Yes. We were told by OLC on the morning of Friday the 21st that [redacted]. Joel and I so informed the congressional staffs and some Members. We were not involved in the negotiations about this specific issue, however. The negotiations entailed the 4 leaders (Daschle, Lott, Hastert, Gephardt) sitting in a room with 2 staff members each during lunch on the 21st. Gephardt apparently still insisted on [redacted]. The compromise apparently reached among these 4 leaders -- who were apparently aware of the OLC advice and Administration position -- was to [redacted].
Ed advises.

Let me know if you have further questions.

I talked with Walker’s GC who is sensitive to the issue, and I will be speaking with him and Walker at 5:30.

I think that is an excellent suggestion --

In the meantime, I’ll try and come up with some language. If OLC has any ideas as a starting point, I’d love to hear them.

(f) For purposes of any operational and decisionmaking functions, the "Board" means the voting members of the Air Transportation Stabilization Board established under Section 102 of the Act. The voting members of the Board are the Chairman of the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System (who is the Chairman of the Board), the Secretary of the Treasury and the Secretary of Transportation, or their designees. The Comptroller General, who is a nonvoting member, will not participate in the review, operations, or deliberations of the Board but will provide such audit and evaluation support as the Board may request.
I think it's too late, as the regs have already gone out the door, but I'll copy Rebecca so that we can lay a marker on this point as possible action in any supplemental regs issued by the Board.

If you remain of the view that I might be asked to testify on behalf of the Administration, please give me more info on this hearing (which committee, what time, precise topic, etc.) so that I can get ready.

I'll also need to have a backup plan [(b) (6)]. I'll check with John Yoo. If you have anyone else in mind, let me know.

Dear Chairman Horn:

I have learned that on November 6 the House Subcommitteee on Government Efficiency, Financial Management, and Intergovernmental Relations will hold its previously postponed hearing on the Presidential Records Act. In advance of that hearing, we wanted to inform you of a recent development.

President Bush yesterday signed an executive order implementing section 2204(c) of the Presidential Records Act, the provision of the Act that states: “Nothing in this Act shall be construed to confirm, limit, or expand any constitutionally-based privilege which may be available to an incumbent or former President.” That statutory provision is necessary, of course, to the Act’s constitutionality, for the Supreme Court held in 1977 that both former and current Presidents retain the constitutional right to assert privileges over the records of a former President, including after expiration of a 12-year period of presumptive non-disclosure. See Nixon v. Administrator of General Services, 433 U.S. 425 (1977). Furthermore, Congress contemplated that such constitutional privileges would be available and could be asserted, even after expiration of the 12-year period: At the time the Act was enacted, Senator Percy stated that if a President “believ[e]d that the 12-year closure period does not suffice, that President could object to the release of some document in the 13th or 15th or 20th year.” Cong. Record S36844 (Oct. 13, 1978).

The Act and its legislative history, as well as the Supreme Court’s decision in Nixon v. Administrator of General Services, obviously necessitate procedures for former and current Presidents to review Presidential records of a former President and, if they choose, to assert constitutional privileges. President Bush’s order responds to that need by establishing clear and sensible procedures for former and current Presidents to exercise their rights and responsibilities in a timely manner. The order replaces an earlier executive order (Executive Order 12667 of January 18, 1989) that had established some skeletal procedures for assertion of privileges over Presidential records and had provided that the current President would have the primary responsibility for asserting privileges over the records of a former President. President Bush’s new order supercedes that prior order both to set forth clearer procedures and to establish, consistent with the Supreme Court’s decision in Nixon v. Administrator of General Services and with what the Administration believes to be sound policy and procedure, that former Presidents are to have the primary responsibility for asserting privileges over their records. Indeed, section 4 of President Bush’s order, which is its most critical component, provides that the current President will defer, absent compelling circumstances, to the decisions of the former President regarding the former President’s records. In sum, therefore, the new executive order grants the current President less relative authority over the records of a former President than did the prior executive order. We believe this point is critical to a proper understanding of the executive order, and has been largely overlooked in public commentary thus far.
In addition, President Bush’s order does not purport to guide former Presidents as to their privilege assertions. Section 9 of the order provides that the order does not purport to indicate “whether and under what circumstances a former President should assert or waive any privilege.” Indeed, it would have been improper, if not illegal, for President Bush to attempt to limit or override the constitutional rights and privileges of former Presidents -- rights that have been guaranteed by the Supreme Court. But it also bears mention that Section 2 of the order refers to the historical practice before enactment of the Presidential Records Act by which former Presidents, over time, have released a vast majority of their records even though under no legal obligation to do so. We anticipate that this historical practice will continue. At a minimum, contrary to the claims of some commentators, there is no logical basis for assuming that former Presidents will exercise their constitutional and statutory authority to seek withholding of privileged records more aggressively than earlier Presidents -- from President Washington to President Carter -- exercised their plenary and far broader authority to withhold all records.

Finally, you should know that the Administration consulted extensively with the National Archives and Records Administration, the Department of Justice, and former Presidents’ representatives before President Bush issued this order. We benefited greatly from that consultation.

Please do not hesitate to contact me if you have any questions about the order.

Sincerely,

Alberto R. Gonzales

Subject: PRA question

Any other thoughts?
just met with Horn et al;
Henry Ray of the Horn Subcommittee just got back to me about this hearing, which he expects will be especially well attended because of the "controversial" Executive Order. He expects that, in addition to Subcommittee Chairman Horn, RMM Schakowsky, Members Ose and Maloney will attend, as well as Chairman Burton and Full Committee RMM Waxman will attend, reportedly because they are concerned that the new EO is inconsistent with the PRA and possibly unconstitutional. The panels are planned as follows:

I. Archivist Carlin and Anna Nelson, as historian, to explain the EO and provide a policy perspective, respectively;

II. AU political science professor Mark Roselle; Ed; Peter Shane of Univ. of Pittsburgh law school and Carnegie Mellon, and possibly Scott Nelson, of the Public Citizen Litigation Group. This panel is expected to talk about the legal issues presented by the EO, although he mentioned that Roselle could be moved to the first panel.

Henry expects that Ed will likely get lots of questions about whether the EO is constitutional and consistent with the PRA. Ed and Paul? They would like to get the prepared statement as soon as it's available.

I mentioned to Henry that this line-up is inconsistent with the usual protocol that all Administration witnesses appear on the first panel, but he thinks this makes more sense. (Actually, protocol is that Admin. witnesses appear on the first panel and only with other Admin. witnesses, although there have been exceptions in special situations). Please let me know.

Ex-President Clinton Resigns From Supreme Court Bar

By James Vicini

WASHINGTON (Reuters) - Former President Bill Clinton, facing the possibility of being barred from practicing law before the U.S. Supreme Court (news - web sites) because of the Monica Lewinsky scandal, has resigned instead, his lawyer said on Friday.

``Former President Clinton (news - web sites) hereby respectfully requests to resign from the bar of this court,'' his lawyer, David Kendall, said in a two-page letter to the high court's clerk. Kendall did not elaborate on why Clinton decided to resign.

Clinton's resignation from the Supreme Court bar will have little practical impact. Clinton has not practiced before the Supreme Court and was not expected to argue any cases in the future.

On Oct. 1, the Supreme Court suspended Clinton from practicing before the court and gave him 40 days to show why he should not be disbarred.

On Jan. 19, the day before leaving office, Clinton admitted giving false, evasive statements about his relationship with Lewinsky, the former White House intern. As part of a deal with the independent counsel, Clinton accepted a five-year suspension of his license to practice law in Arkansas and a $25,000 fine.

The Arkansas suspension triggered the high court case entitled, ``In the matter of discipline of Bill Clinton."

Kendall had said in October that Clinton would fight disbarment.

In the letter filed on Friday, Kendall said Clinton had been a member in "good standing" of the Arkansas bar for more than 25 years and had never had public or private professional discipline imposed by any bar.

He said Clinton cooperated fully with the Arkansas Supreme Court Committee on Professional Conduct, furnishing all requested information in a timely manner.

Kendall said Clinton's conduct did not relate to a criminal conviction or to the practice of law. It occurred as a private party in a civil proceeding, he said.

The suspension stemmed from Clinton's answers in response to questions about his relationship with Lewinsky during questioning by lawyers for Paula Jones, who had filed a sexual harassment suit against Clinton.

Kendall said Clinton agreed to the suspension and fine "to avoid the burden of litigation for all parties, to achieve an expeditious and definite resolution and in acknowledgment that his actions merited censure."

Kendall cited statistics showing that only four of the 570 aution, but did not impose suspension or disbarment, Kendall said.
FYI: I received, and am sending you, two more sets of questions from Chairman Horn. The requested response date is Nov. 20. We'll try to have draft responses for your review by the end of the week.

Things haven't been very civil of late at the U.S. Commission on Civil Rights.

The Bush administration wants to replace Commissioner Victoria Wilson with Peter Kirsanow, a Cleveland labor lawyer. The administration says Wilson's term is up. Commission Chairman Mary Frances Berry says it is not. Think this is a genteel dispute? Think again. Last Friday, Berry dared the Bush team to send in federal marshals to seat Kirsanow.

Instead of sending in the marshals, the administration sent Justice Department lawyers to file suit. The administration is asking the federal court to remove Wilson so that Kirsanow can replace her. Wilson was appointed by President Bill Clinton to fill in for Judge A. Leon Higginbotham, who died in December 1998.

The administration quite reasonably figured that Wilson would leave when Higginbotham’s term ended on Nov. 29. Board members always have had uniform staggered terms. Four are appointed by the president and four by Congress.

Wrong, says Berry. In a little-publicized move, Congress in October 1994 changed the term of office of each commission member to six years, eliminating provisions that allowed for interim or acting terms. In a letter, Reps. John Conyers, Jr., (D.-Mich.) and Jerrold Nadler (D.-N.Y.), who helped draft the change, say they wanted to uphold the independence of the body from the whims of any particular president or party.

Berry says that’s her concern, too. But her resoluteness happens to be blocking a Republican vote that would evenly split the panel.

With the panel in a continuing dispute with Florida Gov. Jeb Bush over undercounts of the state’s black voters in the 2000 presidential election, it is hard to believe this feud is free of partisanship. Nor is this an "independent" body. It is a body appointed by the president and Congress.
The law may now be silent on succession, but the spirit of the law suggests its time for Wilson to step aside. Chairman Berry’s credibility is at stake. The commission can be a valuable watchdog in helping Americans to get along, but it should learn to get along with the White House.

Most politicians sit up straighter when the White House calls--an unseen but perceptible salute to power.

Mary Frances Berry is not most politicians. Outspoken, passionate, tenacious, she is at the moment fighting President Bush’s decision to select a new member of the U.S. Commission on Civil Rights, which she chairs. In fact, she told White House Counsel Alberto R. Gonzales that if he wanted to seat a new commissioner, he had better send the U.S. marshals. The case is now in court, but the controversy has revived interest in the 63-year-old Berry, who has served on the commission for nearly half its 44-year history and has angered every administration, Republican and Democrat, since she came on board.

President Carter appointed her in 1980, and she promptly criticized him for repatriating Haitian refugees.

President Reagan tried to fire her, but she took the dismissal to court--and won.

President Clinton took a lashing from her when he withdrew his nomination of Lani Guinier to be assistant attorney general for civil rights.

And Bush saw her accuse his brother, Florida Gov. Jeb Bush, of a pattern of "injustice, ineptitude and inefficiency" that disenfranchised minority voters in the 2000 election.

Critics say her take-no-prisoners style (the online publication Salon.com has called her "a vitriolic brawler") dilutes her effectiveness and that of the commission, which has a $9-million annual budget and 80 employees but no enforcement powers.
The National Journal's Stuart Taylor says she runs the commission "as a propaganda mill for the victimology wing of the Democratic Party." Berry's fellow commissioner Abigail Themstrom thinks that the commission's reputation is "in the basement."

But Berry, a historian and writer who was born in segregationist Nashville and survived an early childhood that she says was worthy of Charles Dickens, delights in the specter of being a proud black woman talking truth to power.

"It never occurs to me to worry about whether a president disagrees," she said in an interview. "I wish I could be more diplomatic, more measured. I'm not trying to figure out every day how to be a lightning rod. It's just that I have the courage of my convictions."

If she is rough on opponents, some might argue she has earned the privilege. Placed in an orphanage by her mother after her father deserted the family, she says her earliest memory is hearing her brother wail for more food. She was 4 years old when her mother reclaimed the children, raising them alone while working as a beautician. Berry deduced that to get what you wanted in life, you had to fight.

She credits teachers at every level for encouraging her to achieve, especially one high school history teacher, Minerva Hawkins, who was a mother figure and friend until she died last year. "She used to say that I was a diamond in the rough, and she was still trying to rub off my rough edges," Berry said.

Perhaps as a result, there are bachelor's and master's degrees from Howard University and a doctorate in history and a law degree from the University of Michigan. Currently the Geraldine R. Segal Professor of American Social Thought at the University of Pennsylvania, Berry is a former chancellor at the University of Colorado at Boulder, where she was also a professor of history and law.

In her academic writings, as in her political appointments (she worked as an education official before being named to the commission), Berry is above all a contrarian. It seems it's not just presidents she enjoys skewering.

She was the lead author in a 1992 book, "Long Memory: The Black Experience in America," which argued that for blacks in the 1960s, "the threat of genocide was real. It was roughly comparable to the threat faced by the Jews in the 1930s."

She is proudest of a book called "Why the ERA Failed," which criticized the feminist movement for a flawed political strategy. "It's all about how the women's movement was outfoxed by [conservative] Phyllis Schlafly," she said.

She wriggles out of labels, saying she is no Democrat, not necessarily a liberal--a thorn by any other name.

And she enraged many listeners of Berkeley's KPFA-FM when, as Pacifica Foundation chairwoman, she initiated management changes that she said were aimed at wresting control of the station from "white male hippies over 50." One broadcaster was arrested on the air, accused of violating her ban on discussing the controversy on the air.

The General Accounting Office, in a 1997 audit, criticized the commission as "an agency in disarray, with limited awareness how its resources are used." Berry's defenders said the GAO was doing the bidding of Republican opponents of affirmative action.
Her defense is Arthur S. Flemming. One of the grand old men of Republican politics, who served presidents from Herbert Hoover to Richard Nixon, Flemming was there at the creation, when President Eisenhower decided to create the commission as a means of defusing the civil rights movement that was simmering across the South.

When Carter named Berry to the commission in 1980, Flemming took her under his wing. He would take her to breakfast at the hushed Hay-Adams Hotel and school her on the ways, big and small, of Washington power. Mostly, he told her about the commission's history, about Eisenhower's table-pounding insistence that it get the facts (which is why the panel has subpoena power) and that it maintain its independence.

"No White House, no Justice Department, tells us what to do," Berry said.
"When the day comes and I'm no longer on the commission, I'll know I did what Arthur Flemming taught me: to protect the integrity of the commission."

With the panel in a continuing dispute with Florida Gov. Jeb Bush over undercounts of the state's black voters in the 2000 presidential election, it is hard to believe this feud is free of partisanship. Nor is this an "independent" body. It is a body appointed by the president and Congress.

The law may now be silent on succession, but the spirit of the law suggests its time for Wilson to step aside. Chairman Berry's credibility is at stake. The commission can be a valuable watchdog in helping Americans to get along, but it should learn to get along with the White House.

Civil Rights Chief Shows Equality in Bedeviling Critics

BODY:
Most politicians sit up straighter when the White House calls—an unseen but perceptible salute to power.

Mary Frances Berry is not most politicians.

Outspoken, passionate, tenacious, she is at the moment fighting President Bush's decision to select a new member of the U.S. Commission on Civil Rights, which she chairs. In fact, she told White House Counsel Alberto R. Gonzales that if he wanted to seat a new commissioner, he had better send the U.S. marshals. The case is now in court, but the controversy has revived interest in the 63-year-old Berry, who has served on the commission for nearly half its 44-year history and has angered every administration, Republican and Democrat, since she came on board.

President Carter appointed her in 1980, and she promptly criticized him for repatriating Haitian refugees.

President Reagan tried to fire her, but she took the dismissal to court—and won.

President Clinton took a lashing from her when he withdrew his nomination of Lani Guinier to be assistant attorney general for civil rights.

And Bush saw her accuse his brother, Florida Gov. Jeb Bush, of a pattern of "injustice, ineptitude and inefficiency" that disenfranchised minority voters in the 2000 election.
Critics say her take-no-prisoners style (the online publication Salon.com has called her “a vitriolic brawler”) dilutes her effectiveness and that of the commission, which has a $9-million annual budget and 80 employees but no enforcement powers.

The National Journal’s Stuart Taylor says she runs the commission “as a propaganda mill for the victimology wing of the Democratic Party.”
Berry’s fellow commissioner Abigail Thernstrom thinks that the commission’s reputation is “in the basement.”

But Berry, a historian and writer who was born in segregationist Nashville and survived an early childhood that she says was worthy of Charles Dickens, delights in the specter of being a proud black woman talking truth to power.

“It never occurs to me to worry about whether a president disagrees,” she said in an interview. “I wish I could be more diplomatic, more measured. I’m not trying to figure out every day how to be a lightning rod. It’s just that I have the courage of my convictions.”

If she is rough on opponents, some might argue she has earned the privilege. Placed in an orphanage by her mother after her father deserted the family, she says her earliest memory is hearing her brother wail for more food. She was 4 years old when her mother reclaimed the children, raising them alone while working as a beautician. Berry deduced that to get what you wanted in life, you had to fight.

She credits teachers at every level for encouraging her to achieve, especially one high school history teacher, Minerva Hawkins, who was a mother figure and friend until she died last year. “She used to say that I was a diamond in the rough, and she was still trying to rub off my rough edges,” Berry said.

Perhaps as a result, there are bachelor’s and master’s degrees from Howard University and a doctorate in history and a law degree from the University of Michigan. Currently the Geraldine R. Segal Professor of American Social Thought at the University of Pennsylvania, Berry is a former chancellor at the University of Colorado at Boulder, where she was also a professor of history and law.

In her academic writings, as in her political appointments (she worked as an education official before being named to the commission), Berry is above all a contrarian. It seems it’s not just presidents she enjoys skewering.

She was the lead author in a 1992 book, “Long Memory: The Black Experience in America,” which argued that for blacks in the 1960s, “the threat of genocide was real. It was roughly comparable to the threat faced by the Jews in the 1930s.”

She is proudest of a book called “Why the ERA Failed,” which criticized the feminist movement for a flawed political strategy. “It’s all about how the women’s movement was outfought by [conservative] Phyllis Schlafly,” she said.

She wriggles out of labels, saying she is no Democrat, not necessarily a liberal—a thorn by any other name.

And she enraged many listeners of Berkeley’s KPFA-FM when, as Pacifica Foundation chairwoman, she initiated management changes that she said were aimed at wresting control of the station from “white male hippies over 50.” One broadcaster was arrested on the air, accused of violating her ban on discussing the controversy on the air.

The General Accounting Office, in a 1997 audit, criticized the commission as “an agency in disarray, with limited awareness of how its resources are used.” Berry’s defenders said the GAO was doing the bidding of Republican opponents of affirmative action.

Her defense is Arthur S. Flemming. One of the grand old men of Republican politics, who served presidents from Herbert Hoover to Richard Nixon, Flemming was there at the creation, when President Eisenhower decided to create the commission as a means of defusing the civil rights movement that was simmering across the South.

When Carter named Berry to the commission in 1980, Flemming took her under his wing. He would take her to breakfast at the hushed Hay-
Adams Hotel and school her on the ways, big and small, of Washington power. Mostly, he told her about the commission’s history, about Eisenhower’s table-pounding insistence that it get the facts (which is why the panel has subpoenas power) and that it maintain its independence.

“No White House, no Justice Department, tells us what to do,” Berry said. “When the day comes and I’m no longer on the commission, I’ll know
I did what Arthur Flemming taught me: to protect the integrity of the commission.”

I just spoke with Wilson.

We're on for tomorrow morning @ 10 am. He says the Chairman's focus for this hearing will remain on the Boston docs subpoenaed, our apparent refusal to turn them over, and how to reconcile our position with the Department's history of providing "review" accommodations. (b) (5)

One panel, Horowitz is the only witness.

Also, just fyi, Jim implied that he will not be surprised if exec privilege has been asserted by tomorrow.

It would be great if by today @ 3 pm we have already nailed down (b) (5). We may want (b) (5), but I leave that to comm. experts.

Brett and I just discussed the logistics of (b) (5). I suggested that it might be beneficial to (b) (5), if its appropriate to do so. (Paul, I understood from our conversation that this has been done in the past?) Brett wanted to discuss this with you and Ed. Could you please get in touch with him to discuss tactical options?

Also, Brett will be there from 3-4 tomorrow for the moot, so let's plan to cover this topic through discussion and q&a during that first hour. Thanks.

Brett, in addition to the substantive comments Ed and I have given you by phone, here are a few nits:

Add full cite to Nixon v. GSA in 3rd para.

In para. 7, add "whether" after "former President" in 3rd line, and change "Presidentiel records" to "Presidential records" in 3rd-to-last line.

In para. 9 ("First"), dehyphenate "long-standing"

In para. 12 ("There also"), add "to" before "take" in line 10.

DRAFT - NOT FOR RELEASE

December 19, 2001
(Senate)
This Statement of Administration Policy was developed by the Legislative Reference Division (Rodgers), in consultation with Commerce (Clark), Treasury (Dorsey), State (Faulkner), EP (Smith), NEC (Sumerlin), OVP (Addington), CEA (Furchtgott-Roth, Holtz-Eakin, Brown), BRD (Dale, Lobron, Timberlake), OIRA (Noe), OMBGC (Beynon), and HTF (Boden, Enger).

OMB/LA Clearance: __________________________

Administration Position to Date

The Administration has not taken a position on the Senate version of H.R. 3210.

On November 28, 2001, a SAP on H.R. 3210, the "Terrorism Risk Protection Act" was sent to the House Rules Committee. The SAP urged prompt passage of H.R. 3210 "as a step toward enactment of legislation to ensure the continued availability of insurance for terrorist-related acts." H.R. 3210 included provisions that limited terrorist-related litigation. The SAP expressed the Administration's concern with the repayment assessment mechanism and the administrative complexities of H.R. 3210 as a whole. The SAP also stated that "procedures for consolidation and management of mass tort litigation arising out of a terrorism incident are a necessary part of any meaningful terrorism insurance proposal, and thus a necessary condition for Administration support of any terrorism insurance bill."

Summary of Senate Manager's Amendment to H.R. 3210

The following summary is based on a draft of a manager's amendment that Treasury staff believe will be offered as a substitute for the House passed version of H.R. 3210.

The amendment would establish a temporary "Terrorism Insured Loss Shared Compensation Program" (Program) within the Department of the Treasury intended to ensure the continued availability of commercial property and casualty insurance and reinsurance for terrorism-related risks. The amendment would provide for Federal assistance for future terrorism damage if it reaches certain levels. That amount would be based on a formula, which is market share multiplied by $10 billion in the first year, and market share multiplied by $15 billion in the optional second year. For losses above this "retention level," the cost of terrorism losses would be shared. The Federal government would pay for approximately 80 percent of insurance losses below $10 billion, with the industry paying 20 percent. For losses between $10 billion and $100 billion, the split would be 90-10. The amendment would provide authority for one year to pay for certain property and casualty losses resulting from a terrorist attack; the authority could be extended for a second year.

Authority of the Secretary of the Treasury. The amendment would make the Secretary of the Treasury responsible for carrying out the program for financial assistance for commercial property and casualty insurers that would be established by the bill. The Secretary could extend the Program an additional year, expiring on December 31, 2003.

Triggering Determination and Federal Cost-Sharing for Commercial Insurers.

The amendment would provide for a determination of the "retention level," after which cost-sharing would begin. The Program would authorize the Secretary to enter into agreements with commercial property and casualty insurers to provide for cost-sharing for losses above the "retention level."
Under the amendment, Federal financial assistance would be triggered by a determination of the Secretary that the insured losses resulting from the event of an act of terrorism occurring during the covered period, or the aggregate insured losses resulting from multiple events of acts of terrorism all occurring during the covered period. The Secretary would have the sole authority for determining whether an occurrence or event was caused by an act of terrorism, whether insured losses from acts of terrorism were caused by one or multiple events or occurrences, and whether an act of terrorism occurred during the covered period.

The amount of Federal assistance would be based on a formula, which is the "market share" of a participating insurance company (total amount of gross property and casualty insurance premiums during the 2-year period preceding the year in which the act of terrorism occurred, as a percentage of the aggregate of all industry wide premiums) multiplied by $10 billion in the first year, and market share multiplied by $15 billion in the optional second year. For losses above the "insurance company's deductible," the cost of terrorism losses would be shared. The Federal government would pay for approximately 80 percent of insurance losses below $10 billion, with the industry paying 20 percent. For losses between $10 billion and $100 billion, the split would be 90-10. The amendment would provide authority for one year to pay for certain property and casualty losses resulting from a terrorist attack; the authority could be extended for a second year. The aggregate amount of financial assistance provided could not exceed $100 billion.

Sovereign Immunity Protections. Whenever Federal financial assistance is triggered (i.e., whenever an act of terrorism occurs), the amendment would provide for a Federal cause of action which would be the exclusive remedy for damages claimed pursuant to any acts of terrorism that caused the insured losses. These cases would be governed by the law of the State in which the act of terrorism occurred, unless such law is inconsistent with or preempted by Federal law. Under the amendment, the plaintiff may seek any form of recovery from any person, government, or other entity that was a participant in, or aider and abettor of, any act of terrorism.

Extension of Program. The Secretary could, upon making a determination that an extension of the provisions of the bill is necessary to ensure the adequate availability in the United States of commercial property and casualty insurance coverage for acts of terrorism, extend the period in which these provisions apply to a date no later than December 31, 2003.

State Preemption. Under the amendment, a commercial insurer would be considered to have complied with any State law that requires or regulates the provision of insurance coverage for acts of terrorism if the insurer provides coverage in accordance with the definitions regarding acts of terrorism under the regulations issued by the Secretary. If any provision of any State law prevents an insurer from increasing its premium rates in an amount necessary to recover any assessments pursuant to the amendment, such provision is preempted only to the extent necessary to provide for such insurer to recover such losses.

Studies and Reports. Under the amendment, no later than 9 months after the date of enactment the Secretary would be required to submit a report to Congress that would consider the impact of the Program on: (1) the availability of insurance coverage for acts of terrorism; (2) the affordability of such coverage, including the effect of such coverage of premiums; and (3) the capacity of the insurance industry to absorb future losses resulting from acts of terrorism, taking into account the profitability of the insurance industry. The Secretary would also consider the probable impact on the United States economy if the Program terminates at midnight on December 31, 2002.

Within 9 months of enactment of the amendment, the Secretary would be required to conduct a study and report to the Congress on the potential effects of acts of terrorism on the life insurance industry in the United States and other lines of insurance coverage. The Secretary would be required to consult with the National Association of Insurance Commissioners (NAIC), representatives of the insurance industry, and other experts in the field.

Beginning 6 months after enactment of the amendment, and every 6 months thereafter, each participating insurance company would be required to submit a report to the NAIC that states the premium rates charged by that insurance company during the preceding 6-month period for insured losses covered by the Program, and includes an explanation of and justification for those rates. The NAIC would be required to forward copies of each report submitted, to the Secretary of the Treasury, the Secretary of Commerce, the Chairman of the Federal Trade Commission, and the Comptroller General of the United States.

The Secretary of the Treasury, the Secretary of Commerce, and the Chairman of the Federal Trade Commission would be required to submit a joint report to Congress and the Comptroller General of the United States summarizing and evaluating the reports forwarded by NAIC. No later than 90 days after receipt, the Comptroller General of the United States would be required to evaluate and submit a report to Congress an evaluating the reports.

Pay-As-You-Go Scoring

According to BRD (Lee), the amendment would affect direct spending and receipts; therefore, it is subject to the pay-as-you-go requirements of the Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1990. RMO staff advises that the bill could potentially have a PAYGO cost, but an OMB estimate has not been made. Cost estimates are problematic due to uncertainties involving future acts of terrorism. CBO scoring of the manager’s amendment is not yet available.
Brett: Attached is the final version. I'm also faxing you a signed copy. I'll leave it to Dan or Carl to respond on the [b] (5) [b] question.

few questions:
can someone e-mail me final version of letter to Burton? [b] (5) [b]?
The Honorable Dan Burton
Chairman
Committee on Government Reform
U.S. House of Representatives
Washington, DC 20515

Dear Mr. Chairman:

I am writing to follow up regarding the Committee’s subpoenas seeking prosecutorial decisionmaking memoranda in connection with the Committee’s investigations of campaign finance matters, alleged false statements by an individual (Ernest Howard) in a separate investigation, and the FBI’s handling of informants in Boston. The Department stands ready to work with the Committee to seek to accommodate the legitimate needs that the Committee may have for information regarding these matters.

The Department has a strong confidentiality interest in the extremely sensitive prosecutorial decisionmaking documents called for by the subpoenas. The Attorney General and other Department decisionmakers must have the benefit of candid and confidential advice and recommendations in making investigative and prosecutorial decisions. Consistent with the longstanding position of the executive branch with respect to these kinds of highly sensitive memoranda, the President has therefore asserted executive privilege with respect to the subpoenaed documents. At the same time, he has requested that the Department remain willing to work with the Committee to provide such information as the Department can, consistent with his instructions and without violating the constitutional doctrine of separation of powers.

Pursuant to longstanding executive branch policy, in responding to congressional requests for confidential information, the Department seeks in all cases to engage in an accommodation process in an effort to satisfy legitimate congressional needs while protecting executive branch confidentiality interests. The Department has already accommodated the Committee’s information needs with respect to the prosecutorial memoranda relating to campaign finance and the Howard matter. We have provided briefings on the reasons for the decisions to decline prosecutions for Ernest Howard and Mark Middleton, which your August 30, 2001, letter indicated were very helpful. With regard to the Conrad collection of memoranda, on August 23, 2000, then Attorney General Reno publicly stated the reasons for her decision not to appoint a Special Counsel and, on October 5, 2000, you questioned her about that decision in an interview on the record. Prior to these explanations, the Department had provided the underlying factual records relating to each matter, to the extent permissible under the grand jury secrecy requirements of Rule 6(e) of the Federal Rules of Criminal Procedure. In the October 2000 meeting, some information also could not be provided because of its relevance to then pending investigations.

As to the Boston matter, we believe that the Department and the Committee can work together to provide the Committee additional information without compromising the principles maintained by the executive branch. We will be prepared to make a proposal as to how further to accommodate the Committee’s needs as soon as you inform us in writing of the specific needs the Committee has for additional information. See United States v. American Tel. & Tel. Co., 567 F.2d 121, 127 (D.C. Cir. 1977); Senate Select Committee on Presidential Campaign Activities v. Nixon, 498 F.2d 725, 731 (D.C. Cir. 1974) (en banc).

The Department has been providing an extensive body of other materials to the Committee since April 27, 2001, when we provided approximately 1178 pages in response to your request of March 30, 2001 for documents about the murder of Mr. Edward Deegan, for which Mr. Joseph Salvati and six others were convicted. Since the crime was not prosecuted federally, the FBI does not have a discrete file on the subject. Hence, the responsive documents were found in other files and some information was redacted because it pertained to other matters outside the scope of the Committee’s request. In August 2001, Committee counsel reviewed unredacted copies of these documents and some pages were re-processed to restore information that was responsive to your June 5 request for documents on other Boston matters. More than 3800 pages have been produced in response to that request and the FBI is still processing responsive documents regarding the FBI’s handling of informants in Boston. We expect to provide documents regarding the FBI’s Top Hoodlum Program this week and to produce additional documents after the Holiday recess.

The document production process for the Boston matters has thus been proceeding since March of this year. We note, moreover, that the Committee’s March and June requests did not indicate any interest in the prosecutorial decision-making memoranda and the Committee did not even request them until it subpoenaed them on September 6. The Committee then immediately scheduled for September 13 a hearing regarding its demand for these documents. When that hearing was postponed due to the events of September 11, the Department was advised that the matter would be deferred until a later time. We first learned that the Committee was renewing the matter during the week following Thanksgiving when the hearing was re-scheduled for December 6. It was postponed to December 13 at the Department’s request so that Assistant Attorney General Michael Chertoff could testify, but his obligations relating to the September 11 investigation made that appearance impossible and the Chairman refused the Attorney General’s request that the hearing be postponed to the week of December 17.
The Department fully respects the Committee’s interest in reviewing allegations of misconduct by government employees, and we have provided, and will continue to provide, investigative records, judicial filings, and other records responsive to your requests, consistent with the accommodation process. Of course, we cannot provide grand jury information covered by Rule 6(e), electronic surveillance information subject to Title III, or information that would identify confidential informants.

Finally, as the Committee is aware, the Department is fully committed to addressing corruption in the handling of informants by the FBI in Boston and has dedicated extensive resources to that purpose. In 1999, the Justice Task Force was established to investigate law enforcement corruption relating to Messrs. James Bulger and Stephen Flemmi. The Task Force has expanded the scope of the inquiry to include allegations that FBI agents and prosecutors allowed a witness to frame Mr. Salvati and others for the Deegan murder while permitting that witness to protect another individual, who was central to the murder conspiracy. It was the Task Force that located exculpatory documents, which led to the release of Peter Limone and the dismissal of charges against Mr. Salvati and Mr. Limone. The Task Force also has obtained the indictment of former FBI Special Agent John Connolly, which is expected to go to trial early in 2002. Additionally, the United States Attorney’s Office in Boston obtained indictments against Messrs. Bulger and Flemmi in 1995 and in 2000, charging them with 19 and 10 murders, respectively. The ongoing work of the Task Force and the United States Attorney’s Office is dedicated to investigating and prosecuting corruption by FBI agents and prosecutors relating to the handling of informants, as well as any underlying crimes that may have been committed by those individuals. As these efforts proceed, it will be important to ensure that they are based only on the evidence and the law, free from any political influence or coercion.

We have not objected to the Committee’s undertaking its own investigation and we understand that Committee staff have conducted interviews and may have undertaken other investigative steps in Boston and elsewhere. We ask that the Committee provide us with information that it believes may be relevant to potential violations of federal criminal law. We understand the Committee’s interest in not deferring its own inquiry while our criminal investigations continue, and we trust that the two can continue independently, as has often happened historically.

The Department looks forward to a continued dialogue with the Committee so we can accommodate your legitimate oversight needs for information in a manner that is consistent with our law enforcement responsibilities. We would like to resume such a constructive conversation as soon as possible.

Sincerely,

Daniel J. Bryant
Assistant Attorney General
