Chapter 7 Trustee Final Reports

Description: The USTP oversees approximately 1,100 private trustees who administer chapter 7 asset and no-asset cases. Chapter 7 trustees are responsible for the collection and liquidation of non-exempt assets, and the distribution of funds to creditors in accordance with the Bankruptcy Code's distribution scheme. When a chapter 7 case with assets is closed, the trustee files a final report that accounts for the disposition of assets, as well as the distribution of funds to creditors and to administrative expenses. The data from these final reports are compiled by the USTP for oversight and statistical reporting purposes.

Chapter 7 Trustee Final Reports 2002

Description: The USTP oversees approximately 1,100 private trustees who administer chapter 7 asset and no-asset cases. Chapter 7 trustees are responsible for the collection and liquidation of non-exempt assets, and the distribution of funds to creditors in accordance with the Bankruptcy Code's distribution scheme. When a chapter 7 case with assets is closed, the trustee files a final report that accounts for the disposition of assets, as well as the distribution of funds to creditors and to administrative expenses. The data from these final reports are compiled by the USTP for oversight and statistical reporting purposes.

Chapter 7 Trustee Final Reports Summary 2008

Description: The USTP oversees approximately 1,100 private trustees who administer chapter 7 asset and no-asset cases. Chapter 7 trustees are responsible for the collection and liquidation of non-exempt assets, and the distribution of funds to creditors in accordance with the Bankruptcy Code's distribution scheme. When a chapter 7 case with assets is closed, the trustee files a final report that accounts for the disposition of assets, as well as the distribution of funds to creditors and to administrative expenses. The data from final reports filed in 2008 are summarized in this table of key variables. Please review the codebook for variable information.

Credit Counseling Administrative Decisions

Description: The United States Trustee Program's duties include approving nonprofit budget and credit counseling agencies (credit counseling agencies) for inclusion on a publicly available list of approved credit counseling agencies. If a United States Trustee decides not to approve or to remove a credit counseling agency from the approved list, that credit counseling agency may obtain administrative review of the decision from the Executive Office for U.S. Trustees. This link provides a copy of the Executive Office's administrative decisions, although certain information has been redacted

Evaluation of GPS Monitoring Technologies and Domestic Violence in the United States, 2001-2009

Description: This study had two purposes. The first purpose was to explore whether bullied students engage in specific protective behaviors that inhibit learning, put other students' safety at risk, or foster a negative school climate. Such behaviors were defined as avoidance (of places or individuals), truancy, physical fighting, and weapon carrying. The second purpose was to explore whether bullied students' behaviors varied by the type of bullying (direct, verbal, indirect, or cyber) endured.

Language Assistance Program

Description: Each person who files bankruptcy is required to attend a meeting of creditors and respond to questions under oath from the trustee and creditors. The meetings are held nationwide. In those locations where the room is controlled by the USTP, if a participant (debtor or creditor) has limited English proficiency, an interpreter is provided free of charge via a conference phone. The number and type of languages interpreted, along with the location where the service was provided, is collected monthly by the USTP for oversight, billing, and statistical purposes. Data are provided in delimited text files. Each entry represents one interpreting session, which may include more than one case.

Language Assistance Program December 2013

Description: Each person who files bankruptcy is required to attend a meeting of creditors and respond to questions under oath from the trustee and creditors. The meetings are held nationwide. In those locations where the room is controlled by the USTP, if a participant (debtor or creditor) has limited English proficiency, an interpreter is provided free of charge via a conference phone. The number and type of languages interpreted, along with the location where the service was provided, is collected monthly by the USTP for oversight, billing, and statistical purposes. Data are provided in delimited text files. Each entry represents one interpreting session, which may include more than one case.

Language Assistance Program June 2011

Description: Each person who files bankruptcy is required to attend a meeting of creditors and respond to questions under oath from the trustee and creditors. The meetings are held nationwide. In those locations where the room is controlled by the USTP, if a participant (debtor or creditor) has limited English proficiency, an interpreter is provided free of charge via a conference phone. The number and type of languages interpreted, along with the location where the service was provided, is collected monthly by the USTP for oversight, billing, and statistical purposes. Data are provided in delimited text files. Each entry represents one interpreting session, which may include more than one case.

People With Dementia as Witnesses to Emotional Events in Southern California, 2008-2009

Description: The study sought evidence that a subset of people with dementia (PwD) has reliable memory for emotional events in their own lives, and they differ from PwD whose memory for emotional life events is less reliable or unreliable in respect to their own disease stage, confabulation and neuropsychiatric behaviors, and awareness of their cognitive impairment. In addition and in the context of a structured interview, they can provide (hypothetically) more details related to memories for emotional life events and discuss the events with the same accuracy after a time delay.

Polyvictimization Among Girls in the Juvenile Justice System [South Carolina], 2006-2009

Description: The purpose of this study was not only to understand different types of girls' exposure to multiple forms of victimization, but to also understand factors such as trajectory of risk over the lifespan, dependence of different forms of exposure, and ways that cumulative impacts influence life outcomes. This study used lifespan data on girls' victimization and juvenile offending to: examine range, diversity, and co-occurrence of different types of violence over the course of girls' lives

Protective Behaviors of Student Victims of Bullying: A Rare Events Analysis of the 2009 School Crime Supplement to the National Crime Victimization Survey

Description: The purpose of the study was to evaluate the effectiveness of GPS in accomplishing the aims of victim protection via contact deterrence during the pretrial period, resulting in an improved quality of life for the victims as well as their greater participation in criminal justice proceedings. The second aim was to assess whether Global Positioning System (GPS) enrollment is associated with deterrence in the long term, as measured by lower likelihood of re-arrest during a one-year follow-up period.

RECA Awards by Place of Residence (State/Country) as of [date]

Description: The report titled RECA Awards by Place of Residence (State/Country) as of [current date], reflects the number of claims filed, pending, denied, approved, and compensation awarded, based on the state and in certain cases, the country of the individual claimant. It is important to note that the data (state and country) reflects the residency of the claimant receiving the compensation awards; it does not reflect the location where the individual was exposed. For example, many claimants were exposed to radiation while present in the Southwestern United States. However, the report reflects that compensation awards were sent to residents of many states and countries. Moreover, in cases involving multiple beneficiaries, the data reflects the residency of the lead beneficiary, i.e., the individual who completed the claim form.

Spatial Configuration of Places Related to Homicide Events in Washington, DC, 1990-2002

Description: The purpose of this research was to further understanding of why crime occurs where it does by exploring the spatial etiology of homicides that occurred in Washington, DC, between 1990 and 2002. This research sought to fill a gap in the criminological literature by (1) disaggregating homicides by motive to provide a more exact analysis of movement for each particular type; (2) exploring the distances to homicide for victims and offenders; (3) describing the relationships between victims, offenders, and places through a comparison of two mobility triangle typologies; and (4) applying various cartographic methods for representing the interactions between victim, offender, and place.
