SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:Why Is the Service Automatically Extending the Validity of EADs From July 5, 2002, to December 5, 2002?

Considering the large number of applications that the Service will receive in the 60-day re-registration period, it is likely that many re-registrants will receive their new EAD after the expiration date of their current EAD. In order to prevent a gap in employment authorization for qualified re-registrants, the Service is extending the validity of applicable EADs to December 5, 2002.

Who Is Eligible To Receive an Automatic Extension of Employment Authorization?

To be eligible for an automatic extension of employment authorization, an individual must be a national of Honduras or Nicaragua (or an alien having no nationality who last habitually resided in Honduras or Nicaragua) who previously applied for and received an EAD under the initial designation for Honduras or Nicaragua, or who later registered under the late initial registration provisions, and who timely re-registered for each subsequent TPS extension. This automatic extension is limited to EADs bearing an expiration date of July 5, 2002, and the notation: "A-12" or "C-19" on the face of the card under "Category" for EADs issued on Form I-766; or "274A.12(A)(12)" or "274A.12(C)(19)" on the face of the card under "Provision of Law" for EADs issued on Form I-688B.

Must Qualified Individuals Apply to the Service for the Automatic Extension of Their TPS-Related EADs?

No, qualified individuals do not have to apply for this automatic employment authorization extension to December 5, 2002. However, qualified individuals must re-register for TPS by July 2, 2002, in order to be eligible for a new EAD that is valid until July 5, 2003.

What Documents May a Qualified Individual Show to His or Her Employer as Proof of Employment Authorization and Identity When Completing the Employment Eligibility Verification Form (Form I-9)?

For completion of the Form I-9 at the time of hire or re-verification, qualified individuals who have received an extension of employment authorization by virtue of this Federal Register notice may present to their employer a TPS-related EAD as proof of valid employment authorization and identity until December 5, 2002. To minimize confusion over this extension at the time of hire or re-verification, qualified individuals may also present to their employer a copy of this Federal Register notice regarding the automatic extension of employment authorization to December 5, 2002. In the alternative, any legally acceptable document or combination of documents listed in List A, List B, or List C of the Form I-9 may be presented as proof of identity and employment eligibility, it is the choice of the employee.

How May Employers Determine Which EADs That Have Been Automatically Extended Through December 5, 2002, Are Acceptable for Completion of the Form I-9?

For purposes of verifying identity and employment eligibility or re-verifying employment eligibility on the Form I-9 until December 5, 2002, employers of Honduran or Nicaraguan TPS class members whose employment authorization has been automatically extended by this notice must accept an EAD that contains an expiration date of July 5, 2002, and that bears one of the following notations: "A-12" or "C-19" on the face of the card under "Category" for EADs issued on Form I-766; or, "274A.12(A)(12)" or "274A.12(c)(19)" on the face of the card under "Provision of Law" for EADs issued on Form I-688B. New EADs or extension stickers showing the December 5, 2002 expiration date will not be issued. Employers should not request proof of Honduran or Nicaraguan citizenship. Employers presented with an EAD that this Federal Register notice has extended automatically and that appears to be genuine and to relate to the employee should accept the document as a valid "List A" document and should not ask for additional Form I-9 documentation. This action by the Service through this Federal Register notice does not affect the right of an employee to present any legally acceptable document as proof of identity and eligibility for employment.

Employers are reminded that the laws prohibiting unfair immigration-related employment practices remain in full force. For questions, employers may call the Service's Office of Business Liaison Employer Hotline at 1-800-357-2099 to speak to a Service representative. Also, employers may call the Office of Special Counsel for Immigration Related Unfair Employment Practices (OSC) Employer Hotline at 1-800-255-8155. Employees or applicants may call the OSC Employee Hotline at 1-800-255-7688 for information regarding the automatic extension.

Does This Notice Affect Any Other Portion of the Federal Register Notices Extending the TPS Designation for Honduras and Nicaragua Until July 5, 2003?

No, this notice does not affect any other portion of the Federal Register notices extending the TPS designation for Honduras and Nicaragua. All other TPS requirements contained in the Federal Register notices that extend the TPS designation for Honduras and Nicaragua until July 5, 2003 (see notices for Honduras and Nicaragua, published elsewhere in this issue of the Federal Register), are accurate and remain in effect.

AGENCY: Immigration and Naturalization Service, Justice.

ACTION: Notice.

SUMMARY: The designation of Honduras under the Temporary Protected Status (TPS) Program will expire on July 5, 2002. This notice extends the Attorney General's designation of Honduras for 12 months until July 5, 2003, and sets forth procedures necessary for nationals of Honduras (or aliens having no nationality who last habitually resided in Honduras) with TPS to re-register for the additional 12-month period. Re-registration is available only to persons who registered under the initial Honduras TPS designation, which ended on July 5, 1999, or who registered after that date under the late initial registration provisions, and timely re-registered under each subsequent extension. Nationals of Honduras (or aliens having no nationality who last habitually resided in Honduras) who have not previously applied for TPS may be eligible to apply for TPS under late initial registration provisions.

EFFECTIVE DATES: The extension of the TPS designation for Honduras is effective July 5, 2002, and will remain in effect until July 5, 2003. The 60-day re-registration period begins May 3, 2002 and will remain in effect until July 2, 2002.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

What Authority Does the Attorney General Have To Extend the Designation of Honduras Under the TPS Program?

Section 244(b)(3)(A) of the Immigration and Nationality Act (Act) states that at least 60 days before the end of a designation, or any extension thereof, the Attorney General must review conditions in the foreign state for which the designation is in effect. 8 U.S.C. 1254a(b)(3)(A). If the Attorney General does not determine that the foreign state no longer continues to meet the conditions for designation, the period of designation is extended automatically for 6 months pursuant to section 244(b)(3)(C) of the Act, although the Attorney General may exercise his discretion to extend the designation for a period of 12 or 18 months. 8 U.S.C. 1254a(b)(3)(C).

Why Did the Attorney General Decide To Extend the TPS Designation for Honduras?

On January 5, 1999, the Attorney General initially designated Honduras under the TPS program for a period of 18 months based on the severe flooding and mudslides caused by Hurricane Mitch. (64 FR 524). The fierce storm that swept through the country killed more than 5,000 people, damaged over 440,000 homes, destroyed over 100 bridges and washed away countless roads. Immigration and Naturalization Service (INS) Resource Information Center, Recommendation to Extend (April 2000). Following the initial designation, the Department of Justice kept a close watch over the progress of reconstruction in Honduras and consulted with relevant government agencies regularly. Given the amount of reconstruction necessary, the Attorney General extended the Honduras TPS designation twice, on May 11, 2000 (65 FR 30438) and May 8, 2001 (66 FR 23269). Each decision to extend the TPS designation was made on the determination that the conditions that warranted TPS designation initially continued to exist.

After the extension of Honduras' TPS designation on May 8, 2001, the Departments of State and Justice continued to monitor the conditions in that country. Prior to his decision to extend the Honduras TPS designation, the Attorney General consulted appropriate government agencies to determine whether conditions warranting the TPS designation continue to exist in Honduras. Although there are strong indications of progress in recovery efforts, recent droughts as well as flooding from Hurricane Michelle in 2001 have added to the humanitarian, economic, and social problems initially brought on by Hurricane Mitch in 1998, making the country unable, temporarily, to handle the return of approximately 105,000 nationals.

This assessment is consistent with a recent Department of State report that found that although a significant amount of reconstruction has been completed since Hurricane Mitch, "Honduras was also seriously affected by a drought and hurricane last year, causing further destruction and emergency conditions." Recommendation for Extension of TPS (March 22, 2002). Hurricane Michelle affected more than 50,000 people and damaged 1,300 houses, compounding the reconstruction efforts following Hurricane Mitch. Id. Such repeated environmental catastrophes have interrupted Honduras' ability to recover from Hurricane Mitch and, as a result, the country continues to lack the needed stability and infrastructure to support the return of its nationals. The INS Resource Information Center reported in March 2002 that, in concert with Hurricane Mitch, these more recent disasters "have produced major problems of food insecurity, unemployment and displacement of citizens" and "resulted in significant setbacks to full economic recovery from the damages sustained in 1998."

In addition to the environmental setbacks, Honduras' reconstruction efforts have been hindered by delays in disbursements of aid needed to rebuild. The Department of State reports that, in some instances, these delays in disbursement of funds from international donors and lending institutions have slowed the rehabilitation of Honduras' infrastructure. Continuing Mitch Reconstruction (March 2002). For example, delayed disbursements in foreign countries' pledges to rebuild bridges and roads resulted in approximately 1,724 meters of bridges remaining unfinished, and 558 kilometers of road left to be rehabilitated. Id. Further, approximately 64 percent of homes destroyed by Hurricane Mitch remain in need of rebuilding or repair. Id. These setbacks, in addition to problems caused by the subsequent flooding and droughts, render Honduras unable to handle adequately the return of its nationals. Consequently, the conditions under which Honduras was designated for TPS have not ceased to exist.

Based on this review, the Attorney General, after consultation with appropriate government agencies, finds that the conditions that prompted designation of Honduras under the TPS program continue to be met. 8 U.S.C. 1254a(b)(3)(C). There continues to be a substantial, but temporary, disruption of living conditions in Honduras as a result of environmental disaster, and Honduras continues to be unable, temporarily, to handle adequately the return of its nationals. 8 U.S.C. 1254a(b)(1)(B)(i)-(ii). On the basis of these findings, the Attorney General concludes that the TPS designation for Honduras should be extended for an additional 12-month period. 8 U.S.C. 1254a(b)(3)(C).

If I Currently Have TPS Through the Honduras TPS Program, Do I still Re-register for TPS?

Yes. If you already have been granted TPS through the Honduras TPS program, your status will expire on July 5, 2002. Accordingly, you must re-register for TPS in order to maintain your status through July 5, 2003. See the following re-registration instructions.

If I Am Currently Registered for TPS, How Do I Reregister for an Extension?

All persons previously granted TPS under the Honduras program who wish to maintain such status must apply for an extension by filing (1) a Form I-821, Application for Temporary Protected Status, without the filing fee; (2) a Form I-765, Application for Employment Authorization; and (3) two identification photographs (1 1/2 inches x 1 1/2 inches). See the chart below to determine whether you must submit the one hundred and twenty dollar ($120) filing fee with the Form I-765. Applicants for an extension of TPS benefits do not need to be re-fingerprinted and thus need not pay the fifty-dollar ($50) fingerprint fee. Children beneficiaries of TPS who have reached the age of fourteen (14) but were not previously fingerprinted must pay the fifty dollar ($50) fingerprint fee with the application for extension. Submit the completed forms and applicable fee, if any, to the INS service center office having jurisdiction over your place of residence during the 60-day re-registration period that begins

May 3, 2002 and ends July 2, 2002 (inclusive of such end date).

If—	Then—
You are applying for employment authorization until July 5, 2003	You must complete and file the Form I-765, Application for Employment Authorization, with the $120 fee.
You already have employment authorization or do not require employment authorization.	You must complete and file Form I-765 with no fee.
You are applying for employment authorization and are requesting a fee waiver.	You must complete and file: (1) Form I-765 with no fee and (2) a fee waiver request and affidavit (and any other information) in accordance with 8 CFR 244.20.

How Does an Application for TPS Affect My Application for Asylum or Other Immigration Benefits?

An application for TPS does not affect an application for asylum or any other immigration benefit. A national of Honduras (or alien having no nationality who last habitually resided in Honduras) who is otherwise eligible for TPS and has applied for, or plans to apply for, asylum, but who has not yet been granted asylum or withholding of removal, may also apply for TPS. Denial of an application for asylum or any other immigration benefit does not affect an applicant's ability to apply for TPS, although the grounds for denying one form of relief may also be grounds for denying TPS. For example, a person who has been convicted of a particularly serious crime is not eligible for asylum or TPS. 8 U.S.C. 1158(b)(2); 8 U.S.C. 1254a(c)(2)(B)(i).

Does This Extension Allow Nationals of Honduras (or Aliens Having No Nationality Who Last Habitually Resided in Honduras) Who Entered the United States After December 30, 1998, to Apply for TPS?

No. This is a notice of an extension of the TPS designation for Honduras, not a notice of re-designation of Honduras under the TPS program. An extension of TPS does not change the required dates of continuous residence and continuous physical presence in the United States. This extension does not expand TPS availability to those who are not already TPS class members. To be eligible for this extension, Hondurans (or aliens having no nationality and who last habitually resided in Honduras) must have resided continuously in the United States since December 30, 1998 and have been continuously physically present in the United States since January 5, 1999.

Is Late Initial Registration Possible?

Yes. Some persons may be eligible for late initial registration under 8 CFR 244.2. To apply for late initial registration an applicant must:

- (1) Be a national of Honduras (or alien who has no nationality and who last habitually resided in Honduras);
- (2) Have been continuously physically present in the United States since January 5 1999;
- (3) Have continuously resided in the United States since December 30, 1998; and
- (4) Be both admissible as an immigrant, except as provided under section 244(c)(2)(A) of the Act, and not ineligible under section 244(c)(2)(B) of the Act.

Additionally, the applicant must be able to demonstrate that during the initial registration period from January 5, 1999, through July 5, 2000, he or she:

- (1) Was a nonimmigrant or had been granted voluntary departure status or any relief from removal;
- (2) Had an application for change of status, adjustment of status, asylum, voluntary departure, or any relief from removal or change of status pending or subject to further review or appeal;
- (3) Was a parolee or had a pending request for reparole; or
- (4) Was the spouse or child of an alien currently eligible to be a TPS registrant. 8 CFR 244.2(f)(2).

An applicant for late initial registration must file an application for late registration within a 60-day period immediately following the expiration or termination of the conditions described above. 8 CFR 244.2(g).

Notice of Extension of Designation of Honduras Under the TPS Program

By the authority vested in me as Attorney General under sections 244(b)(1)(B), (b)(3)(A), and (b)(3)(C) of the Act, I have consulted with the appropriate government agencies and determine that the conditions that prompted designation of Honduras for TPS continue to be met. 8 U.S.C. 1254a(b)(3)(A). Accordingly, I order as follows:

- (1) The designation of Honduras under section 244(b) of the Act is extended for an additional 12-month period from July 5, 2002, to July 5, 2003. 8 U.S.C. 1254a(b)(3)(C).

(2) There are approximately 105,000 nationals of Honduras (or aliens having no nationality who last habitually resided in Honduras) who have been granted TPS and who are eligible for re-registration.

(3) To maintain TPS, a national of Honduras (or an alien having no nationality who last habitually resided in Honduras) who received TPS during the initial designation period must re-register for TPS during the 60-day re-registration period from May 3, 2002 until July 2, 2002.

(4) To re-register, the applicant must file the following: (1) Form I-821, Application for Temporary Protected Status; (2) Form I-765, Application for Employment Authorization; and (3) two identification photographs (1½ inches by 1½ inches). There is no fee for a Form I-821 filed as part of the re-registration application. If the applicant requests employment authorization, he or she must submit one hundred and twenty dollars ($120) or a properly documented fee waiver request, pursuant to 8 CFR 244.20, with the Form I-765. An applicant who does not request employment authorization must nonetheless file Form I-765 along with Form I-821, but is not required to submit the fee. The fifty dollar ($50) fingerprint fee is required only for children beneficiaries of TPS who have reached the age of 14 but were not previously fingerprinted. Failure to re-register without good cause will result in the withdrawal of TPS. 8 CFR 244.17(c). Some persons who had not previously applied for TPS may be eligible for late initial registration under 8 CFR 244.2.

(5) At least 60 days before this extension terminates on July 5, 2003, the Attorney General will review the designation of Honduras under the TPS program and determine whether the conditions for designation continue to be met. 8 U.S.C. 1254a(b)(3)(A). Notice of that determination, including the basis for the determination, will be published in the Federal Register. 8 USC 1254a(b)(3)(A).

(6) Information concerning the extension of designation of Honduras under the TPS program will be available at local INS offices upon publication of this notice and the INS National Customer Service Center at 1-800-375-5283. This information will also be posted on the INS website at <http://www.ins.usdoj.gov>.

Dated: April 30, 2002.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

What Authority Does the Attorney General Have To Extend the Designation of Nicaragua Under the TPS Program?

Section 244(b)(3)(A) of the Immigration and Nationality Act (Act) states that at least 60 days before the end of a designation, or any extension thereof, the Attorney General must review conditions in the foreign state for which the designation is in effect. 8 U.S.C. 1254a(b)(3)(A). If the Attorney General does not determine that the foreign state no longer continues to meet the conditions for designation, the period of designation is extended automatically for 6 months pursuant to section 244(b)(3)(C) of the Act, although the Attorney General may exercise his discretion to extend the designation for a period of 12 or 18 months. 8 U.S.C.1254a(b)(3)(C).

Why Did the Attorney General Decide To Extend the TPS Designation for Nicaragua?

On January 5, 1999, the Attorney General initially designated Nicaragua under the TPS program for a period of 18 months based on the severe flooding and mudslides caused by Hurricane Mitch (64 FR 526). The fierce storm that swept through the country killed more than 3, 000 people, left 150,000 people homeless, and washed away roads, bridges, schools, and hospitals. Immigration and Naturalization Service (INS) Resource Information Center, Recommendation to Extend (April 2000). Following the initial designation, the Department of Justice kept a close watch over the progress of reconstruction in Nicaragua and consulted with relevant government agencies regularly. The Attorney General extended the Nicaragua TPS designation twice, on May 11, 2000 (65 FR 30440) and May 8, 2001 (66 FR 23271). Each decision to extend the TPS designation was made on the determination that the conditions that warranted TPS designation initially continued to exist.

After the extension of Nicaragua's TPS designation on May 8, 2001, the Departments of State and Justice continued to monitor the conditions in that country. Prior to his decision to extend the Nicaragua TPS designation, the Attorney General consulted appropriate government agencies to determine whether conditions warranting the TPS designation continue to exist in Nicaragua. Although there are strong indications of progress in recovery efforts, recent droughts as well as flooding from Hurricane Michelle in 2001 compounded the humanitarian, economic, and social problems initially brought on by Hurricane Mitch in 1998, making the country unable, temporarily, to handle the return of approximately 6,000 nationals.

This assessment is consistent with a recent Department of State report that found that although reconstruction efforts have occurred, in the last year drought and another hurricane significantly affected Nicaragua's full recovery from Hurricane Mitch. Recommendation for Extension of TPS (March 22, 2002). The severe flooding alone affected more than 25,000 people and damaged over 3,000 houses, hampering reconstruction efforts following Hurricane Mitch. Id. Additionally, an Immigration and Naturalization Service (INS) Resource Information Center report dated March 2002 found that "[d]roughts and flooding from Hurricane Michelle in 2001 have added to the humanitarian, economic and social problems initially brought on by Hurricane Mitch in 1998." The report also concludes that "[t]hese disasters, added to other serious natural disasters during the intervening years, have produced major problems in food insecurity and unemployment of citizens." Id. Additionally, the Department of State reports that while the reconstruction projects for Hurricane Mitch funded by the United States are nearly complete, other donor projects continue. For example, the European Union began its disbursement of Hurricane Mitch reconstruction funding only in December 2001. This delay in acquiring foreign aid prevented rapid completion of reconstruction. Hurricane Michelle and the drought exacerbated the situation. Consequently, the conditions under which Nicaragua was designated for TPS have not ceased to exist and, therefore, Nicaragua remains temporarily unable to handle adequately the return of its nationals.

Based on this review, the Attorney General, after consultation with appropriate government agencies, finds that the conditions that prompted designation of Nicaragua under the TPS program continue to be met, and a 12-month extension is warranted. 8 U.S.C.1254a(b)(3)(C). There continues to be a substantial, but temporary, disruption of living conditions in Nicaragua as a result of environmental disaster, and Nicaragua continues to be unable, temporarily, to handle
