly Spiegel
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Adrian Juarez
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Adrian Juarez
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Adrian Juarez
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carol Wolkow-Price
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susan Severino
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susan Severino
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Joseph Ponisciak
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Joseph Ponisciak
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

laureen picciani
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

laureen picciani
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dennis Fogarty
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Schumacher
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Schumacher
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Christopher A Judge
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Christopher A Judge
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Vickie Sutherland
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Vickie Sutherland
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary Thiel
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Peter Mayes
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Peter Mayes
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Annie Schwarz
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Paul Brooks
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Paul Brooks
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Julian Yerena Jr
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Lutman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Lutman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

RedElisa Mendoza
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

RedElisa Mendoza
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Juli Kring
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Juli Kring
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

jorge torres
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

jorge torres
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sarah Griffin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sarah Griffin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joel Young
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joel Young
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Teresa Earp
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Teresa Earp
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Larry Burgoon
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

keith evans
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

keith evans
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

K Reynolds
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bill Vartnaw
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Edward Morales
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Edward Morales
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Schwartz
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Schwartz
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kim Gronemeyer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Helen Stuehler
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Helen Stuehler
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dixie Davis
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dixie Davis
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

J. Barry Gurdin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

J. Barry Gurdin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

[signature]
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Daniel Runningen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Daniel Runningen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Phil Bridegroom
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susan Yerry
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susan Yerry
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jo Ann Abate
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bonnie Helm
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bonnie Helm
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John S
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Veronica Follan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Suzanne Marienau
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Cheryl Gale
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Julia Bottom
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Julia Bottom
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Nelson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marilyn Duerbeck
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brad Nahill
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Harriet Rosenberg
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Harriet Rosenberg
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nicole Brooks
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jackie Connolly
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Catherine Carnes
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Catherine Carnes
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sarah Creamean
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Krista Miller
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Krista Miller
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Natasha Saravanja
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Callie Loser
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Burnett
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jacqui Zink
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jacqui Zink
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Rena Zahorsky
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Meryl Pinque
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Meryl Pinque
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Gomel
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda D Prostko
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda D Prostko
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Karen Sullivan
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tom Sloan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tom Sloan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Julie Mcnally
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mike Donais
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mike Donais
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Karen Themelis
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Karen Themelis
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bridgette Hartung
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bridgette Hartung
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Keith Trinkner Jr
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Hand
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Hand
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gail Maciejewski
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gail Maciejewski
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sharon R Fortunak
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Priscilla Massie
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

HENNY GARFUNKEL
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joseph Szabo
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

DANIEL BROWN
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

DANIEL BROWN
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carolyn Wember
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carolyn Wember
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Irwin Rapoport
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Irwin Rapoport
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Paige McGlaughlin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Paige McGlaughlin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

K Gorman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

K Gorman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rande Denison
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Margie Zalesak
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Margie Zalesak
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jeanne Soleille
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Katya Surrence
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Katya Surrence
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Annalisa Cutler
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Annalisa Cutler
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Barbara Scott
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Barbara Scott
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

M Moga
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

M Moga
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Alexander Fulton
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brianna Pfeningr
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brianna Pfening
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Neil Cardew-Fanning
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Barb Travis
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Barb Travis
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Terry Travis
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jim Phillips
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jim Phillips
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jennifer Mayor
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jennifer Mayor
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Darcy Bergh
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

William Perren
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

William Perren
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

jeanne doescher
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Alexander Dinell
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Phillip Leija
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Heather Reynolds
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Leigh Clark
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Leigh Clark
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sarah Stiles
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sarah Stiles
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Glen Anderson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Glen Anderson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joyce Wood
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joyce Wood
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

mollie smith
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Deborah Martin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lou Baxter
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jackie Critser
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ernest Caltvedt
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Laurel Maurer
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dennis McIntyre
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dennis McIntyre
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

carl tyndall
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Theresa Epp
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robin Patten
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robin Patten
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cyndi Fritzler
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cyndi Fritzler
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Adam Williams
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jennifer Harris
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jennifer Harris
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dan Behl
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dan Behl
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Tissot
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jason Shawhan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jason Shawhan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cynthia Bogs
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cynthia Bogs
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susan Schluederberg
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Susan Schluederberg
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

michael page
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

michael page
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Laura Polvino-Alamprese
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Laura Polvino-Alamprese
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Doug Wingeier
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Doug Wingeier
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joanne Blythe
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joanne Blythe
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Colleen Curtis
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Colleen Curtis
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

kathy de vos
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jonathan Ebby
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jonathan Ebby
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Terri David
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

James Glatz
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

lou mammana
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

lou mammana
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kara Jewell
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sharron L. Laplante MD
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Laura Taylor
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ken Maurice
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ken Maurice

Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Todd Miller
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Todd Miller
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robert Spector
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Theresa Donatiello Neidich
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Zach Barr
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Zach Barr
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Jadach
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Barbara Valente
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely, Wandis Wilcox

wandis wilcox
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

keith haller
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

keith haller
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Carol Ann Minor
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Harrison
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Melissa McTague
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Melissa McTague
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jill Davies
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dave Wiig
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jon Read
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Melissa Suarez
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Melissa Suarez
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sarah Harber
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bea Platt
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bea Platt
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jeanette Louis
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jeanette Louis
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Edith Martin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kori McCarthy
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kori McCarthy
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Diane Black
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Diane Black
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Andrew Warren
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Todd Gross
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Todd Gross
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

susan warren
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jacqueline Schmidt
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jacqueline Schmidt
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Laurel Husk
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Laurel Husk
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Eileen Mahood-Jose
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Riva Nolley
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr Rodney Derbigny
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marcia Edelen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Marcia Edelen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dusty Stepanski
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dusty Stepanski
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tiffany McCleary
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tiffany McCleary
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms Barbara Gideon
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms Barbara Gideon
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Christina Otero
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Christina Otero
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nicola Jaeger
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nicola Jaeger
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dita `kali?
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dita `kali?
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

gisselle brohan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

William Knauber
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

William Knauber
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Beth Severance
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Z Qhygoem
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Z Qhygoem
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Shokenu
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

David Shokenu
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jacqueline Birnbaum
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jacqueline Birnbaum
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Donald Leisman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Donald Leisman
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Theresa Cohen
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Theresa Cohen
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Skylaar Amann
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Skylaar Amann
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Pamela Mitchell
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Daniel Blum
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Daniel Blum
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michele Ledesky
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Fred Tyler
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Fred Tyler
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Theresa Quain
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jessica Wheeler
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Brewer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

John Brewer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Frank Scanzillo
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Frank Scanzillo
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Donna Lenhart
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dharma Best
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dharma Best
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dharma Best
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Chris Rice
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. Chris Rice
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gay Dalzell
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brianna Onken
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Angela Rednour
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Martha Buchan
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nancy Rosa
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ellen Ayalin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

lorraine akiba
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Julia Parr
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nancy James
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nancy James
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cassandra Browning
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cassandra Browning
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tiffany Witmer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tiffany Witmer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Riley Maness
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Alexandra Gierlachowski
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Shelly Chermack
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Judith Turner
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Judith Turner
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Pen Colodny
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Fred Nothstein
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Fred Nothstein
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nick Hood
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nick Hood
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rita Thomas
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Teresa Reno
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Neil Bleifeld
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Neil Bleifeld
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Rita Vandeburgh
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Szymoniak
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Linda Szymoniak
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Laurie Puca
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lowell Moorcroft
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sonya Bell
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joan Breiding
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joan Breiding
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cornelia Teed
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cornelia Teed
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Anna Mosqueda
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Anna Mosqueda
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Glenda Goldwater
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Amy Lippert
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jamie Zazow
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jamie Zazow
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Stuart Oskamp
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Stuart Oskamp
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary Pritchard
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. David Hind
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. David Hind
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Phillip Leija
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Phillip leija

Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Phillip leiya
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

S Soo
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

S Soo
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cheryl Costigan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cheryl Costigan

Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Cheryl Costigan
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dana Spottswood
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dana Spottswood
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Andrew Baron
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Andrew Baron
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Brooke Newell
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ms. Brooke Newell
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

G Clemson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

G Clemson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mark Novotny
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mark Novotny
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Christopher Rowley
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Dr. Robert Searing
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Frederick Schmidt
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Gisela Newbegin
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Franziska Hanke
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

J C
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

J C
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nikki Doyle
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nikki Doyle
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ran Zirasri
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Roseann Foley
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Roseann Foley
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joe Landwehr
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joe Landwehr
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brianna Rainville
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brianna Rainville
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sandy McComb
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sandy McComb
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Albert Gamble
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Albert Gamble
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kate S
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sandra Green
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Sandra Green
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mark Thomas
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Kelly
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Michael Kelly
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

g. Cruz
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

g. Cruz
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Nancy Creighton
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jonathan Holland
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jonathan Holland
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Danya Kuperstein
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Allison Frymoyer
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robin Jenkins
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Robin Jenkins
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Barbara Rizzo
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Peter Scott
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Peter Scott
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ryan Cianfarani
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ryan Cianfarani
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Kristen Lightbody
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Iza Aziz
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Iza Aziz
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Brittany Allison
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jordan Hunnicut
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Bruce Macaulay
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jordan Hunnicut
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Jordan Hunnicut
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Richard Gray
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Eric Durante
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Eric Durante
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Ed Atkins
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Randen Kane
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Randen Kane
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

William Lerner
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

ana santamaria
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

ana santamaria
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Inez Hein
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Inez Hein
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Adele Myers
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

clarence krygheld
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Denise Lytle
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. V L
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mr. V L
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Aaronjacob Lampe
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mrs. Kathleen Weaver
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Joline Barth
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Christina Elsayed
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mrs. Susan Fong
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Tyler Heard
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Elisabeth Loos
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Elisabeth Loos
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Deborah Swanson
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Pat Thiel Messer
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Pat Thiel Messer
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Penelope Mazza
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Penelope Mazza
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Lisa Kipers
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Timothy Miller
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Laurie Swenson
Loretta Lynch
Department of Justice

Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary K Papadopetros
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary K Papadopetros
Dear Attorney General Lynch:

As the comment period for the consent decree between BP, the Justice Department, and the five states of the Gulf Coast continues, I urge you to include strict language in the final agreement that bars BP from claiming any portion of its settlement costs as a tax deduction.

The tragedy of the Deepwater Horizon must never be repeated and taxpayers should not be left paying the cost of it.

Sincerely,

Mary K Papadopetros