Deadline Type	Former Deadline	New Deadline
Deadline to file asylum application with USCIS (if inside the United States at the time of Class confirmation)¹	Two years after the Class member confirmation date or two years after DHS/EOIR takes the necessary action.	Three years after the Class confirmation date or three years after DHS/EOIR takes the necessary action.
Deadline to file asylum application with USCIS (if outside the United States at the time of Class confirmation)	Two years after the date of parole or lawful admission to the United States, but no later than December 11, 2029.	Three years after the date of parole or lawful admission to the United States, but no later than December 11, 2030.

¹ Ms. L. Settlement Class members who require action by the Department of Homeland Security (DHS) or the Executive Office for Immigration Review (EOIR) before they can apply for asylum with USCIS now have three years from their Class confirmation date to request DHS and/or EOIR to take the necessary actions. This includes Ms. L. Settlement Class members who are in removal, expedited removal, or reinstatement proceedings, as well as Ms. L. Settlement Class members with an expedited removal order, a reinstated order of removal, or an unfiled Notice to Appear. This also includes Class members who seek to reopen a prior asylum application that USCIS denied. Once DHS and/or EOIR take the necessary action, Class members have three years to file an asylum application with USCIS.
