NetSmartz is the National Center for Missing and Exploited Children's online safety education program. It provides age-appropriate videos and activities to help teach children be safer online with the goal of helping children to become more aware of potential online risks and empowering them to help prevent victimization by making safer choices on- and offline. This site also includes a cybertip line link or toll-free telephone number for reporting incidents.

The FBI saw an alarming increase in cases that involve adults coercing children into producing sexual images and videos online, a crime called sextortion. In 2019 they launched a campaign aimed to raise awareness of the dangers associated with this crime and to offer resources to parents, teachers, and to minors.

Resources include:

- A link to report incidents
- Educational materials
- Resources for parents
- Brochure
