Mission:

The mission of OLC is to assist the Attorney General in her functions as legal advisor to the President and all of the Executive Branch agencies. The Office drafts legal opinions on behalf of the Attorney General and provides written opinions and oral advice in response to requests from the Counsel to President, the various agencies of the Executive Branch, and offices within the Department. Such requests may involve legal issues about which two or more agencies are in disagreement. OLC is also responsible for providing legal advice to the Executive Branch on constitutional questions and reviewing pending legislation for constitutionality. OLC reviews all Executive Orders and Attorney General Orders for form and legality.

Resources:

The FY 2017 budget request for OLC totals $8.0 million, which is a 0.3% increase over the FY 2016 Enacted level.

Organization:

OLC is headed by an Assistant Attorney General (AAG) who is appointed by the President and confirmed by the Senate. Additionally, the AAG is supported by a Principal Deputy Assistant Attorney General and 25 attorney advisers located in Washington, DC. Several of OLC's administrative functions have been provided by the executive office of the Office of the Solicitor General since FY 2012.

Personnel:

The OLC's direct positions for FY 2017 total 33 positions and are the same as the FY 2016 Enacted level.

FY 2017 Strategy:

OLC's mission remains highly critical and urgent as the Department continues to confront national security and intelligence challenges and advises the myriad of agencies involved in responding to the economic crisis.

OLC is involved in reviewing legislation on a wide variety of important Administration initiatives and in reviewing the large number of Executive Orders and Presidential memoranda that are used to carry out Executive Branch policies. OLC has already published 50 of its formal opinions issued in this Administration. These opinions cover constitutional and statutory questions from a wide range of fields, including national security, criminal law, civil rights, fiscal law, and appointment and removal authorities. OLC gives critical advice on how the Executive Branch organizes itself and carries out its missions.

OLC's challenges are of an internal and external nature. OLC does not initiate its workload nor does it have control over the volume of work. The work results from requests for opinions and legal advice from the Counsel to the President, general counsels of the Office of Management and Budget and other Executive Office of the President components, general counsels of Executive Branch departments and agencies, the National Security Council Legal Advisor, and the Attorney General and other Department of Justice officials. Because OLC is a relatively small component, OLC has little flexibility in responding to unexpected surges in workload, such as those created by national security matters, the financial crisis, or new legislative initiatives.

FY 2017 Program Changes:

The budget proposal includes funds for current services for OLC. No program changes are requested.
