Although Claimant was not among them, many of the U.S. nationals in Iraq and Kuwait at the time of the 1990-91 Iraqi occupation of Kuwait sued Iraq (and others) in federal court for, among other things, hostage-taking.<sup>1</sup> Those cases were pending when, in September 2010, the United States and Iraq concluded an en bloc (lump-sum) settlement agreement.<sup>2</sup> The Agreement, which entered into force in May 2011, covered a number of personal injury claims of U.S. nationals arising from acts of the former Iraqi regime occurring prior to October 7, 2004, including claims of personal injury caused by hostage-taking.<sup>3</sup> Exercising its authority to distribute money from the settlement funds, the U.S. Department of State provided compensation to numerous individuals whose claims were covered by the Agreement, including some whom Iraq had allegedly taken hostage or unlawfully detained following Iraq's 1990 invasion of Kuwait.

Under the International Claims Settlement Act of 1949 ("ICSA"), the Secretary of State has statutory authority to refer "a category of claims against a foreign government" to this Commission.<sup>4</sup> The Secretary has delegated that authority to the State Department's Legal Adviser, who, by letter dated October 7, 2014, referred three categories of claims to this Commission for adjudication and certification.<sup>5</sup> This was the State Department's second referral of claims to the Commission under the Claims Settlement Agreement, the first having been by letter dated November 14, 2012 ("2012 Referral" or "November 2012 Referral").<sup>6</sup>

One category of claims from the 2014 Referral is applicable here. That category, known as Category A, consists of claims by U.S. nationals for hostage-taking<sup>1</sup> by Iraq<sup>2</sup> in violation of international law prior to October 7, 2004, provided that the claimant was not a plaintiff in pending litigation against Iraq for hostage taking<sup>3</sup> at the time of the entry into force of the Claims Settlement Agreement and has not received compensation under the Claims Settlement Agreement from the U.S. Department of State. . . .

<sup>1</sup> For purposes of this referral, hostage-taking would include unlawful detention by Iraq that resulted in an inability to leave Iraq or Kuwait after Iraq invaded Kuwait on August 2, 1990.

<sup>2</sup> For purposes of this referral, "Iraq" shall mean the Republic of Iraq, the Government of the Republic of Iraq, any agency or instrumentality of the Republic of Iraq, and any official, employee or agent of the Republic of Iraq acting within the scope of his or her office, employment or agency.

<sup>3</sup> For purposes of this category, pending litigation against Iraq for hostage taking refers to the following matters: Acree v. Iraq, D.D.C. 02-cv-00632 and 06-cv-00723, Hill v. Iraq, D.D.C. 99-cv-03346, Vine v. Iraq, D.D.C. 01-cv-02674; Seyam (Islamic Society of Wichita) v. Iraq, D.D.C. 03-cv-00888; Simon v. Iraq, D.D.C. 03-cv-00691.

<sup>6</sup> Although the November 2012 Referral involved claims of U.S. nationals who were held hostage or unlawfully detained by Iraq, it did not involve hostage-taking claims per se. Rather, it consisted of certain claimants who had already received compensation under the Claims Settlement Agreement from the State Department for their hostage-taking claims, and it authorized the Commission to award additional compensation to those claimants, provided they could show, among other things, that they suffered a "serious personal injury" during their detention. The 2012 Referral expressly noted that the "payment already received by the claimant under the Claims Settlement Agreement compensated the claimant for his or her experience for the entire duration of the period in which the claimant was held hostage or was subject to unlawful detention and encompassed physical, mental, and emotional injuries generally associated with such captivity or detention." 2012 Referral, supra, n.3.

On October 23, 2014, the Commission published notice in the Federal Register announcing the commencement of the second Iraq Claims Program pursuant to the ICSA and the 2014 Referral.<sup>7</sup>

On October 22, 2015, the Commission received from Claimant a completed Statement of Claim seeking compensation under Category A of the 2014 Referral, together with exhibits supporting the elements of her claim.

DISCUSSION

Jurisdiction

This Commission's authority to hear claims is limited to the category of claims referred to it by the United States Department of State.<sup>8</sup> The Commission's jurisdiction under the "Category A" paragraph of the 2014 Referral is limited to claims for hostage-taking of (1) "U.S. nationals," provided that the claimant (2) was not a plaintiff in any litigation against Iraq for hostage taking pending on May 22, 2011 (the "Pending Litigation"), and (3) has not received compensation under the Claims Settlement Agreement from the Department of State. 2014 Referral ¶ 3.

Nationality

This claims program is limited to claims of "U.S. nationals." Here, that means a claimant must have been a national of the United States when the claim arose and continuously thereafter until May 22, 2011, the date the Agreement entered into force.<sup>9</sup> Claimant satisfies the nationality requirement. She has provided a copy of her cancelled U.S. passport, which shows that she was a U.S. national at the time of the alleged hostage-taking (August 1990). She has also provided a copy of her current U.S. passport, which establishes that she remained a U.S. national through the effective date of the Claims Settlement Agreement.

No Pending Litigation

Additionally, Category A states that the claimant may not have been a plaintiff in any of the so-called Pending Litigation cases at the time of the entry into force of the Claims Settlement Agreement.<sup>10</sup> Footnote 3 of the 2014 Referral specifically lists the Pending Litigation cases for purposes of the Referral. Claimant has averred under oath in her Statement of Claim, and the pleadings in the cases cited in footnote 3 confirm, that she was not a plaintiff in any of those Pending Litigation cases. The Commission thus finds that Claimant has also satisfied this element of her claim.

No Compensation under the Claims Settlement Agreement from the Department of State

The Claimant also satisfies the final jurisdictional requirement. Claimant has stated that she has never “received any compensation under [the U.S.-Iraq Claims Settlement Agreement] from the Department of State.” Further, we have no evidence that the State Department has provided her any compensation under the Claims Settlement Agreement. Therefore, Claimant meets this element of her claim.

In summary, this claim is within the Commission’s jurisdiction pursuant to the 2014 Referral and is entitled to adjudication on the merits.

Merits

Factual Allegations

Claimant states that Iraq held her hostage from August 2, 1990 until August 7, 1990, a total of 6 days. She alleges that she was eight years old and living in Kuwait with her family when Iraq invaded the country on August 2, 1990. She further alleges that after the invasion, she and her siblings hid inside their residence with their uncle, and that she was “ridden with anxiety and fear” as she “watched Iraqi troops driving around [their] neighborhood threatening to kill anyone who would not cooperate.”

Claimant, her siblings and her uncle remained sequestered in their home for approximately five days beginning with the invasion on August 2, 1990. Claimant alleges that, “on or about August 7,” they left their residence and began driving to Syria in a vehicle that carried several Syrian nationals who also sought to escape Kuwait. According to Claimant, that same day, August 7, 1990, she and her family entered Saudi Arabia, where they spent two nights before continuing to Syria.

Supporting Evidence

Claimant has supported her claim with, among other things: her own sworn declaration, dated December 18, 2015, in which she describes her ordeal in Kuwait; a copy of her U.S. passport valid at the time of the Iraqi invasion, issued by the U.S. Embassy in Kuwait in May 1989, which contains, inter alia, a Saudi entry stamp dated August 6, 1990, a Saudi exit stamp dated August 8, 1990,<sup>11</sup> a Jordanian entry stamp dated

<sup>11</sup> In a declaration filed with this claim, counsel for Claimant explains that the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia uses the Islamic Hijri calendar, rather than the Gregorian calendar used in the United States and most western nations. Thus, the Saudi entry stamp in Claimant’s passport includes the date “١٥ محرم ١٤١١” in Arabic script, which translates to the 15th day of the month of Muharram in the year 1411, which in turn corresponds to August 6, 1990, in the Gregorian calendar. The Commission has confirmed this conversion

August 8, 1990, a Jordanian exit stamp dated August 8, 1990, and a Syrian entry stamp dated August 8, 1990; and a news article that was published on September 16, 1990 in the Pensacola News Journal and that states that Claimant's family escaped to Saudi Arabia six days after the invasion.

Additionally, Claimant has submitted a number of documents that provide background about the broader geopolitical situation during the First Gulf War in 1990-91, including some that relate specifically to the circumstances faced by U.S. nationals in Iraq and Kuwait at the time. These documents include statements from U.S. and Iraqi officials, resolutions of the United Nations Security Council, newspaper articles, a report from Amnesty International on human rights violations committed by Iraq in 1990, unclassified cables and a memorandum from the U.S. Department of State, and affidavits submitted in two lawsuits brought by other U.S. nationals who were also in Kuwait or Iraq during the First Gulf War.

Legal Standard

To make out a substantive claim under Category A of the 2014 Referral, a claimant must show that (1) Iraq was engaged in an armed conflict and (2) during that conflict, Iraq took the claimant hostage.<sup>12</sup> The Commission has previously held that, to establish a hostage-taking claim, a claimant must show that Iraq (a) seized or detained the claimant and (b) threatened the claimant with death, injury or continued detention (c) in order to compel a third party, such as the United States government, to do or abstain from

with the Official Calendar of the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia, and it is consistent with counsel's explanation. See Date Conversion, Official Calendar of Kingdom of Saudi Arabia, <http://www.ummulqura.org.sa/Index.aspx> (last visited July 6, 2017). Unlike Saudi Arabia, entry and exit stamps from Kuwait, Iraq, and Jordan used the Gregorian calendar.

<sup>12</sup> See Claim No. IRQ-II-161, Decision No. IRQ-II-003, at 16. An estate claimant would of course need to make this showing as to its decedent.

doing any act as an explicit or implicit condition for the claimant's release.<sup>13</sup> A claimant can establish the first element of this standard by showing that the Iraqi government confined the claimant to a particular location or locations within Iraq or Kuwait, or prohibited the claimant from leaving Iraq and/or Kuwait.<sup>14</sup>

Application of Standard to this Claim

(1) Armed Conflict: Claimant alleges that Iraq took her hostage in Kuwait on August 2, 1990 and held her hostage for 6 days, until August 7, 1990, when she escaped to Saudi Arabia. In its first decision awarding compensation for hostage-taking under the 2014 Referral, the Commission held that during this entire period, Iraq was engaged in an armed conflict with Kuwait.<sup>15</sup> Thus, Claimant satisfies this element of the standard.

(2) Hostage-taking: To satisfy the hostage-taking requirement of Category A of the 2014 Referral, Claimant must show that Iraq (a) seized or detained her and (b) threatened her with death, injury or continued detention (c) in order to compel a third party, such as the United States government, to do or abstain from doing any act as an explicit or implicit condition for her release. Claimant satisfies this standard for the 5-day period from August 2, 1990 to August 6, 1990.

(a) Detention/deprivation of freedom: For purposes of analyzing Claimant's allegations of having been detained, the Commission must first consider whether Claimant has carried her burden to prove the length of time she was in Kuwait from August 2, 1990 until she escaped to Saudi Arabia. Claimant originally stated in her sworn declaration that she crossed from Kuwait into Saudi Arabia on August 7, 1990.

The Pensacola News Journal article, however, implies that the crossing might even have been a day later, August 8, 1990, since it states that Claimant and her family escaped to Saudi Arabia “[s]ix days after the invasion.” Yet, the Saudi Arabian entry stamp in Claimant’s U.S. passport states that she entered that country on 15 Muharram 1411, which is August 6, 1990.<sup>16</sup> These discrepancies obviously raise the question as to the precise day that Claimant departed Kuwait. On November 4, 2016, the Commission received a letter from Claimant indicating that, in light of the Saudi entry stamp on Claimant’s passport, she wished to amend her claimed departure from August 7 to August 6, 1990. Given this amendment of the claim and given the evidence from Claimant’s passport, the evidence shows that Claimant escaped from Kuwait into Saudi Arabia on August 6, 1990.<sup>17</sup>

From August 2, 1990 until she crossed the Saudi Arabian-Kuwaiti border on August 6, 1990, Iraq confined Claimant to Kuwait by threatening all U.S. nationals with immediate seizure and forcible detention.<sup>18</sup> Although some foreign nationals did manage to leave Kuwait and/or Iraq prior to August 6, 1990,<sup>19</sup> Claimant could not reasonably be expected to have escaped earlier than she did.<sup>20</sup> Iraqi authorities were forcibly detaining foreign nationals (including U.S. nationals) in Kuwait, relocating many to Baghdad

<sup>17</sup> In the claims of Claimant’s three siblings, the claimants also originally asserted that they crossed the Kuwaiti-Saudi border on August 7, 1990, and also later amended the date to August 6, 1990 to match the Saudi entry stamps in their passports. In all three claims, Claimants received awards based on an August 6, 1990 departure date. See Claim No. IRQ-II-185, Decision No. IRQ-II-052 (2017); Claim No. IRQ-II-186, Decision No. IRQ-II-071 (2017); Claim No. IRQ-II-238, Decision No. IRQ-II-051 (2017).

<sup>18</sup> Claimant’s time in Kuwait following the Iraqi invasion falls entirely in the period between the Iraqi invasion on August 2, 1990 and the Iraqi government’s formal closing of the borders on August 9, 1990. See Claim No. IRQ-II-161, Decision No. IRQ-II-003, at 20-21.

against their will.<sup>21</sup> Claimant and her family understandably had, as the United Nations Compensation Commission has put it, a “manifestly well-founded fear” of being killed or forcibly detained if they had made any earlier attempt to leave the country.<sup>22</sup> Indeed, the facts suggest that they risked their lives to attempt to leave when they did. The Commission has previously recognized that for the purposes of the legal standard applicable here, putting Claimant and her family in this situation in effect amounts to detention.<sup>23</sup> Iraq thus detained Claimant from August 2, 1990 to August 6, 1990.

(b) Threat: In its first decision awarding compensation for hostage-taking under the 2014 Referral, the Commission determined that the Iraqi government threatened U.S. nationals in Kuwait and Iraq numerous times with continued detention.<sup>24</sup> Both Iraqi President Saddam Hussein and the Speaker of Iraq’s National Assembly Saadi Mahdi made clear that American nationals (as well as those from numerous other countries) would not have been permitted to leave Kuwait and/or Iraq at the time Claimant escaped to Saudi Arabia.<sup>25</sup> Claimant has thus established that Iraq threatened to continue to detain her.<sup>26</sup>

(c) Third party coercion: The Commission has previously held that Iraq detained all U.S. nationals in Kuwait or Iraq at the time and threatened them with

<sup>26</sup> While we determine that these statements apply to Claimant and other similarly situated U.S. nationals who were prevented from leaving Iraq or Kuwait after the invasion, we do not make any findings as to whether they also apply to U.S. nationals with diplomatic status: Iraqi officials made specific representations about the ability of diplomatic and consular staff members with U.S. nationality (and their relatives) to leave Iraq and Kuwait throughout the crisis. See In Iraq: ‘We Have A Problem’ Iraq Holds Fleeing U.S. Diplomats Staff from Kuwait Reaches Baghdad, But Can’t Leave, PHILA. continued detention in order to compel the United States government to act in certain ways as an explicit and/or implicit condition for their release.<sup>27</sup> Iraq itself stated that it sought three things from the United States government before it would release the detained U.S. nationals; it wanted the United States (i) not to attack Iraq, (ii) to withdraw its troops from Saudi Arabia; and/or (iii) to end the economic embargo imposed on Iraq.<sup>28</sup> Indeed, at the time, the U.S. government itself understood Iraq's actions to be hostage-taking.<sup>29</sup>

In sum, this claim meets the standard for hostage-taking within the meaning of the 2014 Referral. Iraq held Claimant hostage in violation of international law for a period of 5 days, and Claimant is thus entitled to compensation.

COMPENSATION

Having concluded that the present claim is compensable, the Commission must next determine the appropriate amount of compensation.

In its first decision awarding compensation for hostage-taking under the 2014 Referral, the Commission held that successful claimants should be awarded compensation in the amount of $150,000 plus an additional $5,000 for each day the claimant was in captivity.<sup>30</sup> Therefore, for the 5 days Iraq held Claimant hostage, she is entitled to an award of $175,000, which is $150,000 plus (5 x $5,000). This amount constitutes the entirety of the compensation to which Claimant is entitled under the Claims Settlement Agreement.
