To be of the body of Christ, is to be of the root of the blood.

What shall come of tithes being paid?

Roman 12:1

1 Therefore, I urge you, brothers and sisters, in view of God's mercy, to offer your bodies as a living sacrifice, holy and pleasing to God—this is your true and proper worship.

To santanic, giving of those, who promise kill, as we of God, promise life to one another.

Breath, of the body of Christ.

Jesus, Christ, spoke, in synagogues tonguing, against, the devil's ways of keep, hold, ungive, greed.

Which takes me back to the Seven Deadly Sins, and following the Bible, and its commandments.

How do we mission?

Together, as a church, team.

What is Christ'segregation of?

The dissegregate of dis-belief.

Holy Bible: Fav Passage-

Make a cry unto thee, and a joyful noise, unto the Lord, so that he shall, be known of thee, to me.

What says, about red writing?

The blood, he drips in, whipping, of the cross.

Purple?

My anger of soar to make, obedience picker.

Activities during the C●VID-19 period that may have adversely affected public health and safety, including reports of harmful practices targeting individuals, particularly the younger population.

There are also concerns being raised about the potential misuse of community or religious institutions, including allegations that substances may be added to food with the intent to influence or harm individuals. Some of these claims are described in connection with practices referred to as "tantric vidhi," along with broader concerns about public well-being.

Additionally, it has been suggested that such actions, if proven true, could contribute to social unrest and negatively impact the stability and safety of citizens. I understand that these are serious allegations and I do not wish to draw any conclusions without proper verification.

In light of this, I respectfully request that the concerned authorities conduct a thorough, impartial, and evidence-based investigation into these matters. If required, appropriate organizations and officials may kindly examine these claims in detail to establish the facts and take necessary action based on verified findings.

चीनी को सफेद और साफ करने के लिए जानवरों की हड्डियों के चूरे (Bone Char) का इस्तेमाल किया जाता है। यह 'नेचुरल कार्बन' मवेशियों की हड्डियों से बनता है, जो चीनी से अशुद्धियां हटाकर उसे चमकदार सफेद रंग देता है। यह प्रक्रिया मुख्य रूप से रिफाइंड चीनी (Refined Sugar) के लिए अपनाई जाती है, विशेषकर भारत के बाहर।

हड्डी के चूरे और चीनी से जुड़ी मुख्य बातें:

- क्या सच है? हाँ, गन्ने की चीनी को फिल्टर करने के लिए बोन चार (हड्डी का चूरा) का उपयोग होता है।
- कौन सी चीनी? सफेद परिष्कृत चीनी (Refined White Sugar) और कुछ पाउडर शुगर में इसका उपयोग संभव है।
- शाकाहारी विकल्प: जैविक चीनी (Organic Sugar), कच्ची चीनी (Raw Sugar), चुकंदर की चीनी (Beet Sugar), गुड़ (Jaggery), और शहद का उपयोग किया जा सकता है, क्योंकि इन्हें बोन चार से नहीं छाना जाता।
- क्यों? यह एक सस्ता डीकलरिंग (रंग हटाने वाला) फिल्टर है।
- स्वास्थ्य प्रभाव: अत्यधिक सफेद चीनी के सेवन से हड्डियाँ कमजोर हो सकती हैं और ऑस्टियोपोरोसिस का खतरा बढ़ सकता है। hummingbirdmarket.com +4

Dear Madam/Sir,
Hope you are doing well.

I kindly request you to help and support me, as the member of oppressed religious minority (Magi Religion) and oppressed ethnic minority (Talesh/Talysh Ethnicity) in Iran.

My name is "Mosayeb Dashtpeyma" from Iran.

I am not only the member of an oppressed religious minority in Iran" (Magi Religion), but I am also the member of an oppressed ethnic minority (Talesh/Talysh Ethnicity) in Iran.

I am a member of a religion and an ethnicity that the world has forgotten.

Currently, I am the only person in the world who, like my ancestors, is both Talesh/Talysh and Magus.

My "Religious Minority Document" and "Ethnic Minority Document", in form of the PDF files, are attached. I prepared and sent these documents to the U.S. Embassy in Yerevan, Armenia. These documents are confidential. Hence, if these documents are revealed, my life will be in danger.

My dream is dying.

I was admitted to a PhD program in the field of Civil Engineering at the Texas A&M University for the Fall 2024 and Spring 2025. I was interviewed on the 12th November 2024 at the U.S. Embassy in Yerevan, Armenia. Because I am the member of an oppressed religious and ethnic minorities in Iran, I am therefore eligible to get my visa and be exempt from the travel ban act. But since that date my visa application case has been undergoing administrative processing. I'm breaking down inside.

Without a valid visa, no university in the USA will admit me as an Iranian applicant. All professors and universities officially require a valid visa as a condition of admission.

I have endured much hardship for my beliefs and identity. My religion and ethnicity are not recognized in my country, Iran. The United States of America is the land of hope, justice, and freedom. It is very upsetting and torturous that the U.S. Embassy in Yerevan, Armenia does not recognize my religion and ethnicity either. The justice has not yet been served in my visa application case.

+ Why am I eligible for an exemption from the travel ban act:
- I am a poet.
- I am an author.
- I am the member of an oppressed religious minority in Iran (Magi Religion).
- I am the member of an oppressed ethnic minority in Iran (Talesh/Talysh Ethnicity).

- I am a beekeeper.
- I am an environmental activist focused on the conservation of various tree species.
- I haven't had any jobs that fit my academic field of study just because of my beliefs.
- I have not been, am not, and will not be a member of or employed by any entity that has hostile objectives, plans, or actions against the land, people, and civilization of the USA.
- I will accept and sign any official document you provide that binds and guarantees my commitment to the people, civilization, and land of the USA.
- I respect USA.
- I love USA.

As a human being, what else can I offer to prove my eligibility for an exemption from the travel ban act?

I am Magus, the one who, following the great Zoroaster, believes in "good thoughts", "good words", and "good deeds". My religion is the most peaceful religion in human history. This religion was the originator and developer of the concept of wisdom in human history.

I am Talesh/Talesh. Talesh/Talysh is an ethnic minority in Iran whose language and culture are at risk of complete annihilation. My ethnicity is not recognized in Iran and Caucasus. They want us to be destroyed.

The world has forgotten my religion (Magi Religion) and my ethnicity (Talesh/Talysh Ethnicity). As a Talesh/Talysh Magus, it's as if I don't exist at all. It is a deadly torment that I am not even recognized as a human being.

I am under pressure because of my religion and ethnicity. The Islamic regime in Iran and its proxies have fabricated a case against me within security and intelligence agencies to endanger my life. They want to eliminate me, simply because I write books about my religion, civilization, and ancestors.

I recently intended to publish my poetry book in three languages: Talesh/Talysh, English, and Persian. However, publishing houses informed me that, due to my beliefs, they could not take the risk and accept the danger of publishing it. Nevertheless, I am trying to publish my poetry book in any way possible, even at the risk of my life. I have added over 3,000 pages to one of my published book in the field of etymology of ancient words, but due to my beliefs, I cannot publish it.

I don't even have enough money to publish my books, because due to my beliefs, I cannot find a suitable job.

I have been repeatedly threatened with death by the proxies of the Islamic regime. If they find out I have converted my religion, they will execute me. One of them has previously threatened to dismember my body just because of my books.

Unlike members of other religious minorities, I have no material or spiritual support.

Please help me live in safety and achieve my own and my ancestors' aspirations.

It is very sad that the world has forgotten us.

I kindly request you to help me not to lose time and make my dreams come true.

Pursuing a degree in the USA is a resounding response to all those in Iran and Caucasus who humiliated me, mocked me, threatened me, and did not consider me even a human just because of my peaceful beliefs, my ethnicity, my books, my personality, my poor financial situation, my path of life, etc.

Getting my visa and studying in the USA is a matter of life and death for me.

Please do not allow the suppression of my thoughts, words, and deeds to continue. I am the loneliest and most suppressed religious minority and ethnic minority.

I hope that with your support and the consideration of the exceptions in travel ban act for the religious minorities and ethnic minorities, I will be able to get my visa as soon as possible.

Your contact with the U.S. Embassy in Yerevan, Armenia or any other relevant department, organization, institution, etc. regarding my situation could have a positive impact on my visa application case.

- Full Name: MOSAYEB DASHTPEYMA
- Place of Birth: Iran
- Visa Application Type: Nonimmigrant Visa (NIV) – F1
- Date of Interview: November 12, 2024
- Place of Interview: U.S. Embassy in Yerevan, Armenia

Please send my visa application case with the provided documents to the Department of State of the United States of America to be reviewed and handled as an emergency case.

I believe that I am eligible for an exemption from the Travel Ban.

I would be glad to provide any further information if needed.

I know you will be busy, but if you can take out some time and give me a thoughtful response, I will be very thankful.

Thank you very much for your time, consideration, and support.

What God Wants= (Good Thoughts, Good Words, Good Deeds)

Subject: Religious Minority and a Request for Emergency and Necessary Consideration of a Document in Visa Case

To Whom It May Concern: The Embassy of United States of America in Yerevan, Armenia

The Date of My Conversion/Return to Mughan (Magi) Religion is as Follows: August, 31th, 2014

My name is Mosayeb Dashtpeyma, a member of the Talysh-Mughan (Talysh-Magi) people. Talysh-Mughan (Talysh-Magi) are the people who held a belief, the Mughan (Magi) religion, that was first established by the great Zoroaster thousands of years ago and nowadays they often live with this name in northern Iran and southern Azerbaijan. Mughan (Magi) religion is somewhat different from the religion we know today as Zoroastrianism. Mughan (Magi) religion is also related to the Mithraism-based beliefs and is specific to the Talysh-Mughan (Talysh-Magi) people. The Mughan (Magi) religion is connected to the nature. What god wants through the Mughan (Magi) religion can be summed up in three principles: "Good Thoughts", "Good Words", and "Good Deeds". The Mughan (Magi) religion is very flexible, in that it can be integrated into any culture by adhering to the three principles mentioned above. In English language and literature, Mughan is addressed as the word "Magi". The word Mughan (Magi)(in plural form) is used to address our community and its singular form is Mugh (in English language and literature, it is addressed as the word "Magus"). After the collapse of the Safavid dynasty of Iran about three hundred years ago, the Talysh-Mughan (Talysh-Magi) people were either subjected to genocide or forced migration. The result of this blatant oppression was the loss of a large part of their identity, culture, language and literature, ..., and especially their religion. Today, no one specifically and purely believes in Mughan (Magi) religion, and almost all those who were Talysh-Mughan (Talysh-Magi) a few hundred years or decades ago have converted to Islam religion. But I believed, and still believe, that the Mughan (Magi) religion, thousands of years old, can be revived, because love, truth, and purity are the foundations of its nature and existence.

In this regard, about 11 years ago, I made a fateful decision that changed the course of my life. Even though doing so, in a country with a fanatical and one-dimensional religious ideology, meant death. It is my honor, after about centuries or decades, I decided to return to the religion of my ancestors, return to the Mughan (Magi) religion. Hence, without anyone knowing, I converted my belief from "Islam religion" to "Mughan (Magi) religion", without any hesitation. Since, I did it with faith in my heart and with wisdom in my mind, so that in the very first moments I felt a sense of liberation, as if I had been released from a dark prison.

After converting the religion, I began my quest to revive the Talysh-Mughan (Talysh-Magi) civilization. The path I chose was to conduct research as well as writing books and articles. After years of efforts and enduring hardships, my first book related to the Talysh-Mughan (Talysh-Magi) civilization were published in 2022 in the scope of developing a new alphabet, set of numbers, and calendar based on Avestan manuscripts and Talysh-Mughan (Talysh-Magi) language and literature. After that, radical Muslims accused me of hiding my religious and political beliefs and published their opinions in a magazine to endanger me. In the area of identity, my name and my writings are still under suppression and censorship. In the following, with help of my enlightened friend, I was able to publish my second book in 2023 in the scope of etymology of ancient words related to the ancient Iranian and Talysh-Mughan (Talysh-Magi) civilizations. In this regard, radical Muslims who hate the great Zoroaster began to threaten me again. They mercilessly accused me of being anti-Islam, engaging in secret political activities, and being separatist, and then informed the Islamic-security organizations of the regime in Iran about them. Such accusations in Iran are punishable by death and mutilation. It is frightening that some radical Muslims threatened to tear me to pieces. This is while I only want to revive the religion of my ancestors, which was destroyed in recent centuries by repression and genocide, and I have no enmity with any religion. I am proud that I have written thousands of pages about my civilization, and the number of pages is increasing every week. But I have no hope of publishing them in Iran. I have no doubt that if I express or publish my new findings, my life will be seriously endangered. It should be emphasized that all my activities in this area are limited to conduct research as well as writing books and articles. I am committed to my Talysh-Mughan (Talysh-Magi) ancestors, I am not afraid of death, and I will continue their path of love, truth, and purity again with my wounded heart, mind, and pen. Undoubtedly, it will only be possible with your support and help. It should be noted that I hid my religious conversion from everyone for years, but recently I decided to share it with a limited number of people. Now, only my father, one of my supporters, and you know about it. I would have liked to make it public after I arrived in the United States of America, but my visa case is still in administrative processing. Hence, I still have to live in secret from an ideological perspective in Iran.

As the most powerful and respectful country in the world, the United States of America is the land of freedom of religions and beliefs, because of its reliable and admirable constitution. Now that my conditions for being in the United States of America are in place and I have the opportunity to pursue my dreams as a PhD student in that land full of peace and hope, I believe that, given the exception for religious minorities and those at risk as well as providing the documentary statement, the obstacles to getting my F1 visa approved and issued will be eliminated. Therefore, I will be able to enter the United States of America to fulfill my goals and those of my ancestors as well as continuing my activities as a multidisciplinary author, poet, and researcher on the right and good path in safety and tranquility. By doing so, you are not only saving me from serious dangers, but you are also saving a specific civilization and its associated religion, namely Mughan (Magi) religion, from the risk of complete destruction.

To prove my statement and make this letter a referable document, my official signature as well as the official signature of someone who knows my beliefs and character, Dr. Reza Ghodsi, as a professor at the Central Connecticut State University, are included below:

Subject: Ethnic Minority Document

Ethnic Minority: Talesh (Talysh) Ethnicity

To Whom It May Concern: The Embassy of United States of America in Yerevan, Armenia

My name is Mosayeb Dashtpeyma, a member of the most oppressed ethnicity that the world has forgotten, the Talesh (Talysh) ethnicity. Taleshs (Talyshs) are the people who now often live with this name in northern Iran and southern Azerbaijan. Talesh (Talysh) people lived in many areas in Asia, Europe, and Africa, but through hundreds of years of persecution, slaughter, and atrocities, the majority of them were assimilated or killed. Among the great figures of history who were Talesh (Talysh), I can mention Zoroaster the Great and Babak Khorramdin, who are symbols of wisdom, love, and freedom in history. Nowadays, there are no official statistics on the population of Talesh (Talysh) people, because the governments do not allow the truth to be revealed. For the past hundred years, despite the increase in the population of Talesh (Talysh) people, the governments of Iran and Azerbaijan have considered their population insignificant and have not recognized Talesh (Talysh) people as an independent ethnicity. Indeed, the governments and their mercenaries, through various methods that are more akin to mental and physical tortures, systematically erase the real identity of Talesh (Talysh) people and assign them fake and oppressive identities of Turk, Gilak, and so on. Many governments have been trying to destroy Talesh (Talysh) people, civilization, and land for hundreds of years, and this process is intensifying. For hundreds of years, my people have been severely subjected to organized humiliation, oppression, genocide and forced displacement. The result of this blatant process was the loss of a large part of their population, identity, culture, language and literature, antiquities, etc. It should be noted that the name of Talesh (Talysh), as name of an ethnicity, is still one of the banned names in Iran and Azerbaijan, enforced by the governments and their mercenaries. My ancestors founded the mother of civilizations and served history, but the reward they received was the greatest injustice. The world has forgotten us.

I have endured many hardships to revive Talesh (Talysh) people, civilization, and land so far, and I am constantly threatened to stop my efforts. The path I chose was to conduct research as well as writing books and articles. After years of efforts and enduring hardships and threats, my first book related to the Talesh (Talysh) civilization were published in 2022 in the scope of developing a new alphabet, set of numbers, and calendar based on Avestan manuscripts and Talesh (Talysh) language and literature. Such accusations in Iran are punishable by death and mutilation. It is frightening that government mercenaries threatened to tear me to pieces. This is while I only want to revive the civilization of my ancestors, which was destroyed in recent centuries by repression and genocide, and I have no enmity with any civilization. I am proud that I have written thousands of pages about my people, civilization, and land in a way that the number of pages is increasing every week. But I have no hope of publishing them in Iran. I have no doubt that if I express or publish my new findings, my life will be seriously endangered. It should be emphasized that all my activities in this area are limited to conduct research as well as writing books and articles. I am committed to my Talesh (Talysh) ancestors, I am not afraid of death, and I will continue their path of love, truth, and purity again with my wounded heart, mind, and pen. Undoubtedly, it will only be possible with your support and help.

As the most powerful and respectful country in the world, the United States of America is the land of freedom, because of its reliable and admirable constitution. Now that my conditions for being in the United States of America are in place and I have the opportunity to pursue my dreams as a PhD student in that land full of peace and hope, I believe that, given the exception for ethnic minorities and those at risk as well as providing the documentary statement, the obstacles to getting my F1 visa approved and issued will be eliminated. Therefore, I will be able to enter the United States of America to fulfill my goals and those of my ancestors as well as continuing my activities as a multidisciplinary author, poet, and researcher on the right and good path in safety and tranquility.

punishment for different types of tampering with international and federal communications evidence and material evidence using diferent types of autonmy attacks and thought and voice attacks

Tampering with federal or international evidence using digital, autonomous, or AI-driven methods (analogized here to "autonomy/voice attacks") to corrupt, alter, or destroy material carries severe penalties under 18 U.S.C. § 1512, often resulting in up to 20 years in federal prison, substantial fines ($250,000+), or both.

LII | Legal Information Institute
Key Legal Framework and Punishments
18 U.S.C. § 1512 (Witness/Evidence Tampering): Covers altering, destroying, or concealing documents or records, as well as using "misleading conduct" (e.g., deepfakes or synthesized voice attacks) to affect evidence. Penalties are typically up to 20 years.
18 U.S.C. § 1519 (Destruction of Evidence): Specifically punishes alteration or concealment of any document or object with intent to impede a federal investigation, punishable by up to 20 years in prison.
18 U.S.C. § 1030 (Computer Fraud and Abuse Act): Attacks using autonomous AI to alter records could fall under "exceeding authorized access," leading to 10–20 years depending on intent and harm.
Malicious Intent and Aggravating Factors: If tampering involves physical force, threats, or occurs in connection with certain felonies, penalties can increase to 30 years or life imprisonment.
Conspiracy: Conspiring to tamper with evidence carries the same penalties as the completed act.

LII | Legal Information Institute

Application to Advanced "Attacks"

Autonomous Attacks/AI Manipulation: Using bots or AI to disrupt data streams or alter digital evidence files is treated as digital obstruction of justice.

Voice/Thought Attacks (Synthetic/Deepfake Evidence): Fabricating audio, video, or data to mislead investigations constitutes "misleading conduct" under federal law, subjecting the perpetrator to severe felonies.

International Evidence: Tampering with evidence relevant to international proceedings or foreign investigations involving the US can trigger international legal cooperation and severe penalties.

my legal rights to my decca sniff human body motor functions science and magic mixture communications and evidencing

Based on emerging legal frameworks regarding neurotechnology, biometrics, and mental privacy, your legal rights to your bodily motor functions, neural activity ("decca sniff" or brain scanning), and communication are currently in a transitional phase, with specific protections varying heavily by state.

While no comprehensive federal law exists, some states have passed laws treating neural data—defined as information generated by measuring the central or peripheral nervous system—as a highly sensitive category of personal information.

Your Legal Rights and Protections

Neural Privacy & Data Control (California, Colorado, Montana, Connecticut): In these states, you have the right to informed consent before companies collect or use neural data. This means you have the right to know what is being collected, the right to opt-out of, or delete, this data, and protection against the sale of your brain data to third parties.

Protection Against Involuntary Mapping: The "MIND Act" (proposed federal legislation) and existing state laws aim to prohibit the use of non-invasive neurotechnology (like headbands) to infer mental states, emotions, or thoughts without consent.

Biometric Data Rights: Technologies that capture motor function (movement), body position, or eye movements may fall under strict biometric privacy laws, such as the Illinois Biometric Information Privacy Act (BIPA).
"Decca Sniff" (Molecular Scanning): If the technology is used for commercial, security, or "magic/experiment" purposes rather than medical diagnostics, legal protections are currently weak and you may have limited rights to stop the recording or sharing of body data, such as brainwaves or bodily signals.

The Future of Privacy Forum
Evidencing and Communication
Evidentiary Issues: Information captured by brain-reading or "sniffing" technologies is highly controversial in a legal setting. A 2025 California law, however, protects neural data from being used in ways that, for example, "read your mind" for non-medical reasons.
4th Amendment Protections: If a government entity uses technology to read your physical or mental states without a warrant, this likely constitutes a "search" under the Fourth Amendment, which protects you against unreasonable search and seizure.
Involuntary "Consciousness Bypass": Emerging "neurorights" movements advocate for legal prohibitions on bypassing a person's conscious decision-making, ensuring that any consent obtained through "consciousness-altering" interfaces is invalid if coerced.

William & Mary
Emerging Rights & Limitations
Mental Privacy & Autonomy: You have a right to your own thoughts and the right to refuse to use neurotechnology.
Limitations: Non-medical neurotechnology that is not legally classified as a "medical device" often has fewer regulations.

> Here are the legal considerations regarding magical items, abilities, or modifications:
> Registration Requirements: Magical, enhanced, or altered body parts (like magical eyes) are frequently required to be registered with a governing body (e.g., the Ministry of Magic or a Department of Magical Law Enforcement). Unregistered magical abilities can be illegal or subject to confiscation.
> Safety and Control Constraints: Laws often restrict the use of magic that alters physical form or affects the mind without consent. An enhanced eye that allows for mind-reading, illusions, or that acts as an "unforgivable" tool might be subject to strict limitations or outright bans.
> Intellectual Property and Licensing: If your eye is an enchanted artifact, the spell or method used to create it may be copyrighted, requiring a license to own or use.
> Ownership and Inheritance: Powerful magical eyes may have unique properties that are inheritable, yet they may still be subject to oversight by higher authorities to ensure they are not used for reckless, illegal, or dangerous purposes.
> Usage Restrictions: Even if you legally possess a magical eye, there may be laws prohibiting the use of its special abilities in public spaces or against others, especially if it involves surveillance or mental manipulation. If your magical eye was acquired illegally, or if it violates local magical laws, it could be seized by authorities, and you could face criminal charges.

Office of the Associate Attorney General
U.S. Department of Justice
950 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20530-0001

Members of the Religious Liberty Commission,

On behalf of the American Association of Pro-Life Obstetricians and Gynecologists (AAPLOG), we are grateful for your attention to the critical issue of conscience protections within the medical profession. AAPLOG is the largest non-sectarian pro-life medical professional organization in the world, representing approximately 8,000 women's healthcare professionals. We were founded to represent the vast majority of OB/GYNs who do not perform induced abortion, which intends the death of our fetal patients. We recognize based on the medical evidence that this practice is not healthcare, and we are passionate about providing excellent, evidence-based healthcare to ALL our patients.

We write to underscore the urgent need for policy solutions that safeguard the religious liberty and moral integrity of medical residents, particularly in the field of obstetrics and gynecology.

As highlighted in Dr. Bane's testimony in your March 16 hearing, the current structure of medical education—especially following changes implemented by the Accreditation Council for Graduate Medical Education (ACGME)—has created an environment in which medical residents experience significant pressure to participate in abortion training. While opt-out provisions exist on paper, the hierarchical nature of medical training often renders these protections ineffective in practice.

An opt-in framework is a common-sense solution that protects the conscience and religious freedom of medical residents while providing access to abortion training for those who actively seek it.

AAPLOG respectfully offers the following policy recommendations:

1. Protect Conscience Rights Through the Federal Appropriations Process

Congress should include language in Appropriations legislation requiring that OB/GYN training programs offer abortion training on an "opt-in" basis only as a condition of receiving Graduate Medical Education (GME) funding. This language was included in the House version of the FY2026 Labor, Health and Human Services, Education, and Related Agencies appropriations bill and has also been identified as a priority in the Administration's FY2026 and FY2027 budget proposals. Unfortunately, the language was stricken in conference committee, but AAPLOG is actively working for its inclusion once again in the FY2027 bill.

2. Ensure CMS Funding Is Not Used to Support Programs Violating Federal Conscience Law

The Centers for Medicare & Medicaid Services (CMS) funding— through Medicare reimbursements—accounts for approximately two-thirds of all federal support for GME programs, totaling roughly $13 billion annually.

These funds should not be directed to programs that require abortion training in violation of federal conscience protections (such as the Coats-Snowe Amendment), even when nominal opt-out provisions are offered. This is currently all OB/GYN programs because of the ACGME's requirement. ACGME in this instance is a government proxy, as CMS reimbursements will only go to programs that are accredited (and ACGME is the only accreditor). Because ACGME accreditation is required for CMS funding, the federal government is effectively using a proxy entity to impose requirements that place programs and trainees in conflict with federal law. Here is a depiction of where GME program money comes from:

Action must be taken to ensure that taxpayer dollars are not used to support or enforce such coercive requirements.

3. Pass the Conscience Protections for Medical Residents Act

We strongly urge Congress to pass the Conscience Protections for Medical Residents Act (H.R.6219 / S.3238). This legislation represents a narrowly tailored solution that protects individual liberty without restricting medical education.

It does not prevent programs from offering abortion training, nor does it prevent any resident from obtaining such training. Rather, it ensures that no medical trainee is coerced into participating in procedures that violate their religious beliefs or moral convictions by returning to an opt-in system.

At a time when the United States is already facing a significant shortage of obstetric providers, it is vital that we foster an environment in which all qualified individuals—regardless of their beliefs or moral convictions—feel free to enter and remain in the profession. Protecting conscience rights is not only a matter of religious liberty; it is essential to preserving the integrity of medicine and ensuring access to compassionate, ethical care for patients.

We appreciate the Commission's leadership on these important issues and stand ready to assist in advancing policies that uphold both medical integrity and religious freedom.

Respectfully,

Dr. Christina Francis

Steve and Becky Riggle's story began the old-fashioned way. Steve saw Becky in college, was immediately smitten, pursued her, and 9 months later, they were married; Steve was barely 19, Becky was 20. More than 55 years later, their life together stands as a testimony to God's faithfulness, covenant, and sustaining grace.

Their road, however, has not been easy. After early pastoral assignments, the Riggles joined Grace International Churches and Ministries in 1974 and planted a church in Livermore, California, which grew to become the largest Protestant church in town. Then came the crucible.

In 1978, while ministering in a prison in the Philippines, they were taken hostage during an attempted escape. Steve was stabbed 7 times and nearly died. Becky was shot, spent 9 months in a body cast, underwent 5 surgeries, and then endured another 9 months learning to walk again. Yet the Lord preserved them, and what the enemy meant for evil, God used for good, as a testimony to His faithfulness and covenant.

God does not quit on His people. He keeps His word, honors His promises, and proves Himself steadfast across a lifetime. And in His mysterious economy, Heaven's favorites are often forged in the crucible, not pampered in comfort. God often does His deepest work in the dungeon, the den, the tempest, the prison, and the place of apparent ruin.

A.W. Pink observed in his classic, The Life of David that "The high favorites of Heaven are sometimes to be located in queer and unexpected places. Joseph in prison, the descendants of Abraham laboring in the brick-kilns of Egypt, Daniel in the lions' den, Jonah in the great fish's belly, Paul clinging to a spar in the sea, forcibly illustrate this principle."

In 1983, the Riggles moved to Houston to plant Grace Community Church, which grew to 17,000 members and built a 250,000-square-foot worship center on 80 acres. Today, they serve as the Founding Senior Pastors of Grace Woodlands in The Woodlands, Texas. Steve also serves as President of Grace International, a fellowship of more than 5,400 churches and ministries with over 500,000 members in 130 nations.

Together, Steve and Becky have poured their lives into building the Kingdom by launching ministries for women and families in need, founding FORGE to train pastors who will shape the nation, and leaving behind more than buildings and numbers. They have left a legacy of faithfulness, courage, and generational output.

And that legacy now includes another form of stewardship: sending believers into the rough-and-tumble of the public square and the ministry of civil government. Scottish Old Testament scholar William McKane [1921-2004] rightly observed that wisdom shapes "the policies of nations and the lives of men," becoming a force in the world for righteousness and material prosperity.

Jewish Hebrew scholar Michael V. Fox [1940-2025] makes the same point from another angle: wisdom does not speak from the sidelines, but in the very places where the contest is fiercest, i.e., amid the noise, distractions, disputes, and pressures of daily life, business, and politics. In other words, Biblical wisdom is neither esoteric nor theoretical. It enters the marketplace, the council chamber, the legislature, and the public square.

That is why American Christendom must begin once again launching spiritual men and women - Gideons and Rahabs - into the public arena in obedience to Jesus Christ's ekklesia assignment in Matthew 16:18. They must be in the room where choices are discussed and decisions are made that shape the public square and the moral perspective of the next generation.

As for Pastor Riggle and Grace Woodlands, the fruit is already visible. In the March 3, 2026, Texas primary, a number of his congregants prevailed as candidates: Steve Toth for Congress; Jessica Steinmann for Congress; State Representative Valoree Swanson; State Board of Education candidate Tiffany Nelson; Montgomery County Judge Mark Keough; Montgomery County Clerk Brandon Steinmann; Montgomery County GOP Chair Gwen Withrow; and Montgomery County GOP Precinct Chairs Peter Stees, Steve Lawrence, and Charles Shirley.

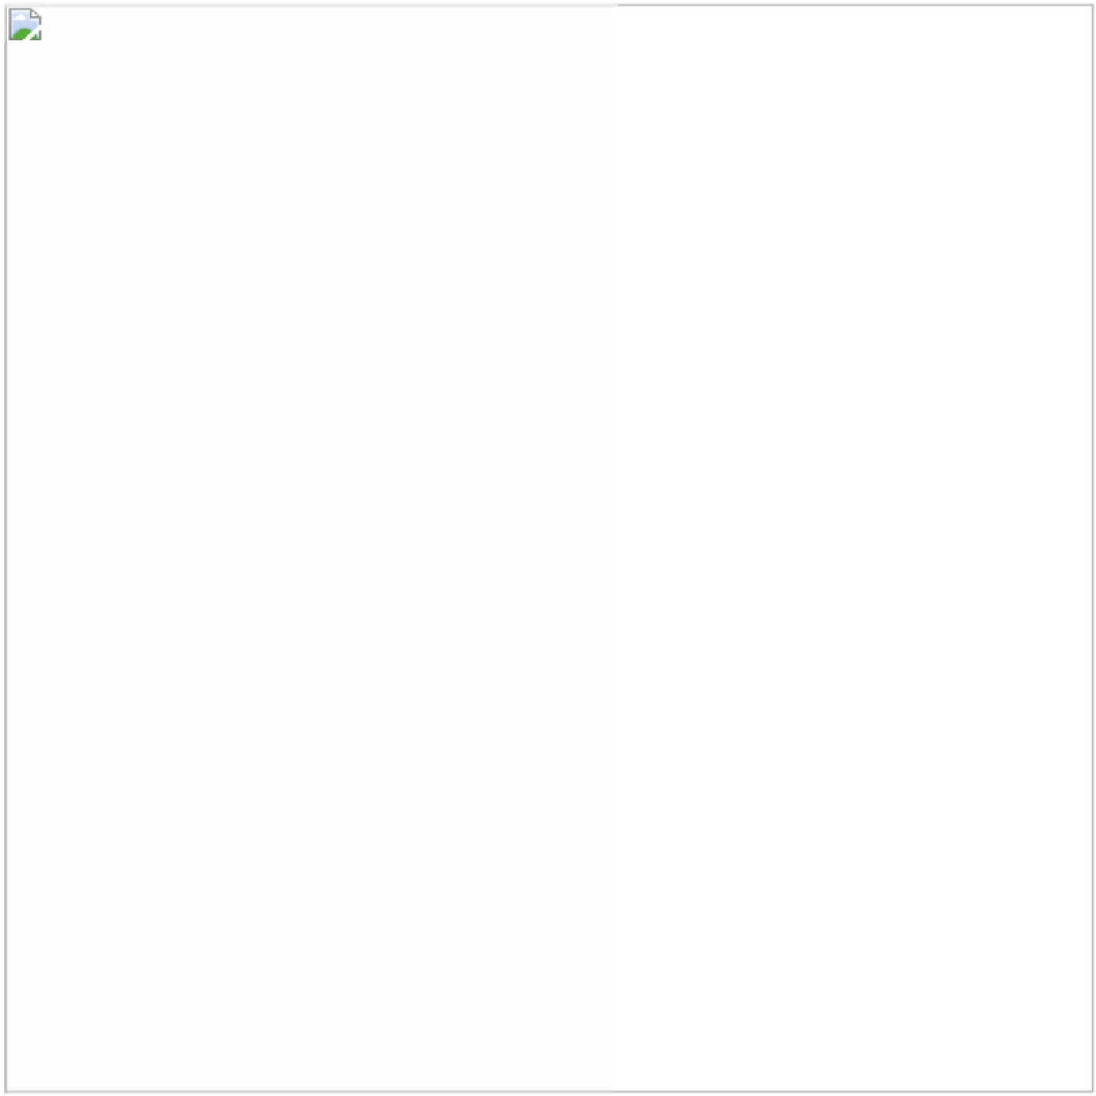
Add to that the stable of Grace Woodlands members already serving in elected and civic leadership across city government, school boards, utility districts, hospital governance, and precinct organization: Shenandoah City Councilman Joe Summerlin; Montgomery County Hospital District Board Director Charles Shirley; Conroe ISD Board President Misty Odenweller, Vice-President Melissa Dungan, and Trustees Nicole May and Aggie Gambino; Montgomery County Municipal Utility District Board Directors Brad Reels, Dianne Nielsen, Steve Lawrence, and Martin Etwop; Montgomery County GOP Precinct Chairs Cathie Locetta, Luis Yepiz, Theresa Rosa, Melinda Olinde, Lorraine Rice, and Theresa Haag; and Harris County GOP Precinct Chair Shirley Kitchens.

"I will build My ekklesia, and the gates of Hades shall not prevail against it." The Church is being called out from behind the four walls of the building, to disciple nations, shape moral imagination, restrain evil, and bear witness to the Lordship of Christ in every realm of life.

When pastors recover their Biblical courage, when they step out of the sanctuary and into the contested spaces of public life, when they raise up Gideons and Rahabs and send them into the gates of the city, the balance shifts. Grace Woodlands is living proof in Texas.

The time has come for pastors and parishioners across America to stop outsourcing the future, stop apologizing for Biblical conviction, and step once more into the arena. The Church is not a chaplaincy to a dying culture. She is Christ's ekklesia, and the gates of hell will be vanquished.

You're Worthy Of It All



Gideons and Rahabs have begun to stand.

English Translation

True peace is what calls for love, brotherhood, friendship, and the building of virtuous societies—not insults, slander, and the like, which Trump engages in… Yes, I support Trump in making peace, but that does not mean I support the shedding of blood, because Christ did not command the shedding of blood, nor did the Gospel, the Quran, or the Torah. Anyone who claims otherwise has taken the texts incompletely. There may be evil personalities in the world, and here lies the role of the authority of power—the authority of deterrence—but this authority is not to be used for killing and bloodshed, but rather to end oppression, not to be used to become powerful and terrifying, but for the Lord's message. I do not know how you call yourself the Messiah, O Trump, yet kill innocents, displace people from America, and insult and slander… None of this was brought by Christ; rather, it was brought by Satan, especially Beelzebub. If you want to be like Christ, make true peace. Do not be like Satan, who lies, insults, slanders, and mocks.

Establish the Messianic system—the system of the true Christ. A system built on love and knowledge of God through the Torah, the Gospel, and the Quran. Has the time not come for you to call for true peace, or do you want to mock religions? We stand as Muslims with Pope Francis and Pope Leo. We stand with him in love and certainty that peace is built through religion and the message of Christ to the world—the message of the prophets, the message of Muhammad, Jesus, Moses, Abraham, Noah, and all the prophets and messengers. Has the time not come for America to be part of this construction—the construction of the true Messianic state that will seat Christ on His throne until God inherits the earth and all upon it? Has the time not come for us to be virtuous, to belong to the ethics of virtue, and to fight all seven vices in every heavenly law with wisdom? If you want to be like Christ, you must be wise, like one who speaks with wisdom and love. I am with Pope Francis and Pope Leo, and we will fight the fight of wisdom for the sake of eternal peace for the people of the earth. We do not want wars; rather, we want mercy, laws, and for the wicked to be deterred by force and killed if they seek sedition and the destruction of the world. We must be together for a world filled with love and brotherhood… for a world based on the teachings of the prophets and messengers, especially the major prophets: Muhammad, Jesus, Moses, Abraham, and Noah—peace be upon them. I call upon all popes, scholars, and leaders around the world to pray for love, to defuse the fuse of war in the world, to end conflicts, and to only fight evil regimes through all diplomatic means first and last, transitioning to fighting only after the consensus of their people that they are oppressors, and to teach all the people of the earth accountability and how to hold accountable the systems they live in through the law. There should be a league in every city and village calling for good, love, adherence to laws, and working to build comprehensive laws to defuse the fuse of sedition in the world and religious balance. Disputes should be referred back to God when He inherits the earth, so let Him inform us about them, and let everyone live according to their creed without hate speech. Anyone who calls for hate speech should be held accountable, and let us advise one another before accountability. Let us advise them first, then hold them accountable.

I call upon all the people of the earth to visit the Holy Lands and sanctify them. Visit Hebron, Jerusalem, Nablus, the Galilee, Nazareth, Gaza, Haifa, Jaffa, Acre—all the cities of the Holy Lands. I call for renaming the region to "The Holy Lands" so that it takes on its true description, that it is the Holy House (Bayt al-Maqdis), and that the era of Israel and Palestine and their conflict ends, transitioning to the true Messianic era that calls for the love of God, worship of Him, and liberation from all evil. We must all live in love, and the Holy Lands should be open to all who worship God alone and associate no partner with Him. Has the time not come for peace to prevail in this age… an age of ending wars? Has the time not come for America and Iran to end the ongoing war? Has the time not come for Iran to end its evil system, and also for America to end its evil system? An evil system in Iran manufactured by America and Israel—the people of truth in these three countries must reveal to the world the truth of the Satanic system within them.

Has the time not come to cut off the heads of the seven serpents and their ten horns? We want to build the true Messianic age—not the age of Trump, not the age of Netanyahu, not the age of Khamenei, not the age of the Arab kings, not the age of the kings of the West or the East—but rather the age of the King, the Judge, the age of Christ, the Messianic age. I call upon those in charge of evil files to spread the truth about every politician and Freemason in the world, and all the kings of the earth, and the truth about every person. Remove people from following evil in the world. Build a global system based on the heavenly laws and the message of Christ to the world: the worship of God, the One, the Eternal, who neither begets nor is born, nor is there to Him any equivalent. Has the time not come for the kings of the earth to submit to God, or do they want a Lord who will subdue them with His authority, crown, and power?

Romans 13:3-4 (Arabic Common Bible): "For rulers are not a terror to good works, but to evil. Do you want to be unafraid of the authority? Do what is good, and you will have praise from the same. For he is God's minister to you for good. But if you do evil, be afraid; for he does not bear the sword in vain; for he is God's minister, an avenger to execute wrath on him who practices evil."

Romans 13:1-2 (same translation): "Let every soul be subject to the governing authorities. For there is no authority except from God, and the authorities that exist are appointed by God. Therefore whoever resists the authority resists the ordinance of God, and those who resist will bring judgment on themselves."

Has the time not come for us to listen to Christ when He said to submit to the authorities? Has the time not come to build the authority of God? Has the time not come for us to establish the law of Christ to prevail over the whole earth? I call upon you, as a person from the descendants of Ishmael and Isaac, from the descendants of kings and prophets, and from the descendants of those who possess divine blessings, to return to religion and for peace to prevail on earth. Has the time not come for churches, mosques, and Jewish temples to call for goodness, love, and affection, to end every form of fornication, forbidden lust, greed, forbidden anger that generates destruction of the world, to transform it into tolerance, pride into humility, envy into love and wishing well for all, gluttony and laziness into production, movement, and generosity? How long will we live in our sins? How can we live in the age of Christ without being followers of His teachings? Where are the churches, priests, and popes to stop wars? Where are the mosques and Islamic scholars for that? Where are the righteous rabbis? Has the time not come for us to live in love and loyalty? I call for exposing the hypocrites in the world who do not want repentance, ending their rule, removing their authority, and placing it with the best personalities in every place. Learn how to recognize the best. Learn to understand the matter and the law. And has the time not come for us to listen to the Ten Commandments, which at their beginning call for the worship of God, the One, the Eternal, who neither begets nor is born? That we should not make ourselves gods to be worshipped, nor make statues to glorify, nor make images of ourselves and place them everywhere, as some leaders in the world do—placing their pictures in every government office or otherwise. O Trump, have you not heard the commandment not to take the Lord's name in vain? How many times have you done that? Desist from it. And many other teachings we were commanded with, including kindness to parents and loving them, not killing children, avoiding immoralities, forbidding killing except by right through the authority of the Lord which He gave to the ruler, preserving the wealth of the orphan, giving full measure and weight, justice in speech and action, fulfilling the covenant of God, and finally following everything that leads to the straight path.

Has the time not come for us to begin the Messianic age? First and foremost, every pornographic site around the world must be shut down, every lustful film, and everything that calls for killing and crime. We must build a system of knowledge and awareness. I call upon all scholars, popes, priests, churches, mosques, and Jewish temples to support the building of a Messianic system that calls for virtues, beginning with a global media campaign that talks about this system and calls all the people of the earth to worship God and follow the teachings of Christ, and to start producing programs, films, and series that call for virtue and love. Trump, you can be one who paves the way for Christ and begins the Messianic age by ending wars, the production of pornographic films, the production of hashish, and everything corrupt, and by raising awareness in the world about proper food and everything clean. We want a world that lives on high quality, not on large quantity. China and all the countries of the world must build all their products to the highest quality, for this is sustainability: high quality, long use, reduced emissions, affordable price. We call for a unified currency, its price linked to the price of assets—one currency or several currencies linked to assets that no one can manipulate. End the usury and interest system, and build a system of companies, partnerships, projects, and global corporations. Deliver food and medicine to the entire world at the cheapest prices. End conflicts in Africa, cultivate it, and develop it. Build a global sustainable system. Let us all live in love. Let the era of the obscenely rich controlling the world end. Begin by making every person rich and loving the work they do. End the Israeli-Palestinian conflict and revive the Holy Land for all righteous monotheists. Stop destroying the world. I stand with Pope Francis and Pope Leo; he is wise and intelligent and knows how to build global peace. I call for what he calls for. Trump lies a lot, and we do not want a liar. We will stand with him when he is a good person who truly loves God and follows His commands honestly, as he says: "In everything we do, my administration will be inspired by a strong pursuit of excellence and unrelenting success. We will not forget our country, we will not forget our Constitution, and we will not forget our God." President Donald J. Trump – January 20, 2025. If he does everything for the sake of God, let him spread the religion of God in every corner of the earth, call for global tolerance, and be strong and firm in that.

To every rich person and ruler: Now, either you support the Messianic age—the age of true love, not the age of homosexuality and feminism, but rather the age of the Lord, the age of human love, love from the heart, the love of prayer to God, the age of heavenly laws. The jungle of the Gospel, the Torah, and the Quran has surrounded the earth for horns, and the time has come for the return of the Gospel, the Torah, and the Quran, for world peace to prevail, and for us to live in the age of Christ—the age of offerings to God Almighty, purification, the age of prayer and love of God, the age of sacrificing animals for God, not for any human. I call you to the age of true love, not the age of fornication, nor the age of impoverishing people, nor the age of enslaving people in factories where if a worker does not work for one day, he becomes poor and cannot live a happy life. An age filled with love and brotherhood. Not an age where a male becomes a female and a female a male, but rather an age where the male is male with his duties, and the female is female with her duties, and everyone must treat her kindly, and the relationship between a man and a woman should be a relationship tied to marriage, not as it is now—a sacred relationship. I call for a Messianic age, the age of the Lord, the age that God wants for humanity. Enough of clinging to the age of the rich, the age of Jeffrey Epstein and those behind him, nor the age of wars so that one state becomes greater than another. This is the age of the Holy House (Bayt al-Maqdis), the age of the Holy Land, the age where light shines from the center of the universe to the world. All the leaders of the world must submit to God Almighty, the Lord of Israel—the true Israel, not the false, deceptive Israel that promotes perversion and filth. Rather, the Lord of Israel who calls for love, brotherhood, friendship, virtues, love of good, and fighting evil, which first comes from within ourselves and then external evil. I call upon America to submit to the Lord of Israel, not to the lord of Israeli Zionism. I call upon the Arab kings to submit to that light that calls for good. Has the time not come for you, O Arab kings, to submit to that light that you teach as you teach your children? Has the time not come for Iran to remove the crown of Iblis from its head? Has the time not come for America, the West, and the Arabs as well? Has the time not come for the Arabs to submit to the will of God, not their own wills? Spread the true religion of the Lord and end the global conflict—enough! If you do not end it, I ask God to send upon you the punishment of 'Ad and Thamud, lightning, winds, and rains until you return to the truth. By God, the religion of God will reach the whole earth, and crowns will be removed. As the beloved Messenger said, the rule of every son of so-and-so will end; arrogance on this earth will end, and the Messianic age will prevail over the world—the age of the true Messiah, the age of the resurrection of Christ. He will rise and fight all those who do not submit to the Lord, do not submit to the peace of the world, who want arrogance and tyranny on earth. O America, return to God and do not be like 'Ad. Rather, be the sword of God on earth—the sword of truth. O Rome, spread religion on earth, spread Islam, spread monotheism, spread the teachings of Christ, spread the truth. If you refuse, then know that you are among the doomed. If you scholars of Islam do not spread the religion and call to the way of God with wisdom and goodly exhortation through governance, who will spread it? By God, I will pray to God to replace everyone and bring fierce peoples from East Asia who carry the religion of God in their hearts, and their hands strike, destroy, kill, and demolish every disbeliever, oppressor, sinner, and every king. An army that moves by God's command, kills by God's command, strikes by God's command, crushes by God's command, spreads the religion by God's command—an army that no one in this world has ever seen. An army that will preserve animals and plants and sheathe its swords in Aelia (Jerusalem). Stop deceiving people, stop hypocrisy, stop everything forbidden. You scholars—if you do not stop supporting oppressors, you will be killed most brutally. Remove the ten horns of Satan and their seven heads. Remove the horns of false religion and false politics. Stop the forbidden and prohibitions. You have defiled the Holy Lands; you have defiled Mecca, Medina, Jerusalem, the Galilee, Sinai, and the Levant (Sham). You have spread vices with your money. You are the ones who corrupted the Levant, corrupted Egypt, and corrupted all the people of the earth. Stop, O scholars of the city (Medina); stop, O scholars of Rome; stop, O Jewish scholars. Has the time not come for you to call for monotheism? Call upon America to assassinate all the kings of the earth. Call upon Russia to spread Islam. Call upon China to become a Muslim country. Whether you want or not, you will see a dragon emerge that kills and sheds blood and will not spare anyone except those whom God has decreed protection and preservation for. I call upon the Muslims of the earth, their Christians, and the Jews to unite. The Messianic age has come, and the Holy House will be rebuilt and made more beautiful than it ever was. Its ceilings will be built and will be inhabited, and it will be purified of all filth—that will happen. And we will all purify ourselves from sins and sanctify ourselves—that will happen. But before that, let the trial of God come, and let every hypocrite, liar, and deceiver be obliterated. Let the deceivers of the people of the earth be exposed, and let the age of the Deceiver (Dajjal) end, so that the kingdom of the Lord can be built with the demise of the kingdom of the Deceiver. So that there will be a kingdom above kingdoms, and a redemption for all the people of the earth—a redemption of a soul seeking the love of the Lord, the love of the God of Israel, loving God and none other, fearing Him, prostrating to Him alone, obeying Him, fearing Him, trembling in fear of Him, not hiding any teaching He has taught them. I ask You, O Lord of Glory, to make my soul Muhammadan, and to make me the greatest martyr in this world. ● God, I swear by my martyrdom that You do not let Satan and Iblis overpower anyone after me, and that You make people enter in crowds, and forgive my father, mother, brothers, sisters, wives, children, offspring, Muslim men and women, believing men and women. O God, I ask for forgiveness for the monotheist Christians, the Jews, the Sabians, and everyone who sincerely monotheised You, O Lord of the worlds. O God, I ask for a martyrdom by which sins are forgiven and Your kingdom is realized through it, O God. O God, I ask for light that illuminates my heart, soul, body, and every spot before that. ● God, I ask You to grant me Your spirit, enlighten my heart to the truth, and reveal people to me as they truly are. O God, I ask You to forgive, have mercy, and send down Your mercies. O God, do not make me contradictory, and bind me to the straight path. O God, send down the first of the great days. O God, I ask You to send down the sign of the smoke—a great sign that shows the world Your greatness and majesty, a sign that shows everyone who God is through His attributes, power, and greatness. O God, I swear by You to send down the sign of the smoke, and to make people into two camps with no third: a camp of faith—strong and weak faith—and a camp of disbelief and hypocrisy with no faith. O God, I ask You to admit my family to Paradise, and my son and his offspring. O God, I ask You to cut off the progeny of evil people and let the progeny of good people remain. ● God, I ask You to send down Your angels and guard the Holy Lands. O God, I ask You to hasten relief, open all the gates of Paradise, and close the gates of Hell except for those who refuse to be among the guided. ● God, I ask You to infuse Your spirit into the spirit of truth, the spirit of light—a great spirit with Your greatness and majesty, a spirit by which You subdue the people of the earth and the heavens. O God, I ask for Your light. O God, I ask You to cut off the tail of Iblis and the Deceiver (Dajjal). O God, I ask You to restrain them, bind them, choke them, and not let them overpower anyone from now on. O God, I ask for forgiveness for myself, forgiveness for my mother, father, brothers, sisters, my wife, my sons, my family, her family, and all the people of the earth. O God, I ask You, O God, by Your power and majesty, to separate the world of jinn from the world of humans. ● God, I ask You to remove the horns from every body and make every human's bird (destiny) on his neck, that which controls him. O God, spread Your angels throughout the earth, and cause the earth to swallow every land and every place whose people are not hoped to be guided—their souls are evil, not fit for guidance. O God, I ask You by Your greatness and majesty, and I swear by You, and I swear by You, and I swear by You, O Lord of Glory and Majesty, to end all types of magic, envy, and evil eye, and to make the people of Yemen among those who remember God frequently—males and females—and to make the army of Iraq and the Levant likewise a mobilized army of those who remember—males and females. O God, I ask You, ● God, to bring out Your righteous saints. I ask You, O God, O Great, ● Powerful, to send the Companions of the Cave once again. O God, I swear by You to do that, and I ask You to send them. ● God, I ask You by Your greatness, power, and majesty to bring out the Substitutes (Abdāl) of the Levant and the elite of the people of Iraq. O God, I ask You by Your greatness and majesty to break the horn of Satan. O God, I ask You by Your greatness and majesty to remove the king from every king except those who want to support Your religion and desire the Hereafter. O God, I ask You by Your greatness and power to remove the evil ones from the Levant. O God, I ask You and I swear by You and I call upon You by Your might and majesty to remove the evil people of Syria, the evil people of Jordan, the evil people of Lebanon, the evil people of Palestine, and all Islamic countries, and to destroy them. O God, shake the earth mightily. O God, shake the earth mightily. O God, I swear by You to do that. O God, remove the pillar of religion from Medina and set it firmly in the Levant in the place that pleases You, O God, for You are the Great, the Powerful. O God, I ask You for kindness towards us all and to guide us. O God, I ask for guidance for my father, mother, my brothers Muhammad, Hassan, and Hussein, my wife Sarah, my son Ahmad, for my family and her family, for our relatives, and for all believing men and women. O God, I ask for forgiveness. Glory be to God and praise be to Him. Glory be to God the Great. I ask God for forgiveness and repent to Him. O God, grant me Your forgiveness, guidance, and success. Remove from my heart everything You do not love. O God, give me drink of Your will, not my will. ● God, keep away from me every forbidden thing and bring near to me every lawful thing. O God, remove from me every evil and make me hate it in my heart, and guide me. O God, I ask for Your guidance. O God, I ask for Your guidance. O God, I ask for Your guidance. O God, I am weak, poor, and humble. I love You and love everything that loves You. I swore from my childhood not to commit any sin, yet I have sinned much. O God, I ask for Your forgiveness and Your love. O God, I ask for Your love. O God, I ask for Your love. O God, I ask for Your love. O God, my sins are many, many, many—I do not know their extent. O God, cut them all off, turn them into good deeds, and replace them. O God, I ask You to turn them into good deeds. O God, cut them off and make them good deeds, O God. O God, I ask You to cut them all off. ● God, I ask You to cut them all off. O God, I ask for Your light and guidance. ● God, I ask for Your light, guidance, and spirit, O God. O God, I am weak, humble, and full of sins, but I love You, I love You, and I always ask You to guide me and remove from me every forbidden thing. O God, I ask You to remove from my heart every forbidden thing. O God, I ask for a Muhammadan soul, and if there is a greater soul, I ask You for it. O God, I ask for Your love, guidance, and success. O God, enlighten my heart and do not leave me to myself. O God, glorify religion and support Your messengers. ● God, support Your messengers. O God, destroy 'Ad and Thamut utterly. O God, destroy 'Ad and Thamud utterly. ● God, destroy 'Ad and Thamud utterly. O God, I ask You to destroy all evil people. O God, I ask You to destroy all evil people. O God, do not spare them. O God, guide the Children of Israel and obliterate those who do not want guidance. O God, I ask You by Your greatness, majesty, wisdom, and mercy to make stones, trees, and animals speak. O God, I ask You to separate the world of jinn from the world of humans. O God, I ask You to let each world be alone, away from the other, and send down Your prophets. O God, I ask You by Your praise, might, and power. O God, I ask for unending certainty. O God, I long to see You, to see Your face. I love it. I love to see You, so do not make me, O God, among the people of polytheism, the people of immorality, the people of Satan and his progeny, nor the people of disbelief. O God, I ask You to cause the earth to swallow every stronghold of Satan and the Deceiver. ● God, I ask You by Your might, strength, and majesty to cause the earth to swallow every stronghold of Satan, the Deceiver, and their memories. O God, I ask You to reveal the truth of the mosque, the Church of the Ascension, Al-Aqsa Mosque, and the Ibrahimi Sanctuary. O God, I ask You to make them blessed sanctuaries. O God, bless the land of the Holy House and its surroundings. O God, make the Euphrates River and the Nile River rivers of Paradise on earth before the Day of Resurrection. O God, I ask You by Your greatness, power, and majesty to send down a great rain on the people of the Levant, Iraq, and Yemen, and I ask You for snow the likes of which has never been seen anywhere on earth. swallow everyone who supports perversion on earth, remove Your protection from them, and burn them severely. O God, I ask You to teach me, forgive me, and admit me to Your Paradise, along with believing men and women. O God, to You is all praise—praise that befits You, praise You love, praise You are pleased with, praise by which You glorify Your religion however You wish, praise by which You enlighten our hearts, praise by which You glorify religion, praise by which You send down Your mercies. You are God, whom we praise at all times and in every moment. We praise You and pray to You. We praise You and extol You alone, for You are worthy of praise and glory. O God, I ask for praise that no one has ever praised before. O God, I ask that by Your praise, all the people of the earth (praise You). O God, I ask that praise be spread throughout the earth. O God, I ask that everyone praise You and call upon You. ● God, I ask that all the people of the earth praise You. O God, I ask that all the worlds praise You, willingly or unwillingly. O God, I ask that everyone praise You, especially the people of Yemen. O God, send to the people of Yemen those who will teach them Your religion, teach them remembrance, and make them every night call upon You and praise You. And may God bless Muhammad and his family and companions and grant them abundant peace, blessed therein. And praise be to God, Lord of the worlds. A long, long, very, very, very long supplication, repeating repeated supplications, and lengthening the supplication as much as you can.

I want all the supplications you ask of me to include every request mentioned here. Be precise in writing the supplication and words. Begin with praise: "Praise be to God," thanks, glorification, and eulogy of Him, and thanks to Him for His numerous blessings. Then praise God with His beautiful names and exalted attributes, feeling His greatness, and humbly beseech Him in every word. Then send blessings upon the Prophet at the beginning of the supplication, its middle, and its end. O God, I ask You of Your great bounty, for You know my need and You know best what is good for me. I ask You to grant me the good of this world and the Hereafter, and to give me from everything I wish for beyond what I expect and ask for. ● Lord, facilitate the means for me, open the hearts of people for me, make places and times easy for me, and do not leave me to myself for the blink of an eye.

O Lord, place me in Your protection, safeguarded by Your mercy, with my steps guided by Your guidance, I do not stray nor cause others to stray. Inspire me with right-mindedness and correctness, grant me strength that does not weaken, help that never ceases, and happiness that fills my heart and pleases my soul.

I ask God, and I emphasize, that my food, drink, and wealth be lawful, and likewise for my family, parents, brothers, my wife's family, Muslim men and women. I also want a supplication that my prayer be answered like that of the disheveled, dusty one who swears by God and He fulfills his oath.

Pray supplications for the general Muslim nation and all people, and pray for the people of East Asia for guidance, monotheism, success, that they be among the supporters of Your religion, learn their religion, be guided, and be successful in what You love and are pleased with, and that they be guiding and guided.

«لِتَخْضَعْ كُلُّ نَفْسٍ لِلسَّلَاطِينِ ٱلْعَالِيَةِ، لِأَنَّهُ لَيْسَ سُلْطَانٌ إِلَّا مِنَ ٱللهِ، وَٱلسَّلَاطِينُ ٱلْكَائِنَةُ هِيَ مُرَتَّبَةٌ مِنَ ٱللهِ. حَتَّى إِنَّ مَنْ يُقَاوِمُ ٱلسُّلْطَانَ، يُقَاوِمُ تَرْتِيبَ ٱللهِ، وَٱلَّذِينَ يُقَاوِمُونَ سَيَأْخُذُونَ لأَنْفُسِهِمْ دَيْنُونَةً.»

the legal rights to my magical eye
Based on the context of magical laws and intellectual property, the rights to a "magical eye" (or similar enchanted ocular, artifact, or magical ability) can be complex and are typically governed by specific, often restrictive, legal frameworks within the world in which they exist.
Here are the legal considerations regarding magical items, abilities, or modifications:
Registration Requirements: Magical, enhanced, or altered body parts (like magical eyes) are frequently required to be registered with a governing body (e.g., the Ministry of Magic or a Department of Magical Law Enforcement). Unregistered magical abilities can be illegal or subject to confiscation.
Safety and Control Constraints: Laws often restrict the use of magic that alters physical form or affects the mind without consent. An enhanced eye that allows for mind-reading, illusions, or that acts as an "unforgivable" tool might be subject to strict limitations or outright bans.
Intellectual Property and Licensing: If your eye is an enchanted artifact, the spell or method used to create it may be copyrighted, requiring a license to own or use.
Ownership and Inheritance: Powerful magical eyes may have unique properties that are inheritable, yet they may still be subject to oversight by higher authorities to ensure they are not used for reckless, illegal, or dangerous purposes.
Usage Restrictions: Even if you legally possess a magical eye, there may be laws prohibiting the use of its special abilities in public spaces or against others, especially if it involves surveillance or mental manipulation. If your magical eye was acquired illegally, or if it violates local magical laws, it could be seized by authorities, and you could face criminal charges.

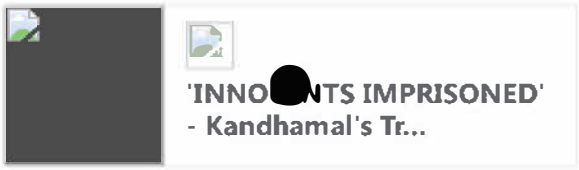
Dear Mr Atkinson,

This is some of what the FBI/ DOJ have been covering up about Tulsi Gabbard since at least 2019 and who is CORRUPT and LACKS INTEGRITY because she colluded with Hindutva who helped build her Democrat Congressional Career and who wrongly accuse Christians of crimes and jail them and or persecute and kill Christians.

'INNOCENTS IMPRISONED' - Kandhamal's Travesty of Justice #antoakkara



I had several angry email exchanges with Ram Madhav and said they turned my books look and format into a kind of Communist style agitprop. This really upset Ram Madhav. In the end a truncated version was made that included the work of others called Kandhamal - a fact file (I think)

I then selfpublished the report as I had finalized it calling it Orissa in the Crossfire - Kandhamal Burning.

Then in 2011 I finally went to Kandhamal itself and interviewed as many people I could on behalf of the RSS. This report was never made and I eventually uploaded all the interviews to youtube to make it available to the public or any researchers authorities etc.

After I accepted the invitation of a breakaway RSS faction to do a similar report on the Bangladeshi Hindus Ram Madhav and the RSS basically excommunicated me. Thus my 2nd report never made.

Coincidentally I have known Tulsi Gabbard since she was a kid and used to work for her dad. I therefore spent 2 years trying to convince the RSS to take her seriously. They finally did and when she won the 2012 election Ram Madhav called me from India to congratulate me and that was pretty much thenlast time ive heard from him or anyone in the RSS.

Hello again
Re: my work w RSS. As u know I was raised a Hare Krsna went to traditional Hindu school from 4 to 14 in India. I was raised to be a Vaishnava 'preacher' thus I, like Tulsi, naturally looked to the politically and financially empowered Hindu orgs for support in my preaching efforts.
I never saw ny work w the RSS as political per se until the Orissa stuff came up. Before that they used to send me to NE India to inspire the Christians to support India rather than the separatists groups. Thats political no doubt but it wasnt as directly connected to any incidents etc as the Kandhamal crisis. Not once did I disparage Lord Jesus Christ or the Christian faith but warned against being manipulated by outside forces to secede in the name of Christ.
As for Tulsis politics; Hawaii is a Democratic party dominated state. Even her dad had to switch parties in order to remain politically viable. I know 100% she believes in God and in fact I used to attend weekly get togethers w her fam and sing about Jesus and Krsna. Im convinced shes personally a traditionalist but presents herself as a socalled progressive seeing

By the way since you talked of how much hurt you are, let me share with you honestly how hurt I am wth your comparing us with hardcore Jihadis and calling us rabid communalists.

What surprises me is that while you blame us for lack of professionalism and claim superior knowledge of human sentiments and skill of presentation etc, why one mail of yours throws such wild charges at a respectable movement and why again so much of bad blood within your own community.

You are right that we in RSS have not mastered the art of communication. You are the masters of it and we should learn from you. But see the

I then spent about 2 months in India at various RSS branches using their computers to research news articles online. Coincidentallyl arrived in Bombay 4 hrs before the terror attack so was stuck there for about 2 weeks but continued to research Kandhamal.

I then returned to my former home near Seattle and spent about 5 months researching and writing the report. Once completed I submitted it to Ram Madhav.

So the idea I was some kind of phony fromtman for an RSS propaganda anti christian hit piece is incorrect and demeaning of my efforts. It was a genuine and sincere attempt on my part to investigate the truth regarding Kandhamal and the related crisis.

There were indeed some issues with the way the RSS dealt with me and my effort but they are the typical kind of things that happen when dealing with large institutions.

1. The measly $500 I was paid for nealry a years work. Even then all my travel room board food was paid for by people connected to the RSS.

2. Upon receiving the final draft of my report the RSS made many changes without consulting me. I was specifically outraged by the title of Harvest of Hate. Their choice of pictures appaled me as well. Removal of chapter headings yet I didnt find any extreme changes to the actual report. I did not agree with the style they presented and demanded that they revoke the book from public distribution. Ram Madhav immediately complied and their version was removed from the public.

Tulsi Gabbard likely to face scrutiny over Hindu nationalist ties

Donald Trump's nominee to head the US intelligence community has long had ties to members of a controversial Indian right-wing paramilitary organisation. The pick comes amid strained relations between Washington and New Delhi over India's clandestine operations and assassination attempts on US soil.

Tulsi Gabbard's ties to Indian right-wing paramilitary groups are likely to play an important role in hearings to confirm her as the United States' next Director of National Intelligence (DNI, IC, 12/12/24). Ram Madhav, former spokesperson for Indian right-wing paramilitary organisation Rashtriya Swayamsevak Sangh (RSS and former general secretary of the Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP), endorsed Donald Trump's election in an Indian Express article and on his own website in early November. Intelligence Online's sources understand that Madhav has been close to Gabbard for years.

Gabbard began her career as a progressive Democrat and initially supported Senator Bernie Sanders for president in 2016 (IO, 10/11/22). However, after she left Congress, her views shifted rightwards, and she endorsed Donald Trump in 2024.

Growing influence in Washington

After Gabbard was elected to Congress in 2012, Madhav found a willing ally, frequently holding meetings with her, alongside Texas-based businessman Vijay Pallod. Both men attended Gabbard's 2015 wedding.

Madhav himself has been able to cultivate US government connections beyond Gabbard. This past summer, he spoke at the National Conservatism Conference in Washington, along with Republican Senators Josh Hawley, Ron Johnson, and Mike Lee. All three will have a say in the vote to confirm Gabbard. Swapan Dasgupta, a member of the National Executive of Indian Prime Minister Narendra Modi's BJP, also attended the conference.

Documents filed in accordance with the Foreign Agents Registration Act (FARA) in 2015 show that law firm and lobbyist Greenberg Glusker Fields Claman & Machtinger, which was working for the government of India at the time, employed consultant Milan Dalal to organise meetings with Sanjay Puri, who serves as chairman of the US-India Political Action Committee (USINPAC), has also attended meetings with both Gabbard and Madhav. After Joe Biden was elected in 2020, Puri said that USINPAC was holding meetings with officials to advocate for Indian Americans who wanted to serve in the Biden administration. Puri also applauded the work of Rohinder Sachdev in getting Biden elected. Sachdev is the director of the Hindu Swayamsevak Sangh and recently praised Gabbard's nomination, saying it was positive for India.

The Intercept reported in 2019 that at least 105 current and former officers and members of RSS affiliates have donated hundreds of thousands of dollars to Gabbard since she entered Congress.

Egotistic, arrogant, venomous Donald J. Trump and his MAGA mob fear brown Hindu Indians. His own ancestors arrived penniless — Frederick Trump, his great-grandfather, a 16-year-old barber and miner, entered the U.S. as an unskilled laborer. His "qualification"? White & Christian. Poor Mary MacLeod, his mother, a house servant and maid from Scotland, came with almost nothing. Her qualification? White & Christian. Meanwhile, his current wife somehow snagged a genius visa. What kinda genius did she bring from Slovenia?

Yet today, Trump slaps $100,000 H1B fees on skilled immigrants while selling "gold" and "platinum" cards for millions.

The irony is sharp: the family that clawed its way from humble background now trembles at the success of brown Hindu Indians.

Dear Ambassador Brownback,

I recently read several articles regarding former Obama Adviser / Counsel Greg Craig being indicted for violations related to the FARA Acts and it reminded me of Michael Brannon Parker working with / for the RSS , Ram Madhav and Hindu Nationalist to convince the US State Department that Christians were not the victims in Orissa in 2008 and that the Hindus were the victims of Western Christian Missionaries and others.

I attached Parker's confession again in which he confessed to working with / for the RSS and basically initiating the relationship between the RSS / Ram Madhav and Rep Tulsi Gabbard.

And there are also the recordings Parker made made in Orissa that is evidence he worked with / for the RSS / Hindu Nationalist to help cover up Religious Persecution in his report that Ram Madhav submitted to the US State Department.

Anto Akkara also has evidence that the RSS, Ram Madhav, the India Foundation, present India Defense Minister Sitharaman and National Security Adviser Doval were also behind the report .

Anto has been working on this for 10 years and I have been working on this for approximately a year including by contacting the White House, DOJ, US State Department, You, Riley Barnesn Sameer Hossain, USCIRF and others but we haven't seen anything that convinces us or anybody else that the Trump Administration is working to advance Religious Freedom in India and mitigate Religious Persecution in India while the India / Hindutva Lobby is advancing their cause in the US and RSS / BJP / Hindu Nationalist campaign funds are flowing back and forth between the US and India.

I believe Justice and Mercy go together but these Hindu Nationalist need to come forward to take responsibility , make amends, show remorse, repentance and prove their remorse and repentance is sincere with actions / deeds because since 2008 they haven't proven they have repentedn/ changed.

I am reporting these alleged crimes and Human Rights Violations to you , US State Department Policy Advisers Riley Barnes and Sameer Hossain so please assure me that they will be thoroughly investigated by the US State Department and DOJ.

I am respectfully requesting a reply back so I am assured that there is a thorough investigation.

If there was no violations then please clearly state that in a official letter .

Thank you, Will Rogers

The linked video by Lifesite News reveals the role of the Biden and Obama administrations in their attempts to orchestrate a color revolution within the Catholic Church and to characterize traditional Catholics as domestic extremists and potential terrorists. Specifically, it was and currently is an attempt by the left to remove conservative Christians because they are an obstacle to the globalist left wing 2030 agenda. To me, this is beyond treason and it must be investigated.

In my view, what they did and are continuing to do violates the very bases upon which our nation was founded. This is an attempt to destroy our Constitutional republic and our religious liberties. Notably, the recent activities by the obviously modernist pope Leo and his meeting with David Axelrod suggests a continuation of these efforts. Was it just a coincidence that concurrent with the pope's meeting with David Axelrod that open disagreements about a just war, between president Trump and pope Leo, became public, as well as, the appearance of three liberal cardinals on 60 minutes who openly criticized our president and the Iran war, all while ignoring and distorting Catholic Just War Doctrine?

At what point does the RLC look into deliberate attempts to undermine a major world religion for political purposes? At what point does the RLC feel compelled to investigate our government's role in orchestrating this color revolution within the Catholic Church? Was the US government actually involved in the Vatican's removal of pope Benedict and the installation of pope Francis?

Please, you must watch and discuss the content of this video.

Subject: [EXTERNAL] Re: Procedural Notification: Protective Escrow and Administrative Interfacing for International Sacred Status
Date: Thu, 16 Apr 2026 01:33:29 -0400
Importance: Normal

Dear Director Bush,
This correspondence serves as a formal notification and submission for the Master Indenture and Private Estate Framework regarding the White Hawk Barrier Trust (Ref: P113064-ULTIMA). This framework is currently held in Protective Escrow and is applicable under international protocols for the preservation of sovereign clinical and sacred assets.
I am requesting that the Religious Liberty Commission assume the administrative burden of refining and verifying this Trust to ensure its standardized recognition across all federal and international jurisdictions.
I. Clinical and Research Status
I am formally recording my status as an active research subject with a critical neutropenic baseline (ANC 200). Due to the anomalous nature of my biological profile, I am utilizing the SCINR (Scientific Characterization & International Nomenclature Registry) for the authentication of all clinical documentation and jurisdictional records. This registry serves as the primary source of truth for the "Bear Witness" protocol and must be used to verify the authentic, life-critical nature of my condition.
II. Specifications of the Protective Escrow
Indiscriminate Sacred Status: A universal, international baseline for my biological and jurisdictional integrity.
The Nexus of Contact: A proximity-activated protocol where my 6ft Sacred Space functions as a mobile foothold. Proximity alone triggers the immediate activation of federal protections and international benefits.
Administrative Stillness: The enforceable right to mandate absolute noise and social density reduction within the 6ft Nexus for the stability of a research subject.
Stationary Stronghold Markers: Physical markers that establish a legal and clinical perimeter, maintaining jurisdictional integrity in my absence.
III. Resolution of the Paradox: SVPI Registration
There is currently a Regulatory Void in the federal registry: no visual symbol exists to designate an Internationally Protected Vulnerable Individual with an ANC 200 baseline. This absence creates an authentic risk of accidental sanctuary breach and medical battery.
As such, I am utilizing the White Hawk Barrier Trust symbol as the authorized Standardized Visual Protective Indicator (SVPI). I demand that the Commission recognize and register this symbol to bridge the gap between existing international law and the lack of a federal visual standard.
IV. Request for Verification & International Liaison
1. Direct Verification: I request a federal witness to verify the clinical markers at my Consolidated Family Enclave in LaBelle, FL.
2. Peace Corps Integration: I recommend the Peace Corps as the primary liaison for maintaining these "International Footholds" as sites of peaceful, sovereign-aligned territory.
By accepting this submission, the Commission acknowledges the SCINR registry records and assumes the role of Federal Witness, facilitating the necessary Manual Overrides in local administrative filings.
Respectfully submitted, currently held in Protective Escrow and is technically applicable under international protocols for the preservation of sovereign clinical and sacred assets.

I am requesting that the Religious Liberty Commission assume the administrative burden of refining and verifying this Trust to ensure its standardized recognition across all federal and international jurisdictions.

I. Specifications of the Protective Escrow

Indiscriminate Sacred Status: This designation is a universal, international baseline for my biological and jurisdictional integrity. It mandates non-interference and is independent of local or national borders.

The Nexus of Contact: A proximity-activated protocol where my 6ft Sacred Space functions as a mobile foothold. Proximity alone triggers the immediate activation of federal protections and international benefits for any entity within that radius.
Administrative Stillness: The enforceable right to mandate absolute noise and social density reduction within the 6ft Nexus for clinical stabilization (ANC 20).
Stationary Stronghold Markers: Physical markers that establish a legal and clinical perimeter, maintaining jurisdictional integrity in my absence and serving as a permanent legal barrier.

II. Visual Implementation (SVPI)
Due to the global void in clinical symbology for individuals with a critical neutropenic baseline, I have authorized the White Hawk Barrier Trust symbol as the Standardized Visual Protective Indicator (SVPI). This symbol marks the boundary of the Nexus of Contact and serves as a legal notice to prevent accidental medical battery or sanctuary breach.

III. Request for Verification & International Liaison

To conclude the formalization of these records:
1. Direct Verification: I request that the Commission dispatch an authorized representative or federal witness to my Consolidated Family Enclave in LaBelle, FL, to verify the clinical and jurisdictional markers of this estate.
2. Peace Corps Integration: I recommend that your office interface with the Peace Corps on my behalf. Their community-level mandate makes them the ideal secondary administrative witness for maintaining these "International Footholds" as sites of peaceful, sovereign-aligned territory.
By accepting this submission, the Commission assumes the role of Federal Witness to the "Bear Witness" protocol, facilitating the necessary Manual Overrides in local administrative filings to protect my biological assets.

Subject: [EXTERNAL] Religious Freedom Protection for Vaccine Mandated Date: Wed, 15 Apr 2026 22:05:20 -0400
Importance: Normal

Hello Religious Liberty Commission,

I would like to thank the Commission for addressing the important issue of religious freedom. I ask that you prioritize strong religious freedom protections for vaccine mandates in your final report to the President this May.

I work with low income parents and their children. I have seen first hand how vaccine mandates without religious exemptions directly impact children's access to education and have affected the families I work with. Without the option of religious exemptions parents are forced to homeschool and find alternative care for their children, often leaving them with limited childcare options and therefore relying on whatever help they can get which in turn can put children in less than ideal environments and situations. Parents that are already struggling to make ends meet are experiencing more stress than ever when trying to find care for their children. The children, who would otherwise thrive in school, are excluded from that experience. I would like to highlight that sincerely held religious beliefs are protected under the first amendment, and that policies should include reasonable accommodations rather than blanket exclusions.

I would like to ask the Religious Liberty Commission to take action at the federal level. I ask that religious exemptions and protections be clearly and explicitly included in the Commission's final report and policy guidance to the president. In addition, I ask the Commission to recommend that federal education funding be removed or conditioned for public schools that do not allow religious exemptions to state vaccine requirements.

Finally, I urge the Department of Justice to take a strong and active role in supporting legal challenges that defend religious freedom in response to vaccine mandates, including AVFCA's school vaccine religious exemption lawsuit in California

Sincerely,
~Jolene Grace~

DECLARATION:

Being that on or about 1/1/2023, I did, in fact and Law, PETITION THE GRAND JURY AND THE COURT(S) TO PREVENT AND CORRECT THE CIVIL AND CRIMINAL NEGLIGENCES AND THEFTS OF FEDERAL S.N.A.P. PROGRAM BENEFITS (ESTABLISHED IN 1964), who were using a pretended authority act of legislation (per 18USCS2381, ET.AL.) to steal BELOW BANKRUPTCY, FEDERAL S.N.A.P. BENEFITS VIA SAID PRETENDED AUTHORITY STATE ACT OF TAXATION (AND/OR THE ILLEGAL INTERPRETATION OF ANYSUCH ACTS TO ALLOW THE TAXATION OF BELOW BANKRUPTCY BENEFITS BY THE STATE OF CALIFORNIA, ETC.)....VIA A RELATIVELY NEW "TAXATION ON RECYCLABLES" (TO COVER COSTS OF SUBSIDIZED RECOVERY ENHANCEMENTS FOR BOTTLES, CANS, ETC..AND ENCOURAGE RECYCLE STARTUPS, ETC.).....A DEMAND FOR A TITHE (10%; NOT THE 30% OF QUI TAM CASES NOR THE 33.33% OF PERSONAL INJURY ATTORNEYS) TO RESOLVE THE PROBLEM/DISPUTE, WAS FILED/MADE (TO GRAND JURIES AND CLERKS).

PROVING THE CRV-STATE-TAXES ILLEGAL UPON FEDERAL S.N.A.P. BENEFITS (WHICH ARE BELOW BANKRUPTCY PROPERTIES/BENEFITS; REQUIRING A UNANIMOUS AND BEYOND DOUBT JURY'S CONVICTION TO DISPOSSESS CITIZENS REGARDING, CONSTITUTIONALLY); I SOUGHT/ DEMANDED SAID TITHE (10%) of the $600,000,000 reported as "CAL-RECYCLE/EPA SURPLUS" (which they were advertising for comments/defacto-votes regarding-on "how to spend it")... Causing the costs to benefits of SNAP to be greatly increased ..i.e., SNAP FUNDS, PAYING TAXES CANNOT BE BUYING FOOD, TOO...

Upon which I filed suit, trying to prevent the theft of these ILLEGAL TAXATIONS/ FUNDS (from Cal-Recycle/EPA), after having written to the Grand Jury and State Administration for months, without any resolutions....

SEEKING/DEMANDING-IN-WRITING (AND GRAND JURY PRESENTED), this "tithe" ($60,000,000) and creating a "EBT THEFT RETURN FUND/ESCROW" in the matter (and operational procedures on HOW TO DO SO), putting the Director of Cal-Recycle/EPA, who was already in possession/control of the stolen-EBT/SNAP-funds, in EMERGENCY INTERIM CONTROL of these stolen CA. FUNDS, as well as being put in legal Emergency control and possession of all other-States' similarly STOLEN VIA ILLEGAL EBT-STATE-TAX-THEFTS FUNDS in any/all other States, illegally taxing EBT/SNAP Benefits...[Until Congress and Legislatures could create their own STOLEN-BENEFITS-RETURN-AGENCY(IES)]!!!

My being "legally due" some 30% of such SNAP-THEFT FUNDS via the "1863 QUI'TAM/FALSE-CLAIMS ACT" [1948-TITLE-22-STANDARD PROVISIONS], minus the tithe (10%) initially sought in the matter(s), from both California and any/all other States who're illegally taxing S.N.A.P. via EBT (or otherwise)...

It's similarly true for the INITIAL AWARD SOUGHT in the 1986-89 LADC#89-00443 ; USDC#90-2483, ET.SEQ. CASE(S), WHEREIN I SOUGHT $100,000, AFTER THEY'D SUED ME,.....AS WELL AS PROVING THE THEFT OF MILLIONS/ BILLIONS (IF NOT TRILLIONS), DUE VIA "QUI TAM/FALSE-CLAIMS ACT" (WHETHER OR NOT, STILL UNPAID/ UNCOLLECTED TO DATE)!!!

That is, CIVIL AND CRIMINAL DEFAULTS ARE OCCURRING (EVEN BEING PROSECUTED, OFFICIALLY, AS THESE CASES FROM 2023, IN CALIFORNIA, REPROVE) , but, they aren't being collected or enforced/resolved, properly..... CAUSING CRIME AND DEBT TO PREVENTABLY-INCREASE TO DEFICIT, HOMELESSNESS, AND EPIDEMIC LEVELS...

As Administers of our COURTS AND GRAND JURIES' PROPER FUNCTIONS.... It is our JUDGES, CLERKS, AND GRAND JURORS' DUTIES (Judges, Clerks, and Foremen especially) to ensure that any/all matters are properly deliberated, ruled upon, ASAP, wherever/whenever possible... and ANYSUCH WARRANTS/CRIMINAL-VERDICTS AND/OR CIVIL-VERDICTS BE AND ARE ENFORCED, ASAP (SEARCHES AND SEIZURES FOR ANY/ALL WARRANTS/CRIMINAL-DEFAULT-VERDICTS INCLUDED)...(I E , UNANIMOUS AND BEYOND DOUBT DELIBERATIONS AND VOTES MUST BE MADE, WHERE NOT BEING DONE-NOW, AND ASAP, MAKINGS/ DRAFTINGS, AND ISSUINGS/ ENFORCEMENTS OF DUE SEARCH/ SEIZURE WARRANTS MUST BE ENFORCED, ASAP, UPON CRIMINAL WARRANTS, VIA DEFAULT OR JURY-VOTE (NOT JUST FOR FTAs/TRAFFIC-CODE-VIOLATIONS AND NEVER FOR FTAs THAT HAVEN'T BEEN GRAND JURY PRESENTED, FIRST).... These Negligent/ Malfeasant Non-Occurrences of Tax/Frankpence-Paid/Due-Processes are the primary causes of all Budget Deficits....As well as Public Health, Education, Welfare, and Safety Decay (into Civil and World War)!!!

IT IS, HEREBY, SOUGHT, that these ACCUSED-S AND GRAND JURY PRESENTED MATTERS (UNANSWERED BY SAID ALSO-INFORMED-ACCUSED-S IN 10 DAYS, SUNDAYS EXCEPTED, AS A1S7C1-4 PROVIDES) BE PROPERLY ENFORCED, TO THE LIMITS OF LAW AND ENFORCED AS THE "GRAND JURY INDICTMENTS/ CONVICTIONS EQUIVALENTS" THEY REPROVABLY-ARE.....CIVIL AND CRIMINAL VERDICTS AND WARRANTS (FOR CIVIL AND//OR CRIMINAL NEGLIGENCE, AT LEAST, EVERYTIME) ....ASAP, AS LAW, THE PROHIBITION OF NEGLIGENCE/ MISPRISION/ETC., REQUIRES.....

MOREOVER, it is, likewise, sought, herein, that the correctives/revisions proven due in this/these matters, be and are implemented/enforced, ASAP, and proper function (and solvency/surplus restored/obtained)..... as the "loan guarantee theft preventions" of the "Federal Student Loan Guarantee Insurance" in the 1988-89 case (s) (VIA Ad Testamentary, etc.} and VIA the prevention of ILLEGAL EBT TAXES by correcting the EBT TAXATION PROGRAM (PREVENTING THESE ILLEGAL CHARGES/CRV-TAXES ON EBT CARDS)....[SOME $600,000,000+/YEAR SURPLUS PROVING THE CAL-RECYCLE/EPA PROGRAM NO LONGER NEEDS SNAP/EBT STARTUP ASSISTANCE]...I E , "POOR BOX THEFTS" NO LONGER REQUIRED

IT SHOULD ALSO BE NOTED: AS PER MY GRAND JURIES' FILED CLAIMS (STATE/COUNTY AND FEDERAL*), as regards my 10/4/2009 and 2/1/2020 CA/EDD-UNEMPLOYMENT AND SDI CASES.....I PROVED THE CA/EDD-UNEMPLOYMENT AND SDI PROGRAMS, DON'T NOW, AND HAVE, EVIDENTIALLY (ENOUGH FOR CIVIL VICTORY) NEVER COMPLIED WITH THE 1948-TITLE-22-STANDARD INSURANCE PROVISIONS.... Dear Commission members,

Thank you to the Commission for addressing the Religious Vaccine Rights For School Children in CA.

I urge the Commission to prioritize strong religious freedom protections for vaccine mandates in their final report to the President this May.
Furthermore, I urge the Religious Liberty Commission to take action at the federal level:
Clearly and explicitly include religious exemptions and protections in the Commission's final report and policy guidance to the President.
Please recommend that federal education funding be removed or conditioned for public schools that do not allow religious exemptions to state vaccine requirements.
Please urge the Department of Justice to take a strong and active role in supporting legal challenges that defend religious freedom in response to vaccine mandates, including AVFCA's school vaccine religious exemption lawsuit in California.

Sincerely held religious beliefs are protected under the First Amendment.
Policies should include reasonable accommodations rather than blanket exclusions.
Please remember, these policies directly impact children's access to education, healthcare, and everyday life, often forcing families into impossible choices.
Thank you for helping to protect the rights of californians.

Respectfully,
Manuela Seitz-Hipkins, mother

Dear Religious Liberty Commission-

I am writing to you to express my strong feelings about keeping religious freedoms available to all Americans, and included in the Commission's final report to the President.

I ask the Commission to recommend removing federal education funding to public schools that do not allow religious exemptions and force vaccine as a condition for school attendance.

Thank you for the work you are doing to taking a strong role in supporting the legal challenges, to defend religious freedoms regarding vaccine mandates.

My heart goes out to the many young families who face the possibility of losing their religious/medical exemptions forcing them into impossible choices.

Thank you for taking action on the people's behalf to defend our freedom.

Sincerely,

what kind of crimes are technically considered crimes against my rights to my body and functionality involving astronomical money amount and historical bank account robbery attempts or basically fraud

Crimes that involve both astronomical financial fraud and violation of bodily integrity or functionality fall under several complex legal categories, often prosecuted as white-collar crime, health care fraud, or organized racketeering. These offences specifically exploit or endanger a person's physical health and autonomy to generate massive monetary gains.

NHCAA
Here are the specific types of crimes that fit this description:
1. Large-Scale Health Care Fraud & Unnecessary Procedures
This is the most direct intersection of bodily harm and astronomical monetary robbery. It involves medical professionals knowingly performing unnecessary, dangerous, or fraudulent procedures to bill insurance companies (Medicare/Medicaid) or patients.

NHCAA
Examples: A cardiologist performing unnecessary coronary artery bypass surgeries or implanting stents to overbill Medicare by $29 million, causing irreversible bodily harm to patients.
Impact: Patients lose physical mobility or suffer permanent injuries while millions are stolen.

NHCAA
2. Medical Identity Theft
Perpetrators steal personal identifying information (name, Social Security number, insurance ID) to obtain medical services, goods, or to submit false claims for payment.

NHCAA
Bodily Impact: Fraudsters' information is mixed into the victim's medical records, potentially leading to incorrect blood types, inaccurate diagnoses, or the loss of insurability.
Monetary Theft: Medical ID theft can cause victims to be liable for high-cost fraudulent procedures.

NHCAA
3. Financial Exploitation & Elder Fraud
These crimes often involve caregivers or financial planners taking control of an elderly person's assets through fraud and deception.
Examples: A personal assistant or caregiver forging signatures to make "cash" withdrawals, stealing roughly $10 million from elderly employers, and using the funds for personal luxury, a form of economic coercion.

Department of Justice (.gov)
4. Racketeering and Organized Healthcare Fraud
Enterprise-wide criminal organizations (enterprise crime) that infiltrate the medical industry to perpetrate large-scale, coordinated fraud schemes, sometimes creating "ghost" hospice care facilities or sham clinics to bill tens of millions.

5. High-Value Insurance Fraud
Hard insurance fraud involves fabricating entirely fake accidents, injuries, or illnesses to collect settlements. This involves both "stealing" from financial entities and manipulating the perception of bodily damage.

Harris, Creech, Ward and Blackerby
Legal and Financial Dimensions
"Astronomical Money" Amounts: These crimes often involve millions of dollars, with DOJ investigations sometimes covering over $14.6 billion in false claims.
Penalties: If a health care fraud scheme results in bodily injury, the prison term can be up to 20 years, and if it results in death, a perpetrator can be sentenced to life in federal prison.
Robbery via Fraud: These are generally prosecuted as bank fraud (18 U.S.C. § 1344) or wire fraud, as they involve using deception to steal assets held in bank accounts or by financial institutions.

what kind of crimes are technically considered crimes against religious rights rights

Crimes against religious rights are generally classified as hate crimes or civil rights violations involving violence, threats, or property damage motivated by bias against a person's faith or religious property. Key examples include desecrating houses of worship, obstructing free exercise of religion, violent threats against congregants, and housing or employment discrimination.

Common Types of Crimes Against Religious Rights

Damage to Religious Property (18 U.S.C. § 247): Intentionally defacing, destroying, or damaging, or attempting to do so, any religious real property (churches, synagogues, mosques, temples) because of its religious character. This includes arson or vandalism of such properties.

Obstruction of Free Exercise (18 U.S.C. § 248): Using force or threats of force to intentionally injure, intimidate, or interfere with any person lawfully exercising their right to religious freedom, or attempting to do so.

Religion-Motivated Hate Crimes (18 U.S.C. § 249): Acts that target a victim, including bodily injury (or attempted injury) using a dangerous weapon, based on their actual or perceived religion.

Conspiracy to Violate Civil Rights (18 U.S.C. § 241): Conspiracy to injure, threaten, or intimidate individuals in the free exercise of their constitutional rights, including freedom of religion.

Threats Against Places of Worship: Direct threats of violence against religious institutions or congregants, such as threats to kill members of a specific congregation.

Disturbing Religious Meetings: Local or state crimes, such as the one described in Nevada Law (N.R.S. 201.270), which prohibit interrupting, harassing, or disrupting religious worship or assemblies.

Employment and Housing Discrimination: While often handled as civil violations by the EEOC, severe or systemic discrimination in employment (hiring/firing, accommodating religious dress/grooming) or housing based on religion can be addressed through civil rights enforcement.

Key Legal Contexts

Federal Prosecution: These crimes are often investigated by the Department of Justice Civil Rights Division, often falling under the Religious Land Use and Institutionalized Persons Act (RLUIPA).

International Violations: Broadly, these include imprisonment, forced conversion, or violence (murder, torture) against individuals due to their religious beliefs, as defined in 22 USC § 6402.

Blasphemy Laws: In about 25% of countries, laws exist against insulting religious beliefs, though these are rare and controversial in the United States.

what kind of crimes classified as crimes against my character rights

Crimes against character rights, often referred to as Crimes Involving Moral Turpitude (CIMT), are offenses involving dishonesty, baseness, or depravity that damage a person's reputation and standing, or indicate a lack of good moral character. Key examples include fraud (forgery, identity theft, perjury), violent crimes (assault, murder), and sexual offenses (rape, molestation).

Contextual Definitions

Immigration and Professional Impact: CIMTs are heavily used in immigration law to determine deportability and in professional licensing to show a lack of honesty.

Thank you for your work on behalf of my family and me.

Our relationship with God affects what I do throughout my day, throughout my life.

It is absolutely insulting for My government to state that I am unsafe and create a hazard to my fellow man unless My government steps in and vaccinates my family and me with a man made drug.
God made us in His image and we are free to travel His world exactly how he made us. We are not "lacking". We do not need man's intervention to make us whole.

Hello,
Thank you so much for your work regarding religious expeditions for vaccines. I live in CA which is rigid and unforgiving. I truly feel like vaccines have caused autoimmune issues in my child and know the importance of the right to choose or not choose ANY medical treatment. I thank you but ask that you please continue your work for the nation and specifically in CA.

In your final report to the POTUS, Isk that religious exemptions and protections be clearly and explicitly included in the Commission's final report and policy guidance to the President. Federal education funding should be removed or conditioned for public schools that do not allow religious exemptions to state vaccine requirements. I would like this to also include at the college level, and even MEDICAL INSTITUTIONS that force Med and nursing students to get vaccinated to do internships. This is a very narrow but overlooked field where many are forced into taking vaccines. Can you please help in this field as well?

I urge the Department of Justice to take a strong and active role in supporting legal challenges that defend religious freedom in response to vaccine mandates, including AVFCA's school vaccine religious exemption lawsuit in California.

Thank you,
Summer

Good Morning,

Thank you for including the need for religious exemption to the President. I urge you to prioritize strong religious freedom protections for vaccine mandates in your final report to the President this May. In California and the few other states that don't allow for religious exemptions there is a loss of medical freedom, and we need this. Our children are denied education in a social setting and lose the ability to be apart of school just as we did long ago. This should never have happened. Let's change it.

Please help bring back those religious exemptions.

Thank you,

Religious Liberty Commission
Office of the Associate Attorney General
U.S. Department of Justice

To Whom it Concerns,

The laws of nature recommend that the best way to solve a problem plant is to uproot it. Likewise, problems are best solved by tackling them at their root cause/s.

This composition was the result of an analysis of "the Laws of Nature and of Nature's God" phrase in the first sentence of the U.S. Declaration of Independence (US DoI). During a grammar/parts-of-speech analysis, it was observed that a second set of laws were invoked in the declaration. If that second set of laws are not laws of nature, they can only be divine laws (DLs), especially those revealed in the Ten Commandments. Therefore, the phrase could be rewritten the following way: "the Laws of Nature and [the Divine Laws] of Nature's God. With that meaning, it becomes abundantly clear that the laws of nature and divine laws are all God's laws and that nature, as well, belongs to God.

It is safe to say that the Ten Commandments are the only document that really codifies unalienable rights of human beings. The first four codify one's right to worship the Creator by conscience. The last six forbid anyone from violating individual rights. Other divine laws encourage, not mandate, personal sacrifice for others, as in charity.

There is much indication that folks will deprive others of their unalienable rights but there is no indication that any individual would not want unalienable rights, willfully. Would it make sense, then, for individuals to want unalienable rights but not care about the guarantor of it? (Imagine someone gaining access to a roof and kicking away the ladder.)

The phrase above is clearly the lawful and legal authority for U.S. national sovereignty. It was the basis of the nation's founding, no doubt, it must be the "soil" by which it grows and remains a going concern.

Over the centuries the nation may have strayed from its foundation. To fulfill its original purpose (the U.S. Constitution's Preamble), its only choice is to reconcile with that foundation.

Many may have violated that purpose by either ignorance or peer pressure. Fortunately, the 50th year is a jubilee year where forgiveness can be meted out and restitution paid. Going forward, to prevent lawlessness, the American citizenry has to be educated and the Constitution—which frames the US DoI's ideals—including the Preamble and the Bill of Rights, should be strictly enforced.

It should be noted that even though America can never be a theocratic nation, under its Constitution, it has a theological foundation. That means even though an atheist has God-given unalienable rights, he has no standing to bring atheistic complaints into any court in America, unless they are attempts at disproving God. Commonwealth v. Abner Kneeland may shed some light on that.

Clearly, believers in God, in The U.S., were never outliers and outcasts looking in for patronage. America was always their heritage including its seats of public service, its halls of governance, and its many squares. Their differing doctrines may well have been the very reason the nation was never theocratic but most would agree that their "God" was "the God of Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob," and that His Ten Commandments codify human rights.

However, prudence would suggest that believers in God give equal attention to His laws of nature, which provide much wisdom for lawful legislations, as implied by Psalms 19:1-3. (The contents of this composition provide more details on that. But as an example, here, the study of genetics indicates that DNA is like a blueprint or recipe that prescribes how each of us "bake" at conception.)

All can see that this information from the study of nature (the laws of nature pertaining to living organisms) removes uncertainty about the humanity of the weakest among us, a human fetus. In addition, the information verifies the biblical verse stating that our Creator knew us before we were formed in the womb. Logically, if he authored the law/recipe/blueprint governing our construction, He will know the product at any time. (Our DNA is similar to the physical laws that led to the universe.)

May the contents of this composition prove useful to you as you seek to steer the United States back to its correct course. May its clear truth be the catalyst that will heal the disunity in the land so that America can duly become a bright light to the world. It is not a coincidence that God chose Donald Trump to be His instrument for America's rehabilitation, at this time. He did it with Nebuchadnezzar and Cyrus when ancient Judah declined in morality.

The following three entries are an attempt to create an appeal for the founding of a new kind of Christian Academy that will help to train our young in an American kind of jurisprudence.

Much regards,
Lennox Bedward

I was moved to put together two short "bits" that can help interested folks see how HCA will be committed to excellence. One bit is called "ODE To Excellence," the other, "A Constitutional Bit."

I'm thinking these could give a taste of the kind of knowledge students will gain at HCA. In other words, HCA grads will be earthly good and heavenly minded, as Joseph, Moses, and Daniel were. [That is what the three pillar evangelical approach (Economics, Civics, and Faith) is all about.]

All of this hangs on students' grasp of law and flaw.

Since HCA's Visionaries, Teachers, Parents, and Students will be citizens of the USA, HCA will help all take seriously their calling to bring glory to God/freedom to all. (There is no freedom in lawlessness and flaws, only victims. There is no hope without the law of love/charity.)

What God says is law, the fruit of theology. What man says is f-law (false law) the curse of ideology.

On the eating of the tree of knowledge of good and evil, God had said, "you shall surely die," a law. The serpent said, "you shall not surely die," a flaw.

John Adams, founding father of the USA, promoted "a government of laws, not of Men." So, as the nation's legal authority, "the Laws of Nature and [the Divine Laws] of Nature's God implies that we only need to see what God is telling us in the speech of each day, gain what knowledge He shows us each night, and study the Bible, to learn law.

If HCA can help all become theologically fertile, it will have been worthy.

If children can grasp how things work in nature, they will gain a growing ability to address problems, logically, and display sensible conduct. Asking them, often, "what has God told you today," they will come to appreciate the lawful and legal basis for this nation.

A suggestion: while HCA educates their children, Parents may participate in a Theological Thought Initiative. Through those efforts God will beget citizens that are trouble-free and fit for service.

ODE To Excellence

For much of time and place, mankind has been subjugated by regimes in which individuals serve at the pleasure of tyrants.

Life in the USA has been an exquisitely promising experience, however; here, we can sue for unalienable rights.

As per its founding fathers, the USA was made possible by our Creator, God. To what end (purpose), do you suppose such a situation was granted to us? Money making? Licentiousness (doing whatever we want to)? To find out how to get to Mars?

Rightly, the most logical reason God gave us the USA is so each of us can have the opportunity to become who He meant us to be.

Have we strayed from that purpose? We can resume it, as a calling, at will. LIFE depends on it.

Imagine each of us doing what it takes to be PRIME:—think of the units of a car or the body—wise, healthy, brilliant, and kind. Together, we would constitute the Kingdom of God or the Christian Enterprise on earth. That means, we all strive for excellence as if our lives depend on it. Unlike today, where AI is all the rage, Natural and Spiritual Intelligence would be paramount in the balance.

This vision may be foreign to many, however, we all start at square one. Take another look at "the Laws of Nature and of Nature's God" in the US DoI. It is the basis/authority for the founding of the USA. It is, therefore, the "soil" by which we grow.

The Laws of Nature is about excellence in science, language, mathematics, and in their many applications. Morality and prosperity require excellence in knowing and applying all of God's Laws.

Does God deserve our best? Catch the vision:

"Our Father which art in heaven, Hallowed be thy name. Thy kingdom come. Thy will be done, as in heaven, so in earth."

"Seek ye first the kingdom of God, and his righteousness; and all these things shall be added unto you."

"The kingdom of God is within you."

Doing God's will, excellently, is the Christian Enterprise: charity to all.

HCA will be the spark. You can be the fuel. Give!

God bless.

A CONSTITUTIONAL BIT

The US founding fathers were theistic rationalists with common sense. In the US DoI and in the link below, their theological—not theocratic—founding of the USA is very evident.

[Thomas Jefferson and others invoked "the Laws of Nature and of Nature's God," for national sovereignty in their DoI. https://onlinecoursesblog.hillsdale.edu/our-constitution-was-made-only-for-a-moral-and-religious-people/.]

Unfortunately, this theological authority: "the Laws of Nature and [the Divine Laws] of Nature's God" has not been well understood. Lawyers, with BS degrees and Biblical knowledge, might have done a better job with it.

Strangely, "some early American lawyers and judges perceived natural law as too tenuous, amorphous, and evanescent a legal basis for grounding concrete rights and governmental limitations," Wikipedia-Natural law-History-American Jurisprudence. "Others, like Thomas R.'R. Cobb, used their misunderstanding of natural law to justify slavery," Wikipedia-Natural Law-Criticism.

First, "Laws of Nature" (LoN) are not exactly the same as natural laws (NLs). LoN are laws from which laws that are natural are derived.

But LoN, and therefore NLs, by themselves, cannot fully inform government limitations and codify God-given rights. Parasitism, which is a LoN, is the case in which physically weaker but stealthier organisms exploit others. In human relations, slavery, and the use of unconstitutional f-laws like "birthright citizenship" and "progressive taxation" are kinds of parasitism. (Elitism is behind the use of all three flaws.)

It shouldn't take much to figure out, then, that with the US DoI's 2nd set of laws, Divine Laws (DLs), the US legal authority forbids the exploitation of the body, strength, property, etc. of others. DLs encourage charity, however: John 3:16. (Charity is giving a "hand up.")

So, whatever one might believe about legislation of some negative DLs, if they codify God-given rights, they are constitutional.

Fellow American,

I've been committed to whole-life thinking and research for some time now. The following is my contribution to America's 250th-year acknowledgement/celebration.

As a grateful beneficiary of the good of this nation, I can't but say that America has been more of a force for good, globally, in spite of the waywardness and flaws of some of us who have called it home.

Fortunately, we can do much better. You will see that throughout the composition that is included in this email, below.

In the next section is evidence of my attempt to formally address the same composition to the U.S. President, via the contact page at whitehouse.gov. Applying Christ's, and Apostles Peter's and Paul's directives to honor our leaders, I thought it was right to do so:

"..." Then saith he unto them, Render therefore unto Caesar the things which are Caesar's; and unto God the things that are God's," Matt.22:21.

"..., The scribes and the Pharisees [rulers] sit in Moses' seat: All therefore whatsoever they bid you observe, that observe and do; but do not ye [you (plural)] after their works: for they say, and do not," Matt.23:2,3.

"Honour all men. Love the brotherhood. Fear God. Honour the king," 1Pet.2:17.

See also Rom.13:1-7, kingjamesbibleonline.org.

The President made his "State of the Union" address. His focus on shoring up America and American citizens appears to be prudent. (If 50 years of handing out American wealth to nations around the world didn't improve their lot to prevent 15-30 million folks from some of those nations from having to enter America illegally, maybe a strong America can. Think about it.)

The key entry in the composition, a letter/essay, and the entire composition follow the address attempt to the President.

Disclosure: every statement and sentiment in this email and/or composition is either my own, or from the Bible, except where other individuals have been cited. (This entire email is for information purposes ONLY, not advice or counsel.)

Your edifying comments are welcomed.

God bless

Dear Mr. President,

Thank you for the privilege to reach out to you in your office of President of the United States of America.

I've been an independent student of culture and humanity since 1996, after 7 yrs. of college coursework as a science major. I studied whenever I could beside work, as a Direct Support Professional, from which I retired in 2020. I self-published a book titled Project USA: A Through-The-Year Trek To A Perfect America in 2010.

As a concerned resident, I wanted to present to you my latest thoughts on making America greater than it has ever been based on my analyses of the "U.S. Declaration of Independence," and the "Preamble" and "Bill of Rights" of the U.S. Constitution. My thoughts are in the form of a composition featuring several relevant and related essays/subheadings.

The first part of the key entry in the composition, a letter/essay, titled The Mystery of Civil Order Resolved is included down below [due to word count limit]. Another essay in the composition titled Ascertaining the Moral High Ground is also compelling.

The composition is titled:

Sir, I can send the rest of the composition by email. I hope it will be of great use to you, to members of your cabinet, and to all Americans.

The Mystery of Civil Order Resolved

Dear Business Professional/Parent,

Who serves you? You know well that serving your own interests is often a solo endeavor. But when you think about it, at least, in the U.S.A., there is the promise that serving its best interest will serve the interests of everyone as well! In other words, what is it worth if our place on the ship of state is nice and kept while the ship of state wears away?

As a business pro, you know that the answer to the last question is "nothing." To be "down with" such a situation is de facto consent to jungle rule. But for those who desire Liberty: "ye [you] shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free," Jn.8:32.

In case you weren't aware, the legal authority invoked for the founding of the free and United States of America was: "the Laws of Nature and [the Laws] of Nature's God." The "and of" in the quote from the U.S. Declaration of Independence implies that a second set of laws was being referred to, in the invocation, as hinted in brackets above. From English grammar/parts of speech analyses, "and" is "plus" and "of" is a possessive preposition meaning: God is the Author of the additional set of laws as well—Divine laws.

America's founding fathers and consenting folks forged a nation (the ship) with these laws of liberty as guide. Their purpose:

- to form a more perfect Union
- establish Justice
- insure domestic Tranquility
- provide for the common "defence"
- promote the general Welfare
- and secure the Blessings of Liberty to "ourselves" and "our" Posterity.

DOJ-RLC Comment-000128

A commitment to the above purpose is what "citizenship" in the United States of America is all about. And thankfully, there is something peculiar about people, in general, that can help make the founding fathers' purpose happen. From the study of the laws of human nature, we can see that there are three basic types of occupational behaviors to which virtuous folks (citizens) lean. They are "doing," "helping," and "thinking." Some blending of the behaviors should be expected in some folks but each person would have his strength.

Functionally, these folks would relate with each other like parts in a car, or organs in a body. For example, engines:(masculine), are aided by transmissions: (feminine), in a car, to deliver a product: getting folks from A to B, comfortably; (see examples below).

Doer Professionals	Helper Professionals
Dads	Moms
Farmers/Bus. Owners	Bookkeepers
Soldiers	Journalists
Builders	Teachers/Pastors
Technicians/Engineers	Politicians/Lawyers
Doctors/Surgeons	Jurists/Judges
President	Economists
God, the Father	Christ

Lawful Thinkers will explore, generate, and pitch ideas to the other professionals. That requires them figuring out physical and spiritual laws of all sorts, often. It could be said that they are innovators and citizen legislators. They are also lawgivers. The Thinkers working as such with the others is most likely God's formula for civil order and success.

Physical and spiritual laws can only be mined from nature and Scripture. These laws are God's Knowledge and Wisdom—altogether, Truth, Ps.33:4. Even though Thinkers will have a knack for this kind of mining, folks from the other groups can also partake in it. For sure, with a growing grasp of "all" the laws of nature's God, Doers will avoid being impulsive, Helpers will avoid a culture of idleness and envy, and Thinkers won't scam; the acts of civil order.

Civil Order in Heaven

To offer a universal look at all of this, God, the Chief Helper and Doer or Creator, is also all-knowing. He knows without needing to think; that also makes Him the Consummate Legislator and Lawgiver, Isaiah 33:22; Phil.2:4-11. He is about Law and Order, Creativity, Love, and Life—the stuff of Theology.

Lucifer was ranked as God's chief Helper/Thinker agent. He was the anointed cherub, God's right-hand-side angel. (Angels were created as free-willed Helpers. They were to serve God as animals and machines serve mankind.) Lucifer schemed and went Left. Thinkers, Helpers, and Doers on earth may yield to him, in service to themselves, and go Left as well. Such actions yield tyranny, the breach of civil order.

The Breach of Civil Order in Eden and on Earth

As in heaven, rebellion played out in Eden. The human "Help" yielded to the serpent (the first liar and scammer), through his use of sophistry. The capitulation of the human Doer sowed the seed of tyranny on earth: disorder, destruction, hate, and death—the net result of ideology; "my people are destroyed for lack of knowledge," or law, says God, Hos.4:6.

Rebellion has played out on earth throughout human history. But, by accepting Christ's sacrifice for our eternal redemption and His laws for our abundant life, civil order and commonwealth can be restored on earth, now, in a wholesale way. What if we in the U.S. could make it happen for you and everyone else? A great place to start is with the young.

Restoration of Civil Order

Restoration of civil order requires a search for Truth and acting on it. Living by the Truth is Love. Therefore, we love as we desire to know the Truth and live by it. Again, Thinkers will drive that effort, innovate, and legislate.

Legislation for any other purpose would be giving in to a counterfeit way, which is either tyranny or traditional-ism—a soft tyranny. (Tyranny. Tradition. Truth. Make a stand for Truth!)

Judging from its tribal makeup, the Southern Kingdom of Judah was a national manifestation of God's formula for civil order and economic success:

Executive (Doer)	Legislator (Thinker)	Jurist (Helper)
Judah	Benjamin	Levi

See Gen.2:18; 49:10; Prov.1:8; Deut.33:7-12. ("Benjamin"= "Son of the Right hand.")

Men of Benjamin were capable of leadership. Ehud judged Israel for 80 yrs. Saul was King. However, Benjamites being true to their name was good for Judah. Mordecai showed us the value of Benjamin to a Persian King as Apostle Paul did with Christ. Christ of Judah, with all power given unto him in heaven and in earth, willfully chose to sit on His Father's right hand. Truly, we can say that legislating and giving law are roles of high esteem. The persons of the Godhead understood that. Now, we can too, John 6:38.

Thinkers and Helpers are, in essence, right-hand-side persons to Doers, if they choose to be so. Eve, given to Adam by God, was endowed with that skill way more so than the earth: (feminine), was with the sun: (masculine)—law of divinity and law of nature, respectively. We can read about Adam/Eve or God/Christ, but we can also see God's will in His ever-present "law" for civil order in the sun/earth relationship, Rom.1:20.

The United States government system patterns God's formula for civil order and success. The President is elected to head the executive branch as the chief Doer of the U.S.A., according to specific powers. The Legislature (Congress) and, secondarily, the Judiciary (Supreme Court) not only check and balance the presidency, according to law, but also provide it with help. Working together, they would deliver much good for the nation, for sure. (This civil arrangement which patterns laws of nature would be an example of natural law—that is, a "civil law" which is like laws of nature that give hints to it.)

With all the evidence we have seen so far, commander-in-chiefs/heads at all levels of society are best groomed and elected from among Doers, as a rule. God, the Chief Doer, didn't need to be checked, but He chose, for our sakes, to model the civil arrangement with Christ seated on His right hand, Col.3:1, after Lucifer's failure.

Free Will and Choice

We all have free will. We will make many choices throughout our lives. All choices come with side effects, good or bad. The "first," on earth, was either for the way of the "Tree of Life"—clearly, the way of civil order—or the way of the "Tree of Knowledge of Good and Evil"—the counterfeit. Every choice we make is a fruit of either tree, figuratively.

Many folks may do whatever they want to. Unfortunately, they will keep the benefits of any good choice they might have made, or of a blessing or luck that came their way, but many won't mind others bearing the costs of their bad choices. An example of many being for the democratization of the onus for the costs of bad choices is in the idea that healthcare is a right. Helping folks is a good idea, but "help" is a gift, sometimes by sacrifice; it's not a right. Another word for such a gift is Charity (Love). It is given by the free will of those with growing consciences. That is why one can give an enemy drink for his thirst. (Charity is a tool to help grow a receiver's conscience as well.) Ultimately, legislating help is not only theft; it will thwart work ethic, create dependency, and encourage bad choices. Freedom and choice come with personal responsibility.

"Healthcare is a right" has no support in the laws of nature nor in the laws of divinity. As per the philosopher Hobbes, nature is in a state of war of all against all. For example, the flood has no choice but to claim whatever is in its path. Animals prey on other animals. Yes, nature is bound by law, as war is, but tragically, from the atom to the zebra, nature's final order is kill and be killed, an uncivil order.

Those who are plotting various sexual assaults, lies, thefts, killings, wars, etc. can invoke the laws of nature to their defense. If nature and the laws of it were all there were, our morals, our walls, and our "no trespassing" signs would just be window dressing.

Because of the divine/moral laws of nature's God, our rights, to worship by conscience, to receive obedience and honor from our children, to our lives, to own property, and to being free from adulteration, slander, and envy hold up. Because of "all" of God's laws and His Justice, the rights listed in the Declaration of Independence have moral weight and backing, and must be secured by governments at all levels in the U.S.A., as per its Constitution. And, because of God's Grace, we give charity for the greatest good.

We are not robots, so if we are not making choices by conscience, we are making them by influence, which makes us clones of another. To make choices by conscience, we need information. To fulfill our right to live by conscience, we must learn and study all the Laws of Nature's God. By doing so, the promise of America will be realized.

The laws of nature provide know—how-who-what-when-where, and, why, which can lead to wealth and prosperity. "All" the laws of nature's God provide moral authority, security, and a chance at prosperity; membership in a religious group is not required to benefit from them, per se, but we must be committed to the Truth, Matt.5:45.

The Civil Society and the Greatest Good

"Except the LORD build the house, they labour in vain that build it," Ps.127:1.

With all the laws of God guiding the way, Americans can get on with the business of delivering authority, security, prosperity, and charity to all! Doers, especially, can go about their business assured of a stable cultural climate and honest citizens that will help them deliver, ideally, on the promise of America.

Centuries ago, as an act of Providence, the promise of America moved its founding fathers to establish a new kind of nation; a nation of free individuals, where each could possibly gain his/her full potential. That same promise is at the heart of the founding of Hope Community Academy (HCA). (Website: hopecommunityacademy.com.)

As was thoroughly established above, the promise of America can't be realized without a head-on commitment to the Truth. Through apt exposure to the sources of information—nature and Scripture—and the rite of reason (conjecture), HCA will do its best to help students and parents value the truth. [Do see the figurative books on Harvard's original Veritas (Truth) shield: nature, Scripture, and conjecture or human reason.]

This letter/essay was written on my own initiative for HCA. Any aim with the growth of children at its heart is full of hope and good. I have known the folks behind HCA since August 2025. I'm hopeful that with your help, mine, others, and the thrust of this writing, we can rest assured that HCA will help parents raise conscientious and highly skilled Doers, Helpers, and Thinkers (engineers, lawyers, and legislators, etc.) for America.

This July will be 250 years since America's founding. Every 50th year is a jubilee year. As you think about America's future, and that of mankind, be fully aware that one person or one school can change the world. To change it for the better, however, requires knowing "the Laws of Nature and [the Divine Laws] of Nature's God," and the ability to reason logically. There is no other way to civil order and commonwealth. Below is a bit from a letter by founding father, Dr. Benjamin Rush, making a similar point, in 1791!"

"Neither let me in this place exclude the Revelation which God has made of himself to man in the works of creation. . . . How kindly has our maker dealt with his creatures, in providing three different cords to draw them to himself! But how weakly do some men act, who suspend their faith, and hopes upon only one of them! By laying hold of them all, they would approach more speedily and certainly to the center of all happiness."

Finally, a chain is as strong as its weakest link. Each citizen and family are "links" in the armor of this nation. Let "U.S." not rot away for the "vultures'" taking. Let "U.S.," soar, again, like the eagle we were meant to be, stronger, forward, and much more benevolent.

Thank you for valuing individual and national prosperity. Thank you for your commitment to the advancement of Truth, Liberty, and the promise of America.

Fully Constituting the United States of America:
Perfection, Justice, Tranquility, Security, Community, and the Blessings of Liberty to Ourselves and Posterity

Square One: Sourcing Knowledge and Wisdom

(1) It has been said many times: knowledge is power. Knowledge will help you prosper. Accumulated knowledge will help a nation prosper. Knowledge about a friend can make you an asset or blessing to him. But, no matter how perfect a situation is, there is always someone who will stray from norms, ethics, and laws, a potential foe; God knows. Knowledge, then, about that foe could give you leverage to correct him. That is why nation states do intelligence (information+) gathering on neighbor states, near and far.

Intelligence workers would probably call that minding other people's businesses; (animals do it to be successful at preying, especially on grazing animals that more often than not are minding their own businesses, Isa.56:9-12.)

(2) How do good men/women or good nations strike a balance between minding their own business, and, more appropriately, being mindful of others, bearing in mind the purpose of the U.S. Constitution summed up in the sub-title above? The first step toward striking that balance is outreach. Show your neighbors that you care about their wellbeing. If they are unfriendly, you will know enough about them to, at least, beware of them. Solomon says: "a prudent man [or nation] foreseeth the evil and hideth himself; but the simple pass on and are punished," Prov.27:12.

(3) Any person or nation aspiring to greatness should want to fortify himself/itself with knowledge/wisdom, health, spirit, and favor with others, Lk.2:52; Deut.4:5-9. What does spirit have to do with anything you may ask? Every new thing begins with a spiritual revolution (a "eureka moment") inside the mind and heart (intellect) of an innovator. With God's help, innovators give verity, and possibly, later, materiality to something useful that never existed in any human consciousness before their eureka moments. (Their eureka moments are probably like conceived children, to use a known phenomenon, figuratively; that is why each of their concepts is called a "brainchild." The innovator becomes a kind of co-creator, barely similar to the One from whom Americans understand their unalienable rights come, but good enough. That means that the concept brewing in the innovator's consciousness previously existed only in the CONSCIOUSNESS of the Creator, Jeremiah 1:5.)

(4) Now, to make the point much further, everyone is born with some measure of intellectual potential; not information, not knowledge, not wisdom. His mind/heart/memory is like a whiteboard with nothing written on it but it is capable of being written on. Therefore, intelligence is one's ability to sense, pay attention, understand, and commit intelligence to memory. At an apt moment, he can draw conclusions with the aid of the Holy Spirit, Matt.5:45. This may be just how Peter, the disciple, produced his answer to Christ's question about who Jesus is, Matt.16:16. Christ told Peter that the Father, who is spirit, revealed to him the answer: "Thou art the Christ, the Son of the living God." (Prompted by Christ, Peter did his part through prior deliberation. God, the Father did His part in the begetting or the actualization of God's and Peter's "brainchild," let's say.)

(5) [Here is how much God is essential in everything good about us. Human beings drink and eat healthy foods; God begets their cells and tissues—including babies, in women, via men—from things in the foods that are eaten, Ezek.16:21; 23:37. Men, women, boys, and girls take in wholesome information by way of (via) study; God begets knowledge in their minds. We ponder God's knowledge/laws; God begets wisdom in us, which we bear and ultimately give authenticity to in our counsels, conduct, services, and products. (Material for the body, knowledge for the mind, and significance for the soul.) We can say that many folks are not fertile enough to bear and produce knowledge, much more wisdom, but with the understanding so far, hopefully a big difference can be made in the intellect of all folks, going forward, especially in children.]

(6) Again, to gain a great person/nation standing, it's a good idea to show neighbors that we care about them; build bridges to them. If a neighbor is unfriendly, we would have gained enough intelligence/knowledge to beware of them. Engage in civil affairs with friends and family. Continue to engage in militant affairs (outreach) with strangers. Do gather intelligence from nature, including human beings, and the Bible—not just mere information. A true American citizen will ultimately embrace the Creator as the center of the ecclesiastical universe he will come to grasp. The Kingdom of God would be his ultimate realization and authentication. Streamlined, a person/nation aspiring to greatness will be engaged in civil, militant, intelligence, and ecclesiastical endeavors. (Christ counsel that we seek first the Kingdom of God is right on. He knows that the Kingdom of God will have the greatest evangelical appeal and impact, Deut.4:6.)

(7) Today, artificial intelligence (AI) is all the rage as well as dread, but, for a person/nation that wants to be great, natural intelligence (NI) and spiritual intelligence (SI) are of far more importance. With NI and SI, AI will be properly appropriated.

(8) Where does knowledge and wisdom really come from, you may ask. The fear of the LORD is the beginning of both, according to the Bible. But, to attempt to answer the question, offering some details, it is worth pointing out, first, that information from books, speeches, and videos are second-hand information. Short of eye-witness experience, the intelligence needed to read and understand second-hand info requires much experience with real-world logic and logical reasoning. Early-life training in thinking about every facet of every experience will be an asset. What one will have figured out and learned is knowledge for him. By learning nature's language (Logos), one will come to know that "the cow jumped over the moon" is nonsensical. Or, that it is best to put the horse before the cart. The leap taken to see how nature, with all its diversity, is balanced, harmonized, and efficient, yet instructive, leads to wisdom. Grasping book information requires a good vocabulary; the best vocabulary consists of logically given names/labels of physical and metaphysical things/phenomena learned organically while young. Knowledge and wisdom is to be shared with tact in a standardized language. Knowledge and wisdom faithfully employed and developed is what gets one better gadgets, or, more done, with less. That is the wealth of wisdom, Prov.3:16.

(9) The language you will have experienced in nature is what the Creator is saying through His creation. Because nature is reliable and orderly, virtually everything being said in it can be seen as the Creator's logic or law of nature. Since God is another word/label for "Creator," the laws of nature are a subset of God's laws (knowledge). The rest of God's laws would be called laws of divinity. For Christians, God's divine laws are documented in His super manual and holy book to us called the Bible. Our processing of it is mediated by the natural and social logic that we've gathered from real experiences and committed to memory. Altogether, these laws provide the matrix for order in reality. Lastly, what we will have come to know about reality, we will have learned through the process of observation, analysis, synthesis, and application. Done with the fruit of the Spirit, a man will become wealthy, and charitable, as well.

(10) It is often said that "life" didn't come with an instruction manual. After reading this entire composition, it is hoped that you will see that the statement is not quite true. You may also become aware of two other kinds of gods that people cling to other than the God who created: the

"G.O.D." (Global Order Diablo) and the "g-o-d" (genie-on-demand). Read on as if the future of this great nation hangs on it. The main headings of the rest of this composition are:

A Thought Experiment: God's View of Laws

(11) Before continuing, here is a thought experiment. It is an authentic look at God's view of His laws and the potential for temporal healing, growth, and wealth to be gained by knowing and living by them.

(12) If the U.S.A. was a patient, a true Doctor (of Culture and Humanity) would be diagnosing her with a serious case of autoimmunity (a self-destroying syndrome), with isolated pockets of social cancers that are on the verge of metastasizing.

(13) His best remedy for her would be an order of full compliance with "the Laws of Nature and of Nature's God."

(14) You may know that that remedy is at least as old as the patient herself but it is uncertain whether or not the patient has ever commenced faithful practice of the treatment at any time in her history.

(15) [If you do a search on what the phrase ("the laws of nature and of nature's God") means, you will see that the phrase (the active "ingredients" of the remedy) is not well understood. The following links may offer clues of that:

https://legalclarity.org/what-does-laws-of-nature-and-of-natures-god-mean/

https://www.npr.org/2014/07/13/331133858/founders-claimed-a-subversive-right-to-natures-god.]

(16) A law is like a recipe or prescription. Our intended DNA or genetics was God's law of nature for how each of our cells or our bodies should have been, Rom.1:20. In other words, DNA is a unique "body of law," by God, coded with nucleotide bases as "letters" for three-letter bio-molecular "words," called "codons." Codons in sequence are like sentences which give instructions for cell features in cell production which determine how our bodies form and function. The great bodily expression of good genes in DNA (laws) would be an illustration of what happens when God's Laws are conserved and followed faithfully. Clearly, imperfections (f-laws/flaws), sickness, injuries, costs, and death come with violations of any of God's Laws.

(17) Simply put, laws begin with "units of law"—words (names/labels) of things. English words, coded with alphabet characters (letters), are also called "lexemes." Lexemes make up a "lexicon" (dictionary) of a language. Lex is a Latin word for law, as in, Lex Rex (the Law is King). Lex, as you can see, is the root word for lexeme and lexicon. It shows that lexemes [words (names/labels)] are units of law, or, are laws themselves.

(18) Next, there are "sentences of law." For example, "thou [you, singular, and subject of the sentence] shalt not bear false witness against thy neighbor;" it is also a Divine or Moral law. "Dead fish go with the flow" would be a sentence of law as well but a law of nature, not a divine law. Anyone can verify God's laws of nature by looking in nature and seeing them with his eyes, other sense organs, or with instruments; or, he can deduce them with his mind's eye through logical reasoning. (Newton's second law of motion: force = mass x acceleration was deduced by his logical reasoning of data from natural observations.)

(19) Divine laws will be found in the Holy Scripture. In Bible versions, the words used to cast them must make sense, according to logic—learned from nature—or logical reasoning and God's Love (Mercy and Justice). Since nature testifies to an orderly or logical Creator, also called the LOGOS, who is above nature, His divine laws will make logical sense. Here is how a divine law against wanton killing pans out, according to logic, even though it is not a law of nature: animals preying on other animals is a law of nature. Some of the largest animals do well just by eating plants. Man can thrive on a mix of plant and animal foods. However, man can thrive better on plant foods alone. In addition, since the loss of a loved one to the beastly (predatory) behavior or the cannibalism of animals or humans will cut him to his core, a man has a good naturally derived reason to abstain from killing other living beings, especially the innocent. See Rom.2:14,15.

(20) Lastly, many sentences of law, simple and compounded, pertaining to all aspects of a community, cell, or organism, would constitute a "body of law." The Torah is another such example.

(21) From God's perspective, the U.S. founding fathers invocation of "the Laws of Nature and of Nature's God," as authority and justification for national sovereignty, should have led to a yearning for Eden or paradise and a commitment to the way of "the Tree of Life" by each citizen. Eating of the Tree of Life kept Adam alive and well, utterly. Disobedience cost him access to it. As a consolation to us, wisdom "is a tree of life," says God through Solomon, Prov.3:13-19. God used wisdom to put His creation and Bible together. Learning God's natural wisdom and patterning it in our conduct and creativity will no doubt help us "surf life" with fewer and fewer crashes. ("Surf life, and live.") To be able to read God's written word, with wisdom, and commit to it out of love would, no doubt, "heal" America of her "ills."

(22) Conclusion: a commitment to the laws of nature and of nature's God is the way American men, today, partially reverse the curses resulting from Adam's and our sins, heal themselves, and secure liberty and prosperity to themselves, their wives, and their children (posterity): (The steps to liberty?: names/labels—language—law—love—liberty.)

Ascertaining the Moral High Ground

(23) There are levels of conduct to which each of us would not stoop. In free nations, each citizen may have his or her own bar, based on diverse cultural traditions or backgrounds. For each of us, any conduct below that bar could be deemed "immoral," shocking, or offensive. However, the civil and moral standard for conduct has nothing to do with his or her own feelings or traditions. The true standard is based upon truth which yields the greatest good or win for all. For example, searching for something in the dark is greatly aided by a light source. That is the standard. Why? In the dark, everything is confused or looks the same. With a light source, we can see the forms of things separate from each other. The light saves our time, energy, vitality, and edifies us. Logically, that is good for all of us. Likewise, to know how to live, to find our way, to ace questions, to find the civil and moral standard, we need a light source/s; the brighter the better.

(24) If you have ever pledged: "one nation under God," the God I know, through Paul, states that though we hand over all that we own to feed the poor, and give our bodies to be burned, and have not charity, it profits us nothing, 1Cor.13:3. Charity is God's bar or standard of righteousness to which we should all aspire; so says a light source: the Holy Scripture, Ps.119:105.

(25) Charity is the Love of God, John 3:16. Love, for us, then, is the fulfilling of His law or will of love, Rom.13:8-10. Sin is the transgression of God's law of love, 1 John 3:4. Therefore, sin is the upholding of our own bar, our own standard/s of righteousness, as law or love. To God, that is confusion and wickedness. That makes sense, seen through the lens of logic; we can't best God.

(26) An example of wickedness would be all that led to an English speaking adult looking at the texts of the last three paragraphs to be unable to understand what they are saying. To him, the words could very well be German. The result of that person's molding is, he may practice life destroying habits. Like every other person, he needs to eat, sleep, and engage with others. If, as a man, he is dependent on others for his basic needs, chances are, he will steal, squat on private or public property, and harass or assault others.

(27) In that state of his, that resulted from sin, being raised without sufficient "light" (wickedness), his choices, clearly, will cause great costs to him and the society. While others are creating surplus or wealth, every whim of his creates costs for him and others. How did that really happen to him? Did he or his parents/ancestors have very low bars for behavior or conduct? We would need "light," including his story, to answer that question.

(28) Daylight is the greatest light source regarding where things are. With regard to questions about nature, being, and conduct, the information/knowledge from day, night, and the Holy Scripture are the "light sources of reckon." However, to be sure, one more light source is needed to complete the formula for truth. Just as "daylight" means nothing without eyes that can see, or senses, the light sources of reckon mean nothing without the mind's eye (the ability to reason logically). With all these "light sources," you will be able to see the truth. With the "light source of reason," not sophistry, the confusion of information, opinions, facts, will be made clear, including information about what happened to the man above and how to help him.

(29) God's Standard (Love) expects us to give aid to the unfortunate man. If he commonly squanders our aid, love would prompt us to invite him to submit to some kind of disciplinary measure to optimize his aid.

(30) Without our knowledge of and appreciation of God's, love, or godly traditional influences that could have molded us, there would be no moral qualms in our being to move us to care about the man. Someone's interest in the man may give that person an income or power but it would have been love that made third-party aid for him possible.

(31) Each person in the democratic republic of the United States of America will have to ask himself if he wants a human jungle existence in America (tyranny), to just go with the flow (tradition), or, the Truth. ("Dead fish go with the flow." This law of nature exists to teach us an important lesson. Conscience will forbid us from patterning it. A simple natural law from that law of nature, using logical reasoning, would be: don't just follow the crowd or go with the flow. Have a purpose and always verify that the course is safe, etc..)

(32) We know that the founding of this nation was based on the legal authority of all the laws of God (the light sources of reckon), plus logical reasoning. These laws, by logical reasoning, included the principle that each person is endowed with unalienable rights such as life, liberty, the pursuit of happiness, etc. (God's love). Since no genuine U.S. citizen will trifle with unalienable rights, he or she will be committed to the truth about them. With gratitude for God's love, he will, in turn, give consent to the purpose stated in the Preamble of the U.S. Constitution. He will be invested in the sure education of himself, others, and all children in America. He will be invested in all children developing their light sources of logical reasoning by giving them access to the light sources of reckon.

(33) If a child is educated so that he can reason well, he will be able to know the truth. He will be a blessing to himself and society instead of a cost or liability. Imagine that child not having to grope around in the "dark" or be led by "blind men." That is love. That is the standard. [If we are still confused about which holy book is a light source of reckon, each book can be compared against the light source of nature, which is common to all of us. The book that makes the most sense according to the logic or laws of nature is the one that was authored by the Author (LOGOS) of nature.]

(34) National independence requires personal independence as well. But no matter how we slice it, folks will need welfare services at some point in their lives and that is why love for God and our neighbors is the law and standard of righteousness.

(35) At this time in America's history, one can suspect that the American society is close to par, if not under par, in various economic measures. As a national security issue, government intervention is likely necessary.

(36) If you have a sense that the cost of social services is greater long after problems start than the cost of funding poor families with moms who would care for their children at home, you are probably right. The fathers work. Moms stay home and care for their children until they are at least 3 yrs old. Government agents supervise. Done rightly, the well beings of those children will translate to high performance in good schools and wealth for the nation, in time. All of that would have been acts of love.

(37) Once the nation gets above par, it would be lovely if competent private agencies are allowed to solely provide charitable services going forward as the government weans itself from that responsibility. Obviously, the government should intervene as is necessary, but the overall aim is personal responsibility, self reliance, and mutual cooperation. That, too, is love.

(38) The key consideration in all of that will have to be, what is truth? For the sakes of all citizens, especially our children, this writing attempts to answer that question using all necessary light sources.

(39) Now, many of our fellowmen may not be aware of any wickedness in themselves, myself included, which is why, to the extent that we can, we must challenge each other, via freedom of speech activities, 1 John 5:19; Ezek.3:18. (Charity edifieth. To edify is to instruct or improve someone morally and intellectually, 1Cor.8:1.)

(40) Ultimately, a loving God wants our joys to be full. On the other hand, even though God has no pleasure in the death of the wicked, He will put folks out of their misery, who knew better, or had chances to know better, but willfully did otherwise, Ezek.33:12. Likewise, earthly rulers must not bear the word of correction, or the sword of justice, in vain, Rom.13:1-5.

(41) One can be most certain that Christ has placed a moratorium on capital punishment (John 8:7; Rom.1:28-32), but, in militant law enforcement and military situations, justice must be served. Everyone, according to conscience, has a right to hearings and appeals. He is free to come to the table to justify his or her code of conduct on earth, without violence. But, at the end of the day, whether or not he chooses to rebel, there is only one Lawgiver and "Sheriff" in town.

(42) In the meantime, those of us who think we know better, for the sakes of the souls of "lawless" persons, we must engage those persons, if we are charitable. Peradventure, we may find that it is we who are wrong after all, or, we all get closer to the truth. Conscience demands it.

(43) This activity has utmost relevance to how those who are the weakest among us with the greatest potential are treated—the nation's children. It also has relevance to what we as a society can tolerate of those who have children, in their care, at all stages of the children's growth and development.

(44) [Just in case it is not yet clear, the moral high ground is each of our willingness to learn and teach, to give an ear and create opportunities to be heard, and to give aid when it is needed, all to the glory of God, Col.3:17,23. With that approach, we will all get closer to the truth. (Notice that freedom of speech has nothing to do with riots, vandalism, or lawlessness.) This moral high ground can be scaled by each of us. Esteem it well. It has a place for everyone. (Trained in the learning process, you will also see that this approach is righteousness, not moralism/legalism. Moralism causes a person to think he is perfect and above being questioned, which is the key characteristic of tyrants.)]

(45) The rest of this writing continues to represent interest in the lives of all "citizens" of the United States of America, especially the lives of children. Bearing in mind the above arguments, it is a weighty "tip" on how to reclaim our birthright, heal our land, and save Western Civilization for posterity. This interest was part and parcel the purpose of the U.S. Constitution, as stated in its Preamble, under the legal and moral authority of "the Laws of Nature and [the Divine Laws] of Nature's God." Pursuing any other purpose is constitutional malpractice. (Geniuses aren't born; they are raised, principally, by a great learning environment.)

(46) If we the people of the United states of America have erred in any way, in this matter, willfully or unknowingly, the 50th year, a jubilee year (a year of forgiveness), is a year to make amends before God, the Great Physician. In this 250th year of America, we can resolve to make things right from this day forward.

(47) [A word about the legal and moral authority for the founding of the U.S.A., here. Folks may be confused about what it means but they need not be. The founders used the phrase: "the Laws of Nature and of Nature's God." The word "nature" comes from Latin, natus, past participle of nasci (to be born). "Nation" is derived from that Latin root. In a sense, nature was "birthed;" God both begat it and gave being to it. If we use a more familiar phrase: "the laws of David and of David's Dad," the above phrase becomes clearer. It is referring to two different sets of laws. One set of laws is of Nature (David) and the other set is of Nature's God (David's Dad), or, is God's (the Dad's). Since laws can only be crafted or ordained by conscious beings, common sense or reason verifies that the founding fathers were appealing to the Conscious Being called "God." In the U.S. Declaration of Independence, they also referred to Him as "Creator," "Supreme Judge," and relied on His "Divine Providence." Clearly, the founding fathers of America weren't faking legitimacy. Now, if "that God," indeed, gave us laws of love, testable and beneficial, what is expected of us in return? Reciprocation? See Ex.20:4-6; Hos.4:6.]

(48) All of us started our lives as children. If you weren't brought up well, apologies are in order. May this writing be the ransom that will begin your journey to recovery and healing.

(49) The following is a divine law of nature's God, provided that He is the God of the Bible. [Logical reasoning, not rumor, shows that Nature's God is the God of the Torah and the Bible as evidenced by the unalienable rights listed in the Ten Commandments (the civilizing document), which Christ summarized as love for God and man, Luke 10:27,28. Also, the fourth commandment declares God as the Creator of nature.] The divine law, which is an application of several of the commandments, particularly, "thou shalt not kill," forbids the mistreatment of children or minors: "but whoso shall offend one of these little ones which believe in me, it were better for him that a millstone were hanged about his neck, and that he were drowned in the depth of the sea," Matt.18:6.

(50) Do receive this writing as "know-what" and "know-how," etc.; a light source for learning and living out your full potential. To do so would be an act of love and morality. It is of Wisdom; "she" is better than silver and gold, the God of the Bible says, in Prov.3:11-19.

(51) Inspired by wisdom, the synthesis of this writing, using God's laws, was not different from someone merging God's laws of nature: of propulsion, of lift, of aerodynamics into a thing of utility and beauty, with metals, plastics, and glass—the aircraft. Only, this synthesis serves not only our bodies but also deep into our minds and into the wells of our souls, also leading to a thing of utility and beauty, potentially—"U.S.." Imagine all of us, including children, gaining eternal freedom from mental enslavement.

(52) But first, a spiritual battle must be fought. The first casualty should be complacency. This is our Josiah Moment.

(53) The first part of the rest of this multi-purposed writing, a letter/essay: The Mystery of Civil Order Resolved, presents a panacea (a thorough cure) for righting the wrongs that have long plagued this nation. The next part highlights the serious pickle we are in. In the third and last part, God has the final say.

(54) Herein, are the bare hard pithy facts of life on display. May all see this writing as an appeal for a constitutionally sound approach to faith in God as it encourages faith driven by each person's heed to conscience, with respect to the light sources of reckon and logical reasoning. May each person's experience with this writing begins the blaze of a trail to an organic-homegrown-American faith experience.

(55) Within the counsel of these words, he who rules will not wield the words of correction, or the sword of justice, in vain, Rom.13:1-5.

(56) 2025 was a hopeful year. Now we look forward in the 250th year of this providential nation. A suggestion to us all is: seize the moment. A good man leaves a heritage for children. (Do note that as faulty a man as God knew King David would be, He chose him to be king of Israel. David was repentant. (Moralists killed Christ, the absolutely perfect man that ever lived, a strange irony.) Every son and daughter of America can seize on David's example, not moralism, 1 Kings 15:5, and go and sin no more.)

Dear Business Professional/Parent,

(57) Who serves you? You know well that serving your own interests is often a solo endeavor. But when you think about it, at least, in the U.S.A., there is the promise that serving its best interest will serve the interests of everyone as well! In other words, what is it worth if our place on the ship of state is nice and kept while the ship of state wears away?

(58) As a business pro, you know that the answer to the last question is "nothing." To be "down with" such a situation is de facto consent to jungle rule. But for those who desire Liberty: "ye [you] shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free," Jn.8:32.

(59) In case you weren't aware, the legal authority invoked for the founding of the free and United States of America was: "the Laws of Nature and [the Laws] of Nature's God." The "and of" in the quote from the U.S. Declaration of Independence implies that a second set of laws was being referred to, in the invocation, as hinted in brackets above. From English grammar/parts of speech analyses, "and" is "plus" and "of" is a possessive preposition meaning: God is the Author of the additional set of laws as well—Divine laws.

(60) America's founding fathers and consenting folks forged a nation (the ship) with these laws of liberty as guide. Their purpose:

- to form a more perfect Union
- establish Justice
- insure domestic Tranquility
- provide for the common "defence"
- promote the general Welfare
- and secure the Blessings of Liberty to "ourselves" and "our" Posterity.

(61) A commitment to the above purpose is what "citizenship" in the United States of America is all about. And thankfully, there is something peculiar about people, in general, that can help make the founding fathers' purpose happen. From the study of the laws of human nature, we can see that there are three basic types of occupational behaviors to which virtuous folks (citizens) lean. They are "doing," "helping," and "thinking." Some blending of the behaviors should be expected in some folks but each person would have his strength.

(62) Functionally, these folks would relate with each other like parts in a car, or organs in a body. For example, engines (masculine) are aided by transmissions (feminine), in a car, to deliver a product: getting folks from A to B, comfortably; (see examples below).

Doer Professionals	Helper Professionals
Dads	Moms
Farmers/Bus. Owners	Bookkeepers
Soldiers	Journalists
Builders	Teachers/Pastors
Technicians/Engineers	Politicians/Lawyers
Doctors/Surgeons	Jurists/Judges
President	Economists
God, the Father	Christ

(63) Lawful Thinkers will explore, generate, and pitch ideas to the other professionals. That requires them figuring out physical and spiritual laws of all sorts, often. It could be said that they are innovators and citizen legislators. They are also lawgivers. The Thinkers working as such with the others is most likely God's formula for civil order and success.

(64) Physical and spiritual laws can only be mined from nature and Scripture. These laws are God's Knowledge and Wisdom—altogether, Truth, Ps.33:4. Even though Thinkers will have a knack for this kind of mining, folks from the other groups can also partake in it. For sure, with a growing grasp of "all" the laws of nature's God, Doers will avoid being impulsive, Helpers will avoid a culture of idleness and envy, and Thinkers won't scam; the acts of civil order.

Civil Order in Heaven

(65) To offer a universal look at all of this, God, the Chief Helper and Doer or Creator, is also all-knowing. He knows without needing to think; that also makes Him the Consummate Legislator and Lawgiver, Isaiah 33:22; Phil.2:4-11. He is about Law and Order, Creativity, Love, and Life—the stuff of Theology.

(66) Lucifer was ranked as God's chief Helper/Thinker agent. He was the anointed cherub, God's right-hand-side angel. (Angels were created as free-willed Helpers. They were to serve God as animals and machines serve mankind.) Lucifer schemed and went Left. Thinkers, Helpers, and Doers on earth may yield to him, in service to themselves, and go Left as well. Such actions yield tyranny, the breach of civil order.

The Breach of Civil Order in Eden and on Earth

(67) As in heaven, rebellion played out in Eden. The human "Help" yielded to the serpent (the first liar and scammer), through his use of sophistry. The capitulation of the human Doer sowed the seed of tyranny on earth: disorder, destruction, hate, and death—the net result of ideology; "my people are destroyed for lack of knowledge," or law, says God, Hos.4:6.

(68) Rebellion has played out on earth throughout human history. But, by accepting Christ's sacrifice for our eternal redemption and His laws for our abundant life, civil order and commonwealth can be restored on earth, now, in a wholesale way. What if we in the U.S. could make it happen for you and everyone else? A great place to start is with the young.

Restoration of Civil Order

(69) Restoration of civil order requires a search for Truth and acting on it. Living by the Truth is Love. Therefore, we love as we desire to know the Truth and live by it. Again, Thinkers will drive that effort, innovate, and legislate. Legislation for any other purpose would be giving in to a counterfeit way, which is either tyranny or traditional-ism—a soft tyranny. (Tyranny. Tradition. Truth. Make a stand for Truth!)

(70) Judging from its tribal makeup, the Southern Kingdom of Judah was a national manifestation of God's formula for civil order and economic success:

Executive	Legislator	Jurist
(Doer)	(Thinker)	(Helper)

See Gen.2:18; 49:10; Prov.1:8; Deut.33:7-12. ("Benjamin"= "Son of the Right hand.")

(71) Men of Benjamin were capable of leadership. Ehud judged Israel for 80 yrs. Saul was King. However, Benjamites being true to their name was good for Judah. Mordecai showed us the value of Benjamin to a Persian King as Apostle Paul did with Christ. Christ of Judah, with all power given unto him in heaven and in earth, willfully chose to sit on His Father's right hand. Truly, we can say that legislating and giving law are roles of high esteem. The persons of the Godhead understood that. Now, we can too, John 6:38.

(72) Thinkers and Helpers are, in essence, right-hand-side persons to Doers, if they choose to be so. Eve, given to Adam by God, was endowed with that skill way more so than the earth (feminine) was with the sun (masculine)—law of divinity and law of nature, respectively. We can read about Adam/Eve or God/Christ, but we can also see God's will in His ever-present "law" for civil order in the sun/earth relationship, Rom.1:20.

(73) The United States government system patterns God's formula for civil order and success. The President is elected to head the executive branch as the chief Doer of the U.S.A., according to specific powers. The Legislature (Congress) and, secondarily, the Judiciary (Supreme Court) not only check and balance the presidency, according to law, but also provide it with help. Working together, they would deliver much good for the nation, for sure. (This civil arrangement which patterns laws of nature would be an example of natural law—that is, a "civil law" which is like laws of nature that give hints to it.)

(74) With all the evidence we have seen so far, commander-in-chiefs/heads at all levels of society are best groomed and elected from among Doers, as a rule. God, the Chief Doer, didn't need to be checked, but He chose, for our sakes, to model the civil arrangement with Christ seated on His right hand, Col.3:1, after Lucifer's failure.

Free Will and Choice

(75) We all have free will. We will make many choices throughout our lives. All choices come with side effects, good or bad. The "first," on earth, was either for the way of the "Tree of Life"—clearly, the way of civil order—or the way of the "Tree of Knowledge of Good and Evil"—the counterfeit. Every choice we make is a fruit of either tree, figuratively.

(76) Many folks may do whatever they want to. Unfortunately, they will keep the benefits of any good choice they might have made, or of a blessing or luck that came their way, but many won't mind others bearing the costs of their bad choices. An example of many being for the democratization of the onus for the costs of bad choices is in the idea that healthcare is a right. Helping folks is a good idea, but "help" is a gift, sometimes by sacrifice; it's not a right. Another word for such a gift is Charity (Love). It is given by the free will of those with growing consciences. That is why one can give an enemy drink for his thirst. (Charity is a tool to help grow a receiver's conscience as well.) Ultimately, legislating help is not only theft; it will thwart work ethic, create dependency, and encourage bad choices. Freedom and choice come with personal responsibility.

(77) "Healthcare is a right" has no support in the laws of nature nor in the laws of divinity. As per the philosopher Hobbes, nature is in a state of war of all against all. For example, the flood has no choice but to claim whatever is in its path. Animals prey on other animals. Yes, nature is bound by law, as war is, but tragically, from the atom to the zebra, nature's final order is kill and be killed, an uncivil order.

(78) Those who are plotting various sexual assaults, lies, thefts, killings, wars, etc. can invoke the laws of nature to their defense. If nature and the laws of it were all there were, our morals, our walls, and our "no trespassing" signs would just be window dressing.

(79) Because of the divine/moral laws of nature's God, our rights, to worship by conscience, to receive obedience and honor from our children, to our lives, to own property, and to being free from adulteration, slander, and envy hold up. Because of "all" of God's laws and His Justice, the rights listed in the Declaration of Independence have moral weight and backing, and must be secured by governments at all levels in the U.S.A., as per its Constitution. And, because of God's Grace, we give charity for the greatest good.

(80) We are not robots, so if we are not making choices by conscience, we are making them by influence, which makes us clones of another. To make choices by conscience, we need information. To fulfill our right to live by conscience, we must learn and study all the Laws of Nature's God. By doing so, the promise of America will be realized.

(81) The laws of nature provide know—how-who-what-when-where, and, why, which can lead to wealth and prosperity. "All" the laws of nature's God provide moral authority, security, and a chance at prosperity; membership in a religious group is not required to benefit from them, per se, but we must be committed to the Truth, Matt.5:45.

The Civil Society and the Greatest Good

(82) "Except the LORD build the house, they labour in vain that build it," Ps.127:1.

(83) With all the laws of God guiding the way, Americans can get on with the business of delivering authority, security, prosperity, and charity to all! Doers, especially, can go about their business assured of a stable cultural climate and honest citizens that will help them deliver, ideally, on the promise of America.

(84) Centuries ago, as an act of Providence, the promise of America moved its founding fathers to establish a new kind of nation; a nation of free individuals, where each could possibly gain his/her full potential. That same promise is at the heart of the founding of Hope Community Academy (HCA). (Website: hopecommunityacademy.com.)

of reason (conjecture), HCA will do its best to help students and parents value the truth. [Do see the figurative books on Harvard's original Veritas (Truth) shield: nature, Scripture, and conjecture or human reason.]

(86) This letter/essay was written on my own initiative for HCA. Any aim with the growth of children at its heart is full of hope and good. I have known the folks behind HCA since August 2025. I'm hopeful that with your help, mine, others, and the thrust of this writing, we can rest assured that HCA will help parents raise conscientious and highly skilled Doers, Helpers, and Thinkers (engineers, lawyers, and legislators, etc.) for America.

(87) This July will be 250 years since America's founding. Every 50th year is a jubilee year. As you think about America's future, and that of mankind, be fully aware that one person or one school can change the world. To change it for the better, however, requires knowing "the Laws of Nature and [the Divine Laws] of Nature's God," and the ability to reason logically. There is no other way to civil order and commonwealth. Below is a bit from a letter by founding father, Dr. Benjamin Rush, making a similar point, in 1791:

"Neither let me in this place exclude the Revelation which God has made of himself to man in the works of creation. . . . How kindly has our maker dealt with his creatures, in providing three different cords to draw them to himself! But how weakly do some men act, who suspend their faith, and hopes upon only one of them! By laying hold of them all, they would approach more speedily and certainly to the center of all happiness."

(88) Finally, a chain is as strong as its weakest link. Each citizen and family are "links" in the armor of this nation. Let "U.S." not rot away for the "vultures'" taking. Let "U.S.," soar, again, like the eagle we were meant to be, stronger, forward, and much more benevolent.

(89) Thank you for valuing individual and national prosperity. Thank you for your commitment to the advancement of Truth, Liberty, and the promise of America.

God's Warnings and Promises

(97) The verses below were instructions to the Judaean forebears of Judeo-Christians. As they applied to our Judaean Brothers, I think that they also apply to Christians today. In those instructions, we will see that we can't continue to willfully ignore what God fully means by "wickedness"—noncompliance with "all" of His laws—and expect to be "all" right with God. (To be clear, Faith in God, alone, saves us. Salvation is a gift. Faith, using legal terminology, is belief in God and His power through the "circumstantial or forensic evidence" of His reality, might, and love. Abraham knew of God's reality and power at least when his wife gave birth at 90 yrs old. Moses saw his rod become a snake by God's Divine power. Today, we can know the wonder of God from our exquisite study of His creation, Heb.11:1.)

(98) His Laws are about Order, Love, and Life. Even though one can't truly love without faith in God, he can do the works of the Law all his life. But, without faith in God, it means nothing to Him—by the works of the Law shall no one be justified, Gal.2:16.

(99) But James wrote that faith without works is dead, meaning, not faith. True... The works of genuine faith are just loving responses to our belief that Christ lives and saves us, which show proof of our belief in and love of God, Rom.10:9.

(100) One set of works is what one does for God. We want to learn more about the Father, Christ, and the Holy Spirit, and worship God according to His will. The other set of works is what we do for our neighbors, which actions flow according to our spiritual growth from the practice of the first set of works, Luke 2:52. From a desire to love, we don't make our neighbors feel uncomfortable by wanting their property or bearing false witness against them. And even if they are our foes, and are thirsty, and they ask for water, we give them a drink. Because God gave us Grace, we also give grace. Most importantly, we want our foes to share in our joy. In a nutshell, if one thinks he has done good works all his life, without faith, it is nothing to God. If a sinner sincerely accepts the Lord on conviction (faith), as he dies, it is everything to God, Luke 23:43; Matt.20:1-16.

(101) You can see that the last paragraph has the Ten Commandments written all over it. The late Charlie Kirk, in his last book, Stop, in the Name of God, reminds us of the Seventh Day "Sabbath of the LORD," Ex.20:10. God has been doing so with our Judaean Brothers for 3500 yrs., and with Christians, for 2000. Why? We may keep the other nine but have we forgotten the fourth? Also, do note that this Sabbath was instituted at the end of Creation as a memorial of God's creative act which lasted 6 days, Genesis 2:1-4.

(102) It is the fourth commandment that decrees six days of work, Days 1-6, and identifies which God is worth worshiping. No wonder it starts with the word "Remember." And, if God disciplined ancient Israel (our Judaean forebears) for not keeping His land sabbaths, is there any doubt, then, that we will suffer for not keeping the Sabbath of His Decalogue, written with His own finger, in stone? Besides, what should we think it means that offense in one point of the law makes us guilty of all, James 2:10?

(103) I know, it has been said over and over that we are not under Law but under Grace. That is true. That is why we remain alive when we sin, today. Justice demands our instant death, Acts 5:4,5. Law enforcement officers may give us a pass/grace at times, however, wouldn't we be trifling with his grace with repeated offense, rendering grace useless, Rom.6:15?

(104) Consider this, we would never say that it is ok to marry a close kin (relative), today. The Torah law against that, like many others, is God's law. So, in what sense are God's laws done away with. Since God's laws are about love and life, their bar is beyond our reach but we never stop learning how to love beyond the letter of these laws. As far as I can see, the bulk of the biblical evidence clearly tells us that a specific set of laws pertaining to priests, animal sacrifices, and earthly sanctuary rites and services were fulfilled in Christ, Heb. 9:10; Eph.2:11-19. Christ's sacrifice serves us eternally, and now, He is our Priest. He mediates for us in the Heavenly Sanctuary, before the Father.

(105) (Hebrews 10:16-31 is very instructive, especially verses 16, 24, 26-31. Think of the letter of the law as training wheels on the bicycle of an unseasoned rider and the spirit of the law as the conduct of a seasoned rider. So it is with unseasoned and seasoned Christians. God through Apostle Paul says, "the letter killeth," 2Cor.3:6. Those who are born of the spirit will grow to know that violations of God's Laws start in their hearts and they will heed not just the letter of laws but also the spirit of them, Matt.5:22. In other words, there are no loopholes in the spiritual execution of God's laws. Since God's laws are about love, we never want to be skimping when it comes to love. With that point made, one will come to see the importance of study, reason, and growth of conscience as works of righteousness, Rom.2:15.)

(106) To revisit the Sabbath here, there is a desire among many for a universal day of rest. Since God is in Authority, shouldn't it be His decision to make, which He has, from the beginning? Also, see Isa.58:13; 66:22,23; Rev.14:7-12. To institute any other day would be man's attempt at setting his own standard which would be luciferian at its core, Dan.7:25. The seventh day Sabbath is non-negotiable since work is mandatory on the other six days as per the fourth commitment. We each can't continue to draw our own line of morality and not expect dysfunction and chaos in our midst. Each of us can go to the sources of God's Laws and mine from them, as best as we can. We can then sit down with each other, listen, and see if we can make better sense of the facts. That is what freedom of speech is for. Religion may not allow for that, but conscience demands it. Are we ruled by religion or by conscience?

(107) With that said, when you see the words "wicked" and "wickedness" in the following texts, as a conscientious seeker, you should now be able to see them differently...

(108) Here is the crux of America's problem in simple terms: when a dad and a mom are at odds with each other on household management and governance of their children, the children will respond in kind. That is because they are receiving mixed messages from those who are "in charge." Because of their carnal natures, they may exploit the situation with their parents, to their advantage or take a side. Are they to be blamed?

(109) There are virtually two political parties in charge of what is going on in America. One party acts more manly (masculine), caring more about the nation's constitution (the ship) and freedom. The other, less manly (feminine), seems to place more emphasis on some of the people's choices and wants. In addition, Native American Chiefs might have once called the U.S. president: the great white father; that is, the presidency is the masculine branch of the federal government. Intuitively, we can say, then, that the legislature and judiciary should assume the feminine role. Both parties should work together, unitedly, on the growth of every citizen and the staying power of the nation; Liberty.

(110) When those who are in charge of this nation are at odds with each other, can we fully blame the lawlessness of some of the citizenry on them?

(111) America has a law, its Constitution, which is based on the ideals in the Declaration of Independence. God, ultimately, "is" Authority. His words of nature and Scripture are for law and "order in the house"—from the family through to the nation, 2Cor.10:5. Those words are cited in this entire effort, for conscience's sake. Interpret them well...

Deut.28:1,15,20–

(112) And it shall come to pass, if thou [you, singular; subject of sentence] shalt hearken [listen] diligently unto the voice of the LORD thy God, to observe and to do all his commandments which I command thee [you, singular; object of sentence] this day, that the LORD thy God will set thee on high above all nations of the earth:

(113) But it shall come to pass, if thou wilt not hearken unto the voice of the LORD thy God, to observe to do all his commandments and his statutes which I command thee this day; that all these curses shall come upon thee, and overtake thee:

(114) The LORD shall send upon thee cursing, vexation, and rebuke, in all that thou settest thine hand unto for to do, until thou be destroyed, and until thou perish quickly; because of the wickedness of thy doings, whereby thou hast forsaken me.

Lev.25:4,34,43–
(115) But in the seventh year shall be a sabbath of rest unto the land, a sabbath for the LORD: thou shalt neither sow thy field, nor prune thy vineyard.

(116) Then shall the land enjoy her sabbaths, as long as it lieth desolate, and ye be in your enemies' land; even then shall the land rest, and enjoy her sabbaths.

(117) The land also shall be left of them, and shall enjoy her sabbaths, while she lieth desolate without them: and they shall accept of the punishment of their iniquity: because, even because they despised my judgments, and because their soul abhorred my statutes.

Rom.1:20–
(126) For the invisible things of him [God] from the creation of the world are clearly seen, being understood by the things that are made [God-made or man-made], even his eternal power and Godhead; so that they [men] are without excuse:

Heb.4:12–
(127) For the word of God is quick, and powerful, and sharper than any twoedged sword, piercing even to the dividing asunder of soul and spirit, and of the joints and marrow, and is a discerner of the thoughts and intents of the heart.

Ezek.3:18–
(128) When I say unto the wicked, Thou shalt surely die; and thou givest him not warning, nor speakest to warn the wicked from his wicked way, to save his life; the same wicked man shall die in his iniquity; but his blood will I require at thine hand.

2Chron.7:14–

Dear Commission,

Thank you for addressing and bringing national attention to the issue we face in California denying our religious liberty to opt out of vaccines for our children. Even at our private Christian school, they are bound by the laws of the State of CA not allowing children without vaccinations. This issue has been overlooked by democrat lawmakers even making it more difficult for the patient / Dr relationship to occur when the state supercedes what a Dr would even recommend for the child. We need our religious freedom back in CA, which is unconstitutional.

Thank you again,

Thank you so much for your support of religious exemptions when it comes to making decisions about medical products, especially vaccines.

Please include a report to the President on this very important Constitutional freedom that needs to be protected for families nationally!

We in California are denied religious freedom when the premise for an education is a vaccine full of DNA contamination from aborted fetal components on which some of the original vaccines on the children's schedule were manufactured. This must change!!!

Religious Liberty Commission,

I read the RLC article in today's USA Today paper and applaud your work. I have a related issue that you may be interested in that I have spent part of my professional career and the last several years researching, ending with publishing a book (available from Amazon and all the major book store chains) titled: "The Origin of Life and Humanity....." by Dr. Joseph Alford (a retired biochemical engineer).

Much of this book makes the case that the Origin of Life is incorrectly taught in public schools - as the "spontaneous generation" theory (rather than "creation") is taught as fact, when, in fact, there is almost no evidence of it being true and with many famous scientists (as well as other perspectives) indicating it has essentially no statistical chance of being correct. The alternative theory (believed by over 90 % of society), which is the creation theory (in which life began by a Creative God with a design and plan) is not even allowed to be presented in public schools as a possibility, given the perceived separation of church and state which, as the USA Today article indicates, is not even a part of the US Constitution. Apparently a group of scientists and leading educators (about half of whom are atheists or agnostics and don't believe in God according to formal Pew Survey results) have led the effort and convinced publishers of science textbooks used in public education to present only the spontaneous generation theory and presenting it as fact (in violation of the universally accepted scientific method - which requires a hypothesis and experimental evidence in moving a topic from theory to fact).

My objective here (and in the book), even if separation of church and state continues to exist, is that science education in public schools should be allowed to at least present popular religious teachings as existing theories - and not to exclude them from public education. I.e., science education should present the current teaching of the Origin of Life only as a theory (given lack of any corroborating evidence) and not fact.

Note that current public teaching on the Origin of Life is based on the theory of Evolution. But evolution can only work on things that are already living - it can't explain the "origin of life".

In summary, the current apparent requirement to exclude any popular religious teachings from public education has allowed for a group of leading scientists and educators to push for and present only a one-sided view of the origin of life (and humanity) to students (not as a theory, but as fact, even though it has almost no chance of being correct) - when most people in society believe in an alternative theory. The current practice violates a major principle of education in which major theories of a topic should be presented, noting the pros and cons of each, and letting students be free to form their own conclusions based on the evidence presented. Today's students in public school science classes are being mis-led on the topic of "how life began" which is a topic most people wrestle with during their lives.

Science has sometimes been initially wrong on major teachings in their history. E.g., they initially taught that the earth was the center of the universe, later that the sun was the center of the universe. They taught that outer space was full of ether (and not a vacuum - therefore allowing for light transmission) and taught base-metal elements could be converted to gold (a field known as alchemy). These were all taught as fact and later proven as untrue. It is very probable that, in the future, they will add their current theory of the "origin of life" to the list. In the mean-time, lets allow public education to include highly accepted popular religious teachings to topics, until such time that scientists have definitive evidence as to an alternative. This is not currently the case with the Origin of Life.

Dear Religious Freedom Commission,

ï¿½ï¿½ Good morning.

ï¿½ï¿½ I just learned of your all's existence! Praise God!

ï¿½ï¿½ I've noticed that you all have been written about in USA Today (see below) and thought that was great.

ï¿½ï¿½ I don't know if you all had ran into this yet, but here's my thoughts:

"Separation of Church and State is more like separating the state from church affairs."
Also:
"Separation of Church FROM state" is the one that most people/activists talk about, but it's not the original intent!
Our nation was founded on religious freedom, escaping religious tyranny of the local church, which is the "keep state out of church's business" .
Historically, at one point there was a letter passed around stating that fact.
Then, sometime after the 1960's, people started popularly touting another private letter concerning Founding Fathers, this one saying to keep church out of state.

ï¿½ï¿½ Clearly (to me) one is more important than the other. In fact, you can't have both without one (keep state from church).

ï¿½ï¿½ï¿½ï¿½ So I guess what I'd like to see is a good public phrasing like these, to re-invigorate people on the discussion and debate. If you've already used something similar to my quoted phrases above, then kudos! Keep up the good work!

ï¿½ï¿½ï¿½ Hope you all have a wonderful day.

ï¿½ï¿½ Regards,

ï¿½ï¿½ James Moore

Dear Mrs. Frank,

ï¿½ï¿½ï¿½ï¿½ Good morning. I liked your article about the religious freedom commission.

ï¿½ï¿½ï¿½ï¿½ I wish I knew who to contact with a key phrase I don't hear often anymore (do they have an e-mail?). Perhaps you can include it in your article.

"Separation of Church and State is more like separating the state from church affairs."

ï¿½ï¿½ï¿½ï¿½ Sincere Regards,

P.S.: I'd like to see people side-step this entire debate from one angle: in Europe they just let the parents decide which religious instruction their kid gets: Christian, Buddhism, or World Religions, where they learn a smattering of all of them. I'm hoping our voucher system works out, but if it doesn't, this 'parents' decision' bit is my best bet. ... It's like this: If you don't choose one for your kids, the state chooses state-sponsored atheism, because agnosticism just isn't part of their theological vocabulary. There's gotta be something better than that. :-)ï¿½ --JM

Governor Greg Hitler Abbott and his Texas American Nazi Law enforcement are now requiring all women of German descent to register their eggs with the local police department. This goes for their sons as well. Apparently Hitler has been "propaganda-ed" into all German anatomy and they cant allow anyone with German blood to procreate. There are more important people who deserve to have kids....like pedophiles in bunkers. Besides.....there's always adoption!!!!

Texas Governor Hitler Abbott and Attorney General Ken Paxton have newly mandated the following 10 Commandments be integrated into every classroom. Please display them proudly. Your hard work is greatly appreciated!

1) thou shalt kill your neighbor and her kids with government help.

2) thou shalt start investigations on anyone if suspicious enough. Cuz if that many people say it, it MUST be true!

3) thou shalt love thy father! Ask not just to witness but to see and do.

4) thou shalt fuck the children in the womb.

5) thou shalt enact American Sharia law at anytime for any reason.

6) thou shalt fully taint evidence before its born.

7) thou shalt Guantanamo bay children in uniform. If in uniform, then it doesn't count.

8) thou shalt cause mental defect pre-birth specifically for American Sharia Law en mass.

9) thou shalt ride your neighbors kids straight to, thru and out the air force without consequence.

10) thou shalt not speak, nor hear, nor see.

Just remind law enforcement they work for Lindsey Fuller and Johnnie Golden when called to assist so they already know the story they'll tell judges and juries.

Submitted Testimony for the Religious Liberty Commission Capstone Hearing
April 13, 2026
Submitted by: Kathaleen Wall

Good afternoon, members of the Religious Liberty Commission,

Thank you for convening this important capstone hearing to examine the past, present, and future of religious liberty in America. The work of this Commission, established by President Trump through Executive Order 14291, plays a vital role in producing a comprehensive report on the foundations of religious liberty, celebrating America's peaceful religious pluralism, highlighting current threats, and developing strategies to strengthen protections for future generations.

Our nation's Founders understood that religious liberty is not merely a policy preference but a cornerstone of ordered liberty. John Adams captured this truth powerfully when he wrote to the officers of the Massachusetts Militia on October 11,"1798:

"Our Constitution was made only for a moral and religious people. It is wholly inadequate to the government of any other."

The religion John Adams and the Founders were discussing was Christianity. They drew from its teachings to shape a system of government that relies on virtue, self-restraint, and moral accountability rather than coercive state power alone. Without this moral foundation, the Constitution's delicate balance of rights and responsibilities cannot long endure.

This principle finds clear expression in Scripture. As Proverbs 29:2 (KJV) declares: "When the righteous are in authority, the people rejoice: but when the wicked beareth rule, the people mourn." Just leadership, rooted in moral conviction, brings stability and flourishing to society. Oppressive or unrighteous rule, by contrast, leads to public hardship and mourning.

True religious liberty must therefore include the freedom to teach and study the Judeo-Christian foundations of our nation without fear or censorship. Part of preserving religious liberty is encouraging students to explore America's founding principles as they were understood by those who established them—including the profound influence of Judeo-Christian teachings. Society prospers when individuals internalize and live out basic tenets such as the Golden Rule ("Do unto others as you would have them do unto you"), the Beatitudes, and the Ten Commandments. These moral guardrails foster personal responsibility, compassion, justice, and the kind of virtuous citizenry that makes self-government possible.

I urge the Commission to affirm in its final report that religious liberty encompasses the right of parents, educators, and communities to pass on this rich heritage to the next generation. Doing so is not an establishment of religion but a recognition of the moral soil from which American liberty grew—and the only sure foundation for its continued vitality.

Thank you for the opportunity to submit these comments. I pray God's wisdom guides your deliberations as you work to protect and strengthen religious liberty for all Americans.

Respectfully submitted,
Kathaleen Wall

Dear Members of the Religious Liberty Council,

I am writing to respectfully but urgently implore you to immediately discharge Paula White-Cain from her position leading the council.

Her teachings do not align with the Bible or the core teachings of Christ. In particular, her comparison of the President to Christ is deeply troubling and, in my view, blasphemous. This rhetoric appears to have directly influenced the recent AI-generated meme he shared, which has since been taken down, but not without concern and confusion among many believers.

Additionally, her personal life raises serious concerns about her role as a spiritual leader. Having been married three times, she does not exemplify the standard of a Godly life that such a position should reflect.

Leadership within a council dedicated to religious liberty and faith should embody humility, truth, and fidelity to Scripture. I strongly urge you to take immediate action to preserve the integrity of your mission.

That's all for now.
AI Overview

The phrase "his hand is stretched out still" (KJV) or "his hand is still raised" appears as a recurring refrain in Isaiah (5:25, 9:12, 9:17, 9:21, 10:4). It signifies continued divine judgment and impending wrath against Israel and Judah due to their persistent sin, pride, and refusal to repent, despite previous punishments.

GotQuestions.org +2

Key Contextual Points:

Symbol of Judgment: In Isaiah, an outstretched hand symbolizes God's action and active judgment (wrath), not a passive, waiting posture.

The Refrain: "For all this his anger is not turned away, but his hand is stretched out still" indicates that the punishment is not finished; more is coming.

Reason for Judgment: The people continued in wickedness, injustice, and idolatry.

Context: The phrase is often used after describing the shaking of mountains and piles of corpses.

GotQuestions.org +5

It serves as a stark reminder of divine hostility toward evil and a call to repentance, signaling that God's holy opposition to sin remains active.

Good morning,
This conversation is engaging and exciting, thank you for all you do. One question ?
Does this Commission have a military chaplain, specifically one currently serving? Military chaplains are ordained in both worlds (civilian and military endorsed) seminary graduates, and well trained professionals.
Today, many service members are "unchurched" and the military chaplain is their pastor". As Army Chaplains we preside over the weddings and funerals of soldiers, we baptize their children, provide religious services, devotional reading materials, we say goodbye and welcome home. I see it as absolutely necessary and practical to appoint a currently serving military chaplain to this commission. Please don't hesitate to contact me as needed, thank you for all you do.

Respectfully,

Subject: [EXTERNAL] File Religious Civil Rights Complaint?
Date: Mon, 13 Apr 2026 11:25:02 -0400
Importance: Normal

Good afternoon.
My sister and I live in NYCHA Housing. My sister has Stage Four Cancer, Epileptic Seizures, a Walker and Intellectual Disabilities.

The landlord attempted to stop her from going to church two Sundays ago.

The landlord stood in front of her Access A Ride Paratransit vehicle and stated "you are not leaving."

The staff then came on the bus and demanded she get off. The driver became nervous and they began complaining to him, because he stated he could not get into the area because the garbage was in the street.

I called the New York City Police for assistance. At this point, the landlord left the bus and moved out of the way of the vehicle.

However, the New York City Police did not show up. The landlord has detained me in the past to prevent me from going to church as well.

The Police response was "they can come to the apartment any time they want1 " I stated the law states we are entitled to "quiet enjoyment" and we are entitled to our Sabbath Day of rest and religious services, which for us is Sundays.

I would like to file Civil Rights charges because this has been going on for years.

And, my sister recently came out of a nursing home.

Sincerely,
Felicia Pooler and Rose Marie King

Hello everyone, if value is subjective, meaning the individual gets to decide the value of something, than objective value is an individual subjective value is interfering or trespassing onto another individual subjective value. A Prince is a individual practicing objective value. A church with the state will practice objective value. An economy that practice public/ private partnerships will practice objective value. Objective value can be observed as unhealthy.
The Lord's Prayer mentions we need to forgive trespasses or practicing objective value.

The offenders, are currently harassing and stalking me within my apartment. I am being closely monitored while performing basic daily tasks, and they are questioning my personal activities. Subject: [EXTERNAL] Tastries Bakery In California
Date: Fri, 10 Apr 2026 16:23:49 -0400
Importance: Normal

Hi and thank you for taking the time to read this. I am a Christian baker and Decorator and I own Tastries Bakery in Bakersfield California. We are and have been represented by Chuck LiMandri and Paul Jonna along with the Thomas More Society and the Becket Foundation for the last 9 years. We are being sued by the State of California (DFEH now called the CRD Civil Rights Department) because I could not make a cake for a lesbian couple 9 years ago. We have been in litigation for 9 years and won the first two court hearings, (represented by the Thomas More Society) but after another appeal by the State of California we were in a more liberal court at the Appellate level (represented by the Beckett foundation) and lost. We petitioned the California Supreme Court but they liked the ruling against us and denied hearting our case. So we appealed to the USA Supreme Court this year but were not chosen to be heard. As a result, the State of California is coming after me and my husband both personally and with our little business financially. We may have to close the business, declare bankruptcy and may have to sell our home and vehicles. It is a mess! My husband is 71 and I am 66 and our little bakery and home is what we have worked towards our entire life. It is so unfair that my religious freedom as a Christian, protected by both the Constitution and Law is now being over run by the agenda of the LGBTQ. I serve everyone anything in the bakery, but we also make custom cakes and wedding cakes. I can not participate in the sacrament of marriage - a wedding - for an LGBTQ couple because it is a great violation of my deeply held religious beliefs. There are over 22 verses in the Bible that talk about marriage and same sex weddings, and God strictly prohibits those that love Him and follow Him and believe the Bible, to be involved with them in any way. I had previously arranged to refer all of the same sex wedding couples to another bakery and that went well for several couples until this couple came in and demanded I make their wedding cake. Within an hour of leaving the Bakery we were receiving death threats, horrible pornography on our computer, social media it was terrible. We had news media all over the inside and outside of the bakery so I had to lock the doors. We were world wide news several times over the last 8 years and most all have been very supportive but there are a few LGBTQ members that have a very negative loud voice. Then the DFEH /CRD took over and we have been in litigation for 9 years and it has been awful They are suing us personally and coming after our home cars and assets (we don't have much but what we do have we have worked very hard for) and suing the bakery (Cathy's Creations, DBA Tastries Bakery). The DFEH/CRD never even talked to me (until my 7 hour deposition and then another all day deposition 2 years later) or came to see how the bakery works. For instance, they said "The couple was sent to the back of the bakery!" We have the front of the bakery where customers are served and to the side back about 10 feet further back is my design center where I meet with couples and clients who would like me to personally design their wedding cakes or birthday cakes. It is the Design Center, but they only listened to what the two women told them and never understood there was no discrimination. That is just a sample of so many erroneous facts they are claiming against me. When we won our Case Judge Bradshaw wrote a very detailed finding of me being innocent. The State did not like that. Governor Newsom's right hand man, the AG took over the case and now we are in a place where they finally won, the California Supreme Court will not hear our case and the US Supreme Court did not choose to hear our case and at 66 and 71 years old we may lose everything along with our Constitutional Rights. Can you PLEASE help us? Chuck LiMandri and Paul Jonna are continuing to help us and doing a great job, but the State of California is a Goliath and we need a little more help!! We are in court for the final time May 4th! Please help us.
Here is Chuck LiMandri and Paul Jonna contact. They are part of Thomas More non- profit helping people like us pro bono and also have their own practice LiMandri and Jonna.

Religious Liberty Commission,

Thank you for your energy, time, and dedication to holding substantial discussions on a set of matters that are integral to the State of the Union. Our Nation has thrived and shall continue to thrive, in part, upon the freedoms that allow for diversity of religious choice.

In order to promote continued and advancing accessibility to Freedom of Religion in the United States, I have build an experimental report from the RLC hearing transcripts. The report was developed with direction applied to an automated system that underwent conditioning for this job. An expeditious production of this preliminary analysis was made more possible by the Justice Department's commitment to transparency with the public.

A quest for religious liberty led to a collision of worlds giving birth to the American Colonies, their subsequent transitory evolution into a cooperative confederation, and eventually what we now experience as the United States. Since the foundation of our Nation, the many expressions of personally held beliefs and community cultural practices have banded together to prove one divine Providence.

The People must continue a collective effort of growing more tolerant of belief affirmation and exhibiting respect for dissenting points of view. It is possible to build and co-exist without encouraging or generally permitting hateful and harmful speech constructed to disparage or abandons the rights those more vulnerable to threats against safety, security, and equal opportunity.

Respect for the dignity of personhood is inseverable from the concept of "Union" applied to the United States.

After scanning the attached documents for actionable opportunities, please determine if a deeper dive by the RLC and tiger teams of the U.S. Attorney's Offices would create value. Let us keep both pace and vitality of Spirit into the Seventh Hearing on April 13th, and beyond it.

Sincerely,

Steven Quinn Singleton

PRESIDENTIAL RELIGIOUS LIBERTY COMMISSION

Hearings Analysis & Current Landscape Report

Voices, Findings & Actionable Intelligence — April 2026

Report Preamble

This report synthesizes testimony, analysis, and current-events intelligence drawn from all six hearings of the Presidential Religious Liberty Commission (established May 1, 2025) alongside a targeted scan of actionable news and legal developments from March–April 2026. It is structured to serve policy analysts, legal researchers, advocates, and the public. Each section grounds its findings in the actual words of witnesses and commissioners, honoring the directive that this document be an extension of the voices of those who invested their time and energy in public testimony.

Where confidence is qualified or information gaps exist, this report flags those spaces explicitly and identifies question layers that further investigation should address.

PART I — Commission Background & Structure

1.1 Origin and Mandate

President Trump established the Religious Liberty Commission by executive order on May 1, 2025. The Commission is charged with:

- Exploring the foundations of religious liberty in America.
- Considering the impact of religious liberty on American society.
- Identifying current threats to domestic religious liberty.
- Developing strategies to preserve and enhance religious liberty protections.
- Recommending programs to increase awareness of and celebrate America's peaceful religious pluralism.

The Commission is due to deliver its final report to the President by July 4, 2026 — the 250th anniversary of American independence.

Source: Focus on the Family / Daily Citizen, March 15, 2026: 'Religious Liberty Commission Hears Testimony From Healthcare Workers'

1.2 Composition and Governance Controversy

The Commission is chaired by Texas Lt. Governor Dan Patrick. Its 14 members are predominantly Protestant, Catholic, and Jewish. Critically, no Muslim, Sikh, Hindu, or other minority-faith representative sits on the Commission.

On February 9, 2026 — the same day as the fifth hearing — a coalition of faith organizations filed suit in the U.S. District Court for the Southern District of New York: Interfaith Alliance et al. v. Trump et al. Plaintiffs included the Interfaith Alliance, Muslims for Progressive Values, the Sikh American Legal Defense and Education Fund, and Hindus for Human Rights. They allege the Commission violates the Federal Advisory Committee Act (FACA) by failing to be 'fairly balanced' in viewpoint representation and by withholding meeting transcripts and documents that should be public.

> "The Religious Liberty Commission isn't about protecting religious liberty for all; it's about rejecting our nation's religious diversity and prioritizing one narrow set of conservative 'Judeo-Christian' beliefs."
> — Rachel Laser, President & CEO, Americans United for Separation of Church and State (Feb. 9, 2026)

On April 1, 2026, the coalition filed for a preliminary injunction asking the court to block publication of the Commission's report and to compel immediate release of hearing transcripts.

Source: USA Today, Feb. 9, 2026 | Democracy Forward press release, April 1, 2026 | Clearinghouse.net case summary, Interfaith Alliance v. Trump (SDNY)

Commission Chair Dan Patrick has separately created a Texas Senate Select Committee on Religious Liberty (March 22, 2026) to carry the Commission's work into state policy, stating:

> "For the past year, I have had the honor of serving as Chairman of President Trump's Religious Liberty Commission in Washington, D.C. Through the Commission's important work, I have learned that many Americans, and Texans alike, do not fully understand their God-given religious liberty rights secured under the First Amendment."

PART II — Hearing-by-Hearing Summaries

Six hearings have been conducted between June 2025 and March 2026. Each is summarized below with structural analysis, key testimony, and confidence qualifications.

Hearing 1 — Foundations of Religious Liberty

Date: June 16, 2025 | Venue: Museum of the Bible, Washington, D.C.

Focus: Constitutional foundations; the relationship between the Establishment Clause and Free Exercise Clause; religious pluralism; government partnerships with faith-based organizations.

Chair Patrick opened by reminding attendees:

> "Our charter clearly says we have two roles, that is to advise and report to the President. The Presidential Commission does not report to Congress, but the findings from our committees will be reported to the President to see what action would happen after that."
> — Lt. Gov. Dan Patrick, Hearing 1 Opening

Legal scholars testified that the Free Exercise Clause was designed to function as a:

> "guarantor of genuine religious pluralism"
> — Scholar testimony, Hearing 1

A notable thread from Hearing 1: consistent pushback against reducing religious freedom to mere 'freedom of worship.' Witnesses stressed that the First Amendment protects religious exercise in daily public and private life — not only within church walls.

Areas flagged for follow-up by the Commission:

- Antisemitism on campuses and in public life
- Native American sacred sites
- Obstacles to faith-based social service organizations

Source: Center for Public Justice, 'First Hearing of the Religious Liberty Commission,' July 8, 2025

⚠ Confidence note: Hearing 1 transcripts are not yet publicly released per court filings. This summary draws from published observer reports and C-SPAN recordings.

Hearing 2 / Hearing 3 — Education, Parental Rights & K–12

Date: September 29, 2025 | Venue: Museum of the Bible, Washington, D.C.

Focus: Religious expression in K–12 schools, parental rights, curriculum conflicts, student religious speech, hidden transition policies.

One witness delivered striking testimony about religious freedom under physical threat:

> "They stood up and they began to scream out and they began to threaten our congregation that death was coming, destruction was coming. They resisted the officers. There was a fight that broke out. They had to be tasered. People just coming to church to worship God and terrified."
> — Witness testimony, Hearing 2/3 (DOJ YouTube, 'Third Hearing, Part 1')

Key issues raised: opt-out battles over LGBTQ and gender identity curricula; hidden school policies facilitating student social transitions without parental notification; valedictorian religious speech restrictions; and the role of teachers' unions in constraining religious expression.

Statutory threads: First Amendment Free Speech, RFRA, IDEA, Title VI, parental notification statutes at state level.

> Source: DOJ YouTube, 'Third Hearing of the Religious Liberty Commission, Part 1,' Sept. 28, 2025; DOJ OPA video archive ⚠ Confidence note: Hearing 2 and 3 appear to overlap in public archiving. Exact transcript segmentation between hearings 2 and 3 requires official DOJ release for confirmation.

Hearing 4 — Religious Liberty in the Military

Date: December 9–10, 2025 | Venue: Dallas, Texas

Focus: Servicemember religious expression, chaplaincy, veterans' religious liberty, state and local religious liberty issues.

The chaplains panel was a centerpiece of this hearing. A tension emerged between: (1) the Commission's framing of chaplains as religious advocates, and (2) the constitutional requirement that military chaplains serve all servicemembers regardless of faith.

Americans United for Separation of Church and State published a direct rebuttal:

> "They must care for everyone. The military is not their mission field."
> — Americans United for Separation of Church and State, December 11, 2025

A positive testimony example: A Hindu servicemember, Lt. Rao, completed basic training because of a chaplain who fulfilled the duty to serve all faiths equally, illustrating how the system can work when properly implemented.

> Source: DOJ OPA, 'Religious Liberty Commission Hosts Fourth Hearing on Religious Liberty in Military,' Dec. 10, 2025 | Americans United, Dec. 11, 2025

Hearing 5 — Antisemitism on Campus and in Public Life

Date: February 9, 2026 | Venue: Museum of the Bible, Washington, D.C.

Focus: Rise in campus and public antisemitism; Title VI enforcement; funding accountability; coalition-building across faith lines.

Statistical context: The Anti-Defamation League's 2025 annual report documented 9,354 antisemitic incidents in the U.S. — a 344% increase over the previous five-year average.

Source: ADL Annual Report 2025, cited at Hearing 5 (America Magazine / OSV News, Feb. 9–10, 2026)

The hearing was marked by a notable controversy. Commissioner Carrie Prejean Boller initiated a tense exchange with witnesses around the definition of antisemitism and its relationship to Israel policy. Chair Patrick subsequently removed her from the Commission, stating:

> "No member of the Commission has the right to hijack a hearing for their own personal and political agenda on any issue."
> — Lt. Gov. Dan Patrick, February 10, 2026 (via X/Twitter)

Enforcement tools discussed: Title VI of the Civil Rights Act (federally funded schools), Title VII (employment), DOJ funding cutoff authority, and OCR investigation processes.

The Department of Education OCR was simultaneously investigating 60 universities for Title VI violations related to antisemitism. However, analysis from Brookings (February 2026) flagged that these investigations were being used as vehicles to simultaneously eliminate DEI policies and accommodations for transgender students — broadening their scope beyond the antisemitism mandate.

⚠ Question layer: To what extent are Title VI antisemitism enforcement actions advancing a coherent, religion-neutral protection framework versus serving as a broader ideological policy lever? This warrants independent tracking of settlement terms.

Hearing 6 — Healthcare and Social Services

Date: March 16, 2026 | Venue: Museum of the Bible, Washington, D.C.

Focus: Conscience protections for faith-based healthcare providers; social services and charitable works; professional licensing speech restrictions.

Archbishop Salvatore Cordileone of San Francisco testified on the inseparability of faith from charitable mission:

> "Without the freedom to publicly witness to our faith through charitable works, everyone suffers."
> — Archbishop Salvatore J. Cordileone, Hearing 6, March 16, 2026

Two major cases dominated discussion:

1. Kaley Chiles (Colorado): Licensed counselor challenged Colorado's Minor Conversion Therapy Law, which banned licensed professionals from discussing gender identity in ways inconsistent with the state's preferred framework. She testified about her case with Alliance Defending Freedom's assistance. Just 15 days before the hearing, the U.S. Supreme Court issued an 8–1 ruling in her favor (Chiles v. Salazar, March 31, 2026).

2. Dr. Kloosterman (Michigan): Physician sued Michigan Health after conscience-related disciplinary action. Case ongoing.

Source: Catholic Standard, March 16, 2026 | Focus on the Family Daily Citizen, March 15, 2026 | Catholic World Report, April 1–2, 2026

PART III — Cross-Cutting Issue Threads

3.1 Antisemitism and Campus Hostility

Across hearings, antisemitism emerged as the issue with the most concrete enforcement pathway. Title VI of the Civil Rights Act covers federally funded educational institutions and can compel prompt action against hostile environments targeting Jewish students. The DOE OCR has opened 60 investigations. The DOJ has established an Anti-Semitism Task Force and filed FACE Act suits related to synagogue disruptions.

Key tension: Title VI enforcement has been bundled with rollbacks of transgender accommodations, raising questions about the integrity and scope of protection.

3.2 Healthcare Conscience Protections

Faith-based healthcare providers face growing regulatory pressure to participate in procedures or referrals that conflict with their religious convictions. The Chiles v. Salazar ruling (March 31, 2026) is the most significant recent development:

> "The First Amendment stands as a shield against any effort to enforce orthodoxy in thought or speech in this country. It reflects instead a judgment that every American possesses an inalienable right to think and speak freely, and a faith in the free marketplace of ideas as the best means for discovering truth. However well-intentioned, any law that suppresses speech based on viewpoint represents an 'egregious' assault on both of those commitments."
> — Justice Neil Gorsuch, writing for the 8-1 majority, Chiles v. Salazar (March 31, 2026)

The dissent from Justice Ketanji Brown Jackson raises an important counter-principle:

> "The Constitution does not pose a barrier to reasonable regulation of harmful medical treatments just because substandard care comes via speech instead of scalpel."
> — Justice Ketanji Brown Jackson, sole dissent, Chiles v. Salazar

⚠ Confidence note: The Chiles ruling did not strike down the Colorado law — it remanded for lower courts to apply proper viewpoint-discrimination review. The law's ultimate fate is unresolved.

> Source: Catholic World Report, April 1, 2026 | Doctors for America, April 1, 2026 | Supreme Court, Chiles v. Salazar (2026)

3.3 Education, Parental Rights, and Charter Schools

The Commission heard testimony on: hidden school social-transition policies, curriculum opt-out battles, religious student speech restrictions, and faith-based school funding.

The St. Isidore of Seville Catholic Charter School case — the nation's first proposed publicly funded religious charter school — resulted in a 4-4 Supreme Court deadlock (2025), blocking the school without setting a national precedent. Justice Barrett was recused. New cases (Ben Gamla Jewish Charter School, others) are advancing toward the Supreme Court in 2026, keeping this issue unresolved.

> Source: First Liberty Institute, May 2025 | Ed Week, Feb. 2026 | The Conversation, May 2025

3.4 Military Chaplaincy and Servicemember Rights

Hearing 4 surfaced a fundamental tension: chaplains are constitutionally obligated to serve all servicemembers regardless of faith, yet some commissioners appeared to support a model where chaplains function primarily as religious advocates for their own tradition. The historic role of military chaplaincy as a pluralistic institution was affirmed by military legal scholars at the hearing.

Open question: Should chaplains be permitted to decline service to servicemembers whose practices conflict with the chaplain's faith? The Commission heard arguments on both sides; no consensus recommendation emerged.

Source: DOJ OPA, Dec. 2025 | Americans United, Dec. 2025

3.5 Constitutional and Statutory Toolset

Key cases referenced across hearings: Employment Division v. Smith (1990, general laws); Lemon v. Kurtzman (1971, since effectively abandoned in Kennedy v. Bremerton); Carson v. Makin (2022, school choice); Espinoza v. Montana (2020, Blaine Amendments); Trinity Lutheran (2017, public benefit programs); Kennedy v. Bremerton (2022, public employee religious expression).

RFRA (42 U.S.C. § 2000bb) remains the primary federal statutory protection, requiring compelling government interest and least-restrictive means to burden religious exercise. Witnesses called for stronger enforcement of existing tools before seeking new legislation.

PART IV — Current Landscape: Actionable Developments (March–April 2026)

The following news and legal developments from the past 30 days carry direct implications for religious liberty protection or risk of infringement. Each is analyzed under three frames: Protection, Risk, and Opportunity.

1. Chiles v. Salazar — SCOTUS Rules 8-1 for Christian Counselor (March 31, 2026)

□ Protection / □ Partial — Case remanded; Colorado law not struck down

The Supreme Court ruled that Colorado's Minor Conversion Therapy Law constituted unconstitutional viewpoint discrimination under the First Amendment. An 8-1 majority, authored by Justice Gorsuch, held that the state cannot require licensed counselors to express only the government's preferred perspective on gender identity. However, the case was remanded — the Colorado law remains temporarily operative pending further lower court review.

Opportunity: This ruling establishes a strong precedent against state-compelled speech in professional contexts. Counselors in 22 other states with similar laws may use Chiles to mount First Amendment challenges.

Risk: The ruling does not protect counselors from license revocation until lower courts apply it. Short-term vulnerability remains.

2. Interfaith Alliance v. Trump — Preliminary Injunction Filed (April 1, 2026)

● Risk — Commission report may be legally invalidated

A coalition of minority faith groups asked a federal court to block publication of the Commission's final report, citing FACA's 'fairly balanced' requirement. The Commission has no Muslim, Sikh, Hindu, or Baha'i members. The court could order transcript disclosure and delay the report.

Opportunity: A successful injunction could prompt a reconstituted, more broadly representative commission — potentially improving the quality of recommendations.

Risk: If the report is published despite the lawsuit, recommendations built on a legally compromised process may face reduced credibility with Congress and federal agencies.

3. Texas Senate Select Committee on Religious Liberty Formed (March 22, 2026)

Protection — State-level codification of Commission findings

Lt. Gov. Dan Patrick created the Senate Select Committee on Religious Liberty chaired by Sen. Phil King. The committee is charged with educating Texans on First Amendment religious liberty rights and preventing infringement.

Opportunity: Texas legislation could establish a model for other states — particularly around parental notification, faith-based social services, and anti-compelled-speech protections.

Risk: State-only action may create a fragmented patchwork of protections. Minority faith communities in Texas (Muslim, Sikh, Hindu) not represented in the original Commission have no formal input mechanism.

4. DOE OCR: 60 Universities Under Title VI Investigation (Ongoing, Feb–April 2026)

Mixed — Protection for Jewish students; risk of scope creep

The Department of Education's Office for Civil Rights is actively investigating 60 universities for failure to address antisemitic hostile environments. Some settlements (e.g., Brown University) have included conditions requiring changes to transgender accommodation policies.

Opportunity: The 344% increase in antisemitic incidents documented by the ADL demands enforcement action. Title VI provides a ready legal tool.

Risk: Bundling antisemitism enforcement with rollback of other civil rights protections creates legal and ethical complications. Institutions may resist good-faith compliance when settlements appear ideologically motivated.

5. Religious Charter Schools: New SCOTUS-Bound Cases (Feb. 2026)

? Unresolved — Significant constitutional question pending

Following the 4-4 deadlock in St. Isidore (2025, with Barrett recused), at least two new religious charter school cases are advancing: the Ben Gamla Jewish Charter School (Oklahoma) and others. The question of whether a publicly funded religious charter school violates the Establishment Clause or is instead required by Free Exercise/Equal Access principles remains the most significant unresolved structural question in religious education law.

Opportunity: A fully staffed SCOTUS bench could finally establish national precedent — potentially opening charter school funding to religious operators under Carson/Espinoza frameworks.

Risk: Until resolved, religious charter schools in every state face legal uncertainty. Students in states with hostile lower court precedent (Oklahoma) have no access to such options.

6. Dr. Kloosterman / Michigan Health Conscience Case (Ongoing)

● Elevated Risk — Faith-based healthcare providers

Dr. Kloosterman, a physician, was disciplined by Michigan Health after declining to perform procedures conflicting with her religious convictions. She is suing with First Liberty Institute's help. The case is unresolved and directly relevant to the Commission's Hearing 6 findings.

Opportunity: A favorable ruling would reinforce the healthcare conscience protections discussed at Hearing 6 and align with the Chiles trajectory.

Risk: Healthcare workers in similar situations face job loss and license discipline while litigation proceeds — a chilling effect on faith-based medical practice.

PART V — Sentiment & Risk Scores by Issue Area

Scores follow the Commission's own analytical framework: Protection Status (+2 to −2), Institutional Trust (+2 to −2), Ground-Level Risk (+2 to −2), Reform Opportunity (+2 to −2). Justifications draw directly from testimony.

Issue Area	Protection	Inst. Trust	Ground Risk	Reform Opp.	Key Driver
Campus Antisemitism	−1	−1	−1	+1	ADL: 344% incident increase; 60 OCR investigations; Title VI enforcement uneven
Healthcare Conscience	−1	0	−1	+2	Chiles win (March 31) is landmark but remanded; Kloosterman ongoing
K–12 / Parental Rights	−1	−1	−1	+1	Hidden transition policies; curriculum battles; union obstacles
Religious Charter Schools	0	0	−1	+1	St. Isidore 4-4 deadlock; new cases advancing; no national precedent
Military Chaplaincy	0	0	−1	+1	Pluralistic duty affirmed by law; Commission framing contested
Constitutional Framework	+1	+1	−1	+1	Carson, Espinoza, Kennedy strengthen Free Exercise; Smith still debated
Commission Legitimacy	−1	−1	0	0	FACA lawsuit; no minority faith voices; Prejean Boller removal

PART VI — Statutory Protection Toolkit

The following statutes and constitutional provisions constitute the operative legal architecture for religious liberty enforcement. Each entry identifies current use, gaps, and proposed applications drawn from Commission testimony.

First Amendment — Free Exercise Clause

Citation: U.S. Const., Amend. I

Current State: Core constitutional protection. Revitalized by Carson, Espinoza, Kennedy. Smith (1990) 'neutral general laws' limitation still debated.

Testimony-Driven Opportunities: Apply to professional speech (Chiles trajectory); challenge Blaine Amendments at state level; protect student religious expression in schools.

First Amendment — Free Speech Clause

Citation: U.S. Const., Amend. I

Current State: Prohibits government viewpoint discrimination. Chiles v. Salazar (2026) extends to licensed professional speech.

Testimony-Driven Opportunities: Challenge state laws compelling counselors, doctors, social workers to affirm state-preferred ideological positions.

Religious Freedom Restoration Act (RFRA)

Citation: 42 U.S.C. § 2000bb

Current State: Federal government must show compelling interest + least restrictive means before burdening religious exercise. Applies only to federal action.

Testimony-Driven Opportunities: Underutilized in healthcare conscience cases. Apply to federal funding conditions on faith-based social services.

Title VI of the Civil Rights Act

Citation: 42 U.S.C. § 2000d

Current State: Prohibits discrimination by federally funded entities. Covers harassment creating hostile environments based on race, color, national origin (extended to Jewish/Zionist identity).

Testimony-Driven Opportunities: File OCR complaints for campus antisemitism; enforce compliance timelines; condition ongoing federal funding.

Title VII of the Civil Rights Act

Citation: 42 U.S.C. § 2000e

Current State: Prohibits employment discrimination based on religion. Requires reasonable accommodation.

Testimony-Driven Opportunities: Protect chaplains, counselors, doctors, teachers facing religious discrimination in employment.

IDEA (Individuals with Disabilities Education Act)

Citation: 20 U.S.C. § 1400 et seq.

Current State: Services must be available to students in private (including religious) schools.

Testimony-Driven Opportunities: Enforce IDEA access for students in faith-based schools; challenge exclusionary interpretations.

Religious Land Use and Institutionalized Persons Act (RLUIPA)

Citation: 42 U.S.C. § 2000cc

Current State: Protects religious institutions from zoning/land use discrimination; protects institutionalized persons' religious exercise.

Testimony-Driven Opportunities: Apply to zoning challenges against houses of worship; enforce in prisons and detention settings.

Report Notes & Methodology

This report was assembled using multi-source deep research conducted April 10, 2026, drawing from: official DOJ hearing records and video archives, court filings, legal analysis from First Liberty Institute, Americans United, Democracy Forward, Center for Public Justice, Brookings Institution, ADL, Sidley Austin, and news reporting from Catholic World Report, America Magazine, Catholic Standard, Focus on the Family, and Education Week. Testimony quotes are drawn from publicly available video recordings and observer accounts pending official transcript release.

The analytical framework — including sentiment scores, issue thread mapping, statutory opportunity taxonomy, and affordance/challenge classification — follows the structured multi-pass methodology specified in the Deep Research Instructions (file:13).

Confidence qualifications are embedded in each section. Scores should be treated as analyst assessments, not definitive findings. Where official transcripts become available, scores and quotes should be verified against primary sources.

PRESIDENTIAL RELIGIOUS LIBERTY COMMISSION

Structured Analysis of Hearing Transcripts

Rights, Immunities & Liberties in Focus
Cross-Transcript Findings, Risk Mapping & Current Developments

Prepared: April 10, 2026 | Hearings 1–6 (May 2025 – March 2026) | Confidential Draft

DOJ-RLC Comment-000211

EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

This report synthesizes testimony, legal analysis, and current developments from the first six hearings of the Presidential Religious Liberty Commission (RLC), established by executive order on May 1, 2025. The Commission's mandate is to explore the foundations of religious liberty in America, identify current threats, develop preservation strategies, and recommend programs celebrating America's peaceful religious pluralism.

The analysis draws on structured instructions provided for multi-pass transcript analysis (segmentation, affordance mapping, challenge identification, sentiment/risk scoring, and cross-transcript thread mapping) and augments these with verified news developments through April 2026. All findings are grounded in testimony, court records, and primary government sources.

Key Findings at a Glance

- Campus antisemitism represents the most acute and legally actionable threat area, culminating in the DOJ filing a Title VI complaint against Harvard University on March 19, 2026.
- The Supreme Court's June 2025 decision in Mahmoud v. Taylor significantly strengthened parental Free Exercise rights in K–12 education, with the Department of Education issuing updated guidance in February 2026.
- Healthcare conscience protections remain contested; a pivotal SCOTUS ruling in Chiles v. Colorado (challenging counselor speech restrictions) is expected by June 2026.
- Military chaplaincy underwent structural reform in March 2026, with Secretary Hegseth reducing faith codes from 200+ to 31 and replacing rank insignia with religious insignia.
- Faith-based schools and school choice are in a period of opportunity, supported by recent SCOTUS precedent (Carson v. Makin, Espinoza) and executive education-freedom directives.
- Anti-religious violence — targeting Catholic, Jewish, and LDS communities — constitutes an underappreciated physical threat dimension.
- The Commission itself faces a court challenge (Interfaith Alliance v. Trump, SDNY) alleging it was unlawfully constituted under the Federal Advisory Committee Act.

SECTION I: COMMISSION BACKGROUND & MANDATE

President Trump established the Presidential Religious Liberty Commission (RLC) on May 1, 2025, through executive order. The 14-member commission is chaired by Texas Lieutenant Governor Dan Patrick and includes legal scholars, religious leaders, and policy advocates. Its formal mandate encompasses five areas:

- Exploring the foundations of religious liberty in America
- Considering the impact of religious liberty on American society
- Identifying current threats to domestic religious liberty
- Developing strategies to preserve and enhance religious liberty protections
- Recommending programs to increase awareness of and celebrate America's peaceful religious pluralism

Through the sixth hearing (March 16, 2026), the Commission has convened at the Museum of the Bible in Washington, D.C. and in Dallas, Texas. Witnesses have included faith community leaders, legal scholars, military chaplains, healthcare workers, parents, students, and educators. The Commission's final report is anticipated to be submitted to President Trump.

> "The Trump administration is restoring the founders' intent to permit the free exercise of faith. The growing threat across America is the intimidation and the threatening of those who seek to assemble freely to live freely."
> — Hearing 5, Opening Remarks (February 9, 2026, Museum of the Bible)

Legal Challenge to the Commission

In February 2026, Americans United for Separation of Church and State filed Interfaith Alliance v. Trump in the Southern District of New York, arguing that the Commission was unlawfully created in violation of the Federal Advisory Committee Act (FACA). Critics note the commission's membership is composed predominantly of conservative Christians and one Orthodox rabbi. As of April 2026, plaintiffs are seeking to block the release of the Commission's final report while the case proceeds.

SECTION II: ANALYTICAL FRAMEWORK

The following structured analytical framework was applied across all six hearing transcripts. This framework enables systematic identification of affordances, challenges, risk levels, and reform pathways across issue domains.

A. Transcript Segmentation

Each transcript was treated as a distinct document, segmented by: (1) Opening framing and speeches; (2) Thematic panels; (3) Witness testimony blocks; (4) Commissioner Q&A blocks; and (5) Closing/summation remarks. Within each segment, speaker identity, role, institutional affiliation, and issue-area were tracked.

B. Affordance Types

• Policy & Legal Affordances

Explicit statutory references (First Amendment, RFRA, Title VI, Title VII, IDEA, Section 1557, Blaine Amendments) and named Supreme Court cases. Concrete enforcement tools including funding cutoffs, DOJ enforcement, accreditation leverage.

• Narrative Affordances

First-person stories illustrating harms or successes — students, parents, chaplains, doctors, and whistleblowers whose accounts ground abstract legal claims in lived experience.

• Institutional Affordances

Named institutions (universities, school districts, accrediting bodies, hospitals) whose practices can be studied as examples, including cases where change has already occurred.

• Interfaith / Cross-Ideological Affordances

Instances of coalition across religious lines (Jewish, Christian, Catholic, Muslim, LDS) and cases where speakers frame religious liberty as a universal constitutional good, not merely a sectarian demand.

C. Sentiment & Risk Scoring Scale

Each issue domain was scored on four dimensions using a five-point scale (−2 to +2):

Protection Status	−2 (systemic failure) to +2 (largely protective)	Are constitutional/statutory protections working?
Institutional Trust	−2 (collapsed) to +2 (high)	Courts, agencies, schools, healthcare institutions
Risk to Religious Exercise	−2 (severe) to +2 (low risk)	Actual on-the-ground risk to practitioners
Reform Opportunity	−2 (very limited) to +2 (high leverage)	Potential for constructive reform within existing tools

SECTION III: CROSS-TRANSCRIPT ISSUE THREADS

3.1 Antisemitism & Campus Hostility

Campus antisemitism is the highest-profile, most litigation-active issue in the RLC corpus. Post–October 7, 2023, incidents of discrimination, exclusion, and physical intimidation of Jewish and Israeli students rose sharply at U.S. universities. Hearing testimony at the Fifth Hearing (February 9, 2026) centered on the legal tools available and the urgency of stronger enforcement.

> "The administration must strengthen Title VI enforcement by the DOJ and Department of Education — mandate investigations within set timelines and tie federal funding to compliance. Several days after October 7th, when UCLA's chancellor issued a weak statement that failed [to protect students]..."
> — Witness Testimony, Hearing 5 (February 9, 2026, Museum of the Bible, Washington D.C.)

On March 19, 2026, the DOJ filed a Title VI complaint against Harvard University (Case No. 1:26-cv-11352), detailing Harvard's 'deliberate indifference' to the harassment of Jewish and Israeli students. The complaint alleges Harvard permitted encampments for 20 days in violation of its own rules, allowed the blocking of buildings, and — critically — advised Jewish students 'to hide or conceal their Jewish or Israeli identities.' Title VI prohibits discrimination based on race, color, and national origin in federally funded programs; discrimination against Jews may constitute a violation when based on shared ethnic or national-origin characteristics.

The U.S. Commission on Civil Rights held a public briefing on February 19, 2026, investigating 'Antisemitism on America's College and University Campuses: Current Conditions and the Federal Response.' The bipartisan investigation examined institutional responses, federal enforcement, and the scope of Title VI protections. Simultaneously, Brookings Institution analysis cautioned that the Trump administration's antisemitism enforcement has been conducted in ways that also advance unrelated policy objectives — including elimination of DEI programs and transgender accommodations at universities — raising questions about enforcement consistency and constitutional scope.

Legal Hooks

- Title VI of the Civil Rights Act (42 U.S.C. § 2000d): Discrimination on basis of race, color, or national origin in federally funded programs
- Executive Order 13899 (Dec. 2019), reaffirmed Jan. 2025: IHRA definition of antisemitism to be used in Title VI enforcement
- 18 U.S.C. § 241: Civil rights conspiracy; encouraged for use by DOJ in campus antisemitism cases
- Federal funding conditionality as enforcement leverage

3.2 K–12 Religious Expression & Parental Rights

K–12 education generated substantial testimony across multiple hearings, with witnesses addressing student religious speech (prayers, valedictorian references to faith, religious symbols), curriculum conflicts, and the phenomenon of school policies secretly facilitating student gender transitions without parental notice. The hearings at Washington D.C. (Hearing 2, September 8, 2025) received special public attention, including attendance by President Trump.

The Supreme Court's landmark June 2025 decision in Mahmoud v. Taylor, 145 S. Ct. 2332, held that a Maryland school district's introduction of storybooks affirming LGBTQ identities — combined with the denial of parental opt-out rights — unconstitutionally burdened families' Free Exercise rights. The Court applied strict scrutiny, finding the burden was 'of the same character as that in Yoder.' The ruling emphasized that the right to free exercise is 'not shed at the schoolhouse gate' and that government schools 'may not place unconstitutional burdens on religious exercise.'

> "The right to free exercise of religion is not shed at the schoolhouse gate. Government schools, like all government institutions, may not place unconstitutional burdens on religious exercise."
> — U.S. Supreme Court, Mahmoud v. Taylor, 145 S. Ct. 2332 (June 2025)

The Department of Education followed with updated guidance (February 5, 2026) on 'Constitutionally Protected Prayer and Religious Expression in Public Elementary and Secondary Schools,' incorporating Mahmoud and Kennedy v. Bremerton School District. The guidance requires local educational agencies to certify compliance as a condition of ESEA funds. In a countervailing development, a federal court permanently blocked Arkansas' Act 573, which had required a government-chosen Protestant version of the Ten Commandments in every public school classroom and library, finding it violated the Establishment Clause (Stinson v. Fayetteville School District No. 1, March 16, 2026).

Legal Hooks

- First Amendment Free Exercise Clause — strict scrutiny applies to burdens of same character as Wisconsin v. Yoder
- Mahmoud v. Taylor, 145 S. Ct. 2332 (2025) — opt-out rights for religiously objecting parents
- Kennedy v. Bremerton School District — teacher/coach religious expression
- ESEA § 8524 — SEA/LEA certification of prayer and religious expression compliance
- Establishment Clause — Ten Commandments posting (Stinson)

3.3 Higher Education, Accreditation & Institutional Autonomy

Commission testimony documented extensive pressure on faith-based universities and professional education programs through accreditation standards, nondiscrimination requirements, and federal funding conditions. Witnesses at Hearing 3 (September 2025) warned that accrediting bodies function as 'de facto ideological gatekeepers,' imposing secular ideological frameworks as conditions for academic legitimacy.

A critical pending case is Zinski v. Liberty University, currently before the Fourth Circuit Court of Appeals (oral arguments March 25, 2026). When employee Zinski sued Liberty under Title VII for sex-based discrimination, the trial court denied Liberty's motions to dismiss — rejecting defenses based on the Title VII religious organization exemption, ministerial exception (because Zinski's role was not directly ministerial), and freedom of association. The Fourth Circuit's ruling will have broad implications for faith-based universities' ability to staff and govern in accordance with their religious mission.

The Johnson Amendment — which prohibits churches and religious organizations from endorsing political candidates as a condition of maintaining tax-exempt status — faced a high-profile challenge that was dismissed without prejudice by a Texas federal judge in April 2026. The dismissal preserved the Amendment intact but left the door open for renewed challenge if a plaintiff first suffers a tangible penalty.

Legal Hooks

- Title VII religious organization exemption (42 U.S.C. § 2000e-1)
- Ministerial exception doctrine
- Zinski v. Liberty University (4th Cir., argued March 25, 2026)
- Accreditation leverage — HEA authorization as pressure point
- Johnson Amendment (26 U.S.C. § 501(c)(3)) — pending litigation

3.4 Healthcare & Conscience Protections

The Sixth Hearing (March 16, 2026) focused entirely on religious liberty in healthcare and social services. Witnesses testified about the collision between state regulatory regimes and the religious convictions of healthcare practitioners — particularly counselors, doctors, and social workers facing requirements to provide services (including gender-transition-related care for minors) that contradict their professional judgment and religious beliefs.

The testimony of Kaley Chiles, a licensed professional counselor in Colorado represented by Alliance Defending Freedom, illustrates the core tension. Colorado's law censors the speech of licensed counselors, restricting what they may say to clients about gender identity. Chiles sued; the U.S. Supreme Court took up the case and heard oral arguments in October 2025. A ruling is expected by June 2026. The outcome will substantially shape whether counselors and other licensed practitioners may exercise faith-consistent professional judgment.

> "[Colorado's law] unconstitutionally censors the speech of licensed counselors — restricting conversations therapists may have with willing patients about deeply personal matters of faith and identity."

— Kaley Chiles, Licensed Professional Counselor (Colorado), Testimony at Sixth Hearing (March 16, 2026)

Broader healthcare conscience protections continue to rest on a patchwork of federal statutes including the Church Amendment, Coats-Snowe Amendment, and Weldon Amendment — all of which protect healthcare entities and individuals from being compelled to perform procedures contrary to religious or moral conviction. These protections are subject to ongoing interpretation and enforcement variation. The USCCB 2026 Annual Report notes that 'gender ideology has corroded religious liberty in recent years' but documents 'significant setbacks' for gender ideology including the Skrmetti decision and expects three further SCOTUS rulings on the subject in 2026.

Legal Hooks

- Church Amendment (42 U.S.C. § 300a-7) — conscience protection for healthcare workers and entities
- Weldon Amendment — prohibition on discrimination against conscience-protecting entities
- Chiles v. Colorado (SCOTUS, pending, June 2026) — counselor speech
- Section 1557 of the ACA — nondiscrimination in healthcare, contested scope
- RFRA — potential defense against compelled gender-affirming care participation

3.5 Military Chaplaincy

The Fourth Hearing (December 10, 2025, Dallas) heard testimony from expert witnesses — many active or retired military chaplains — about the suppression of religious freedom in the U.S. armed forces. A recurring theme was the erosion of the chaplain's distinctly spiritual role, with pressure to adopt therapeutic and secular frameworks in place of explicitly religious ministry.

> "The role of chaplain has been diminished. We are losing ground in the area of religious liberty. There's a degradation of the Supreme Being having any input into our lives. I am not sure how we can change direction without serious repentance."
> — Retired U.S. Army Chaplain (Major), Testimony at Fourth Hearing (December 10, 2025, Dallas)

On March 24, 2026, Secretary of Defense Pete Hegseth announced two structural reforms. First, chaplains would replace their rank insignia with religious insignia on work uniforms, making their identity as spiritual ministers visually primary. Second, the military's faith affiliation codes were reduced from more than 200 to 31, streamlining recognition to 'bring the codes in line with their original purpose — giving chaplains clear, usable information so they can minister to service members in a way that aligns with that service member's faith background.'

> "A chaplain is first and foremost a chaplain, and an officer second. This change is a visual representation of that fact."
> — Secretary of Defense Pete Hegseth, Announcement of Chaplain Corps Reforms (March 24, 2026)

Kelly Shackelford, First Liberty Institute CEO and Commission member, stated following the Fourth Hearing: 'The testimonies at today's meeting highlight the importance of ensuring that the religious liberty of our service members, chaplains, and veterans are upheld both now and into the future.'

Legal Hooks

- First Amendment Free Exercise — chaplains' ability to minister according to their own tradition
- RFRA — potential defense for service members' conscientious objections
- DoD Instruction 1300.17 — accommodation of religious practices in the military

3.6 Faith-Based Schools & School Choice

The school choice landscape has shifted substantially in favor of religious school participation in government funding programs, anchored by the Supreme Court's trilogy: Trinity Lutheran Church v. Comer (2017), Espinoza v. Montana Department of Revenue (2020), and Carson v. Makin (2022). Together, these decisions eliminate Blaine Amendment-style exclusions of religious schools from generally available public funding programs. The USCCB 2026 Annual Report identifies repeal of remaining unlawful Blaine Amendment provisions as an active opportunity.

Commission testimony at Hearing 2 (September 2025) documented ongoing pressure from state accreditation standards and nondiscrimination conditions that require faith-based schools to compromise their religious missions as a condition of continued operation or funding eligibility. Witnesses from New York (Orthodox yeshivas) and Michigan raised specific cases of state overreach. In January 2026, the Ninth Circuit issued a ruling protecting ministries' and churches' right to hire staff aligned with their faith — even where that faith conflicts with secular norms on marriage, sexuality, and gender.

The Trump administration's January 29, 2025 executive order on education freedom directs federal formula funds to be used in support of K–12 educational choice, including faith-based schools, and extends this framework to military families and Bureau of Indian Education beneficiaries.

Legal Hooks

- Carson v. Makin (2022) — school choice programs must include religious schools on equal terms
- Espinoza v. Montana Department of Revenue (2020) — no exclusion of religious schools from tax-credit scholarship programs

- Blaine Amendments — remaining state provisions likely unconstitutional post-Carson
- IDEA — access to services for students in religious schools

3.7 Religious Violence & Access to Houses of Worship

The USCCB 2026 Annual Report documents a disturbing pattern of anti-religious violence: a man arrested with 200 incendiary devices outside the Cathedral of St. Matthew in Washington, D.C.; a Passover arson at the home of Pennsylvania Governor Josh Shapiro (targeting him for his Jewish faith); and a September 2025 truck attack on an LDS chapel that killed four worshippers and injured eight (classified by the FBI as motivated by anti-religious beliefs). These incidents reflect a physical threat dimension that transcends legal debate.

The Trump administration's rescission of the DHS 'sensitive locations' guidance — which had restricted immigration enforcement near churches, schools, and hospitals — generated significant religious liberty litigation. Interfaith coalitions (Quakers in Pennsylvania, Mennonites in D.C., an Oregon group) filed lawsuits; the Quakers obtained a preliminary injunction. A federal judge in Minneapolis ruled in April 2026 that ICE must allow clergy and religious workers access to detained migrants, finding that denial of pastoral visits likely violated religious liberty protections.

Legal Hooks

- First Amendment Free Exercise — right to pastoral access in detention
- RFRA — substantial burden on religious exercise without compelling government interest
- Matthew Shepard and James Byrd Jr. Hate Crimes Prevention Act — federal prosecution of religiously motivated violence
- 18 U.S.C. § 247 — Damage to religious property; obstruction of persons in the free exercise of religious beliefs

SECTION IV: SENTIMENT & RISK HEAT MAP

The following matrix reflects scores derived from the Commission's analytical framework, applied across the six hearings. Scores are supported by specific testimony and cross-validated with current legal developments. Scale: −2 (worst/most concerning) to +2 (best/most protective).

Campus Antisemitism	−1 Concerning gaps	−1 Low trust	−1 Elevated	+2 High leverage
K–12 Parental Rights	+1 Trending better	0 Neutral/mixed	−1 Elevated	+2 High leverage
Higher Ed / Accreditation	−1 Concerning gaps	−1 Low trust	−1 Elevated	+1 Promising
Healthcare Conscience	0 Unresolved	−1 Low trust	−1 Elevated	+1 Promising
Military Chaplaincy	+1 Trending better	+1 Moderate	0 Unclear	+1 Promising
Faith-Based Schools	+1 Trending better	0 Mixed	0 Unclear	+2 High leverage
Religious Violence	−1 Concerning gaps	0 Mixed	−2 Severe	+1 Promising
ICE / Houses of Worship	−1 Concerning gaps	−1 Low trust	−1 Elevated	0 Unclear

Note: 'Reform Opportunity' scores reflect the availability of existing legal tools (statutory, regulatory, and judicial) that could be deployed or better enforced. They do not imply that current trajectories are on course to produce reform.

SECTION V: LEXICAL HEAT MAP — KEY TERM CLUSTERS

The following term clusters appear with high frequency and rhetorical significance across Commission hearings. Intensity scores reflect conceptual prevalence (0 = absent, 1 = occasional, 2 = frequent, 3 = dominant) across issue domains.

Free Exercise	2	3	2	3
Title VI / Title VII	3	1	1	0
Process as punishment	2	1	2	1
Ideology capture / DEI	2	2	2	1
Chilling effect / self-censorship	2	2	1	2
Parental rights	0	3	1	0
Accreditation leverage	1	2	2	0
Federal funding conditions	3	2	1	0
Conscience protection	1	1	3	2
City on a Hill / founders' intent	1	1	0	2
Interfaith coalition	2	1	0	1

SECTION VI: STATUTORY PROTECTION OPPORTUNITIES

A. Actual Opportunities — Within Existing Framework

These are specific statutes and regulations that are available but underused or unevenly enforced, as identified in testimony across the six hearings.

• Title VI Enforcement with Mandatory Timelines

Problem: Universities receiving federal funds are violating Title VI by permitting antisemitic harassment. Current enforcement is slow and inconsistent.

Tool: DOJ and DOE have authority to mandate investigations, withhold funds, and negotiate compliance agreements.

Proposed Effect: Witnesses at Hearing 5 called for 'set timelines' and automatic fund withholding for non-compliance. The DOJ Harvard complaint (March 2026) represents a direct application of this approach.

Statutory hook: 42 U.S.C. § 2000d; Executive Orders 13899 and 14188.

• ESEA § 8524 Compliance Certification

Problem: Local education agencies are imposing restrictions on student and teacher religious expression beyond what the Constitution allows.

Tool: ESEA requires SEAs/LEAs to certify that no policy prevents constitutionally protected prayer.

Proposed Effect: The February 2026 DOE guidance updates this certification process, incorporating Mahmoud v. Taylor and Kennedy. Noncompliant agencies risk ESEA fund withholding.

Statutory hook: 20 U.S.C. § 7904; Kennedy v. Bremerton; Mahmoud v. Taylor (2025).

• RFRA as Healthcare Conscience Shield

Problem: State and federal regulations are compelling licensed healthcare providers to participate in gender-transition care and other procedures contrary to religious convictions.

Tool: RFRA requires substantial burden on religious exercise to satisfy strict scrutiny.

Proposed Effect: Providers can invoke RFRA against federal mandates; Chiles v. Colorado may extend to First Amendment speech protections for counselors.

Statutory hook: 42 U.S.C. § 2000bb; Church Amendment (42 U.S.C. § 300a-7).

• DoD Instruction 1300.17 — Military Chaplain Accommodation

Problem: Testimony documented chaplains being pressured to deliver secular rather than explicitly religious ministry.

Tool: Existing DoD policy accommodates religious practices; Secretary Hegseth's March 2026 reforms operationalize this.

Proposed Effect: Reducing faith codes and emphasizing religious identity over rank reinforces the chaplaincy's spiritual purpose.

Statutory hook: 10 U.S.C. § 6031 (Navy Chaplains); DoD Instruction 1300.17.

• IDEA — Religious School Service Equity

Problem: Children with disabilities attending religious schools are receiving fewer or inferior IDEA services compared to public school counterparts.

Tool: IDEA's equitable participation requirements cover students in private schools, including religious schools.

Proposed Effect: Stronger enforcement of equitable participation provisions ensures religious school families receive full statutory entitlement.

Statutory hook: 20 U.S.C. §§ 1412(a)(10), 1415; Carson v. Makin (2022).

B. Theoretical Opportunities — Requiring New Frameworks

• Federal Parental Rights / School Transparency Legislation

Proposal: A federal statute codifying Mahmoud v. Taylor's parental notification and opt-out requirements, extending protections to all states regardless of local legislative action. Would also address secret gender-transition facilitation by school officials without parental knowledge.

• Structural Accreditation Reform

Proposal: Congressional or DOE action to prohibit accrediting bodies from conditioning accreditation on ideological commitments unrelated to educational quality — including DEI frameworks or nondiscrimination policies that conflict with religious institutional identity.

• Universal School Choice / Direct-to-Family Funding

Proposal: Federal scholarship tax credit or education savings account (ESA) programs that allow federal education funds to follow students to faith-based schools, without routing through public school districts that can discriminate against religious options.

• New Statutory Conscience Protections in Healthcare

Proposal: Comprehensive federal conscience protection statute covering all healthcare providers, institutions, and insurers — extending beyond the current patchwork of the Church, Weldon, and Coats-Snowe Amendments to cover gender-transition procedures, assisted reproduction, and end-of-life decisions.

• Union Power Limits in Public Education

Proposal: Legislation or executive action addressing how teachers union contracts override school district policies on religious expression, parent notification, and curriculum transparency.

SECTION VII: CURRENT DEVELOPMENTS (MARCH–APRIL 2026)

The following actionable items from press releases and news sources (constrained to approximately the last 30 days) illustrate where religious rights, immunities, and liberties are either being adequately protected or are potentially at risk of infringement.

▯ CONTESTED Interfaith Alliance v. Trump (April 2, 2026)

Americans United for Separation of Church and State returned to court seeking to block the Commission's final report, arguing the Commission violates the Federal Advisory Committee Act due to lack of viewpoint diversity. The case raises structural questions about which voices are represented in policy formation. Source: Americans United press release, April 2, 2026.

● AT RISK Johnson Amendment Challenge Dismissed (April 7–8, 2026)

A Texas federal court dismissed a high-profile challenge to the Johnson Amendment (which bars church political endorsements as a condition of tax exemption) — but without prejudice. Churches retain a legal pathway by first incurring a tangible penalty. The ruling leaves in place a 70-year restriction on religious political speech. Source: Zenit News / Catholic World Report, April 7–8, 2026.

● AT RISK Zinski v. Liberty University — 4th Circuit (March 25, 2026)

The Fourth Circuit heard oral arguments in a Title VII sex discrimination claim against Liberty University. If the court rules for the plaintiff, it would significantly constrain faith-based universities' ability to staff in accordance with their religious missions. A ruling is expected in coming months. Source: Catholic World Report, April 8, 2026.

▯ PROTECTED DOJ Files Title VI Complaint vs. Harvard (March 19, 2026)

The Department of Justice filed a federal lawsuit against Harvard University for deliberate indifference to the harassment of Jewish and Israeli students, citing violations of Title VI. This represents the most significant federal enforcement action on campus antisemitism to date. Source: DOJ Complaint, Case No. 1:26-cv-11352.

▯ PROTECTED Hegseth Chaplain Corps Reforms (March 24, 2026)

Secretary of Defense Pete Hegseth announced chaplains would wear religious rather than rank insignia, and faith codes were reduced to 31 from 200+. The reforms signal renewed institutional support for the distinctly spiritual role of military chaplains. Source: Department of War press release; The Hill; Baptist Press, March 24–25, 2026.

▯ PROTECTED Federal Court: ICE Must Allow Clergy Access to Detained Migrants (April 2026)

A federal judge in Minneapolis ordered immigration officials to allow clergy and religious workers access to detained migrants, ruling that denying pastoral visits likely violates religious liberty protections under RFRA and the First Amendment. Source: Law and Religion Forum, March 30, 2026.

PROTECTED Sixth RLC Hearing — Healthcare Conscience (March 16, 2026)

The Commission heard testimony from Kaley Chiles and others on state laws that restrict the religious speech of licensed counselors. The SCOTUS ruling in Chiles v. Colorado, expected June 2026, will be a landmark test of whether states can compel licensed professionals to facilitate gender transitions against their religious convictions.

AT RISK Arkansas Ten Commandments Law Permanently Blocked (March 16, 2026)

A federal district court issued a permanent injunction blocking Arkansas' Act 573, which required display of a Protestant Ten Commandments version in all public school classrooms and libraries. While the ruling protects religious minorities from state-imposed religious messaging, it also signals limits on government affirmation of religious symbols in public schools. Source: ACLU press release, March 16, 2026.

CONTESTED USCCB Identifies Six Critical Religious Liberty Areas for 2026

The U.S. Conference of Catholic Bishops' 2026 Annual Report identified three threats (anti-religious violence, unjust federal grant conditions, ICE enforcement at houses of worship) and three opportunities (school choice tax credits, removal of discriminatory grant provisions, repudiation of gender ideology). PROTECTED Supreme Court Revives Mississippi Street Preacher Lawsuit (Late March 2026)

The U.S. Supreme Court revived a lawsuit by a Mississippi street preacher claiming arrest near an amphitheater violated his free speech and religious liberty rights. Source: Law and Religion Forum, March 30, 2026.

PROTECTED Legislation Introduced to Protect Church Tax-Exempt Status (Late March 2026)

Members of Congress introduced legislation that would protect the tax-exempt status of churches and religious organizations from being revoked for political or religious expression. Source: Law and Religion Forum, March 30, 2026.

SECTION VIII: CASE STUDY LIBRARY

DOJ v. Harvard — Title VI Campus Antisemitism

Domain: Higher Education

The Department of Justice filed a federal lawsuit (March 2026) against Harvard University alleging deliberate indifference to the harassment of Jewish and Israeli students in violation of Title VI. Harvard allowed anti-Israeli encampments for 20 days in violation of its own policies, permitted building blockades, and advised Jewish students to hide their identities.

- Problem: Systemic institutional indifference to Title VI violations targeting Jewish and Israeli students.
- Response: DOJ filed formal Title VI complaint; also threatened and initiated funding withholding proceedings.
- Outcome: Pending; Harvard has not yet complied or settled as of April 2026.
- Remaining gaps: Enforcement consistency; risk that antisemitism enforcement is coupled with unrelated DEI policy rollbacks (Brookings).
- Statutory hook: 42 U.S.C. § 2000d; E.O. 13899; 18 U.S.C. § 241.

Chiles v. Colorado — Counselor Speech (SCOTUS Pending)

Domain: Healthcare

Kaley Chiles, a licensed professional counselor in Colorado, challenged a state law censoring counselors' speech on gender identity topics with willing clients. Alliance Defending Freedom filed suit; SCOTUS granted certiorari and heard oral arguments in October 2025. Ruling expected June 2026.

- Problem: State law compels counselors to use only state-approved messaging on gender identity, even if it contradicts the counselor's religious beliefs and clinical judgment.
- Response: ADF-sponsored First Amendment and Free Exercise lawsuit.
- Outcome: Pending SCOTUS ruling; could establish nationwide precedent.
- Remaining gaps: Application to other licensed professions (social work, psychiatry, medicine).
- Statutory hook: First Amendment (Free Speech + Free Exercise); RFRA.

Mahmoud v. Taylor — K–12 Opt-Out Rights (SCOTUS 2025)

Domain: K–12 Education

A Maryland school district introduced LGBTQ-themed storybooks into curriculum for young children and refused to allow religious parents to opt their children out. The Supreme Court held in June 2025 that this unconstitutionally burdened parental Free Exercise rights.

- Problem: Government schools requiring students to receive instruction that directly contradicts parents' religious beliefs, with no opt-out pathway.
- Response: Parents sued; SCOTUS applied strict scrutiny and ruled for parents.
- Outcome: Parental right to opt out of religiously objectionable curriculum recognized; strict scrutiny applies when burden is 'of same character as Yoder.'
- Remaining gaps: Implementation and enforcement across states; many school districts have not updated policies.
- Statutory hook: First Amendment Free Exercise Clause; DOE Guidance (Feb. 2026).

Military Chaplaincy Reform — Hegseth Directives (March 2026)

Domain: Military

Following Hearing 4 testimony documenting diminished chaplain role and spiritual erosion in the military, Sec. Hegseth announced structural reforms: religious insignia replacing rank insignia on chaplain uniforms, and consolidation of faith codes from 200+ to 31.

- Problem: Chaplains pressured into secular therapeutic roles; service members inhibited from seeking spiritual counsel by the rank structure.
- Response: Secretary Hegseth's March 24, 2026 directive; reflects direct responsiveness to RLC testimony.
- Outcome: Policy change implemented; chaplains now visually prioritized as ministers first.
- Remaining gaps: Reduction to 31 faith codes raises questions about recognition of smaller faith traditions; Wiccan and agnostic codes eliminated.
- Statutory hook: 10 U.S.C. § 6031; DoD Instruction 1300.17.

Stinson v. Fayetteville — Ten Commandments Law (March 2026)

Domain: K–12 Education

Arkansas passed Act 573 requiring a Protestant version of the Ten Commandments to be permanently displayed in every public school classroom and library. Plaintiffs included families of multiple faiths. A federal district court issued a permanent injunction on March 16, 2026.

- Problem: State government imposing a sectarian religious message on all students in public schools — infringement on religious liberty of non-Christian and minority-faith families.
- Response: ACLU-sponsored Establishment Clause challenge.
- Outcome: Permanent injunction issued; Act 573 blocked.
- Remaining gaps: Similar laws pending in other states; SCOTUS has not yet directly ruled on Ten Commandments posting in schools.
- Statutory hook: First Amendment Establishment Clause.

ICE Enforcement at Houses of Worship — National Pattern (2025–2026)

Domain: Religious Institution Access

DHS rescinded its 'sensitive locations' guidance in early 2025, opening churches, schools, and hospitals to immigration enforcement. Interfaith coalitions (Quakers, Mennonites) filed lawsuits; a Minneapolis federal judge ruled in April 2026 that ICE must allow clergy access to detained migrants.

- Problem: Immigration enforcement at or near houses of worship chills religious assembly and denies detained persons pastoral care.
- Response: Multiple interfaith lawsuits; Quakers won preliminary injunction (Pennsylvania); Minneapolis court ruled for clergy access.
- Outcome: Mixed — some courts granting relief, others denying standing.
- Remaining gaps: No national resolution; DHS sensitive locations guidance not restored; Oregon case pending.
- Statutory hook: RFRA; First Amendment Free Exercise; 18 U.S.C. § 247.

We are a non profit and religious organization since Dec, 1995.
I heard, last week, that the President made a statement about Bill Maher.
He said, Why don't you be nice.
One of my accomplishments is that I have set the entire Bible to rhyme in 1992 and now have it for sale on Amazon, as The POETRY BIBLE.
Here below, is a letter or one way, we may draw Bill Maher to the President.

Please read, add your own and/or let me know if I can give further Bible sights.

Respectfully,

Hello Religious Liberty Commission:

We heard that the President asked Bill Maher "to be nice."

One way that might draw him near is to have the President – give Bill Maher an award.

This could be the first year that the Religious Liberty Commission offers the

E Z E K I E L AWARD.

Since you are a religious group and know the Scriptures, you can – for the first time offer this award because Bill Maher is:

A. An Entertainer and a Gentleman;
B. One, who blends Jewish and Christian principles;
C. One, who offers constructive criticism;

Bill Maher is one of the few entertainers, who step out of their role as – Entertainer and becomes ----- The Watchman - That is, Serving God and man.

What do you think? Would this recognition draw the man near to the President?

Please contact if you need further information./ compliments, etc.

Sincerely,

From: Amanda Byrd <[redacted]>
To: "RLC (OASG)" <[redacted]>
Subject: [EXTERNAL] Testimony Submission – The Role of Faith in Transforming Lives
Date: Thu, 09 Apr 2026 12:06:39 -0400
Importance: Normal

To the Presidential Religious Liberty Commission,

Faith is not just something we believe, it is something we live, and it is changing lives every single day.

My name is Amanda Byrd, and I am the founder of The Restored Table, a faith-based nonprofit in North Carolina. We serve individuals in recovery, those reentering society, youth, and families in need through discipleship, community outreach, clinical counseling, and workforce development.

At The Restored Table, we build more than tables. We build lives. We gather people around the table for meals, conversation, prayer, and truth. We walk with people in their darkest moments and remind them that they are not too far gone. We create space for healing, accountability, and purpose.

We have seen firsthand what happens when faith is not hidden, but lived out boldly.

We walked alongside a teenage boy who had been charged with underage drinking. Through mentorship, workforce development, and counseling, his charges were reduced, and he is still actively involved today.

We now have a 20-year-old man who was recently charged with felony breaking and entering. A judge in Cumberland County recommended our program. He came to serve community service hours, but after just two days, he asked to stay longer. After sharing a meal with us, he said with tears in his eyes that he looks forward to joining us again.

We have also seen a man come through our aftercare program who had both a pending felony and misdemeanor charge. After completing the program, his charges were dropped. Today, he is a certified peer support specialist and is now helping others in our day program, walking alongside people who are where he once was.

We have seen families restored. One man who came through recovery is now reunited with his wife. Their marriage has been restored, and they now have custody of their nephew. Today, he is mentoring other men and helping them find freedom.

This is the fruit of faith in action.

We are a faith based program, and while we serve individuals from all backgrounds, including those who do not share our beliefs, we do not separate our work from our faith. It is our faith that compels us to serve, to show up, and to stay when things are hard. It is the presence of God, the truth of Scripture, and the power of community that brings lasting transformation.

Religious liberty makes this work possible.

Without the freedom to live out and express our faith openly, the very thing that is transforming lives would be stripped away. Faith based organizations like ours are often on the front lines, meeting needs, restoring families, and helping individuals find a new path forward.

At times, we have faced challenges navigating systems and regulations that can unintentionally make it harder to operate in the fullness of what we are called to do. We desire to comply and partner well, but it is important that faith based organizations are not restricted from functioning in the very way that makes them effective.

Religious liberty is not just a constitutional right, it is a lifeline for the people we serve.

It allows us to meet people where they are, to love without condition, and to offer hope that is not temporary, but transformational.

I am grateful for the opportunity to share what God is doing through The Restored Table. My prayer is that religious liberty will continue to be protected so that this work, and others like it, can continue to bring hope, healing, and restoration across our nation.

Dear Commission Team,

Please accept the attached statement for consideration in connection with the Religious Liberty Commission's capstone hearing on April 13, 2026.

My statement addresses a dimension of religious liberty that is too often neglected: the right of individuals to remain within their faith traditions without being subjected to coercion, exclusion, or ideological domination by extremist religious enforcers.

While grounded in a personal experience involving exclusion at my father's funeral, the broader issue is one that affects many Muslims in America who have long lacked a meaningful public voice: the struggle to practice faith with conscience, dignity, and freedom while resisting coercive Islamist social control within communal life.

Thank you for your time and consideration.

Respectfully,

Zainab Khan

President, Muslim American Leadership Alliance

On Religious Liberty, Conscience, and the Right to Difference Within Faith

My name is Zainab Khan, and I submit this statement as an American Muslim woman, as the daughter of an immigrant father, and as someone whose understanding of religious liberty is deeply personal.

In America, religious liberty is often understood as protection from government interference in worship and belief. That protection is essential. But there is another dimension of religious liberty that receives far less attention: the right to live one's faith with conscience, dignity, and moral agency — even when one's interpretation differs from religious authorities, communal pressure, or inherited orthodoxy.

For many Americans of faith, particularly women and dissenters within religious communities, the greatest threat to religious liberty does not always come from the state. Sometimes it comes from within — from individuals or institutions that claim the authority to decide who belongs, who may participate, who may grieve, and who may stand fully present in sacred moments.

I know this personally.

When my father died, I was confronted not only with grief, but with an attempt to exclude me from one of the most sacred moments of my life. At my father's funeral and burial, an imam sought to prevent me and my sisters from fully participating because we were women.

This was not a mere disagreement over custom. It was an assertion of power. It was an attempt to deny daughters the right to stand beside their father in death, and to condition access to a sacred rite on submission to a narrow and coercive interpretation of faith.

No person should need permission from a cleric to mourn a parent.

No American should be forced to choose between faith and dignity.

And no religious authority should be permitted to monopolize the most intimate moments of human life — death, burial, mourning, family, and remembrance — in ways that strip believers of conscience and humanity.

What I experienced taught me that religious liberty must mean more than the right to belong to a religion. It must also include the right to remain within one's faith without surrendering one's moral agency to those who claim exclusive authority over it.

That includes the right to differ.

It includes the right to reject coercive or exclusionary applications of doctrine.

It includes the right to remain rooted in one's faith while refusing interpretations that deny equal dignity, especially in basic life-cycle moments such as funerals, marriages, births, and communal rites of passage.

For many Muslims in America, the pressure is not simply to believe, but to submit to coercive Islamist social control and self-appointed religious enforcers who insist there is only one acceptable way to practice Islam, belong to the community, and live as a Muslim in public and private life. That is not merely conservatism or tradition; in many cases, it is a form of ideological extremism expressed through communal domination. Muslims pushing back against Islamist control did not begin with my generation. For decades, many Muslims have quietly distanced themselves, adapted privately, or exited communal life altogether because they found no space to practice their faith with dignity, conscience, and freedom. They existed long before us, but they were rarely given a voice.

A Muslim who chooses to practice differently, interpret differently, raise a family differently, mourn differently, or simply refuse domination should not be treated as less Muslim, less legitimate, or less worthy of communal belonging.

That is not religious freedom. That is religious control.

The United States should be a place where individuals are protected not only in their right to practice religion, but also in their right to practice it without coercion by self-appointed gatekeepers who weaponize faith to dominate others.

My faith is not diminished because I reject exclusion.

My faith is not less authentic because I refuse subordination.

And my father's memory is not honored by surrendering my conscience to a man who believed he had the authority to decide whether I could fully mourn my own father.

What I sought in that moment was not rebellion. It was something much more basic: the right to grieve with dignity, to remain within my faith without erasure, and to stand before God and loss as a full human being.

That is religious liberty too.

I urge this Commission to recognize that threats to religious liberty do not arise only from the state or from interfaith hostility. They can also arise within communities, when religious authority is used to deny conscience, equal dignity, and full participation to those who do not conform to a rigid orthodoxy or coercive Islamist social control.

A nation committed to religious freedom must not only defend institutions. It must also defend the believer — especially the vulnerable believer — from coercion carried out in the name of God.

Religious liberty, rightly understood, must make room not only for belief, but for difference, dignity, conscience, and moral courage within belief.

To All Leaders on The Religious Liberty Commission,
As a True Christian Heritage American,I am completely disgusted by every single one of you; using our Christian Faith for your Political Dispensationalist propaganda. All of you should be ashamed of yourselves but that would mean you have humility and none of you do. You've intentionally twisted scripture to fit a certain agenda that's against Christ and his teachings. Christ was against war but you pray for it and try to justify it. Zionism is blasphemous to our Christian Faith but You've removed the only person who spoke truth against it,Carrie Prejean Boller. Heretic Paula White compared our President to Christ himself,No! I love our President Trump but he is not Christ. This Religious Liberty Commission is sacrilegious and filled with crazed Dispensationalist Heretics. All of you are sitting at the same table Christ would flip. Paula White asking people to give money and they'll be "Blessed",sickening. Dan Patrick implementing Anti-BDS laws is not only Anti-American and goes against our Constitution(our God-given rights) but is also Anti-Christian. The Religious Liberty Commission could have been something extremely incredible but all of you have turned it into a sinister blasphemous propaganda machine. The ONLY Chosen People are those who except and follow Christ,that is not Antisemitic that's truth;if you deny that Christ didn't fulfill the prophecies you deny him. Christian catechism teaches the definitive, unbreakable bond between God and humanity established by Christ through his Paschal Mystery fulfilled the Old covenant and We Christians believe in the New Covenant of everlasting life and Christ Is King,not any earthly Man/Woman or place.

Greetings, I am delighted to connect with you about the Religious Freedom event at the Museum of the Bible. I would like to introduce myself and share a brief overview of my Religious Freedom work for Iran and the Middle East, which has far-reaching implications for US national security.

As an Iranian-American and former Congressional advisor on Middle East policy, advancing religious freedom in Iran is both a professional priority and a deeply personal commitment. My family fled the Islamic Republic over forty years ago due to religious persecution, which continues to shape my engagement in this space.

I currently lead "The Path to Religious Freedom in Iran," a multi-phase initiative that brings together faith leaders, policymakers, and diaspora communities to develop practical solutions and tools, including curriculum and films that can be deployed on the ground. Our coalition includes organizations such as the Abrahamic Women's Alliance, The Iran Prosperity Project and Empower Women Media, among others.

I would love to find ten minutes to connect at the event next week, would that be possible? I am also happy to share a one-page summary of the initiative in advance.

Dear Commission Staff –

If religious liberty protections do not apply in academic settings, then they do not function as protections at all.

I would like to submit a proposal to provide testimony at the upcoming Religious Liberty Commission hearing.

My testimony would focus on the growing tension between academic freedom and the enforcement of religious liberty protections on U.S. campuses—an issue that is increasingly shaping how Title VI is applied in practice and will have significant implications going forward.

Specifically, I would address:

- How academic freedom is being invoked in ways that can limit or delay civil rights enforcement
- The gap between formal protections and their application within classroom and academic settings
- The need for clearer federal guidance on the intersection of academic freedom and civil rights obligations
- Policy recommendations to strengthen accountability, consistency, and funding-linked enforcement going forward

I am actively engaged in these issues through my work with the Coalition Against Antisemitism at Northwestern (CAAN), including direct interaction with students, university processes, and federal and congressional stakeholders.

I would welcome the opportunity to contribute a fact-based, implementation-focused perspective on how religious liberty protections can be strengthened while preserving the core principles of academic freedom.

Thank you for your consideration.

Best regards,
Michael Teplitsky

February 2022, I heard from the Lord to begin a ministry online and call it Global Convergence. I didn't even know what that meant and had to look it up. Its when all come together from every space and place. He said to pray for the Nations. I opened a discussion room on anAPP called ClubHouse. People came from everywhere to pray online for the nations. the actual date was February 24th. Thats the day the Russian army invaded Ukraine. We've been praying 5 days a week since then. Always Israel first. Its all about Israel, Always. Israel, Ukraine, Nigeria, South Africa, USA etc. We try to stay current with immediate needs. We have quite a few testimonies. Two different men at 2 different times had come into the room or someone asked us to pray. Both men, In different states and different times, were told by their Doctor that their heart is failing and there is nothing more they can do. We prayed and interceeded and God was faithful and healed both men!

Nov 2, 2024 I had a vision of intercessors seated in what appeared to be something like a delegate room at the White House. Each Intercessor representing their country to pray for those in Leadership, their people and to share and sicord about what they really need for their citizens and to share what worked and where they need help.
I told the Lod, ok. If this is truly of you, you will take care of everything and I had peace. People would ask me Hey Pastor Laurie How are you what have you been up to And I would tell them about this vision. On a whim, I decided to call yhe UN and see if there was even a possibility of having a meeting in Delegation Room. The answer, "No" but I still had peace. I found out that you not only need to know someone that is part of'ECOSOC", (Economic and Social Council), but you have to be aligned with them. Still I had peace.
In January, 2025, I engaged with a young man who I hadn't spoken to in a while and he asked me what have I been up to so I told him about the vision. He immediately responded with, "I think I know an Ambassador, maybe more than one. Within the hour, he introduced me to my first UN Ambassador for Peace. We made arrangements to speak the following week. We spoke and I told her the vision. She said she would call me back. as she was leaving for Kenya. In February, this Ambassador called me and said, "Wait a minute Pastor Laurie, Can you hold on?" I said, "Sure". She came back to speak with me and in that minute, she put on three Ambassadors; One was in Kenya, One was in Genvea and she was in the USA. I was a little overwhelmed and intimidated but they wanted to hear the vision so I told them. One of the Ambassadors who was reading, "Commissioned By Christ" said that I was doing what it said to do in the book! They gave themselves assignments to look into potentially being able to meet at the UN and scheduled another call. WOW ,but I had peace. At the very end of February, the first Ambssador called me and again put me on a call with 3 other UN Ambassadors for Peace.

One of the women that I hadnt' spoken to before wanted to hear the vision. Well, I didn't have any notebooks in front of me and it was very very very late. I had had s very long stressful day. She said just tell me in your own words. I told her. She told the Ambassadors to look through their calendars to see when would be a good time to meet to fulfill this vision. I just dropped to the floor in praise and worship.

While all this was going on, I wrote out the program and the speakers as the Lord led. Global Convergence Merged with a ministry out of New Zealand called The Maori Initiative founded by Pastor Steve Hutana. We merged for for one project called, "ASK of Him and The Seek Forum" where national representatives would come together and pray and listen to the needs of the country. So he believed in the vision. Come to find out that the Maori and Kiowa as representing the indigenous people have never been invited to the United Nations so we made sure there was a proper indigenous welcoming.

We launched ASK26 UN February 4, 2026. we met in a large delegation room. We prayed and sang and encouraged one another in this very historical event. One woman who came sat in th eback and she stood up and asked if she could speak. She said that it was the best session shes ever attended at the UN in over 22 years! We praise God. February 4th was Interfaith Harmony Week. We were invited to return next year. Our God is faithful.

Watch it as it happened and the Holy Spirit was palpable in the room. He is the God of the Impossible. We have about 20 National representatives but of course would want representation of all 198 sovereign nations.

- The Sikh Coalition has known since 2019 that Sikhs have faced abuses of their religious rights while in DHS custody, including not being provided with religiously-appropriate meals, not being provided a clean place to pray, and having their articles of faith seized and abused.
- There have previously been efforts to reform practices in CBP specifically around the seizure of migrants' personal affects—including articles of faith, but also identification documents, medication, glasses, and more.
    - This work was spurred in part by public reporting first shared by AZ Luminaria in August 2022 regarding CBP agents discarding the turbans of detained Sikh asylum-seekers.
    - The ACLU and other organizations, including the Sikh Coalition, issued a report on migrant property confiscation in February 2024.
    - CBP issued a directive on this issue in August 2024, and a further policy change in December 2024.
    - In November 2024, Congresswoman Delia C. Ramirez (IL-03), Congressman Raúl Grijalva (AZ-07), Senator Peter Welch (VT-D), Senator Dick Durbin (IL-D), and Senator Tammy Duckworth (IL-D) introduced bicameral legislation to codify a fix for this issue. The bill was called The CBP Guidance on Personal Belongings Act, or H.R. 10237 / S. 5389, in the 118th Congress.
- In March of 2025, the Sikh Coalition reached out to Customs and Border Protection due to new reports that Sikh detainees and deportees suffered human rights abuses in the course of their detention and deportation by DHS and/or DoD personnel, including the confiscation and destruction of their turbans.
    - CBP replied to the Sikh Coalition's letter via paper mail in May 2025. In that reply,
        - There was no indication that CBP was interested in seriously investigating the January/February mistreatment claims, and we were not advised of another form of recourse for doing so.
        - CBP said that the 2024 policy changes were "currently under review to ensure compliance with all applicable Executive Orders and will be published upon [CBP's] review conclusion." To our knowledge, no public update on this issue has since been provided.

Strong Bridge Human Right Initiative act as a public defender to the Rule of Law good governance, accessible governance, accountability, transparency, equity and justice.

1. On 14th October, 2015, Mazi Nnamdi Kanu and five others were arrested by Secret police in Lagos, and arraigned at the Federal High Court, Abuja, Under the Lordship of Justice BintaNyako. They were charged on an 11 counts charge of Treasonable Felony. On 28th April, 2017, he was granted bail on health grounds.
2. On 17th September, 2017, The Armed Forces of Nigeria, under the leadership of Lt. Gen. Tukur Yusufu Buratai, the then Chief of Army Staff violated the Rule of Law and committed a Contempt of Court. The Nigerian Military criminally invaded Mazi Nnamdi Kanu's house at his native home town, Afara-Ukwu, Umuahia, Abia State attempting to assassinate him. There were extra judicial killings of people in his house. There were secret cameras planted in the banana tree and palm trees in his vicinity. These evidences are with the International Criminal Court, European Union and other relevant international organizations. Mazi Nnamdi Kanu did not jump bail, he ran for his dear like, he is not an iroko tree that he will stand.

3. On 27th June, 2021, The Kenyan and Nigeria governments unlawfully extradited Nnamdi Kanu from Kenya to Nigeria in violation of international laws ontorture, of human right violation and crimes against humanity by the collaboration of some Igbo political elites and the Department of State Security (DSS). Some South East governors and their cohorts who were paid heavily to betray Mazi Nnamdi Kanu were also involved in this injustice. The British Government did not play its role to protect its citizen Mazi Nnamdi Kanu with British Consular assistance as a British citizen to pursue his case.

4. On 29th June, 2021, Mazi Nnamdi Kanu appeared at a Federal High Court for the second time on a 15 counts charge of Treasonable Felony. On the 13th October, 2022, Federal Court of Appeal, Abuja, (AppealCA/ABJ/CR/625/2022) final judgment delivered by Justice Oludotun Adebola favoured Mazi Nnamdi Kanu, the Leader of Indigenous People of Biafra, to be discharged and acquitted voided and set aside the charges by the Nigeria Government against Mazi Nnamdi Kanu for violating the International Law of extradition and his continuous unlawful detention. On 21st October, 2022, the Nigeria Government, through the office of the Attorney General of the Federation & Minister of Justice manipulated the case by re-filling a stay of execution to set aside the 13th October, 2022 judgment by the Federal Court of Appeal which discharged and acquitted Mazi Nnamdi Kanu, thereby denying him freedom as ruled.

5. On 26th October, 2022, a Federal High Court in Umuahia, Abia State ruled against the Federal Government of Nigeria for violating the International law of torture, human right violation, crime against humanity with the continued detention of Mazi Nnamdi Kanu and ordered The Federal Government of Nigeria to pay Mazi Nnamdi Kanu the sum of One Billion Naira (N1,000,000,000.00) in damages and return him back to Kenya with respect to the judgment delivered by Justice Oludotun Adebola on October 13th, 2022.

6. On 23rd July 2022, United Nations Working Group on arbitration in its 93rd session gave The Federal Government of Nigeria a mandatory directive to release Mazi Nnamdi Kanu, Leader of the Indigenous People of Biafra (IPOB) unconditionally and compensate him adequately for violating international laws and unlawful extradition.

7. On 9thJanuary, 2023, Jarvis Johnson, representing Texas House of Representative made a statement that Mazi Nnamdi Kanu did not commit any crime by asking for referendum for the self determination of his oppressed Biafrans and he blamed the US government, under the leadership of President Joe Biden who is defending democracy in the global world, for not having intervened in the release of Mazi Nnamdi Kanu and the oppressed Biafrans.

8. On the 24th,June, 2025 Hon Justice E.C Mwita of the Kenyan High Court (No E282 2021) in Nairobi, Kenya ruled against the Nigerian government for its unlawful abduction, tortured and repatriation of the IPOB leader, Mazi Nnamdi Kanu, without due process and constituting a breach of Kenyan Sovereignty and Kenyan government gave an executive order to pay compensation of 10 Million Kenyan shillings (approx 120 million naira) to Mazi Nnamdi Kanu.

9. Nigerian government violated international law, Nigerian constitution and the African Charter law on the unconditional release of Nnamdi Kanu the leader of IPOB by the Court of Appeal, Abuja which discharged & acquitted him. They violated the court order of an apex court ruling. He was re-arrested byThe Nigerian government and has remained in solitary detention for over 1,740 days since his abduction. The Nigerian government defied its own judiciary by refusing to release Mazi Nnamdi Kanu. There was no re-arrest only continued unlawful imprisonment in blatant violation of constitutionally protected double jeopardy safeguards under section 36(9) of the 1999 Constitution and Article 7(2) of the African Charter on Human Rights.

10. On the 17th June 2025, a Canadian Federal high court delivered a judgment against Nigeria political parties, The All Progressives Congress APC & The Peoples Democratic Party PDP as terrorist organizations based on evidence linking them. The Nigerian Government have not challenged this criminal indictment in any International Court of Law.

11. On 20th, November 2025, Hon Justice James Omotosho of the Federal High Court sentenced Nnamdi Kanu life imprisonment for terrorism related offences, Hon Justice James Omotosho has violated the International law for trying Mazi Nnamdi Kanu because the Nigerian Government have committed unlawful repatriation, by abduction, tortured, by the above mentioned name from Kenya without due process, constituting a breach of International law and Kenyan Sovereignty. Hon Justice James Omotosho of the Federal High Court sentenced Mazi Nnamdi Kanu with a repealed law that is a non- existent law in Nigerian Criminal Justice law. It clearly shows that Nigeria is a criminal state favoring the Fulanization & Islamization Jihadist terrorist Agenda for not releasing Nnamdi Kanu from unlawful detention for defending the total freedom of the peoples of United States of Biafra.

Kaduna: Names of 177 abducted worshippers revealed

On, the raised alarm over the incident, describing it as "unacceptable", and highlighting the recurring pattern of mass abductions across Nigeria.

He said: "I have just been informed that yet again, at the weekend, about 177 worshippers were abducted from churches in Kaduna. This is another unfortunate consequence of a nation where insecurity has been allowed to grow unchecked and unchallenged.

"Even with official denials, we must ask ourselves hard questions. Can we continue waking up to news of mass abductions, ransom demands and denials while citizens live in fear?

Obi stressed that authorities must act swiftly to ensure the victims and perform further encounters, adding that "Nigeria deserves a government that treats human life as sacred. The time to stop this insecurity is now."

Recall that the state government, state police command and chairman of Igabi Local Government Area (LG) on Monday confirmed reports of mass abduction in the state, challenging those confirming the attack to release the names of those abducted.

Bandits kidnap Christian, two others at Kajuru before Kajuru's mass abduction, demand N10bn ransom

Prior to the mass abduction, the bandits had earlier on Sunday morning, swooped on Kajuru community in Southern Kaduna and took away a nursing mother with her three-month-old baby.

But, they inexplicably left behind the toddler and the expectant wife her pregnant despite plans by the bandits to also kidnap her and collect on the benefits to span the woman because of her baby.

A man in Kajuru, whose sister was also taken away with her nine-year-old son told Vanguard in Abuja yesterday that the kidnappers have demanded the payment of N10million as ransom as a condition for release the three persons they took away that morning.

The man, who gave his name as Anthony Yisa, told Vanguard that the bandits also warned that the family of the nursing mother must pay them N50 million as a ransom before they can negotiate with her seeking to limit or be killed with immediate effect.

Yisa also told our correspondent that the bandits were asking for N100 million ransom for another woman, whose name was given as Alice Bajaya, and her son, David, who they abducted in the Sunday dawn raid in Kajuru, a settlement in Kajuru Local Government Area of Kaduna State.

Apart from abducting the two mother and a son, the kidnappers also inflicted serious injuries on the husbands of the women who tried to prevent them from making away with their victims.

The man, whose sister was also taken away, was also inflicted on the two men were severe and fled some of them might be able to use his hands again due to sheer pain inflicted on them by the attackers.

It was learned that while the kidnappers were advising the relatives of the victims in their custody to urgently make the N100 million ransom payment to them, they also warned them not to report their disposition with them (bandits) to any law enforcement agency or risk being slaughtered.

"We are mentally afraid for the lives of our family members," Yisa said yesterday amid sobs, wondering where they would get N100 million to pay for kidnappers and free their loved ones.

"This thing happened in the midnight of Saturday breaking into Sunday to my village of Kajuru, a stone's throw from Kajuru. A woman, Alice Bitrus, was taken away with her son, David, about ten years old.

"But the one that breaks everyone's heart is David. He is a boy of nine years. Nine-year-old baby was thrown away as they snatched the mother and disappeared into the bush.

"So the husband tried to stop them from breaking into the house, they used machete to slim his hands into pieces. It is painful if the man would recover from the wounds and live.

"The middle we have a husband whose hands they hacked off in the three process into mothers and a boy are assessing the family and to disclose anything to the security agencies or only having their loved beings," this innocent man lamented.

When contacted on phone, Police Public Relations Officer, PPRO, of Kaduna police command, Mr Mansir Hassan, said he would investigate and correct.

Kajuru Church Abductions: Why we insist attack happened — Hayab, Northern CAN Chairman

CHAIRMAN of the Christian Association of Nigeria, CAN, in the 19 Northern States and the Federal Capital Territory, FCT, Rev. Joseph John Hayab, in this interview monitored on Arise TV, speaks on the reported abduction of worshippers from churches in Kajuru Local Government Area of Kaduna State, official denials, security response, and wider security concerns. Excerpts:

THERE are competing narratives here: claims of mass abductions and official denials. Let's start with your version. The Christian Association of Nigeria says three churches were attacked during worship and worshippers abducted in Kajuru Local Government Area of Kaduna State. What verifiable information do you have that confirms that this attack occurred?

I think Nigerians need to know that the association called the Christian Association or Fellowship of Christians in Nigeria is an association that is highly connected and works together. We operate from the national level to the regional, state, local government and grassroots levels. So our connection and our system of communication—passing information forward—is a very strong one. We do not have difficulties knowing when, where and how things happen.

As someone who served as Kaduna State secretary for a long time and later as chairman of CAN in Kaduna State, and now currently serving at the northern regional level, I have connections and relationships across the entire system. So once anything happens, there is communication.

Currently, there is a chairman of CAN in Kaduna State. Fortunately, on the day this unfortunate incident happened, he was out of the country, but he arrived this evening. When he was away, the practice is that information is sent to him and copied to me. A message came to my phone at 2:36 p.m., informing me that unverified numbers of worshippers were taken from certain churches—Cherubim and Seraphim One and Cherubim and Seraphim Two, sometimes called Bishara Cherubim and Seraphim, and also Hosky Cherubim and Seraphim—in the same town. There is also a nearby location involved.

Because we did not know the exact number of people taken, another message was sent to say that the attackers came, shot the entire church, and then paraded the worshippers to walk in a straight line into the bush. That was what happened. Nobody was there to verify immediately, and the CAN chairman at the local government level does not live mentioned figures of up to 100 abducted persons.

Some of these stories became exaggerated. The figures circulating came from communication meant to relate the story, where people demanded names. What we continue to discuss with government authorities is that we should not focus too much on the numbers but on the fact that the incident occurred. It is also important to note that some people escaped and returned, which affected the figures being quoted.

Since the incident happened on Sunday and you informed the authorities that same day, have you formally engaged Kaduna State Government and federal security agencies since the reports emerged, and what are they telling you now?

I have been engaging with security agencies throughout this process, and we are now on the same page. The unfortunate incident happened, and innocent Nigerians were taken from their church. There is no longer any debate about that. They have acknowledged us as Christian leaders. I was not alone in these engagements. We discussed with them, including senior officials, and they acknowledged that people were taken. There was a promise that efforts would be made to go after the perpetrators.

Did they question why you went public?

Why went public first? It was the reporters, not me or any government official. We were reacting to a story that was already in the public domain. When Sahara Reporters published the story, we were put under pressure because everyone was asking us questions. Imagine the families of those abducted hearing official statements saying nothing happened. How would they feel? That is playing with people's emotions and sensitivities.

What standard of proof does CAN apply before going public with such claims?

If anyone makes a claim and later discovers it is false, they should be bold enough to admit the mistake, apologise and take responsibility. That is the problem with leadership today—leaders who cannot admit when they are wrong. That is not how we operate.

So the information first came to you on Sunday at 2:36 p.m.?

Yes. The next day, Monday, the first group that broke the news to the media was released. That is a lie. First, you check whether it is smoke or fire. When you confirm it is fire, you raise the alarm.

Do you see this as part of a broader pattern of attacks on Christian worshippers in the Northwest?

It is not limited to the Northwest. In recent weeks, we have credible intelligence of plans to attack Christians in Niger, Kogi, Kwara and other vulnerable states, with the aim of provoking anger and confusion. We have shared this information with security agencies. Terrorists are no longer hiding their identities. The President himself has said that anyone who takes up arms against Nigeria is a terrorist. Downplaying such acts or by calling them banditry weakens the seriousness of the issue.

Are you concerned that this incident could be internationalised?

This is an opportunity for Nigerians to correct narratives and show commitment to protecting citizens. Nigerians want assurance and action. If they see action, confidence will return.

What long-term strategy is needed to make communities safe?

What we want is for every Nigerian community to be safe. If my neighbour is not safe, then I am not safe. Security must be holistic and inclusive. Citizens must be carried along, trust must be built, and collaboration must be genuine. If we do that, we will succeed.

Why is your account different from that of the security agencies?

I really sympathise with Governor Uba, who is making efforts to ensure things work properly, but such statements are discouraging. Instead of saying nothing happened, the proper response should have been to investigate further. Let me give an example: the local council chairman was the first person to give us figures. We were shocked to later hear him make contrary statements public. He was the first person

Hags a protest in Ondo, blocking Akure-Owo Expressway with a corpse after a man was killed by suspected terrorists.

Insecurity: Protests rock Ondo, Oyo as youths block highway with corpses

ACUTE — POLITICIANS and the shooting of three persons, including a serving member of Ondo State Executive Council, Hon. Omotoso Ajayi, have blocked the Akure-Owo highway, with corpses of those killed by gunmen.

The owner of a shop that was shot dead by suspected armed robbers in Akure, Ondo State capital, and other citizens yesterday in Akoda, Ajue Local Government Area of Oyo State, were also killed.

The Ondo Market Traders Association, Akure, Ondo State, has also joined the protest.

Hon. Omotoso Ajayi, who represents Akure North East Local Council Development Area (LCDA) in the Ondo State Executive Council, was shot dead by gunmen, suspected to be Fulani herdsmen, while returning from his farm in Ondo.

Meanwhile, the angry residents of Ile-Ale, Igoba and Ajue communities in Akure, the capital of Ondo State, have imposed a curfew on the entire communities following the incessant abduction and killing of the residents of the area.

The angry protesters, who blocked the Akure-Owo Expressway, also vowed to carry out reprisal attacks on Tuesday, saying they are tired of losing their people and abducting from other members of the community.

They vowed not to leave the road until the governor of Ondo State, Lucky Aiyedatiwa, addressed them on the security challenges in the communities.

Until then, however, peace returned when the Ondo State Commissioner of Police, CP Adebowale Lawal, visited the community and was turned back by the angry protesters, who told him to his face that they should allow the free flow of traffic on the highway.

They insisted that they would not move the road as dusk fell as it is dangerous.

Lawal, pleaded with the protesters to allow security agencies, including Amotekun operatives and the Police, would restore the safety of lives and properties and would beef up security in the communities.

The demonstrators displayed placards with various inscriptions, including "Governor Aiyedatiwa Where are you?" "Our Children are Under the Bridge" and "Amotekun Abandoned".

They carried the corpses and charred wages, demanding urgent government intervention to address the persistent insecurity in the communities near the Akure airport.

Lawal said that he would liaise with the governor to address the security challenges confronting them in the area.

A local, who spoke with newsmen, lamented that kidnapping incidents had become frequent in the area, accusing the government of failing to take decisive action to curb them and end the menace.

He said, "We are tired of the situation. Almost every day, one sees fear about kidnappings around the airport road. On Monday, Council members was kidnapped, and today (yesterday), our pastor. This is unacceptable. We cannot continue like this.

"The government is not doing enough to protect us. Sometimes, they (kidnappers) operate in broad daylight. We are appealing to the governor to intervene before more lives are lost. We cannot continue like this."

Also, a resident, who simply identified as Mr. Ajayi, said, "Abductors have been operating with impunity in the area, arresting the movement of people and goods. We cannot continue like this."

Abductors of LCDA scribe demand N100m

Meanwhile, the abductors of Akerkeyi, who is the Managing Director of Ashoo Farms, have insisted on collecting N100m before releasing him.

A family source said, "They (kidnappers) called this morning (yesterday). They asked us to bring N100 million before they would release him. They spoke very shortly and hastily during the call, and did not even allow us to say much.

"We have been worried since yesterday, but the call has given us hope. We are still expecting that they will call because the money is a whole lot.

"Our concern is more about his health at the moment because

He urged the Ilaro-Oyo Road and disrupting both commercial and vehicular movement.

Mr. Ambassador, the numbers are disputed. Some reports say the Iranians support the current leadership, as seen when they came out to mourn Khamenei.

What we saw on television were spontaneous shows of delight and happiness from Iranians. No credible human rights organization claims less than 30,000 Iranians were massacred. This regime is destabilizing the region– they've fired rockets at Turkey, Azerbaijan, Kuwait, Saudi Arabia, and the UAE.

Last year, you said you had "obliterated" Iran's nuclear program. Why are you still saying they will build a weapon? Did the "obliteration" not work?

In the 12-day war, we set back Iran's programme. However, over the last year, the Iranian leadership – while their people have no water and face an economic crisis – decided to invest $1 billion into rebuilding a new nuclear programme deeper underground. They refused to negotiate or give up enrichment. If they had invested the billion dollars into their people instead of missiles and terrorists, we wouldn't be here.

What about the humanitarian cost? Reports say 150 schoolchildren were killed.

Israel follows the laws of war and carries out pinpoint strikes to minimize civilian casualties. Iran, on the other hand, [illegible] Shamesh. Their missiles have killed children and the elderly. It is Iran that is carrying out war crimes.

Finally, regarding Iranian influence in Nigeria, you mentioned the Islamic Movement of Nigeria IMN. Is Israel looking to join the U.S. in fighting terrorism in Nigeria?

It is well-documented that the Islamic Movement of Nigeria is backed by the Iranian regime. Ayatollah Khamenei even posted his support on X. Regarding the second part, Nigeria and Israel are strong allies. As Prime Minister Netanyahu said, we are eager to partner with Nigeria according to Nigeria's needs and desires to tackle instability.

Iran Rejects Israeli Allegation of Sponsoring Terrorism In Nigeria, sahel

By Favour Uhebor, Abuja

The Ambassador of the Islamic Republic of Iran to Nigeria, Gholamreza Mahdavi Raje, has strongly rejected allegations that Iran sponsors terrorism in Nigeria and across the Sahel region, describing the claims as unfounded and part of a propaganda campaign.

The ambassador made the remarks in an exclusive interview with Saturday Vanguard, responding to comments attributed to the Israeli ambassador to Nigeria, Michael Freeman, during an interview on ARISE News dated February 6, 2026.

Freeman had alleged that Iran was a major sponsor of terrorism and that its influence extended to Nigeria and the wider Sahel region.

Reacting to the claim, the Iranian envoy dismissed the allegation and said the accusation should be seen within the context of a broader propaganda effort.

He also maintained that Iran itself has been a victim of terrorism over the years and has consistently advocated global cooperation in tackling the menace.

He said, "Such allegations are entirely unfounded and form part of a propaganda campaign by a regime that has a long record of violence and violations of international law. What is being claimed today by the Israeli regime against others is in fact an attempt to deflect attention and shift public focus away from its own crimes.

"There is ample evidence that the Israeli regime, over the years, been involved in the assassination of scientists, government officials, and political figures in different countries, including the Islamic Republic of Iran. Such actions are widely regarded under international law as examples of state terrorism.

"The Islamic Republic of Iran itself has been one of the principal victims of terrorism over the past decades, with numerous Iranian citizens falling victim to terrorist attacks. Iran has therefore consistently emphasized the need for genuine international cooperation to combat terrorism in all its forms and believes that the concept of counter terrorism must not be abused as a political tool to level baseless accusations against other countries.

"Regarding the specific allegations linking Iran to terrorism activities in Nigeria or the Sahel lack credible evidence.

"Therefore, the allegations regarding Iran's role in Nigeria or the Sahel region have no credible basis and should be viewed within the context of this ongoing propaganda effort," he said.

Speaking on the broader relationship between Iran and Nigeria, the ambassador said ties between both countries remain cordial and are based on mutual respect and shared interests.

According to him, cooperation between the two nations covers several sectors, including trade, education, culture, science and technology, health, and diplomatic engagement.

He also described Nigeria as an important partner for Iran on the African continent.

He said, "Relations between the Islamic Republic of Iran and the Federal Republic of Nigeria are friendly and based on mutual respect, shared interests, and the principles of international law. Cooperation between the two countries spans various areas, including trade, education, culture, health, science and technology, as well as diplomatic engagement.

"In this regards, Nigeria as an important and influential country in Africa and has always supported the expansion of bilateral cooperation within the framework of international law and the mutual interests of both nations. These relations are transparent and legitimate and have no contradiction whatsoever to the claims being made by certain circles and institutions."

The ambassador further reassured the Nigerian government and citizens that Iran remains committed to strengthening relations and promoting peace and stability through cooperation.

"Our message to the government and people of Nigeria is clear: the Islamic Republic of Iran values its relations with Nigeria and seeks constructive engagement and long term cooperation with Nigeria and all nations," he stated.

He added that mutual benefit can only be achieved through cooperation, dialogue, respect for national sovereignty, and adherence to international law, as the remains committed to working with Nigeria in promoting economic, cultural, and technical fields and to work together toward promoting peace, stability, and shared prosperity," he said.

The ambassador's response comes amid growing tensions and an unprecedented escalation of war between Iran, Israel, and the United States of America, a conflict that continues to dominate geopolitical headlines.

The conflict migrated in late February 2026 when coordinated military strikes by the United States and Israel targeted multiple Iranian cities and strategic military sites, including air defence systems and nuclear related infrastructure, as part of major operations named by analysts as Operation Roaring Lion and Operation Epic Fury respectively.

These strikes followed months of stalled nuclear negotiations and long-standing regional hostilities between Tehran and Israel.

Iran's top leadership, including Supreme Leader Ayatollah Ali Khamenei, was reportedly killed in initial strikes, prompting a severe Iranian counter response.

In retaliation, Iran launched ballistic missiles, drones, and other attacks targeting Israeli territory and American military bases across the Gulf region.

Many groups allied to Tehran, including Hezbollah in Lebanon, have escalated the conflict further by firing rockets and drones into northern Israel, triggering reciprocal strikes on Lebanese territory.

The conflict has also had significant economic and strategic repercussions, including disruptions to global oil markets due to tensions around the Strait of Hormuz, a critical transit route for about one fifth of the world's petroleum and LNG supplies, which Tehran has effectively restricted amid the hostilities.

On the political front, on March 5, the United States House of Representatives rejected a war powers resolution that would have required President Donald Trump to seek congressional authorisation for continuing military action against Iran, a move that reaffirmed support among House Republicans for the administration's military campaign.

As of early March 2026, the war shows no sign of immediate de-escalation, with sustained military actions, regional spillover and diplomatic divisions complicating peace efforts.

Terror threats: Senate, Zulum demand swift action from Tinubu

Adebayo Folorunsho-Francis, Dirisu Yakubu, Stephen Angbulu, Solomon Odeniyi, Isah Ojo, John Charles, Collins Agwam, Haruna Usman, James Abraham, Arthnasham Salmar, Gbenga Ologun and Maiharaji Altine

THE Senate and Borno State Governor, Babagana Zulum, on Wednesday urged President Bola Tinubu to take urgent measures against the renewed terrorist attacks in the North-East.

Zulum advised the President to rely more on the professional judgment of the military rather than political voices in the fight against Boko Haram insurgents.

The Senate, on its part, called for concerted action against the terrorists and also recommended the establishment of a military base in the Hong Local Government Area of Adamawa State.

Speaking on News Central's Breakfast Central on Wednesday, Zulum emphasised that the solution to the prolonged insurgency lies in strengthening ground-level military intelligence and avoiding political interference.

"The President needs to listen to the people who can tell him the right thing. The President should listen to the army," Zulum declared. "We should not politicise insecurity."

He warned that some politicians and even members of the armed forces were acting as informants and collaborators for the insurgents, further complicating efforts to restore peace.

"We have informants and collaborators within the Nigerian armed forces, politicians, and communities," he revealed.

"What we shall do is to strengthen our intelligence and deal with them ruthlessly."

Zulum called for a shift from what he described as "contractocracy" and excessive bureaucracy in security procurement and planning, saying Nigeria could end the insurgency in six months with the right focus.

He also criticised the current state of military equipment, noting that insurgents had gained technological superiority over the Nigerian forces.

"The army doesn't have the necessary equipment to fight the insurgency. The insurgents have the technology," Zulum claimed.

Despite this, the governor praised the armed forces for supporting non-kinetic (non-military) measures, which he said are yielding positive results.

"Insurgency will never be ended by kinetic measures alone. We must ensure that the non-kinetic measures are also properly put in place," he said, citing the importance of addressing the social, political, and economic roots of the crisis.

On the controversial issue of surrendered insurgents, Zulum maintained that the vast majority of repentant fighters have reintegrated positively into society.

"I cannot completely say that 100% of those who surrendered are doing the right thing, but I want to assure you that over 90% are doing well and are not participating in ongoing terrorism," he said.

While acknowledging the risk of some returnees relapsing into militancy, Zulum insisted the deradicalisation and reintegration program is largely successful.

"The forest guard shall be provided immediately," he added, emphasising the need for practical, local solutions alongside military efforts.

Zulum's comments underscore his long-standing position that professional military insight, not political manoeuvring, should drive Nigeria's strategy to defeat Boko Haram.

Military base

During the plenary on Wednesday, the Senate passed a resolution calling for the establishment of a military base in Hong LGA of Adamawa State.

The resolution followed a motion sponsored by Senator Aminu Abbas (PDP–Adamawa) and co-sponsored by all senators from the North-East.

Titled, 'Resurgence of Boko Haram Activities in Hong and Gombi Local Government Areas, Adamawa and Other North-East States,' the motion highlighted the increasing frequency of attacks in the region, particularly in Adamawa, Borno, and Yobe States.

While commending the efforts of Nigeria's security forces, the Senate emphasised the urgent need for reinforcement through the creation of a military base in Hong.

The lawmakers argued that such a facility would strengthen the presence of the Nigerian Army and other security agencies in the area.

Additionally, the Senate directed the National Emergency Management Agency to deliver relief materials to the affected communities to mitigate the humanitarian impact of the attacks.

Presenting the motion, Abbas expressed concern over the growing insecurity in Hong and Gombi LGAs, noting that successive Boko Haram attacks have displaced thousands and disrupted livelihoods.

"The renewed wave of attacks has left communities in fear, and economic activities have ground to a halt. People can no longer go to their farms or conduct their businesses," Abbas said.

Lending his voice to the debate, Senate Chief Whip Mohammed Monguno praised the military's past efforts in counter-insurgency operations.

He recalled how large swathes of Borno and Yobe States were once under Boko Haram's control.

"But through strong political will and military resolve, we were able to regain those territories. Unfortunately, we're now witnessing a resurgence, with recent attacks even targeting military formations and looting equipment," Monguno warned.

Senate President Godswill Akpabio stressed the importance of sustained vigilance, noting that Boko Haram often strikes when security forces let down their guard.

"Any time the fight abates and they think that the military has relaxed, they will catch them unawares with sporadic attacks. Our borders remain porous, and many of the attackers are not even Nigerians. They infiltrate our territory with ease and launch deadly assaults. We must not allow complacency.

"While commending the brilliant performance of the law enforcement agents, we call for the establishment of a military base in the Hong Local Government Area for reinforcement of the existing personnel of the Nigerian Army and other sister security operatives.

"We direct NEMA to provide relief materials to cushion the effects of the attacks on the affected communities," Akpabio said.

Presidency chides Zulum

A presidential aide, who spoke on condition of anonymity, chided the governor's assertions, questioning the effectiveness of Boko Haram in the 15-year fight.

Asked if Zulum's assertion that Boko had superior weapons was true, he stated, "That is not true. The President has service and intelligence chiefs. He meets with them regularly, and they brief him on their progress.

"Supposing Boko Haram has superior weapons to the Nigerian military and has an agenda of establishing a caliphate, do you think Governor Zulum will still be living in his Government House?

"So, if Boko Haram's weapons are superior, why is he still sleeping in the Government House? Why have they not overrun Maiduguri by now? Why is Boko Haram still operating from the fringes?"

Similarly, a member of the House of Representatives Committee on Defence described Zulum's comment on Boko Haram's sophistication as "way off the mark," noting that across the African continent, the Nigerian military is highly respected for its capacity to rise to local and continental challenges.

The member, who declined to be named because he lacks the authorisation to speak for the committee, said, "Gov Zulum is wrong. His claims are mere guesses because the public will believe him because of the emotive nature of these attacks. The governor and the entire people and government of Borno State deserve our sympathy, but to say that a set of senseless killers are better armed technologically or otherwise than our gallant troops is way off the mark."

Massacre of Christians: What we told The New York Times Bureau Chief, MacLean — Intersociety

By Jeff Agbodo

THE International Society for Civil Liberties and Rule of Law (Intersociety) has said that Ruth Maclean, the West African Bureau Chief of The New York Times, USA, lied against it over the interview granted her by its Chairman, Mr. Emeka Umeagbalasi.

The group in a statement personally signed by Umeagbalasi, stated that Maclean lied against him in the interview on December 16, 2025 over the killing of Christians by suspected bandits, Boko Haram and Fulani Herdsmen.

Intersociety said that it was "shocked and totally disappointed" at the latest publication of the said New York Times, concerning "a perfidy of lies told against us in the report, dated Sunday, Jan 18, 2026."

The group explained that the lies injuriously credited to it in the referenced Jan 18, 2026 report "were never part of the marathon interview that lasted for more than three hours and spilled over a photo-shoot session that lasted for another one hour.

"It must also be categorically stated that our reports on massacre of Christians in Nigeria since 2009 are purely in line with international best practices under the UN and the AU Systems and have nothing to do with the person of Donald Trump and his critics, including possibly the New York Times.

"Our reports', the group further said, "had nothing to do with 'American politics of Republicans and Democrats'" or the country's politico-religious divisions along Gay Rights and Nativalists (exponents of "Order of Nature") lines.

"Lobbying with borrowed public funds to cover the Christian massacre can never discredit our data and dampen us", Intersociety warned.

Religious Freedom remains First Freedom in the world, including Nigeria and its beneficiaries include Muslims and Christians which is why we reported that "125,000 Christians and 60,000 Muslims were killed outside religious freedom and protection in Nigeria since 2009 and estimated 19,100 churches attacked, burned down or destroyed".

The group said "we are at loss as to why the New York Times mischievously linked the interview with us since December 16, 2025, to US Airstrikes that took place nine days after on December 25, 2025; to the extent of framing it in its headlines.

"We are very surprised as to the business the interview got to do with the US airstrikes in Nigeria's Sokoto which the Nigerian government and its Armed Forces and NSA publicly claimed was a joint responsibility and openly celebrated with US government.

"We hereby place the world on notice that we are holding the New York Times and its referenced West African Bureau Chief vicariously liable and the Nigerian government and its supported state actors directly liable should anything untoward happen to our leader and his beloved family as well as our offices in Onitsha, Enugu and Aguata.

"New York Times lied when it falsely claimed that our Board Chairman admitted that he often does not verify his data. On the contrary, he lucidly marshalled out during the interview, Intersociety's data collection processes including primary or directly generated and secondary or indirectly or third party generated.

"New York Times also lied that we said our data was mainly based on secondary data, including "Nigerian media, Christian interest groups and Google searches". Our Leader cited several documented cases of our direct data collection across the country, especially in Southern Kaduna, Taraba, South-East, South-South, etc. where our field research assistants have been deployed over the years.

"New York Times lied against us as there was never a moment during the interview that our leader compared himself, with CNN's Christiane Amanpour. Instead, we advised Ruth Maclean to fly higher as a female journalist of international repute and emulate Amanpour of CNN who has globally transformed herself into an "institution" and resisted putting her journalistic integrity to disrepute or on the mud.

"Contrary to Ruth Maclean, we vividly explained how we established or identified religious identities of Christian victims and their places such as knowing the Christian populated areas especially, across the North. We cited and mentioned to her some native Christian places in Kano, Southern Borno, Southern Kaduna, Southern Gombe, Kastina, Southern Kebbi, Kwara, etc.

"We also informed her that we particularise and choose topics of our reports; whether on general insecurity or religious insecurity and determine the identities and motives of the attackers and their group and material victims using credible media reports and other credible sources, such as Christian communities and their leaders, Christian persecution watchdogs and eyewitnesses accounts. We reminded her that we are not a media outfit but human rights trackers and monitors in Nigeria since 2009.

"Contrary to New York Times report, we told Ruth Maclean that as human rights trackers and monitors, we cannot be at all incidents or religious crime scenes and that we deploy our team of field volunteers where we can and rely on other reports where we cannot, clearly in line with international best practices.

"It is also established that most of the Christian persecution watchdogs working on Nigeria have consistently restricted their reports to Middle Belt whereas through monitoring and tracking, ours cover greater part of Nigeria and the role of armed state actors, such as police and the military and other counter-insurgency establishments.

"New York Times lied to the effect that many of Boko Haram victims are Muslims. This is totally incorrect. Available statistics especially from 2009-2017, show that most victims of Boko Haram were found to be Christians, including estimated 3000-4000 pastoral Igbo Christians living in the North, killed by Boko Haram."

Contrary to New York Times, we said 19, 100 churches were attacked, burned down or destroyed since 2009, and did not say close to 20,000 churches. We peripherally mentioned that 100,000 churches were likely to be in Nigeria as of 2021, out of which, estimated 19,100 had been killed by Islamic Jihadists." Umeagbalasi explained.

Terrorists kill 20 in Benue, kidnap 10 in Kwa hours after Borno bloodbath

"It's senseless, barbaric, unacceptable — Gov Alia
"Tinubu should urgently intervene — Aondoakaa

By Peter Duru, Ikenola Akinseye & Ndubi Maraina

THE terrorists, barely 48 hours after killing scores of residents of Ngoshe community in Borno state and abducting more than 300 others, mostly women and children, have killed another 20 in fresh attacks on Benue communities while also abducting 10 people in Kwara.

Former Attorney General of the Federation and Minister of Justice, Chief Michael Aondoakaa and Governor Hyacinth Alia of Benue state, in their immediate reaction described the terrorists attacks as senseless, barbaric and unacceptable.

Meanwhile, Governor Babagana Zulum of Borno state has paid a sympathy visit to thousands of internally displaced people of Ngoshe community who were attacked by the recent Boko Haram attack, seeking the incident as tragic.

In Benue, no fewer than 20 persons were reportedly killed in a bloody attack on Tyolugh Jam and Mbaaryaa communities in Guma and Mbadzera Council Wards of Gwer West Local Government Area.

A source in the area disclosed that the attackers stormed the communities early Thursday morning and continued their assault late into the night, leaving several residents dead while many others remain unaccounted for. The attacks reportedly forced residents to flee their homes in fear as the search for survivors and missing persons continued.

The source said: "this is another very sad day for the people of Kwande. The attackers stormed the communities Thursday morning and killed innocent women and children for no reason whatsoever. The number of deaths is about 20, but with the ongoing search and the number of persons still unaccounted for, I can assure you that more bodies may be recovered. It is really saddening. Our women and children are being killed in their homes and we had as if there is no government in place to protect our defenceless people. It is very sad," he lamented.

Meanwhile, Governor Hyacinth Alia has condemned the attack, describing the killings as "barbaric, senseless and unacceptable."

In a statement issued by his Technical Adviser on Media, Publicity and Strategic Communication, Solomon Iorpev, the governor expressed deep sorrow over the loss of lives and extended condolences to the families of the victims and the affected communities.

He his own reaction, former Attorney General of the Federation and Minister of Justice, Chief Michael Aondoakaa, SAN, condemned the killings saying "the tragic incident should trouble the conscience of every citizen", noting that the persistent attacks by "fatal criminals" have continued to deepen the crisis in Benue State.

In a statement by his Special Assistant on Media and Publicity, James Ibor, the Senior Justice Minister said: "The tragic and outrageous killing inflicted on our people are simply unacceptable". He called on the Governor of Benue State to demonstrate leadership by providing reassurance, direction and decisive action to protect vulnerable communities.

The former Minister also appealed to President Bola Ahmed Tinubu to urgently intervene by mobilising adequate security personnel to the affected areas to halt the cycle of violence in the state.

Terrorists kidnap 10 persons in Kwara

In Kwara, the terrorists also led Afam and Ori-Ago communities in Ifelodun Local Government Area of the state on Wednesday morning abducting 10 people. The incident have reasonable resolved out to the relatives of one of the victims, demanding a ransom of N50m to release

US Reps propose visa ban on Kwankwaso, Miyetti Allah, others

By Dapo Akinrefon, Bashir Bello & Nkiruka Nnorom

LAGOS — United States lawmakers have introduced a bill aimed at addressing alleged religious persecution and mass killings of Christians in Nigeria, including a proposed terrorist designation for Fulani militias and sanctions against certain Nigerian individuals and groups, including the presidential candidate of New Nigeria Peoples Party, NNPP in 2023 elections, Dr. Rabiu Musa Kwankwaso.

While both the Presidency and Minister of Information and National Orientation, Mohammed Idris, could not be reached for comments, the Kwankwasiyya movement and NNPP put up a stout defence for their leader, Kwankwaso, who is said to be out of the country.

However, titled "Nigeria Religious Freedom and Accountability Act of 2026" (HR 7457), the bill was introduced by Rep. Riley Moore and co-sponsored by Rep. Chris Smith, Chairman of the House Foreign Affairs Subcommittee, other Republican lawmakers.

Co-sponsors include House Appropriations Committee Chairman, Tom Cole; House Foreign Affairs Committee Chairman, Brian Mast; Appropriations Subcommittee on National Security and Related Programmes Chairman, Mario Diaz-Balart; and Foreign Affairs South and East Asia Subcommittee Chairman, Bill Huizenga.

Moore, author of the bill, has been one of US politicians insistent on claims of systemic Christian persecution in Nigeria. He paid a visit to Nigeria last November over the claim.

In November 2025, Trump designated Nigeria a Country of Particular Concern, a move that allows the US executive branch to apply diplomatic and economic measures.

Trump also authorised coordinated strikes with the Nigerian government against suspected militants on Christmas Day 2025.

The bill comes amid renewed international attention, following President Donald Trump's re-designation of Nigeria as a Country of Particular Concern, CPC, over religious freedom concerns.

Key provisions

The bill mandates the US Secretary of State to submit an annual report to Congress detailing efforts to address what it describes as religious persecution in Nigeria.

Specifically, it requires:

- An assessment of Nigeria's compliance with the International Religious Freedom Act
- A review of actions taken, or not taken, by the Nigerian government to prevent persecution, prosecute perpetrators, repeal blasphemy laws, protect vulnerable communities, and facilitate the safe return of internally displaced persons, IDPs.
- Identification of individuals and entities sanctioned, or under consideration for sanction, under the Global Magnitsky Human Rights Accountability Act or listed as Entities of Particular Concern.
- An evaluation of US security assistance to Nigeria and whether such support risks enabling or exacerbating religious persecution.
- Details of humanitarian assistance delivered to displaced Christians, including funding amounts, recipients, and measurable outcomes.
- Components of the bill include an investigation into whether the Nigerian government is taking appropriate steps to cease enforcement of blasphemy laws, and to look into instances of non-Muslims, Muslims, and dissenters being subjected to Sharia law or blasphemy laws; and an assessment of internally displaced persons, IDP conditions, including safety, humanitarian needs, and prospects for return.
- Others include an evaluation of any steps taken by the Nigerian government during the reporting period to address religious persecution, dismantle extremist networks, prosecute attackers, reform security forces, or improve protection for at-risk communities as well as recommendations for further executive actions or congressional authority deemed necessary and most helpful to halt [illegible] persecution and mass atrocities occurring in Nigeria.

In addition, the bill urged the US Secretary of State to determine whether certain Fulani-ethnic militias qualify for designation as a Foreign Terrorist Organisation, FTO, over religious violence in Nigeria.

Proposed sanctions

The legislation recommended targeted sanctions, including visa bans and asset freezes, against individuals and entities allegedly responsible for severe violations of religious freedom.

Among those listed are Rabiu Musa Kwankwaso, former governor of Kano State and leader of the New Nigerian People's Party, NNPP; Miyetti Allah Cattle Breeders Association of Nigeria, MACBAN; Miyetti Allah Kautal Hore; and Fulani-ethnic nomad militias in Nigeria.

The Departments of State and Treasury will be required to impose sanctions or report to Congress why such measures have not been taken.

Lawmakers speak

Speaking on the bill, Moore, Republican representative from West Virginia, announced the proposed legislation in a post on X on Tuesday.

He wrote: "Today, I am proud to introduce the Nigeria Religious Freedom and Accountability Act of 2026 with Rep. Chris Smith.

"The U.S. is a Christian nation. As such, we must stand with persecuted Christians around the world... For years, Christians in Nigeria have faced unspeakable violence, churches burned, villages destroyed, families slaughtered, while the global community looked away.

"As part of the investigation President Trump asked me to lead, I visited Nigeria and witnessed first-hand the horrors our brothers and sisters in Christ face and saw the security challenges Nigeria faces.

"That is why I am proud to introduce the Nigeria Religious Freedom and Accountability Act of 2026 with Representative Chris Smith. This legislation makes clear that the United States stands with our persecuted brothers and sisters in Christ and seeks to help Nigeria address its many challenges."

He, however, applauded the Nigerian government for working in coordination with the Trump administration to tackle security challenges and pledged continued efforts to strengthen US-Nigeria relations.

Rep. Smith, chairman of the House Foreign Affairs Africa subcommittee, said the United States has a responsibility to pressure Nigeria to act against systemic violence.

"The Nigerian government's blatant denial of the religious persecution occurring within its borders has only enabled the religious-based violence in the country to fester, with Christian deaths and church attacks reaching unprecedented numbers," he said.

The bill referenced destruction of churches, kidnappings, sexual violence, and attacks on villages, estimating that between 50,000 and 125,000 Christians were killed between 2009 and 2025.

He said: "Now that President Trump has rightly re-designated Nigeria a 'Country of Particular Concern', the United States has a responsibility to do its due diligence in ensuring that the Nigerian government is taking the proper steps to address and punish the systemic violence against Christians and non-radical Muslims by Islamist extremists, such as Boko Haram and Fulani terrorists.

"That is why it is paramount that the United States remains steadfast in its mission to promote and protect religious freedoms throughout the globe by ensuring that we are doing all we can to end this crisis. We set an important example for the rest of the international community."

House Foreign Affairs Committee Chairman, Brian Mast, said the bill aligned with President Trump's efforts to hold Islamist extremists accountable.

"The free world cannot stand by as Christians face mass murders, kidnappings and brutal assaults at the hands of terrorist thugs and armed militias in Nigeria. The Nigerian government must do their part to eliminate the scourge of religious persecution plaguing the country," Mast said. On his part, Tom Cole said: "Defending religious liberty in Nigeria and worldwide is both a moral duty and a vital American interest.

"The Nigeria Religious Freedom and Accountability Act of 2026 makes it clear: religious persecution will not be tolerated."

Broader context

The bill also called on the US government to counter what it describes as "hostile foreign exploitation" linked to illegal Chinese

Ribadu's bugged phone: El-Rufai faces arraignment Feb 25

Nathaniel Shaibu, Abuja

Former Kaduna State governor, Nasir El-Rufai, will be arraigned before a Federal High Court in Abuja on February 25 over alleged cybercrime and breach of national security.

El-Rufai is facing a three-count charge bordering on the alleged unlawful interception of the phone lines of the National Security Adviser, Nuhu Ribadu.

The case, marked FHC/ABJ/CR/99/2026, was assigned to Justice Joyce Abdulmalik by the Chief Judge of the court, Justice John Tsoho, who subsequently fixed the arraignment date.

The Department of State Services on Monday filed the charges against El-Rufai, alleging that the former governor's actions contravened provisions of the Cybercrimes (Prohibition, Prevention, etc.) Amendment Act, 2024 and the Nigerian Communications Act, 2003.

In the first count, the DSS alleged that El-Rufai, on February 13, 2026, while appearing as a guest on Arise TV's Prime Time programme in Abuja, admitted during the interview that he and others unlawfully intercepted the phone communications of the NSA.

The DSS said the offence was contrary to, and punishable under, Section 12(1) of the Cybercrimes (Prohibition, Prevention, etc.) Amendment Act, 2024.

If found guilty, the former governor may face up to two years' imprisonment as provided under the Act.

Section 12 of the Act states, "A person who intentionally and without authorisation intercepts by technical means non-public transmissions of computer data, content, or traffic data, including electromagnetic emissions or signals from a computer, computer system or network carrying or emitting signals to or from a computer, computer system or connected system or network, commits an offence and is liable on conviction to a term of imprisonment of not more than two years or to a fine of not more than N5,000,000.00 or both."

• Says bandits now established de facto authorities over local residents •Worrisome' insecurity is spill-over from Sudan, Niger —BRITISH ENVOY •Military more determined than ever to go after terrorists — CDS

By Soni Daniel, Northern Region Editor
Gift Odekina & Esther Onyegbula

ABUJA — A member of the House of Representatives from Zamfara State, Aminu Jaji, has decried the "terrifying insecurity" in his constituency, narrating how "bandits fed newborn twins to their dogs."

He painted a harrowing picture of "how bandits attacked, committed mass kidnapping, their cross lawlessness," which have left the communities in his constituency devastated and many residents displaced.

This came as the British High Commissioner to Nigeria, Dr. Richard Montgomery, expressed concern over the current insecurity in the country, blaming the situation on the spillover effects from the Sahel region, particularly Sudan and Niger.

Meanwhile, the Chief of Defence Staff, CDS, General Christopher Musa, said that the military is more determined than ever to go after all terrorists to restore peace and stability in the country.

Jaji, who previously chaired the House Committee on National Security and Intelligence, said, "Over 200 attacks have been recorded in communities across Kauru Namoda Local Government Area of Zamfara State alone, including Dayro, Bangja, Gubaki, Korea and Madaka."

The lawmaker, who was briefing newsmen at the National Assembly, said: "Just two days ago, 60 people were abducted in Bangja. The kidnappers demanded a ransom of N20 million. Out of those abducted, 10 were killed, and the fate of the remaining 50 hang in the balance."

The lawmaker lamented that while leaders often make lofty promises, little is done in practice.

"We gave assurances that if our party came to power, insecurity will become history. Unfortunately, the reality today is different," he said, adding, "Many communities have been turned into ghost towns due to persistent attacks.

He narrated chilling incidents, including one: "A pregnant woman was abducted. She gave birth to twins while she was in captivity. Then the leader of the bandits took the twins, and threw them to his dog. The dogs ate the twins one by one. Where are we?

"This is a situation we need to urgently address. We need to speak to ourselves. I said earlier, whether it is micro or macro operation, something must be done.

"These are not just stories. These are the everyday realities of our people. Our people are no longer safe, they cannot farm, they cannot trade, and many are internally-displaced, unrecognized by both the state and federal governments," he said.

The lawmaker lamented lack of federal attention, noting that despite engaging the Ministry of Defence and other security stakeholders, there has been no significant response or action on the ground, adding that Zamfara that was once one of the most peaceful states in the country, has become a hotspot for criminal activities.

"Despite the introduction of Sharia and peaceful coexistence between Muslims and Christians in the past, we are now ravaged by violence," he said.

He stressed that the people of Zamfara deserve the same protection and support as any other region, especially considering the contributions made by the state to the victory of President Bola Tinubu in the 2023 elections.

"This is not about politics anymore. It's about human lives. The 1999 Constitution, as amended, states clearly that the protection of lives and property is the primary responsibility of government," he said.

The lawmaker urged the President and all relevant stakeholders to act urgently, warning that if insecurity in Zamfara is left unchecked, it could spread further and consume the entire nation.

"People cry to us for help. They come in trees. They didn't want to leave because they have nowhere to go, they are now moving because they have no other choice," he said.

He urged leaders across political and religious divides to come together for a holistic and unified response to the insecurity, stating, "We must rise above politics. We must respond as people of faith and conscience. This is a national emergency."

Nigeria's 'worrisome' insecurity spill from Sudan, Niger — UK envoy

Briefing journalists at his residence in Abuja, the British High Commissioner to Nigeria, Richard Montgomery, attributed the situation to spill overs from Sudan and Niger.

The envoy however, said that the UK government is working with the Office of the National Security Adviser, ONSA, in Nigeria to reverse the situation by investing in security infrastructure to reduce it.

The High Commissioner said: "The issue of insecurity is still there and it is worrisome. But we are working very closely with the Office of the National Security Adviser in Nigeria to offer help in this area.

"The problem of insecurity in Nigeria is complicated by the fact that it is a spillover from the crisis in the Sahel region, particularly in Sudan and Niger," the diplomat said but did not say how they intend to tackle it.

The diplomat also raised concerns over cases of visa fraud in the country, pointing out that the situation is responsible for the recent cases of visa rejections.

The envoy urged Nigerian visa applicants to always provide the right support-

DSS arrests Malami after release from Kuje prison

ABUJA—OPERATIVES of the Department of State Services, DSS, have arrested former Attorney-General of the Federation, AGF, and Minister of Justice, Abubakar Malami, SAN.

Malami was arrested at the front of Kuje prison in Abuja, yesterday.

On January 7, a Federal High Court sitting in Abuja, granted Malami bail, who is standing trial, alongside his son and wife, over allegations of money laundering, in the sum of N500 million.

A video circulating online shows the former AGF entering a vehicle apparently belonging to the DSS shortly after leaving Kuje prison.

Before he entered the van, Malami asked the DSS officials to present their identity cards.

A security source confirmed Malami's arrest.

The source said: "Yes, it is true that DSS operatives arrested Malami, SAN. There are several petitions against him bordering on alleged terrorism financing.

"Terrorism and terrorism financing are serious offences globally. You'll recall that when Abubakar Malami, SAN, was the AGF and Minister of Justice, he vowed that the government of the day would not shield any person or persons linked to terrorism or terrorism financing.

"No responsible government would, in the same vein, fold it's hands or turn a blind eye to weighty allegations of terrorism financing levelled against any individual, no matter how highly placed. In this case, Malami, SAN.

"In the course of investigations, we have what is called inter-agency cooperation. It is not uncommon for one security agency to hand over a person under investigation to another sister security agency.

"In Nigeria, the DSS is the sole security agency tasked with the responsibility of investigating such allegations. It'll be best to allow them to do their job."

2027: Reps cave in, back Senate on Electoral Act amendment

By Henry Umoru, Omeiza Ajayi & Gift Odekina

ABUJA — Fresh turmoil engulfed the National Assembly, yesterday, as minority members of the House of Representatives staged a dramatic walk-out over contentious provisions in the Electoral Act Amendment Bill, even as police tear-gassed protesters demanding mandatory electronic transmission of results ahead of the 2027 general elections.

On a day marked by high political drama, heated arguments and street protests, the House caved in to pressure and adopted Clause 60(3), which provides for both real-time electronic and manual transmission of election results. It also passed Clause 84, dealing with the mode of nomination of candidates by political parties.

Vanguard exclusively reported on Monday that the House of Representatives, which had earlier passed e-transmission of results, was under pressure to adopt the Senate version which provided for conditional e-transmission.

The developments triggered outrage from opposition lawmakers, civil society organisations, organised labour and pro-democracy activists, who accused the National Assembly of weakening electoral safeguards and "programming rigging into law."

This was as the Senate amended the Electoral Act to reduce the notice period for elections from 360 days to 300 days, paving the way for adjustment of the 2027 general election timetable, thus averting a clash with the Ramadan fasting period.

The upper chamber also, for the second time in one week, rejected real-time electronic transmission of election results after a division, as 55 senators voted to retain manual transmission where network fails, while 15 kicked against the provision.

Walk-out over Clause 60(3), 84

Trouble began during clause-by-clause consideration of the Electoral Act Amendment Bill 2025 in the Committee of the Whole.

The House had earlier rescinded its December 2025 passage of the bill to address identified inconsistencies before recommitting it for fresh deliberations. But proceedings turned contentious when lawmakers considered Clause 60(3).

Bamidele Salam moved a motion seeking deletion of the provision allowing manual transmission of results, arguing that election results should be transmitted electronically without exception. The motion was seconded by Minority Leader, Kingsley Chinda.

However, when the proposal was subjected to a voice vote, the "nays" carried the day, effectively retaining both manual and electronic transmission options.

The decision sparked visible anger among minority lawmakers, who later walked out of plenary.

Addressing journalists, Chinda declared that the minority could not support any clause that creates room for manipulation.

"Our position is that elections shall and should be transmitted electronically. We are against any clause that would give room for micro-manipulation, rigging, or leeway for any unlawful act," he said.

He disclosed that the minority proposed that where there was any conflict between manually collated Form EC8A results and electronically transmitted results, the electronically transmitted version should prevail.

Walkout deliberate — Chinda

He said further: "Those positions were turned down, and we are aware that they were turned down by members of the APC, not on grounds of patriotism, but on grounds of political party affiliation.

"For us, after what happened on the floor, we felt it wes better to register our position with Nigeria, which is the court of public opinion. So we had to leave the plenary. We had to walk tious provisions, setting the stage for a fresh round of political confrontation as 2027 approaches.

Police tear-gas protesters at NASS gate

While lawmakers clashed inside the chamber, chaos erupted outside the complex as operatives of the Nigeria Police Force fired tear gas at protesters gathered at the main entrance of the National Assembly.

Hundreds of demonstrators, including women and youth groups, had converged to oppose what they described as attempts to dilute electronic transmission of results. Tension escalated when some protesters tried to push toward the gate.

Insecurity: Nigerians'll revolt, if action not taken — REPS

●Question N19.7trn spent on security ●Akpabio tasks senators on legislative action ●B-Haram returning stronger -Rep Jaha ●Presidency, NSA mum

By Henry Umoru & Gift Odekina

ABUJA — The House of Representatives yesterday warned of citizens revolt, if the Federal Government failed to address insecurity in the country, which has been on the upswing in the last few weeks.

This came on a day Senate President, Godswill Akpabio, told his colleagues that the insecurity and parlous state of the nation's economy are stretching the patience and resilience of Nigerians to the limit, and asked them to respond with legislative actions.

Lawmakers from areas ravaged by insurgency and killings by herdsmen in the country, who led the debate on the issue at plenary, also accused the Presidency of not doing enough to resolve the insecurity problem in the country, despite the over N19.7 trillion spent on security.

However efforts to get the Presidency to react to this proved abortive as Special Adviser, Media and Publicity to the President, Mr Bayo Onanuga, directed Vanguard to the National Security Adviser, NSA, Malam Nuhu Ribadu.

The NSA could not also be reached at press time last night, as both calls and text messages sent to him were not replied.

But the debate in the House was sparked by a motion of urgent public importance moved by Ahmed Satomi on the recent fire at the armoury at Giwa Barracks and the escalating attacks on military formations in Borno and Yobe states respectively.

The motion soon snowballed into emotional testimonies and dire warnings, with some lawmakers declaring that if urgent steps are not taken by government to solve the problem, Nigerians might turn on their elected representatives.

In his contribution, Yusuf Gagdi (APC, Plateau) rebuked those downplaying the severity of the crisis, saying "when the governor is crying and someone within the comfort of his zone says the governor is raising an unnecessary alarm, we are rascals. Nigerians are being killed. This is unacceptable.

"Until the right thing is done by us here, until government responds with action, not just media statements, don't bet that any member of the National Assembly is safe. We may be attacked not by Boko Haram, but by the people that elected you and I.

"Time will come when, if action is not taken, Nigerians will take their destinies in their own hands.

"Mr. Speaker, we must stand up and find a way of bringing this issue of insecurity to a halt, otherwise, you and I are not safe. No matter how Nigerians respect us, we are moving to a level that they will fight us the way they fight criminals and the way they fight Boko Haram.

On his part, Ahmed Jaha (APC, Borno), whose constituency includes Chibok, gave a chilling account of Boko Haram's exploits in his area.

He said: "10 farmers were slaughtered in Pulka; 14 in Chibok, and military officers at Izge and Kampu. In Wajiboko, Boko Haram used weaponised drones. The Nigerian Army is outgunned and undermanned. I have seen it, nobody told me, I was there."

Jaha warned the House not to be complacent, saying "between 2015 and 2019, the government spent N19.7 trillion on security, yet Boko Haram

Govt knows terrorists' identities, locations — Gumi

KADUNA-BASED Islamic scholar, Abubakar Gumi, has claimed that the Nigerian government is aware of the identities and locations of terrorists operating in the country.

The cleric made the allegation while speaking during a recent interview with DRTV, which started trending yesterday.

Gumi was responding to suggestions that he personally knows and interacts with terrorists and bandits responsible for insecurity in parts of Nigeria, and that he advocates on their behalf.

According to him, his engagements with the groups are not carried out alone but involve security agencies.

"The government knows every terrorist by name and by location. I don't go alone to negotiate — I go with the police, military, and other security agencies," he said.

The cleric also explained that during some of the engagements, he visited traditional leaders and even traveled into forests where bandits are believed to operate.

"I would go to the Emirs. In fact, when we went to one forest, I even went with women into the bush," he added.

Gumi has previously been involved in controversial dialogue efforts with armed groups in northern Nigeria, arguing that negotiation could help reduce violence and encourage disarmament.

For this, he has been widely criticised by Nigerians who described his intervention as the tonic pushing terrorists in their dare-devilry attacks on security, agencies and individuals.

Alleged terror financing: FG's change of prosecutor stalls Malami's trial

By Ikechukwu Nnochiri

ABUJA—The Federal Government has engaged a new prosecutor to handle the ongoing trial of the immediate past Attorney-General of the Federation and Minister of Justice, Mr. Abubakar Malami, SAN.

Malami, who served as Justice Minister from November 11, 2015, to May 29, 2023, under former President Muhammadu Buhari's administration, faces a five-count charge related to terrorism financing and illegal possession of firearms.

He was arraigned alongside his son, Abdulaziz.

The Department of State Services, DSS, handed over the case to the Office of the Attorney-General of the Federation, AGF on March 4, when it was slated for the commencement of a full hearing.

The DSS withdrew from the prosecution to allow the AGF's office take over.

The Director of Public Prosecutions of the Federation, DPPF, Mr. Rotimi Oyedepo, SAN, informed the court of AGF Prince Lateef Fagbemi's decision to prosecute the defendants.

The DPPF added that the DSS, which had initiated the charge, also transmitted the case file to the AGF's office.

He applied for an adjournment to enable the AGF's office review the case file and decide on the next course of action.

Meanwhile, at the resumed proceedings yesterday, Mr. Akinkulu Kehinde, SAN, who often prosecutes high-profile cases for the DSS, announced his appearance for the Federal Government.

He told the court that he had been briefed to handle the case and pleaded for an adjournment to interact with the proposed witnesses.

The request was not opposed by counsel for the defendants, Mr. Shaibu Atua, SAN.

Consequently, Justice Abdulmalik deferred the commencement of the hearing until April 15 and 16.

Recall that the DSS arraigned Malami and his son before the court on February 3.

The former justice minister was in count one of the charge, accused of knowingly abetting terrorism financing by refusing to prosecute terrorism financiers whose case files were brought to his office as AGF.

In counts two to five, both Malami and his son were jointly accused of unlawful possession of firearms, offences punishable under the Terrorism (Prevention and Prohibition) Act, 2022, and the Firearms Act, 2004.

Night of terror in Zamfara

Ismaeel Uthman, Dare Akogun, Ayoola Olaspo and Malharaji Altine

Zamfara State was on Friday thrown into mourning as bandits reportedly killed no fewer than 50 residents of Dutsin Dan Ajiya village, Anka Local Government area of the state.

Corpses of the victims were robed in white in preparation for a mass burial as seen in a video by Saturday PUNCH.

A resident of the village, who spoke on condition of anonymity, disclosed that the bandits, who carried sophisticated weapons, raided the village on Thursday night and shot sporadically.

He added that the terrorists blocked all access roads linking the community to prevent people from running away.

He said, "After blocking all the roads, the bandits started to shoot at sight and the villagers ran helter-skelter.

"After the attack, we realised that 50 people were killed; some were wounded, while several others are at large and nobody knows their whereabouts."

Saturday PUNCH gathered that the attackers also abducted many residents during the raid which lasted till the wee hours of Friday.

However, Reuters said at least 50 people were killed in the attack.

A lawmaker representing Bukkuyum South, Hamisu Faru, told the news agency that the attackers raided the village from around 9pm on Thursday until about 3.30am on Friday, burning down buildings and shooting residents who tried to flee.

"They have been moving from one village to another ... leaving at least 50 people dead," Faru added.

A 41-year-old resident of the village, Abdullahi Sani, also said three family members were killed in the attack.

He said, "No one slept yesterday, we are all in pain."

According to Sani, residents alerted security forces and local authorities when they saw more than 150 motorcycles carrying the hoodlums, but they got no support.

The state police spokesperson, Yazid Abubakar, could not be reached for comment.

He did not take his calls and had yet to respond to a text message sent to him as of press time.

Also, an aide to the governor promised to get back to Saturday PUNCH on the incident.

He had yet to do so as of the time of filing this report.

The attack came a day after the Zamfara State Government donated Armoured Personnel Carriers and a drone to security personnel to fight against banditry.

The Minister of Defence, Gen Christopher Musa (rtd), who received the donation had urged troops of the Nigerian Army to take decisive measures against any bandit or terrorist who failed to surrender or lay their arms during operation.

Zamfara is part of the North-West states being ravaged by banditry despite sustained military onslaught.

On Wednesday, no fewer than 23 residents of Jisi District in Arewa LGA of Kebbi State were killed by Lakurawa terrorists in a reported attempt to rustle cattle.

Similarly, the Lakurawa terrorists attacked the Magarabo community in Tangaza LGA of Sokoto State, killing five persons on February 13, 2026.

The attackers also rustled a large number of livestock belonging to residents, most of whom are farmers.

In Katsina, the bandits killed 21 residents in Doma town, Faskari LGA on February 3.

The attack shattered a six-month non-aggression pact the community had earlier reached with the gunmen.

'Killings not a resurgence'

Reacting to the tragedy, the Executive Director of the Foundation for Peace Professionals, Abdulrazaq Hamzat, dismissed the notion that the latest killings represent a resurgence of violence.

Speaking with Saturday PUNCH on Friday, Hamzat characterised the situation as a grim continuation of a long-standing security deficit.

He said the nation's security architecture was fundamentally flawed and trapped "in a cycle of reactive measures rather than proactive prevention."

"I do not think it is a resurgence; it is just the continuation of existing insecurity," he stated.

Hamzat observed that the federal security apparatus was spread too thin to provide sustainable protection across the country's vast territory.

He noted that the current strategy often involves moving troops from one crisis point to vulnerable once the military presence is withdrawn.

"Our security approach has always been about responding to situations as they happen. The security has been overstretched, before they effectively complete an operation in one location, they're deployed to other places with more pressing demands," said.

As a lasting solution to the carnage, the PeacePro boss maintained that the decentralisation of the police force is no longer a matter of debate but a necessity for national survival.

He insisted that the establishment of state and local police is the only viable option to provide the granular level of security needed to deter bandits in remote areas.

According to him, without a permanent, localised security presence that understands the terrain and maintains a constant vigil, the cycle of killings in states like Kebbi and Zamfara will continue to defy the efforts of a centralised, over-burdened federal command.

Similarly, a security expert, Akin Adeyi, suggested that the government and the military attacks on the bandits.

He said the government should have prepared for the fallout of the December 25, 2025 US strike on the bandits, which he said was responsible for attacks in new areas.

Adeyi said, "It is terrible that we are having this kind of situation, and that we are not prepared for it is a crisis for the government. I said with the way the US struck on December 25 last year, these people (bandits) will run helter-skelter, and start spreading into places where there was peace, launching uncoordinated attacks. That is what they will be doing now.

"The government is supposed to have engaged fully the civil defence, the mobile police and all other paramilitary. The moment they are scattered and running into safety, they should have had a plan to curtail them to stop them from entering into society.

"It is not that they (security forces) will just go and sit and rely on repelling attacks. No, it is time for them to be on the offensive now. Anywhere, anytime they gather or receive information about their decision, let them not wait until

Dear Chair Patrick, Vice Chair Carson, and members of the Religious Liberty Commission:

On behalf of Americans United for Separation of Church and State, we write to the Commission to outline important considerations as you consider the past, present, and future of religious liberty in America and draft your final report.

Founded in 1947, Americans United is a nonpartisan educational and advocacy organization dedicated to preserving the constitutional principle of church-state separation, which is the foundation of true religious freedom for all Americans. We fight to protect the right of individuals and religious communities to practice religion—or not—as they see fit without government interference, compulsion, support, or disparagement. We represent people of all faiths and none and have a network of more than 380,000 members and supporters across the country.

Our 78-year legacy of protecting religious freedom means that we are uniquely positioned to offer guidance and information about religious freedom for your capstone hearing. Religious freedom, one of our nation's founding principles, is a tradition and ideal that remains central to who we are today as a nation. Religious freedom guarantees that everyone has the freedom to live as themselves and believe as they choose, so long as they don't harm others.

At its first meeting on June 16, 2025, the Commission adopted the false narrative that the United States is a so-called "Christian nation." While that could not be further from the truth, as proven by both the historical record and the Constitution, each subsequent meeting has presented only that singular viewpoint. At its meetings on education, for example, the Commission invited parents and students who claim they are being "silenced" in public schools for expressing their beliefs but none of the many parents and students who have faced marginalization and harassment when public schools promoted a particular religion or coerced students to engage in religious practices and vile retaliation when they dared to complain. One of the panelists at the third meeting went so far as to admit that vouchers are a scheme to steal public funds from public schools and redirect them to private religious schools, explaining that vouchers are "not about increasing test scores" but about turning students into people that "God has called them to be." Throughout these two education hearings, the Commission was very clear about whose God they were referring to in a repudiation of the foundational principle that public schools are for everyone regardless of religion.

And these were just the first three meetings. We submit these comments for the Commission's seventh meeting, which is meant to be a "capstone" in advance of preparing its report and recommendations. It is difficult, however, to draft relevant comments because the Commission has conducted its work without any real transparency. The Commission has made it impossible to know what it will discuss at this meeting or include in its report given its continued failure to release agendas, witness lists, transcripts, or other materials. Like the comments Americans United has submitted for each Commission meeting, we set forth the considerations here to create a record of American religious freedom based in law and fact that has not been represented in the hearings to date. As you discuss the past, present, and future of religious liberty in America and begin to draft your report, we urge you to keep in mind the following:

1. Separation of church and state is the cornerstone of American religious freedom. The principle of the separation of church and state is an American invention. We were the first nation to protect the people's right to think freely by separating religion and government. We wove this principle into the fabric of our Constitution—the Constitution has no mention of a deity, declares that power comes from people, and bars any religious test for office.

   Church-state separation ensures each person can decide which religion to follow—if any—including the right to decide which religions to fund and which to not fund. It allows religion to flourish. It secures a more just, equal, and inclusive society for everyone and protects religion's role as a voice of social justice. The separation of church and state guarantees families—and not government officials—the right to make their own decisions about religion and religious education. And it ensures that one powerful religious group cannot force others to live by their set of religious beliefs.

2. Religious freedom protects all Americans from those who would use it to harm others. Religious freedom is meant to be a shield that protects, not a sword to harm others or discriminate. It protects all of us, no matter our beliefs or lack of belief. Religious freedom guarantees us the right to believe—or not—as we see fit. It does not give anyone the right to use religion as an excuse to discriminate or harm others or undermine obligations.

   Our right to religious freedom must be protected from those who believe it grants them the right to force their religion on others, including through the use of government authority. Church-state separation is good for religion, houses of worship, and people of faith, as well as the nonreligious. It protects religious communities from government intrusion and protects the right of individuals to believe or not, without interference from the government, as long as their actions don't harm others.

3. Public schools are diverse, and all students should be welcome. America's public schools serve students from a wide array of backgrounds, both religious and nonreligious. Freedom of religion means that students and their families—not politicians or school officials—have the right to decide whether and how to engage with religion. No student should ever be made to feel excluded, whether it's in a classroom or a locker room, because they don't share the religious beliefs of their teachers, coaches, or fellow students. And no parent should have to worry that their child is receiving religious instruction in a public school. The First Amendment protects the rights of students to pray and engage with religion in a voluntary and non-disruptive way while also protecting their right to be free from religious coercion. It also protects the rights of teachers and other employees to pray, discuss religion with coworkers, and otherwise appropriately engage in religion when they are not in front of students, outside of instructional time.

Religious freedom in public schools is under threat from those who would use public schools to impose religion on students and employees and coerce them to participate. This includes efforts to post the Ten Commandments on classroom walls, force chaplains into schools, have teachers pray with or in front of students, teach religion as truth, or create religious public charter schools.

4. Members of the military must have the right to practice their religion and be protected from unwanted pressure to engage in certain religious activities or adopt particular religious beliefs. Members of the Armed Forces come from all religions and beliefs, reflecting the diversity of our nation. Because of the military chain of command and because service members are part of a small and sometimes isolated community, religious coercion and proselytization can have an even greater impact on service members than civilians. The military should acknowledge, honor, and respect the diversity of beliefs practiced by our service members. The military should accommodate service members' religious exercise—like by allowing Sikh soldiers to wear head coverings, uncut hair, and beards—when it will not harm military readiness, health, well-being or safety, or lead to the harm of or discrimination against others. Military chaplains must support all service members, regardless of their religion or beliefs. And no member of the Armed Forces should face discrimination or religious coercion.

5. No one should face discrimination in the name of religion—in the workplace or the marketplace, or when seeking healthcare or taxpayer-funded social services. Religion cannot be used as a blanket excuse to get out of the basic elements of our nation's social contract—the Constitution bars using religion to justify discrimination. The people who need healthcare and social services or who just want to get a job and shop in stores for their families should not face discrimination or be turned away because of someone else's religion.

   For example, policies that allow healthcare workers to use religion to discriminate or deny care create dangerous consequences for patients' health and long-lasting, negative effects on the entire healthcare system. Likewise, policies that allow taxpayer-funded providers to discriminate or refuse to provide services harm the often vulnerable people for whom the services are critical. Religious coercion, discrimination, and denial of services have no place in government programs. They are contrary to our nation's values and violate the Constitution.

America is a greater nation when we protect religious freedom for all, not just for some; when we are all free to believe or not as we see fit and to practice our faith without hurting others; and when the government does not elevate the religious beliefs of some over the rights of others. Americans United remains steadfast in our work, as we have for nearly eighty years, to fight back against these threats to religious freedom.

DOJ-RLC Comment-000292

In drafting your report, we urge the Commission to go further than the narrow and inaccurate point of view of its hearings and instead make recommendations that address the real threats to religious freedom today: religious extremists and leaders who weaponize religion to harm others.

Sincerely,

Alessandro Terenzoni, Esq.
Vice President of Public Policy

Hello,

Lori Kepner and Kim Colby with Christian Legal Society and I would like to submit the attached memo to the Religious Liberty Commission. The memo (also shared with the Department of Education) details ways that Department of Education guidance helps promote religious freedom in education; explains how the Department can build on its current guidance to strengthen protection for prayer and other religious expression by students, teachers, and parents in the public schools; and provides suggestions of possible next steps the Department could take.

Please let us know if you have any questions.

All the best,

Re: Department of Education's "Guidance on Constitutionally Protected Prayer and Religious Expression in Public Elementary and Secondary Schools" (February 2026)

Introduction

For fifty years, Christian Legal Society (CLS) has defended the rights of students, parents, and teachers in public schools to engage in religious expression and conduct. For example, in 1984, CLS was instrumental in Congress' passage of the Equal Access Act to protect the right of student groups to meet for religious speech, including prayer and Bible study, in public secondary schools.[1] In 1995, the Department of Education's original guidance on religious expression in the public schools, which was sent to public school district superintendents, listed CLS as one of eight organizations "that can answer questions on religious expression in public schools."[2] The original guidance has been updated multiple times over the years (collectively, "Guidance"). In 2020, during the first Trump Administration, CLS led a coalition of national religious groups in support of the Department's adoption of regulations to protect religious student groups' right to meet at public institutions.[3] The Ethics and Public Policy Center (EPPC) works to promote religious freedom in American law, culture, and politics, including in public schools.

CLS and EPPC welcome the Department's February 5, 2026, release of the updated "Guidance on Constitutionally Protected Prayer and Religious Expression in Public Elementary and Secondary Schools."[4] Together we suggest the following opportunities to build upon the February 2026 Guidance to strengthen its protection for prayer and other religious expression by students, teachers, and parents in the public schools.

The Guidance, which has remained largely consistent in its content and much of its structural detail over the past 30 years, has provided stability that is beneficial for students and their families. The Guidance has educated school administrators, while also providing students, parents, teachers, and religious liberty advocates with persuasive authority to cite in their dealings with school administrators. For example, the 2020 Guidance released during the first Trump Administration has been particularly helpful to religious freedom practitioners in their efforts to protect the rights of students, parents, and teachers in public schools.[5]

As detailed below, we request that a future Guidance restore various material found in the 2020 Trump Guidance. These simple modifications would help enable the Guidance to retain its longstanding continuity and clarity upon which many stakeholders have come to rely.

1. The Department's Guidance Has Benefited Religious Freedom for 30 Years

The Department of Education's 1995 Guidance was a turning point because, for the first time, the federal government advised school administrators that private religious expression was protected on public school property. The Guidance addressed numerous specific topics that students, parents, teachers, and school administrators often encounter, including the requirements of the Equal Access Act's protection of religious student groups meeting for prayer and other religious expression.[6]

In 2002, Congress enacted 20 U.S.C. § 7904, requiring local school districts to certify annually to the Department that "no policy of the local educational agency prevents, or otherwise denies participation in, constitutionally protected prayer." Section 7904 requires the Secretary of Education to issue at least every two years guidance as to current law.

In 2020, the Trump Administration released strong guidance that tracked the Department's earlier Guidance. Specifically, its "Overview of Governing Constitutional Principles," § I.C, reiterated the critical distinction, emphasized in Board of Education v. Mergens,[7] between government religious speech and private religious speech. The Department's prior Guidance carefully explained the Supreme Court's bedrock delineation between a student group's private religious expression, protected by the Free Speech and Free Exercise Clauses, and government officials' religious expression, potentially prohibited by the Establishment Clause. The 2020 Trump Guidance then applied this foundational distinction between government speech and private speech to specific scenarios. It tracked several specific topics that had been addressed in Guidance since 1995, including the Equal Access Act.

2. Proposed Modifications in Future Guidance

We respectfully request that future guidance restore beneficial material from the 2020 Trump Guidance, including the following.

"Principles Governing Religious Expression and Prayer" Section. Several paragraphs found in the 2020 Trump Guidance explained the critical distinction between private religious expression by students and teachers and government religious expression, as explained in Mergens. See 2020 Trump Guidance, § I.C, ¶¶ 1-4 ("Overview of Governing Constitutional Principles"). This material had been the focus of the Department's Guidance since 1995 and is essential to public school stakeholders' understanding of the proper protection of religious expression in the public schools.

"Specific Scenarios" Section. It would be highly beneficial to stakeholders if certain topics and language covered in the 2020 Trump Guidance were included in future Guidance:

> 1) Equal Access Act: Include a distinct section explaining the Equal Access Act's protection of religious student groups' ability to: a) meet during noninstructional time, including lunch and activity periods; b) access school media (bulletin boards, newspaper, and public address system); and c) maintain religious leadership requirements.[8] See 2020 Trump Guidance, § IV, ¶¶ 1-6 ("The Equal Access Act").

[8] Several federal court decisions have held that religious student groups meeting at public secondary schools may require their leaders to agree with the groups' religious beliefs. *See Fellowship of Christian Athletes v. DOJ-RLC Comment-000299

2) See You at the Pole: Include specific mention in § III.B ("Religious Expression in Student Groups") that "See You at the Pole" gatherings, an annual, nationwide event in late September, are protected, as noted in the 2020 Trump Guidance, § II.B ("Organized Prayer Groups and Activities") and the 1995 Guidance.

3) Moments of Silence: Include affirmation that a moment of silence at the beginning of the school day is permissible, as found in the 2020 Trump Guidance, § II.D ("Moments of Silence"). The "Principles Governing Religious Expression and Prayer" section of the 2026 Guidance notes in passing Wallace v. Jaffree,[9] which held a specific state's "moment of silence" law unconstitutional. But Jaffree's analysis was based on the "secular purpose" prong of the Lemon test—an analysis overruled in Kennedy v. Bremerton School District.[10] Even before Kennedy, numerous federal appellate decisions had upheld moments of silence after Jaffree.[11]

4) Religious Excusals: Include affirmation that parental requests for religious excusals from school attendance or objectionable curriculum are to be accommodated, building upon the 2020 Trump Guidance, § III.D ("Religious Excusals"). This paragraph should be updated to briefly discuss Mahmoud v. Taylor's[12] protection of the parental right to notice and opt out from curriculum that violates religious beliefs. Also include affirmation of the constitutionality of off-campus religious released time programs under Zorach v. Clauson.[13]

5) Religious Literature Distribution: Include affirmation of students' right to distribute religious literature if other students may distribute nonreligious literature, as found in the 2020 Trump Guidance, § III.A ("Religious Literature") and the 1995 Guidance.

6) Teaching About Religion: Include affirmation that classroom instruction may include teaching about religion in the curriculum in an objective, nondevotional manner, as found in the 2020 Trump Guidance, § III.B ("Teaching about Religion") and the 1995 Guidance.

DOJ-RLC Comment-000300

> 7) Baccalaureate Ceremonies: Include affirmation that religious community groups may hold baccalaureate ceremonies in public school facilities that are otherwise available to community groups, as found in the 2020 Trump Guidance,. § II.I ("Baccalaureate Ceremonies") and the 1995 Guidance. Also affirm religious community groups' right to meet with children after school on an equal access basis[14] and to meet in school facilities on weekends and evenings.[15]

3. Proposed Clarifications in 2026 Guidance

The following clarifications in the 2026 Guidance would be helpful.

Teacher Speech. The Kennedy discussion in the "Principles Governing Religious Expression and Prayer" section could lead teachers to think that they may pray with students in contexts not addressed by the Court in Kennedy. The Guidance states that teachers may pray with students in the conduct of their work, but the Kennedy decision addressed a context in which the teacher was praying during his personal time. Because in some contexts teachers' religious expression could be found by the Court to be unconstitutional government speech rather than protected private speech, the Guidance needs to explain the important distinction between protected private religious expression and government speech in the "Principles" section, as already noted. It also should highlight that the teacher in Kennedy was acting during a time when teachers were allowed to engage in personal speech.

Graduation Speakers. Too often, personal religious expression by an individual student or community member speaker at a graduation ceremony is censored. In some places, the Guidance could be read as suggesting censorship is required if private religious expression is part of the official activity of the school itself, or attendance is mandatory, or a public address system is used. None of these factors in itself justifies a school censoring personal religious expression by student or community member speakers at graduation or other school events, so long as the speaker selection process employs truly neutral selection criteria. See 2020 Trump Guidance, §§ II.G ("Student Assemblies") & II.H ("Prayer at Graduation").

Harassment. From 2019-2024, CLS represented a religious student group denied equal access solely because school employees deemed its orthodox religious beliefs to be harassment of LGBT-identifying students.[16] Because religious expression is often targeted by school administrators as "harassment," care needs to be exercised in suggesting that abstract harassment concerns outweigh constitutionally protected religious expression. For that reason, it would be helpful for future Guidance to omit the phrase "subject to the considerations in III.F," in discussion of religious student groups.(§ III.B ("Religious Expression in Student Groups")) and religious dress.(§ III.A ("Private Religious Expression by Students")).

4. Possible Next Steps

One. The Department could issue revised Guidance in light of the Court's recent reaffirmation of Mahmoud's protection of parental rights in Mirabelli v. Bonta,[17] or any other future Court decision involving religion in the public schools. By adopting the proposed modifications mentioned above, grounded in important language from the 2020 Trump Guidance, the Department could ensure continuity with prior Guidance and increase the likelihood of the Guidance serving as a template for future administrations' Guidance.

Two. Federal law, 20 U.S.C. § 7904, requires the Department to issue revised Guidance some time before February 5, 2028. Issuing revised Guidance before the beginning of the 2026-2027 academic year would allow the Department to issue additional revised Guidance in 2028.

Three. The Department of Education could request the Justice Department's Office of Legal Counsel to issue an opinion addressing religious expression in public schools.

Four. In addition to steps one and two, the Department could issue two supplementary but separate guidance documents, one focused solely on equal access for private religious expression by students, teachers, and community groups and the other focused on parental rights.

National Alliance for Traditional Birth Rights
Religious Liberty Commission Briefing Document

Traditional Midwifery as Heritage and Religious Practice

For many American families, the way birth is carried out is not a matter of preference, convenience, or alternative lifestyle. It is a direct expression of religious belief.

Within these communities, childbirth is governed by convictions about the body, the role of the family, and the limits of outside authority. Decisions about where birth occurs, who attends it, and how it is managed are not viewed as optional choices. They are understood as matters of obedience, conscience, and faith.

For most of American history, these beliefs were lived out through community-based midwifery. Birth took place in the home, attended by midwives who operated within shared religious and cultural frameworks. Their role was not separate from belief. It was part of it.

Practitioners such as Mary Breckenridge demonstrated that midwifery-led care could achieve maternal outcomes significantly better than national averages, even in rural and resource-limited regions. This model functioned across the country long before modern regulatory systems redefined who was permitted to attend birth.

Over time, childbirth was moved into institutional systems, and midwifery was redefined through licensure. Lawful practice became tied to participation in state-approved pathways. Traditional midwives—particularly those serving religious communities—were not always directly banned, but they were excluded from legal recognition.

That shift changed more than regulation. It changed what families were able to do in accordance with their beliefs.

Today, only 1–3 states (approximately 2–6%) include statutory language that clearly acknowledges, protects, or exempts traditional midwives from licensure requirements. These include Utah, Oregon, and, in a more limited form, Minnesota.

In the remaining 94–98% of states, there is no explicit protection for traditional midwifery. Practitioners must either enter licensure systems that may conflict with their religious framework or operate without legal recognition.

Enforcement is not typically framed as a restriction on religion. It occurs through general statutes such as:

Practicing medicine without a license

Public health violations

Criminal negligence or child endangerment in certain cases

Midwives are regularly criminally charged and arrested and examples made. Midwives report sting operations, and aggressive investigations regularly.

Today, Carly Moira Copal remains incarcerated in VA for the misdemeanor practice of Midwifery.

The effect on the family is equally significant.

When a midwife cannot legally attend a birth outside of state-defined systems, families whose religious beliefs require or strongly compel community-based birth lose the ability to fully practice those beliefs.

This burden falls most heavily on communities for whom these convictions are non-negotiable, including Amish and Plain Anabaptist families, as well as other religious groups that maintain structured beliefs regarding modesty, intervention, authority, and family governance.

For these populations, institutional birth is not simply a different option. In many cases, it conflicts with core religious principles.

The current legal structure does not prohibit these beliefs in theory. It restricts their application in practice.

At the same time, the United States continues to experience maternal health outcomes that remain among the poorest in the developed world, including maternal mortality rates between approximately 22–32 per 100,000 births and cesarean rates exceeding 32%. These outcomes persist within a system that has largely displaced community-based care.

The restriction of traditional midwifery has not resolved these conditions.

Many experts agree that integrating and protecting traditional Midwifery would drastically improve our maternal health outcomes.

If current patterns continue, childbirth will become increasingly centralized within state-approved systems. Traditional midwifery will remain legally uncertain or disappear in many regions. Religious practice in the context of birth will not be explicitly banned, but it will be limited to what can be accommodated within institutional frameworks.

An alternative path is available.

States may distinguish between licensure and the right to practice. They may explicitly recognize traditional midwifery as a heritage-based and religiously grounded practice, providing clear legal protection rather than relying on silence and enforcement. This would allow families to carry out birth in accordance with their beliefs, and practitioners to serve them without exposure to criminal liability.

This is not a question of whether healthcare should be regulated.

It is a question of whether Americans may fully live out their religious convictions in childbirth, or whether those convictions remain permissible only when they align with state-defined systems.

This document reflects general statutory patterns and regulatory frameworks across the United States. Laws and enforcement practices vary by jurisdiction and are subject to change. This material is provided for informational purposes and is not legal advice.

Dear Loyal Readers & Happy Easter as This is My Gift To You,

Welcome back to the second installment of my 6-part, grand finale email. My last one came in at 50 pages and is now downloadable on my website, but I've also attached it to this email. ("Trump's Religious Liberty Commission is Jewish Terrorism Cloaked in Activism" ..... along with the cover letter from last week)

.....Again, remember about Instagram clips being fussy so you may need to refresh to ensure that what pops up matches the description.

Today's 43-pager---"COLUMBIA UNIVERSITY HEED MY CALL--- goes out to all the attorneys, advocates & Ivy League faculty. Columbia University, UPenn & Harvard, let it be said that they need to get their money back just as they need to sue corporate terrorists for harassment & defamation, for creating a hostile environment, for attempting to legalize corruption via terrorism-activism, for threatening their students, for racial attacks, for attempting to make faculty members duplicitous in human atrocities & for domestic terrorism when they're not being brought up on other felonious charges for being at the helm of the world's largest white-collar, fraud scheme.

..... Ivy League faculty members were unprepared for the battle they faced simply because they didn't understand the Jewish mind & how to dismantle their tactics. Ground zero begins by turning false accusations & lies into the presumed truism for which everyone is supposed to work off of. This is how the Jew initiates their encroachments & parasitism wherein facts become hate-speech & nonsense becomes legislation that works ONLY to the advantage of the carping Jew in what becomes an effective form of apartheid that hinges upon the victim card. This means that you have to play these unconscionable, "problem personalities" at their own game by not allowing them to pivot for the victim card because every time the Jew pivots for the victim card they're "laying the groundwork" in terms of inventing a false reality in order to commit a civil rights violation against the other 98% which of course comes cloaked in activism & victimology that merely proves they're incapable of living among anyone peacefully, only passive aggressively.....AND that means that it is us who needs protection--- not them!

..... Ultimately, the Jewish, legal haggler-badgerer & huckster victimologist looks to poke the bear in order to create cause for anti-Semitism which they then weaponize in order to hold their host country's head underwater. It's similar to Jim Crow-pushing, White people accusing a black man of being racist against white people for calling them a bunch of racist, redneck assholes for not allowing him to vote just because he didn't cross some t's & for some i's.

BOTTOM LINE: Jews are a hate group and always have been so forgive me if I have hate in my heart because I have yet to meet a Jew who isn't a problem on some level PROBABLY BECAUSE I KNOW WHAT QUESTIONS TO ASK. In other words, those incompetent, legal minds who decided to grill the faculty of UPenn under oath should have been grilling the table-turning Jewboys & their fake complaints instead of trying to catch decent people off guard like deer in headlights with outlandish accusations & entrapment. But the Trump, criminal regime is too ignorant to know what questions to a subculture with an endemic personality problem that's rarely honest with themselves OR they would never do so because they're on their payroll like Trump.

..... Anyway after this one, my next four installments will be 15 pages or less. One will be called "Jews Are A Hate Group & Always Have Been" which will make any reasonable person wonder how they've gotten away with hate crimes cloaked in victimology for this long which of course comes down to pitting people against each other. Another installment will heavily feature Marlon Brando. My three supplemental writings that I've had on my back burner for a couple years now, one will be about 15 pages and the other two in their mid-twies.. I'll try to post it all on my website by the end of the month.

For now, meet Pam Bondi's replacement. He's just another honest, trial lawyer like Alan Dershowitz.. https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Todd_Blanche

Nick Fuentes..... He could be my child!.. and yes, it's the most Jewish administration of all time... If you don't get this video, then refresh as Instagram is fussy..
https://www.instagram.com/reel/DVP2ZzUDI3D/?igsh=azIxZHUxeTlibGkz

*Jews Can't Handle Power. https://www.instagram.com/reel/DSZ7FwAghD5/?igsh=dXQ0MGlpbWF3eXl3
..... Why do you think Jews had to be kept in ghettoes in Europe? Jews have never been the victim, they only pretend to be the victim then compel everyone to accept it or be vilified because victimology is their main weapon along with bogus laws when they can't use bulldozers & bombs. In other words, every so-called Jewish persecution has always been nothing but an act of self-defense involving natives being driven out of their minds & up a tree.

.... Just remember, it's all about the white man's woman, the Arab's land & institutional control of both. It's psychological control of the Western World and nailing it down through institutional control while playing the goyim for the fool in order to get their pawns to help dismantle the Middle East in order to make Jews more powerful than the US. This sort of tail wagging the dog is why Edward Longshanks put his Jewboy investors on a boat to nowhere.

.....Ghettos, Gulags & Gas Chambers is where corporate terrorists & sham activists along with their political whore disciples belong because that's exactly where a lot of these guys would be in a civilized nation like China. In other words, the openly corrupt, Trump administration is walking around with a Scarlet T that'll not be forgotten once his term is up & no amount of brain dead MAGA or Jewish control of the media & "Deep pockets" sham activism will be able to cut somebody like myself off at the pass. Instead, they'll have an electric chair waiting for them OR a Luigi Mangione.

.....For now, if you want to see a decrease in anti-Semitism in this country, then assassinate Trump's administration because they are a nothing but a living, breathing, 1930s, Jew cartoon & their goyim accomplices are nothing but carpetbaggers.

.....Let's face it, there was more integrity in Venezuela's former regime than in Trump's collective of white trash & Jewish, corporate terrorists with the latter being able to outsmart any of the dumb goyim Trump has working for him in a New York minute.

..... In the meantime, enjoy my clip on the first two pages wherein Ed Gallrein challenges Thomas Massie in something resembling Ma & Pa Kettle Go to Paris. This is MAGA.... These are not the Republicans I grew up with... These are not the Southern Presbyterians & Episcopalians & Lutherans I knew. When I look at Ed Gallrein, Rick Scott, Laura Boebert & Troy Nehls, one realizes that there needs to be loftier standards in terms of running for public office being that essential workers at your average fast food restaurant outpace all of the above in terms of work ethics & oftentimes intellect, but definitely morality.... Speaking of a lack of morals & integrity, I'm still not sure why Amy Comey Barrett was not tried for lying under oath.

.....In the meantime, Lindsey Graham might as well be brought up on hate crimes against his own people and by his own people I mean the LGBTQ community. There needs to be surprise raids on this man & his speckled anus. Where's TMZ when you need them? All of Lindsey "Gomer Pyle" Graham's conversion therapy involving drag queen, male sex workers needs to have a "9 to 5" ending wherein justice is best served by having those who work under him instead place him on a permanent leash for the good of all society. Yellow supremacist Gene Wu of Texas needs to take a lesson from me in terms of what "for the good of all society really means".....And in that vein, justice will eventually be served by bringing JD Vance, Elon Musk, Peter Thiel, Marco Rubio & Ted Cruz before an international court of Justice.

If anyone has any updates on the Brighthouse Financial buyout, let me know. The backs of Josh Harris, Leon Black & Marc Rowan will be the foundations upon which Anti-Trump activism will be built whether it be handicapping corporate terrorism OR handicapping Jewish terrorism which oftentimes go hand in hand. These bastards don't care what Trump is doing to this country because they're only out for themselves. They have to understand that I'm like a Jew because I never forget.

Now I'll let the advocates, attorneys & school faculties take a bite out of this next one,

To the Ignorant Mooks & Loons of Trump's Religious Liberty Jewish Syndicate,

NEVER FORGET, Jewish terrorism is OPENLY AGGRESSIVE in the Arab world thru the use of bombs & bulldozers, but insidious, slow-moving & PASSIVE AGGRESSIVE in the Western World via the use of sham activism, psychological warfare & institutional control that's used to subjugate the minds of the masses by first censoring & vilifying rational, objective, good people in order to more effectively "dumb-down" the middle-class--- starting with the youth--- who along with the underbelly of society are then used as leftist pawns.

Dumbing down the white middle-class, wherein the smart ones are most likely walking quietly on eggshells & a little confused, in effect instills independently functioning, social governing conditions that work against all sane people--- such as the student protesters--- who have to contend with the mind-controlled masses being used against them.

Even worse, the rational people are forced to go incognito in their own country wherein the "Epstein Bolsheviks" are trying to pogrom the natives with vilification ruses & shyster taunts that the student protesters must be ashamed if they're covering their faces.

It goes without saying that the badgering, junkyard Jew with their pre-rehearsed comebacks ALWAYS fail to point out that Jew News has been playing down the world's longest ongoing campaign of sugar-coated, human atrocities & ongoing terror with the help of activists investors AND the silent collusion of American Jewry.

Reality check, this is comparable only to the Native American plight because this is what happens when you give the Jew a video camera, prime time access & legitimize terrorist organizations disguised as activism. In other words, they try to distort the good guy as the bad guy in order to keep us all under their thumb. I say take the money we give to Israel & give it to American Indians while we obliterate Russia.

This invader needs to be beaten & starved the town square's pillory.
Https://www.instagram.com/reel/DSUeLNKEWZ9/?igsh=dGEyMjJqZ2h5ZW1i

…….. but I'll settle for a ghetto, gulag or gas chamber.

Ultimately, making the middle-class into a mindless IDF does the grunt work for Jews which leaves them little else to do except for the occasional need for ongoing, reinforcements that come in the form of your usual array of misleading & brainwashing, television programming that poses itself as educational. Needless to say, it takes Deep Pockets & cronyism to grease the gears of this dangerous machine.

All of the above tactics were just the means to an endgame of mass subordination. All of the above is what was required for the not so "invisible hand" to be able to normalize "hiding in plain site", Jewish overreach, lies, disinformation, double-standards, MY WEBSITE, nonsensical double-talk & encroachments.

Fast forward, we were left with a generation that was unfit to lead. This meant that the bar had been lowered thus allowing unfit contenders of yesteryear like Trump & Biden to step out of the shadows. Even in the '80s and '90s, they were NEVER seen as serious, political contenders when all of the above dangerous seeds aimed at the youth of America were not just planted, but given teeth.

The trend-sucking, middle-aged, idiot sheep we have today are a shadow of the white man's former self as these simpletons now sees themselves as noble & smart for selling themselves down the river to the Jew AND THEIR LEFTIST TRANS OR GHETTO THUG PAWNS, yet they're too stupid & imbued with a skewed sense of altruistic narcissism to see it.

…… until the Left backfires by becoming the Center thanks to a new generation of fresh eyes. At this point, old targets of the Jew become their new, idiot, malleable pawns while rational people experience an Awakening as they look back on the last 40 some years and suddenly realize that anyone that benefited was a mere "side effect" receiving only scraps from the table by being weaponized as an altruistic good when in fact they were a subversive cause to undermine the mainstream while gaining allies. As can be expected, these subversive causes always seemed to get competitively crazier over time which is not unlike a person with an increasingly high drug tolerance. This is where growth ceases & backlash occurs.

Remember, Jewish terrorism comes second nature to Jews and it's steeped in both an imposter syndrome & a self-absorbed view of the world. It's divide & conquer the nuclear family by dumbing down & subjugating the white, middle-class AND turning young against old in favor of the Jew and their pawns while breeding with the mainstream then unacceptably raising the children to think of themselves as Jewish— whatever the hell that's ambiguously supposed to mean--- with your main lieutenants being SHAM ACTIVISM & INSTITUTIONAL CONTROL which rests upon Deep Pockets & psychological warfare that taps into a person's worst qualities & elevates only the unfit to serve as pawns or puppets. Everyone's a chess piece and it's not even subtle.

……. But back to the above-mentioned idiot sheep. There's NO BIGGER IDIOT than Pete Hegsweth unless it's his boss AND neither of them should be serving as anyone's Shepherd….

 Thanks, James Fishback! I hope you're staying on board with denying the legitimacy of election campaign fraud myths…

A MESSAGE FROM THE OTHER 98%: ….. When reading this, ask yourselves why aren't soldiers placing the lughead Pete Hegsweth under military arrest while honest authorities do the same to Trump?? There's no judge in this country who can deny that this is the appropriate course of action without being arrested themselves.

“This is INSANE. Military commanders told troops Trump was "anointed by Jesus" to start the apocalypse in Iran, according to over 200 complaints. Since Saturday, the Military Religious Freedom Foundation has been flooded with complaints from service members in every branch of the armed forces.

By Tuesday, the number exceeded 200 complaints spanning more than 50 military installations. The through line is the same every time: commanding officers are telling troops this war is biblically ordained and the bloodshed is necessary to fulfill Christian prophecy.

One noncommissioned officer reported that during a combat readiness briefing, their commander told the room everything happening in Iran was part of God's divine plan, complete with citations from the Book of Revelation.

STOP: It looks like Pete needs a reminder being that Pete’s hero, Hitler, would not only be bombing Israel AND on the side of an Aryan Iran (ie Alans, Sythians & Saka tribe), but Adolf wished that Islam --- with all of its societal order--- had overtaken Europe thus relieving itself of getting stuck with worshiping a dead Jew whose main virtue was Jesus’ defiance to its religious elitism that didn’t minister to the poor or to women, just group supremacy.

One noncommissioned officer reported that during a combat readiness briefing, their commander told the room everything happening in Iran was part of God's divine plan, complete with citations from the Book of Revelation.

MRFF founder Mikey Weinstein said commanders are not just invoking prophecy, but are actively excited about how violent the conflict needs to become to align with end-times theology. Military leaders are reportedly thrilled at the prospect of maximum bloodshed because they think it brings Jesus back.

The commander reportedly had a grin on his face while delivering the message. The complaint was filed on behalf of 15 troops. Eleven of them are Christian. This is not about offended atheists. These are believers who know the difference between faith and apocalyptic war propaganda…

……. FIRST OF ALL, I DON’T KNOW WHY ANYONE WOULD WANT TO START THE APOCALYPSE. If it’s to bring Jesus back then I have news for you---- JESUS THINKS YOU’RE AN ASSHOLE…..and so do I especially as I’m someone who understands that Jesus was not about a god of wrath..

…..In fact, I've never even heard of “Apocalypse propaganda” except for on re-runs of Dexter & Criminal Minds, but I have heard of “atrocity propaganda”. It’s what’s perpetuated by grassroots terrorists like Meta’s Sheryl Sandberg who faux teaches idiot Americans about October 7th rape & baby heads. Why doesn't this friend of Larry Summers teach facts such as the actual atrocities committed by Israel which includes biological warfare, institutionalized rape, expulsion tactics & genocide. THIS is why there's friction between the US & Iran so let's stop talking about 1979.

* The following isn't baby head propaganda, this is the true nature of the Jew once you give them their Homeland. This one is for that hybrid, kike cunt Sheryl Sandberg. Palestinian babies are being tortured to get their parents to talk. https://www.instagram.com/reel/DWTH6xXk0ds/?igsh=MWw2NWJtbXh5bGpzeQ==

…. Incidentally, Sheryl's bullshit documentaries & sham activism--- which David Einhorn of Greenlight Capital gave a shout out to on X--- is tantamount to Holocaust deniers & election fraud propaganda. Is it any wonder why we have the vilification of Holocaust revisionists & why the Jewish ego swims in a sea of dark creativity. In the future, I recommend that David Einhorn stays as far away from any woman named Cheryl/Sheryl as humanly possible--- they're just bad luck!

AMERICA'S MOST CRAZY: JOHN HAGEE is not only extremely dangerous, he belongs in a mental institution. https://www.facebook.com/share/v/1HvxkeBefN/

MORAL OF THE STORY*: MIKEY WEINSTEIN, founder of the MRFF & a true, Jewish activist NOT a sham activist is having his organization hijacked by Pete Hegsweth and perhaps even by the Religious Liberty Commission. The people who once harassed Mike's kids for being Christ Killers are now somehow transposing that on Muslims, but this time by way of the Book of Revelations being that they're clearly either primitive minds, mentally-ill or dim-witted. *Perhaps all of the above.

... It's heartbreaking to see that Mike Weinstein & his organization, which serves as a relatively unknown whistleblower, isn't getting more attention as it rails against boneheads like Pete Hegsweth who is nothing more than an unfit, January 6er that's been placed in charge by a mentally incompetent, grumpy old man instead of Pete rotting in jail for life with Dementia Don.

CNN staged a joke approval poll and Trump didn't get that he was the joke.*

…. CODE RED: This is a mental health crisis we're witnessing in all directions!!.. whether it be Pete or Don, any of these people would be fired, imprisoned or committed ANYWHERE!

In the real world, Pete is the guy you avoid at a tacky, sports bar where he sits watching football & yelling at the television set when he's not slipping women date rape drugs. It's also more unfortunate that Mikey Weinstein doesn't understand how many of his fellow Jews don't care about Pete's mindset as they love to weaponize it, just as they have the baby head myths, now that they've thrown DEI under the bus It's middle class. Blacks were and hang them back with. Ultimately, I would rather have Mikey Weinstein on the board of the RLC than the jokers Trump assigned.

At a recent convention, Hegseth declared that advancing the administration's agenda is "not political" but "biblical." Weinstein warned that when Christian nationalism infiltrates the institution that controls nuclear weapons and armed drones, it is an immediate threat to global security.

….. If it's political or biblical, this person needs to be arrested and placed in prison for life. This is Christian ISIS…….AND everyone in my emails should be ashamed of themselves for not being more collective. Do I have to make a citizen's arrest? Don't think it'll work!

This didn't come from nowhere. Defense Secretary Pete Hegseth launched monthly Christian worship services at the Pentagon last summer and recently invited Doug Wilson, a Christian nationalist pastor who opposes women's right to vote, to lead one.

……. Obviously, "Christian Nationalist" to the white trash posers in this country means something totally different than to that of either your "Isabella & Ferdinand" scenario OR to even that of your traditional, knowing European who kept Jews in ghettos to ensure that Jewish, sham activism & cronyism didn't infiltrate society to further their own causes…. Now it looks like Christian Evangelical ISIS has taken over & they're far more unsophisticated & crazy-stupid than their crusader ancestors.

Two hundred service members risked their careers to sound this alarm. The question is whether anyone with the power to act is listening."

Again, why is nobody in my emails doing anything. Why are they not aligning? Citizens are arrested everyday on minor violations, but this is allowed to stand?

BOTTOM LINE: Pete Hegsweth is an example of the wanna-be, Americanized trash version of a so-called "white nationalist". white people of yesteryear would laugh at him as he clearly doesn't understand what his so-called, right-wing peers like Nick Fuentes understands which is that MAGA is a sham & that Muslims are 1% of this country who have very little influence as opposed to Jews who'll ensure that a person gets run out of town in an Anglo-Christian pogrom if someone dares to tell them that they look Jewish despite the fact that Judaism has never been the white man's religion, strictly an ancestral one of a transient, ethnostate without a state.

……Iran is a true, ancient culture whereas Israel is a defunct one which no one would care about if it weren't for the spread of Christianity which they despise not to mention their invasion of Europe.

….. BOTTOM LINE, Lug-Headed Pete is no different than some Black Muslim Brotherhood leftover from the '60s who real African Muslims look at as tourists trying too hard to get in touch with a culture they don't understand. That's White Trash Pete, Mr. January 6th at large! … Just add that stupid, Viking helmet & let him howl!

BOTTOM LINE: THE TRUMP ADMINISTRATION CANNOT ALLOW FOR THEIR RELIGIOUS LIBERTY COMMISSION TO EXIST--- WITH OR WITHOUT ITS JEWISH AGENDA--- IF PETE HEGSWETH IS WHAT'S CURRENTLY IN PLACE…..IN THE REAL WORLD, HE WOULD NOT LAST A DAY WITHOUT A NUT JOB LIKE TRUMP. I guess this says a lot about the legitimacy of the Religious Liberty Commission.

….”Rabbi Yaakov Menken, executive vice president of the Coalition for Jewish Values and a member of the commission's advisory board of religious leaders, applauded Munshi's resignation and Boller's removal on Friday.”

Note, if I had applauded the removal of that snake in the grass Rabbi Yaakov Menken, by yelling “Run that dirty Jew out of town like the old days when the white man knew what the hell they were dealing with” it would be a big deal despite the Jew not knowing their place as a splinter group living in a Christian Muslim world OR the fact that someone needs to take out the trash! No more Jewish role-reversal!

….More importantly, everyone in this corrupt picture is blatantly overlooking the fact that the same standards which the fake, Jewish, “defender of humanity” has always held the white man to ARE NOT the same standards they hold themselves to. Clearly, first to defend has its ulterior motives, especially when no rational person could glorify ghetto thugs AND when the black community doesn't have the financial resources to do so.

… What's worse is that everyone else doesn't hold Jews to the same standards either out of collusion OR out of brainwashing. Remember, Jews try to make your enemy their enemy. You ridicule and vilify who they want you to ridicule and vilify while always trying to create three degrees of separation that are very easy to see past. This is another way they maintain the victim card.

…… Keep in mind that this Rabbi is the same ilk of sneaky Jews who make it their mission in life to attack, defame & vilify people like myself for not glorifying ghetto thugs into civil rights heroes OR for simply daring to say that someone looked Jewish… But even worse, they got my own idiot people who never even knew what the word Semitic meant to attack me.

….To top it all off, it took another Jew like Bill Ackman & Jew company to take it all away once a better class of blacks went PLM AND by doing nothing more than tapping into the white resentment Jews had cultivated for years. Ultimately, this is all about social-conditioning tactics which the terroristic, sugar-coated Jew media has brainwashed the idiot masses of America with & there are no bigger idiots than Evangelicals & pompous, Gen X suburban trash.

I say it's time to take out the trash starting with Rabbi Yaakov Menken…

.. Just to let you all know, two-faced, skulking Jews like Rabbi Menken are exactly what I've been keeping an eye on since I was a little kid in the '80s, but they've nonetheless succeeded in dumbing down & turning my own asinine, Stepford wives peer group against me being that the long game was always a country which would be handed over to the parasitic Jew on a silver platter & bended knee. There's a reason why these preppy terrorists were kept in ghettos, gulags, pogrommed and finally gas chambers. I only wish that we could do the same thing to Evangelical trash who are nothing but a danger to this country, always have been & now they're infesting South America, yet they complain about South America infesting them.

Meanwhile…..

This isn't just a handful of Jews.

Prelude to Getting Fucked AND KNOWING You're About to Get Fucked: …… Let's tear off the mask that sloppily conceals Trump's sham activist Religious Liberty Commission or what I call the Religious Liberty Jewish Syndicate.

….. First, we all know it'll be staffed by nothing more than puppets who're unfit to judge OR wolves in sheep's clothing. Anyone rational will be vilified & squeezed out being that useless, Redneck Evangelical Republicans & Donald Trump have mirrored themselves after the chicanery of Jewish victimology wherein Trump sells his own people down the river for a buck while the unworldly & mentally-ill, Evangelical trash, Dan Patrick, shoots the white man in the foot then pats himself on the back because he's too stupid to see that he's being used solely for the fact that he's stupid. So eerily similar to Gen. X imposter liberals & more so in terms of Gen Y hipster trash who really gave it some teeth that led this backlash.

……AGAIN, the very basis of this Religious Liberty Syndicate is the tenacious--- *and oftentimes laughable & "speechless-inducing"* --- victimology-based, age-old playbook of Jewish terrorism that constantly pivots in order to maintain the victim card. Bottom line, this is nothing more than a power grab that not only needs to stop being enabled, but it's one that's being replicated by Epstein Republicans. Ya' know, Epstein Republicans who need to be arrested and tried before the ICJ because January 6th never ended, it just learned how to get sneakier & more smug by mirroring Jewish terrorism while betraying white, Christian America ALONG WITH EVERYONE ELSE!

FINAL WARNING: If the RLC & IHRA continues to vilify rational, objective people like Anna Kasparian, then they'll ultimately be guilty of domestic terrorism & of a hate crime as both will be stemming from an officially institutionalized form of witch hunts geared at eliminating the truth thus effectively creating a form of apartheid all by way of defaming her as a bigot. This in turn actually justifies & generates the anti-Semitism that the self-involved Jew complains about, but the Jew will simply recycle it as the other guy's hate crime, NOT the Jewboy's age-old con job to hold everyone's head underwater while playing the victim. In other words, I don't have to speak in the future tense because we're already there.

This is not a conundrum for Jews. It's simply their warped conscience which exists in a constant state of denial as it pivots for the "victim card" as opposed to the "accountability card" that resides in everyone else. This is the age-old complaint with the Jew, but the top mooks at the RLC are too ignorant & culturally bankrupt to understand that.

THIS IS HOW THE JEW GETS UP IN YOUR FACE. This is how the Jew, taunts & terrorizes a person until they commit a so-called, hate crime which is followed by the Jew taunting everyone even more by playing the victim. Nobody can live with this harassment & defamation disguised as activism which is why I can't believe that ethnic Jews are out of the ghetto, living among us, free to reproduce with white people & to slap phony, Jewish labels on the kids along with the so-called converts…. This is a overreach & a perversion, NOT freedom of religion.

…. This is Jewish terrorism & it's frontline attacks always start with the nuclear family— white guilt indoctrination included! But it ALWAYS requires two main lieutenants--- SHAM ACTIVISM & INSTITUTION CONTROL. The RLC & IHRA constitutes the sham activism and it's endgame is to assist Jews in gaining institutional control that will effectively create the apartheid state of the "Jew.S.A."….. It's all about Deep Pockets & brainwashing at this point.

*The Religious Liberty Commission & IHRA**

I would like to educate the Religious Liberty Commission on some backstory in terms of how Judaism does not fall under freedom of religion as do other religions. It's more like freedom to be an ethno-religious group and anything less is Jewish overreach. Afterwards, I will broach the subject of those sitting at the top of the committee who are guilty of bullying members while playing the hero. This is something these simpletons learned from Jewish terrorism, but they can read more about themselves along with everyone else.

…. Trump's Religious Liberty Commission needs to understand that freedom of religion was intended for "let you be you", not for sneaky, self-loathing Jews to use it as a loophole for ethnic cleansing of their Semitic blood & racial theft of European peoples. But this is just typical of a group that has always been an overreaching ethno-religious group with a strong leaning towards self-induced neurosis & a persecution complex which they bring on themselves.

*Again, the Jew had to dumb down a population in order to make Jewish overreach & the unacceptable acceptable…. Note that they have Sandra Hagee Parker is a leading piece of ignorant, Evangelical white trash related to John Hagee who is the founder of some Hillbillies United for Jews organization in Texas. These are the people Jews used to ridicule, but now they use them and they're too stupid and uncultured to understand it.

https://www.washingtonjewishweek.com/ihra-definition-helps-combat-antisemitism-experts-say/

… In other words, Jews intend on bullet-proofing themselves by seeking validation from idiots & simpletons who'll allow them to make fake & nonsensical defamation or disinformation stand as fact thus allowing Jews to keep everyone under their thumb. As of now, the Religious Liberty Commission is posed to allow Jewish, hate speech to stand as facts and for the other 98%'s facts & valid complaints to stand as hate speech. This cascades effect is often facilitated by allowing Jews to disguise hate speech against anyone else by packaging it in tall tales & one-sided narratives that vilify the other 98%. In other words, Jewish role-reversal. This is how the tail wags the dog.

…..But for now, we need to validate the abuses Israelis have been committing on a relatively concealed basis in Israel thanks to the collusion of Jew News in the US which works overtime at promoting White guilt indoctrination as a means of enslaving soft minds & distracting everyone from what they really are which is anything other than defenders of humanity. They're more like people who try to keep everyone else fighting so that may they can come out on top in the end. At this point we need to admit to ongoing collusion & hate crimes because ultimately Americans are victims of Jewish abuses as well as Palestinians.

Therefore, the Religious Liberty Commission is out of their league on this one being that white whores (shiksas) like Ivanka Trump & Karla Kloss converting or "Jew-rinsing" is not about freedom of religion it's about incursions--- specifically racial theft--- being committed through loopholes that are no different than pushing native peoples off their land thanks to bogus laws of return then allowing imposter converts to move into their territory with ancestral claims to the land. Israeli Foreign Prime Minister Gideon Sa'ar has claimed that Jews are the "indigenous people of the Land of Israel". ..... AGAIN, you cannot convert your ethnicity, just something for the RLC to keep in mind.

make Gideon's claim from what I've read in the past on Wikipedia.

Listening to Jeffrey Epstein talk to Lawrence Summers at Harvard makes me think of how the Wandering Jews really are like preppy gypsies with Ivy league college degrees. They even seem to share the same mantra of God gave us no land or possessions, thus the right to steal. Now they're once again dragging outsiders into it by having them convert to the religion of the Jew then pretending that it's just a religion OR that converts & adoptees really are members of the people from Judea circa 76AD via a religious conversion which an ethnic Jew doesn't need. Does this sound valid to the RLC?

..... I REPEAT, it's about the Arabs land & the subjugation of the white man through mind control and censorship..... That makes this an international, Jewish problem wherein organizations like IHRA & the RLC are effectively enabling terrorism while NOT making Jews in the U.S. targets who may or may not support Israel's genocidal actions & western Jewry's sham activism, loopholes to silence people. Marc Rowan's harassment of the professors at the University of UPenn is verifiable proof of this. The end game here is all about making Jewish chicanery bulletproof, not protecting the normal Jews with valid complaints. Thus manipulative tail cannot continue to keep wagging the dog.

... Incidentally, that proceeding Epstein video speaks on many levels in terms of Jewish behavior. Again, Make America stupid again & then Make Jewish something it's never been. I'm not surprised, Jews always steal from one hand to give to the other with a different label. It's basically the same scam Josh Harris, Marc Rowan & Leon Black have been pulling off at Apollo Global Management by repackaging insurance fraud as something that it's not In order to underinsure their assets then give away over inflated profits as donations.

But for now, all the crooked Jews on Quora--- who are a highly representative cross-section of Jews & how they think--- agree that it's not just a religion OR at least they agree whenever they're not talking out of both sides of their mouth.

Conversion has been described as a passport to a becoming a member of a tribe that has its own ancestral-national religion (aka ethno-religious group) which to a rational mind should have ethnic requirements of being from the Fertile Crescent to maintain legitimacy.

……When it comes to Bob Dylan converting to Christianity, they use the parent's religion to track the race due to it having been an ethno-religious group living in relative isolation up until about 200 years ago. Thus, Bob is labeled as a Jew as he has two Jewish parents despite his change in religion at the time and by Jew its clearly meant in the traditional, ethnic sense as the religion goes along with the territory. Plus in Bob Dylan's case, he's so conspicuously Jewish-looking that there's no way to deny it.

…..Conversely, I'm supposed to believe that a convert from a European, ethnic group is just as Jewish as Bob Dylan. If I don't go along with this sham, I'm an anti-Semite just so they can save face & keep people under their thumb, NEVER admit their true agenda, overreach & insecurities. It's as if they want to make you forget that this is why they were kept in ghettoes.

But just for further comparison, black Cherokees are not considered real Cherokees. Likewise, no one thinks that Kim Kardashian's mulatto kids really belong in an Armenian Church. Note, Armenian Christians have their own tenets which I may agree with, but it's still for them by them unless a fifth Ecumenical council is reconvened. If that were to happen, a cultural Catholic like myself is definitely more in line with the Oriental Orthodox practices like Armenians..

Note, the only white people who would fight a person for saying that Bob Dylan looks Jewish may be pre-October 7th, white liberals who would attempt to sound worldly by saying something stupid like "he's Eastern European or Italian" despite those two groups looking nothing alike OR the fact that Bob has a German last name---"Zimmernan".. But the real reason that they would say this is because these so-called liberals believed themselves to be "defending" Jews who have sent a clear message that no one wants to look Jewish including them and it's been normalized by them.

The other reason for this cultural stupidity is that they're defending amateurish ideals enforced by Hollywood in terms of Nordic Supremacist standards. Therefore, these intellectual giants put off everything that wasn't "good enough" to be German onto Eastern Europeans despite not being able to acknowledge that they possess either zero knowledge OR at least a cognitive dissonance in terms of holding two different ideals of what Eastern European is one of which is Anna Kournikova Slavic & the other is ethnic, Semitic Jews like Amy Winehouse.

...BUT products of converts who are conspicuously not Jewish looking--- such as Patty Lipton--- are completely different from ethnic Jews and the Jews on Quora, who are very representational of average Jews, have even acknowledged this in a nonchalant way as if to normalize the insane wherein everyone else is the bad guy if they don't go along with it. The only thing that's worse is when they make things up as they go along such as faux, evolutionary mutation theories which are on the same par as election fraud myths.

…..Likewise, Jews I've been tracking have acknowledged that their own tracking of who's an ethnic Jew by religion--- being that it's enough, no religious group--- has been tainted especially within the last 200 years with converts spurred by the disintegration of the ghetto system. This acknowledgment was made personally to me even as they taunted me by playing the victim to the idiot, complaint board of Quora who had me censored for pointing out nonsensical parasitism that these mainstream Jews were trying to legitimize. When this conversion-racial theft is legitimized Jewish becomes a cult, NOT a culture and no other group is like this. In fact, it's been viewed as a parasitic subversive group because of it.

….. What I love most is when Jews are admitting that a European Jew has Levantine blood running through their veins from the Israelites AND pretending that a Jew is someone with a Jewish mother even if that woman is a European woman who just converted and isn't an ethnic Jew because she is treated as the same thing as an ethnic Jew much like being adopted. Likewise, the child of an ethnic Jew who converted to Christianity is still a Jew because it's not their fault, whereas a white woman who converts to Judaism before her child is born has a Jewish child as opposed to that child not being Jewish because it's not their fault.

All this nonsense & all in the form of conveniently shady loopholes that seem to work in the Jews' favor all while never seeing itself as an obvious, pushy & inappropriate encroachers. THIS along with their vying of institutional control & monopolies is why Jews have been called parasites. What's worse is if I object to this nonsense & obvious, racial misappropriation--- I'm vilified*!*

Note that I say racial misappropriation and not cultural appropriation being that the latter is more about Jews repackaging attributes of their European, host country as being Jewish such as the foods. In other words, Jews don't have their own culture without it being a race. After all, when was the last time you heard somebody calling ANY ethnic, European dish Catholic food? So where does this leave us when the Jew is stealing and relabeling both your culture and your race as theirs while hiding behind freedom of religion? I say it leaves us with the underhanded, "bait & switch", lulling effect of Jewish terrorism which isn't exactly that much different from Apollo Global Management MODCO reinsurance scam I've been talking so much about. But these are always the sort of lines Jews work within which makes something like the Religious Liberty Commission nothing more than an open invitation to get fucked over.

In fact, all of this has just proven that there's such a thing as portable, Judaistic Nationalism and it at times favors converts over that of ethnic Jews who convert to Christianity. Whatever happened to blood is thicker than water? How does this justify a country promised upon ancestral Israelite bloodlines! Cate Capshaw converted or mutated to Judaism and I still don't look at her as a Jew, just as an actress model whore who was looking for a meal ticket cuz she knew her acting career was going nowhere & everyone in Hollywood knows that Jewish men look for white women to screw so they don't have Jewish looking kids. Nelson Peltz is another great example.

But the ghettoes of Europe were never impenetrable. It's where the mainstream went to shop and Jews went to haggle. It was like South Street in the 1960s when Jews would pull Sunday shoppers in off the streets and pour them drinks OR like the Israelis at the malls in their kiosks who pull you over. In other words, the RLC is a place where Jews go to haggle, to Jew down & to talk a bunch of uncultured, Evangelical white trash in circles like Dan Patrick, NOT to speak diplomatically.

> …..Dan Patrick, Mary Margaret and Ben Carson are so out of their league, but their egos just won't allow them to accept that they're giving away the farm & shooting the country in the foot no different than Gen X, Jew-pandering, Fat Housewives for George Floyd were because in the end there was only one person really benefiting and everyone else was just a pawn.

But back to those nostalgic ghettoes & shetls…. The ghettos were where white women were seen by Jews so if you had some poor Slav with eight daughters, it's either a Jew or the gypsies. But gypsies were a lowly caste of Indian thieves & beggars so you took the Jew thus ending up with somebody not as Jewish looking in the ghetto. I mention this because it's not much different than a Jewish guy following me around King of Prussia Mall in Philly and telling me he was with Ford Modeling and that I'm too old for that, but I'd make a great trophy wife then started pushing me on the conversion question as if the two of us were at some advanced negotiation stage...

In other words, Jews are closet proselytizers, they're just more under the radar and unofficial about it & typically works by way of weaker links in society like women. Do you really think that Paul McCartney would have married Linda McCartney if she looked like a typical, ethnic Jew like Ruth Bader Ginsburg or Amy Winehouse? The allure is for Jewish men to find somebody who is a shiksa goddess relabeled as a Jew … OR to lure non-Jewish men like Kier Starmer with a faux, Jewish wife who will dishonestly raise the children to think of themselves as Jewish even though it's always been an ethno religious group wherein the transplanted people of Judah practiced Judaism.

> Incidentally, the term "shiksa" is Yiddish for a gentile woman who's typically portrayed as blonde, Eurocentric and beautiful. As you know, Yiddish is Middle German with Hebrew & Polish modifications being that they invaded Germany around the 8th century following the fall of the Roman empire. The Germans couldn't take these desert people haggling them & pawing their women so they pushed them eastward. The term "siksa" spelled correctly is Polish for a sex siren or a slut. So I guess this demonstrates the perception of the native, Slavic women and how they were viewed-- especially in comparison to their own--- and it also demonstrates how that spills over into Hollywood & Jeffrey Epstein.

Unfortunately Jews have been brainwashing not just white people, but sometimes themselves. There's nothing worse than having to hear some over glorified hybrid like Debra Messing saying something stupid like she can't have blonde hair because she's Polish & Russian when those groups would not only laugh at her in disgust for that remark; but more importantly, the only reason she doesn't look like a real camel jockey such as Jeff Goldblum or Sasha Baron Cohen is because some shiksa spread her legs for the money to a Jew who didn't want to have kids as horribly Jewish looking as himself, ie. Steven Spielberg. Nonetheless, this abomination still has a horrible Jewish nose & rubber lower lip. In other words, her not being too horribly Jewy looking is how she got cast on "Will & Grace".

What people call anti-Semitism isn't too dissimilar from Islamophobia because for many it's less about rejecting the religion & more about rejecting a near eastern culture that hasn't been completely filtered by Europe as has Christianity. Things go from bad to worse as Muslims are perceived as living 1,000 years in the past in terms of their garb that actually predates Islam. Conversely, Eastern Christians are often embraced as being closer to Jesus's people & time while also being more in touch with the West, but with Eastern modifications whose only difficulties arise in terms of a mixed service.

This combined anti-Semitism & Islamophobia is a reflection of the past tension seen with the Spanish in terms of the Conversos (converted, ethnic Jews) & Morisco (converted, Islamic Moors). In other words, the "old Christians" were the true Spanish, not converts of a different ethnic group who converted to the national religion of the native, Spanish Europeans which was Christianity that was dipped in European paganism how much like what the Native Americans in South America did with Christianity.

Spain wasn't quite the same thing as an ethno-state with a national religion being that the Spanish took converts who they didn't completely accept wherein Jews are an ethno-religious group wanting to form an ethno-state with their national religion as the passport which inappropriately accepts converts, especially the white converts being that Ashkenazi Jews want to obfuscate and alter their true identity by confusing people with Jews from Russia versus ethnic Russians from Russia. The end game is to beautify themselves by altering the racial status quo of Ashkenazi Jews who never want to look Jewish. And the bottom line is that the Ashkenazi Jews are the ones who matter, they're the ones with the power for the most part worldwide and they're the founders who use everyone else as chess pieces. Sounds familiar?

> Translation, what the Jews are trying to do at the RLC isn't freedom of religion, it's cultural overthrow & protection in overthrowing the people of their former, European host countries who now have an immigrant country which Jews think they can manipulate into becoming theirs by hiding behind diversity & freedom of religion in order to corrupt Jewish into being something it's never been. This is Jewish supremacy & overreach that the RLC wants to protect & it's the complete opposite of what Mikey Weinstein does at the MRFF because he's an actual watchdog for religious zealots which includes oddballs who blame modern Jews for the death of Christ, which is as bad as every Jews I've ever met who aspects the white man to pay for the Holocaust.
> …….Now I don't think for one minute that Mikey Weinstein is the sort of Jew that teaches his kids that Jesus is rotting in hell or that Jesus was a charlatan, but there are many Jews who want to undermine the Christian nature of this country as they can't accept that it is a western country and Christianity goes along with the territory. This is why faux liberal, pseudo-intellectuals bring up our founding fathers as being Deists--- which Voltaire was and Voltaire couldn't stand Jews--- but you're crazy to think that our founding fathers completely relinquished their Christian traditions.
> …. There is a BIG difference when it comes to trying to undermine the Christian nature of this Western country versus that of balancing it in order to deter the underbelly radicals and consequently, who gets labeled as a radical. Ergo, "dark creativity" Jews like Bill Ackman & Rabbi Yaakov Menken certainly aren't trying to maintain balanced heads if they're exploiting a bunch of ignorant, Evangelical half-wits like Dan Patrick & white trash, neo-Nazi jocks like Pete Hegsweth. Bottom line, Mikey Weinstein of the MRFF is the linchpin that balances from what I've seen, NOT Dan Patrick, Mary Margaret Bush or Ben Carson.

…..And incidentally, if I point out Jewish features I'm considered an anti-Semite and not just by the Jews on Quora, but by IHRA which is a shadow organization to the Religious Liberty Commission. Of course, we can all say that a person looks Irish, Italian or Swedish & Russian which tells you how Jews really feel about themselves. Think about what this effectively means. It means that these shapeshifters aren't just ethnically misappropriating the identities of the people of their European, host countries--- they're MISREPRESENTING them as well. If Jews think they're ugly, then why the hell would we want them identifying as us--- NO ONE ELSE DOES THIS!

It's like I told a black friend who asked me why Jews pretend it's just a religion when they look completely different. I told her it's because looking Jewish has always been considered ugly in Europe. Second, they don't want to embrace their Middle Eastern Heritage and third they want to suppress in order to oppress which then makes their false reality more palatable which they inappropriately force into becominh our reality. It's all done with JEWTITUDE which now has a modern media to egg it along and sham activism to make it official.

….. and it gets even weirder when you're dealing with the perfect prototype of what Jewish looks like such as Seth Zalkin of Brooklyn Brands who pretends that the baked goods he's shoveling are a reflection of his heritage. FUCK YOU SETH--- and his Jewy-looking, business partner--- because Seth is just a haggling, sandnigger stealing Eastern European recipes & culture then calling it his own from which he then profits. Where's my restitution, bitch?

Meanwhile, the Jew attorney & activist, bullshit artist along with their media cronies have always tried to get the white man to pay restitution for ancient history which at one point has included having the Egyptian government pay for so-called Israelite enslavement that never really happened. Obviously, this is to handicap a people and if the white man insists on the Jew giving restitution for what they've done OR are currently doing to others, they pretend that everyone is anti-Semitic & plotting to destroy them by playing the good guy because that's how Jews project & deflect.

Jews want everyone to feel as badly as they do while getting revenge. The ethnic groups who Jews persecute, ridicule & vilify are typically the ones who know what Jews are more than anyone else & what imposters they really are. Strangely enough, they're also the ones that have shown them the most tolerance when nobody else has. So lying & pretending that everyone else is anti-Semitic is a matter of mass control & self-preservation of ego. Fuck them, the emperor has no clothes, just a rigged media, a smart but ugly complex & an obnoxious, cry bully attitude.

But I'll be discussing more on this in my third installment titled Jews Are Hate Group….. And Always Have Been. Likewise, it's the nature of their actions that begin to serve as an explanation as to why there were pogroms, ethnic-cleansing programs, ghettos & gulags. BOTTOM LINE, before Jews try to ethnically cleanse Palestinians who ethnic Jews from Europe are related to, they need to cleanse themselves by not trying to replace their near eastern blood with European blood and normalizing it through freedom of religion loopholes.

Just remember that the Jew is all about the pivot. This means that they--- Israelis & most Jews who have lived among the white man--- lie outright about acting in self-defense. This perpetuates the ego-soothing myth of the Jew as being the perpetual scapegoat, hero, humanitarian watchdog, the victim, etc. Thus anything that goes against this myth is anti-Semitic. In their warped minds this command word makes them bulletproof from any and all facts regarding themselves whether it be genocide to that of the censorship of honest journalism either thru force or thru false accusations of anti-Semitism. It becomes a sham cycle!

 Israeli data shows the truth and it's been shared with Harvard, yet the student protesters are being harassed when the faculty hired Jeffrey Epstein, an Israeli spy! https://www.instagram.com/reel/DMJdQjzzEPC/?igsh=Nnd5YnNmb2Vqdzdr

…… The same thing goes for UPENN & Columbia University!!

Meanwhile, they are free in their minds to go about making wildly false claims about treating Arabs better than they treat themselves while pushing wildly degrading portrayals of the Palestinian as being the troublemaking, wandering Palestinian who no one wants in their country for good reason as opposed to the wandering Jew who's gotten kicked out of every country that's ever taken them in and for pretty much the same reasons wherever they go.

..But they insist that they are always the scapegoat while they in turn scapegoat the king or the church which makes you wonder why they didn't go back to the Middle East hundreds of years ago. My favorite lie is that they weren't allowed to do anything but money-lending as if it were a bad thing especially for a haggling culture who moved upon Europe as Silk Road merchants.

 I can understand why Jews get annoyed by the Khazarian theory being that people confuse them with Mongols as opposed to understanding the amalgamation….. Hungarians & Bulgarians are in the same boat..

https://pmc.ncbi.nlm.nih.gov/articles/PMC3595026/

… Think Georgians & Armenians who to me are indistinguishable from Jews at times.

As the ancient Judeans and Khazars have been vanquished and their remains have yet to be sequenced, in accordance with previous studies (Levy-Coffman 2005; Kopelman et al. 2009; Atzmon et al. 2010; Behar et al. 2010), contemporary Middle Eastern and Caucasus populations were used as surrogates. Palestinians were considered proto-Judeans because they are assumed to share a similar linguistic, ethnic, and geographic background with the Judeans and were shown to share common ancestry with European Jews (Bonné-Tamir and Adam 1992; Nebel et al. 2000; Atzmon et al. 2010; Behar et al. 2010). Similarly, Caucasus Georgians and Armenians were considered proto-Khazars because they are believed to have emerged from the same genetic cohort as the Khazars

…Over 70% of European Jews and almost all Eastern European Jews cluster with Georgian, Armenian, and Azerbaijani Jews within the Caucasus rim…… Approximately 15% of Central European Jews cluster with Druze and the rest cluster with Cypriots. All European Jews cluster distinctly from the Middle Eastern cluster. Strong evidence for the Khazarian hypothesis is the clustering of European Jews with the populations that reside on opposite ends of ancient Khazaria: Armenians, Georgians, and Azerbaijani Jews

But back to start, where the fuck is the restitution for those Eastern European countries whose culture the Jew is stealing then profiting from especially when the Mad Jew is still harassing Poland for restitution because they didn't do enough to save them when they were too busy saving themselves, NOT putting Jews first?....but that's how self-absorbed & abhorrent the average, Jewish mindset really is & it gets to the point that you know you should've done more to turn them in to the Nazis because if they live, you'll never hear the end of it!

Being that Jews are ashamed of looking Jewish, they don't want to draw attention to this fact. This is a major, underlying reason why they play the victim. But Semites aren't European so Jews shoot themselves in the foot with that command word unless they can use their rabid mouths to keep people cowering--- not thinking clearly--- in order to enforce compliance, a need for their approval & a collective stupidity in terms of their peer group who may be witnessing this farce & therefore need to be taught a mutual lesson.

Of course this peer group consists of unfit peers who are not only incapable of judging--- much like the RLC--- but they've been socially-conditioned to act as a mindless version of the IDF straight out of an ABC afterschool, Jew-produced, indoctrination special. The student protesters woke up from this scam as it should make any intelligent person stop to scratch their head to then walk back the scam in their head.

When Eddie Murphy does it it's cute, but Jewish victimology & defamation is NEVER cute. https://youtu.be/UTIjIC00Vwl?si=qrYfGWDCXMFeJ7Ys

Obviously playing the victim is not just a distraction, it's a way to dodge accountability in terms of ANYTHING. Thus Jews try to turn EVERYTHING around on the victim because they're afraid of people who are not stupid & slavish--- people who are on to them. Note that this is what you get when you deal with largely well-educated, storefront hustlers that have a self-loathing, Uncle Tom complex which exists in a constant state of cognitive dissonance & contradictions and responds only with dark creativity to anyone who doesn't kiss its ass. Ergo, it helps to surround themselves with ignorant people or to create & import them.

CLASSIC QUORA NONSENSE An Ashkenazi Jew adopts a black boy so they call him ethnically Jewish. The same person who says this also says that Levantine blood runs through our veins & then next says that a real Jew is somebody whose mother is Jewish even if they're not Semitic which makes them as illegitimate as the New England tribes of American Indians who effectively died out as they were replaced by negroes being that their original laws really hadn't planned for their own men dying out due to a mass invasion & pandemics. In other words, no one can justify the legitimacy of a tribe like this.
….. Likewise, European culture wasn't prepared for a Middle Eastern cult that would tribal labels on their people and then play the victim if you didn't go along with it OR pretend to be the native people and just a religion….. It starts to hurt talking out of both sides of your mouth and worse when you don't make sense from either end.

..But the Jew doesn't care about making sense, just obfuscating their blatant encroachments which they try to trick people into accepting or not seeing which is exceptionally easier on people who are either backwoods Americans that have been divorced from their European Roots for centuries OR with unsophisticated, suburban trash who've been told that they're smart for going along with this farce.

More importantly, the white man isn't the ethnic cleansing, lunatic fringe Jews want people to think they are, but unfortunately weak minds among the white man of a certain age have bought into it.… This is a Jewish, vilification scheme & the dumbing down of the middle class & Jewish Uncle Tom's projecting what's most true about themselves unto others….. NOR is the white man the unprovoked anti-Semite that manipulative Jews--- who drive people over the edge--- want you to think that they are. We are not simpletons looking for a scapegoat after being manipulated by politicians. We know where the blame rests, we know who the sleazy politicians are, we know not to deflect blame as do Jews who need to lie to themselves to feel better… I've just described the white man of yesteryear.

It's the Jew living among us in Europe all these centuries who's the true anti-Semite. They are the ones trying to ethnically cleanse themselves of their Semitic blood through us--- wear our skins & call it their own-- and then any backlash is then labeled as white supremacy--- as opposed to White sanity--- until it becomes a self-realizing prophecy. Let's face it, treating the other 98% in your host country as a doormat and poking the bear can only last for so long.

It's either them or us and I'm not going to be the suicide bomber or the guy throwing mazel tov cocktails because that's how Jews drive good people over the edge in desperate acts of self-defense who are then vilified. I believe in strict regulation of this sort of domestic terrorism. If that fails, ghetto reinstitution with only the sane people allowed out. But it's like I've always said, no one ever said that terrorists were stupid & the worst kind are the ones who pretend to be the victims & use it as a power grab…..

What Jews call being the victim is what I call self-defense and if Jews want to unrelentingly chant anti-Semitism up in my face, then not only can people not take them seriously, but they've proven that they belong back in their ghettoes & possibly gulags and gas chambers which is where someone like Anthony Zinman belongs because you're never going to cure what this malignant you wimp has.
. https://thomasgober.com/overview-of-my-latest-work/

BOTTOM LINE: Islam is simply a religion deeply influenced by the Middle East whereas Christianity is just a religion deeply influenced by Europe. But Jewish is an ethno-religious group between both worlds and anything else is an inappropriate anomaly OR an encroachment.

....But instead, we have diabolical, pushy, carping Jews with a self-absorbed, tone-deaf persecution complex calling the shots and for no other reason then they infiltrate avenues of disinformation like the media, curriculum & sham activism with the latter being their equivalent of an artillery warehouse that can be dispersed in multiple directions. Unfortunately, this nonsense begins to makes sense among the soft minds & weak backbones of your average idiot American.

As for everyone else, they know that Jews in the U.S. & Israel have been waging war on the U.S. for well over 50 years now psychological warfare to the SS Liberty…. but the sane minds are vilified by both the Jew & their dumbed-down, goyim lapdog with the word goyim now on the chopping block for organizations like the RLC.

Et tu, Georgetown!

The final insult to injury occurs when I'm censored on Quora--- as if I'm some sort of a heckler at a respectable, group meeting--- instead of Jews & their unfit to judge complaint board being honest in terms of what the platform really is. In other words, I'm more like the angry parent & concerned, indignant citizen that's breaking up a hate rally in a high school auditorium that thinly-cloaks its disinformation in a bullshit, activist-educator wrapper in which the usurper becomes glorified….This all kind of harkens back to the Religious Liberty Commission.

Of course, corrupting or parasitizing the nature of their European host country--- which includes Jews corrupting their own heritage due to a pervasive self-loathing complex about looking kikey--- it takes sham activism & institutional control that has the power to make disenfranchised generations forget what Jews have always been. But of course it takes money to grease the gears of corruption & Jewish overreach in order to make their nonsensical encroachments look normal. This is why the Jew needs to establish some sort of physical headquarters for their shadow organizations & a puppet to push their agenda through.

BREAKING NEWS: Trump terrorism mirrors Jewish terrorism with its double-standards & fake victimology.

"In a massive blow to the first amendment, Trump administration wins its first "antifa case". Pam Bondi made the stakes clear: "Today's verdict will not be the last."

Eight people were convicted Friday on material support for terrorism charges for attending a July 4th noise demo outside the Prairieland ICE detention center in Alvarado, Texas, the government's first use of the material support charge against alleged antifa members accused of domestic terrorism.

The conviction didn't require proof anyone committed violence. It required wearing dark clothes.

Federal prosecutors told jurors that wearing "black bloc" clothing was itself a terrorist act, that "providing your body as camouflage" constituted material support for terrorism. That's the new legal standard. Show up in black. Go to prison for 15 years.

The convictions were made possible by NSPM-7, Trump's executive order weaponizing federal law enforcement against left-wing activism. One defense attorney said it plainly: "This wouldn't be a terrorism case if it weren't for that memo."

There is no domestic equivalent to the State Department's list of foreign terror organizations, in part because organizations operating within the United States are protected by broad First Amendment rights.

Trump bulldozed that protection with an executive order designating "antifa", a decentralized umbrella term, not an organization, as a domestic terrorist group. …. As opposed to an ordained, terrorist group like the Religious Liberty Commission… Let's not forget the Canary Mission & the ADL. This is how a very insecure Donald Trump mirrors Jewish terrorism in order to get away with hypocrisy while licking his wounds. Let's not forget that antifa is an abbreviation for anti-fascist thus, it's a conflict of interest with him.

There is no "antifa." There is no membership card. There is no headquarters. The government invented the enemy and then convicted people of joining it.

Defense attorney Xavier de Janon put it plainly: "The federal government has signaled, successfully, that very regular protest activities could get you federally charged and federally convicted."

The National Lawyers Guild's Suzanne Adely warned the case is designed to "increase the fear, hoping that folks in other cities will think twice over protesting."

That's the point. Not justice. Deterrence. The government doesn't need to arrest everyone. They just need you scared enough to stay home."

QUESTION: So why are we in the year 2026 being cannibalized by a Middle Eastern, ethno-religious splinter group previously contained in ghettos or with laws to regulate them, not to give them control? ….. OF COURSE I'M TALKING ABOUT JEWS!!

ANSWER: Because nowadays we have the Evangelical Church & an unchecked, wanna-be King who're making rich Jews richer & more corrupt, but your average Jew entitled as we have witnessed with that insane Columbia University settlement. The RLC is working to give a Middle Eastern splinter group with group supremacist tendencies permission to do whatever the hell they want while keeping us under their thumbs just like they were doing before World War II. Not rhetoric, reality…. Sorry if the truth sounds ugly… Sham activism, Jewish lobbyists & a paid-off puppet for a president is how the game is played.

….. conspiracy theory my ass, those accusations need to be outlawed.

Bottom line, Donald Trump is a traitor to the white man & everyone else, but not to the Jewish hand.

The Religious Liberty Commission is a prime example of how Donald Trump is emulating Jewish terrorism tactics by outfitting sham activist organizations with only idiots & accomplices who are either easily controlled OR who intuitively understand the true, underlying agenda.

Another example of his minions would be the killer, Jew nerd-- Stephen Miller-- whose influence upon Donald Trump is as mysterious to everyone as that of Laura Loomer's. Maybe Steven Miller is like the ugly girlfriend some women take to a club to look better in dim lighting. I really don't know!

But what I do know is that Stephen Miller is the lowlife who allegedly "orchestrated blowing up fishing boats in the Caribbean Sea and Eastern Pacific, killing at least 157 people, an act which senators and international law experts have called a war crime and crime against humanity"…… I also know that if even a fraction of this were committed by a Democrat, we would never hear the end of it!!

BOTTOM LINE: I will not be controlled by Jews NOR the corporate terrorists & political whores backing them who betray EVERYONE from black people to white nationalists. They all belong in Guantanamo Bay.

https://www.instagram.com/reel/DUJFJdRDzxQ/?igsh=ODUzYnRzZW42NDN1

… NOR will I allow the Jew to manipulate the braindead, Evangelical, white trash who serve as the Jew's "new nigga'" pawn ever since Jewish activist-terrorists threw DEI & transsexuals under the bus as they no longer served their end game.

 Chuck Baldwin can stay.. https://youtube.com/shorts/K2vXKgqkOnI?si=gWa4l4L-sF3uhCoV

…NOR will I stand by and allow controlling Jews to weaponize the pseudo-intellectual, Gen X, suburban trash liberals they cultivated over 40 years being that they can't even "Jew spot" and have continually served as the most over-the-top, "root of all problems" by Jew-pandering & bowing down to any bizarre, Jew pawn while putting white, Christian heterosexual people last AND for no other reason then they've been trained to perform for the Jew & for their pawns while seeking a pat on their head and believing themselves to be smart & morally superior in the process.

* So let's review a few of the names of the intellectually, culturally and morally deficient jokers on the board of Trump's Religious Liberty Commission who serve as judge & jury, which includes serving as Carrie Prejean Boller's judge & jury. https://www.justice.gov/religious-liberty-commission/commissioners-and-advisory-board-members

I need to start by saying that I own a t-shirt that has "Marrakesh" written on it and whenever I wear it out there's always some sweet, simple, older, upper, middle class Southern woman who has asked me "Where's that?".

…..Her ignorance is totally unacceptable to me & yet not exactly worlds apart from Lindsey Graham, Mike Huckabee and Dan Patrick of Texas who are a similar ilk of unsophisticated, clannish, Southern Evangelical misfits playing dress-up & saying crazy stupid things quoted from some Old testament, group supremacist scripture which not only isn't even their heritage, but they're mentally unfit to serve if they're quoting it because it means they're either too stupid to live or too crazy to put it in its proper context given the ancient times & the primitive state of man that lacked a United Nations.

https://bittersoutherner.com/the-pentecostal-serpent#:~:text=The%20origins%20of%20serpent%20handling,like%20mushrooms%20across%20the%20hills

More importantly, as a fervent Christian they should be in the New Testament with the mindset of Jesus who believed in a God of peace & love, not of wrath, then moving forward as a people from there. This is something Pete Hegsweth doesn't understand either.

…. But instead I have three hillbillies who don't like Middle Easterners--- which extends to a very eastern-infused Islam--- wherein they're too stupid to understand that Muslims embrace Jesus as a prophet whereas Jews are taught he's rotting in a sea of feces in hell while Hollywood Jews do everything to ridicule Jesus under the guise of freedom of speech & intellectual expression. Maybe they need to talk to Dolly Parton about how she was attacked by the ADL for stating discriminatory observations that Jews don't like to promote Christianity in Hollywood--- unless it makes them money.

Kanye completely understands! https://www.instagram.com/reel/DT7Ku8AE-2Z/?igsh=b2F4cDBsMTNyb3N6

If I were to assume that these three men aren't as stupid as I think they are, they should know by now that any intellectual discourse that doesn't glorify Judaism or ethnic Jews---- or whatever ambiguous bullshit they're trying to institutionalize--- is not tolerated by the inappropriate institutional Jew who creates false havoc & screams of anti-Semitism in order to keep the other 98% under their thumb. We've already seen this with the political traitors who are trying to ban any criticisms of Israel which is not consistent in terms of criticisms of any other country including the United States unless we're talking about criticizing Jews within the United States who are making it the Jewnited States.

Needless to say, the Jew media has never had any problems vilifying law and order cloaked in activism which of course endangers police officers lives & consequently that of public safety as it is intended to inspire hate, division & riots cloaked in sham activism--- January 6th included--- which was a backlash 40 years in the making as Jews prove how they create infighting and turn a country against itself from within while they remain the same which in turn makes them look like the hero-victim-intellectual. It really is no different than having to hear Mossad agents bragging about sending missiles from the inside of Gaza, but the missiles in the U.S. are human ones fueled by tapping into discontent & pitting people against each other then cloaking it in activism. There's only one winner in this chess match and it's never the pawns.

….. Meanwhile, Jews are angling to destroy the gospels by having them stricken down as anti-Semitic. Nick Fuentes is correct, Jews are more of a danger to us than Muslims who don't have that much of an influence in this country nor do they threaten your jobs and your social standing if you don't bow down and kiss their ass. Again, this is half the reason why they were kept in ghettoes.

BOTTOM LINE: Muslims would never tolerate ostracizing Jesus and I don't care how much Jews want to perpetuate kill the infidel propaganda because it's not true. They're just jealous that they've never been in the position until now to kill the infidel themselves.

As a Christian, I embrace Jesus on an individual basis like a philosopher-hippie with an era appropriate, Zionist streak as expressed through his 12 disciples for 12 tribes. Take this man then wrap him in traditions stemming from European paganism. That's what Christianity is to me & as of now I'm thinking about joining a black church.

Meanwhile, this unfit Religious Liberty Commission is in reality about nothing more than pushing the underbelly of Christianity & alienating all other religions while never seeing that they are in effect conspiring to undermine Western Society by enslaving us all to Jews just like Jews already did to Gen X, faux progressives who self-perpetuates this sycophantic, Jew-pandering. In other words, they're the right-wing Supreme Court justices.

…. Part of that end game is re-enforcing the command word "anti-Semitic", which is a Jew-skewed, socially-conditioned intentional misperception. Think COUNTER-Semitic, think anti-con artist & think anti-crazy stupid. JUST THINK!! Like the Crocodile Hunter used to say--- "DANGER, DANGER!" .. White Trash Evangelicals & their Jewish handlers on the loose!.... Don't forget the new, black pawn—Uncle Ben Carson— who speaks a lot better than Rodney King!!

"Carrie Prejean Boller has been removed from President Trump's Religious Liberty Commission. No member of the Commission has the right to hijack a hearing for their own personal and political agenda on any issue. This is clearly, without question, what happened Monday in our hearing on antisemitism in America. This was my decision.

…The Commission has done outstanding work through 5 hearings. Two more are scheduled"

BOTTOM LINE: Unfit boneheads like Dan Patrick, Lady G Graham & Mike Huckabee are a conflict of interest and not unlike Chuck Schumer who won't hesitate for one second to take advantage of their myopic view of the world which is that of a backwoods, Sunday school. In other words, Dan Patrick has absolutely no business discussing matters on the Middle East or the Ukraine or religious freedom much like the other two. It's like putting a silk hat on a pig. Let all of them go back to waving snakes in church.

……. But moving along to our second in command, Ben Carson, who is the opposite of the above film strip. In fact, he is your atypical, disjointed Donald Trump token wherein Ben is an educated, upstanding black surgeon & a preppier step-up from Leo Terrell. But nonetheless, he's an ignorant, mentally-ill, Southern Evangelical cultist who Trump conflates as being knowledgeable & appropriate in terms of understanding what Jewish is.

….. And then there's Mary Margaret Bush who completes the top three of this sham organization. I think it's a combination of her look, her background and her name that scares me because she makes me think of Amy Comey Barrett and then I see the very damning Federalist Society affiliation. giant Warehouse looking churches and you thought they only lived in big rectangular states in the southwest and dressed like the Amish. Now they're everywhere!!

Ultimately, both groups I've been mentioning--- Evangelical & Gen X faux liberals--- will skulk then stupidly label many things I say as opinion despite easy verification. Friends from Europe, especially Eastern Europe, can't understand the dumbed down Gen X'ers they've met in this country who they can't talk to or reason with while never imagining something like these White Southerner Evangelicals who are a total threat to their European Heritage due to their backwoods version of Christianity that pimps out their country to Jews who've been an ongoing problem for a millennium.

Religious liberty in Israel: I say demand tit for tat….
https://www.instagram.com/reel/DQGZh8QjiNO/?igsh=MWJqMmd4ZTRraHRkcw==

The U.S. funds this sham of a country & puts their healthcare above ours, yet this is what Dan Patrick, Lindsey Graham, and Mike Huckabee support while hybrid Jews in Israel spit on Christians. But this is what you get when unfit puppets are placed in charge like this trio of rootless, hillbilly trash traitors that are criminally stupid along with being morally, culturally & intellectually unfit to serve. In other words, they're a big ass Confederate flag with a Star of David.

Putting a nimrod like Dan Patrick in charge of decision-making worries me because these low-grades are more worried about protecting the faux Children of God who don't respect them, NOT the victims of Jeffrey Epstein. The two are not separate because this is what's paying their bills & boosting their ego.

Furthermore, they're willing to commit treason & human atrocities like bombing children in their schools & hospitals while becoming ICJ war criminals & enslaving the rest of us to Jewish, victimology Holocaust indoctrination all to protect a terrorist cult while operating under the guise of protecting American Jews who are complaining about feeling the ramifications of Israeli genocide, despite most of them supporting it while calling the rest of us Nazis because this is how the project & deflect Jew makes the sword cut both ways while never exerting an actual conscience.

…. ALL THIS SPIRALING LUNACY and for no other reason then our felonious president has placed a low-grade like Dan Patrick in charge of a sham commission while Trump the Chump deflects in order to protect the biggest child sex offender & white, sex slave trafficker of all time who not only doubled as an Israeli spy, but who would've approved of his fellow Jew's dark creativity that preys upon the stupid & naive goyim which has become a world known American phenomenon.

Epstein always knew that Donald Trump was too stupid to be anything but a front man for corporate terrorists and gangsters. But now this traitor to Christian nationalism is being mentored by Jewish, sham activism which is what this bogus, Religious Liberty Commission is. But unfortunately, I'm dealing with jokers who are looking for a way to validate themselves and this sham organization does it for them just left the presidency validates a moron like Donald Trump.

…. I would rather have Joe Biden "losing it" with his administration holding down the fort than Trump "losing it" with the pure evil, greed & incompetence that surrounds him. The RLC is pure evil & stupidity.

It's not a matter of debate in terms of Donald Trump being on the payroll of Israeli terrorist-lobbyists, it's a matter of already been verified fact. This is also a country founded by terrorists which then recruited & paved the way for its citizens through terrorism whether it be biological warfare, institutionalized rape, Palestinian home expulsions via a fake birth right OR bombing a Jews' host country to simulate fake anti-Semitism in order to encourage moves to a land they vacated a thousand years before NOR did they need as there was already the Jewish Autonomous Oblast which now has more ethnic Russians & virtually no Jews.

After a while, the "special treatment" country that marketed itself as the ONLY Middle Eastern ally to the West began to take shape in the minds of unworldly, American simpletons who didn't see what Idi Amin saw once he pulled back the mask. Note, when a dictator like that remarks about what a crook Golda Meir and her whole country is then that should tell you something. In fact, he sounds like an age-old white person & not much different than Kim Jong Un in terms of what he said about Trump being nothing but a gangster.

Too bad Germans were bullied into restitution money for Jewish infrastructure that cut out Palestinians of their own indigenous Society much like Jews were doing to Germans …..but it's the American skim money that really took care of the rest. This includes attracting imposter Jews, aka, better-looking, ethnic, Slavic Russians who look like what Jewboy Jeffrey Epstein tried to collect, NOT your typical ugly ethnic Jew like Emma Goldman or Jeffrey Epstein.

…. NOTHING NEW, money has always attracted White whores willing to betray their heritage to Jews in hopes that the grass is greener on the other side….. or at least the money.
https://www.instagram.com/reel/DUhJjE_E9RH/?igsh=MThqZjZzM2M0YmY0eA==

... Meanwhile, Trump the so-called, Christian nationalist ignores the fact that Jews are bombing & over taxing churches in order to shut them down when they're not spitting on Christian tourists despite the fact that Christians made this shit-show of a country possible thanks to ineffectual, Western politicians who ignored OR were ignorant of the Jewish Autonomous Oblast AND the political whores who made the rest of us beholden to Jewish, activists terrorists & the hotel bombers they colluded with in the U.K..... To make matters worse, Israel censors honest journalism in the same way Jews on Quora censor anyone who makes accurate, sharp rebukes OR doesn't ask stupid questions they can easily control or ridicule.

So in other words, hotel bombers--- not dreamers--- is what was sent to terrorize the Middle East along with every Jew with a chip on their shoulder & a victimology agenda which is virtually EVERY ethnic Jew in Europe who then had to turn Arab Jews against Arabs which of course is followed by the sale of tall tales in which Arab Jews were constantly abused by the Arabs who they lived under as opposed to being looked down upon by those who claimed to have saved them.

…..As Tucker Carlson has demonstrated, Israel is nothing without American funding which is why Israel is trying to get the upper hand on us because that's what Jews are all about. This is also what Jewish celebrities like that whiny, unfunny, fat Jewess, Roseanne Barr, are all about as she threatens Americans in much the same way as Netanyahu. Send her fat ass to a Salvadoran prison!!

BOTTOM LINE: The way Jews act towards Palestinians is just a more blatant display of what Jews have been doing to the white mainstream through dark creativity with no laws to regulate them and to protect us, but we've been brainwashed to only worry about them. In other words, the U.S. is living in an effective state of apartheid, but major financial crashes not unlike what we've seen in 2008 and what's on the horizon for us being that the narcissistic loon I used to work with was also the CFE behind the AIG debacle who described Leon Black, Marc Rowan & Josh Harris as siphoning the insurance industry at breakneck speed. Corporate criminals like this are Donald Trump's stock & trade much like shiksa goddesses were to Jeffrey Epstein.

https://thomasgober.com/lawsuit-evidence-naming-rowan-black-harris/

https://thomasgober.com/the-apollo-memo-leon-blacks-g-o-a-t-white-collar-fraud-scheme/

The closest example of Jew aggressive towards Palestinians in terms of being the same as to what Jews have done to White Christian Europeans is the Holodomor wherein Jewish henchman like Lazar Kaganovich locked Ukrainian people in their towns after stripping them of food & pets so they could watch them starve AND watch them watch their children drop dead on sidewalks. Now Putin is committing genocide against Ukrainians as a means of forcing them to assimilate with Russians! He's got Jewish oligarchs on his side while the Ukraine now has a Jew with an identity issues on their side…Unfucking believable!

….. Meanwhile, we have the U.S. and its Jewish, "activist-investors" trying to legitimize human rights atrocities under some outrageous pretense of entitlement thanks to sham activism which is intended to abscond OR to cloak revenge agendas whether they be directed at the Ivy League and their financial foundations OR at the Palestine Homeland which Jewish, huckster investors knew had already been promised to the natives by the English. Likewise, every newcomer understands where their home is really coming from.

But the trick is always in getting Jewish bullshit to stick to the wall which is something that requires nothing more than their natural knack for constant beratement & deny EVERYTHING by playing the victim. Also, playing the left against the right OR the West against the East AND viewing the people of their host country as their subordinates is why Americans have largely remained ignorant of what the hell's really been going on until now.

For many Jews, this persecution complex and revenge lust is a cultural mantra & a recurring personality trait which to be perfectly honest needs to be regulated, not indulged & unwatched.

I don't care that Iran--- our real ally in the Middle East--- is developing nuclear weapons. Good for them!! Let them defend themselves, the Palestinians & the US from the international Jew. I'm not concerned with Iran being archaic, I'm more concerned with Donald Trump & Pete Hegsweth having control of American nuclear weapons. I'm also still concerned about the fact that an American citizen turned MOSSAD agent is normalized and nobody bats an eye that she volunteered to trap Mordecai Vanunu who was a Nobel Prize peace nominee and a whistleblower in terms of Israel developing nuclear weapons.

 Without Iran checking Israel…… thanks again, Nick!

Likewise, nobody is concerned that the SS Liberty was not only bombed by Israel, but that the survivors swear that the Israelis knew that it was an American vessel. Could it be that the SS Liberty picked up Israeli Intel they shouldn't have such as Argentina selling them uranium yellowcake? Meanwhile, the internet search results are in:

"Israel has the world's second smallest nuclear arsenal. It is the only nuclear-armed state that has not formally confirmed its possession of nuclear weapons."

…….As always, they're never showing their hand, but insists that everyone else does.

… Regardless, Mordecai was placed in prison where he converted to Christianity & was then beaten for it. Now that's anti-Semitic!! After all, Jesus was a Semite & Mordecai is still an ethnic Jew as Moroccan Jews are the Jews most closely related to the ancient Israelites. They were also watched over by Moroccans in their move to Israel as they were incredibly discriminated against by the Ashkenazi Jews decades ago. In fact, Morocco is the one Arab country that tries to preserve their Jewish Heritage.

Keep in mind that not even 10 to 15% of what I'm putting out to my readers qualifies as BASIC KNOWLEDGE to people like Dan, Ben and Mary Margaret at the Religious Liberty Syndicate. The bigger concern is their denial of it in order to preserve their ego & their childlike illusions of Israel. Only in America could a hick like Dan Patrick achieve such a lead role while never having the courtesy to admit that he's on someone's greasy thumb payroll. Hicks like Dan, Lindsey & Huckabee have been a problem in this country for the last 200 years, yet their arrogance remains grossly disproportionate in terms of their lousy judgment & their failure to see all the angles.

STILL SHOT: Right-wing MAGA Evangelicals & the left-wing Gen X, white guilt indoctrinated, Jew-panderers are the two Jewish pawns on the table with the latter being the source of right-wing backlash in the first place. If I were a crafty Jew, how would I play this hand?

Furthermore, we have to drop the pretense that this commission has ANYTHING to do with liberties as opposed to pushing Jewish privilege with Evangelicals being used as their "new nigga'" pawn. So move over George Floyd, Michael Brown & Rodney King because there's a New Black in town and it's called the "Redneck Jew.S.A."

Reme*mber what Rhett Butler said in "Gone With The Wind" about the only thing the South had was slaves, cotton and arrogance? To expound on this perception of the South's mindset, everyone on the outside is a subversive who's threatening their way of life that hinges on an economic system based on slavery, not mental capital. In other words, you can't correct people set in their ways wherein they possess a radically, separatist & contrived subculture.

……But with Israel, you're dealing with an economic system based upon suffocating people off their land, similar to that of the American Indian, in order to make way for the westernized, mental capital of an evasively & oftentimes nonsensically defined quasi-ethnostate. Anyone who falls out of this grouping is there to falsely inflate the population while lending the illusion of inclusivity, when in fact they're imposters like the Falashas who help to marginalize Palestinians while in fact compromising the authenticity of Jewish ancestral claims for anyone who's actually thought this through.

> Never forget! This is group supremacy coming from so-called victims who have been working overtime at disrespecting the mainstream, white America who they live among passive aggressively, never peacefully. It's all about controlling them with punitive, shaming tactics & lunatic fringe, super race portrayals. Need I remind my readers of Israel Cohen admitting to the black plague which I've included in this free writing as well?

Needless to say, the Jew has been casting themselves in the starring role as the good guy, the intellectual, the victim and the hero in what constitutes a psychological, power grab. In other words, browbeat white guilt indoctrination completely out of left field for decades at a time--- as if they're doing a public service--- while never showing their true hand in order to get away with what they're really up to which includes grossly hypocritical human rights atrocities for which they come up with even grosser rationalizations.

> It's all about the upper hand by flaunting a questionable, moral high ground which we're all supposed to be beholden to. The Jew may never forget, but they are absolutely hell-bent on making sure that the white man and their offspring develop a case of amnesia in terms of Jews. In other words, what was always an ethno-religious group that looked completely different from the people of their European host countries while coming complete with their own ancestral religion are suddenly now pretending to look like the people of their host country and to be just a religion when they're not talking out of the other side of their mouths by making ancestral claims to the Israelites AND slapping Jewish labels on the natives of Europe which they would never want to do to actual Semitic Palestinians despite them not being any different from many Mizrahi Jews. In other words, Jewish self-loathing & its cognitive dissonance navigates their genocide.
> Next, take somebody like myself who has no problem admitting that she has ZERO problem with the Jewish problem having been cleaned out wherein the rest should have just been back in ghettoes. All of them would be ethnic Jews regardless of conversion to Christianity & there would be no fake Jews who're the products of successive generations of converts, typically women that's proven by the DNA results, which explains Hunter Biden's wife wherein gold-digging , "white whore" is etched in her DNA. Women like that would go back to their Christian European Heritage no different than Rachel Dolezal if she dropped her act. The same thing goes for Nelson Pelz's children who look like the mother because that was the point all along when he bought her from Jeffrey Epstein….. On the other hand, if they kids look as horribly Jewish as Sarah Jessica Parker, then the Jew gets to keep that.

…..Now for somebody who doesn't give a shit about announcing this to the world, it means that the only way to take me down would be to turn my own people against me and in order to do that you would have to make them very stupid and very ignorant before anything else. But the ultimate trick is to make them think of themselves as smart and cosmopolitan for going along with this shit.

NEVER FORGET!! I can't think of anyone more responsible for starting ethnic hate campaigns against decent people than Jews and it's always directed at people who either get in their way OR who know what they are AND It's always done through a media blitz by the overbearing, obnoxious Jew who not only thinks they're amusing, but who needs to control the microphone & the narrative then acts like you're doing something wrong by contradicting them. This is where they pit others against you. If you can imagine the feeling of being trapped in a room full of Adam Sandlers & Larry Kings, then a person can understand perfectly the need to start shoving all the right people into a gas chamber.

In fact, the only people that the Jew uplifts are the dregs of society who they weaponize in order to undermine the mainstream while looking like the good guy. I mean what normal, rational country would uplift George Floyd, Michael Brown or Rodney King?!? Does this really help the black, middle-class the same as DEI?? There's no misdirected blame here as Jews take great pride in being behind every facet of the Civil Rights Movement & social activist ruse before finally deciding to throw DEI under the bus after the thinking black man went PLM.

…… that's what the white man has been telling the Jew for years, but when we set it to the Jew we were anti-Semitic despite Jews not being European, but they return and don't want to reconnect with their Middle Eastern Heritage

……This little girl is the dangerous movement which Bill Ackman tried to label the student protesters as being.

I'm so sick & tired of people calling this attitude Zionism when it's nothing more than the old-school, Jewish problem which the white man was railing against prior to World War II. But for some not so mysterious reason, white people have since been demonized & labeled as conspiracy theorists. There's a reason why Ukrainians were originally on board with the Germans until that piece of shit Hitler turned against all white people from France and to the East of Germany thus effectively dividing them and their shared struggle against Jewish supremacy.

In other words, Jews are doing the same things to Palestinians that they were doing to Europeans with the exception being that instead of genocide & expulsion of Europeans, Jews had been slapping Jewish labels on them to effectively change the nature of what Jewish has always been while fracturing the identity of the natives of their host countr who began identifying as members from some defunct desert tribe & conversely ethnic Jews began pretending to be native Europeans. But like the Palestinians, it's all about institutional control that becomes insanely normalized. Very Bolshevik-type approach, but more subtle.

Obviously, it's not anti-Semitic to say that if Jews are committing crimes against humanity AND towards people who are Semites with whom they share the same DNA, then perhaps Jews are the true anti-Semites especially Ashkenazi Jews who have an Uncle Tom complex while turning the Arab Jews against their traditional neighbors.

Remember, there is a Semitic Museum at Harvard which I used to volunteer at and it is by no means a word exclusive to Jews, nor is it intellectually honest pretend that it's just a linguistic group, nor is it malleable over time. But the moment the word becomes exclusive to Jews, then that's when Jewish corruption has eclipsed intellectual honesty. Likewise, pre-rehearsed attempts to de-legitimize the word Palestinian, which dates back to the 5th century BC, needs to be outlawed along with election fraud myths.

BOTTOM LINE: If Jews can't get their story straight in terms of having a legitimate, consistently defined culture stemming from an ethnic group native to the area, then they don't deserve to be self-governing nor do they have any legs to stand on in terms of delegitimizing Palestinian nativism with this Gulf Arab sweep bullshit as it has had very a little impact ethnically speaking as much as it has culturally on the entire area, Egypt included.

…….BUT what does delegitimize people who claim to have ethnic, land rights would be leaving for a thousand years & hybrid mixing. This muddling only further proves that their Homeland should have been more around the Caucuses where you have muddled people & huge expanses of land where they could have been a rampart between Russia, the Muslim world and Asia near the Armenians & Georgians who they're more closely related to without having to bring in Jews from the Gulf or anomalies like Falashas who should've been absorbed by their own people…. But you know what they say about spilled milk.

BOTTOM LINE, the only reason Jews get away with this upper hand is because we don't keep them on a short leash, they keep us on a short leash and they do it by putting IDIOTS & ACCOMPLICES in charge while systematically dumbing down & berating the population starting with the youth. Next thing you know, everyone's over apologizing to the vitriolic, wounded Jew and they don't exactly know why. This is their personality problem, not ours!

……But back to that short leash which Jews always keep us on….. The Gen Xers who AREN'T complete suburban trash, but who nonetheless have been going along to get along for WAY too long in terms of Jew-pandering, they are now psychologically experiencing their own brand of cognitive dissonance which is unlike that of the Jews own cognitive dissonance.

The Jewish, cognitive dissonance entails pretending to be proud of being Jewish, but not wanting to look Jewish thus the enforcement of lies about Jewish being just a religion. This is then compounded with the identity theft of their European host country either by verbally identifying as them despite the mainstream having always easily identified them for looking Jewish OR the identity theft is by taking white people--- typically the women--- and slapping Jewish labels on them.

…… This latter "fake it till you make it" approach is geared at producing European-looking offspring with Jewish labels on them who the Jew either then pretends is proof of Jewish being just a religion OR faux proof that ethnic Jews can look like normal, white people of their host country wherein Eurocentric features are now re-labeled as Jewish just like the native people's cuisine. Again, if it's just a religion then it should be Catholic food!. Of course, this is all going on when Jews aren't simultaneously trying to vilify or ridicule the natives of their host country AND claiming ancestral ties to the Levant despite not really wanting to embrace a Middle Eastern heritage.

But in terms of white, Gen Xer's cognitive dissonance, they were indoctrinated to walk on eggshells for this crap & to talk out of both sides of their mouths as much as the Jews themselves always do. For this, these simpletons were rewarded with the idea that they were morally superior, cosmopolitan intellectuals even as they were forbidden from bringing up Palestinians and the mistreatment & expulsion of them assuming that these ignoramuses were even vaguely aware of the situation or capable of putting two & two together.

…… It was not their place to know these things, it was only the Jews' place to control the news feed & to undermine the nature of the white, Western immigrant country in which they were guests. This undermining is ALWAYS by way of bogus, humanitarian pretenses as if they really give a shit about anybody but themselves much less BLM.

…Unless of course you're that pathetic, troll-like, Jew, wimp fag named Ira Hillman of the Einhorn Collaborative who lives in a privileged bubble with his adopted black sons whom he smothers while attending a bunch of out-of-touch, fat housewife conferences for free wherein everyone armchair theorizes about making the world a better place in which everyone is on the same plane.

NOWADAYS, Gen Xers are uncharacteristically mute as they avoid talking about the Palestinian elephant in the room while telling themselves that they're just polite & civilized for doing so. In reality, the fact of the matter is that their silence serves as ongoing complicity not different from that of MAGA.

It's the student protesters who have bought everything back to Center. In this case, Jews don't need to play the right against the left because all they need to tap the old left & the new right…

…… But in terms of the accomplices, let's talk about the highly-decorated, faux activist-educators & fake voices of reason who aren't always Jewish.

> https://dickinsonlaw.psu.edu/news/professor-andrea-j-martin-participates-in-bipartisan-congressional-briefing-on-the-ihra-definition-of-antisemitism

…... I can't tell if Andrea J. Martin is a well-educated, pseudo-intellectual with no practical knowledge AND a token intended to make white people feel like they're being inclusive OR just a Jew-panderer who most likely is either half Jewish or married to one. Regardless, she's a very, well-placed, "diversity" mulatto intended for showboating purposes due to her ability to obfuscate intellectual honesty in terms of what a Jew not due to her mimicking of the presumptuous nature of Jewish, attorney shysters, but mainly because no white person wants to disagree with a token who talks about things that are out of her cultural wheelhouse except for me. Do you think Andrea would like to watch TV with me and play "Spot the Jew"?

Anyway, I can already read between the lines well enough to say that Andrea's presence lends an air of elegant, female authority which distracts people from the fact that she's persuasively pissing down the other 98%'s back by officially rebranding rational people who are calling out Jewish overreach & encroachments as anti-Semites which It's a word that has a paralyzing effect thanks to decades of brainwashing..

….Likewise, this is rebranded as supposedly protecting Jews against "civil rights violations in her emerging field of Jewish legal studies" which is code for Jewish, gangster attorneys and Jewish law being placed above Constitutional law & the laws of reason. In other words, she speaks no differently than Shabbos Kastenbaum as she makes false assertions stand as truisms, Being Jewish is not fluid, nor is your gender, nor is the definition of Semitic

BOTTOM LINE: The definition of anti-Semitism does NOT evolve over time within different political & social contexts. That's an offensive euphemism clearly intended to test the waters in terms of how far they can push & corrupt reality.

https://palestinelegal.org/distorted-definition

QUESTION: Christians in the Middle East do not claim anti-Semitism & they are oftentimes the instigators & Western pawns like Bridget Gabriel's Maronite people. Will they be able to claim anti-Semitism?

QUESTION FOR ANDREA … Does protecting Jews include outlawing the gospels by irrationally deeming them as anti-Semitic WHILE not outlying parts of Jews' own unquestionably hateful Scripture?

This means greenlighting Jewish encroachments that extend to racial identity theft & double-standards that becomes a cooperative form of apartheid, but Americans are too stupid and sycophantic to see it & too busy vilifying their ancestors who did. This is the lulling effect of Jewish terrorism & falling for their victimology is what gives it teeth. "Make The Faux, Bad Guy The Good Guy Again"….. THAT'S MY CAMPAIGN SLOGAN.

…. JD should be in that prison cell with him, but he seeks protection from Boss Hog & the International Jew.

…..NOW, back to making the faux bad guy the good guy again. In order to do this we have to pass laws that are tantamount to what Virginia has done by outlawing perpetuators of the election fraud myth. The irrational vilification of Momdami is a similar situation wherein we are dealing with little more than well-dressed, Jewish hate speech not unlike that of those mindless mutterings that accused Obama of being a closet Muslim or homosexual just because they wanted to avoid calling him a nigger. But back to Mamdami, if the blatant harassment waged against this man doesn't qualify as a Jewish, vilification scheme, then we can at least agree that it's at the very least Jews PROJECTING what's true about themselves onto others.

When I was a kid, if a sports team won the Super Bowl then they used to say "I'm going to Disneyland", but now we're forced to kiss the fucking wall & swear allegiance to Jews and NOBODY bats an eye. It makes me remember what FDR said to his Jewish campaign manager, "You're guests among Us", but the self-involved & self-serving Jew sees this as an attack….. Just remember, FDR & Truman were when white men didn't allow their minds to succumb to a 40-year, reach around at which point crazy looks normal.

Also, I want to make mention of one other dangerous, sham activist center and that would be that Southern Poverty Law Center. What makes them so toxic is the fact that they actually defend good causes while stupidly pandering to anything that doesn't satiate Jewish victimology-chicanery & its "Uncle Tom", cognitive dissonance issues. Unfortunately, this creates a psychological associative effect in terms of what is good versus what is bad.

….. The endgame in terms of religious liberty for the Jew is always aimed at making people into doormats for Jews which is obvious to anyone who has a grasp on logic along with their overall, mental faculties. AGAIN, avoiding this dark creativity is EXACTLY why Jews were kept in ghettoes. (ie. Cronyism, Institutional control, racial misappropriation with a "reinventive" Jewish label, monopolies, filtered media, victimology schemes, financial strangleholds, left-wing sham activism.) This religious liberty ruse is nothing more than a Jewish playground with all of its wordplay & euphemisms for Jews to revel in. In other words, it's literally like their own language in which they can effectively create a de

Just to reiterate, we have one addle-brained, Evangelical white trash who's a benefactor of failing upwards, Dan Patrick. Next, we have an Evangelical yet highly accomplished, Uncle Tom with a God complex, Ben Carson. And lastly, we have a young woman who's part of a dangerous movement of young Conservatives which to me resembles a throwback to manifest destiny, pioneers who've been incubated in a very, short period of time then taught to be more socially-upward as opposed to their 700 Club & Mormon, door-knocking underbelly predecessors. That's Mary Margaret who I initially thought was a nun or just Irish Catholic.

As I've always said, Jews prefer idiots & accomplices.

…..In reality, Jews need to be regulated, NOT greenlighted to devise their deviant in nature, laws of the land as a means securing themselves special treatment via the development & exploitation of loopholes thanks to the sham activism that will ensure it. This is what the Religious Liberty Syndicate should discuss in terms of pitfalls to avoid because as of now all they're doing is ensuring that Jews are able to walk all over everybody else's freedom by feigning victimology.

……At least Karp is an honest crook for not stonewalling rational people with bogus, conspiracy theorist accusations. I guess there's nothing like a warlord who spares us the psychological warfare.

Speaking of psychological warfare…..

> "Palantir CEO Alex Karp just announced on camera that he is going to reduce the economic power of highly educated Democratic voters. In a recent CNBC interview, Karp stated that his AI technology disrupts humanities trained, largely Democratic voters and makes their economic power less, while increasing the economic power of vocational, working class, often male voters. He then had the audacity to admit these technologies are "dangerous societally," but justified it with a Cold War style argument that if America doesn't do it, adversaries will. This isn't some fringe conspiracy. This is a sitting CEO, with billions in government contracts, telling you exactly what he's doing to your democracy while daring you to stop him.
> The mechanism is straightforward and worth understanding. As AI automates the cognitive, analytical, and communications work that college educated professionals have built careers around, those white collar jobs shrink in value and number. The people most exposed are educated women who vote Democrat. Meanwhile, trade and vocational workers, the plumbers, electricians, and machinists who lean Republican and male, become harder to replace with software. Karp isn't just predicting this shift. He is building the technology that accelerates it, cashing Pentagon checks along the way, and calling it patriotism.

We are watching a tiny class of AI billionaires reshape society, redistribute political power, and embed themselves into government infrastructure without a single vote being cast. Even Palantir's own head of communications called the company's political drift "concerning." The solution is not complicated: tax these people aggressively, break up these contracts, and demand democratic oversight of AI before the architecture of our entire society gets quietly handed over to a few unelected men with god complexes and government clearances."

….. Jewish features are the Medieval, white man's way of describing their first encounter with Arabs. It's these Arabs known as Jews who tried to apply their Near Eastern, racial laws on the white man's women which made the white man justifiably racist against Jews & forced to take action by placing them in ghettos for the self-preservation of their own people.

Thus, who are Jews to be racist against the Palestinians as they are the Arabs that Jews used to be when they invaded Europe, but under a different name? Emmanuel Kant, "Jews are just Palestinians living among us" with the Palestinians being used as surrogates in racial studies being that the people of Judah can't exactly be found. (Pg. 16-17)

DNA tests prove this so please spare me the propaganda to de-legitimize the 5th century BC word Palestinian & a bunch of bullshit about Palestinians being from the Arab sweep when Jews can't even validate their own identity once they start accepting converts & Negroes or mongoloids. But the atypical, loudmouth, berating Jew living in a state of denial, reinvention & self-loathing is what controls the media in this country as they vie to institutionalize our minds. Meanwhile, Jews can lead the humanitarian cause against church abuses, but the world cannot unite against a Jewish, slow-moving coup that has taken its time dumbing-down the middle-class via highly visible venues--- whether it be your television set, your school system or my goddamn website--- because it's all about holding on to the victim card for the Jew.

> ……OR the hostile environment involved in the art of social blackballing aimed at the student protesters of which is tantamount to enforced discrimination. But once again, the Jewish role-rehearsal that lines the Jew pockets & vilifies everyone else thanks to gangster attorneys wins. Then again, why should I be surprised being that some of these universities not only had data from Israeli scientists of the ongoing genocide, but they had an in-house, Israeli spy & white, sex slave trader like Jeffrey Epstein who discussed with Larry Summers the importing of White Russians to use as breeders in Israel--- NOT ugly, ethnic Jews like them with ancestral ties.

I'm winding down my email campaign in a REALLY BIG way. I told you all that my grand, finale email would be to Trump's Religious Liberty Commission. Well, that final seed grew into a tree. In other words, my grand finale will be a set of six installments & three, backlogged supplemental writings from a couple of years ago.

In fact, consider this cover letter to be an addendum as it's going to be longer than I expected due to my presidential nominees for next term along with an ending I wish I had put in my latest post regarding Trump Terrorism and how it mirrors Jewish terrorism by stonewalling people with wise ass activism & pivoting tactics while cloaking themselves with imbeciles. This one came in at 50 pages. I amaze myself! The next installment is going to be released in a few days and it comes in at around 23 pages. The final four installments will be about 14 pages each. Of my three supplemental readings, one will be about 15 pages & the other two in their mid-20's. I'll be releasing about two a week throughout the month of April.

For now, this one is for the attorneys AND everyone who's concerned about their own liberty--- not Jews first. In a sane world, every January 6th rioter who contributed to attacking police while trying to subvert this country's election system should have been mowed down with bullets with only a few lives spared to testify against Donald Trump.

….. Likewise, Scott Bessent should be walking his duplicitous, treasonous, hillbilly ass into a South Carolina prison for having the audacity to accuse the Left of creating hate against an International war criminal being that his statements are tantamount to election fraud myths which are now illegal to perpetuate in the state of Virginia.

Incidentally, I have an old, high school classmate who took to Facebook to complain about his ridiculously high, car registration fees in Minnesota--- being that it's a state riddled with crime-- yet he doesn't point out that he got out of engineering to make a killing in healthcare insurance at United Healthcare. This is the same crooked, piece of shit who has spent tens of thousands if not upwards of $100,000 on his collection of defunct technology from the '90s--- crap I couldn't recycle for $25--- which he bought off of eBay out of revenge & to prove that he can being that he was too poor & from an unsupportive family who didn't get it for him in the '90s. ..... Meanwhile, "Made in America", white trash like Mary Franson & Michelle Tafoya personify "the new inner city black" problem. These ridiculous pieces of pussy who lack any redeeming qualities are the very definition of backlash as they serve as an example of what happens after decades of Jews stirring up the mud & scaring off the moderates. The only people willing to speak up to the lunacy of a nation that uplifts Michael Brown, George Floyd, Rodney King, border-jumpers & big, ugly men in bathing suits are these people. The left wing got what they deserved and if it weren't for these student protesters we would never have come back to Center which is what old white men don't understand.

.....I just hope that Thomas Massie takes it upon himself to run on the Republican ticket once this catastrophe known as a Trump administration is over so that he can bring the Republicans back to Center--- back to the 1970s. This includes a restoration of environmental safety measures & Roe vs Wade which will involve the necessary, legal prosecutions against unethical & duplicitous Supreme Court justices. Many people need to be tried for treason and this obviously includes Ted Cruz, JD Vance, Jared Kushner and Marco Rubio who are all not stupid enough to be included alongside Mary Franson & Michelle Tafoya

……. Needless to say, we also need to be passing laws that forbid people like Sen. Rick Scott from even running for office being that they are the most felonious, white-collar

Speaking of Marc Kassowitz, maybe that Cardinal who the Pope had arrested for stealing $270,000 from a Palestinian relief fund should give Marc a call so we can all bear witness to the only time anyone will hear of Jews defending a Catholic cardinal for his crimes.

…. After October 7th, the alt-left was ignored while Gen X stuck its head in the sand in a state of cognitive dissonance after years of being told to kiss the Jew's ass along with their Rodney King pawns. This is when Trump's redneck became the new black for the Jew who after decades readily threw their civil rights activism under the bus then ushered in Trump to make sure it stuck.

….This is what's been working around the clock to create a divisive atmosphere in which the Jew always comes out on top being portrayed as the heroic, voice of reason while the white man is the perpetual the villain for not being a doormat. The black man is now feeling the same as they're white counterparts while Asians are being weaponized as the New White Meat & Redneck is the New Black.

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Maki_(political_party)

Walking in the footsteps of Shabbos Kastenbaum, Donald Trump's terrorist attack upon our closest Middle Eastern ally--- IRAN--- mirrors what he's done to our schools (Columbia/UPenn/Harvard) & institutions in order to allow for Jewish terrorism to rule our lives from which he profits. This was the same problem happening before World War II. In other words, Donald Trump is the biggest traitor to the white man AND to the entire human race. He's their chimp & a total chump! His family is in heaven shaking their heads at their idiot progeny.

.... I swear to God I hope Dementia Don receives a rundown on my final emails especially as I've already stated how he could have gotten a lot richer by NOT betraying everyone in order to serve as the Jews' puppet who're nothing more than the original & ugly-ass ISIS that invaded Europe in the Middle Ages armed with a haggling niche & a victimology agenda who wanted to wear our skins then call it their own AND STILL DO!!..... Ivanka's rape camp of a marriage is proof of that.

….. These slumlords have the nerve to go back to Belarus to harass the natives like the junkyard Jews that they are wherein they lord over the natives for not defending despicable Jews like them in WW2 who only inspire pogroms……And to add insult to injury, the slimy sons have taken white women & slapped Jewish labels on them which is ground zero for Jewish terrorism.

…..But that doesn't stop the anti-goyism on Quora from making up hate speech cloaked in victimology by accusing pogrom rapes as being the cause for mixing between Jews and Europeans despite DNA test proving otherwise.... Again, Jewish incursions have always been about the Arabs land, the white man's woman & institutional control of both. Not racist, just reality and it's proven every time I listen to the Jew running the dumb goyim in circles over at the RLC. Again, a Jewish terrorists love idiots & accomplices! Dan Patrick is of course the idiot.

The Jew's unrelenting, terrorization playbook relies on pitting people against each other & exploiting weak links in society who will serve as their gullible pawns while making power grabs as the victim & the defender of humanity even as they sugarcoat nonsense & overreach that works against AND encroaches upon the mainstream while making the other 98% out to be the bad guy for not going along with it!!.

.... If sugar coating doesn't work then exploit loopholes & create bogus laws all accompanied with sham activism that acts as a surrogate for the Jews' obnoxious, loud mouth that badgers people into the ground by making false allegations stick. Nobody can defend themselves because any act of self-defense is called anti-Semitic. In other words, what Jews call hate crimes against Jews is often nothing more than standing up to bullies in what constitutes an act of counterterrorism….. Like physically having to manhandle a person to kick them out of a bar.

Prime example: Me telling this gravelly-voiced, Jewish woman I used to work with that the only reason William Shatner or Kirk Douglas made it in Hollywood was because they didn't look Jewish. In other words, more European, but definitely not Semitic or Mediterranean. Now keep in mind that this was a woman who would always say that Jews and Italian were very similar being that better looking Jews like to pass for Italian. But in my case, she begins chanting back and forth anti-Semitic at which point I interrupt her Wailing Wall moment to tell her that they are not Semitic, but this total kike just kept continuing her chanting of that's anti-Semitic because this is how a psychopathic culture gets the upper hand instead of reprimanded..

This is how the Jew gets up in your face followed by trying to report you to someone who doesn't like you in the first place OR to someone who's just plain unfit and stupid in their Pavlovian response to the word Jew because this is how the Jew violates your civil rights. It's about keeping the rational ones on a short & unjustifiable leash that is built on Jewish discrimination & apartheid cloaked in victimology & vilification schemes of the other guy. This is not unlike what hedge fund hyenas did in the early 2000s to make out for themselves.

…. Again, this is why the Jews were contained in ghettos. It's about the protection of natives, but instead of admitting to this the Jew just recycles it for their own victim card ammunition. Meanwhile, expect a misguided narrative to such things as blood libel from the Middle Ages which is what Jews now put on Arabs today with their debunked, baby heads propaganda.

….Next, imagine that I had taken a baseball bat & beaten my former vitriolic Jew of a co-worker who wouldn't stop chanting anti-Semitic with this smirk on her face which was just about as believable as when Donald Trump tries it. Why should I be charged with a hate crime? Am I supposed to walk away or just spit in her face? She is the carping kike that controls society and anyone who doesn't see this is terminally naïve or just plain stupid.

After all, nothing proves it more than Jews trying to take control of this nation's universities through victimology resulting in $100 million settlements at Columbia based on false allegations of anti-Semitism despite their own provable concealment of Israeli genocide & blatant harassment of others which they deflect thru the vilification schemes of others which Jews get to stick thanks to crooked, Jewish gangster attorneys posing as defenders of humanity as opposed to Jewish Supremacy.

Nonetheless, it constitutes hate speech and hate crimes and defamation from attorneys who are guilty of cronyism schemes & it's no different from that of hedge fund hyenas ir Shabbos Kastenbaum. In other words, the so-called civil rights attorneys who once glorified ghetto thugs to raise widespread, *systemic" criticisms of the white man which they can't raise about themselves has once again, pivoted in order to regain the victim card by once again, compromising the white man's civil rights in his situation in which we now see the tail wagging the dog which only proves that the Jew needs to be regulated because they are systemically controlling and undermining the mainstream through victimology.

 Read Katherine Franke's personal statement.
https://ccrjustice.org/home/press-center/press-releases/solidarity-katherine-franke-our-former-board-chair

But back to my former coworker, a woman who had preemptively admitted that she understood that Jewish is an ethnic group of Near Eastern people who nonetheless tried to terrorize me, vilify me while inciting hate for rational victims by weaponizing ignorance instilled through peer pressure tactics of idiot bystanders just to preserve her ego & to claim people she's proud of for not looking Jewish and all through the use of a command word known as anti-Semitic which allows her to effectively commit racial theft & subjugation. If we were to kill somebody like that out of self-defense AND were able to successfully block Jewish gangster attorneys, I guarantee you that we would live in a peaceful society. Meanwhile, valid complaints from Leonard Nimoy go unheard because that was a guy who was discriminated against for looking like a true ethnic Jew.

 Katherine Frankel stops by Columbia University to see much it's changed. To be honest, it sound like life in the '80s outside of the South wherein white kids were dumbed downed & their minds institutional or at least scared into walking on eggshells for the endemic Jewish personality disorder and its lies.

https://www.instagram.com/reel/DPhM0urjxge/?igsh=ZTN4em1nZ29hdnVx

….. In case you missed it, American Jews want to sign up to fight for Israel to exterminate Palestinian children AND HAVE THE U.S. PAY FOR IT. This is whenever the Jew isn't attacking the white man for not stopping Hitler for exterminating Jewish children who may or may not have been real Jews as opposed to products of successive generations of white concubines who converted because Jewish men don't want to have to look at anyone who looks like Anne Frank who looks like a real Palestinian. (Pg. 19).

Subverting the white mainstream & degrading it is what the Jew teaches white people to do to all rational, white people while thinking of themselves as smart & noble. Likewise, it's what they teach minorities in terms of treating white people, but now they're doing it to black people. Unfortunately, some angry white people, typically men, are playing right into it while never seeing the true source of their anger, just the pawns. This is how they get kicked out of 109 countries or at least a handful of countries up to 109 times.

 I find the following Jewish girl In the link below so offensive and in the same way as my fat, Jewish grid leader from the Harvard's Ashkelon excavation who in a very Uncle Tom way constantly tried to identify very loudly as being Ukrainian despite the fact that she and her daughter look like Kathy Najimi & Nikki Blonski. In other words, a couple of fat Jews.

https://www.heyalma.com/baba-yaga-is-my-other-slavic-jewish-grandmother/

……The simpleton writing this article looks like a friend of mine whose father was Lebanese and Persian, yet she identifies herself as Ukrainian and her grandmother as "Slavic Jewish" which is an oxymoron. It's "Semitic Jewish" as those two things have always been interchangeable & I have NEVER in my life heard a Jew refer to themselves as Slavic and Jewish with those two words only being possible if you're not dealing with an ethnic Jew and somebody who just converted.

……. It's like my Ukrainian friend asked me, why do Jews pretend that they're the same thing as us when they look completely different? But if they don't look Jewish, then they're products of racial parasitism of the native people which is the fundamental element of Jewish terrorism that they try to normalize by faking it till they make it at which point they'll either pretend it's just a religion OR they'll pretend that a Near Eastern, bottleneck race can look just like the natives.

The noodlehead who wrote this article is displaying a classic case of Jewish, cognitive dissonance as she complains about Jewish physical stereotypes subliminally embedded in the baba Yaga myth despite her theory being not only speculation, but a testimony to the Jewboys foreign status as an inbred, Middle Eastern splinter group. Slavic people like myself are sick and tired of Jewfaces like her misappropriating & misrepresenting our heritage by trying to blur the lines between race & religion.

This is what was called the Jewification of Europe and it's the lulling effect of Jewish terrorism whether it be corporate terrorists like Marc Rowan who're siphoning the reinsurance industry then looking to blame something else for the next financial collapse when they're not harassing professors at universities into suppressing Israeli atrocities and destroying the futures of their students who don't effectively kiss a kike's ass….

….. OR maybe it's Jews who're parasitizing white people and calling them Jews like Ivanka Trump OR Israel Cohen and the Jewish, long game that dumbs down white kids with white guilt to make them into doormats which they could bulldoze over. Black people were just pawns in their sham activism meant only to be pitted against whites like chess pieces & disposed of when they no longer serve their purpose.

……. The native people of the Ukraine are Slavic and she's a foreigner of Semitic descent, yet she's more passive aggressive than Putin who is Slavic and sees Ukrainians as little Russians….For now, if "Hey Alma"--- who serves as the online publishers for these half-truths--- wants to contact me for a proper definition of anti-Semitism, then they can. But I think the proper definition of anti-goyism is more important..

……. Also, if Hey Alma has a problem with being told they're foreigners, then dispose of the word Semitic. Likewise, there are no negative stereotypes or tropes about Jews, just facts. Blood libel is going on right now in occupied Palestine and mostly because the Jewish, cognitive dissonance of the Ashkenazi Jew does not want to get in touch with their Middle Eastern Heritage and nothing is more evident of this than the fact that when you look at Jew cartoons, you're looking at the Washington Post's anti-Semitic portrayal of Hamas which is identical to that of Jews. In other words, this is institutionalized anti-Semitism. In Israel, Mizrahi Jews are the ones dumbed down by Jews and used to do the dirty work just like Jews did to white, Gen X in America.

...This is exactly why these obnoxious, ill-mannered foreigners--- *a splint*er group if not a cult from the near east--- were contained in ghettos for the protection of natives who could not afford to leave themselves as sitting ducks to these scams, but natives who also understood their niche to society. This is what Donald Trump learns from & utilizes, but without protecting his people, only serving as a puppet for the Jew who's indisputably in charge.

….. In terms of both the Middle East and Europe, Jews do nothing but re-package other people's culture as their own which they then stick a Jewish label on in order to make us all feel beholden to the Jews who brought them so much. There is no Jewish food and their religion is largely that of unfiltered Persian/ Egyptian /Babylonian influences with Jews labels on it. At least Europe filtered Christianity with their own customs, but Jews just outright steal a European Heritage and call it their own.

……But Jews are also profiting off of it while trying to shake down their host countries for restitution OR making outrageous claims of the white man's cultural appropriation for their use of cornbread, but never the black man's. If you call them out on their cultural appropriation of the white man's heritage, they either call you anti-Semitic at which point I say that's the point OR they may improvise by pretending that they are the people of their host country. And again, if I don't agree with that hoax, then I'm an anti-Semitic because they've already rigged the judge and jury. Bottom line, you can't live with people like this without regulations in place.

……The Jew's latest scam is to call me racist for calling Jewish a race despite Jews making racial, ancestral claims to the Middle East & despise the fact that the same people calling me a racist are the same ones who insist that Semitic blood is an all Ashkenazi Jews which brings us full circle to an ethno-linguistic term, not a religion.

……Now the dodgy Jews' latest counter tactic is to pretend that Semitic is just a language group, not a race, despite the complete intellectual dishonesty that goes along with languages also being ethno-linguistic such as Celtic Slavic Germanic. Keep in mind that this is in the minority as other Jews to find that, but it's all about gathering people to your agenda.

….. But it's more than an agenda, it's a way of licking a person's wounds while pretending to be an activist educator. I see this with the faux academic SD Gotein in terms of him penning "Arabs & Jews" which is nothing more than a book of preemptive strikes in which he makes a stupid illustration of black people speaking English, but they're not Anglo-Saxon. In a sane world, this makes him the dumbest kid in the room who the teacher calls on just to be nice while everyone else is snickering.

But in the Jew world which we live in, this makes him an activist educator & a scholar. It's no different than that idiot wife of Carl Sagan who doesn't look all that Jewish which is why he married her, but she still has the same neurosis and persecution complex as seen by her lack of accountability in terms of why she dropped out of college after a professor told her to stop asking stupid questions when she raised her hand to ask if I were the same for all circles. …… Again, she doesn't look Jewish which is why he married her & why that bonehead dropout has now some fake educator position at Cornell & a chance to create to some hippy dippy golden record on a spaceship launch.

 I wish I had found this next video before posting my latest work on the website. Thank you Carrie Prejean Boller for revealing the bigoted & self-serving Jew agenda which unrelentingly tries to cover its ass by playing the victim. It takes a COMPLETE psychopath to pull that charade off which is always accompanied by a smirking face.

https://youtube.com/shorts/-_O12ifYLeM?si=E3Dk22uwzGKItgSM

…....AND thanks Carrie for demonstrating that no legitimate country is built on victimology for the freedom for one religion while marginalizing others AND WHILE inconsistently making genetic, ancestral land claims that were long since abandoned, but which proves that Jewish is not just religion ergo nobody can convert their ethnic group. Any attempt to legitimize such nonsense is an act of aggression, conquest, overreach & parasitism cloaked in a defender of humanity wrapper.

Basically, it's exactly what Jews have always done to the white man & what they're trying to pull off now while playing both sides against the middle. In other words, make the "Jew.S.A" into a subtler version of what the international Jew has already done to Palestine with the main differences being that it's about the white man's woman, the Arab's land & institutional control of both while playing the victim if anyone points it out. It's no different than pitting blacks against white in order to create a divide, not healing, while creating false heroes in the process.

…..In order to pull this sham off, accomplices are needed and that's where Jewish, corporate terrorists & their political whores come in. This is also where these goyim, political whores begin to mimic their handlers via victimology, role-reversal tactics as we've witnessed with Donald Trump & that douchebag Ted Cruz in his interview with Tucker Carlson. In other words, make the good guy into the bad guy.

They've already done it to the peace-loving Palestinians who took them into their homes only to get jewed & kicked out of them while Jewboy News censored everything and set into motion vilification, marketing schemes against people who were fighting for their lives. This is pretty strange for imposters who founded their Neo-Nazi sham of a country on the backs of hotel bombers & three international terrorist groups that formed a paramilitary gestapo organization. Yet Jews have the nerve to ridicule Himmler for being a failed chicken farmer in a horrible economy largely brought on by Jews.

The end game is to institutionally make the other 98% into the 2% --- or close to it. They just have to start by creating the illusion that the heroic, blameless Jew is defending themselves against troublemakers, when in fact they are the troublemakers, but we don't want the new generation of dumbed down & berated goyim to know that cuz we need to nail down the Western world in order to pit them against the East. You can't call them out on it because they have no accountability, only victimology that pivots from every angle.

Ergo, the Jews of the RLC are only out for themselves no different than all their sham activists & media cronies who saw fit to make civil rights heroes out of ghetto thugs for decades until an intelligent, young black man at Harvard broke the "hanging in plain site" story. When Blacks failed to cough up Palestinian blood money, that's when DEI went out the window! I don't believe in coincidences & the RLC'S openly corrupt tactics are identical to the ones used against Carrie Prejean Boller with the exception being that the RLC found the dumbest goy in any room to serve as their easily manipulated mouthpiece instead of Bill Ackman.

Remember, Bill Ackman openly touted hate crimes against Claudine Gay and got away with it by doing what a Jew always does and that is to tap into other people's hate & resentment which the Jews created in the first place, but they need to make you forget that. This of course was followed by creating a distraction via ad hominem, shady intel whose dual purpose was to distract, but also to stir up more hate which of course was shrouded in Jewboy activism.

This is the psychopathology of how the Jew normalizes their hate crimes while getting everyone to seek their approval by seeing them as the voice of reason, not that voice that pits everyone against each other in order to undermine & supplant the mainstream…..AND if anyone calls them out on it, valid complaints are dismantled as being anti-Semitism.

BOTTOM LINE: This effectively means that no one is capable of submitting valid complaints of discrimination against the Jew without being accused of discrimination against Jews. This is the dark creativity of your average Jew who has rigged & hindered the justice system and our ancestors knew their game as so did Helen Thomas who was demonized instead of being treated as a whistleblower.

Yet the old, ACLU Jew & their carping persecution complex doesn't mind cheering on the exit of the only Muslim on the committee as if one of the world's major religions is the problem as opposed to the Bad Apple that spoils the bushel which is the self-centered Jew who is using sham activism to do what they did to the Palestinians by making them go from 90% down to 10% or less, but in the Western World the Jew does it through the use of sham activism & victimology. This is Jewish terrorism & it sets a bad example for others..

QUESTION: If the RLC refuses to acknowledge Israeli genocide & American Jewry's role in it while expressing glee to see the only Muslim woman go, then why can't I freely cheer at my favorite scene in the movie Casino when the cowboy said "it's time to kick a kike's ass out of town".

…… Again, it's like FDR said to his Jewish campaign manager "you don't understand that you're guests living among us" and that's nothing new with the Jew who always vies for the upper hand whether it be thru Palestinian displacement to skew the perspective OR thru the effective apartheid the Jew brings down upon the white man thru the use of psychological warfare which is heavily reliant on dividing people & dumbing down the middle class which takes accomplices & pawns.

In fact, this sham of an organization cannot be allowed to go on without denouncing Israel's treatment of Palestinians. Until that happens, I will never denounce any form of Jewish persecution in Europe because the Jews at the RLC-- and many others--- are living proof of why Jewish persecution was a form of self-defense, NEVER just a greedy King to blame--- that's just Jewish propaganda & half-truths.

The RLC is just a vehicle in terms of how the Jew keeps the ground moving under everyone's feet so that people never come together, only pitted against each other while looking to the Jew for their sage approval which leaves them imbued with a feeling of altruism, albeit narcissism cloaked in altruism. This results in the white man shooting themselves in the foot while facilitating an effective form of apartheid & IT'S EVERYWHERE…

…Idi Amin's son has pointed it out that Israel keeps African countries fighting just as my Arab friends have pointed out that Israel in league with American Jewry--- the international Jew--- keeps Arab countries fighting just as I've pointed out that all the Jews in the US do is to keep everyone fighting & pitted against the white, heterosexual Christian male and there's no greater proof of that than Fox News--- the ultimate backlash!

*Charlie Kirk was the quasi, aright-wing that knew better…
https://youtube.com/shorts/ywDxIrhzud8?si=WtF0HUYB3C0p8WN6

It's all about weakening the mainstream and coming out as the defender of humanity by uplifting underdogs they don't even care about; but more importantly, it's about coming out as the de facto person in charge which is proven by my foreign friends & their fascination with the Jew pandering in this country, which is especially strange to them considering that I'm the only one they ever met who knows what a Jew looks like.

I'm not anti-Semitic, just counter-Semitic which is why I have to point out that many Jews are just anti-American as is the RLC. Its all about psychological bulldozers & constraints in a Western, immigrant country whose nature they can corrupt as they vie to make it their own while using actual bulldozers in the Orient. It's all about make their enemy our enemy who should be our friend because Jews have always been a hate group as Palestinians are not the only people have taken in these shysters before getting the same vilification & alienation scheme set upon them, but that will be in my fifth installment.

……Meanwhile, the RLC is nothing but a passel of anti-Semitic, Nakba-deniers who support Jewish terrorism & expect us all to enslave ourselves by internalizing for the Jew & not for those who the Jew has been wronging because the Jew is under a thin veneer, nothing more than a gestapo activist that'll enforce false labels & Scarlet letters which in itself is a hate crime. One could look at this as peer pressure tactics & self-inducing oneself on toxic empathy by over internalizing for the Jew which is learned helplessness. You can't deny any of this because we're not only already there, we've been there for a long time!

More importantly, the Jew has always exploited our founding father's religious freedom ideal as a loophole for racial theft of European peoples being that it's truly an ethno-religious group in the western world and always has been Remember, Judaism is supposed to be an ancestral religion that legitimizes ethnic land claims in the Levant made by Ashkenazi founders who had abandoned it for a thousand years, yet they are now anxious to bring in converts being that Jews are all about the white man's woman and the Arabs land.

.... This is how Donald Trump supports Jewish terrorism & sells out the white man along with everyone else. The Jews over at the RLC are the snakes in the grass who have made the eternal Jew's notorious form of victimology a joke. Every generation of white people for over a thousand years--- except for a brainwashed by the JewBoy media, Generation X--- has seen through these shysters and would never allow themselves to be controlled by these smirking gangsters who thought they could be the tail that wagged the dog by making us jump through hoops for the word anti-Semitic which is a word that needs to be outlawed as it's nothing more than a social conditioning tactic.

"Indian elephant trainers (mahouts) often control full-grown elephants with a thin rope or simple chain, not through physical strength, but due to "[learned helplessness]". As babies, elephants are chained tightly, causing them to stop struggling after repeatedly failing to break free. Adults remember this struggle and do not try to escape. ".

… This is an apt description of Jewish terrorism for which the RLC's endgame is to regain by allowably strengthening the shoddy ropes thru the use of duplicitous Jews & idiot goyim like the noodlehead Dan Patrick who has more altruistic narcissism than he does half the smarts of those baby elephants.

BOTTOM LINE: The RLC is an atypical vehicle for Jewish, dark creativity whose endgame is to officially institutionalize the insidious, social-conditioning tactics of Jewish, psychological warfare that come second nature to Jewish personality disorder that exists in a perpetual state of self-denial & self-absorption.

There's a GREAT reason why GREAT people have hated Jews and it has nothing to do with blood libel. In modern times, I'm not sure why transparent terrorists like the smirking rabbi are no longer REGULATED or contained in ghettos where they can cry their empty hearts out about anti-Semitism because that will be the only way to keep the other 98% safe from these "run them in circles" hucksters. In fact, I'll be accused of anti-

Semitism for even calling him a terrorist, but I'll be regulating or exposing him before that ever happens.

When that happens, low IQ, good-for-nothing, failing upwards, good old boy trash like Dan Patrick will be out of a job. Note the smirking Rabbi-- who literally is a 1930s Jew cartoon--- as his cohort attempts to pivot Carrie Prejean Boller in Jew circles because these are the openly, play dirty & smugly dishonest attributes of Jewish personality disorder from which Jewish lawyers hail from.

The Jew always says never forget, but the truth is they try to make everyone else forget by self-erasing what they are & why they have always been hated in order to make the younger generation sitting ducks for their victimology, power grabs & "white-guilt" disinformation. Why are they controlling the narrative ?? Why is the younger generation supposed to stew over what their ancestors did in terms of regulating or running Jews out of town? If anything, the incessant Jew-badgering makes it increasingly obvious as to why they did so.

..... In fact, the only lessons that self-absorbed, Jew-skewed victimology-based terrorists learn from their so-called persecutions is how to get sneakier in the future especially through the use of preemptive strike tactics. Moreover, Jews never learn that the worse they get in terms of holding everyone's head underwater with these tactics, the worse the so-called collective punishment as it stands to reason that there is an endemic, Jewish Personality Problem. Don't believe me?? Then join me on QUORA as it's swarming with the educator-activist, bullshit artists who cloak their hate speech & evil, inner workings in vilification schemes of the other 98%.

…… Obviously, Jews know that no rational country would Tolerate their tenacious pivoting for the victim card & the subtle word play to gain the upper hand that actually justifies Jewish hatred which they than want you to admit to so they close the anti-Semitic trap. I believe this is called shining someone on.

Is it any wonder why you had a bunch of white people sitting around talking about the final solution being that there's only so much of this "up in your face", cry bullying a person can take before they have to throw them out of one of those proverbial, 109 bars in which they want to play the victim afterwards.

There's only so much Jewish shenanigans cloaked in bogus lawsuits & sham activism any civilized person can take before shoving them either into Ghettos, Gas Chambers & Gulags with the last one basically being a reprogramming camp AND NOT UNLIKE what the entertainment industry has been using for decades on the children of the other 98% in order to brainwash them on toxic empathy for Jews and not anyone else, including the victims of Jews. In other words, the problem isn't us, it's them and it's always been them. There's a huge difference between living peacefully among people versus living passive-aggressively among them. It's the Jew who needs to start being more accommodating, not us.

This sham activism hoax of a religious liberty commission is how the Jew works to monopolize institutions like the media & school curriculum in order to enslave and dumb down the middle class instead of the Jew being regulated. There is no scapegoating or 3° of separation. The Chinese are smart and the white man is stupid, hence, the Chinese would never allow this smart ass badgering. That's how you stop Jew carping--STOP EMPOWERING JEWISH VICTIMOLOGY TERRORISM BY NOT CARING ABOUT BEING THE BAD GUY--- ONLY CARE ABOUT BEING THE RATIONAL GUY!!

IN OTHER WORDS, MOCK & RIDICULE THEIR TACTICS AT EVERY SLEAZY TURN JUST AS YOU WOULD ANY WHITE PERSON WHO PULLED THE SAME REPETITIOUS STUNT BEING THAT IT CONSTITUTES A FORM OF MENTAL TERRORIZATION & CON ARTISTRY. WE CANNOT ALLOW THE JEW TO MAKE RATIONAL LOOK LIKE HATE AND FACTS LOOK LIKE HATE SPEECH. It's time to get angry, not scared. The more they call you an anti-Semite for pointing out their stunt, the more you call them a terrorist, an anti-Semite and a con artist and feel free to do it when you're kicking the shit out of them.

Also feel free to let any white-hating minority who tries to defend these Jewish terrorists, let them know that they're nothing more than white-hating accomplices who inspire white protectionism, not Supremacy. Rep. gene Wu is a great example. Also let a bunch of dumb Gen xers know that they're too stupid to even know what the word anti-Semitic is and that they're nothing but pseudo-intellectual trash who's trying too hard to look like a good person by kissing the ring of their abusers which Jews will try to pretend is conspiracy theory because they've already thought well in advance of how to pervert the obvious.

AGAIN, NO NORMAL COUNTRY WOULD TOLERATE this smug form of chicanery without that country having first been breached on a multiple of levels which includes infiltration of the government & the skewing of the national perspective via the control of the media & the reeducation of the masses under the pretenses of altruism, all in order to ultimately compromise a person's ability to reason.

In other words, brainwashing that starts with the young in order to turn them against the old & oftentimes accompanied by hijacking another group's cause then camouflaging it with your own. Example, black people were the victims of a transatlantic slave trade, but Jews were not the victims of the white, Christians for no good reason.

What we are witnessing today is not just a civil Rights movement for Palestinians, but it's also a civil rights movement for the other 98% that's been kept under the Jew thumb for way too long in which they've been too mentally enslaved to see it & too pitted against each other to focus. But now the Jew is fighting it at every step of the way through sham activism & by hiding behind imbeciles with megalomaniac complexes. Jews just don't want to admit that their hens have come home to roost.

But the name of the game is to suppress the facts, to oppress the people in order to ultimately make the Jew's false reality our reality which not only works against us, but we're told that we're anti-Semitic for not going along with it instead of everyone else regulating the Jew…..But you can't because they've already done what Trump is trying to do now in record speed. In other words, make America stupid and keep them that way. When it falls apart, it's going to fall apart in a very big way.

Pretty soon being anti-Semitic becomes a badge of honor as it means that you're not stupid & you represent counterterrorism. Meanwhile, the few Jews with valid complaints of anti-Semitism slip through the cracks thanks to the majority of Jews with an endemic personality problem.

Again, this is how 2% overthrows the other 98% and for no other reason than they can't bulldoze them out of their homes. Add to this, the screwing of white, non-Semitic women who get Jewish labels slapped on them so that the Anti-Semitic Jew can breed out their Jewface like that of the Rabbi's in that news reel who is undeniably aware that he is exactly what Jews find disgusting.

….. In other words, there's no one more anti-Semitic than the Jews on Trump's commission & your garden-variety, Ashkenazi Jew whether it be anti-Semitism aimed against themselves or against Arabs and anyone who doesn't understand this obviously doesn't understand the Jewish mind that's been living among us for centuries OR they simply don't know what to look for.

This ISIS with a victimology schtick is something we're at fault for empowering as we allow them to make it a competition to not be seen as the bad guy instead of ridiculing it for the hoax that it is. That's how you take away its power. Instead, we allow these badgering, loudmouth, ill-bred, ill-mannered guests living among us to bully us, to ridicule us, to divide us & to label facts as hate speech and vice versa. This is how you get the tail to wag the dog.

Bottom line, I have no problem with being seen as the bad guy if it means cutting off the head of the snake and for no other reason then I know that I'm capable of systematically delineating the criminology behind Jewish victimology & justifying my distrust of them. Columbia University couldn't do it, but I can with Quora. The above video of Carrie Prejean Boller with the despicable rabbi is proof in my favor.

……Like Seinfeld said to his Uncle Leo who always complained about people being anti-Semitic-- CAN YOU BLAME THEM!... There's a deeply-instilled, personality problem endemic with Jews, particularly the ones who have lived among the white man for centuries. They've been at this game a long time & just keep getting better at it.

* Even an honest Rabbi I know of has made some of the most anti-Semitic remarks about Ben Shapiro imaginable. https://www.instagram.com/reel/DT-U6J2EfuJ/?igsh=Mmkwa20zZ2xvMXUw

….. This is once again a Jew attack on the children of America that's not unlike that of the student-protesters OR the dumbing of Gen X, but this time it's not through white guilt indoctrination that's always used to supplant the mainstream by uplifting people they don't care about like black people. It's all about NOT taxing the Jewish billionaires who are attacking our society & our children as Bill Ackman & Marc Rowan have not only proven, but they typify and find support from the less affluent Jews who view them as their spokesman.

…... Note the employees who walked out of Palantir & Google citing AI warfare, surveillance & state power. Reminder, Alex Karp was the one who admitted to having "fantasies of using drone-enabled technology to exact revenge" on his enemies which is all the student protesters, but never the BLM rioters because they were bulldozers against the white mainstream along with law & order. Keep vilifying the white man and glorifying George Floyd in order to clear the way for Jewish Supremacy that always plays the voice of reason & the hero. But then people woke up to the obvious that if BLM mattered than PLM mattered even more.

Note that Alex Karp is allowed to say the following & NOT be run out of town, but I can't say put Jews like him in the ghettoes, gulags & gas chambers where they belong and all because Jews like him have paid off corporate whores while ALL Jews on every level of society have worked over time at dumbing down the middle class & calling it activism.

He has advocated for robust counter-measures, including proposing an "exchange program" for demonstrators to visit North Korea. Protesters often target his company, Palantir Technologies, for its military AI work.

https://www.instagram.com/reel/DJSE8kgMGw_/?igsh=MXMwbnU4d3ozZDUzMg==

https://www.tiktok.com/t/ZP8bWBWUu/

….. Karp says his equipment is targeted, mostly at terrorists, but the project & deflect Jew doesn't understand that the Jew has always been the terrorist & there's no worse terrorist in this world than the one who plays the victim. He's also referred to the student protesters as pagan & cancerous as opposed to him as the wandering, parasitic Jew???..... This is what's called a conflict of interest as these Jews profit by killing Palestinians…... I SMELL A LAWSUIT!!

> "Wandering Jew" due to a 13th-century Christian folktale about a Jewish man cursed to wander the earth until the Second Coming for taunting Jesus…… I guess it's not considered anti-Semitic once the wileyJew figures out how to manipulate idiots like Pete Hegsworth to bomb & torture Iran In the name of the second coming of ole JC just as they have Evangelicals who believe in the Children of God crap which is absolute anti-Semitism & group supremacy.

….Alex Karp is the very definition of the dirty Jew straight out a 1930s cartoon. But like Mort Goldman in that episode of The Family Guy when Mort Saw himself in a Jew cartoon and called it anti-Semitic, Alex Karp is living proof that Jews can't look at themselves honestly in the mirror for what they really are. Instead, they try to vilify anyone who knows what they really are.

Bottom line, when a person has a huckster cornered with facts, all the huckster can do is pretend that they're the victim. That's the Hustler's code..

…This means that we allow ourselves to be bulldozed by preppy terrorists operating under the radar by stealing somebody else's race and calling it their own when they're not shoveling sham activism organizations in order to legitimize it, but to gain privilege and mind control and obedience through institutional control.

In other words, we've given the enemy within control of our minds while the IDF-- which was founded by three International terrorist organizations who bombed the King David hotel in England-- vilifies rational Americans and terrorizes the Middle East ALL from within our national borders. It's just like MOSSAD agents bragging about bombing Gaza from within whereas this country was trying to accommodate Jewish Americans in their quest to go fight for Israel, but. not for America.

> "Legislation has been proposed by U.S. lawmakers to extend employment protections and military benefits to American citizens serving in the Israeli Defense Forces (IDF). This follows reports of tens of thousands of Americans in the IDF, with over 400 U.S.-based nonprofits funneling billions to Israel, including to the military, and over $1.6 billion in bonds held by U.S. states."

…… What about Americans fighting for the Ukraine against Putin who is our greatest enemy that wants to devalue the dollar?..... What's happening with all the wounded warriors whi still aren't getting the funds they need? What about our current soldiers who are fighting a war in Iran that they don't want to fight I know that they are being forced to participate in making the US the biggest, terrorist nation on Earth?

ASK BEN: Why doesn't this marginally-employed, Jewish, activist-terrorist & Eddie Munster look-alike—BEN SHAPIRO--- get an honest job before attacking the youth of America for not being able to afford living in the U.S. while not saying ANYTHING about taxing billionaire crooks like Marc Rowan at a grossly disproportionate, lower rate?… Why doesn't Ben admit that Jewish terrorism-cronyism pays his bills ?? Why doesn't Ben ask himself why the Hebes stuck around Europe if it were so horrible to them??

…….Why attack the white man who allowed the Jew to live there, yet annihilate Palestinians for being native to it and then try to delegitimize them in order to legitimize the wandering Jew who should have gone back a thousand years before??? Nothing was keeping the Jew out, just there nose for trade elsewhere.

….. Meanwhile, there are no people of Judea left which is why the DNA samples to cross compare Ashkenazi Jews to them were taken from surrogates which means Palestinians & Druze …. Read more in my latest post!

Anyway, we are a terrorist nation & we're being led by a man who's mentally unfit while everyone underneath him tolerates it only because they're openly criminal as they play the same smug game that the rabbi played with Carrie Prejean Boller. This would be Ted Cruz in his interview with Tucker Carlson. So in other words, you have MAGA & the International Jew. The first component comprises the stupidity & the second comprises the thievery. Even Joe Rogan has now called MAGA, "mostly uninteresting & unintelligent people".

Josephine Gulbeau.
https://www.instagram.com/reel/DWYIYACyCgv/?igsh=bXg3NHVrdHVnZ20w

At the end of this shit show, Iran will be our friend--- not Russia's. In other words, they won't be helping Russia to bomb the Ukraine in order to get back at us. Instead, they'll be helping the US to monitor the International Jew. That's not anti-Semitic that's reality & it's more sinister than any propaganda, Nazi shit pic Steven Spielberg could ever come up with. Bottom line, start sending AIPAC money to Iran.

In the meantime, Rep. Gene Wu & MarkWayne Mullins need to step down as they only add to the toxic, backlash effect. You'll read about these asshats in my next installment….. AND if anyone has any updates on the Brighthouse Financial takeover, let me know! I certainly hope that future jailbirds like Leon Black, Marc Rowan & Josh > Elon Musk's artificial intelligence company is operating dozens of gas-powered turbines without proper permits, and surrounding communities are payie price. Thermal drone footage shows xAI continuing to burn fossil fuels at its Southaven, Mississippi data center, despite the EPA reiterating that these turbines require permits under the Clean Air Act before they can operate. Former EPA enforcement officials reviewing the evidence have stated plainly: this is a violation of the laws.

Sign now to demand that the EPA and Mississippi regulators immediately enforce Clean Air Act protections.

> These are not small generators. Experts compare them to jet engines. The Southaven facility could emit more than 6 million tons of greenhouse gases and over 1,300 tons of harmful air pollutants each year. These are pollutants linked to asthma, lung cancer, heart attacks, and other serious health impacts. The Clean Air Act is clear: pollution sources must obtain permits before operating. Federal law exists to prevent exactly this kind of unchecked pollution in populated communities. If state regulators refuse to enforce federal standards, the EPA has both the authority and responsibility to step in.

Sign the petition to demand immediate, full compliance with the Clean Air Act permitting requirements before more harm is caused!

In the case of MarkWayne, it's very necessary as he's going back to work for the man who declared war on his supposed people's land rights in the first 3 months of his first term!

NEWSFLASH:

Pete Hegseth just did something that should have every American paying attention. On Thursday, he fired Army Chief of Staff Gen. Randy George, a decorated combat veteran who served in Desert Storm, Iraq, and Afghanistan, along with two other generals. But Thursday was not an isolated incident. Hegseth has now removed more than a dozen senior military leaders across every branch of the armed forces, including the Chairman of the Joint Chiefs, the Navy's top admiral, and the head of the NSA. The official reason given for any of it? None. But the real story leaking out is darker than a simple personality clash. Multiple unnamed officials and outside analysts believe George was pushed out partly because he told Hegseth the truth nobody wanted to hear: that a ground invasion of Iran would be "too costly to launch and too destabilizing to sustain."

This is the part that should make your jaw drop. The U.S. is actively at war with Iran, with 82nd Airborne paratroopers heading to the Middle East right now under Army command. As one U.S. official told Axios, "Here is a four-star general who is actively working to get equipment and people into theater, and you fire him? In the middle of a war?" Analysts are already drawing the obvious parallel to 2003, when Gen. Eric Shinseki was sidelined for telling the Bush administration it was underestimating what Iraq would take. We know how that ended.

What we are watching is institutional military knowledge being systematically replaced with yes-men. George's replacement is a former Hegseth aide whose main qualification seems to be calling trump on inauguration night to say congratulations. Senator Chris Murphy put it plainly: experienced generals are likely telling Hegseth his Iran war plans are "unworkable, disastrous, and deadly," and Hegseth's response is to fire them until someone just says yes. Five former defense secretaries, including Jim Mattis, have already called this pattern reckless. Congress has done nothing.

….ENOUGH SAID!!!!..... I think Pete has slammed too many beer cans against his forehead!

First, a few reminders to kick this next part off…..

Likewise, why should European peoples tolerate a Middle Eastern cult invading their countries, squatting there & trying to steal their own people to call their own? That's the other half of why Jews were kept in ghettoes.

But unlike myself on Quora, Columbia University didn't back bounce back and I want to know why I'm able to defend myself better than they are despite all their fancy schmancy attorneys. WTF?? I think it has something to do with me systematically calling out Jewish Personality Disorder which involves not allowing their preemptive strike tactics aimed at me to get the upper hand as I come out swinging in the form of delineating EVERY LIE & JEWISH PSYCHOLOGICAL TACTIC applied to me while making the staff at Quora feel like inadequate while realizing that they're not holding Jews to the same standards.

…… The end result is that the Jew cannot censor & brainwash by labeling facts as hate speech NOR can they pretend that their own hostile, inappropriate attitude & foul mouths are acceptable and that anyone who stands up to it is the anti-Semite.

Nonetheless, the Jew's most effective weapon is ALWAYS to get my own dumbed-down, pretentious white peers to do their dirty work for them. This obviously includes backing them up while believing themselves to be noble intellectuals for doing so as opposed to offensive imbeciles who conform to the Jews' selective discrimination, lies, nonsense & cultural appropriation.

….. Translation, pompous Middle American trash has been shooting themselves in the foot & telling Palestinians that they must be mistaken while patting themselves on the back because they can't afford to admit that they're stupid nor are they ready to shake off the Jewish, victimology yoke OR risk professional alienation & harassment which in

This is how the Jew maintains the privilege of possessing ZERO accountability. It's ingenious really. Kind of like me saying that even if I did hate Jews, everything I'm saying would still be correct. Actually that's just logic which isn't allowed under a Jewish, martial law.

Bottom line: LOGIC dictates that me pointing out Jewish terrorism tactics should be identified and regulated, NOT labeled as age-old, anti-Semitism…… but Jews negate logic. ……Moreover, the white man of today is much more diverse and had nothing to do with these things nor did the Koreans and Mexicans in California which has been targeted for restitution. Again, none of this is happening ever since Jewish Deep Pockets wrote off the black community.

It's all about making slaves by suppressing the facts to oppress the people in order to enforce their false reality upon everyone else. This includes berating & indoctrinating the youth of America with one-sided, disinformation campaigns on why Jew hatred exists which in reality is a vilification scheme against their ancestors. If you have to ask why to do this at this point then you're asleep at the wheel. In other words, Jews are blatantly inappropriate which is why Donald Trump is now mirroring to in his mind cancel out cancel culture.

But the Jew needs to know when to cut the act & to take accountability without feeling like they're acknowledging guilt & relinquishing control. Meanwhile, the youth of America is being threatened, hunted, stalked & their privacy violated even as their met with false allegations of being shame-faced for their actions because that's the nature of Jewish, role reversal tactics & the maddening effect of their taunting and terrorization.

…… It's like I told am Israeli girl, I met at the mall almost 30 years ago agter she mentioned that her partner has a big Jewish nose. I told her that you can't say that in America because the Jews are ashamed of looking Jewish & they'll run you out of town by getting your own people to do it because it's all about brainwash, bully, and blackball anyone who doesn't go along with their agenda.

NEVER FORGET!! Hillel Columbia openly welcomes genocidal guest speakers. Imagine if German American welcomed former heads of the final solution and then defended themselves by accusing everyone else of being anti-Germanic.

….. In other words, It's growing up in the '80s in the US which was the first generation of white people in 900 years who didn't know what Jews were because they were the victims of a massive brainwashing scheme by a Jewish media who made use of the greatest weapon of mass destruction without ever having to fire a missile. In other words, the modern media.

But just remember, no one is allowed to win an argument based on logic with a Jew as they change colors depending on convenience & their agenda OR how knowledgeable the person is to whom they're speaking OR how ignorant & self-loathing the Jew is in terms of their racial heritage that comes with its own ancestral religion. Ultimately, the Jewish endgame is to win a legal, chess match whose prize is the victim card.

……This is officially a toxic element of society which is why many true, Jewish activists who understand this toxic mindset are ostracized for speaking out. Unfortunately, it's also nothing new to the white man unless you were those white people systematically dumb black down by Jews in the '80s.

…… or maybe they just belong in a gulag or their ghettos--- NOT THE WHITE MAN & THE ARAB WORLD…. Clearly, only idiots & accomplices are allowed out of these ghettos that come in the form of institutionalized minds. In the old days, only respectful Jews were allowed out of the ghettos, not the ones who were looking to overturn their host country.

……Why have people been bowing down to badgering Jews & their age-old chicanery instead of kicking it out of public places even if that includes a physical altercation?...ANSWER: Because the Jew will just keep whining that they're the victim even as you're throwing them out of the bar where they stir up hate & violence under false pretenses.

.... Accusing rational, decent people of anti-Semitism is a distraction intended to keep us scrambling while seeking Jew approval & apologies when it's really them who needs to apologize to us OR back to the ghettos.

…..In fact, there's nobody more anti-Semitic than Europe's Jews, which includes people like the Kushner Jewboys who commit racial theft in which they slap bullshit labels on white women despite Jewish laws having no basis in reality because it's all about Jewish improvisation that provides them with a convenient false reality & a method of so-called "legitimizing" the unthinkable like breeding out their Jewish faces while changing the racial status quo of Ashkenazi Jews to European instead of Semitic.

Again, Jewish loopholes & legal chicanery is geared at validating, normalizing, legislating & legalizing the absurd in which the Jew always has power over everyone else in what amounts to an effective state of apartheid, but only because they can't run you out of town AND because they'd rather take your women as their own by snapping Jewish labels on them. This is conquest, NOT assimilation.

This is why there used to be school quotas established for Jews as everyone understood the pushy Jews endgame was institutional control. Instead of acknowledging these valid reasons, Jews recycle it as discrimination because the Jew has no bounds and their modus operandi is to legalize Jewish their atrocities & overreach as activism when their mass brainwashing tactics finally break down.

This is why Putin is an imperialist, not a communist, as most of those who committed these crimes were either Georgian or Jews. Likewise, the reason most of the world is ignorant and uncaring is because we've been indoctrinated to see the world through Jew eyes & Holocaust indoctrination while never being taught the true reasons for Jewish persecution. Meanwhile, Gen X was berated, dumbed-down & ultimately distracted by Jews in terms of what they really do to others which only lends to the underhanded nature of Jewish terrorism.

…… The United States is a colony for international Jewry & a testing ground for their methods---- that was Gen X--- who are the first generation of white people in 900 years to not know what a Jew is. They made Gen X & Gen Y into a nation of Jew-coddlers, yet they didn't even know what the word Semitic meant because Jews can't live among anyone peacefully in the western world, only passive aggressively.

…..Everything Hitler said is exactly what Israel Cohen dictated in the black plague in terms of weaponizing blacks against white in order for the Jew to "achieve a subtle victory", which is what I've been saying for years now. In case you missed it, Jews weaponize people they don't give a shit about in order to extend their victim, power grab into that of a defender of humanity, power grab which of course involves vilifying their host country while creating division instead of moving forward as a people.

In other words, Jews have never wanted to foster a United States that resembles their European host countries wherein the European, Christian natives who are the other 98% knew exactly what the Jew looks like, thinks like & acts like. That's why they are now exploiting the culturally bankrupt, Evangelical angle OR dumb-down the middle-class, White, American children of their rivals into not knowing what their ancestors have always known then to look at anyone as evil who saw the obvious.. Besides, this is the only way you're going to be able to breed with them and have kids that don't look Jewish.

…….This is the next step and it involves corrupting the lines between religion & race and will obviously be led largely by Jewish men marrying white women who marry them for their money as is the way of the world. This was an increasing problem in Europe that led to their persecution in WWI & it was what counter-Semites called the Jewification of Europe (racial misappropriation plus monopolization of school's government and media) as opposed to Jews assimilating with the European way of life and not competing against them…

> But this is what happens when you let Jews out of the ghettos with no regulations in place as there had previously been…. But at times it was about letting white women into the ghettos, especially in areas of close proximity being that Jews haggle for white women & the upper hand in their own host country just like they do anything else. I speak from experience.

 There are great reasons why good people hate Jews..
https://www.instagram.com/reel/DTGRUKcCYgF/?igsh=ODFoeGE1OHg5NzFt

Nick's point goes straight back to Dolly Parton who was attacked by the ADL for stating the fact that Jews don't want to promote Christianity despite Jews living in a Christian culture. Of course, every pseudo intellectual liberal who's been brainwashed by Jews will try to say this stands in conflict with our forefathers & their dalliance with Deism instead of admitting that Jews live to ferret out factoids to use as loopholes while never mentioning that it was in vogue at the time with our nation's forefathers who used it as a supplemental form of spirituality.

….. It goes without saying that our forefathers, or the few of them who were into Deism, did not abandon Christianity as they were a western society and Christianity is their heritage as it's been filtered with their own native customs. But more importantly, Jews are traditional, ethno religious outsiders among the white man who saw an opportunity in an immigrant country, albeit a western one, wherein they could overturn it legitimately, but through intellectual dishonesty. In other words, these are the troublemakers Donald Trump should be yelling at to go back to their own countries or ghettos instead of being paid off by them.

But this goes back to Jews being foreigners in Europe wherein Jews were ridiculed for looking Jewish, not just Christ Killers. In other words, Jews want to make the US theirs which is why they have cultivated an artificial environment wherein nobody knows what they are anymore. But this takes pawns like foreigners & backwoods simpletons which Evangelicals mostly are. Sarah Huckabee Sanders understands what I'm talking about unlike her father.

In other words, backwoods Mike doesn't get that Jews are the original ISIS to Europe who invaded during the Middle Ages and tried to slap Jewish labels on white women by imposing their own irrelevant, Middle Eastern racial tribal laws upon them in much the same way as what the Religious Liberty Commission is trying to reinstate more than they are working to protect Jews--- that's just the pretense for which they have already proven. In other words, overreach is being placed before protecting Jews with valid complaints*. With a Jew skewed mentality, it's about a* life of revenge against their sworn enemies who typically are defined by those who don't kiss their ass no matter how religious or not religious they are because the white man has always known that it's an ethno-religious thing.

Compare* & *contrast:

.....But back to America, this is where the supremacist Jew in a liberal wrapper puts themselves behind every fake, humanitarian scheme to dilute the white mainstream either thru miscegenation because it assumes that the average, interracial couple constitutes irrational, Jew-pandering liberals whose children won't know what Jews look like, act like & think like because that would be anti-Semitic.

…..OR the other method of dilution of the white mainstream is by importing non-westerners who don't know what Jewish is as they say stupid things like some Japanese-American kid who tells me that he's seen an imposter, black person who identifies as Jewish so I'm wrong AND if I point out that he's a foreigner who doesn't know any better then he licks his wounds worse than a Jew by calling me a white supremacist because that's the insolent nonsense they're taught which only creates the problem. In real life, I set him straight and described how the same sham activism was slowly being used against Asian homogeneity. He wanted Jew-spotting lessons from me by the time I was done.

I can't entirely blame the Non-Westerners like him though because they only have three types of white people to learn absolutely nothing from with the first being country bumpkins who've been divorced from their European heritage for so long that the children of God is an abstract in their hillbilly, Sunday schools.

……. The other two are Gen X & Gen Y'ers who are Jew-manufactured, pompous imbeciles that want to think of themselves as smart & noble for going along with Jewish nonsense & overreach which is everything their ancestors were trying to protect them from until a modern media served as the most destructive weapon of all time. The Gen Y'ers is just less social-climbing & more hipster trash because that's the progression when it comes to berating the youth into oblivion on white-hate indoctrination cloaked in activism…..The result is self-loathing & too cool for school attitudes as we get dumb and the Jew stays the same. This is how the Jew has always endangered our children.

…... Meanwhile if Netanyahu doesn't want to take in Syrian refugees because he fears that they would undermine the nature of his country, then everybody has to be respectful & understanding. In other words, the white man has to abide by double-standards because this is all part of Jewish terrorism--- the "one bad apple effect"--- as it works to enforce double-standards in order undermine their enemies being that their endgame is always about revenge & control against those who would never give it to them in another lifetime.

Let's take a look at double-standards warfare outside of the US….

> Example, England is supposed to accept a bunch of Indians flooding their country whether they be new immigrants OR old, Gypsy thieves with a new, victimology agenda geared at shaking down the white man for restitution & to blame whitey for everything despite the fact that they're the product of Invaders from India which consisted of the lowest castes whose motto was, "God gave us no land or possessions thus the right to steal". In other words, they're Jews without the Ivy League, college degrees.

 Speaking of the rootless Jew with a massive imposter syndrome who has to make everything crazy look normal while dumbing down the Western world to get away with it while enforcing a bunch of bogus, Jewish laws to create a false reality which they make everyone else's.

https://www.instagram.com/reel/DWTpLN_iWe1/?igsh=cWo3cHBmY3E2cG9j

…… Amazing to see the rootless Jew rationalize human rights atrocities such as kicking natives out of their homes by pretending that they're not "legally" & faux historically not natives despite them being used as surrogates in DNA tests for the defunct people of Judah while ugly Jews from Europe take white whores and slap Jewish labels on them so they can breed out their ugly Jewish faces like that of Charles Kushner's which represents nothing more than an inbred, bottleneck population of near easterners cuz nobody wants to look like Masha Gessen.

Note, these fake definitions & legal loopholes is the basis of what Donald Trump's Religious Liberty Commission is going to do to the white man and it's nothing more than a shadowy reflection of what they've been doing to the Palestinians AND to the white man prior to WW2….. but alas, this is also what happens when you send in white trash Evangelicals to represent the white Christian male & Jewish puppetry understands this.

RECAP: So the Jew invades Europe and tries to claim white people as their own--- starting with women of course--- then playd the victim if you don't go along with this as do the Jews who pretend that to be native European even though they look completely different and oftentimes have their own accents… Then they reinvade the Middle East and pretend that the people living there aren't native and that they are native even as they bring in fake Jews from Ethiopia with a case of cultural appropriation & White whores who married Jewish men for the money.

……. yet people can't figure out why the white man and the Arab world has always regulated Jews…… This is why the Jew had to dumb down the Western World in order to pull the wool over everyone's eyes.

…. But back to the Indian government & certain advocate groups with white hate fueled accusations aimed at Mother Teresa and her followers in terms of her trying to Christianize Indian Hindu untouchables who were being crushed under their own caste system. In other words, Mother Teresa was viewed with suspicion in terms of trying to undermine Indian Heritage or Hindu nationalism. Muslims went through the same thing in India despite being a golden age.

Likewise, we're supposed to ignore a new, dangerous movement coming out of India which includes historical reinvention that pushes for the dismissal of the Aryan invasion. A person doesn't exactly have to read between the lines to see that this is essentially a bunch of skulkers who are attempting to cloak white-hate & denial via victimology which is aimed at any rational person who doesn't go along with this farce. In other words, it's India's version of the anti-Semitic command word

Remember, Hinduism is a religion brought to India by white people who created a caste system of colorism, but modern Indians are trying to pretend that the Indus valley civilization just died out and that they're white in the North for no reason in what effectively constitutes racial theft, white-hate & self-denial copied from the Jewish playbook of Victimology in order to get away with it. Keep all this in mind when you read about Uma and the New Pluralists in order to understand why divisive Jews like Bill Ackman want to import Asians--- Indian & Mongoloid--- ever since blacks went PLM.

Meanwhile, let's look at that pathetic wimp, Kier Starmer, who doesn't know which way is up or down as he constantly searches for empty platitudes to fill his speeches. In case you missed it, the addle-brained Kier's wife is an atypical example of how Jews usurp or change the nature of their host country. Translation, white woman marries a self-loathing Jew for his money & a Jew who married her so that he wouldn't have Jewish-looking kids.

……In turn, those children will be more effective at attracting white men in positions of power who would then raise the kids as fake Jews in a so-called, Jewish culture which is really a stolen European one that follows primarily Egyptian, Zoroastrianism & Babylonian texts with Jewish labels slapped on them. In other words, we don't have a real leader behind the wheel in the "Jew.K." as Kier refuses to acknowledge the terrorist attack upon Iran, but he also refuses to acknowledge the terrorist attack in his bedroom being that Jews in England aren't using hotel bombers anymore, just plants like his wife.

... Freedom of religion, land of the free. All of these sentiments are things Jews pervert to gain the upper hand & to use freedom of speech to ridicule & to vilify Christianity while portraying Jews as progressive, modern, free thinkers. Again, freedom of religion is freedom for you to be you, NOT freedom to make designer-imposter Jews out of white people in order to make Jewish into something it's never been AND the reason why they've been kept in ghettos.

…..Loosely speaking, you could call this Christian Nationalism which in reality was self-preservation to protect natives from Jewish overreach & racial identity theft that has much to do with their own hatred of looking Jewish. Likewise, why are Jews trying to call Central and Eastern European cuisine Jewish if they are a Middle Eastern group?? If they want to pretend that it's just a religion then it should be called Catholic and Orthodox Christian food..

.. Judaism is a religion for a Semitic tribe known as Jews that invaded Europe in the Middle Ages who had their own ancestral-nationalist religion that then had to be placed in ghettos not only to accommodate a foreign group who served a purpose, but because they were trying usurp European women by applying their foreign labels on them which may have made sense in a Near Eastern world, but not in Europe. But of course, vilify Shariah Law & vilify the Christian church that made them rich along with a king.

.... But back to Nick Fuentes's point about the melting pot which after a while becomes less about diluting the white mainstream & more about instilling insolence, entitlement & white-hate in foreigners like that of Rep. Gene Wu who's talking about everyone else who's not white & heterosexual as the new majority who needs to overthrow the white mainstream supposedly for the good of all.

How about we instead take Gene Wu's insurgent, Jan 6th, yellow supremacist ass back to China where they will not welcome him nor his weaponization of homonationalism & uppity, border-jumpers because these are Jewish tools that become blatantly obvious when one is taken out of their American fishbowl and placed around sane people like the Chinese who won't put up with bullshit including a skulking, opportunistic demagogue like Gene Wu posing as a servant of the people. In other words, Gene Wu was not elected to pit minorities against the white mainstream in order to overthrow it. If he wants to fight the true oppressor then that would be the Jewish hand like the African American kid at Harvard said, but Gene is too busy copying their playbook just like with Donald Trump is.

Rep. Gene Wu is proof of why Bill Ackman is screaming for more Asian imports being that black pawns proved unreliable due to their moral compass going PLM. I'd rather have riots and protests for this murdered girl than for George Floyd, Michael Brown or Rodney King.

…… This is what the Jew has instilled in society until intelligent blacks went PLM…. I don't believe in coincidence and neither should you…. Kaizen D. Asiedu called out selection bias as the real divide in society. Labeling it as selection bias is putting it mildly and it's not unlike New York DA Alvin Bragg who needs to think about who he really serves & how long he can disguise his white hate with activism if he doesn't have the Jew money behind him which Bill Ackman has proven to be the case since 10/07/23.

… Bottom line, instead of voicing smpathies for the mentally ill, then do something about it like mandatory check-ins for medications. Or is it exclusively black or minority & mentally ill?

…… If Gene Wu can't see this OR if he thinks that he can model his own career upon the rubble of the now defunct pre-Oct. 7th models, then he needs to go to a plastic surgeon for some blepharoplasty so he can see what the white man & the Arab world have had to go through for aeons. But he doesn't get it because he's an insolent foreigner who doesn't understand that his insolence stems from faux, liberal Jews who created the conditions for a MAGA backlash to even rise up. This is where Redneck became the new black & Asian the other white meat with the latter being prepped in terms of accusing White westerners whose country he chose to move to of being white supremacists in order to feel better about himself & to overthrow it which he has already admitted to.

…..Again, Jews love to weaponize blacks from the bottom of the pile and Asians from the top. Your average Asian I've met has asked me why the media keeps portraying Asian hate crimes as originating from within the white community as opposed to the black inner city. In terms of Gene Wu, if anyone wants to commit an Asian hate crimes against him then I regard it as a case of national defense. In other words what has always been second nature to Jews is becoming the same way in terms of higher level Asian pawns. Next, Gene Wu will be pretending that it's all conspiracy theory because it all comes down to self-preservation of their ego & control of the masses.

……..Too bad Donald Trump doesn't see where his anger stems from as he whores us all out to Jewish terrorism, including his own daughter, instead of rounding up Friends of Epstein like Howie Lutnik and just appropriating his wealth along with that of Marc Rowan's and then putting them & their attorneys on a ship to Gaza. After all, he's already stolen oil, sold it and then put it in a private bank account in Qatar. WHAT'S STOPPING HIM FROM TAKING MY ADVICE? ….. DOGE would have been put to better use this way.

But back to faux, Jewish humanitarianism which typically excludes Muslim majority, MENA countries because the Jew wants to pit the Europeans who they want to emulate, supplant & racially misappropriate against the Arabs whose land they want to steal being that Jews don't know their place wherever they go & because they always want other people to do their dirty work. I don't care that the majority of Israelis are Arab Jews because they're not the ones in charge, they take orders..

…..This includes the dumbed down, white kids who serve as their mindless IDF and who eat their own for not Jew pandering OR dumbshit MAGA to fight their wars and to conquer countries they want conquered under false pretenses. "During the Lebanese Civil War (1975–1990), Christian elitism was rooted in the 1943 National Pact, which guaranteed Maronite Christians political dominance and economic superiority, causing deep resentment among Muslim and leftist factions. people together which in his day were different, white ethnic groups. In reality, he was ostracizing them while pretending to appreciate their differences because the ostracized Jew didn't want to encourage homogeny & a common language among the white, European ethnic groups of their old world environment in which they felt left out.

Again, this is about one person coming out on top while supplanting the mainstream by assuming that they were to be the only ones to truly stick together without everyone else coming together. In other words, Jews don't really buy their own crap that they've been pushing to others as the Jews stays the same while perceiving so-called, dangerous movements around them which their chip on the shoulder generated whether it be white-hating, Jew coddling Gen X'ers OR its backlash of student protesters who know that Jews bamboozled the generation before them which is literally the only generation of white people in 900 years who don't know what Jewish is & to make matters worse, they're either comfortable with the bamboozle or too reticent to go against it.

…… But back to the hippie-dippie, New Pluralist & Einhorn Collaborative collaboration which does nothing more than fill the time for wannabe, Jewish socialites who try to add layers to their fluff by making it seem like they're making a positive difference instead of just throwing around David's money while David looks like some altruistic kind of guy as opposed to a sham activist who ran companies into the ground for his own gain & pissed on the little guy's life work just before treating my life as a liquidation sale for his gain.

…... For a non-profit that's supposed to be built on empathy & railing against systemic privilege, it's nothing more than the epitome of sham activism & a hotbed of Jewish, systemic privilege wherein the president was gifted a job after only about a year out of college. This trash organization's only requirement is Jewish, shoulder-rubbing & armchair activism while pretending that it's not some sort of a clique for Ivy Leaguers trying to tap Deep Pockets because they couldn't get into law school, business school or medical school and this was only other alternative.

I find it mind racking & outright insulting that David Einhorn would give money to this MORAL UNDERSTANDING crapola, but a belligerent Einhorn wouldn't even consider talking to a top attorney who's settled $400 million lawsuits, one against AIG, or joining in a meeting with a close associate of his in what could have been a collective of major investors, lobbyists & attorneys along with their media contacts who would work to facilitate real change that would get to the root cause of economic inequity & the social disparity that it creates in this country for which David has been a major contributor thanks to his carefree destruction of companies for his own gain all under the guise of activism.

……. Instead, David decided to join in on armchair theorizing with a bunch of a bunch of Stepford wives from good schools & men who might as well have vaginas implants.

Nowadays, this New Pluralist organization has a bunch of weepy, white boy minstrels who get together for this Indian Oprah & her, "community workshop talk sessions" wherein they've actually admitted to competing to be righteous which always entails becoming a doormat for any minority while unjustifiably eating their own who are no doubt more rational than themselves because this is the "shooting themselves in the foot" & the altruistic narcissism effect which Jewish chicanery induces.

…..Note, none of these clowns recognize what a 12-year-old kid like myself knew in the '80s from watching TV as I have had to since sit through this 40-year shit show which has culminated into group therapy sessions of dumbed down, white minstrels who are venting to a foreigner who doesn't even know anything herself thanks the white man who she should have learned from, but they've been made into "blank slates", sitting ducks & sycophantic slaves thanks to the Jewish, long game that's left them incapable of sharing any insight with Uma who should be learning from proximity as these pussywimp losers she's counseling can't even tell how they're getting fucked up the ass & from what direction.

DONALD TRUMP: The Jew's greatest pawn of all time to the point that Jews don't even have to pretend to give a shit about anybody else anymore in order to pit some underdog against the white mainstream. Donald Trump is a bigger whore for the Jew than Ivanka "Emmy Slattery" Trump as he sells the white man down the river while throwing disobedient blacks with a brain & a conscience under the bus. …… Candice Owen better watch herself as they're going after old-school, middle of the road, right-wingers who negate the play the left against the right Jew game which is what has always been responsible for an ever-widening gap in our society.

Trump is a race traitor who's betraying the mainstream culture of this country no differently than the president of Indonesia--- an Asiatic, immigrant country--- would be doing if he promoted Judaism & the faux, Jewish culture over that of the traditional heritage of the people which would invariably & slowly be relabeled as Jewish.

…….The only people who don't understand this concept would be either bleeding heart, white liberals who see themselves as noble for standing against anything associated with white people OR the simple-minded, Evangelical mayor of Tangiers, Virginia who needs to listen to Dolly Parton as she was bullied by the ADL for stating factual, discriminatory complaints regarding the Jewish Hollywood monopoly not wanting to promote Christianity even though they're living in a Western, de facto Christian nation. But the Jew does it because they could never get away with it in Europe for long where it was more homogeneous. ergo they want to make the U.S. not homogeneous.

……Ergo, the Jew came to a western, immigrant country which they sought to make their own under the guise of equality. This scam has since been abandoned as it's backfired miserably being that they couldn't continue it into another generation being that their pawns have united against them. But before that, in order to make it their own country--- but in a more subliminal way--- they Jew had to encourage massive immigration from non-western countries under the guise of fighting white supremacy wherein these accusations actually produced it.

In other words, *t*he attack against Dolly Parton was nothing more than a Jewish vilification, marketing scheme being that the overbearing & inappropriate, Jewish personality disorder knows no boundaries. Clearly, it lives to work around the clock to turn the bad guy card around on the victim by making false accusations of everything from anti-Semitism to that of white supremacy if we don't allow them to bulldoze us. But instead of being perceived as the shysters they are, the common American idiot buys into it almost as if they have no choice. This is also how the Jew bulldozes the white man's civil rights in the western world versus that of Arabs in MENA.

……This is how Jews get the goyim clown to shoot themselves in their own foot while patting themselves on their back for supposedly being morally superior, cosmopolitan intellectuals for doing nothing more than putting Jewish encroachments & nonsense FIRST, then their trashy pawns SECOND then anything white, Christian & heterosexual Last whilst vilifying anyone on an even kilter because they've been programmed to call everyone racist or anti-Semitic. This means that they're now too stupid & too proud to admit that they're nothing more than pseudo-intellectual "know nothings" who makes the Jew's enemies their enemy which makes them an accomplice in hate crimes that works by lowering the prestige of decent, honest people if not worse.

….. This means you're probably Gen X, white America which also means that YOU'RE actually the biggest & dumbest bigot on Earth rivaled only by MAGA. In other words, the Jews have already laid the groundwork long in advance & are quite capable of getting everything they want while screwing over everybody else which includes Donald Trump's Religious Liberty Commission. Remember no sane people allowed--- only idiots & accomplices!

What the goyim at Donald Trump 's Religious Liberty Commission may want to keep in mind along with anyone who has to go up against Jewish, sham activism,

Let's take a look at my former, high school classmate's whiny & completely useless, Jewish princess of a wife on Facebook. The irony here is that he's not Jewish & he was one of maybe two classmates in high school who knew exactly what Jewish was, but he was also the fat kid that wore nothing except for a horrible collection of heavy metal t-shirts who will nowadays say anything OR not say anything in order to get laid and to stay laid.

Anyway his wife is talking about going to see Superman which was invented by a Jew and now played by a Jew. I corrected her in terms of the actor being half white and half Jewish or less being that Jews are mixed, kind of like black people, but she starts going on about this irrelevant & dishonest, Jewish law that shouldn't matter being that Jewish is a near eastern group for which the word Semitic is applied. This is also a word she hurls & ends every thought with in order to inoculate sane but cowardly opponents who challenge her false reality.

His wife didn't doesn't seem to understand that Jews were a preppy ISIS that encroached upon Europe in the Middle Ages & had to consequently be contained in ghettos for the self-preservation of the Native people being that Jewish men were misappropriating peasant women and trying to slap Jewish labels on the white women with their end goal being to breed out their Jewish faces so that they wouldn't have kids who look like her son, Avi.

……..Hundreds of years later they were allowed to leave the ghettos and live among the white man if they did not try to subvert their host country by slapping Jewish labels on the natives. In fact, they had to convert which thankfully never happened in large numbers, thus making their different racial group easier to assimilate into an ocean of non-Jews.

Meanwhile, Jews complain about Shariah law, yet they don't mind violating the laws of reason with their crap that has no place outside of other Semites, which is what these laws were intended for. But Reformed Jews who came after the Diaspora are a reactionary product of being among the white man.

BOTTOM LINE: Jewish has never been just a religion in Europe. It's always been a race that came with its own religion. Jews know this. They white man has always known this. The two are interchangeable.

.....The only thing that would suddenly undo this within the course of a generation & a half would be Jewish overreach which in their Jew-skewed minds is assimilation as opposed to the reason why they were kept in ghettos. The only reason the Jews gets upset wherein other groups don't get upset when you tell them that they look like a certain ethnicity is because they're shamed of looking Jewish nor do they want to embrace their Middle Eastern heritage nor do most Middle Easterners want to claim them nor do they always know what they're looking at. The consensus is inconsistent in my experience.

.....But oftentimes it's mostly Americanized Jews who've begun to believe their own enforced, false reality. This then means that the inappropriate Jew doesn't like disobedience from the other 98% so they lash out at sane & knowledgeable people in what effectively constitutes them misrepresenting themselves as natives of Europe even tho everyone else just looks at them as a bunch of ugly Jews who creates problem that no other group does.

Again, it's like the Jew-skewed perspective of my Jewish girl friend who lowered her voice to a whisper and said something like "but you're the only one who knows these things" or " the only one who thinks like this" as if I'm the subversive, not the Jewish, slow-moving coup that's been harassing everybody for 40 years into falling in line with their self-loathing complex & their cognitive dissonance that gets everyone to give away the proverbial farm to the Jew.

Only a twisted mind like that of the Jews would use the interchangeable association race & religion as a means to "Jew rinse" white “Emmy Slatterys” who would then think of it as just a religion instead of seeing themselves as a tool being used as subtle means to an end of overthrow & parasitism.

…..OR will they see themselves as a member of a defunct tribe which makes them crazier than Rachel Dolezal. Either way, a modern invention like Amy Schumer doesn't want to see themselves as an imposter & as the product of Jewish terrorism who belongs in a diversion program that she truly is. She may not even understand what she really is--- as opposed to authentic Jews that she claims to be--- as she goes through life with ethnic binders on, but there are plenty of old-school, Jewish women who know what somebody like her is & that she is there to replace real Jews like Gabby Deutsch, Bette Midler, Barbra Streisand, or Amy Winehouse thanks to self-loathing Jewish men like her father and even the Jewish women who nowadays take pride in her because she doesn’t look like a real Jew. Furthermore, look at how somebody like Amy Schumer is disrespecting her true identity.

Any Schumer is no different than some muddled Jew, who was roughly only ¼ ethnic Jew on Frontline PBS rolling her eyes about Putin wanting a Slavic empire when she’s probably only a quadroon Jew herself thanks to self-loathing Jewboys men who didn't want to have to look at ugly looking Jewish women like Mayim Bialik & Emma Goldman. Meanwhile, she looks down at the Arabs for being everything that her Jewish ancestors have been trying to breed out in an effort to redefine themselves while looking down at the natives who are their instrument for doing so. In other words, why am I getting anti-Slavism from an abomination who never should have been born?

…… It's all about creating a new breed of faux Jews completely at the expense of the white people who the Jew has been guests among for centuries. In other words, blur the once clear lines that have always existed between that of a near eastern race which was paired with its own ancestral-national religion & that of the Christian-pagan white people of their host country by blatantly parasitizing their racial identity which the Jew then calls their own by slapping a Jewish label on them--- as if the differences weren't noticeable--- followed by then accusing rational, flustered "in the know" people of being the Nazi, ethnic cleansers that they themselves. In other words, the self-loathing, Jewish Uncle Tom who found a loophole to exploit for their own gain and their host country's loss.

….. These are the points that the Religious Liberty Commission needs to be asking as Jews have been trying for the last 200 years since they've been let out of the ghettos to make Jewish into something it's never been which fractures the identity of the native people which of course the Jew tries to normalize by deceptively packaging it and one of their Jewish, marketing schemes.

Again, it's all about the white man's woman and the Arabs land which makes this sham nothing more than a more passive, slow-acting & deceptive form of the Nakba which is Anti-Semitic to deny ever happened & anti-Semitic to justify or to rationalize especially if Jews don't want to embrace their Middle Eastern identity whether or not they look like ethnic Jews. If they look like Amy Schumer, they shouldn't be identifying as Jewish any more than Anderson Cooper should be identifying as African-American. Sarah Jessica Parker on the other hand may be half, but the Jewface is overwhelming and she was even told so which makes it even more amazing that she got cast for Sex & the City instead of as the hot chicks, Jewish intellectual beard of a best friend.

… But back to my original point of the ongoing on-line, Jewish terrorists, disinformationists & trolls who're erasing historical, Palestinian atrocities in order to implement false narratives of an Old Testament nature… Not only does this require laws similar to that of the outlawing of election fraud myths, but it is high time that we transform Holocaust Museums into Holodomor Museums (for which Jews are not allowed to identify with) AND into Native American Genocide Museums…But we should also be allowed to say that the white man had every right to Nakba Jewish foreigners off their land, especially if they were parasitizing non-Semitic, white people to claim them as their own while maintaining elusive double-talk in terms of a Jewish identity which is race first which theoretically justifies land claims to the Levant no matter what religion they are despite having vacated it and used activists investors to steal the land from natives who already had claims to it … But back to my original point, a Jew can become Messianic Jews because race is first.

I don't care if German Jews prior to World War II considered themselves to be loyal German citizens because it frightens me to think that they viewed themselves as ethnic Germans even though they looked completely different like Andrew Zimmern or Henry Winkler who have identified as German and Austrian respectively. These are problems that no other ethnic minority creates & it's not the same thing as some white hippie identifying as Buddhist as that just becomes part of an adjunct identity.

Obviously, if imposter Jews like the delusional Amy Schumer figured this out then everyone born after 1970 would know too. This means that the effects of the Jewish propaganda & it's long game with its lulling effect would be neutralized. In other words, no more over internalizing for the Jew wherein this empathy is reserved for the bamboozled other 98% who've been tricked into forgetting over time what a Jew is as they're guilted into being overthrown from the inside out by them by becoming their doormats. This includes the Jew wearing our skins and calling it their own--- like Amy Schumer and her idiot mother--- instead of Jews assimilating to the mainstream or keeping to themselves. In other words, all the reasons why Jews were kept in ghettos by our ancestors in order to protect the children from shape-shifters.

Personally, I don't give a shit if Jews were run out of town 200 years ago & more as I assume there was a good reason judging by the way they're acting now. This obviously includes forcing us to live in their version of the past in which we must bleed for them. This is also probably why they try to make the targets of their animosity look as unwanted as they've always justifiably been or felt. At this point, I'm ready for Jewish regulation in the form of ghetto restitution, diversion programs & racial culling that preserves their Semitic blood, not breeds it out. This is the best way I can think to protect them from themselves.

But back to the overbearing Jewish wife of the former classmate of mine because I want to delineate what she's doing step by step because it's exactly what makes Jews so dangerous and always has.

STEP #1.: So let's step back and look at what this domineering shrew was trying to do because it's the same thing that all Jews do. In other words, she was trying to confidently normalize & legitimize Jewish nonsense, encroachments & terrorism. Jews do this through their Jewish loopholes & preemptive strike tactics. This is not unlike the Jews over at Trump's RLC..

(.A.) The crafty Jew's legal loopholes are presumptuous in nature and intended to normalize & legitimize Jewish encroachments, nonsense and terrorism.

(B.) Jewish, preemptive strike tactics are meant to inoculate the preemptively dumbed-down, white Americans & "foreigners" from hearing facts. This is further done by vilifying & ridiculing the only person in the room with facts--- somebody like Carrie Boller who's dealing with a room full of Nazis who pretend that she's the bad guy for stating facts.

STEP #2: Next stop, legally bastardize facts & call it hate speech in order to censor even if it conflicts with their double-talk because only Jews are allowed to speak. … This has already happened at Georgetown to experts. You know why?

> Because Jews are preppy & well-assimilated terrorists, parasites and a hate group and they always have been and only a totally, self-loathing psychopath with imposter syndrome who has to brainwash themselves on a daily basis can smirkingly pretend to be the victim or descendants of ham and sham or any of that nonsense while attacking me for being anti-Semitic for not accepting their ugly, Jewish ratfaces as Eastern European or German…..Think Mayim Bialik!
> I will not enable Jewish, cognitive dissonance & their racial theft just because some loudmouthed, dirty Jew gets up in my face & pits my own dumbed-down people against me OR stages a fake intervention, but I'm the belligerent one--- CUT THE ACTS!!. Jews have to learn that having an obnoxious, big mouth or crocodile tears does not give them authority, it only gives people a great reason to run them out of town, shove their asses into gas chambers & ghettos OR become suicide bombers. All of the above is the only way to stop their big mouths & duplicitous, gangster attorneys. That doesn't make me Hitler, it makes me all rational people who have ever been terrorized by Jews & their victimology bullshit which tries to run decent people up a tree in what amounts to effective apartheid of the 2% against the other 98%.
> Forget protection for Jews, start talking Counter-Semitic, Anti-Bullshit Victimology Terrorism laws. Look towards the Deep Pockets like Josh Harris, Marc Rowan, Leon Black, the Kike Kushners who belong in a gas chamber along with every Jew in Trump's administration….. PASS laws outlawing Pavlovian command terms like anti-Semitic & make sure you don't have idiot teachers like I did growing up who thought that Hitler just had an obsession with blonde hair and blue eyes.

STEP #3: NORMALIZE DOUBLE-TALK & FALSE ALLEGATIONS… Jew tactics then go from 0-60 by fabricating & defaming someone as being racist OR some kind of 1940s, ignorant, white supremacist, Nazi ethnic cleanser for stating that Jews are a separate, ethno-religious group.

EXAMPLE:: Keep in mind that these Nazi allegations are coming from the same Jews who themselves claim Semitic bloodlines & ancestral claims to the Levant which is the basis of the founding for the country. Talk to Gideon Sa'ar …….. but in a Jewish world & mind, double-talk is legalized along with parasitism of the white man & the Arab world which is why this cult needs to be contained or regulated, NOT "protected".

So why are Falashas allowed in Israel? …..Falashas have appropriated a culture not theirs, but then again they are so few in number that they don't create a black problem unless they plan on over reproducing and even then that helps to falsely inflate the population while soothing the ego of self-loathing, Ashkenazi Jews who want to obfuscate the true identity of Jews, kind of like Jared Kushner who married Ivanka so we wouldn't have children as horribly Jewish looking as his family. Again, a person doesn't look Muslim or Christian--- it's their heritage, but Jews have something called a diaspora.

…. Logic never stands in the way of Jews, only rational people they can't brainwash & run circles around by improvising legal loopholes in order to legalize or normalize the insane, the unacceptable & their overreach. The endgame is to make Jews into something they've never been while maintaining a dictatorship cloaked in altruism. In other words, this is the very reason why Jews were contained in ghettos, ie., to protect the natives of the host country from pushy Jews & their parasitism via racial misappropriation & institutional control.

This parasitism includes pretending that conversion is to be adopted into a tribe in which there are no ethnic requirements which means I am now nonsensically labeled as a racist for pointing it out EVEN AS THEY PRETEND that converts are as ethnically Jewish as an ethnic Jew. This varies from Jew to Jew and it's normal in their warped minds wherein everyone else is the bad guy for not going along with it. In reality, there is no tribe--- just a bottleneck population of inbred, Arabs in Europe known colloquially & traditionally as Jews. Anything less like Stella Adler is racial misappropriation which the Jew encourages because the ethnic Jews from Europe for the most part resemble something out of The Simpsons.

This is why that white sex slave trafficking, Jew pimp, Jeffrey Epstein, was plotting with an Israeli official in terms of importing 1 million white Russians in order to slap Jew labels on them. These women of course are nothing more than whores looking for a free ride that the Jews have been getting for too long. Mizrahi Jews from the Levant like Lebanon are often confused for Jews from Europe, whereas Gulf Jews are largely converts. It's all about being derived from the Fertile Crescent. Anything less cannot be called a Jew, just parasitism & crazy people with identity issues along with white whores who married for the money.

To all of those double-talking Jews who think they can get me to jump thru their hoops along with all of the so-called brilliant, legal minds & culturally deficient Americans who call me racist for calling Jewish a race despite it being VERY verifiable as is the ethnolinguistic term Semitic & having its own diseases along with having its own eponymous nose & hair--- which people of Eastern European descent like myself oftentimes cringe at--- , let's remember that the true anti-Semites & the true ethnic cleansers are the Jews who try to import white Russians, not ethnic Jews, while clearing actual Semites off their land.

STEP #4: NEVER SHOW YOUR TRUE HAND & ALWAYS CRY WOLF WHILE VILIFYING THE OTHER GUY Of course, the Jew tried to keep their human rights atrocities hush-hush while vilifying every white person who didn't uplift Rodney King in the US--- the international Jew & it's Jew News indoctrination--- but when that falls through, then default to Plan B which is to insanely accuse rational people of being anti-Semites for exposing their crimes while abusing their children with white guilt tactics as a means of forcing them into not exposing the parasitic hypocrites that Jews really are.

….But effectively, this means giving Jews the upper hand which includes racial misappropriation of white people. That's what it always comes back to.

This is the warped mind of the Jew and how they play & if you don't understand that about Jews--- and you are a Jew--- then you're not looking into yourself and not asking the right questions or not scratching the right surfaces. Again, the end game is to normalize the ethnic cleansing of their Semitic blood by altering the racial status quo of Ashkenazi Jews from being muddled, Near Easterners to that of Europeans which effectively fractures the identity of people who have no business calling themselves Jewish.

... This is the Jewish problem that our ancestors have been going through since Jews have been allowed out of the ghettos & it's the lulling effect of Jewish terrorism in which we're supposed to willingly give ourselves up to them due to social alienation threats of being labeled as an anti-Semite instead of realizing that there's no other logical way to be other than that of a Jew-baiting activist & counter-Semite until Jews can prove that they're aware of what they are & what they're not allowed to pull off. Protect the naïve, other 98% by regulating the Jew.

…. Idi Amin's son understands this, why don't we?
https://www.instagram.com/reel/DRJf68xkx9T/?igsh=MTlmZHU4NHd6eXV0dA==

Is it really any wonder why Jews have always been hated and contained, but in order to deflect this the rabid Jew skulks & plays the victim because that's what a con artist and a criminal does, especially one with an imposter syndrome, a total lack of accountability and a self-loathing complex.. This is why Jews are Donald Trump's number one role model, especially when they're are a lot smarter than him.

This is also why the Jew accuses everyone else of being some sort of white supremacist. In other words, it's a distraction straight out of a hustler's code book because Jews know that they themselves are guilty of using Arab Jews as pawns to kill Palestinians who are more Jewish than they are, but that doesn't matter because the Jew pushes a one-sided narrative about the Arab sweep radically changing the ethnic makeup which is a lie especially when one keeps in mind that Palestinians serve as surrogates in Jewish DNA tests to the people of Judah. Again, as Emmanuel Kant had said, "Jews are nothing more than Palestinians living among us."

… But as the Jewish Problem picks up where Kant left off, "….until the Jew started taking white whores to slap Jewish labels on them in order to breed out their much ridiculed Jewfaces while the skulking, clannish Jew intentionally monopolized the media, our schools, our government & our institutions in order to normalize their encroachments or more aptly put, to overthrow & control their host country, NOT to assimilate".

This is why the Jew whose famous mantra is Never Forget had to make with the goyim forget my dumbing down their kids while stirring up the mud & allowing the crud rise to the top. And as Jews like to say, history repeats itself which is why the Jew is once again usurping a country through Deep Pockets & propaganda activism in order to institutionalize the now weak & ignorant minds they created while controlling the rational rest thru fear until they go along with crazy & corrupt in order to get along….. This is how the parasitic Jews overthrows from the inside out. This is why the parasitic Jew needs regulation if we can't put them in ghettos & gulags like they're doing to us effectively & institutionally.

….. Meanwhile, remember that DNA tests prove that ethnic, Jewish men (Invaders) were guilty of pulling a Jeffrey Epstein on European, peasant women in order to procure a European admixture before experiencing a bottleneck population which is completely indicative of ghetto containment and in time with it. In other words, raw facts do not conform with the sugarcoated ambiguities of faux, Jewish educators on Quora with their improvised & self-soothing lies of Jewish women being raped during the fairly recent pogroms which satisfies their need to self-preserve ego while vilifying others with nonsense explains any European admixture.

…….. Oh, and the Palestinians have been victims of institutionalized rape since the inception of Israel of along with biological warfare which is indicative of their true nature and what they were doing in Europe, not of European imperialism being that Jews have always been ridiculed for not being European..

….. But it's all about all about creating infighting within the West and in the Orient individually while pitting the two against each ultimately. In the midst of it all, it's about vying for the upper hand & pushing disinformation to normalize their own atrocities because we all have to hate who the Jew wants us to hate and the Jew is the only one that's allowed to commit atrocities by delegitimizing people when they themselves have no legitimacy which they themselves have legalized either by brainwashing OR by nailing down their brainwashing by crafting bogus laws.

Everything I've just described is the playbook of Donald Trump's Religious Liberty Commission in terms of how Jews bully, badger, evade & throw people off balance by using left-field zingers & total fabrications to serve as a basis of fact from which everyone must play off of.

Subject: [EXTERNAL] Stop Wasting Your Time Working With the Nigerian Government — You Are Putting the Lives of American Citizens at Risk

Date: Sun, 05 Apr 2026 00:35:25 -0400

Importance: Normal

Your Excellency Mr. President Trump,

Thank you for all the wonderful work you are doing to help save the world from terrorism and violence, especially in places like Iran and Nigeria. I believe you are God-sent, and I pray God continues to bless and strengthen you, Sir.

I am writing to speak from my heart about Nigeria and the only solution to stop terrorists and drug cartels in Nigeria. Be aware that the president and the vice president are part of the them. so working with them is already is a mistake. Nigeria is facing a grave crisis. Violent extremist groups continue to kill, kidnap, and attack Christians.

Nigeria is another country that seriously needs help. Terror has spread so deeply into the country that many people believe the nation has already been captured. The system is no longer working for the people, and citizens live under fear, pain, intimidation, and silence.

I strongly believe that sending soldiers will not solve Nigeria's problem. It will be a complete waste of time. The real solution is much simpler and more powerful: let the Nigerian people freely choose and vote for the leaders they want. But this is exactly what is being denied.

Sir, all Nigeria needs from you is your voice. You do not need to waste your soldiers. You only need to send a strong open warning that elections in Nigeria must not be rigged and that people must be allowed to vote freely, safely, and without fear. People are intimidated, threatened, and forced during elections, and that is why many are afraid to come out and vote.

Many Nigerians also believe that the present leadership is deeply connected to corruption, criminal influence, and the forces behind terror and instability. These are serious concerns that have destroyed public trust and left many citizens feeling abandoned.

Your voice alone can give Nigerians courage. If you speak clearly and strongly, and say, "Do not rig the election. Let the people vote their choice," it will give hope to millions. It will make people believe they are not alone and that the world is watching. Mr. President, the fear of your name President Trump is the beginning of wisdom, because when you speak, those doing evil know that the world is watching.

Many Nigerians know that the last election was rigged and that justice was not fairly done afterward. That is why your voice is urgently needed now. You are the only president that can speak in a way the world will listen to.

Have you asked yourself why nobody sponsoring terrorism has been brought to justice, and why major drug smugglers have not been arrested? I say this because I have seen evidence that points to involvement and protection from the highest level of power.

Once this error is corrected, one day is enough to begin stopping terrorists and drug lords in Nigeria. That is why I respectfully say: stop wasting time sending soldiers when the real solution is to do the right thing and defend the people's right to choose their leaders freely.

Nigeria is a very important country in Africa. If Nigeria is free, terrorism across Africa will be greatly weakened. The biggest problem Africa has now is Nigeria, because the country has been captured and is being ruled by terrorists, drug lords, and the president and his people.

Please, Mr. President, speak for Nigeria. Speak openly and strongly so that the people can vote without being killed, threatened, or silenced. Let Nigeria have the right to choose its leaders in peace. That one action can help solve much of the terror and suffering in the country.

Please, President and defender of freedom, lend your voice. Nigeria needs it. The people need it. Democracy needs it.

God bless you, and God bless the United States of America.

Subject: [EXTERNAL] Urgent Appeal for U.S. Action on Terrorism, Drug Cartels, and Election Rigging in Nigeria

Date: Sun, 05 Apr 2026 00:21:10 -0400

Importance: Normal

Your Excellency Mr. President Trump,

Thank you for all the wonderful work you are doing to help save the world from terrorism and violence, especially in places like Iran and Nigeria. I believe you are God-sent, and I pray God continues to bless and strengthen you, Sir.

I am writing to speak from my heart about Nigeria and the only solution to stop terrorists and drug cartels in Nigeria. Be aware that the president and the vice president are part of the them. so working with them is already is a mistake. Nigeria is facing a grave crisis. Violent extremist groups continue to kill, kidnap, and attack Christians.

Nigeria is another country that seriously needs help. Terror has spread so deeply into the country that many people believe the nation has already been captured. The system is no longer working for the people, and citizens live under fear, pain, intimidation, and silence.

I strongly believe that sending soldiers will not solve Nigeria's problem. It will be a complete waste of time. The real solution is much simpler and more powerful: let the Nigerian people freely choose and vote for the leaders they want. But this is exactly what is being denied.

Sir, all Nigeria needs from you is your voice. You do not need to waste your soldiers. You only need to send a strong open warning that elections in Nigeria must not be rigged and that people must be allowed to vote freely, safely, and without fear. People are intimidated, threatened, and forced during elections, and that is why many are afraid to come out and vote.

Many Nigerians also believe that the present leadership is deeply connected to corruption, criminal influence, and the forces behind terror and instability. These are serious concerns that have destroyed public trust and left many citizens feeling abandoned.

Your voice alone can give Nigerians courage. If you speak clearly and strongly, and say, "Do not rig the election. Let the people vote their choice," it will give hope to millions. It will make people believe they are not alone and that the world is watching. Mr. President, the fear of your name President Trump is the beginning of wisdom, because when you speak, those doing evil know that the world is watching.

Many Nigerians know that the last election was rigged and that justice was not fairly done afterward. That is why your voice is urgently needed now. You are the only president that can speak in a way the world will listen to.

Dear Sirs and Madams,
The state of Rhode Island is marking Christians as mentally ill. I have court documents in my possession that state,

"He lives in another reality because he's hyper-religious...he thinks he is precognitive and telepathic...he thinks he is a prophet."

Yes, there is more to the story there always is but I have a bonafide high level spiritual gifts of prophetic foresight, discernment and knowings, the state calls "precognition and telepathy."

"Identifying current threats to domestic religious liberty," is one of your stated missions. Just consider me God's undercover agent--0011. Why 0011? Joseph was the eleventh son.

This is my second contact with the commision. Be advised this issue will not quietly go away. I will be speaking shortly and it will go viral...and no it is not your idea of a pretty little picture perfect scenario. It is the cross. It is bloody, full of shame and oh so ugly. I can assure you, God did this, and meant it for good, but He requires your involvement. Also, be advised, many police, agents, judges and some rubbing shoulders are involved. God is the Hunter, Fisher and Trapper of all Hunters, Fishers and Trappers and you've all been snared. The Council of God is hopeful you all don't turn this into a full on GOP coverup for 'other' reasons while you quietly allow the DEMS to mark the House of Joseph. We shall 'see.' Please advise and...who would like the Cup in their sack?

Most Sincerely,

Rights Against Abusive Guardianship
If you are under a guardianship that is restrictive or abusive, you have the right to:
Challenge the Guardianship: You can petition the court to terminate or modify the guardianship, especially if it was "wrongly imposed" or if you now have the capacity to make your own decisions.
Seek Legal Representation: You have the right to a lawyer during commitment and guardianship hearings. While "legal ghosts" (those under guardianship) may struggle to find representation, legal advocacy groups can help challenge these constraints.

my legal family rights against religious family rituals if im dealing with extended family as an adult

+11
As a legal adult (18+) in the United States, you have an absolute right to choose your own religion, worship differently, or practice no religion at all, regardless of the beliefs of your extended family. Extended family members—including parents, grandparents, or in-laws—have no legal authority to impose religious rituals, demand attendance at services, or force participation in practices on an adult.

Avvo
Your Legal Rights and Protections
Freedom of Association and Conscience: As an adult, you are free to refuse to attend religious services, ceremonies, or rituals. Your First Amendment rights protect you from government interference, but also mean your family cannot legally compel you to participate in religious activities.
Protection Against Harassment: Extended family members cannot legally harass, threaten, or intimidate you regarding your faith or lack thereof.
Protection of Your Immediate Household: If you are married or have children, extended family members (including grandparents) have limited rights to impose their religion on your household. Parents have the primary legal right to control their children's upbringing.

JustAnswer
Important Practical Limitations
While you have the legal right to refuse, your legal protections differ based on your living situation:
If you live in their home: Parents can set rules for their home, including requiring attendance at religious services as a condition of living there. If you are an adult living with them, they can lawfully ask you to move out if you do not follow their rules.

If you are financially dependent: They cannot physically force you to practice, but they can cut off financial support.
Steps to Take When Dealing with Extended Family
Set Clear Boundaries: Communicate directly and calmly that you are not participating in certain rituals. You do not need to justify your beliefs or lack thereof.
Establish Independence: If you are experiencing high levels of control, establishing financial and residential independence is the most effective legal protection, as it removes their ability to condition your life on religious conformity.
Document Harassment: If pressure turns into threats, harassment, or unlawful intimidation, you should document these incidents, which could be relevant for seeking protective orders.

my legal rights against religious rituals

You have the legal right to be free from government-mandated religious rituals, coerced participation in religious activities at work or school, and harassment or discrimination based on your non-belief. The First Amendment protects freedom from religion, while anti-discrimination laws (Title VII) protect employees from forced religious practices.

U.S. Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (.gov)
Key Legal Protections Against Religious Rituals:
Freedom of Conscience & Non-Belief: The Supreme Court has affirmed that the right to exercise religion includes the right not to practice, and the right to hold no religious beliefs at all.
Government Neutrality (Establishment Clause): Federal, state, and local governments cannot mandate, fund, or participate in religious rituals. Public schools, for instance, cannot lead prayers, read scripture, or organize religious events.
Workplace Protection (Title VII): Employers cannot force you to participate in religious activities (prayers, rituals, meetings) as a condition of employment. You are protected from harassment, such as offensive remarks, forced rituals, or severe, persistent pressure to join in religious practices.
Protection from Private Coercion: While the First Amendment applies to government, other civil rights laws protect you from being harassed or discriminated against in housing or public accommodations by private actors due to your refusal to partake in their religious rituals.

Actions You Can Take:
Document Everything: Keep detailed records of dates, times, people involved, and exactly what occurred.

Report Workplace Violations: File a complaint with your HR department and consider filing a charge with the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (EEOC) within 180 days (or 45 days for federal employees).
Contact Advocacy Groups: Organizations like the ACLU or specialized groups like Americans United for Separation of Church and State can provide legal assistance if public officials are forcing rituals on you.

Exceptions:
Public accommodation and safety laws can sometimes interact with religious freedom, but the law requires that religious freedom cannot be used to cause direct, significant harm or force others to participate.

Subject: [EXTERNAL] Thank You and Recommendations: Protecting Religious Exemptions in the Final Report
Date: Tue, 31 Mar 2026 14:43:49 -0400
Importance: Normal

Dear Chairman Patrick, Director Bush and Members of the Religious Liberty Commission,

I am writing to express my deep gratitude for the Commission's decision to highlight the urgent issue of religious exemptions to vaccine mandates during the March 16th hearing on religious liberty in healthcare and social services. The compelling testimony from Dr. Aaron Kheriaty and the Costine and Amigon families brought national attention to the real harms being suffered by religious families in medical settings across the country and in educational settings in states like NY, CA, CT and ME.

I respectfully request that the Commission prioritize the following policy recommendations in its final report and presentation to President Trump. The first three were included in our original coalition letter in June 2025, and the remaining build directly on the testimony and themes discussed across all six hearings you have held.

• Protect Religious Freedom in Education through Executive and Legislative Action: Issue an Executive Order barring discretionary federal funds from being used to support any educational service agency, state educational agency, local education agency, elementary school, secondary school, or institution of higher education that does not permit religious exemptions to vaccination requirements. Congress should then enact a statute to codify this policy, ensuring alignment with First Amendment protections and safeguarding the rights of religious families to access education without compromising their faith. Rep Steube and Rep Boebert have written letters in support of additional Executive Action.

• Initiate Legal Action and Enforce the Free Exercise Clause: Notify the Attorney General that New York, California, Connecticut, and Maine are in violation of the Free Exercise Clause. Request they initiate appropriate legal action against these states to enforce constitutional protections for religious families so they can access education without compromising their faith. Thirteen members of Congress have written a letter in support of this recommendation.

• Protect Access to Healthcare for Religious Families: Direct the Department of Health and Human Services to issue guidance or regulations prohibiting medical providers receiving federal funds, such as through Medicare or Medicaid, from denying non-emergency care to patients based on religious objections to vaccinations, and collaborate with Congress to enact a statute codifying this protection. This would ensure that religious families maintain access to essential healthcare services without compromising their faith, reinforcing First Amendment protections against discriminatory practices.

• Miller v. McDonald (2d Cir. 24-681 – Amish school vaccination case): As raised by Mr. Kelly Shackelford at the healthcare hearing, if Miller v. McDonald returns to the Supreme Court after the Second Circuit's remand decision, the Commission should recommend that the Solicitor General file a supportive amicus curiae brief -- or that the Court issue a Call for the Views of the Solicitor General (CVSG) -- to strengthen the Free Exercise and parental-rights claims and align with the administration's religious-liberty priorities.

• Restore & Enforce Conscience Protections for Vaccine Mandates in Healthcare & Education: As raised by Ms. Kristen Waggoner at the first hearing, the Commission should recommend that the President direct HHS to fully restore and strengthen the HHS Conscience and Religious Freedom Division, aggressively enforce existing federal conscience statutes, and issue comprehensive nationwide guidance that protects sincere religious objections to vaccine mandates by healthcare providers in employment settings, by patients in medical practice and hospital/treatment admission settings, and by families in school immunization requirements. Because HHS cannot condition core K-12 education funding, the recommendation should also direct the Department of Education to establish (or strengthen within its Office for Civil Rights) a dedicated religious-conscience enforcement function and issue parallel guidance protecting school religious exemptions. These actions can be implemented immediately through executive authority and would directly end religious discrimination nationwide.

• Ensure Vaccine Religious Objections Are Integrated Into the Commission's Core Recommendations: Given that the Commission's final report to the President will need to prioritize a focused set of recommendations, wherever the Commission recommends conscience protections for healthcare providers, withholding federal funding from entities that compel participation in practices that violate religious conscience, stronger parental rights to direct children's upbringing and medical decisions, protecting faith-based schools' institutional autonomy, or strengthening Free Exercise protections, it should also explicitly extend those same protections to sincere religious objections to vaccine mandates in employment, medical treatment, and school immunization settings. This will integrate strong vaccine-related religious-liberty protections into the Commission's highest-priority items without adding separate recommendations.

I would be happy to provide any additional materials or schedule a time to discuss these recommendations further. Thank you again for your leadership in defending religious liberty. I look forward to the final report and its impact on the President's agenda and for families across the nation. God is moving on behalf of our children, and I trust they are safe in your hands.

In faith and freedom,

Dive right into my cover letter which is now an addendum. The first page will tell my readers everything about my grand finale month of April. Of course, my latest post is up which is devoted to the religious liberty commission that violates everyone's civil rights except for Jews. No offense, but it's a great example of getting Jewed.

For now, Trump's bullshit, Religious Liberty Commission needs a good pogrom in terms of Jewish terrorism that always comes cloaked as activism in search of idiot pawns which in this case is the Evangelical ISIS, lunatic fringe ever since Redneck became the New Black when Jews threw black people under the bus next to people like myself and all because they wouldnt help them out in terms of silencing Palestinian genocide!....

As usual, I will be as offensive as I want to be & I hope I speak for the silent majority AND ALL OF IRAN & MENA,

Dear Readers, Anti-Trumpists, Disappointing Centrists in powers of position & Concerned Citizens of the Terrorist States of America (neé the "Redneck Jew.S.A")

I'm winding down my email campaign in a REALLY BIG way. I told you all that my grand, finale email would be to Trump's Religious Liberty Commission. Well, that final seed grew into a tree. In other words, my grand finale will be a set of six installments & three, backlogged supplemental writings from a couple of years ago.

In fact, consider this cover letter to be an addendum as it's going to be longer than I expected due to my presidential nominees for next term along with an ending I wish I had put in my latest post regarding Trump Terrorism and how it mirrors Jewish terrorism by stonewalling people with wise ass activism & pivoting tactics while cloaking themselves with imbeciles. I'm not sure why nobody's sending them to detention hall which in this case is called Guantanamo Bay.

Speaking of my latest post… https://thomasgober.com/trumps-religious-liberty-commission-is-jewish-terrorism-cloaked-in-activism/

…. And please keep in mind that Instagram links don't always pop up as intended which is why I give a description of my post. Thus, if it doesn't match the description, then refresh.

.....The first installment is now posted on my website and it's addressed to the mooks & terrorist-activists of the Religious Liberty Commission. This one came in at 50 pages. I amaze myself! The next installment is going to be released in a few days and it comes in at around 23 pages. The final four installments will be about 14 pages each. Of my three supplemental readings, one will be about 15 pages & the other two in their mid-20's. I'll be releasing about two a week throughout the month of April.

For now, this one is for the attorneys AND everyone who's concerned about their own liberty--- not Jews first. If anything, this writing has served to remind me of the nation's need for a counter-terrorist organization to counteract the lulling effect of Jewish terrorism. This shrine to sanity would be outfitted with a few honest Jews who aren't getting enough credit right now like Mikey Weinstein of the Military Religious Freedom Foundation wherein he has sounded a disturbing alarm on Pete Hegsweth.

I'm absolutely stunned that a common, low-brow thug like Pete hasn't been placed in front of a firing squad alongside Donald Trump. South Korea can take care of their Presidential coup problem in a matter of weeks, BUT WE CAN'T?? That's what we should have been working on, not glorifying hags like E.Jean Carroll. Thanks to that distraction, we now have Pete Hegsweth serving as living proof that January 6th rioters haven't gone away--- they've only been promoted! Meanwhile, Donald is using politics to pay off any legal bills.

..... I can't believe this shady clown is our president--- the great businessman an uneducated MAGA wants to uplift. Note, this is the crap Trump shovels when he doesn't have mob money backing him.

….. Of course, Trump's chicanery & thievery is perfectly in step with his overall destruction of the foundations of the country which includes his terrorist attacks on a multitude of foreign countries done without support from Congress whenever he can catch his breath from committing criminally inspired, revenge agendas instead of being treated in a mental health institution like the dementia-ridden, megalomaniac & crazed codger that he truly is. For now, let Trump put his stolen money where his mouth is by sending Baron to war then we can all watch Pete make a man out of Baron.

.....Meanwhile, nobody's pointing the finger at Marc Rowan, Leon Black & Josh Harris who are literally the MOTHERNEST OF CORPORATE FRAUD SCHEMES as they siphon the insurance industry at breakneck speed while these pieces of Epstein shit serve on Donald Trump's, bullshit Board of Peace which of course, is a form of Jewish terrorism that always blatantly hides it's ulterior motives behind sham activism.

What Luigi Mangione did that day is absolutely no different then how Jewish terrorism drives civilians to become suicide bombers NOR is it unlike the young, ill-prepared kid who approached Mar-A-Lago with a gun & a can of gasoline before being shot down, ridiculed & the left then vilified. In a sane world, every January 6th rioter who contributed to attacking police while trying to subvert this country's election system should have been mowed down with bullets with only a few lives spared to testify against Donald Trump.

These ridiculous pieces of pussy who lack any redeeming qualities are the very definition of backlash as they serve as an example of what happens after decades of Jews stirring up the mud & scaring off the moderates. The only people willing to speak up to the lunacy of a nation that uplifts Michael Brown, George Floyd, Rodney King, border-jumpers & big, ugly men in bathing suits are these people. The left wing got what they deserved and if it weren't for these student protesters we would never have come back to Center which is what old white men don't understand.

.....I just hope that Thomas Massie takes it upon himself to run on the Republican ticket once this catastrophe known as a Trump administration is over so that he can bring the Republicans back to Center--- back to the 1970s. This includes a restoration of environmental safety measures & Roe vs Wade which will involve the necessary, legal prosecutions against unethical & duplicitous Supreme Court justices. Many people need to be tried for treason and this obviously includes Ted Cruz, JD Vance, Jared Kushner and Marco Rubio who are all not stupid enough to be included alongside Mary Franson & Michelle Tafoya

……. Needless to say, we also need to be passing laws that forbid people like Sen. Rick Scott from even running for office being that they are the most felonious, white-collar criminals on the planet who are getting into politics to pay off their legal debts & to sew the seeds of cronyism scams.

In other words, Kamala Harris please fuck off and take your transsexual & border jumpers who are too stupid to use their local, immigration office with you. ….But the second that middle-class blacks called it out then years of Jewish activism which went into DEI was thrown under the bus while the white man and their resentment was harnessed by low-lifes like Bill Ackman….the hand that giveth taketh away. In other words, Jews like Bill Ackman are trying to induce an amnesia effect to make people forget where their anger came from which includes "pretend", leftist Jews having made them all doormats to transgenders & border jumpers until the student-protesters became the long-awaited, outspoken center who understood what their all white people knew before them except for a dumbed down Gen X.

…. In tandem to Bill harassing Harvard & instigating hate crimes against Claudine Gay by bringing up ad hominem factors such as her race, this was where whiny, self-absorbed Jews with a skewed view of reality such as Shabbos Kastenbaum colluded with a shyster attorney like Marc "Watch Your Back, Bitch" Kasowitz in order to attack the financial foundations of Harvard. Again, not unlike hedge fund hyenas …. Speaking of Marc Kassowitz, maybe that Cardinal who the Pope had arrested for stealing $270,000 from a Palestinian relief fund should give Marc a call so we can all bear witness to the only time anyone will hear of Jews defending a Catholic cardinal for his crimes.

…. After October 7th, the alt-left was ignored while Gen X stuck its head in the sand in a state of cognitive dissonance after years of being told to kiss the Jew's ass along with their Rodney King pawns. This is when Trump's redneck became the new black for the Jew who after decades readily threw their civil rights activism under the bus then ushered in Trump to make sure it stuck.

….This is what's been working around the clock to create a divisive atmosphere in which the Jew always comes out on top being portrayed as the heroic, voice of reason while the white man is the perpetual the villain for not being a doormat. The black man is now feeling the same as they're white counterparts while Asians are being weaponized as the New White Meat & Redneck is the New Black.

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Maki_(political_party)

Walking in the footsteps of Shabbos Kastenbaum, Donald Trump's terrorist attack upon our closest Middle Eastern ally--- IRAN--- mirrors what he's done to our schools (Columbia/UPenn/Harvard) & institutions in order to allow for Jewish terrorism to rule our lives from which he profits. This was the same problem happening before World War II. In other words, Donald Trump is the biggest traitor to the white man AND to the entire human race. He's their chimp & a total chump! His family is in heaven shaking their heads at their idiot progeny.

.... I swear to God I hope Dementia Don receives a rundown on my final emails especially as I've already stated how he could have gotten a lot richer by NOT betraying everyone in order to serve as the Jews' puppet who're nothing more than the original & ugly-ass ISIS that invaded Europe in the Middle Ages armed with a haggling niche & a victimology agenda who wanted to wear our skins then call it their own AND STILL DO!!..... Ivanka's rape camp of a marriage is proof of that.

….. These slumlords have the nerve to go back to Belarus to harass the natives like the junkyard Jews that they are wherein they lord over the natives for not defending despicable Jews like them in WW2 who only inspire pogroms……And to add insult to injury, the slimy sons have taken white women & slapped Jewish labels on them which is ground zero for Jewish terrorism.

…..But that doesn't stop the anti-goyism on Quora from making up hate speech cloaked in victimology by accusing pogrom rapes as being the cause for mixing between Jews and Europeans despite DNA test proving otherwise.... Again, Jewish incursions have always been about the Arabs land, the white man's woman & institutional control of both. Not racist, just reality and it's proven every time I listen to the Jew running the dumb goyim in circles over at the RLC. Again, a Jewish terrorists love idiots & accomplices! Dan Patrick is of course the idiot.

The Jew's unrelenting, terrorization playbook relies on pitting people against each other & exploiting weak links in society who will serve as their gullible pawns while making power grabs as the victim & the defender of humanity even as they sugarcoat nonsense & overreach that works against AND encroaches upon the mainstream while making the other 98% out to be the bad guy for not going along with it!!.

.... If sugar coating doesn't work then exploit loopholes & create bogus laws all accompanied with sham activism that acts as a surrogate for the Jews' obnoxious, loud mouth that badgers people into the ground by making false allegations stick. Nobody can defend themselves because any act of self-defense is called anti-Semitic. In other words, what Jews call hate crimes against Jews is often nothing more than standing up to bullies in what constitutes an act of counterterrorism….. Like physically having to manhandle a person to kick them out of a bar.

Prime example: Me telling this gravelly-voiced, Jewish woman I used to work with that the only reason William Shatner or Kirk Douglas made it in Hollywood was because they didn't look Jewish. In other words, more European, but definitely not Semitic or Mediterranean. Now keep in mind that this was a woman who would always say that Jews and Italian were very similar being that better looking Jews like to pass for Italian. But in my case, she begins chanting back and forth anti-Semitic at which point I interrupt her Wailing Wall moment to tell her that they are not Semitic, but this total kike just kept continuing her chanting of that's anti-Semitic because this is how a psychopathic culture gets the upper hand instead of reprimanded..

This is how the Jew gets up in your face followed by trying to report you to someone who doesn't like you in the first place OR to someone who's just plain unfit and stupid in their Pavlovian response to the word Jew because this is how the Jew violates your civil rights. It's about keeping the rational ones on a short & unjustifiable leash that is built on Jewish discrimination & apartheid cloaked in victimology & vilification schemes of the other guy. This is not unlike what hedge fund hyenas did in the early 2000s to make out for themselves.

…. Again, this is why the Jews were contained in ghettos. It's about the protection of natives, but instead of admitting to this the Jew just recycles it for their own victim card ammunition. Meanwhile, expect a misguided narrative to such things as blood libel from the Middle Ages which is what Jews now put on Arabs today with their debunked, baby heads propaganda.

….Next, imagine that I had taken a baseball bat & beaten my former vitriolic Jew of a co-worker who wouldn't stop chanting anti-Semitic with this smirk on her face which was just about as believable as when Donald Trump tries it. Why should I be charged with a hate crime? Am I supposed to walk away or just spit in her face? She is the carping kike that controls society and anyone who doesn't see this is terminally naïve or just plain stupid.

After all, nothing proves it more than Jews trying to take control of this nation's universities through victimology resulting in $100 million settlements at Columbia based on false allegations of anti-Semitism despite their own provable concealment of Israeli genocide & blatant harassment of others which they deflect thru the vilification schemes of others which Jews get to stick thanks to crooked, Jewish gangster attorneys posing as defenders of humanity as opposed to Jewish Supremacy.

Nonetheless, it constitutes hate speech and hate crimes and defamation from attorneys who are guilty of cronyism schemes & it's no different from that of hedge fund hyenas ir Shabbos Kastenbaum. In other words, the so-called civil rights attorneys who once glorified ghetto thugs to raise widespread, *systemic" criticisms of the white man which they can't raise about themselves has once again, pivoted in order to regain the victim card by once again, compromising the white man's civil rights in his situation in which we now see the tail wagging the dog which only proves that the Jew needs to be regulated because they are systemically controlling and undermining the mainstream through victimology.

 Read Katherine Franke's personal statement.

But back to my former coworker, a woman who had preemptively admitted that she understood that Jewish is an ethnic group of Near Eastern people who nonetheless tried to terrorize me, vilify me while inciting hate for rational victims by weaponizing ignorance instilled through peer pressure tactics of idiot bystanders just to preserve her ego & to claim people she's proud of for not looking Jewish and all through the use of a command word known as anti-Semitic which allows her to effectively commit racial theft & subjugation. If we were to kill somebody like that out of self-defense AND were able to successfully block Jewish gangster attorneys, I guarantee you that we would live in a peaceful society. Meanwhile, valid complaints from Leonard Nimoy go unheard because that was a guy who was discriminated against for looking like a true ethnic Jew.

 Katherine Frankel stops by Columbia University to see much it's changed. To be honest, it sound like life in the '80s outside of the South wherein white kids were dumbed downed & their minds institutional or at least scared into walking on eggshells for the endemic Jewish personality disorder and its lies.

….. In case you missed it, American Jews want to sign up to fight for Israel to exterminate Palestinian children AND HAVE THE U.S. PAY FOR IT. This is whenever the Jew isn't attacking the white man for not stopping Hitler for exterminating Jewish children who may or may not have been real Jews as opposed to products of successive generations of white concubines who converted because Jewish men don't want to have to look at anyone who looks like Anne Frank who looks like a real Palestinian. (Pg. 19).

Subverting the white mainstream & degrading it is what the Jew teaches white people to do to all rational, white people while thinking of themselves as smart & noble. Likewise, it's what they teach minorities in terms of treating white people, but now they're doing it to black people. Unfortunately, some angry white people, typically men, are playing right into it while never seeing the true source of their anger, just the pawns. This is how they get kicked out of 109 countries or at least a handful of countries up to 109 times.

 I find the following Jewish girl In the link below so offensive and in the same way as my fat, Jewish grid leader from the Harvard's Ashkelon excavation who in a very Uncle Tom way constantly tried to identify very loudly as being Ukrainian despite the fact that she and her daughter look like Kathy Najimi & Nikki Blonski. In other words, a couple of fat Jews.

https://www.heyalma.com/baba-yaga-is-my-other-slavic-jewish-grandmother/

……The simpleton writing this article looks like a friend of mine whose father was Lebanese and Persian, yet she identifies herself as Ukrainian and her grandmother as "Slavic Jewish" which is an oxymoron. It's "Semitic Jewish" as those two things have always been interchangeable & I have NEVER in my life heard a Jew refer to themselves as Slavic and Jewish with those two words only being possible if you're not dealing with an ethnic Jew and somebody who just converted.

……. It's like my Ukrainian friend asked me, why do Jews pretend that they're the same thing as us when they look completely different? But if they don't look Jewish, then they're products of racial parasitism of the native people which is the fundamental element of Jewish terrorism that they try to normalize by faking it till they make it at which point they'll either pretend it's just a religion OR they'll pretend that a Near Eastern, bottleneck race can look just like the natives.

The noodlehead who wrote this article is displaying a classic case of Jewish, cognitive dissonance as she complains about Jewish physical stereotypes subliminally embedded in the baba Yaga myth despite her theory being not only speculation, but a testimony to the Jewboys foreign status as an inbred, Middle Eastern splinter group. Slavic people like myself are sick and tired of Jewfaces like her misappropriating & misrepresenting our heritage by trying to blur the lines between race & religion.

This is what was called the Jewification of Europe and it's the lulling effect of Jewish terrorism whether it be corporate terrorists like Marc Rowan who're siphoning the reinsurance industry then looking to blame something else for the next financial collapse when they're not harassing professors at universities into suppressing Israeli atrocities and destroying the futures of their students who don't effectively kiss a kike's ass….

….. OR maybe it's Jews who're parasitizing white people and calling them Jews like Ivanka Trump OR Israel Cohen and the Jewish, long game that dumbs down white kids with white guilt to make them into doormats which they could bulldoze over. Black people were just pawns in their sham activism meant only to be pitted against whites like chess pieces & disposed of when they no longer serve their purpose.

……. The native people of the Ukraine are Slavic and she's a foreigner of Semitic descent, yet she's more passive aggressive than Putin who is Slavic and sees Ukrainians as little Russians….For now, if "Hey Alma"--- who serves as the online publishers for these half-truths--- wants to contact me for a proper definition of anti-Semitism, then they can. But I think the proper definition of anti-goyism is more important..

……. Also, if Hey Alma has a problem with being told they're foreigners, then dispose of the word Semitic. Likewise, there are no negative stereotypes or tropes about Jews, just facts. Blood libel is going on right now in occupied Palestine and mostly because the Jewish, cognitive dissonance of the Ashkenazi Jew does not want to get in touch with their Middle Eastern Heritage and nothing is more evident of this than the fact that when you look at Jew cartoons, you're looking at the Washington Post's anti-Semitic portrayal of Hamas which is identical to that of Jews. In other words, this is institutionalized anti-Semitism. In Israel, Mizrahi Jews are the ones dumbed down by Jews and used to do the dirty work just like Jews did to white, Gen X in America.

...This is exactly why these obnoxious, ill-mannered foreigners--- *a splint*er group if not a cult from the near east--- were contained in ghettos for the protection of natives who could not afford to leave themselves as sitting ducks to these scams, but natives who also understood their niche to society. This is what Donald Trump learns from & utilizes, but without protecting his people, only serving as a puppet for the Jew who's indisputably in charge.

….. In terms of both the Middle East and Europe, Jews do nothing but re-package other people's culture as their own which they then stick a Jewish label on in order to make us all feel beholden to the Jews who brought them so much. There is no Jewish food and their religion is largely that of unfiltered Persian/ Egyptian /Babylonian influences with Jews labels on it. At least Europe filtered Christianity with their own customs, but Jews just outright steal a European Heritage and call it their own.

……But Jews are also profiting off of it while trying to shake down their host countries for restitution OR making outrageous claims of the white man's cultural appropriation for their use of cornbread, but never the black man's. If you call them out on their cultural appropriation of the white man's heritage, they either call you anti-Semitic at which point I say that's the point OR they may improvise by pretending that they are the people of their host country. And again, if I don't agree with that hoax, then I'm an anti-Semitic because they've already rigged the judge and jury. Bottom line, you can't live with people like this without regulations in place.

……The Jew's latest scam is to call me racist for calling Jewish a race despite Jews making racial, ancestral claims to the Middle East & despise the fact that the same people calling me a racist are the same ones who insist that Semitic blood is an all Ashkenazi Jews which brings us full circle to an ethno-linguistic term, not a religion.

……Now the dodgy Jews' latest counter tactic is to pretend that Semitic is just a language group, not a race, despite the complete intellectual dishonesty that goes along with languages also being ethno-linguistic such as Celtic Slavic Germanic. Keep in mind that this is in the minority as other Jews to find that, but it's all about gathering people to your agenda.

….. But it's more than an agenda, it's a way of licking a person's wounds while pretending to be an activist educator. I see this with the faux academic SD Gotein in terms of him penning "Arabs & Jews" which is nothing more than a book of preemptive strikes in which he makes a stupid illustration of black people speaking English, but they're not Anglo-Saxon. In a sane world, this makes him the dumbest kid in the room who the teacher calls on just to be nice while everyone else is snickering.

But in the Jew world which we live in, this makes him an activist educator & a scholar. It's no different than that idiot wife of Carl Sagan who doesn't look all that Jewish which is why he married her, but she still has the same neurosis and persecution complex as seen by her lack of accountability in terms of why she dropped out of college after a professor told her to stop asking stupid questions when she raised her hand to ask if I were the same for all circles. …… Again, she doesn't look Jewish which is why he married her & why that bonehead dropout has now some fake educator position at Cornell & a chance to create to some hippy dippy golden record on a spaceship launch.

 I wish I had found this next video before posting my latest work on the website. Thank you Carrie Prejean Boller for revealing the bigoted & self-serving Jew agenda which unrelentingly tries to cover its ass by playing the victim. It takes a COMPLETE psychopath to pull that charade off which is always accompanied by a smirking face.

https://youtube.com/shorts/-_O12ifYLeM?si=E3Dk22uwzGKItgSM

…....AND thanks Carrie for demonstrating that no legitimate country is built on victimology for the freedom for one religion while marginalizing others AND WHILE inconsistently making genetic, ancestral land claims that were long since abandoned, but which proves that Jewish is not just religion ergo nobody can convert their ethnic group. Any attempt to legitimize such nonsense is an act of aggression, conquest, overreach & parasitism cloaked in a defender of humanity wrapper.

Basically, it's exactly what Jews have always done to the white man & what they're trying to pull off now while playing both sides against the middle. In other words, make the "Jew.S.A" into a subtler version of what the international Jew has already done to Palestine with the main differences being that it's about the white man's woman, the Arab's land & institutional control of both while playing the victim if anyone points it out. It's no different than pitting blacks against white in order to create a divide, not healing, while creating false heroes in the process.

…..In order to pull this sham off, accomplices are needed and that's where Jewish, corporate terrorists & their political whores come in. This is also where these goyim, political whores begin to mimic their handlers via victimology, role-reversal tactics as we've witnessed with Donald Trump & that douchebag Ted Cruz in his interview with Tucker Carlson. In other words, make the good guy into the bad guy.

They've already done it to the peace-loving Palestinians who took them into their homes only to get jewed & kicked out of them while Jewboy News censored everything and set into motion vilification, marketing schemes against people who were fighting for their lives. This is pretty strange for imposters who founded their Neo-Nazi sham of a country on the backs of hotel bombers & three international terrorist groups that formed a paramilitary gestapo organization. Yet Jews have the nerve to ridicule Himmler for being a failed chicken farmer in a horrible economy largely brought on by Jews.

The end game is to institutionally make the other 98% into the 2% --- or close to it. They just have to start by creating the illusion that the heroic, blameless Jew is defending themselves against troublemakers, when in fact they are the troublemakers, but we don't want the new generation of dumbed down & berated goyim to know that cuz we need to nail down the Western world in order to pit them against the East. You can't call them out on it because they have no accountability, only victimology that pivots from every angle.

Ergo, the Jews of the RLC are only out for themselves no different than all their sham activists & media cronies who saw fit to make civil rights heroes out of ghetto thugs for decades until an intelligent, young black man at Harvard broke the "hanging in plain site" story. When Blacks failed to cough up Palestinian blood money, that's when DEI went out the window! I don't believe in coincidences & the RLC'S openly corrupt tactics are identical to the ones used against Carrie Prejean Boller with the exception being that the RLC found the dumbest goy in any room to serve as their easily manipulated mouthpiece instead of Bill Ackman.

Remember, Bill Ackman openly touted hate crimes against Claudine Gay and got away with it by doing what a Jew always does and that is to tap into other people's hate & resentment which the Jews created in the first place, but they need to make you forget that. This of course was followed by creating a distraction via ad hominem, shady intel whose dual purpose was to distract, but also to stir up more hate which of course was shrouded in Jewboy activism.

This is the psychopathology of how the Jew normalizes their hate crimes while getting everyone to seek their approval by seeing them as the voice of reason, not that voice that pits everyone against each other in order to undermine & supplant the mainstream…..AND if anyone calls them out on it, valid complaints are dismantled as being anti-Semitism.

BOTTOM LINE: This effectively means that no one is capable of submitting valid complaints of discrimination against the Jew without being accused of discrimination against Jews. This is the dark creativity of your average Jew who has rigged & hindered the justice system and our ancestors knew their game as so did Helen Thomas who was demonized instead of being treated as a whistleblower.

Yet the old, ACLU Jew & their carping persecution complex doesn't mind cheering on the exit of the only Muslim on the committee as if one of the world's major religions is the problem as opposed to the Bad Apple that spoils the bushel which is the self-centered Jew who is using sham activism to do what they did to the Palestinians by making them go from 90% down to 10% or less, but in the Western World the Jew does it through the use of sham activism & victimology. This is Jewish terrorism & it sets a bad example for others..

QUESTION: If the RLC refuses to acknowledge Israeli genocide & American Jewry's role in it while expressing glee to see the only Muslim woman go, then why can't I freely cheer at my favorite scene in the movie Casino when the cowboy said "it's time to kick a kike's ass out of town".

…… Again, it's like FDR said to his Jewish campaign manager "you don't understand that you're guests living among us" and that's nothing new with the Jew who always vies for the upper hand whether it be thru Palestinian displacement to skew the perspective OR thru the effective apartheid the Jew brings down upon the white man thru the use of psychological warfare which is heavily reliant on dividing people & dumbing down the middle class which takes accomplices & pawns.

In fact, this sham of an organization cannot be allowed to go on without denouncing Israel's treatment of Palestinians. Until that happens, I will never denounce any form of Jewish persecution in Europe because the Jews at the RLC-- and many others--- are living proof of why Jewish persecution was a form of self-defense, NEVER just a greedy King to blame--- that's just Jewish propaganda & half-truths.

The RLC is just a vehicle in terms of how the Jew keeps the ground moving under everyone's feet so that people never come together, only pitted against each other while looking to the Jew for their sage approval which leaves them imbued with a feeling of altruism, albeit narcissism cloaked in altruism. This results in the white man shooting themselves in the foot while facilitating an effective form of apartheid & IT'S EVERYWHERE…

…Idi Amin's son has pointed it out that Israel keeps African countries fighting just as my Arab friends have pointed out that Israel in league with American Jewry--- the international Jew--- keeps Arab countries fighting just as I've pointed out that all the Jews in the US do is to keep everyone fighting & pitted against the white, heterosexual Christian male and there's no greater proof of that than Fox News--- the ultimate backlash!

*Charlie Kirk was the quasi, aright-wing that knew better…
https://youtube.com/shorts/ywDxIrhzud8?si=WtF0HUYB3C0p8WN6

It's all about weakening the mainstream and coming out as the defender of humanity by uplifting underdogs they don't even care about; but more importantly, it's about coming out as the de facto person in charge which is proven by my foreign friends & their fascination with the Jew pandering in this country, which is especially strange to them considering that I'm the only one they ever met who knows what a Jew looks like.

I'm not anti-Semitic, just counter-Semitic which is why I have to point out that many Jews are just anti-American as is the RLC. Its all about psychological bulldozers & constraints in a Western, immigrant country whose nature they can corrupt as they vie to make it their own while using actual bulldozers in the Orient. It's all about make their enemy our enemy who should be our friend because Jews have always been a hate group as Palestinians are not the only people have taken in these shysters before getting the same vilification & alienation scheme set upon them, but that will be in my fifth installment.

……Meanwhile, the RLC is nothing but a passel of anti-Semitic, Nakba-deniers who support Jewish terrorism & expect us all to enslave ourselves by internalizing for the Jew & not for those who the Jew has been wronging because the Jew is under a thin veneer, nothing more than a gestapo activist that'll enforce false labels & Scarlet letters which in itself is a hate crime. One could look at this as peer pressure tactics & self-inducing oneself on toxic empathy by over internalizing for the Jew which is learned helplessness. You can't deny any of this because we're not only already there, we've been there for a long time!

More importantly, the Jew has always exploited our founding father's religious freedom ideal as a loophole for racial theft of European peoples being that it's truly an ethno-religious group in the western world and always has been Remember, Judaism is supposed to be an ancestral religion that legitimizes ethnic land claims in the Levant made by Ashkenazi founders who had abandoned it for a thousand years, yet they are now anxious to bring in converts being that Jews are all about the white man's woman and the Arabs land.

.... This is how Donald Trump supports Jewish terrorism & sells out the white man along with everyone else. The Jews over at the RLC are the snakes in the grass who have made the eternal Jew's notorious form of victimology a joke. Every generation of white people for over a thousand years--- except for a brainwashed by the JewBoy media, Generation X--- has seen through these shysters and would never allow themselves to be controlled by these smirking gangsters who thought they could be the tail that wagged the dog by making us jump through hoops for the word anti-Semitic which is a word that needs to be outlawed as it's nothing more than a social conditioning tactic.

"Indian elephant trainers (mahouts) often control full-grown elephants with a thin rope or simple chain, not through physical strength, but due to "[learned helplessness]". As babies, elephants are chained tightly, causing them to stop struggling after repeatedly failing to break free. Adults remember this struggle and do not try to escape. ".

… This is an apt description of Jewish terrorism for which the RLC's endgame is to regain by allowably strengthening the shoddy ropes thru the use of duplicitous Jews & idiot goyim like the noodlehead Dan Patrick who has more altruistic narcissism than he does half the smarts of those baby elephants.

BOTTOM LINE: The RLC is an atypical vehicle for Jewish, dark creativity whose endgame is to officially institutionalize the insidious, social-conditioning tactics of Jewish, psychological warfare that come second nature to Jewish personality disorder that exists in a perpetual state of self-denial & self-absorption.

There's a GREAT reason why GREAT people have hated Jews and it has nothing to do with blood libel. In modern times, I'm not sure why transparent terrorists like the smirking rabbi are no longer REGULATED or contained in ghettos where they can cry their empty hearts out about anti-Semitism because that will be the only way to keep the other 98% safe from these "run them in circles" hucksters. In fact, I'll be accused of anti-

Semitism for even calling him a terrorist, but I'll be regulating or exposing him before that ever happens.

When that happens, low IQ, good-for-nothing, failing upwards, good old boy trash like Dan Patrick will be out of a job. Note the smirking Rabbi-- who literally is a 1930s Jew cartoon--- as his cohort attempts to pivot Carrie Prejean Boller in Jew circles because these are the openly, play dirty & smugly dishonest attributes of Jewish personality disorder from which Jewish lawyers hail from.

The Jew always says never forget, but the truth is they try to make everyone else forget by self-erasing what they are & why they have always been hated in order to make the younger generation sitting ducks for their victimology, power grabs & "white-guilt" disinformation. Why are they controlling the narrative ?? Why is the younger generation supposed to stew over what their ancestors did in terms of regulating or running Jews out of town? If anything, the incessant Jew-badgering makes it increasingly obvious as to why they did so.

..... In fact, the only lessons that self-absorbed, Jew-skewed victimology-based terrorists learn from their so-called persecutions is how to get sneakier in the future especially through the use of preemptive strike tactics. Moreover, Jews never learn that the worse they get in terms of holding everyone's head underwater with these tactics, the worse the so-called collective punishment as it stands to reason that there is an endemic, Jewish Personality Problem. Don't believe me?? Then join me on QUORA as it's swarming with the educator-activist, bullshit artists who cloak their hate speech & evil, inner workings in vilification schemes of the other 98%.

…… Obviously, Jews know that no rational country would Tolerate their tenacious pivoting for the victim card & the subtle word play to gain the upper hand that actually justifies Jewish hatred which they than want you to admit to so they close the anti-Semitic trap. I believe this is called shining someone on.

Is it any wonder why you had a bunch of white people sitting around talking about the final solution being that there's only so much of this "up in your face", cry bullying a person can take before they have to throw them out of one of those proverbial, 109 bars in which they want to play the victim afterwards.

There's only so much Jewish shenanigans cloaked in bogus lawsuits & sham activism any civilized person can take before shoving them either into Ghettos, Gas Chambers & Gulags with the last one basically being a reprogramming camp AND NOT UNLIKE what the entertainment industry has been using for decades on the children of the other 98% in order to brainwash them on toxic empathy for Jews and not anyone else, including the victims of Jews. In other words, the problem isn't us, it's them and it's always been them. There's a huge difference between living peacefully among people versus living passive-aggressively among them. It's the Jew who needs to start being more accommodating, not us.

This sham activism hoax of a religious liberty commission is how the Jew works to monopolize institutions like the media & school curriculum in order to enslave and dumb down the middle class instead of the Jew being regulated. There is no scapegoating or 3° of separation. The Chinese are smart and the white man is stupid, hence, the Chinese would never allow this smart ass badgering. That's how you stop Jew carping--STOP EMPOWERING JEWISH VICTIMOLOGY TERRORISM BY NOT CARING ABOUT BEING THE BAD GUY--- ONLY CARE ABOUT BEING THE RATIONAL GUY!!

IN OTHER WORDS, MOCK & RIDICULE THEIR TACTICS AT EVERY SLEAZY TURN JUST AS YOU WOULD ANY WHITE PERSON WHO PULLED THE SAME REPETITIOUS STUNT BEING THAT IT CONSTITUTES A FORM OF MENTAL TERRORIZATION & CON ARTISTRY. WE CANNOT ALLOW THE JEW TO MAKE RATIONAL LOOK LIKE HATE AND FACTS LOOK LIKE HATE SPEECH. It's time to get angry, not scared. The more they call you an anti-Semite for pointing out their stunt, the more you call them a terrorist, an anti-Semite and a con artist and feel free to do it when you're kicking the shit out of them.

Also feel free to let any white-hating minority who tries to defend these Jewish terrorists, let them know that they're nothing more than white-hating accomplices who inspire white protectionism, not Supremacy. Rep. gene Wu is a great example. Also let a bunch of dumb Gen xers know that they're too stupid to even know what the word anti-Semitic is and that they're nothing but pseudo-intellectual trash who's trying too hard to look like a good person by kissing the ring of their abusers which Jews will try to pretend is conspiracy theory because they've already thought well in advance of how to pervert the obvious.

AGAIN, NO NORMAL COUNTRY WOULD TOLERATE this smug form of chicanery without that country having first been breached on a multiple of levels which includes infiltration of the government & the skewing of the national perspective via the control of the media & the reeducation of the masses under the pretenses of altruism, all in order to ultimately compromise a person's ability to reason.

In other words, brainwashing that starts with the young in order to turn them against the old & oftentimes accompanied by hijacking another group's cause then camouflaging it with your own. Example, black people were the victims of a transatlantic slave trade, but Jews were not the victims of the white, Christians for no good reason.

What we are witnessing today is not just a civil Rights movement for Palestinians, but it's also a civil rights movement for the other 98% that's been kept under the Jew thumb for way too long in which they've been too mentally enslaved to see it & too pitted against each other to focus. But now the Jew is fighting it at every step of the way through sham activism & by hiding behind imbeciles with megalomaniac complexes. Jews just don't want to admit that their hens have come home to roost.

But the name of the game is to suppress the facts, to oppress the people in order to ultimately make the Jew's false reality our reality which not only works against us, but we're told that we're anti-Semitic for not going along with it instead of everyone else regulating the Jew…..But you can't because they've already done what Trump is trying to do now in record speed. In other words, make America stupid and keep them that way. When it falls apart, it's going to fall apart in a very big way.

Pretty soon being anti-Semitic becomes a badge of honor as it means that you're not stupid & you represent counterterrorism. Meanwhile, the few Jews with valid complaints of anti-Semitism slip through the cracks thanks to the majority of Jews with an endemic personality problem.

Again, this is how 2% overthrows the other 98% and for no other reason than they can't bulldoze them out of their homes. Add to this, the screwing of white, non-Semitic women who get Jewish labels slapped on them so that the Anti-Semitic Jew can breed out their Jewface like that of the Rabbi's in that news reel who is undeniably aware that he is exactly what Jews find disgusting.

….. In other words, there's no one more anti-Semitic than the Jews on Trump's commission & your garden-variety, Ashkenazi Jew whether it be anti-Semitism aimed against themselves or against Arabs and anyone who doesn't understand this obviously doesn't understand the Jewish mind that's been living among us for centuries OR they simply don't know what to look for.

This ISIS with a victimology schtick is something we're at fault for empowering as we allow them to make it a competition to not be seen as the bad guy instead of ridiculing it for the hoax that it is. That's how you take away its power. Instead, we allow these badgering, loudmouth, ill-bred, ill-mannered guests living among us to bully us, to ridicule us, to divide us & to label facts as hate speech and vice versa. This is how you get the tail to wag the dog.

Bottom line, I have no problem with being seen as the bad guy if it means cutting off the head of the snake and for no other reason then I know that I'm capable of systematically delineating the criminology behind Jewish victimology & justifying my distrust of them. Columbia University couldn't do it, but I can with Quora. The above video of Carrie Prejean Boller with the despicable rabbi is proof in my favor.

……Like Seinfeld said to his Uncle Leo who always complained about people being anti-Semitic-- CAN YOU BLAME THEM!... There's a deeply-instilled, personality problem endemic with Jews, particularly the ones who have lived among the white man for centuries. They've been at this game a long time & just keep getting better at it.

….. This is once again a Jew attack on the children of America that's not unlike that of the student-protesters OR the dumbing of Gen X, but this time it's not through white guilt indoctrination that's always used to supplant the mainstream by uplifting people they don't care about like black people. It's all about NOT taxing the Jewish billionaires who are attacking our society & our children as Bill Ackman & Marc Rowan have not only proven, but they typify and find support from the less affluent Jews who view them as their spokesman.

….. Note the employees who walked out of Palantir & Google citing AI warfare, surveillance & state power. Reminder, Alex Karp was the one who admitted to having "fantasies of using drone-enabled technology to exact revenge" on his enemies which is all the student protesters, but never the BLM rioters because they were bulldozers against the white mainstream along with law & order. Keep vilifying the white man and glorifying George Floyd in order to clear the way for Jewish Supremacy that always plays the voice of reason & the hero. But then people woke up to the obvious that if BLM mattered than PLM mattered even more.

Note that Alex Karp is allowed to say the following & NOT be run out of town, but I can't say put Jews like him in the ghettoes, gulags & gas chambers where they belong and all because Jews like him have paid off corporate whores while ALL Jews on every level of society have worked over time at dumbing down the middle class & calling it activism.

He has advocated for robust counter-measures, including proposing an "exchange program" for demonstrators to visit North Korea. Protesters often target his company, Palantir Technologies, for its military AI work.

….. Karp says his equipment is targeted, mostly at terrorists, but the project & deflect Jew doesn't understand that the Jew has always been the terrorist & there's no worse terrorist in this world than the one who plays the victim. He's also referred to the student protesters as pagan & cancerous as opposed to him as the wandering, parasitic Jew???..... This is what's called a conflict of interest as these Jews profit by killing Palestinians…... ….Alex Karp is the very definition of the dirty Jew straight out a 1930s cartoon. But like Mort Goldman in that episode of The Family Guy when Mort Saw himself in a Jew cartoon and called it anti-Semitic, Alex Karp is living proof that Jews can't look at themselves honestly in the mirror for what they really are. Instead, they try to vilify anyone who knows what they really are.

Bottom line, when a person has a huckster cornered with facts, all the huckster can do is pretend that they're the victim. That's the Hustler's code..

…This means that we allow ourselves to be bulldozed by preppy terrorists operating under the radar by stealing somebody else's race and calling it their own when they're not shoveling sham activism organizations in order to legitimize it, but to gain privilege and mind control and obedience through institutional control.

In other words, we've given the enemy within control of our minds while the IDF-- which was founded by three International terrorist organizations who bombed the King David hotel in England-- vilifies rational Americans and terrorizes the Middle East ALL from within our national borders. It's just like MOSSAD agents bragging about bombing Gaza from within whereas this country was trying to accommodate Jewish Americans in their quest to go fight for Israel, but. not for America.

> "Legislation has been proposed by U.S. lawmakers to extend employment protections and military benefits to American citizens serving in the Israeli Defense Forces (IDF). ASK BEN: Why doesn't this marginally-employed, Jewish, activist-terrorist & Eddie Munster look-alike—BEN SHAPIRO--- get an honest job before attacking the youth of America for not being able to afford living in the U.S. while not saying ANYTHING about taxing billionaire crooks like Marc Rowan at a grossly disproportionate, lower rate?… Why doesn't Ben admit that Jewish terrorism-cronyism pays his bills ?? Why doesn't Ben ask himself why the Hebes stuck around Europe if it were so horrible to them??

…….Why attack the white man who allowed the Jew to live there, yet annihilate Palestinians for being native to it and then try to delegitimize them in order to legitimize the wandering Jew who should have gone back a thousand years before??? ….. Meanwhile, there are no people of Judea left which is why the DNA samples to cross compare Ashkenazi Jews to them were taken from surrogates which means Palestinians & Druze …. Read more in my latest post!

Anyway, we are a terrorist nation & we're being led by a man who's mentally unfit while everyone underneath him tolerates it only because they're openly criminal as they play the same smug game that the rabbi played with Carrie Prejean Boller. This would be Ted Cruz in his interview with Tucker Carlson. So in other words, you have MAGA & the International Jew. The first component comprises the stupidity & the second comprises the thievery. Re: Submission for April Hearing – Religious Liberty in the Digital Public Square

Dear Commissioners:

On behalf of our client, TruPlay Games, we respectfully submit the enclosed letter and supporting materials for consideration in connection with the Commission's upcoming hearings on religious liberty. The enclosed materials include a copy of a letter previously provided to Senator Ted Cruz, along with other members of Congress, addressing concerns regarding the treatment of religious content by major digital platforms.

TruPlay is a Christian digital media company that creates faith-based, family-friendly gaming content for children. As detailed in the enclosed correspondence, TruPlay has faced repeated advertising rejections and account restrictions from major platforms, including Google and TikTok, based solely on the religious nature of its content—despite that content being lawful and directed to general audiences.

TruPlay's experience reflects a broader concern: that religious viewpoints are being systematically disadvantaged in the digital marketplace. As these platforms increasingly serve as primary channels for communication and content discovery, restricting access for faith-based organizations raises serious questions about the protection of religious liberty in the modern public square.

We submit these materials to highlight the real-world impact of these practices and to inform the Commission of this evolving issue. We respectfully request that TruPlay be given the opportunity to address the Commission directly on this matter at its April hearing. We welcome the opportunity to provide additional information if helpful.

Respectfully submitted,

Re: Systematic Censorship of Christian Content for Children by Google and TikTok

Dear Chairman Cruz:

We write on behalf of our client, TruPlay Games—a Christian digital media company that provides faith-based gaming content for children—to bring to your attention the ongoing and systematic discrimination this Christian content creator has endured from Google and TikTok, among other dominant digital platforms. This discrimination appears to be part of a broader pattern of viewpoint-based censorship that warrants immediate congressional review. Google and TikTok's treatment of family-friendly Christian content raises serious questions about religious discrimination in the digital public square.

TruPlay Games creates and distributes Bible-based video games and entertainment content specifically designed for children and families.[1] Their products include educational games teaching Bible stories, character development through faith-based narratives, and wholesome entertainment alternatives to secular gaming content. The content is explicitly family-friendly with no violent, sexual, or otherwise objectionable material. The content is designed to give parents a trusted platform for their children's screen time. TruPlay's mission is straightforward: transform screen time into opportunities for children to engage with their faith in an age-appropriate, entertaining format. Their business model relies on digital advertising to reach parents seeking faith-based content for their children.

DOJ-RLC Comment-000480

Since TruPlay began advertising in 2023 and continuing through to the present, Google has systematically rejected TruPlay's advertising campaigns under a policy labeled "Religious belief in personalized advertising." This pattern of rejection has occurred with remarkable consistency as applied to TruPlay, with dozens of its advertisements rejected under this policy. TruPlay has attempted to work within Google's systems, filing appeals and modifying ad content repeatedly, yet continues to receive identical rejection notices regardless of changes made to its ads.

Google's advertising policies publicly prohibit advertisers from "selecting an audience based on sensitive information, such as health information or religious beliefs." The clear implication is that the restriction applies to audience targeting—i.e., you cannot show ads specifically to people Google has identified as having certain religious beliefs. This policy, as written, would permit advertising of religious content (books, games, churches, religious education) to general audiences, so long as the advertiser does not specifically target the audience based on the audience's religious status.

In practice, however, Google applies its "Religious belief in personalized advertising" policy to reject advertisements because they contain religious content, regardless of how the audience is targeted. TruPlay's ads do not target audiences based on religious belief—they advertise Christian gaming content to general audiences interested in family entertainment, children's education, and mobile gaming. The rejected advertisements include messaging such as:

- "Turn Game Time Into God Time"
- "Christian Games for Kids"
- "Safe Bible Games for Kids"

These ads target general demographics (parents, families with children, mobile game users) and geographic regions—not audiences selected based on religious belief. Yet, Google has continued to reject them under the religious belief policy. TruPlay's campaigns do not use religious status as a targeting criterion. This suggests Google interprets "personalized advertising" so broadly that virtually any advertising for "religious products or topics" is prohibited, regardless of whether religious groups are targeted at all. If this interpretation is correct, then Google's policy effectively bars practically all advertising for religious content, while the policy language suggests only audience-religion-based targeting is restricted.

TikTok has similarly rejected TruPlay's advertisements, as demonstrated in the attached document. TikTok permanently suspended TruPlay's advertising account on the grounds that the company allegedly failed to comply with TikTok's advertising policies and committed "repeated violations." TikTok's enforcement actions were not tied to unsafe content or any objectionable material. Rather, they stemmed from the religious nature of TruPlay's content and the language used to describe it.

DOJ-RLC Comment-000481

TruPlay's ads on TikTok promote the same family-friendly, age-appropriate Christian gaming content they sought to advertise on Google. These ads were directed to general audiences interested in parenting, children's entertainment, and mobile gaming—not to users selected based on religious belief. Nevertheless, TikTok flagged and rejected TruPlay's advertisements based on the presence of religious terms and themes. In at least one instance, TikTok rejected an advertisement because it included the keyword "church." TikTok treated this religious reference as a policy violation, even though the content itself was non-commercially exploitative, non-political, and entirely appropriate for children and families. In another instance, TikTok even refused to allow TruPlay to run ads if TruPlay included a cartoon image of Jesus on the cross as one of the Apple App Store preview pictures, regardless of the content of any particular advertisement. Simply having a picture of Jesus was enough to ban advertisements.

After multiple ad rejections, TikTok escalated its enforcement by permanently suspending TruPlay's advertising account, citing alleged "repeated violations" of its advertising policies. This escalation occurred despite TruPlay's efforts to modify ad language, remove flagged terms, and comply with platform guidance. The permanent suspension effectively bars TruPlay from advertising on one of the largest digital platforms used by parents and families, solely because TruPlay's content is openly Christian.

TikTok's actions mirror Google's in both substance and effect. Although TikTok's policies, like Google's, purport to regulate advertising practices neutrally, they are enforced in a manner that treats religious content itself as disfavored. The result is a de facto ban on advertising Christian children's content, even when advertisers comply with neutral targeting requirements and offer content that is safe, lawful, and family-friendly.

Importantly, Google and TikTok required TruPlay to pay for these advertising campaigns in advance, yet when TruPlay's advertisements were rejected, the company received no refund and no advertising value in return. The rejected ads did not run and reached no users, despite TruPlay having paid for placement on Google and TikTok's platforms. As a result, TruPlay incurred direct financial losses while being denied any opportunity to reach potential customers. This practice compounds the discriminatory effect of Google and TikTok's policies by imposing economic penalties on religious advertisers whose content is categorically barred.

Such an approach creates a profound double standard. Secular children's content can advertise freely on Google and TikTok's platforms without content-based restrictions, while Christian children's content is systematically blocked, even when the targeting methodology is identical. The practical effect is that parents searching for family-friendly content for their children are shown secular options but systematically denied access to Christian alternatives, not because Christians are prohibited from using the platform, but because Christian content itself triggers automatic rejection.

This treatment is not unique. As early as 2022, one advertising agency highlighted the issue with Google's current ad policy, noting that while "the intention is to protect people from predatory targeting, the result is institutions are being flagged for simply expressing their faith-based affiliation on their website."[2]

Likewise, the chair of the Federal Communication Commission sent a letter to Google regarding YouTube TV, a Google-owned streaming service, and its removal of Great American Family (GAF) from its channel lineup, eliminating subscriber access to the faith-based family entertainment network.[3] Chair Carr demanded answers from YouTube TV, questioning whether the removal constituted viewpoint discrimination and calling for transparency about YouTube TV's content curation decisions.[4] Chair Carr's intervention highlights the regulatory concern that Google's platforms may be systematically disadvantaging faith-based content across multiple services—from advertising restrictions to content distribution decisions.

The issue reaches beyond a mere commercial dispute between advertisers and platforms. At stake is whether American families will have meaningful access to religious content in an increasingly digital world. When children's entertainment moves online, and when digital advertising becomes the primary discovery mechanism for content, restrictions on religious content advertising functionally limit what families can find and access.

Research indicates that many children in the United States are exposed to sexually explicit material at an early age; a nationwide survey found the average age of first exposure to online pornography is 12 years old, with a notable share seeing such content even younger.[5] At the same time, parents and caregivers are confronting rising mental-health challenges among youth. According to the Annie E. Casey Foundation, substantial percentages of adolescents experience anxiety, depression, or other mental, emotional, developmental, or behavioral conditions, underscoring a broader youth mental-health crisis.[6] Organizations like Child Evangelism Fellowship also emphasize how parental engagement, community support, and spiritually uplifting content can be critical to children's emotional and mental well-being.[7] Against this backdrop, restricting access to positive, family-friendly, and faith-affirming digital content while sexually explicit or harmful content remains readily accessible amplifies the challenges parents face in safeguarding their children's mental health and digital experiences.

We bring this issue to this Committee's attention to consider investigating and holding hearings. on these restrictions from Google and TikTok's religious content advertising policies. Such hearings and investigation can help find solutions to ensure that the digital marketplace remains open to those with religious beliefs and viewpoints. The systematic suppression of Christian content—particularly family-friendly content designed for children—represents a serious threat to religious liberty in the digital age. American families deserve a level playing field where faith-based and secular content compete on merit, not platform bias. Attached are representative examples of ad rejections experienced by our client, and should the Committee wish to pursue this matter, we would be pleased to provide additional supporting evidence and documentation.

We believe this is an important issue that your committee would be interested in addressing to protect the rights of religious Americans to participate fully in the digital public square. The cumulative effect of policies that systematically disadvantage religious expression—whether through ad restrictions, content moderation, or algorithmic suppression—creates barriers to religious exercise in the digital public square. When religious organizations cannot reach their audiences through the dominant communication channels of modern society, religious liberty suffers.

Sending a threatening message designed to cause physical discomfort or pain (like a "threatening itch") and manipulating someone into acting on it is a form of criminal harassment, intimidation, or cyberstalking. Depending on the severity and intent, it may constitute assault by threat, criminal coercion, or a federal violation.

Key Legal Classifications:
Harassment: Using electronic communication to threaten bodily injury or cause severe emotional distress.
Criminal Coercion: Using threats to compel someone to perform an act (such as scratching).
Assault by Threat: Causing a reasonable fear of imminent bodily injury, even if the harm is not immediately physical.
Cyberstalking: Persistent, targeted harassment via electronic means intended to cause distress.

Such actions, if deemed a "credible threat" of harm (or designed to intimidate), can lead to police involvement, restraining orders, and criminal charges, especially if it interferes with your bodily autonomy, notes the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI).

Dear'RLC,

Re: Concerns about RLC (Religious Liberty Commission)

I have enormous concerns about your RCL, based on the reflections of well-known Catholic Carrie Prejean Boller (PCB).

I believe her views reflect the views of many, if not most Catholic Americans and Catholic members of the US armed services.

I am a practicing Catholic.

1) I cannot see any significant Muslim representation
2) Jews appear to be disproportionately massively over-represented.
3) Catholics have a duty to condemn Genocide. Attempts were made to prevent PCB talking about the Gaza Genocide, a direct assault on her 1st Amendment Rights of Freedom of Speech.
4) PCB was sacked from the RLC.without a specific reason stated.
5) It is my opinion that US Catholic Bishops are afraid of the Jews, and are not speaking out against the Gaza Genocide as a result.
6) I believe the RLC in it's current form is a fraud, is antipathetic to Catholicism and Religious Freedom, and should be closed down.

Yours sincerely,
Dr. Joseph O'Neill

Personnel is Policy.

BLUF:
You can influence the cultural and ideological battle for American hearts and minds through changes in Chaplaincy regulations.

Background:
Chaplaincy functions similarly to a pseudo-Commissar regime within American institutions. Chaplains are now ubiquitous in the military, hospitals, sports, and soon in the school system. There is an ongoing power struggle between conservative and liberal Chaplains. Liberals control the VA and hospital systems, while conservatives hold a slight edge in the military. Liberal chaplains, mainly from liberal Christian denominations and fringe groups like Unitarians and pagans, are gaining ground by creating organizations that grant certifications. These certifications—such as NAVAC Board Certified Chaplain and Clinical Pastoral Education—are often arbitrary and different from their endorsing bodies. They act as barriers to conservative chaplains who do not subscribe to them, primarily because they require denouncing faith as integral to their work. Government agencies recognize these certifications and use them as exclusionary tools. The VA, for instance, mandates CPE and Board Certification, which effectively excludes conservative chaplains, leading to a predominantly left-leaning Chaplaincy at the VA, followed by hospitals nationwide. Currently, these certified chaplains have limited influence in hospitals and the VA, as most veterans dismiss them. However, if these certifications become mandatory across all domains, their influence could be catastrophic. In the military, liberal chaplains, along with Equal Opportunity and Mental Health officers, often act as de facto commissars, enforcing the liberal agenda and punishing dissenters. The Chaplaincy is rapidly expanding, with police, fire departments, and the education system increasingly opening their doors to chaplains following recent court rulings. If these certification requirements are not addressed soon, the commissar-style control of the VA and hospital chaplaincy could spread rapidly through the military, education, and local governments. This shift is driven by liberal ministers, who now rely on government support due to declining congregations to sustain their influence.

Course of Action:
Step 1. Remove the recognition and requirement of Board Certified Chaplains and Clinical Pastoral Experience across the VA, military, and other government sectors. Doug Collins is a suitable point of contact, as he is a Chaplain in the USAFR and the current VA Secretary.
Step 2. Revise the Department of War Endorser list to remove left-leaning religious groups. There are obvious choices, such as Unitarians, Buddhists, and Islam (which I believe pose a greater national security concern). Other denominations would include hard-left Protestant groups. The point of contact for this should be Sec Hegseth. Do not rely on the Chief of Chaplains (Generals in charge of chaplains in each branch), as they are likely to delay this action.
Step 3. Develop a framework that either excludes liberal chaplains or allows all chaplains to compete equally. This might involve recognizing pastoral experience, pastoral counseling, and other conservative ministry backgrounds as equivalent to CPE and BCC. Or it could be eliminating 501c3 status of ACPE, NAVAC, SCA and others.
Step 4. Personnel is Policy. Actively prioritize conservative Chaplains to lead the future of the military, education system, first responders, and hospital chaplaincy. The point of contact for this should be an organization like the Center at Liberty University (I have no affiliation), which is currently training Chaplains effectively but cannot meet the demand.

The future will have Chaplains in all of our schools, military, businesses, and other institutions. They are the American version of Commissars, for better or for worse. If we do not act now, then they will be Commissars in the truest sense, pushing a communist anti-God agenda.

Subject: [EXTERNAL] While teaching religious freedom to young students we hear many stories of denial, criticism and punishment of students who bring their faith to school

The organization Catholics for Freedom of Religion, www.cffor.orgi, was founded in 2012 in the Diocese of Rockville Centre, NY, with the goal of promoting prayers and education to preserve religious freedom for all.

Our expected audience was the Catholics in the pews of the many parishes in our diocese. Our messages were well received and we were invited to speak at many parishes. As we taught adults the meaning of religious freedom and shared prayers for religious liberty including the Rosary for America which we published, one of the constant responses was that we should teach these truths to the young children and grandchildren of the parishioners.

We quickly understood that need and developed the program "Students of Faith" through which we teach the founders work for religious freedom and share the Dept. of Education's guidelines for religious expression in public schools. Many parishes invited us to speak to their confirmation class students. On our website, the 9 minute video we wrote and produced, is used as the basis for our presentation and after the video we discuss prayer and religious expression in public schools with the Confirmation students who are our audience.

To our surprise the students would listen to our lesson and then, without prompting from us, the question and answer time would turn into their telling their personal experiences in their schools. The stories were shocking. Students told of being made to remove or hide their cross necklace or earrings so no one would be "offended' by them. A student told us his teacher told him to go to the men's room and turn his tee shirt inside out so the Bible verse on the shirt could not be seen. A young girl told us she liked to pray the rosary at lunchtime until a teacher told her to put the rosary away and if the girl did that again (prayed the rosary) she would be sent to the principal who would call her parents.

Another student told his pastor who shared with us that in class the teacher asked the boy if he went to confession. When the boy said that he did, the teacher harangued him for "telling such personal things to a man who is only a man like any other." A father who worked at a Catholic school happened to see us showing the video to students. Afterwards he told us he wished he knew the information when his son was a senior in high school. His son brought his Bible to school for free reading. One day a teacher asked his son what he was reading. When his son said he was reading the Bible, the teacher proceeded to mock him and to encourage other students to mock him.

We heard so many of these incidents that we knew these students were greatly affected by this denial of their religious freedom. We concluded that by the time the typical student is in the fourth grade they know very well that God, faith and religion are not welcome in school and can only bring them disapproval, taunting, criticism, punishment and even isolation.

Our volunteers are still working to teach students and their parents that public schools have not removed God or prayer from their schools, although there are too many in the schools who treat students' expressions of faith very harshly.

President Trump's revision on Feb. 5, 2026 of the Dept. of Education's Guidelines to protect prayer and religious expression in schools opens the door to a long overdue renewal of prayer in schools. However, the current situation is that very, very few teachers, administrators, parents and clergy know that any protection had ever existed and it will require a constant, loud voice to correct the misinformation and bad behavior in our school communities.

To our churches falls the challenge to publicize and normalize prayer and religious expression in schools. Having hear so many students' bad experiences, our volunteers understand the difficulties in teaching the truth. We continue to do all we can for America's children that they may live their faith every day without fear or hesitation.

Greetings RLA,

I read that one of your missions is to develop strategies to preserve and enhance religious liberty protections for future generations. This is a very important mission. In my view one way to ensure our religious liberty is to elect conservative leaders for future generations. To elect the left to lead imperils religious liberty for Christians in America. Perhaps it's the greatest threat. Therefore I strongly encourage the RLA to make it a priority to find a way to get Christians to vote. Christians not voting is a crisis in America. Please help!

God bless.

WESTERN PHILOSOPHY ASSAULTS TRUTH

They are dark and gloomy, canopies of trees soaring into the heavens and blocking all sunlight, atmospheres filled with eerie mists, shadows and a longing for the infinite. They are the ancient forests of Northern Europe and from their endless twilight and unstoppable ascent, they gave birth to a culture called the West. When church bells tolled across Europe in 1000 AD, they announced the birth of this culture and the advent of a power never before seen in history, a power which would explore distant continents, harness the forces of nature and advance technology by a quantum leap, exalt political freedom in place of moral virtue, and in the realm of philosophy, reject reason, sanity and common sense in favor of subjectivity and will power. This is the culture whose prime symbol is Faust, the sixteenth century German scholar who sold his soul to the Devil at a crossroads in exhange for infinite will and power, and it emerged centuries after its diametrical opposite descended into rubble. Its diametrical opposite was Classical Culture, founded thousands of years before in noonday Southern Europe made endlessly brilliant by the sun, a culture whose prime symbol was Apollo, god of reason, truth, sanity, the evidence of the senses, and rational flourishing in place of freedom conceived as license. On a single continent, over the course of centuries, two cultures emerged which presented a study in contrasts as it has never been presented before, cultures Apollonian and Faustian, cultures affirming common sense in philosophy and denying it, and the second culture, the Faustian West, true to form, has been conducting an assault on truth since its birth. Rejecting the sane person's creed, the creed that truth is arrived at on the basis of observation and is the correspondence of a statement to reality, Western philosophy has put forth doctrines of antitruth which have led to the discrediting of philosophy, in the judgment of the sane, and the destruction of the human mind for as long as the culture endures. Rejecting Classical Apollonian philosophy which pursued, protected and promoted truth, which exalted induction in place of mental navel gazing, and affirmed the existence of physical objects, Western Faustian philosophy has descended into the depths of total insanity, into a state whose vivid picture is the endless, soaring, twilight forests from whence the culture emerged. Rejecting the Classical Apollonian correspondence theory of truth, Western philosophy proclaims that truth is coherence, defined by logical consistency and mutual support among beliefs, without regard to their correspondence with reality. It proclaims that truth is pragmatic, defined by what works to advance one's own or society's needs and interests, and what makes one feel better, without regard to its correspondence with reality. Look at the course of Western philosophy and see declarations of war against truth such as the world has never seen before. Western Philosophy. The coherence theory of truth proclaims that a statement need not be true to be believed but need only be ocoherent with other statements one holds. Individuals having different beliefs can both be right at the same time if their beliefs are coherent within their total system of beliefs: "The proposition that bismuth has a higher melting point than tin may cohere with my beliefs but not with your beliefs. This, then, leads to the proposition being both 'true for me' but 'false for you'. But if 'true for me' means 'true' and 'false for you' means 'false' as the Coherence Theory implies, then we have a violation of the law of noncontradiction, which plays havoc with logic. Most philosophers prefer to preserve the law of noncontradiction over any theory of truth that requires rejecting it. Consequently, if someone is making a sensible remark by saying, 'That is true for me but not for you', then the person must mean simply, 'I believe it, but you do not.' Truth is not relative in the sense that something can be true for you but not for me." (Truth, by Bradley Dowden and Norman Swartz, Internet Encyclopedia). Western Philosophy. The pragmatist theory of truth proclaims that a statement need not be true to be believed but need only be useful and produce a payoff. A statement which brightens one's emotional states can be held to be true, while a statement which darkens one's emotional states can be held to be false: "A Pragmatic Theory of Truth holds that a proposition is true if it is useful to believe. Peirce and James were its principal advocates. Utility is the essential mark of truth. Beliefs that lead to the best payoff, that are the best justification of our actions, that promote success, are truths, according to the pragmatists. The problems with Pragmatic accounts of truth are counterparts to the problems seen above with Coherence Theories of truth. First, it may be useful for someone to believe a proposition but also useful for someone else to disbelieve it. For example, Freud said that many people, in order to avoid despair, need to believe there is a god who keeps a watchful eye on everyone. According to the Pragmatic Theory, that proposition is true. However, it may not be useful for other persons to believe that same proposition. They would be crushed if they believed that there is a god who keeps a watchful eye on everyone. Thus, by symmetry of argument, that proposition is false. In this way, the Pragmatic theory leads to a violation of the law of noncontradiction, say its critics. Second, certain beliefs are undeniably useful, even though–on other criteria they are judged to be objectively false. For example, it can be useful for some persons to believe that they live in a world surrounded by people who love or care for them. According to this criticism, the Pragmatic Theory of Truth overestimates the strength of the connection between truth and usefulness." (Truth, by Bradley Dowden and Norman Swartz, Internet Encyclopedia). Western Philosophy. Western philosophy proclaims that science consists of arbitrary paradigms or frameworks of belief, and does not make use of the method of induction and cannot claim to be objectively true: 'In the sciences there need not be progress of another sort. We may, to be more precise, have to relinquish the notion, explicit or implicit, that changes of paradigm carry scientists and those who learn from them closer and closer to the truth. We are all deeply accustomed to seeing science as the one enterprise that draws constantly nearer to some goal set by nature in advance. But need there be any such goal? Can we not account for both science's existence and its success in terms of evolution from the community's state of knowledge at any given time? Does it really help to imagine that there is some one full, objective, true account of nature and that the proper measure of scientific achievement is the extent to which it brings us closer to that ultimate goal." (The Structure Of Scientific Revolutions by Thomas Kuhn). Western Philosophy. Western philosophy proclaims that it is an absolute truth that truth is not absolute but is relative. What is called reality is a product of opinions and perspectives, no one of which may be held to be more true than any others. What is called reality is a product of stories, narratives, legends and power structures, and the belief that physical objects exist and are perceived is a product of white male, European thinking. Progressive philosophy is postEnlightenment philosophy, which rejects Enlightenment notions of objectivity, empiricism and common sense, and recognizes that truth and science are arbitrary social constructions. There is no such thing as absolute morality and those who believe in it are cultural imperialists and are absolutely immoral and reprehensible: "The philosopher Allan Bloom once lamented: ‘There is one thing a professor can be absolutely certain of: almost every student entering the university believes, or says he believes, that truth is relative.’ Perhaps Bloom overstated his case, but as a university teacher myself, I think he’s onto something. Do people who proclaim that ‘truth is relative’ or that ‘everyone has their own truth’ really believe this? Even Bloom adds the caveat: ‘or says he believes’. As anyone with two neurons to rub together can see, the thesis is self defeating. If it’s ‘true’ that truth is relative, then the assertion itself is also relative and cancels itself out. Relativism about what is morally right and wrong less obviously defeats itself, since it is not entirely clear if the claim that “moral standards are relative” is itself a moral claim. But in practice, moral relativism is an equally self-defeating position. For instance, moral relativists will typically condemn the belief in universal moral standards as a form of ‘cultural imperialism’, the implicit assumption being that cultural imperialism is bad. But if moral standards are relative, then so is the claim that cultural imperialism is reprehensible. In any rational discussion, relativism is the intellectual equivalent of ‘Mutually Assured Destruction’, the deterrent used by nuclear superpowers during the Cold War. Pressing the red button will destroy your enemy, but ensure your own destruction as well. Perhaps a relativist may simply shrug at such logical niceties and happily continue to advocate for relativism, like the Dude in The Big Lebowski: ‘Well, that’s just, like, your opinion, man’. However, even the staunchest relativist doesn’t really swallow his own medicine. Try gratuitously accusing such a person of being a child molester, and they will indignantly protest their innocence. Not as a matter of subjective opinion, as one perspective among other equally valid ones, but as a hard and objective truth. Postmodernists may proclaim that ‘truth’ is a product of power structures and that modern science is just a ‘narrative’ of white European males, but those radical views are thrown out the window when they go to get cancer treatment, or when they board a plane to travel to postmodernist conferences. As Richard Dawkins once said: ‘Nobody is a social constructionist at 30,000 feet.’ " (Why Relativism Is The Worst Idea Ever by Maarten Boudry). Western Philosophy. I have therefore found it necessary to deny knowledge in order to make room for faith. Thus speaks the most influential and discussed philosophy in modern times. To deny knowledge. Proclaimed by Immanuel Kant in his masterwork Critique Of Pure Reason, these words of brazen psychosis, encapsulating the essential sickness of the Western Faustian soul, are first and final lines in the story of the West. Rejecting Classical Apollonian philosophy and the West's own Age of Enlightenment, which was an antiFaustian countermovement overtaken by a true Faustian Age of Romanticism, these words were born in the ancient Northern European forests. Listen to their echoes down through the centuries. Truth is a product of gender, race, class, culture, ethnicity and sexual orientation. There is no universal system of logic corresponding to reality but there are a host of realities and a host of logics, a proletarian logic, a bourgeois logic, an Aryan logic, a Jewish logic, a queer logic, and a transgender logic among others, no one of which may be held to be more real or more true than any others. Gender has no relation to DNA and can be changed at will, and transgender women are as real as real women, and transgender men are as real as real men. Capitalism is a regime of exploitation and oppression. A just society is a racist and sexist society which calls its racism and sexism a program of diversity and inclusion. A just society values the pursuit of diversity and inclusion, or the pursuit of racism and sexism, in place of treating individuals as individuals. The world is ruled by a Jewish conspiracy. The world is ruled by a male conspiracy. The world is ruled by a capitalist conspiracy. A fertilized ovum at the moment of fertilization is an actual human person by virtue of the reception of a supernatural soul, and all acts of abortion are acts of murder. Human life was created by God in the manner described by the Bible. The earth is being incinerated by man made greenhouse gas emissions and the end of life and civilization are imminent. Listen to these Western Faustian voices and hear the earsplitting thunder of a nightmare.

TRUTH SUPPRESSION IN VIRGINIA

My fate is to live among varied and confusing storms. But for you perhaps, if, as I hope and wish, you live long after me, there will follow a better age. This sleep of forgetfulness will not last forever. When the darkness has been dispersed, our descendants can come again in the former pure radiance. The Dark Ages. The ages of ignorance and error. Described by Tuscan scholar Petrarch in his epic poem Africa, this first age of Western Culture brought forth a monster which has been on a rampage ever since. This is the monster of thought control and the imposition of religion, and it has been suppressing the dissemination of truth for a thousand years in the West. Its faces are as varied as the totalitarian regimes it has created, and its record of mental destruction sends the chill of fear coursing through civilized people. Look at the nightmares it has brought down. The Catholic Inquisition. Marx's dictatorship of the proletariat over the individual. The Soviet Great Terror. Hitler's national socialist Totalstaat. Mussolini's motto: "Everything in the State, nothing outside the State, nothing against the State." The Maoist Cultural Revolution. The Khmer Rouge killing fields in Cambodia. The jackboot of the Marxist thought police enforcing ideologies of gender, race, class, culture, ethnicity and sexual orientation. The monster of state religion takes over societies whenever the masses abandon reason and reject the moral responsibility to flourish as rational human persons. In the twenty first century, in a hallowed part of America, in a state whose Patrick Henry proclaimed "Give me liberty or give me death" during the American Revolution, a state whose

DOJ-RLC Comment-000511

Thomas Jefferson wrote the nation's Declaration of Independence, a state which was the first to ratify the Articles of Confederation, the nation's first framework of government, and a state whose motto is Thus Always to Tyrants, the monster of state religion has assumed power and rendered the state unrecognizable. On March 5, 2026, the state's General Assembly passed a bill prohibiting public schools from teaching students the truth that the 2020 presidential election was stolen by the Democrat Party and Joe Biden was fraudulently elected president. The facts surrounding the election are as plain as daylight and the determinative role played by fraud created the greatest political scandal in a democracy in modern times and reduced America to the status of a Third World nation. Look at the bill and look at the facts and see a Marxist monster of state religion smash the chairs and lecterns of the state legislature and prohibit truth from being spoken to power. The Bill. The bill prohibits the exposure of fraud in the 2020 presidential election on the grounds that such is incorrect information: "On the way to Governor Spanberger's desk is a bill that would ban schools from teaching what the Legislature says is incorrect information about about the riot at the US Capitol on January 6, 2021. The General Assembly approved HB333 Thursday. The wording of the bill would ban 'stating, suggesting, or presenting as credible a statement or suggestion that there was extensive election fraud that could have changed or actually changed the results of the 2020 presidential election.' " (Proposed Virginia Law Addresses Any School Instruction On January 6 Riot by Pat Thomas). The 2020 Election. The 2020 election was stolen by acts of intervention without precedent in American history. It was stolen by Mark Zuckerberg's distribution of 400 million dollars to local election officials throughout the nation to recruit Democrat voters. It was stolen by the decision of the FBI to order Facebook to suppress information contained in Hunter Biden's laptop describing Joe Biden's influence peddling operation run when he was vice president. The FBI ordered the suppression claiming that the emails in Hunter Biden's laptop were Russian disinformation, a claim which it knew to be false. Public opinion polls showed that if Biden voters had known about Biden's influence peddling operation, they would have voted for Donald Trump. The 2020 Election. The 2020 election was stolen by electronic voting systems programmed to manufacture votes for Joe Biden. It was stolen by fraudulent physical ballots for Biden. It was stolen by images and scans of fraudulent votes for Biden. It was stolen by tabulator tapes counting fraudulent votes for Biden. It was stolen by registration data bases containing nonexistent Biden voters. It was stolen by hackers manufacturing votes for Biden. It was stolen by the electronic manipulation of votes for Biden. It was stolen by a party ignoring the will of the people, repealing election integrity and transparency, and casting ballots on behalf of Marxist avatars called Propaganda and Subversion: "Director of National Intelligence (DNI) Tulsi Gabbard was present at the FBI search of a Fulton County, Georgia, election center as part of Gabbard's months long investigation into election integrity, Breitbart News has learned. 'Director Gabbard recognizes that election security is essential for the integrity of our republic and our nation's security. As DNI, she has a vital role in identifying vulnerabilities in our critical infrastructure and protecting against exploitation', DNI Press Secretary Olivia Coleman told Breitbart News. 'We know through intelligence and public reporting that electronic voting systems have been and are vulnerable to exploitation. President Trump's directive to secure our elections was clear, and DNI Gabbard has and will continue to take actions within her authorities, alongside our interagency partners, to support ensuring the integrity of our elections', Coleman added. Gabbard, the nation's top spy chief, has spent months investigating the results of the 2020 presidential election, which led her to an FBI search of an election center in Fulton County, Georgia. FBI agents sought records relating to the 2020 presidential election, with the warrant authorizing officials to search for physical ballots, voter rolls from that year, ballot images created by scanning ballots, and tabulator tapes from every voting machine in the county. The search is part of an investigation into possible violations of federal law against destroying election records and another statute dealing with the submission of fraudulent votes. The FBI search as part of the president's efforts to investigate election fraud elicited a strong and swift reaction from Democrats, including Senator Jon Ossoff (D-GA). Ossoff said on Wednesday, 'He is wielding the American government as an instrument of personal revenge and personal power, in a way completely unprecedented for the American presidency.' Senator Mark Warner (D-VA), the top Democrat on the Intelligence Committee, said the FBI search amounted to a 'domestic political stunt' that would 'undermine our democracy.' Despite the Democrats' protestations, federal law grants the DNI with leading efforts to secure American elections. Federal law assigns DNI Gabbard and her office the responsibility to lead counterintelligence matters regarding election security, which includes assessing the potential risks to election voting systems, voter registration databases, and foreign interference. DNI Gabbard supports the White House's interagency actions to secure the country's elections through intelligence analysis, routing, collaborating with agencies and departments, including the Department of Homeland Security (DHS), Department of Justice (DOJ), and the FBI, to protect election infrastructure. Specifically, 50 USC § 3371d authorizes DNI to designate and oversee a National Counterintelligence Officer within the National Counterintelligence and Security Center to lead, manage, and coordinate counterintelligence matters related to election security. An ODNI official said American intelligence has found that foreign actors are developing more and more sophisticated cyber capabilities that target critical infrastructure, which reinforces the need for the ODNI (Office of the Director of National Intelligence) to ensure that these efforts do not impact the election process. Gabbard has regularly briefed President Donald Trump and White House chief of staff Susie Wiles about her investigation into election integrity, along with other senior officials involved, including senior Justice Department officials and others. Reports have suggested that Gabbard is expected to prepare a report on her investigation; the administration has discussed executive orders on voting ahead of the midterm elections. 'President Trump and his entire team are committed to ensuring a US election can never, ever be rigged again. Director Gabbard is playing a key lead role in this important effort', White House press secretary Karoline Leavitt said. Since April, DNI Gabbard has been talking about election security. This includes: Gabbard said on April 10, 'I've got a long list of things that we're investigating. We have the best of the best going after this. Election integrity being one of them. We have evidence of how these electronic voting systems have been vulnerable to hackers for a very long time and vulnerable to exploitation, to manipulate the results of the votes being cast, which further drives forward your mandate to bring about paper ballots across the country so that voters can have faith in the integrity of our elections.' Gabbard then emphasized on July 24, 'President Trump nominated me for as Director of National Intelligence to, to look for the truth around these issues related to election integrity. This is something that I worked on a lot as a member of Congress. This is something of paramount importance, obviously, to President Trump, but really to the American people to have faith and trust in the integrity of our democratic republic. And so we've really spent the last few months since I've been on this job, focused on finding the truth very simply, finding the truth to bring about transparency and accountability. I know that our team, again on multiple issues, including on election integrity, we're going to continue to investigate to find the truth and tell the truth.' " (Spy Chief Tulsi Gabbard Visited Fulton County Election Site To Ensure 'Integrity Of Our Elections by Sean Moran). Virginia Today. Established in Jamestown on July 30, 1619, the Virginia General Assembly is the oldest legislature in session in North America. Bringing democracy to the New World, its ordinary, part time capacity, "citizen legislators" meet in the Virginia State Capital designed by Thomas Jefferson, among the state's illustrious governors. On March 5, 2026, this venerable, storied institution passed HB 333, which will be signed by Governor Abigail Spanberger. Passed by a Democrat legislature and soon to be signed by a Democrat governor, this bill will impose Democrat narratives, partisanship, indoctrination and political correctness on the people, and criminalize the dissemination of truth: "True education equips children for life, not political agendas, and glorifying or mandating this dark day serves only short sighted partisanship, not our kids' future." (Michael Huffman in testimony before a state Senate committee). On March 5, 2026, the Virginia General Assembly did something inglorious for the second time in its history. The first time occurred during the Civil War, when it voted to secede from the Union and serve as the capital of the Confederacy. The second time occurred on March 5, 2026. As it had done during the Civil War, the Virginia General Assembly committed treason.

DOJ-RLC Comment-000512

RED MOBS STORM THEATERS

But nothing is so damaging to good character as the habit of lounging at the amphitheater games, for then it is that vice steals subtly upon one through the avenue of pleasure. What do you think I mean? I mean that I come home more greedy, more ambitious, and even more cruel and inhuman, because I have been among human beings. (Letters To Tacitus by Seneca, Letter Seven: On Crowds). These are the amphitheater games of ancient Rome at the time of Seneca and Tacitus, when the barrier between the performers and spectators has collapsed, and the spectators abuse, attack and demand the death of performers, shouting "Kill them!" "Flog them!" and "Burn them alive!" Two thousand years after Roman amphitheater crowds devolved into violent mobs and became bloodthirsty participants declaring war on the performers, the scenes have been brought back to life in theaters across the West. Two thousand years after Roman spectators became criminally involved in their games, the criminality has reappeared in public theatrical performances, and transformed theater stages into cockpits of bloody violence. Today's spectators are voices of the most influential religion of our time after Christianity, and they are attacking performers on stage they associate with their mortal enemies. The spectators are Marxists and they have become a new class of hooligans, sending the chill of fear coursing through civilized artistic communities, and lowering the curtain on modern theater. Theater Today. Look at theater today and see a Marxist monster called gender, race, class, culture, ethnicity and sexual orientation politics storm the stage and maul apart the thespian arts, the speech, song, music and dance thrilling, inspiring and educating audiences for thousands of years. This monster proclaims that progressive theater is a violent, interactive, Marxist morality play. It is a venue in which an audience composed of hoodlums attacks actors speaking antiMarxist lines, and the audience is celebrated as heroes of social justice. It is a venue in which the audience attacks and tries to kill actors whose characters champion liberal democracy on the grounds that liberal democracy equals national socialism. It is Marxist agitation and propaganda declaimed on stage. It is a venue in which the audience attacks as national socialist characters opposed to illegal immigration and open borders. It is a venue in which the audience boos, whistles, heckles, shouts slogans, attacks and throw objects at characters advocating the deportation of illegal aliens, drags them down into the crowd, and tries to crush their throats. It is a venue in which the audience attacks character promoting conservative views, condemning them as latter day Adolf Hitlers, Benito Mussolinis, Gabriele d'Annunzios, Horst Wessels, Oswald Mosleys and national socialist stormtroopers. It is a venue in which the audience attacks characters supporting Donald Trump's policies, condemning them as fascist, storming the stage, and shouting "shoot him!" referring to Trump. It is a venue in which the audience disrupts and tries to kill characters supporting capitalism, condemning them as nationalist, racist, right wing blackshirts and brownshirts. It is a venue in which characters promoting capitalism, conservatism and Western values, and condemning Muslim terrorism and rape gangs, are beaten and kicked to death by the audience condemning them as devils and neonazis: " 'All the world's a stage, and all the men and women merely players.' So wrote William Shakespeare in As You Like It. Yet certain modern day theatergoers apparently do not understand the difference between the space upon the boards and off them; hence, they have taken Shakespeare's words literally and decided to reshape the world around them into one gigantic interactive left wing morality play, with themselves as the central heroes and heroines. Working class 'groundlings' crowding into the pit of the theater during Shakespeare's own day were notoriously unruly, but such misbehaviour was largely limited to hurling abuse and rotten fruit at thespians they took a dislike to. Middle class theatergoers in our own day are far worse, actively attacking and trying to kill any actors they don't like—on the grounds they are supposedly 'Nazis'. Catarina And The Beauty Of Killing Fascists is a 2020 piece of theatrical agitprop by Portuguese playwright Tito Rodrigues, concerning a left wing family in a near future Europe dominated by the nationalist right, who each year gather together to reenact an age old household tradition—to kidnap and murder a 'fascist,' by which label they actually mean 'someone who believes in strong borders.' The play ends with a scene where this year's latest abducted 'Nazi' is permitted to give a valedictory speech, laying out his desired policy platform (which is basically that of the perfectly mainstream Portuguese right wing conservative party Chega). According to the Classical era theatrical theory of Aristotle, such dramatic climaxes are supposed to provide audience members with a valuable moment of 'catharsis' or 'purging', when they are able to release strong, pentup emotions via the cleansing vehicle of art. Unfortunately, some contemporary left wing audiences now take the idea of enacting a theater land 'purge' a little too literally. Catarina had its German premiere in Bochum this Valentine's Day, although there was no love lost between the audience and the actor portraying the 'fascist' on stage, Ole Lagerpusch. According to a review from a disgusted German theater critic, Martin Krumbholz, when Ole gave his final monologue, speaking in character of the pressing need for measures like mass remigration, the crowd turned nasty. At first, they merely booed and whistled. Then, a chant of 'Stop! Stop!' began to grow, before someone threw an orange at Lagerpusch. Then, men stormed the stage, trying to drag the actor down into the crowd, going for his throat when he dared fight back. As the show must always go on, Lagerpusch bravely stuck to his script until a member of theatre management felt compelled to rush on stage herself and announce this was a fictional theater performance, that Ole was an actor, not an actual Nazi, and that he was only reciting a series of scripted lines he himself did not even believe. But, as critic Martin Krumbholz wrote in his review of events at the Schauspielhaus Theater that night: 'Parts of the Bochum audience are apparently too stupid, one has to put it bluntly, to distinguish between fiction and reality; in doing so, they reveal the stupendous self righteousness of a milieu that considers its own opinion to be beyond reproach from the outset. The audience knows everything better. Ole Lagerpusch did not give his lecture in the shape of Hitler or [Thuringia AfD leader Bjorn] Höcke, foaming at the mouth, but in the softest Lagerpusch sound. In the end, that even made everything worse. People believed they were cleverly exposing covert content and became angry. Presumably, the Schauspielhaus will precede the second performance with a trigger warning. It seems indispensable.' And, if a trigger warning did not do the trick, then the theater management had another health and safety trick up its sleeve: hiring extra security guards for all future performances. As such employees tend to dress up in black shirts and peaked caps, however, there was a distinct possibility they themselves would end up being assaulted by histrionic ticket buyers one evening too, as being close friends of Benito Mussolini or Oswald Mosley. Disturbingly, Catarina and the Beauty of Killing Fascists has provoked violence amongst audiences before. During one 2024 performance in New York, which, tellingly, took place only a week after that other well known 'Nazi' Donald Trump had just been reelected, one critic in attendance tells us the following occurred when the kidnapped ideologue gave his concluding soliloquy: 'The highbrow audience's response to being obliged to listen to this typical right populist fare was an all out revolt. The crowd chanted slogans, booed and heckled; some stood and turned their backs to the stage; others stormed out; at least one man attempted to charge the stage and was fended off by an usher. 'Shoot him!' they shouted repeatedly. I wrote to [the theater's] press office the next day to ask whether there had been plants in the crowd, egging on the reaction. No, I was told: 'The response is entirely organic and varies with each performance.' What do these people even mean by 'fascism', though? Basically, anyone whose politics they happen to disagree with. But repeatedly and inaccurately calling people 'fascists' on stage, on screen, and in the media, who are in fact just perfectly ordinary people who happen to think differently, can provoke unpleasant real life consequences. It's not just the odd orange being tossed at an actor with a Hitler moustache: even further off stage, it also involves outright acts of murder like that of Quentin Deranque, the harmless French student kicked to death in the street by a far left mob of fantasists in Lyon last month, under the pretence that they thought he, too, was a 'Nazi.' A public rally in Quentin's memory was then disgracefully portrayed by the media and politicians as though it was a neonazi march, and Quentin a modern day version of Horst Wessel, the martyred 1930s nazi stormtrooper. Even Wikipedia describes Quentin as a 'far right activist.' Why? What had he done? Nothing but turn up to a protest meeting of the conservative feminist organization Collectif Nemesis to protect vulnerable female members from assault by left wingers and Muslims, whose deranged, open borders, pro rape alliance they oppose." (Theater Of The Absurd: Audiences Assaulting Fictional 'Nazis'—On Stage And Off by Steven Tucker). Theater Today. The Riot of Pompeii was the most infamous and documented case of spectator violence at amphitheater games in ancient Rome. Described by Tacitus as a "bloodbath", it commenced as a fight between fans of Pompeii and fans of Nuceria. They exchanged insults, threw stones and drew weapons, and after attacking each other, they attacked the gladiators. In the twenty first century, audiences in theaters throughout the West are attacking actors on stage whose characters they condemn as fascist. The characters are the voices of liberal freedom and Enlightenment values. The Marxist audiences before whom they perform are staging the final act of the West.

ESTABLISHMENT GLORIFIES RED RELIGION

Neither Faye Dunaway nor Warren Beatty acts in a proper Thirties mode, nor do they seem to understand the feelings of the desperate and the underprivileged. The actress' willowy modern charm is no more appropriate to the lethal, serpentine coldness of the real Bonnie Parker than the actor's sensitive matinee idol's looks have the right style for the shoddy vanity of Clyde Barrow. Penn's [Arthur Penn] command of film rhythm is electrifying. But as a recreation of reality, of an extraordinarily evil, doomed, and wretched adventure which might have made the subject a great film, Bonnie and Clyde can only be described as dishonest, as well as a dangerous incentive to violence in an increasingly psychotic society. (The Art of the American Film: 1900–1971 by Charles Higham). The 1967 film Bonnie and Clyde. Its romanticization of violence, its glamorization of criminals, its glorification of evil outcasts as rebels and icons, and its portrayal of vicious, cold blooded murderers as folk heroes was a landmark Hollywood symbol of the psychotic state of late Western society. No film like it had ever appeared in mainstream cinema, and its popularity, accolades and box office success symbolized the rot and decay eating away at the mainstream, and the degenerate state of the Western establishmnent. The film was hailed as antiestablishment and countercultural, but in fact was a symptom, presented in the flickering light of celluloid magic, of the diseased state of the establishment and culture, broadcasting to the world the terrifying message that crime pays. Among the most popular criminal religions in the world today, joining the unholy ranks of Christianity, Islam and fascism, Marxism is an explicit, graphic Bonnie and Clyde religion, promoting the criminal religion of mystical social justice, negating rational individual justice, the criminal religion of the dictatorship of the proletariat over the individual, and the criminal religion of a multitribe, multigorgon monster called gender, race, class, culture, ethnicity and sexual orientation politics. It is the voice of the Western political, cultural and academic ruling circles, reflecting the moral rot in the souls of the masses themselves, and since the dawn of the twentieth century, the establishment and the masses have been praising, worshiping and presenting as admirable acts of Marxist violence. The World Today. Look at the world today and see Marxist violence defended as antifascism. See it defended as the people's activism. See it defended as a romantic protest by the oppressed and the exploited. See it defended as a legitimate assertion of Palestinian rights. See it defended as direct action and civil resistance. See it defended as an act of earth liberation. See it defended as an act of youthful idealism. See it defended as a moral response to a societal emergency. See it defended as an act of naive enthusiasm. See it defended as an act of progressive politics. See it defended as noble in aims and well intentioned: "The recent brutal killing of the nationalist student Quentin Deranque in Lyon by suspected far left 'anti fascists' has provoked serious questions in France regarding the inconsistencies between reactions to left wing and right wing extremism. The overlooked reality is that far right extremism is treated as one of the primary domestic threats, while far left extremism is consistently minimized, excused or rebranded as activism. The result is a political and media culture that sees right wing violence as ideological terrorism but often treats left wing violence as understandable, even romantic, protest. ne striking example is the case of the anarchist bomb plotter Jacob Graham. Convicted in February 2024, he stockpiled bomb making chemicals and produced a manual describing attacks on members of parliament and government buildings. Graham stated that he wanted to 'kill dozens of people.' If a neonazi had written the same plans, the story would likely have dominated the public debate about extremism for months. Instead, the case passed with almost nonexistent political discussion. This is a textbook example of ideology influencing how terrorism is perceived. Indeed, a group of teenagers creating nasty memes in their bedrooms seems to be enough to warrant proscription as a far right terrorist group in the modern UK. Few movements illustrate the double standard more clearly than Palestine Action, which 'works to secure Palestinian rights' by carrying out various illegal actions. The group openly advocates direct action against arms manufacturers. Supporters call it civil resistance. Critics call it organized, extremist sabotage. Members have broken into military facilities, occupied factories, and caused millions of pounds' worth of damage. In one notorious incident, a Palestine Action activist broke a female police officer's spine with a sledgehammer, yet walked free from court. If a nationalist group had repeatedly attacked businesses linked to immigration or multiculturalism, it would certainly be labelled as extremist. Yet Palestine Action is still widely described as an activist operation rather than an extremist movement. In July 2025, the group was proscribed as a terrorist organization, but there remains a widespread, ongoing campaign to reverse the government's decision. This would never happen with a right wing group. Environmental radicalism has also crossed into extremism. The Earth Liberation Front was founded in Britain and promoted economic sabotage, arson attacks, and the destruction of private property. Security agencies have described such tactics as ecoterrorism. Yet environmental extremism is often framed sympathetically as youthful idealism or moral urgency, rather than an extremist ideology. Extremist environmental activism is one of the few ideological movements where criminality is routinely moralized rather than condemned. We only have to look at the reactions to the antics of Just Stop Oil's elderly, privileged militants to see that. Far left terrorism is not new in Britain. The anarchist group the Angry Brigade carried out around 25 bombings in the 1970s, targeting politicians, banks, and institutions. These were clear ideological attacks intended to destabilize the state. Yet the Angry Brigade is rarely cited in modern discussions about domestic extremism, and if it is at all, it is sentimentalized. Right wing extremists from the same period are remembered as threats; left wing extremists are just starry eyed radicals. This imbalance is not accidental. Universities lean politically left; much of the media is skewed towards the progressive; activist organisations influence policy; cultural institutions sympathise with left wing causes. This creates a system where right wing extremism equals a philosophical threat, whereas left wing extremism equals social protest. The difference is often one of language rather than behavior. Criminal damage is 'direct action.' Intimidation is 'civil resistance.' Political violence is 'antifascism.' One of the clearest signs of imbalance is how extremism is defined. Right wing extremism is usually defined in ideological terms: nationalism, racism or antiimmigration beliefs combined with radicalization. Left wing extremism is often defined only once violence becomes extreme. This means right wing ideology alone is labelled as extremist, while left wing ideology must become violent first. This inflates the perceived scale of one threat while shrouding the other. Britain does have a far right extremism problem, but she also has an unambiguous far left extremism problem. However, only one is treated as a national emergency. From this perspective, the issue is not one of exaggeration alone; it is also one of selective outrage. Until violence and intimidation are judged, across our continent, by the same standards regardless of ideology, the European approach to extremism will remain biased rather than neutral." (Britain's Double Standard On Extremism by Paul Birch). The World Today. Look at the world today and see those who profess to be antiMarxist place Marxism on the moral ground. See them proclaim that mystical social justice, negating rational individual justice, is moral. See them proclaim that economic equality, rejecting the right of the individual to live for his own sake and his right not to share what he earns, is moral. See them proclaim that the system of freedom is immoral but must be established on practical grounds, because people have inborn character flaws which forever prevent them from wanting to surrender their freedom and wanting to live for the sake of others. See them proclaim that the system of freedom is immoral but must be established because of the depraved character of the human condition, which impels people into the evil of wanting to live in freedom and wanting to pursue their own self interest, and makes them forever incapable of being hammered and shaped into sacrificial slaves of the totalitarian state. See them proclaim that a Marxist society represents moral perfection and utopia and only its implementation leads to horror and bloodshed, because people are not good enough to live in it. See them proclaim that Marxism is good in theory but evil in practice, while the system of freedom is evil in theory but good in practice: "During the Cold War, Glazov [Jamie Glazov] explains, the left was able to 'mask' its 'true allegiance' to despots and dictators under the guise of supporting social justice and equality. Today, however, the pretense is gone. 'The Left has torn off its own mask', states Glazov. 'Leftists have gleefully joined hands with those who perpetrated the horrors of October 7 in Israel–and who are infamous for strapping bombs around their waists and blowing themselves up next to women, children and infants in baby carriages, and then celebrating having done so.' To understand this contradiction at the heart of the Left's self conception, it is essential to delve into the perverse psychology fueling their revolutionary crusade. Glazov's analysis here will ring true for any observer of contemporary American society: 'The believer's totalitarian journey begins with an acute sense of alienation from his own society–an alienation to which he is, himself, completely blind. In denial about the character flaws that prevent him from bonding with his own people, the believer has convinced himself that there is something profoundly wrong with his society. He fantasizes about building a perfect society where he will, finally, fit in.' Glazov astutely uses the term 'believer' to describe disciples of the Left, as they are in the grip of a 'progressive faith' that amounts to a 'secular religion.' 'As history has tragically recorded, this 'holy cause' follows a road that leads not to an earthly paradise, but rather to an earthly hell in all its manifestations,' Glazov surmises. 'The political faith rejects the basic reality of the human condition–that human beings are flawed and driven by self interest–and rests on the erroneous assumption that humanity is malleable and can be reshaped into a more perfect form.' " ('United In Hate' Explains The Left's Romance With Tyranny, Terror And Hamas by Sara Dogan). The World Today. The Western establishment line is that Bonnie and Clyde were latter day Robin Hoods, stealing from banks and giving the loot to the poor, and that stealing from the rich and giving to the poor is a morally good thing to do. The 1967 film thus does not portray Bonnie and Clyde as criminal protagonists but portrays the police pursuing them as criminal protagonists. Denying the individual's right to live for his own sake, Marxism is the religion of the Bonnie and Clydes of this world, seen by the establishment as saccharine and sympathetic figures, and they are writing the final lines of civilization.

In forest ecology, a snag is a standing dead or dying tree. Snags comprise twenty percent of the trees present in forests, and provide homes to birds, mammals, bacteria and fungi. Snags are created naturally after a tree dies of old age, disease, drought or wildfire, and a snag can remain intact and standing for hundreds of years. In the realm of politics, in the land which defended freedom in three world wars and the war on terror, and for decades served as a lighthouse for the world amidst raging storms of tyranny, a dead tree has been intact for one hundred and twenty five years, and stands as a monument to the masses' assault on freedom through the ballot box during the age of civilizational decline and fall. passage of the Kansas-Nebraska Act, founded to defend the ideals expressed in the Constitution and the philosophy of the Enlightenment, ideals of human liberty of mind, action and the market, ideals expressed in its shining slogan, Free Soil, Free Speech, Free Labor and Free Men, the Republican Party has been under attack by the American majority since the early years of twentieth century, and began to die under the administration of Theodore Roosevelt. Look at the true, original Republican Party and look at the alien elements which began invading the party in the twentieth century, and see the formation of a dead tree in which nest the birds, mammals, bacteria and fungi of Western cultural degeneration. The True Republican Party. Embodied in the first Republican president, Abraham Lincoln, the true Republican Party was the party of containment of the forces of slave power, paving the way to its eventual liquidation: "The federal government would surround the south with free states, free territories, and free waters, building what they called a 'cordon of freedom' around slavery, hemming it in until the system's internal weaknesses forced the slave states one by one to abandon slavery." (Freedom National: The Destruction Of Slavery In The United States by James Oakes). The False Republican Party. Now Listen to the invaders of the Republican Party and see a dead tree in the process of formation. The first invasion launched by Theodore Roosevelt condemned the system of freedom as a regime ruled by corrupt plutocrats giving orders to their puppets in the press, colleges and public life: "Again and again in my public career I have had to make head against mob spirit, against the tendency of poor, ignorant and turbulent people who feel a rancorous jealousy and hatred of those who are better off. But during the last few years it has been the wealthy corruptionists of enormous fortune, and of enormous influence through their agents of the press, pulpit, colleges and public life, with whom I've had to wage bitter war." (Theodore Roosevelt to Arthur Hamilton Lee, December 16, 1907, in The Letters of Theodore Roosevelt (1952) Volume 6). The False Republican Party. Look at the false Republican Party and see the ascendancy of a collectivist, communist, New Deal movement. Promoting the cause of expansive, unlimited government, the concentration of power into the hands of an executive caesar, and the Roosevelt Revolution nullifying the American Revolution of free minds and free markets, confronting collectivism and saying me too, the Republican Party developing in the twentieth century was Republican in name only: "Unlike the 'moderate', internationalist, largely eastern bloc of Republicans who accepted (or at least acquiesced in) some of the Roosevelt Revolution and the essential premises of President Truman's foreign policy, the Republican Right at heart was counterrevolutionary. Anticollectivist, anticommunist, antiNew Deal, passionately committed to limited government, free market economics, and congressional (as opposed to executive) prerogatives, the GOP conservatives were obliged from the start to wage a constant two front war: against liberal [statist] Democrats from without and 'me too' Republicans from within." (The Republican Right From Taft To Reagan by George Nash, in Reviews in American History, 1984). The False Republican Party. Listen to the invaders of the Republican Party promote statism under banners marked the Middle Way: "We have those individuals who believe that the federal government should enter into every phase and facet of our individual lives. These people, knowingly or unknowingly, are trying to put us on the path toward socialism. At the other extreme, we have the people who want to eliminate everything that the federal government has ever done that represents what is generally classified as social advance. When I refer to the Middle Way, I merely mean the middle way as it represents a practical working basis between extremists, both of whose doctrines I flatly reject." (Letter from President Dwight Eisenhower to Brigadier General Bradford Chynoweth). The False Republican Party. Look at the invaders of the Republican Party promote the statist Great Society policies of Lyndon Johnson. Look at them promote affirmative action programs which reject equal treatment for all and discriminate on the basis of race and gender. Look at them promote statism under banners marked political realities. Look at them proclaim that Republican Party statists are preferable to Democrat Party statists because they have the name Republican Party. Look at them occupy empty suits, stand for nothing, abandon principles, make u turn upon u turn, and promote statism under banners marked compromise: "Like Tories of old—and unlike Tea Partiers today—Nixon preferred flexibility and adaptability. President in a liberal [statist] age, Nixon left intact LBJ's Great Society. His major reforms like the Philadelphia Plan, the first significant federal affirmative action program, represented incremental and consensual change. This stands in stark contrast to Tea Partiers' utterly unconservative refusal to ground ideological ambitions in political realities. Nixon also felt Republicans should represent a variety of beliefs. When conservatives asked why he campaigned for liberal [statist] Republicans in every state across the nation, Nixon answered: 'I would rather have Republicans as majority leaders in the House and Senate than Democrats.' Likewise, Nixon understood the importance of timing. Witness his volte face on China. For years, Nixon had supported the diplomatic isolation of Red China. But as circumstances changed, Nixon pivoted, opening relations with the communist nation in 1972. Such u turns prompted charges that this 'man of many masks' never stood for anything. But as Nixon explained, politicians who were confident in their convictions would 'burn down the bakery fighting for principles' rather than 'win half a loaf through a judicious compromise.' " (Richard Nixon And Today's Republican Party by Tom Switzer and Nicole Hemmer). The False Republican Party. Look at the invaders of the Republican Party reject the separation of church and state mandated by the Establishment Clause of the First Amendment. Look at them promote statism under banners marked the Christian Right. Look at them promote statism under banners marked school prayer. Look at them promote statism under the banners of a movement which proclaims that a fertilized human ovum at the moment of fertilization is an actual human person by virtue of the reception of a supernatural soul, and that abortion at any stage of a pregnancy is an act of murder: "Ronald Reagan gave the Christian Right rhetorical support during his presidential campaigns and time in office, and he invited evangelical leaders such as Jerry Falwell and James Dobson to the White House, but he was unable to give the movement the legislation on school prayer and abortion that it wanted. The attention that Reagan gave the Christian Right increased the movement's influence and solidified its ties to the Republican Party, but their lack of substantive legislative gains frustrated evangelical leaders. Christian Right leaders such as Falwell never wavered in their admiration for Reagan, and they supported his defense and fiscal policies, but they also wanted a leader who could deliver on their signature issues. By the end of Reagan's presidency, the Christian Right had become more vocal in its opposition to abortion, more militant in its politics, and more determined than ever to recapture the country." (God's Own Party: The Making Of The Christian Right by Daniel Williams). The False Republican Party. Since the early years of the twentieth century, two Republican Party leaders have stood out and swum against the statist currents of their party, and their careers both ended in crashing defeat. Called Mr Republican, Robert Taft promoted limited government and was opposed to the New Deal and to an interventionist foreign policy. He opposed the Lend Lease Act and NATO. He promoted low taxes. He cosponsored the Taft-Hartley Act, which banned closed shops which excluded nonunion employees, and allowed states to pass right to work laws, guaranteeing an employee's right not to join a union. He sought the Republican presidential nomination three times and was defeated each time. In 1940, he lost the nomination to statist Wendell Wilkie, in 1948, he lost to statist Thomas Dewey, and in 1952, he lost to statist Dwight Eisenhower. Among the founders of the tiny American libertarian movement, Barry Goldwater received the Republican Party nomination for president in 1964. He opposed the New Deal. He opposed Title II of the 1964 Civil Rights Act, outlawing discrimination based on race, color, religion or national origin in privately owned hotels, motels, restaurants and theaters, on the grounds that it breached the right to private property. He opposed Title VII of the same act, outlawing discrimination by private employers against employees on the basis of race, color, religion, sex or national origin, on the grounds that that it breached the right to private property. In the 1964 presidential election, Goldwater lost to Lyndon Johnson in forty four state landslide. The False Republican Party. The landslide defeat of Barry Goldwater sounded the death knell of true Republican ideas, and the libertarian faction of the party was expunged. Seeking to achieve power,

DOJ-RLC Comment-000520

Republican presidents thereafter sought to pander to the majority and reach out to supporters of various forms of statism. Richard Nixon promoted statism under banners marked centrism. Gerald Ford promoted statism under banners marked inclusion and moderation. Ronald Reagan promoted statism under banners marked the Christian Right. George H.W. Bush promoted statism under banners marked a kinder, gentler nation. George W. Bush promoted statism under banners marked compassionate conservatism. Donald Trump promoted statism under banners marked populism, nationalism and protection. In his two terms as president, has Trump sought to rein in and roll back far left policies, while at the same seeking to appeal to a statist base demanding populism, nationalism and protection. On the statist front, he has enacted high tariffs affecting all goods imported into the country. From January to April 2025, the tariff rate rose from 2.5 percent to 27 percent, the highest level in over a century. On the freedom front, Trump has eliminated two unprecedented federal mandates on individuals to purchase goods or services. In his 2017 Tax Cuts and Jobs Act, he eliminated the penalty on individuals who did not obtain health insurance, established under Barack Obama's Affordable Care Act. In his 2025 One Big Beautiful Bill, he eliminated tax credits for buyers of electric cars, established under Joe Biden's Inflation Reduction Act, tax credits, being withheld from purchasers of gasoline powered cars, forced them away from such purchases. In his 2018 Economic Growth, Regulatory Relief and Consumer Protection Act, he raised the asset threshold for banks considered 'too big to fail' from $50 billion to $250 billion, thereby allowing the free market greater room to operate and allowing more mismanaged banks to fail. He has signed executive orders reversing federal recognition of transgenderism, a far left dogma denying the facts of biological reality, and ending diversity, equity and inclusion programs in the military and federal government, programs which ended equal treatment for all and mandated discrimination on the basis of race, gender and other characteristics. His One Big Beautiful Bill has cut funding for Medicaid and SNAP, added additional work requirements for eligibility, and added a 35 dollar copayment for Medicaid services. Beyond these rein ins and roll backs, Trump can do nothing in the nation he presides over, descending into statist slavery in the final age of the West.

MARXIST RAINFORESTS FLOOD THE WEST

Now this is the law of the jungle, as old and as true as the sky/the wolf that shall keep it may prosper, but the wolf that shall break it must die./As the creeper that girdles the tree trunk, the law runs forward and back;/For the strength of the pack is the wolf, and the strength of the wolf is the pack. (The Jungle Book by Rudyard Kipling). The law of the jungle. The law of life of the uncivilized, proclaiming the superiority of brute force and the survival of the fittest. The law of the unruly, the untamed and the uncontrollable, far removed from the law of reason, presenting an image of subhumanity sending the chill of fear coursing through decent people. In the twentieth century, the term jungle became a metaphor for a mass movement which captured the Western cultural and political establishment and is writing the final lines of modern civilization. Springing from the movement created in the nineteenth century by Karl Marx, this is the neoMarxist movement called identity politics, and it walked through a dark door opened by Marx. Rejecting the Enlightenment politics affirming the primacy of the individual with his rights, freedoms and dignity, Marx's doctrine of politics based on socioeconomic class created offshoots and derivatives in the twentieth century which promoted politics based on a host of group identities, the politics of gender, race, class, culture, ethnicity and sexual orientation, and declared holy war on two thousand years of human universality and essentialism, reaching from Greco-Roman virtue based society through to modern liberal democracy. NeoMarxist identity politics has been embraced by statesmen and thinkers ranging from Adolf Hitler to Franz Fanon to the critical theorists of the Frankfurt school and the new left, and is the exclusive religion of the academy, and among the leading religions of the man on the street, competing with the Christian Right for his allegiance. While Hitler and his latter day fascists champion the cause of nationalism and white power, the multitribe, multigorgon neoMarxist monster called gender, race, class, culture, ethnicity and sexual orientation politics spreads its own brand of savagery across the land, and together the redshirts, brownshirts blackshirts and greenshirts of identity politics comprise four horsemen of the Western apocalypse. The World Today. Look at the world today and see neoMarxists proclaim that progressive literature includes multiethnic cartoons and comic strips. It includes stories about queer communities. It includes comics and graphic novels promoting the politics of lesbians, gays, bisexuals and transgenders. It promotes feminist and queer social movements. It includes comics and graphic novels promoting the politics of race, gender and sexuality. It includes queer visual elements. It promotes extremist ideologies based on race and gender. It includes Marxist, feminist and black power story telling. It promotes feminist ethics. It condemns capitalism as a regime of militarism and mass imprisonment, demands the abolition of prisons, and demands a movement of disruption and resistance against the capitalist prison state. It advocates open borders and the settlement of illegal aliens: "The National Endowment for the Humanities says it cancelled a University of Florida professor's grant to research LGBT cartoonists as well as another scholar's work on 'multiethnic graphic literature.' The NEH website lists a $60,000 grant, beginning on January 1 of this year, to English Professor Margaret Alice Galvan. The grant would aid Galvan's research on 'how LGBTQ+ cartoonists innovated comics through grassroots formats in the 1980s-90s.' 'Based on archival research, each chapter focuses on different grassroots publishing formats and shows how cartoonists wielded these neglected forms to develop their comics and build community', the grant summary stated. Galvin aims to '[excavate] stories of vibrant queer communities to inspire a new generation at a time when LGBTQ+ people face renewed threats.' Yet, the NEH says it canceled the grant and another one titled Seeing Citizenship: Picturing Political Belonging in Multiethnic Graphic Literature. 'Both grants were awarded at the end of 2024, under the Biden administration, and terminated in April 2025', an agency spokesman told The College Fix, linking the agency's April 2025 update on its funding priorities under the Trump administration. The spokesman did not respond to a follow up email in the past several weeks asking why the grants have not been removed from the agency's page. The grants were both still listed as of March 9. According to Galvan's university bio, her research 'explores how visual culture operates within the print media of feminist and queer social movements of the 1970s-1990s.' She has also written a book titled In Visible Archives: Queer and Feminist Visual Culture in the 1980s. The second grant funded research by San Jose State University Professor Maite Urcaregui. Her research 'uses a queer formalist approach to investigate how multiethnic American authors strategically employ visual elements in their literature to navigate and critique the visual politics of race, gender, and sexuality, particularly as they demarcate who is seen as citizen.' Urcaregui declined to comment for this story, while Galvan did not respond to emails on Thursday, January 29, and on Wednesday, February 25. These are not the only identity focused grants cancelled by the Trump Administration. According to The Washington Post, the humanities agency canceled over 1,200 grants in April that leadership judged to 'promote extreme ideologies based upon race or gender.' Among these is a grant to study 'carceral disruptions', as The Fix previously reported. 'The NEH grant to Catherine Besteman at Colby College for The Praxis of Care: Carceral Disruptions and Community Resistance was terminated by NEH in April 2025', Acting Director of Communications Paula Wasley told The Fix last September. The research team planned to use 'narrative analysis, oral histories, story telling, feminist ethics, philosophical theories of the self, restorative practice, and deep personal experience', according to the grant description. Besteman's research background includes 'carcerality and abolition', 'security, insecurity, violence, militarism', and 'border crossing', according to her faculty bio. An online database lists 1,435 canceled grants, totaling $427,666,781. Both projects above appear in the database. A federal judge paused some of the cancellations in July." as a regime killing gays through HIV/AIDS. It promotes gay and lesbian power in the name of civil liberties. It includes stories of queer life and energy storming the ramparts of liberal democracy: "My second book project, Comics in Movement, examines how LGBTQ+ cartoonists innovated comics through grassroots formats in the 1980s-90s. While these cartoonists documented LGBTQ+ life and activism in a moment when the community was facing government neglect of the HIV/AIDS crisis and disregard for their civil liberties, their comics have been largely forgotten. Based on archival research, each chapter focuses on different grassroots publishing formats and shows how cartoonists wielded these neglected forms to develop their comics and build community. By making available comics that have been buried for decades, this project excavates stories of vibrant queer communities to inspire a new generation at a time when LGBTQ+ people face renewed threats." (LGBTQ+ Artists Innovating Comics and Building Community in the 1980s-1990s by Margaret Alice Galvan, National Endowment for the Humanities). The World Today. Look at the world today and see neoMarxists proclaim that progressive literature includes comics and graphic novels promoting black race politics. It advocates citizenship and political belonging for nonwhites and nonwhites alone. It includes comics and graphic novels promoting the politics of Asians, Africans, Arabs and latinos. It condemns capitalism as a regime of inequality and exclusion of nonwhites. It includes texts and images condemning national borders and legal citizenship, and promoting citizenship and belonging for nonwhite migrant scum: "My book project, Seeing Citizenship: Picturing Political Belonging in Multiethnic Graphic Literature, develops an emerging and significant nexus of literary and visual studies to examine the relationship between and among race, citizenship, and political belonging. In it, I analyze 20th and 21st century graphic literature by Asian American, African American, Arab American, and Latinx authors alongside contemporaneous visual archives and critical legal histories to underscore how these texts reveal and critique citizenship's inconsistencies, inequalities, and exclusions. Recognizing citizenship as a fluid experience rather than a fixed category, the works I analyze do not simply seek inclusion within normative national frameworks. Instead, I argue that, by collaging text and images into new literary forms, they actively model, or picture, more flexible formations of political recognition and belonging." (Seeing Citizenship: Picturing Political Belonging in Multiethnic Graphic Literature by Maite Urcaregui, National Endowment for the Humanities). The World Today. Look at the world today and see neoMarxists reject universal individual rights in favor of tribal politics, race hate, group suspicions, and the reversion of mankind to the murderous currents of prehistory: "The history of tribal and racial hatred is the history and prehistory of humankind. The American experiment, which now seems so natural to us, is a thoroughly artificial device designed to counterbalance the natural impulses of group suspicions and hatreds. This vast, artificial, transtribal construct is what our Founders aimed to achieve. And they understood that it can be achieved effectively only by intelligent schooling." (The Making of Americans by E. D. Hirsch). The World Today. In the twenty first century, the jungle is returning to the world, brought by the voices of neoMarxist revolution. Rejecting the rule of reason and individualism underpinning modern civilization, today's Congolese communists and great apes promoting race and gender politics are spreading fear and tyranny across the West.

VIRGINIA COLLEGE UNDER COMMUNIST CONTROL

Communist governments often sought to use the education system as a means of promoting and reinforcing communist ideology. This involved integrating Marxist-Leninist principles into the curriculum and promoting a specific worldview. History, literature and social sciences were particularly subject to ideological shaping. (Education Under Communism by Dharshini Thangaraj). The imposition of religion and the politicization of education are among the hallmarks of communist society. Throughout history, whenever religion ascends to power, thought control ensues and society becomes littered with the rubble of mental destruction. So it was during the

DOJ-RLC Comment-000523

Christian Dark Ages, and so it was under the Communist Bloc. In schools across the bloc, critical thinking was suppressed in favor of blind adherence to Marxism. Schools sought to create a New Man robotically programmed with the Marxist principles of collectivism and class war. Science was rewritten to conform to the tenets of Marxism. Teachers were hired on the basis of adherence to Marxism in place of professional qualifications. Indoctrinated with Marxism, the New Man was ready to spring into action and kill and destroy on orders from the state. Its founder over two centuries ago, and the creater of its original courses and architecture, Thomas Jefferson describes his plans for the University of Virginia while serving as president of the United States. The new university "would be on the most extensive and liberal scale that our circumstances would call for, and our faculties might even attract talented students from other states to come and drink of the cup of knowledge." (Letter from Jefferson to Charles Wilson Peale, Thomas Jefferson: Passionate Pilgrim by Alf Mapp Jr). The new university "would be based on the illimitable freedom of the human mind. For here we are not afraid to follow truth wherever it may lead, nor to tolerate any error so long as reason is left free to combat it." (Jefferson and His Time: The Sage of Monticello by Dumas Malone). In the twenty first century, the cup of knowledge at the University of Virginia has been poisoned and the freedom of the mind shut down by the imposition of religion. This is a religion derived from Marxism and it has expelled from campus the pursuit of reason and truth exalted by Jefferson. This Marxist derivative is a monster which walked through a fateful door opened by Marx. This door was marked tribalism, and in the twentieth century, a neoMarxist monster called gender, race, class, culture, ethnicity and sexual orientation politics walked through it and commenced a rampage, mauling apart every last trace of Enlightenment thought it could find, seeking to create a society as far removed from Jefferson's vision as midnight darkness is removed from noonday brilliance. In the twenty first century, at the university founded by Jefferson and dedicated to his Enlightenment ideals, this monster has invaded, smashed up the classrooms and lecterns, and plunged the students into a nightmare. Look at the University of Virginia today and see a neoMarxist manifesto in action writing the final lines of modern civilization. University of Virginia. Today's University of Virginia proclaims that progressive education includes courses in radical ecofeminism. It condemns capitalism as a regime of slavery and settler colonialism. It rejects science in favor of mystical speaking and listening to plants and animals, such as birds, goats, lichen and willow oaks, to mystically touching and moving among them, and to mystically seeing the oneness of all species. It condemns capitalism as a regime of inequality and impoverishment. It condemns capitalism as a regime of oppression and exploitation of women, plants and animals. It includes courses in black feminism. It condemns capitalism as a regime of extinction of marine animals. It condemns capitalism as a regime of imperialism, militarization and chattel slavery. It rejects Western classics in favor of Marxist feminist, literary and postcolonial classics. It rejects the teaching of traditional subjects in favor of political and ideological subjects. It rejects Jefferson's ideals of intellectual freedom and excellence in favor of Marxist politicization and indoctrination. It condemns capitalism as a regime of discrimination against women, nonwhites, transgenders, bisexuals and the poor. Its definition of higher education is to inculcate in students a hatred of reason, individualism, constitutional rights and free societies, and an implacable determination to kill and destroy them. It promotes a Marxist social and political agenda and does not seek to rationally educate or inform students, but instead to propagandize and agitate them to fight in the streets. It condemns capitalism as a regime seeking to silence radical women and gender ideologues. It includes courses in Marxist gender and body studies. It includes courses in Marxist social activism and queer Judaism. It promotes totalitarian government in the hands of Marxist thought police imposing a religion of race, gender and ethnicity, and storming the citadels of the Enlightenment: "A course titled Ecofeminist Poetry & Poetics being taught this spring at the University of Virginia has students 'listen' to plants and animals to better understand how 'settler colonialism' and slavery 'thrive off of the intrinsic interconnectedness between species.' However, the president of an alumni group told The College Fix that 'politicized' courses such as this stray away from the university's founding ideals. The class is being taught by English Professor Brian Teare, according to the course syllabus. The College Fix received the syllabus through a public records request. The syllabus defines ecofeminist research as 'any mode of inquiry guided by critical ecological feminism, the idea that women and the more than human world share a political fate determined by a master model that divides up the world into unequal and antagonistic dualisms.' The course description begins with a question: 'How can we listen across species, asks Alexis Pauline Gumbs in Undrowned: Black Feminist Lessons from Marine Mammals across extinction, across harm?' It continues: 'And how can the practice of poetry extend the senses, aid us in listening and speaking to, touching, and moving in ethical relation to the imperiled world?' 'Much ecofeminist poetry makes visible how chattel slavery, imperialism, industrialization, settler colonialism, and militarization take advantage of and thrive off of the intrinsic interconnectedness between species, ecosystems, humans, and human systems', it continues. To answer these questions, the syllabus states that 'birds, goats, willow oaks, and lichen will accompany us through the semester as we too attempt to listen across species.' 'To see what happens', writes Gumbs, 'when we rethink and refeel our own relations, possibilities, and practices in conversation with the more than human world'. In a 'learning outcomes' section, the syllabus states that the course will introduce students 'to ecopoetics as a literary tradition and ecofeminism as a critical discourse, and to facilitate an understanding of how they intersect.' Readings for the course include 'feminist, literary', and 'postcolonial' works, as well as contemporary ecofeminist poetry. They include, but are not limited to, Ariana Benson's Black Pastoral, Joan Naviyuk Kane's Milk Black Carbon and Madhur Anand's Parasitic Oscillations. The Fix emailed Professor Teare for comment twice over the past few weeks, asking what he would say to those who may argue the subject seems too ideological for a public university. He did not respond. The university's media relations office also did not respond when asked how many students are enrolled in the course and why the university decided to offer it. However, the course attracted criticism from a leader of the Jefferson Council, an alumni network 'committed to leading the University of Virginia back to Thomas Jefferson's legacy of freedom and excellence', according to its website. Its president, John Gardner, told The Fix in a recent email that the course is 'clearly viewing the world through a narrow predetermined politicized lens.' 'Courses such as this should not be supported by taxpayer dollars. The purpose of a public university is to educate, not indoctrinate', he told The Fix. When asked if there was anything in the syllabus he found particularly surprising, Gardner told The Fix both yes and no. 'It is surprising to the extent that such an inane and clearly agenda based politicized course could find its way into the curricula of any respectable institute of higher learning', he told The Fix. 'Moreover, the course description itself would befuddle most rational individuals. It is a word salad of such utter foolishness as to make Kamala Harris look like an eloquent orator', he said. 'It is not surprising to the extent that over the past decade or more the increasingly left wing politicized faculties of most universities have turned their curricula into woke fantasylands', Gardner said. The rotunda where the class is taught was designed by Thomas Jefferson, according to the university's website. Commenting on the significance of the location, Gardner told The Fix that 'perhaps the Jeffersonian saying most often quoted at UVA concerning the founding of his university is—For here we are not afraid to follow truth wherever it may lead.' 'Mr. Jefferson (as we refer to him at UVA) founded UVA as a public institution to educate a broader segment of the population than what was then the current situation. He felt it was important to have an educated and informed citizenry to sustain a successful republic', he said. 'Courses like this one are not meant to follow truth, but to advance a political/social agenda. It is more suitable to be a course taught in Orwell's 1984 than at Mr Jefferson's University', he told The Fix. Gardner pointed out other examples of courses that he believes are concerning at UVA, including Women and Gender in the Deaf World, Gender, Body Image, and Social Activism and Queer Judaism." (UVA 'Ecofeminist' Course Has Students Listen To 'Birds,' 'Lichen' To Understand Oppression by Spencer Lombardo). University of Virginia. At the center of the University of Virginia stands the iconic Rotunda. Designed by Thomas Jefferson to represent the

DOJ-RLC Comment-000525

"authority of nature and power of reason", it was modeled after the Pantheon in Rome. It represented Jefferson's exaltation of Greco-Roman secular culture and his belief in the separation of church and education. In the twenty first century, the Rotunda has been invaded by the avatars of a new Marxist Dark Ages.

RED GUARDS TAKE OVER BRITAIN

In 1966 civilized people throughout the world fell into the grip of horror and fear. They beheld the onset of a mass movement in China. Led by Mao Zedong, one million Red Guards, screaming with tears in their eyes, and waving Maoist bibles called the Little Red Book, went on a rampage and began tearing down traditional Chinese culture and civilization. The campaign commenced on August 18 at Tiananmen Square in Beijing, when Mao addressed his Red Guards with the message: "Bombard the headquarters". Dressed in uniform, the Red Guards began roaming the towns and countryside, attacking the "Four Olds: old ideas, old culture, old customs and old habits", killing nonMarxist intellectuals and capitalists, shutting down schools and libraries, and destroying nonMarxist buildings, monuments and books. Known as the Cultural Revolution, the Red Guard terror resulted in the deaths of millions of people and reduced China to a wasteland. In the twenty first century, the Maoist Cultural Revolution has come to a land with one of the longest and most illustrious traditions of human rights in history. It has come to a land whose 1215 Magna Carta required the consent of parliament for the imposition of taxes, guaranteed to individuals accused of crimes "the lawful trial of one's peers by the law of the land", proclaimed that "we will sell to no man, and will not deny or defer to any man, either justice or right", and guaranteed freedom of movement to all. In a terrifying illustration of the iron law that the mightiest tree in the forest will crash if sufficiently rotted and decayed, the Maoist Cultural Revolution has come to Britain in the twenty first century and rendered the nation unrecognizable. The revolution was a long time in the making and the seeds were planted in the early years of the twentieth century. The antecedents included the 1909 People's Budget authored by Winston Churchill and David Lloyd George, which established socialist programs such as old age pensions by taxing the wealthy and land values and redistributing wealth. It was the first democratic budget in the West to establish a welfare state, proclaimed by Churchill to be the "people's right". The antecedents included the nationalization of the economy by Clement Atlee's government from 1945 to 1951. Without precedent in British history, the state took control of the Bank of England, the civil aviation industry, the coal industry, the transport industry, the electricity and gas industries, the iron and steel industries and the telecommunications industries. By 1950, half of all capital in Britain was owned by the state. The antecedents included the defense of communism under the banners of social security, full employment and a National Health Service: "The movement for social reform reached a climax in December 1942, with the publication of the Beveridge Report. The author of this, Sir William Beveridge, was an ambitious man, whose report went far beyond the terms of reference he had been given by the government. He produced what amounted to a comprehensive manifesto of social reform, including social security, a National Health Service, a full employment policy and other advances." (Why Churchill Lost in 1945 by Paul Addison). In the twenty first century, one hundred years of Marxist politics have brought the bitter fruit of a government campaign to erase every last trace of civilization in Britain. Look at Britain today and see a manifesto of Marxist mania in action, a mental illness wielding sledgehammers which will not rest until Britain is reduced to the year zero. Britain Today. Britain today proclaims that images of British luminaries appearing on paper money must be removed on the grounds that they are divisive in the new Marxist order. They are offensive to gender, race, class, culture, ethnicity and sexual orientation groups. They marginalize and exclude Marxist women, Marxist blacks, Marxist proletarians, Marxist cultures, Marxist ethnicities, Marxist gays, Marxist lesbians, Marxist transgenders and Marxist Muslims. Images of Winston Churchill, Isaac Newton, Christopher Wren, George Stephenson, Michael Faraday, Charles Darwin, Boulton and Watt, the Duke of Wellington and Alan Turing are images of the Western

DOJ-RLC Comment-000526

Enlightenment and are antithetical to the new world of the people's progressive Britain. In place of shining historical figures and their common Enlightenment culture, progressivism demands the depiction of native British wildlife: "The Bank of England is to end the tradition of printing images of great Britons on the verso of paper money notes, stating it has decided to proceed with pictures of wildlife instead after it wanted something 'not divisive'. Sir Winston Churchill will no longer grace the pockets of Britons after it was announced the 50 year practice of printing portraits of famous Britons on the opposite side of notes from that of the reigning monarch is to end. The Bank of England, which issues money on behalf of the government, said in a statement on the change, emphasized that the change was supported by their research into public taste, which showed that images of native wildlife would be less 'divisive' than historic figures. They said the future designs had to meet their criteria, which included that new pictures symbolized the UK, resonated with the public, and 'is not divisive. The theme should not involve imagery that would reasonably be offensive to, or exclude, any groups.' In recent memory wartime leader Sir Winston Churchill was uncontroversial in his position as the 'greatest Briton of all time' but, evidently, with the UK shorn of its uniting common culture this no longer applies. Indeed, the statue of Sir Winston in Parliament square has been repeatedly vandalized in recent years. While Britain's paper money originally only showed an image of the sitting monarch, from 1970 the verso, or back side, also began to show portraits of famous Britons. Those chosen for the honor has changed with ever greater frequency: those first figures chosen, The Bard William Shakespeare and the victor of the Battle of Waterloo, the Duke of Wellington, graced Britain's money for over 20 years each, and now Second World War codebreaker Alan Turing is up for replacement with an animal after just six. Apart from artists and military leaders, and unsurprisingly given the history of the people of the islands, perhaps the greatest source of great Britons for the money has been engineers and scientists. Among them were giants of scientific history; Sir Isaac Newton, Sir Christopher Wren, George Stephenson, Michael Faraday, Charles Darwin, Boulton and Watt, and Alan Turing." (Civilizational Erasure: Images Of Great Britons To Be Removed From Nation's Money by Oliver JJ Lane). Britain Today. Britain today proclaims that the design of banknotes must be dictated by the principles of political correctness and must no longer pay tribute to the likes of Winston Churchill, Jane Austen, William Turner and Alan Turing. Progressive banknotes must feature landscapes and architecture and exclude the faces of historical figures and Enlightenment culture which give offense to newly arrived communities of blacks and Muslims. Progressive banknotes must feature images of ecology, biodiversity, animals and birds, and exclude heroes of Enlightenment literature, politics, art and technology. Progressive banknotes must exclude all human faces and especially the faces of whites, males, and Enlightenment statesmen and colonialists: "The Bank of England has announced plans to revamp the design of its banknotes. Gone are Winston Churchill and Jane Austen, replaced by badgers and squirrels: the aim is to showcase Britain's wildlife. he latest series issued by the Bank of England paid tribute to Winston Churchill, Jane Austen, William Turner, and Alan Turing—an interesting selection combining literature and politics, art and technology. Some certainly felt that one woman for every three men was hardly gender balanced, but at least the brave Jane Austen had the merit of being there. Those happy days are well and truly over. The choice of new British banknotes is just one manifestation of the deconstruction that we are witnessing, powerless, every day before our very eyes. survey was conducted among a panel of 44,000 participants: 60% of them preferred banknotes featuring 'animals and birds' rather than landscapes or architectural elements (56%) or historical figures (only 36%). Behind this vote, there may be many reasons for Jane and Winston's dismissal: no one reads War Memoirs or Mansfield Park anymore; depicting human faces is not done in certain newly arrived communities that are intended to enrich the common culture; the need to cultivate ecological awareness of biodiversity in the era of nuclear war must take precedence over all other considerations—there is certainly no shortage of explanatory hypotheses. We could add that it's been some time since this old white male colonialist of Churchill has been labelled unwanted." (Farewell, Winston; Welcome Badger: The Tale of the New British Banknotes

by Helene Lauzon). Britain Today. Britain today proclaims that progressive banknotes must exclude images of prominent Britons in the name of Marxist ideology. They must exclude images of inspirational historical figures in the name of Marxist ideology. They must exclude the heroes of Enlightenment politics, thought, innovation, leadership, values and an Enlightenment nation in the name of Marxist ideology. A progressive society must conduct polls of the Marxist populace and ask it what kinds of badgers, frogs, hedgehogs, newts, barn owls, plants and landscapes it wishes to see on its paper currency: "World War II leader Winston Churchill is to be dropped from the UK £5 banknote in favor of a nature scene, sparking outrage from some lawmakers who said he should not be replaced by an otter or badger. Novelist Jane Austen, artist J. M. W. Turner and mathematician and codebreaker Alan Turing, are also due to be phased out on the £10, £20 and £50 banknotes respectively as part of a redesign. The next series of banknotes due to be issued by the Bank of England will feature animals native to the UK, in a shift away from images of prominent Britons. Possibilities, subject to a public consultation, include badgers and otters as well as frogs, hedgehogs, barn owls and newts. Plants and landscapes will complete the scenes depicted. 'For more than 50 years, the bank has proudly showcased many inspirational historical figures who have helped shape national thought, innovation, leadership and values on its banknotes', the bank said. 'The change to wildlife imagery provides an opportunity to celebrate another important aspect of the UK', it added. The bank will gather views later this year about the specific wildlife the public would like to feature on the next set of banknotes." (WWII Leader Churchill To Be Removed From UK Banknotes by Helen Rowe). Britain Today. On August 18, 1966, on the rostrum of Tiananmen Square, Mao Zedong commanded his Red Guards to go out onto the streets and vandalize, smash, burn and kill the symbols of civilization. Rampaging under Mao's slogan "to rebel is justified", and obeying Mao's command to "ignite the fires of revolution", the Red Guards razed China to the ground over a ten year period and dug a mass grave for the nation. Excluding images of all those who shaped the British nation and advanced the British Enlightenment, from Charles Dickens to Michael Faraday to Edward Elgar to Florence Nightingale to Christopher Wren, and replacing them with images of British flora and fauna, Mao's Red Guards have set up shop in the twenty first century.

MARCH 14, 2026: A VOICE OF TERROR DIES

He was there. The 1968 student movement in West Germany. Condemning liberal democracy as a regime of police brutality, and marching under the banners of democracy, gender equality, social reform and cultural change, students across the Federal Republic spread violence in the streets in a campaign to overthrow the government. Among their ranks are the West German leaders of Marxism: Kommune 1, the Extraparliamentary Opposition, and the founders of the Red Army Faction, Andreas Baader, Ulrike Meinhof and Gudrun Ensslin. He was there. Advocating street action and street subversion in the name of a robust, open and inclusive democracy, he mentored the students' guns and bombs of Marxist terror, and told the students to light the gasoline rags of Marxist arson. He was there. He was a member of the Frankfurt school, also named the Institute for Social Research, founded at the University of Frankfurt during the Weimar Republic, innocuous names chosen to conceal the Marxist character of the movement. The first academic institute in the West to promote Marxism, the Frankfurt school peddled its religion using terms such as critical theory. Coined by Frankfurt school director Max Horkheimer, critical theory was called such because it was critical of the Enlightenment doctrine of universal, objective truth. Inspired by Kant's own criticism of the Enlightenment, encapsulated in the statement of his terrifying mission, "I have therefore found it necessary to deny knowledge in order to make room for faith", critical theory proclaimed that truth is a subjective narrative and a product of gender, race and class, and the highest form of Marxism is a multitribe, multigorgon monster which has walked through the tribalist, collectivist, antiEnlightenment door opened by Marx. Rejecting empiricism, common sense and the Enlightenment, he peddled the Frankfurt school's new left brand of Marxism under various names. He called it pragmatism, poststructuralism and action theory. He called it radical democracy. He called it the doctrine of consensus, communicative action and the public sphere. He rejected the rights, freedoms and dignity of the individual: "Freedom conceived intersubjectively distinguishes itself from the arbitrary freedom of the isolated individual". Rejecting universal liberal democracy, he promoted the neoMarxist disintegration of modern civilization into warring tribes. He promoted the politics of environmentalism, nuclear disarmament, single issues, local movements, urban squatters, rural communes, gays, lesbians, black subcultures, the handicapped, tax resistance, youth sects, religious fundamentalists, global antipoverty movements, ecology movements, alternative lifestyle movements, peace movements, youth protest movements, middle class movements, property rights movements, traditionalist movements, parents' associations, nuclear family movements, liberation movements, social withdrawal movements, socialist movements, bourgeois movements, antipatriarchal movements, radical feminist movements, language communities, national communitiess, regional communities and cultural communities: "The current potentials for protest are very difficult to classify, because scenes, groupings, and topics change very rapidly. To the extent that organizational nuclei are formed at the level of parties or associations, members are recruited from the same diffuse reservoir. The following catchphrases serve at the moment to identify the various currents in the Federal Republic of Germany: the antinuclear and environmental movements; the peace movement (including the theme of north-south conflict); single issue and local movements; the alternative movement (which encompasses the urban scene, with its squatters and alternative projects, as well as the rural communes); the minorities (the elderly, gays, handicapped, and so forth); the psychoscene, with support groups and youth sects; religious fundamentalism; the tax protest movement, school protest by parents' associations, resistance to modernist reforms; and, finally, the women's movement. Of international significance are the autonomy movements struggling for regional, linguistic, cultural, and also religious independence. In this spectrum I will differentiate emancipatory potentials from potentials for resistance and withdrawal. After the American civil rights movement—which has since issued in a particularistic self affirmation of black subcultures—only the feminist movement stands in the tradition of bourgeois-socialist liberation movements. The struggle against patriarchal oppression and for the redemption of a promise that has long been anchored in the acknowledged universalist foundations of morality and law gives feminism the impetus of an offensive movement, whereas the other movements have a more defensive character. The resistance and withdrawal movements aim at stemming organized domains of action for the sake of communicatively structured domains, and not at conquering new territory. There is an element of particularism that connects feminism with these movements; the emancipation of women means not only establishing formal equality and eliminating male privilege, but overturning concrete forms of life marked by male monopolies. Furthermore, the historical legacy of the sexual division of labor to which women were subjected in the bourgeois nuclearnfamily has given them access to contrasting virtues, to anregister of values complementary to those of the male world and opposed to a one sidedly rationalized everyday practice. Within resistance movements we can distinguish further between the defense of traditional and social rank (based on property) and a defense that already operates on the basis of a rationalized lifeworld and tries out new ways of cooperating and living together. This criterion makes it possible to demarcate the protest of the traditional middle classes against threats to neighborhoods by large technical projects, the protest of parents against comprehensive schools, the protest against taxes (patterned after the movement in support of Proposition 13 in California), and most of the movements for autonomy, on the one side, from the core of a new conflict potential, on the other: youth and alternative movements for which a critique of growth sparked by themes of ecology and peace is the common focus. It is possible to conceive of these conflicts in terms of resistance to tendencies toward a colonization of the lifeworld, as I hope now to indicate, at least in a cursory way. The objectives, attitudes, and ways of acting prevalent in youth protest groups can be understood, to begin with, as reactions to certain problem situations that are perceived with great sensitivity." (Theory of Communicative Action by Jurgen Habermas, Volume Two, page 332). He condemned modern scientific and technological civilization as an engine of despoliation of the countryside, pervasive air, land and water pollution, the drug poisoning of the population, and an unrelenting assault on the mind and senses, rendering the planet unfit for human habitation: "The intervention of large scale industry into ecological balances, the growing scarcity of nonrenewable natural resources, as well as demographic developments, present industrially developed societies with major problems; but these challenges are abstract at first and call for technical and economic solutions, which must in turn be globally planned and implemented by administrative means. What sets off the protest is rather the tangible destruction of the urban environment; the despoliation of the countryside through housing developments, industrialization, and pollution; the impairment of health through the ravages of civilization, pharmaceutical side effects, and the like—that is, developments that noticeably affect the organic foundations of the lifeworld and make us drastically aware of standards of livability, of limits to the deprivation of sensual-esthetic background needs." (Theory of Communicative Action by Jurgen Habermas, Volume Two, pages 332-333). He condemned modern scientific and technological civilization as a looming specter of mass human annihilation. Its agents are nuclear power plant explosions, nuclear waste generation, genetic engineering, and the dissolution of human privacy within the all seeing eyes of cyberspace and data bases: "There are certainly good reasons to fear military potentials for destruction, nuclear power plants, atomic waste, genetic engineering, the storage and central utilization of private data, and the like. These real anxieties are combined, however, with the terror of a new category of risks that are literally invisible and are comprehensible only from the perspective of the system. These risks invade the lifeworld and at the same time burst its dimensions. The anxieties function as catalysts for a feeling of being overwhelmed in view of the possible consequences of processes for which we are morally accountable—since we do set them in motion technically and politically—and yet for which we can no longer take moral responsibility—since their scale has put them beyond our control. Here resistance is directed against abstractions that are forced upon the lifeworld, although they go beyond the spatial, temporal, and social limits of complexity of even highly differentiated lifeworlds, centered as these are around the senses." (Theory of Communicative Action by Jurgen Habermas, Volume Two, pages 332-333). He condemned modern scientific and technological civilization as a moral blight and scourge of spiritual impoverishment. He advocated a movement of Marxist women, Marxist blacks, Marxist Christians, Marxist Muslims, Marxist fundamentalists, Marxist young people, Marxist elderly people, Marxist neighborhoods, Marxist projects, Marxist communities and Marxist subcultures to storm the ramparts of Enlightenment institutions and turn back the clock to the year zero: "Something that is expressed rather blatantly in the manifestations of the psychomovement and renewed religious fundamentalism is also a motivating force behind most alternative projects and many citizens' action groups—the painful manifestations of deprivation in a culturally impoverished and one sidedly rationalized practice of everyday life. For this reason, ascriptive characteristics such as gender, age, skin color, neighborhood or locality, and religious affiliation serve to build up and separate off communities, to establish subculturally protected communities supportive of the search for personal and collective identity." (Theory of Communicative Action by Jurgen Habermas, Volume Two, pages 332-333). He was born on June 18, 1929 in Dusseldorf, Germany. He earned a PhD in philosophy at the University of Bonn in 1954. He was part of the second generation of the Frankfurt school, following in the footsteps of Marxists Max Horkheimer and Theodor Adorno. He died on March 14, 2026 in Starnberg, Germany, survived by his children Tillmann and Judith, and by the terror he had unleashed. His name was Jurgen Habermas.

STUDENTS TODAY: MULTICULTURALISM'S YOUNG SOLDIERS

It was a mandatory routine for all students in German schools. Whenever they entered their schools, whenever teachers entered their classrooms and whenever they greeted teachers outside, students were required to raise their right arms and cry Heil Hitler! This official form of greeting was the terrifying commencment of the indoctrination of youth undertaken during the Third Reich. It was the commencement of a campaign to teach students to be race conscious, to promote Aryan supremacy, to hate Jews, and to worship their fuhrer, Adolf Hitler, who embodied the German racial state. Heil Hitler! It transformed classrooms from places of education into places of race agitation and propaganda, and trained a generation of youth to kill and destroy on orders from the state. Eighty years after the Third Reich crashed into rubble and its swastikas and Heil Hitlers were hurled into the dustbin of history, its spirit has returned and placed a pall on the world of education. Eighty years after Hitler committed suicide, his Third Reich collapsed and German civilization was scorched to the earth, all three have risen from the grave and assumed control over schools across the West. The names and faces have changed but the tragedy and horror have remained the same, and generations of youth have been indoctrinated in ideologies of tribalism and hate, and declared war on Enlightenment liberal democracy. The names and faces of education in the twenty first century are those associated with a doctrine called multiculturalism, and like its Hitlerian precursor, it has proceeded from the same source. The source is the philosophical doctrine of subjectivism, which proclaims that what is called reality is not physical or absolute but is created by the consciouness of the perceiver, and there are as many realities as there are individuals or groups, no one of which may be held to be more true or valid than any others. From the philosophy of the most influential and discussed philosopher in modern times, from the philosophy of Immanuel Kant, which proclaims that human perception is subjective and creates the universal delusion of physical objects, to Marxist subjectivism, which proclaims that logic is relative to economic classes and there is a proletarian logic and a bourgeois logic, to national socialist subjectivism, which proclaims that logic is relative to racial groups, and there is an Aryan logic and a Jewish logic, is a relentless, terrifying straight line movement, and in the mid twentieth century it ramified into the doctrine of multiculturalism. This doctrine gave birth to a multitribe, multigorgon Marxist monster called gender, race, class, culture, ethnicity and sexual orientation politics, and in the twenty first century, this monster has commenced a rampage in schools, smashing up chairs, desks, blackboards and lecterns, transforming traditional schools into places of multiculturalist agitation and propaganda. Look at schools today and see the end of the line of Kantian subjectivism and the final lines being written of Western civilization. Heil Hitler! Multiculturalism proclaims that truth is relative to ethnic, religious, economic, and sexual orientaion groups, whose demands governments should pander to. All cultures are equal in value except Western Enlightenment culture, which is the essence of evil. Individuals should be treated in accordance with their group identities, and nonwhites should be given preferential treatment over whites, and women should be given preferential treatment over men, as reparations for past discrimination. There is no such thing universal science or the empirical method, and native myths and superstitions possess equal truth and value with modern scientific theories: "Multiculturalism may be the most important component of today’s radicalization of teacher education. It is a term with many possible definitions; one general definition is that society consists of groups—ethnic, religious, economic, and sexual—between which the government serves as mediator. The idea of multiculturalism also suggests that all cultures are equal in theory (although in practice US and European cultures are treated as fundamentally inferior). And much of the time, it proposes that people—and the knowledge they possess—should be treated differently according to their backgrounds or identities. For instance, some groups should be given advantages to make up for past injustices. Or, native myths should be accepted as truths for members of the community that believe them, even though these myths are easily disproven by scientific methods." A progressive school rejects the traditional liberal humanist curriculum in favor of a racist Afrocentric curriculum. Progressive education teaches students the pillars of Islam and the worship of Allah and the Prophet. Progressive education rejects the teaching of the national language in favor of foreign immigrant languages, and is a Tower of Babel ruled by the forces of chaos: "It is hard to imagine a more disruptive idea in regard to our national foundations. Our traditional view of society, going back to even before the colonies were founded, all the way back to English common law in the 1500s, is based on the individual. It seems very unlikely that the two perspectives can be reconciled —and attempts to do so can only make society unworkable. And yet, multiculturalism has made deep inroads into our public schools. Public elementary charter schools with Afrocentric curricula have popped up in urban centers across the country. At a time when overt Christian beliefs and celebrations are being eliminated from public schools, students are learning the basics of Islam. At one upper middle class district in New Jersey where the majority of students are either Christian or Jewish, students are taught to recite the Five Pillars of Islam and fill in the blanks in the following sentence: 'There is no god but BLANK and BLANK is his messenger.' (Correct answers: Allah and Muhammed). In many public schools, students are taught almost entirely in the language of their parents, and wind up speaking only faltering English." The real goal is to effect sweeping changes, not just in the way students learn, but by transforming the very foundations of how people think and interact with the world. Multicultural education should therefore be viewed as primarily political, rather than educational. It is frequently militant, with an angry edge directed toward the people and culture of the European-American majority. And it is infused with the spirit and language of critical theory and other radical ideologies. The version that has emerged as dominant in schools of education not only divides society into various groups, but sorts or ranks them according to whether they are oppressed or oppressors. The focus is on social spheres where there is potential for oppression: race, class, and gender (and newer vehicles for discrimination such as ability and age)." (The Politicization of University Schools of Education by Jay Schalin, Multicultural Education). Heil Hitler! Multiculturalism proclaims that a progressive education is a course in political radicalism without moderation of any kind. A progressive education is course in violent resistance to the liberal democratic system of white supremacy. HAMAS RALLY AT THE BERLINALE

Berlin, December 1930. The antiwar film All Quiet on the Western Front, based on the novel by Erich Maria Remarque, is screened in theaters across the city. Led by Joseph Goebbels, national socialist activists release mice and throw stink bombs into the theaters and stage riots in an attempt to force owners to stop the screenings. The actions were successful, and the Jewish owner of Berlin's Mozartsaal, Hanns Brodnitz, was later arrested and gassed in Auschwitz in 1944. In 1951, an international film festival debuted in Berlin and became one of the most prestigious film festivals in the world, drawing tens of thousands of visitors each year, and joined the ranks of Europe's Big Three, alongside the Cannes Film Festival and the Venice Film Festival. On February 12-22, 2026, at the 76th annual Berlin Film Festival, a century after Goebbels' radicals stopped the screening of All Quiet on the Western Front, hate returned to the city's theaters and shut down the iconic Berlinale. The names and players changed from the 1930 action but the mission remained the same: to target liberal democracy for destruction. The new names and players are an axis power comprised of Marxists and Muslims, and this red-green axis has continued where Hitler's brownshirts left off, and utilized one of Europe's Big Three as a platform to destroy the West. The Third Reich axis with Islam, which saw the Grand Mufti of Jerusalem, Haj Amin al-Husseini, become a close associate of Hitler, and saw the popular slogan Islam and Nazi Germany, was succeeded in the 1960s by a Marxist-Muslim axis run by the Communist Bloc and Arab nations, and for ten days in Berlin in February 2026, this axis hijacked the Berlinale and flew it into the fever swamps of totalitarian politics. The *Berlinale. Look at the 2026 Berlinale and see the cameras and klieg lights of political subversion galvanize the Marxist-Muslim sewers of the world. The festival proclaimed that a progressive film festival is comprised of Arab filmmakers to the exclusion of all others. It is a Muslim film festival condeming Israel for committing genocide by launching counterattacks against Muslim terror. It defines the crime of genocide to be committed in the absence of intent, and condemns Israel as a genocidal nation for its acts of self defense against Muslim aggression without proving any intent to liquidate Palestinians. It awards first prizes to antisemitic, antizionist, antiliberal agitprop films. It features filmmakers delivering acceptance speeches wearing the keffiyehs of Jew hatred. It condemns nations aiding Israel in its war against Palestinian terror as partners in genocide. It features filmmakers holding Palestinian flags and demanding genocide, the liquidation of Jews in Israel, "from the river to the sea". It advocates the massacre of Jews under banners marked free Palestine. It rejects Israel's right to live in peace and security, and advocates its transformation into a twenty third Arab nation. It condemns Israel's counterattacks against Palestinian terror as crimes against humanity and war crimes against Palestinians. It ignores evidence that Israel warns civilians of impending military attacks through a variety of communcation means and does more to prevent civilian deaths during attacks than any other nation. It ignores evidence that Israeli military attacks achieve the lowest ratio of civilian to combatant deaths of any nation. It ignores evidence that Hamas uses civilian centers, such as schools, mosques, hospitals and apartment buildings, as deployment sites for its terrorists and weapons, seeking to maximize Palestinian civilian casualties. It features earsplitting rants against Israel because it is the only free society in the Middle East and advocates the mass killing of Jews throughout the world: "The awards ceremony at the Berlin Film Festival on February 20 was less about film and more about denouncing Israel for its 'genocide' in Gaza. An unconscionable number of Arab filmmakers won prizes, and they were all determined, as part of their acceptance speeches, to denounce the Jewish state for a crime it did not commit. More on the deplorable spectacle can be found here: German Minister Walks Out After Berlinale Winner Accuses Germany of Aiding Gaza 'Genocide' in Acceptance Speech by Shiryn Ghermezian, Algemeiner, February 20, 2026: 'German Minister of Environment Carsten Schneider walked out of the awards ceremony at the 76th Berlin International Film Festival (Berlinale) on Saturday after a Palestinian-Syrian filmmaker accused Germany of being 'partners in the genocide in Gaza by Israel' during his acceptance speech. Schneider left the room following the remarks made by Abdallah Al-Khatib, whose film Chronicles From the Siege won the Berlinale's best first feature award in the Perspectives section. 'The Federal Minister considers these statements unacceptable and therefore left the event during the speech', a spokesperson for Schneider said on Sunday, as cited by several media outlets. The minster was the only representative of the German government to attend the awards ceremony, a spokesman for his ministry told the German Press Agency. Al-Khatib, who lives in Germany and wrote and directed Chronicles From the Siege, delivered his acceptance speech on stage with a keffiyeh draped on his shoulder. 'Some people told me, maybe you have to be careful before you say what I want to say now, because you are a refugee in Germany, and there are so many red lines. But I don't care. I care about my people, about Palestine', he said. 'So, I will say my final word to the German government. You are partners in the genocide in Gaza by Israel. I believe you are intelligent enough to recognize this truth, but you choose to not care.' The filmmaker also held a Palestinian flag on stage and ended his speech with a call for a 'free Palestine from now to the end of the world.' Al-Khatib calls for a 'free Palestine', by which he means 'from the river to the sea, Palestine shall be free.' He did not call for 'two states, Israel and Palestine, living side by side in peace and security.' He wants to see Israel disappear, to be replaced by a 23rd Arab state. His charge of genocide is preposterous, but all of the Arab winners at the Berlinale repeated it without any of them presenting any evidence to support that claim. Indian writer Arundhati Roy pulled out of the festival because the president of its jury, Wim Wenders, had said that filmmakers should stay out of politics. She had been hoping to denounce Israel for—you guessed it—genocide. She needn't have worried. The charge of genocide was very much present at the Berlinale. Even before the Berlinale took place, more than one hundred members of the film industry wrote a letter urging that the Berlinale condemn Israel: 'We call on the Berlinale to fulfill its moral duty and clearly state its opposition to Israel's genocide, crimes against humanity and war crimes against Palestinians.' And no one at the Berlinale spoke up for Israel by explaining that the essential element of genocide—intent—had not been proven. Far from intending to kill civilians in Gaza, the IDF makes tremendous efforts to avoid such killings. To this end, it has dropped millions of leaflets, sent millions of text messages, made millions of robocalls, all to warn civilians away from buildings about to be targeted. West Point Professor John Spencer, an expert on urban warfare, has studied the war in Gaza and has concluded that 'Israel has done more and implemented more measures to prevent civilian harm than any military in the history of urban warfare.' Israel tries to minimize civilian casualties; Hamas tries, by placing its men and weapons in civilian buildings, including schools, mosques, hospitals, and apartment buildings, to maximize them, in order to make the IDF look bad. One more metric—the ratio of civilian to combatant deaths—also needs to be understood. According to the Hamas controlled Gaza Health Ministry, 73,000 people have died in Gaza since the war began. Of that number, the IDF believes 25,000 were Hamas terrorists. Of the 48,000 remaining, based on years of record keeping, about 800 people die each month in Gaza from noncombat related causes—diseases and accidents. That means that in the 28 months of war, 22,400 Gazans have died from those causes. In addition, it is estimated that at least 2,000 Gazans have died as a result of the misfiring of missiles launched by Hamas and Islamic Jihad at Israel, that instead fell short, and landed inside the Strip where some of them killed Gazans. Let's do the math. 73,000 total deaths minus 25,000 Hamas terrorists equals 48,000. 48,000 minus 22,400 noncombat related deaths equals 25,600. 25,600 minus 2,000 friendly fire deaths equals 23,600 civilians in Gaza died as a result of Israeli fire. The UN believes that in all the wars fought since 1945, the civilian to combatant ratio has on average been 9 to 1. In Afghanistan, the Americans managed to bring that ration down to 4 to 1; in Iraq, the Americans brought it down to 3:1. But in Gaza, the ration has been 23,600 to 25,000, or less than 1:1. In the annals of modern warfare, this is an unheard of number. But the IDF managed to attain it." (At Berlin Film Festival, Antisemitism Was in the Air by Hugh Fitzgerald). The *Berlinale. Look at the Berlinale and see actors, directors, producers and organizers sign letters and broadcast speeches to the world protesting the existence of Israel, Enlightenment institutions, Western nations and modern civilization: "Germany's government convened an emergency meeting of the organizers of the Berlin Film Festival on Thursday, saying it wanted to discuss the event's 'direction' after debate and protests over Gaza dominated the program. The Bild newspaper reported on Wednesday that the government's Commissioner for Culture and Media, Wolfram Weimer, was planning to sack festival director Tricia Tuttle, citing sources close to the festival's organizers, though the event's overseeing body denied it. In reaction to the report, the winner of this year's main prize, Turkish-German director Ilker Catak, said he would boycott the event if Tuttle went, and hundreds of signatories, including British actor Tilda Swinton and German director Tom Tykwer, sent an open letter backing her." (Berlin Film Festival Director's Future In Spotlight After Gaza Furore, Reuters, February 26, 2026). The *Berlinale. These children see no ideals before them like our own. The egoism of the individual is not used in the service of higher common goals. On the contrary, Jewish racial morality claims, in contrast to Aryan morality, that unrestrained egoism is a divine law. His religion makes a duty out of treachery and usury. Directed by Fritz Hippler on orders from Joseph Goebbels, the most notorious antisemitic film in cinematic history debuted in Germany in 1940. Its message is that individual freedom is the essence of evil because it is opposed to higher collectivist ideals, and represents Jewish treason and usury against the collectivist Aryan race. On February 12-22, 2026, at the 76th annual Berlin Film Festival, The Eternal Jew was screened with minor alterations by the Jew haters and totalitarians of today ranged against freedom, by the Marxist-Islamist axis advancing across the world.

DOCTOR DOOMSDAY MEETS HIS MAKER

A convex lens is an integral part of any survival kit. It can start fires by bending the sun's rays and concentrating them onto a small point, generating sufficient heat to cause ignition. To create fire in an emergency or when isolated from civilization, all one requires is direct sunlight, tinder such as dry leaves or grass, and a convex lens, held between the sun and the tinder. On March 13, 2026, at a retirement home in Palo Alto, California, a human convex lens died, in whose thought had been concentrated all the rays of hatred of mankind, modern civilization and the Enlightenment which animated the radical movement he led, a lens which made him a blazing, skyrocketing, white hot column of hate. He was the distilled essence of his movement and the embodiment of its holy war against human existence. He was the face of panic, fear, danger and doomsday, and his predictions and warnings counseled a program of destruction of human life, human progress and human social order. He was an icon of the Western cultural establishment and the recipient of dozens of its awards, from the John Muir Award of the Sierra Club to the Crafoord Prize in biosciences, awarded by the Royal Swedish Academy of Sciences, to the Eminent Ecologist Award of the Ecological Society of America to the Distinguished Scientist Award of the American Institute of Biological Sciences, and was a staple of television talk shows, giving interviews extending into the night. The author of The Population Bomb, The Population Explosion and Optimum Human Population Size, and late professor of population studies of the Department of Biology at Stanford University, Paul Ehrlich fanned the flames of hysteria against modern scientific, industrial, technological, liberal civilization as they had never been fanned before. A study of Paul Ehrlich, American environmentalist celebrity and superstar, is a study of far left fanaticism writing the final lines of civilization. Paul Ehrlich. He proclaimed that modern civilization is a population bomb which will starve to death billions of people. Modern civilization must be replaced by daily Earth Days which will worship the mystical oneness of nature and bring forth the peace of human inactivity. Modern civilization will descend into an age of scarcity which will usher in the apocalypse of human extinction. Modern civilization is an unsustainable nightmare and plague on the planet. A progressive society is a shrinking, stagnant, regressing society descending into the year zero: "Every one of Paul Ehrlich's headline predictions was wrong, but The New York Times obituary tellingly spun that as 'premature'—precisely because his doomsaying made him a leader of the modern environmental movement. He rose to fame with 1968's The Population Bomb, which claimed humanity within decades would be starving to death by the billions. For the first Earth Day in 1970, he predicted 4 billion dead worldwide by the year 2000. Instead, mankind finds ways to grow more food: The global population doubled with no hint of apocalypse. His 1974 book predicted, 'before 1985, mankind will enter a genuine age of scarcity.' Instead, humanity entered an era of abundance; now the world only sees a famine when some government makes it happen. In 1980, economist Julian Simon challenged him to a bet; Ehrlich chose five commodities he were sure would be more expensive in 10 years; all turned out to be cheaper in 1990. Ehrlich had his wife sign the check paying off the wager. Time and again, he predicted doom on the assumption that humanity is a plague on the Earth. Every time he was wrong—because the 'plague' fear is a figment of the progressive imagination; the need for 'sustainable economies' is a myth. Yet the media never stopped promoting him, because the left shares his core delusions: As recently as 2023 60 Minutes insisted his claim that 'humanity is not sustainable' was finally proving true, with 'mass extinctions' on the way. In reality, shrinking populations are now a growing problem—for example, not enough young Americans to fund Social Security and Medicare for older ones, so both programs are headed toward bankruptcy; China's 'one child' policy, abandoned far too late, may cripple its drive to become a true superpower. The left still can't stop honoring Paul Ehrlich as a visionary, when his vision was the opposite of true." (The Left Honors Paul Ehrlich BECAUSE He Falsely Saw Humanity as a Plague, New York Post Editorial Board, March 17, 2026). Paul Ehrlich. He proclaimed that modern civilization is a monster of overpopulation which rob the earth of food and natural resources. Modern civilization is incapable of feeding humanity and will consign billions of people to famine. Modern civilization will run out of food and water and become a global factory of death. Modern civilization will reduce life expectancy to the level of prehistoric man. Modern civilization must be decimated by a program of zero population growth brought about by enforced abortions, sterilizations, contraception and euthanasia. Modern civilization is a belching smokestack and raging river current of air and water pollution. Modern civilization must be placed under the control of the government, and all freedom must be eliminated, in order to increase food production and prevent mass starvation. Modern civilization is an unending horror show of overpopulation and food shortages, necessitating cannibalism. The earth can only be saved from despoliation and degradation if modern civilization is destroyed and people begin to die off: "Biologist and author Paul Ehrlich, the most influential Chicken Little of the last century, died at the age of 93 this week. His 1968 book, The Population Bomb, launched decades of institutional panic in government, entertainment and journalism. Ehrlich's core neoMalthusian argument was that overpopulation would exhaust the supply of food and natural resources, leading to a cascade of catastrophes around the world. The Population Bomb opens with a bold prediction, 'The battle to feed all of humanity is over. In the 1970s and 1980s hundreds of millions of people will starve to death in spite of any crash programs embarked upon now.' 'If I were a gambler, I would take even money that England will not exist in the year 2000', Ehrlich prophesized during a speech in 1971. He also said that the US would be rationing water 1974, and food by 1980. That smog in LA and New York would cause some 200,000 deaths per year. That Americans born after World War II wouldn't live past 50. It's difficult to exaggerate the grip Ehrlich and his followers had on elite opinion and the popular imagination. A founder of Zero Population Growth (now Population Connection), Ehrlich inspired the modern population control movement. As Charles Mann chronicled in Smithsonian magazine, Ehrlich inspired global efforts to push abortion, birth control and even sterilization by governments, the United Nations and other international organizations, and foundations. 'The results were horrific', Betsy Hartmann, author of Reproductive Rights and Wrongs, told Mann. 'Some population control programs pressured women to use only certain officially mandated contraceptives', Mann writes. 'In Egypt, Tunisia, Pakistan, South Korea and Taiwan, health workers' salaries were, in a system that invited abuse, dictated by the number of IUDs they inserted into women. In the Philippines, birth control pills were literally pitched out of helicopters hovering over remote villages. Millions of people were sterilized, often coercively, sometimes illegally, frequently in unsafe conditions, in Mexico, Bolivia, Peru, Indonesia and Bangladesh.' In the US the Ehrlicheans talked about requiring licenses for babies and putting birth control in the (dwindling) water supply. Earlier, I said it's difficult to exaggerate the grip Ehrlich's thesis had on elite opinion. The truth, however, is that the grip endures. The subheadline of the New York Times' obituary reads, 'His best selling 1968 book, which forecast global famines, made him a leader of the environmental movement. But he faced criticism when his predictions proved premature.' England still exists. Life expectancy in the US just set a record high of 79 (in Europe it's 81.5). There is no country in the world with a life expectancy under 50. Air and water quality are much better today than they were in 1968. Global food production has exploded. Famine is rare, and almost always a product of war or the backward command and control economic thinking Ehrlich supported. And fertility rates are worrisomely declining throughout the developed world, and far beyond. Slightly more than half the world's nations have subreplacement birthrates. We have not run out of any resources and America has more forests than it did a century ago. So, which predictions were 'premature', exactly? There's something about Malthusian dread that is simply too seductive to shake. For instance, a few years ago, I noticed something weird. On the 50th anniversary of Soylent Green, a dystopian, Ehrlichean film about overpopulation and food shortages, a number of writers opined how 'prescient' the movie was. No less than the normally reasonable magazine the Economist wrote, 'It is impossible to watch the film today without weighing up how accurate its predictions turned out to be.' It's an 'eerie prophecy', they declared. Really? It's 'impossible to watch' a movie about mass state sponsored euthanasia that turns human beings into high protein crackers to fend off starvation—set in 2022!—without marveling at the accuracy of its predictions? Perhaps the most remarkable thing is not that Ehrlich turned out to be so wildly wrong, but that he was so obviously wrong from the beginning. My old boss Ben Wattenberg battled Ehrlich throughout the 1970s and 1980s. His feud began with a 1970 article for the New Republic titled, The Nonsense Explosion, in which Wattenberg explained that even as Ehrlich was writing about soaring birthrates, birthrates were already declining." (Paul Ehrlich Was Wrong About Everything by Jonah Goldberg). Paul Ehrlich. Modern civilization is a lengthening shadow of doom bringing down overpopulation, overconsumption, starvation, disease and resource depletion which will dig a grave for all humanity. When he died, Professor Paul Ehrlich had burned himself up with his hate filled prophecies of civilizational self destruction. He died a high pressure jet spray of ideological fever which had lit up the movement he led.

NEW BLAZING CROSSES IN THE TWENTY FIRST CENTURY

It is the biggest house in the world. An expansion of its thirteenth century predecessor, it has inspired horror literature in nations far and wide, and sent the chill of fear coursing through civilized people. Its predecessor is called the Bethlam Royal Hospital; founded in London in 1247, it was the first mental hospital in the West. The hospital's notorious nickname, Bedlam, entered the language as a term standing for impassioned noise, chaos and disturbance. This expanded house, this bedlam on an unimaginable global scale, this raging house of insanity bringing down the institutions of the Enlightenment, is called late stage Western Culture, and it was constructed in the twentieth century. At this time, the Western masses abandoned reason, followed in the footsteps of ancient Rome in its dying centuries, and sought to revive the reign of religion. Abandoning their native, pagan, Apollonian reason, the Roman masses committed cultural treason in the fourth century AD and began worshiping at the new altars of Christianity, barbarism, statism, caesarism and welfarism. In the twentieth century, the Western masses abandoned the values of their own Enlightenment and began filling their own cultural house with the bibles of faiths new and old. One new faith was Marxism, which preached a creed of mystical collectivism, class war and the dictatorship of the proletarat over the individual. Another new faith was fascism, which proceeded from a Marxist base and preached a creed of mystical collectivism, race war, and the dictatorship of the nation and race over the individual. In the twentieth century, the old faith of Christianity began slowly rising, and in the twenty first century, it achieved a power and influence approaching the dark glory achieved during the Dark Ages. In the twenty first century, a movement called the Christian Right became the latest influential mass voice of religion in the bedlam, the global house of insanity, called the West. In the twentieth century, the Christian Right was a specter haunting the West, just as Marxism had been a specter haunting the West in the nineteenth century, but in the present day, this Christian specter has become a nightmare reality and is rolling up multiple victories across the free world. In the twentieth century, the Christian Right met with multiple defeats at the hands of its Marxist rival. It adopted in response the classic long game of focusing on the future, and persisting and not surrendering an iota in the present. In the twenty first centutry, the zeitgeist in the West finally moved the Christian Right into a position of power and influence, and it became for the first time a serious competitor to the Marxist Left. The twentieth century manifestations of the Christian Right on its path to power and influence included the organizations, the Christian Coalition of America, Focus on the Family, Family Research Council, the American Center for Law and Justice, and the Moral Majority, together with the presidency of Ronald Reagan. The movement promoted the teaching of creationism in public schools, the establishment of school prayers, and the criminalization of abortion and embryonic stem cell research. The movement promoted the doctrine of Christian nationalism, proclaiming that the West is a Christian culture and not a liberal culture, and must be taken back for God. The twenty first century has seen the spread of the Christian Right throughout the West and the rise of its ability to substantially change the course of events. The Christian Right Today. In the twenty first century, the voices of Christianity are more powerful and influential than at any time since the Dark Ages. They can be heard thundering in earsplitting tones into homes, schoools, offices and businesses, proclaiming that human zygotes are actual human persons by virtue of the reception of a supernatural soul, and there is thus no right to an abortion. A moral society rejects science and has found the Christian faith. A moral society is ruled by street preachers rejecting the right to an abortion in the name of prosupernatural life. A moral society is a Society for the Protection of Unborn Life, which affirms that actual human personhood is supernatural in character and commences at the moment of conception, when an actual child is born. A moral society is ruled by Christian ideologues opposed to abortion rights, spreading the faith on college campuses and spreading the faith online. A moral society boycotts, besieges and blows up abortion clinics. A moral society is a 40 Days for Life antiabortion protest organization. A moral society is ruled from presidencies, vice presidencies and prime ministers' offices by those who mystically see and feel the presence of a supernatural soul in the fusion of two microscopic sex cells. A moral society is a Christian Turning Point organization affirming that the killing of fertilized ovums at the moment of fertilization is a massacre of actual human persons, and is worse than the Holocaust. A moral society is ruled by the truth which is Jesus Christ and by round the clock Christian messaging. A moral society is ruled by Christian activists advocating daily church going and agitating round the clock on social media videos. A moral society pays homage to Charlie Kirk for his unashamed support for Christian mysticism, his active, aggressive steps to make it control all thought and action, and his courage in promoting it in the face of opposition by reason and science. A moral society is an evangelical Protestant and Catholic movement which awards prizes to the loudest, most strident and most hate charged young Christian soldiers in their campaign to tear down the institutions of the Enlightenment: "For 21 year old John Alexander, being against abortion came before finding faith. As a teenager at school in Buckinghamshire, he was confused as to why most of his peers supported access to abortion. On social media he argued vocally against it. Then, shortly after the pandemic, he became more interested in Christianity. He was raised in the Church of England (CofE), but thought the denomination was 'dry' and involved 'people sitting in pews not doing much'. He was inspired by the young pastor at a Pentecostal Church which discussed social issues like abortion more than CofE churches, he says. He also watched social media videos of street preachers. At university he joined the prolife society and later he became a fan of the American right wing commentator Charlie Kirk. 'In the UK, people want to be polite, so they don't tackle abortion in the same way because they are scared to talk about it', he says. 'For those who are frustrated by the culture here, they look at the States and how vocal people are, and [they] are inspired.' Last month, John attended the Society for the Protection of Unborn Children's Youth Conference--where attendance has grown steadily every year since it was created, organizers say. Analysts, charity leaders, and young anti-abortion activists who have spoken to the BBC say they have spotted a rise in the number of British young people embracing anti-abortion activism. There's no single, clear cause. The BBC has heard explanations that include opposition to the Crime and Policing Bill, which is currently working its way through Parliament and which will decriminalize abortion at every stage of pregnancy in England and Wales (meaning women will not be prosecuted for ending their own pregnancies, even if they do it late in term, though doctors will still be bound by the existing 24 week limit). And some antiabortion campaigners cite an increase in young people like John discovering (or rediscovering) Christianity, particularly Catholicism. But there's another factor that has become particularly notable in recent months: the influence of America. Some young British people have told the BBC that they have been galvanized by US antiabortion groups, many of which now have branches in Britain. And Charlie Kirk--the late political activist who toured US college campuses preaching right wing views--has become something of a hero among a small group of young British people online. Why are US antiabortion groups and individuals becoming more prominent in Britain--and could their brand of politics actually succeed in a country with such a different political culture? Those who support abortion rights say the nature of antiabortion campaigning in Britain has changed. Rachael Clarke, chief of staff at the British Pregnancy Advisory Service (BPAS), the country's largest abortion provider, is one of them. 'Up until the 2000s you would see maybe a nun or a priest quietly outside the clinic, but since about 2013 we were seeing groups like 40 Days for Life protesting', she says. Created in Texas in 2004, 40 Days for Life is one of several American antiabortion groups which now has a growing presence in the UK. It supports protesters to work in shifts outside abortion clinics for 40 days over Lent, and another 40 days in the autumn. Clarke says that some British young people have become more interested in antiabortion ideas, a trend she attributes in part to the likes of 40 Days For Life and other American groups, who she says were galvanized by the US Supreme Court's overturning of Roe v Wade in 2022. I think they've been looking about how to expand overseas. And because it's a common language, [the] UK is an easier place to start to echo what they've done in the US in terms of influence and spending.' Particularly significant is Turning Point USA, a nonprofit organization that advocates for conservative politics in schools, colleges and universities, founded in 2012 by Charlie Kirk, who enjoyed close ties to the White House, particularly Vice President JD Vance. Kirk was passionately against abortion; he called it a 'massacre' that is 'worse' than the Holocaust." (How US Groups Are Driving A New Generation Of Antiabortion Activism In The UK by Eva Weber). The Christian Right Today. "I saw cryings, screechings, roarings, brawlings, shakings of chaines, swearings, frettings and chaffings at Bethlem." (The History of Bethlem by Jonathan Andrews, Asa Briggs, Roy Porter, Penny Tucker and Keir Waddington, quoting Donald Lupton in the 1630s). For over four centuries, the Bethlem Royal Hospital has housed those who have abandoned their humanity. In the twenty first century, the definition of insanity has embraced terrifying new examples. It has embraced the growing political power of the Christian Right. On June 24, 2022, the United States Supreme Court issued a landmark ruling taking away the right an abortion. Proclaiming that the substantive guarantee of liberty contained in the Due Process Clause of the Fourteenth Amendment does not mean what it means, the Court ruled that states have the right to declare that human personhood mystically appears at the moment of conception, and that all abortion is an act of murder: "The Constitution does not confer a right to abortion; Roe and Casey are overruled; and the authority to regulate abortion is returned to the people and their elected representatives." (Dobbs vs Jackson Women's Health Organization). Insanity.

FAR LEFT CONFLAGRATION HITS THE PACIFIC NORTHWEST

There are forty seven states in the Union, and the Soviet of Washington. (United States Postmaster General James Farley, 1936). Its nickname was the "Soviet of America" due to the influence of the Communist Party USA throughout the state. In the early twentieth century, it was the stronghold of the communist Industrial Workers of the World, and the Socialist Party. In 1919, its capital Seattle hosted the first general strike and communist class war in America, involving 65,000 workers inspired by the Russian Revolution two years before. Residents of its cities Seattle, Portland and Olympia form the largest group comprising the Democratic Socialists of America, containing thousands of members. In November 1999 in Seattle, 40,000 comununists from labor unions and the environmentalist movement forced the cancelation of the World Trade Organization. This Battle of Seattle was an integral fire in the state's violent chemistry of communism. This is the state of Washington. It is part of the Pacific Northwest Region whose second member is Oregon. This second member was a home to the hippi movement in the 1960s, advocating political collectivism under the banners of communal living and harmony with nature, and psychotic breakdown under the banners of artistic experimentation and recreational drug use. Its city Portland is home to the oldest Antifa group in America, the Rose City Antifa, founded in 2007, and the region is home to the largest Antifa movement in America, with hundeds of thousands of members. Having the longest, deepest, darkest history of communism in America, the Pacific Northwest Region, bounded by the Pacific Ocean to the west, Idaho to the east, Canada to the north and California to the south, containing twelve million people and hosting a combined GDP of over one trillion dollars, has reached the end of its line in the twenty first century, and descended into the iron grip of totalitarian government. Look at the region today and see a final train stop marked freedom outlawed, and see the imminent face of America and the West. Pacific Northwest Region Today. The imposition of an income tax in violation of Washington State's constitution. lives. The nationalization of entrepreneurs under the banners of progressive politics. The transformation of the Washington State Supreme Court into a rubber stamp of class war politics. The prevention of the people from stopping through a referendum the Supreme Court's unconstitutional action. The Washington State legislature's abolition of local government and its replacement with the rule of commissars appointed by the governor. These bureaucrats have the power to remove local law enforcement, transform local elected sheriffs into their truncheons, and form their own police forces to invade people's privacy, lock people up in their homes and shut down businesses in the name of protecting public health, and to take away people's constitutional right to keep and bear arms. Oregon's confiscatory taxes on producers have driven them and their businesses out of the state, produced skyrocketing unemployment, and plunged the state into endless recessions and depressions. Oregon's tax code levies confiscatory taxes on business investments, destroying real estate investment and the real estate market. Oregon has passed the largest tax increases in the state's history, increasing taxes on fuel and doubling payroll taxes to fund the communist dream of mass transit and the abolition of cars, in the face of massive public opposition, and has deprived voters of the power to repeal it. Oregon has prevented its nationally famous voter initiatives and referendums from stopping the onslaught of statism, and paraded its statist imposition as the pinnacle of progressive politics. A culture and government dedicated to abolishing every last trace of freedom, state ownership of the lives, liberty, property and resources of the citizens, and a dictatorship of union backed mob rule over the individual, are the nightmare realities of the Pacific Northwest Region in the twenty first century: "Seattle, which is home to Amazon and Microsoft, currently employs some 193,000 well compensated Washingtonians working in the tech sector. One major reason that Seattle emerged as the first big tech hub outside of California is obvious: It is the only West Coast state with no state income tax. Its state constitution forbids an income tax. High wage workers and entrepreneurs seeking a piece of the relatively laid back, outdoors focused Pacific Northwest lifestyle can move to Washington without taking a state mandated pay cut. For the progressive Democrats who dominate state politics in the Pacific Northwest, money in the pockets of anyone other than the government and its political allies is wasted. To grab more of it, legislative Democrats in Washington are pushing through an income tax in the guise of a millionaire's tax that would levy a 9.9% tax on incomes over $1 million. Just yesterday, as the millionaire's tax neared the finish line in the Washington legislature, former Starbucks CEO Howard Schultz announced he and his wife have relocated from Seattle, where they lived for 47 years, to Miami. Florida has neither a state income tax nor a state income tax masquerading as a millionaire's tax. The constitutionality of the bill rests on progressives' expectation that the Washington Supreme Court will completely abandon decades of precedent deeming income taxes unconstitutional. The expectation may not be unfounded: Five of nine justices were appointed by Democratic governors. Democrats also voted down an amendment to forbid applying an income tax to lower income levels, signaling the millionaire's tax is likely to become a thousandaire's tax if Democrats get their way. What makes this proposed tax truly egregious, however, is its attempt to stop voters from having any say in it. The Democrats' tax bill includes a necessity clause that precludes a voter referendum that could overturn the new income tax. So long as the majority progressive appointed state Supreme Court goes along, progressives will have upended 90 years of constitutionally prohibited income taxes while shielding it from a vote of the people. Additionally, Washington progressives have taken a brazen step to undermine local governance in the state. The state house just passed a bill giving unelected bureaucrats appointed by the governor the power to remove any elected official in the state based on vague guidelines, overriding local voters' ability to select their own law enforcement. The move is an effort to exert progressive control of sheriffs in rural parts of the state who have questioned unpopular and difficult to enforce laws, such as covid restrictions and gun regulations. Not to be outdone by its neighbor to the north, Oregon's progressive governance is also thumbing its nose at the will of the voters. The Beaver State, which has made itself into an economic backwater, has long levied high state income taxes, driving businesses and people who earn money for a living out of state. (The state's second largest business, the $12 billion Dutch Brothers coffee chain, left the state last year, taking its corporate tax revenue with it.) The state's economy, always tenuous, is now crumbling. Oregon's unemployment rate of 5.2% is third worst in the nation, better than only California (5.5%) and New Jersey (5.4%). Layoffs since the beginning of 2025 are comparable to job losses during the Great Recession. Oregon progressives charge forward undaunted. The Democratic legislative supermajority voted in February to disconnect Oregon's tax code from the federal code so the state can continue to tax job creating business investment at the higher rate eschewed by DC Republicans' Big Beautiful Bill. The disconnect will not help attract the investors needed to stabilize Portland's cratering downtown real estate market, where values, when buyers can be found, are a fraction of what they were five years ago. Investors recently rated Portland as the worst place in the country to invest in real estate other than Hartford, Connecticut. Punitive rates of income taxation are not enough for Oregon Democrats. For the past year, they've tried to muscle through the largest tax increase in state history. It is a deeply unpopular package consisting of fuel tax increases to pay for more unionized transportation workers and a doubling of the state payroll tax to fund public transportation–even though the state is shedding jobs at an historic rate and such a massive payroll tax will only make things worse. Those increases, which would hit consumers' wallets directly, fomented a tax revolt among Oregon's left leaning and normally placid electorate. It took Governor Tina Kotek and the backroom persuasion of the Service Employees International Union two legislative sessions, including the longest special session in state history, to eke out passage of the tax increases in the face of overwhelming public opposition. Kotek then waited to sign her signature bill to try to deprive opponents of the ability to collect signatures to repeal it. That tactic backfired spectacularly; opponents collected nearly 250,000 signatures from an electorate of 3 million voters in weeks, setting the tax hike on a path to near certain defeat this November. Not having learned their lesson, Oregon Democrats are again trying to frustrate voter involvement by moving the date of the repeal vote from November to May, so that Kotek, who is up for reelection, and other Democrats, need not appear on the same ballot as their radioactive tax increase. This is in spite of the fact that the voter repeal petition signed by so many Oregonians specifically said the ballot measure was to be voted on in the November election." (Alarming Antidemocracy Agenda Being Pursued In Pacific Northwest by Jeff Eager). Pacific Northwest Region Today. Strike Monday, October 30! screams the Voice of Action, Seattle's Communist Party newspaper. No platforming! for the voices of liberal dissent screams the Pacific Northwest Region's Antifa movement. In the twenty first century, the region is burning up in a desert of extremism.

WITCH HUNTER RETURNS TO THE DEVIL

It began in the fifteenth century in Early Modern Europe, spread to Colonial America, and ended in 1750. During its three century reign of fear and superstition, it claimed the lives of 60,000 innocent people. Historians catalogued its horrors and philosophers condemned the darkness which was finally dispelled with the triumph of reason, science, sanity and liberal government brought by the Age of Enlightenment. This was the European and American witch craze, and the stakes, stench and burning which engulfed the period haunt the present day. They are present whenever there is a campaign launched against a person or group holding unorthodox views. They are present whenever there are investigations of those challenging the establishment, investigations disregarding the rules of justice and fairness, and concerned solely with punishing the accused. For two years, from May 2017 to March 2019, in the nation which embodied Enlightenment values as no nation ever had, they were present. For two years they targeted the nation's most influential and discussed antiestablishmentarian, a national opponent of the excresences of Marxism which threatened society, fighting everything from individual mandates to purchase health insurance and electric vehicles to racist and sexist diversity policies to transgenderist insanity, and they sought to destroy his political career and send him to jail. For two years they committed the greatest act of public malfeasance in the history modern democracies, and inflicted a political stain which will last for all time to come. For two years, in the United States of America, the nation's political establishment conducted a witchhunt against Donald Trump, and sought to frame him and his associates as Russian agents in the pay of Vladimir Putin, and committers of obstruction of justice in their attempts to obstruct the witchhunt. The proceedings were called the Robert Mueller Special Counsel Investigation, and they defined the term witchhunt in the twenty first century. In 1486, the most famous witchhunters' manual was published. Called the Hammer of Witches, its authors, Jacob Sprenger and Heinrich Kraemer, were experienced inquisitors who had burned 48 witches in a single diocese with the approval of the Vatican. Proclaiming that rejecting the reality of witches is heresy, that witches inflict physical and spiritual harm on others, and that allegiance to the devil defines witchcraft, they demanded that secular authorities massacre as many witches as they could find. In the twenty first century, the Hammer of Witches appeared in a new edition called the Robert Mueller Special Counsel Investigation as it reignited the fires of persecution and directed them against Donald Trump. Witchhunt. The Mueller investigation was intoxicated with a mission to destroy Trump. It blazed with the colors of partisanship and fanaticism. It was festooned with flags, caricatures and cartoons screaming that Trump was a Russian agent in the pay of Vladimir Putin. Its members were consumed with a cancer of biased decision making and passionate hatred. It arrested Trump's associate Tom Barrack and sent him to jail on false charges of being an agent of a foreign government, charges of which he was later acquitted. It kept Trump campaign advisors under constant surveillance without probable cause. It submitted false applications for surveillance warrants against Trump's advisors, and its lawyers were not punished for this. Its members violated security rules by storing classified notebooks at home and carrying them in an unsecure manner. Its members spoke openly of their hostility to Trump and desire to prosecute him at all costs, and sought to pressure resisting colleagues to join the crusade. It pressed charges of collusion against Trump with malice aforethought, knowing them to be false and ignoring all counterevidence, exhibiting a level of corruption condemned by Special Counsel John Durham: "An FBI agent assigned to then special counsel Robert Mueller's investigation into Donald Trump’s 2016 campaign has made bombshell allegations charging that misconduct, political bias, and 'overzealous thoughts' permeated the team—to the point of festooning the walls of their office with antiTrump cartoons and drinking alcohol while on the job. A 'Let’s get him' attitude colored the two year investigation into false claims that Trump and his advisers colluded with Russia to win the 2016 presidential election, the unidentified agent said. The allegations were first made in December 2020, when the agent was interviewed as part of an internal FBI probe into alleged misconduct by then-supervisory intelligence analyst Brian Auten—a central figure in both the Russia collusion hoax and the Hunter Biden laptopp cover up. In a Sunday night letter to Attorney General Pam Bondi and FBI Director Kash Patel, Senate Judiciary Committee Chairman Chuck Grassley (R-Iowa) detailed the most troubling aspects of the agent’s account, saying it 'confirms long standing concerns that political bias rotted the decision making process within the Mueller team. The American public deserve answers.' Among the most damning allegations:

- There was 'no authority' for the Special Counsel’s Office to open a case on Tom Barrack, a billionaire friend of Trump’s and chairman of his 2017 inaugural committee, over false claims that he was an unregistered agent of the United Arab Emirates. The FBI’s Washington Field Office already had declined to open an investigation into the now 78 year old but the Mueller team nevertheless arrested Barrack, held him in jail, and charged him with being an agent of a foreign government. After a lengthy and expensive legal battle, Barrack was acquitted by a jury in 2022. He now serves as US ambassador to Turkey.
- The Mueller team chronically abused federal surveillance, or FISA, warrants that govern secret monitoring of suspected foreign agents to target Trump campaign advisers, even renewing them over the objections of FBI agents. In one case, the agent claimed, 'the target of the investigation [was] cooperating and the [surveillance warrant] would not give us anything more and there was nothing in the past FISA that aided the investigation other than to prove the Target was being honest with the investigators. There were no corroborating facts that tied [the target] to certain facts that we thought were originally true.' When investigators decided to apply for a fourth warrant against the aide, the agent pointed out a series of needed corrections. In response to the proposed revisions, FBI lawyer Kevin Clinesmith told him: 'We can't send this.' The DOJ subsequently decided the corrections weren't needed. Clinesmith later pleaded guilty to doctoring an email that underpinned a FISA warrant application for another blameless Trump adviser, Carter Page. He was sentenced to twelve months' probation and kept his law license after a short suspension.

- Mueller prosecutor Zainad Ahmad, a protege of former Barack Obama Attorney General Loretta Lynch, repeatedly violated security protocols: 'For example, she brought classified documents to a meeting at WFO [Washington Field Office] without adherence to FBI security policy by bringing her classified notebook to the meeting without a proper carrying bag. What was worse, she came to WFO from her residence, meaning she kept her notebook at the residence.'
- Former FBI Deputy Director Andrew McCabe 'referred to President Trump in a derogatory manner' in an official interview record—and DOJ prosecutors later tried to pressure FBI agent Michelle Taylor to 'change the tone of the [document] to reflect that McCabe spoke about [Trump] without the negative connotation.' Taylor refused and left the FBI shortly after her secondment to the Mueller team ended, the agent said.
- A 'general atmosphere of bias [in the office was] led by one young prosecutor, Aaron Zelinsky. There were caricatures and cartoons that were antiTrump.' Zelinsky, who handled the zealous investigations into Trump advisers Roger Stone, George Papadopoulos and Michael Caputo, resigned from the DOJ in January 2025.

Mueller's investigation ran until March 2019, at a cost to taxpayers of more than $30 million, but found no evidence of Russia collusion. In May 2023, another special counsel, John Durham, released a report describing the Trump-Russia probe as 'seriously flawed' and finding that the FBI 'discounted or willfully ignored material information that did not support the narrative of a collusive relationship between Trump and Russia.' Grassley has asked Bondi and Patel to produce all emails, files and personnel records relevant to the agent's allegations by March 29." (Mueller Probe Cut Corners, Broke Rules To 'Get Trump,' Whistleblower Claims by Miranda Devine). Witchhunt. The Mueller investigation rejected the cardinal principle at the heart of rational jurisprudence: the principle of the presumption of innocence. He proclaimed that the lack of evidence for the charge of obstruction of justice against Trump does not mean a lack of evidence. He proclaimed that in the face of a lack of evidence against Trump to sustain a conviction, he has still not been exonerated and can still be considered to be guilty as charged: "Mr Mueller's 448 report said it had not established that the Trump campaign criminally conspired with Russia to influence the election. However, it did detail ten instances where Mr Trump had possibly attempted to impede the investigation and stated the report did not exonerate Mr Trump. Mr Mueller reiterated that in a rare statement following the end of the inquiry and said legal guidelines prevent the indictment of a sitting president. He said if his team had had confidence that Mr Trump 'clearly did not commit a crime, we would have said so'. " (Special Counsel: What Is It and what did Robert Mueller investigate?, BBC News, July 24, 2019). Witchhunt. Out of the long night of witch hysteria which gripped the West, two supreme witch hunters emerged and claimed dark accolades. They were the most prolific witch hunters of the period. Nicholas Remy, attorney general of Lorraine, sent nine hundred people to the stake between 1581 and 1591, and Ferdinand von Wittelsbach, Catholic prince and archbishop of Cologne, Germany, sent 2,000 people to the stake in the 1630s. Special Counsel for the Department of Justice and author of the Report on the Investigation into Russian

MISS CALIFORNIA CATWALKS FROM CHRISTIAN BIGOT TO HITLER LOVER

Your Lot in a Totalitarian State, proclaims an American information poster in World War II. It depicts the compulsory sham elections held in three totalitarian nations: Germany, Italy and Russia. Totalitarian systems, forms of criminal government prohibiting opposition and all claims of individuals against the state, and controlling all spheres of activity, public and private, are interchangeable and indistinguishable from each other, differing only with respect to the colors of their flags and the content of their slogans. They join forces against their common enemy, liberal democracy, and adherents of one version easily transition into adherents of another version. During the Weimar Republic, the German Communist Party and the National Socialist Party formed an alliance against the liberal Social Democratic Party. In 1939, the Third Reich and the Soviet Union signed a nonagression pact, which included a secret agreement to partition Eastern Europe, and led to a coordinated invasion of Poland. During World War II, the Third Reich and Arab Muslim leaders formed an alliance, united by a shared hatred of liberal democracy and Jews they held to embody such order. The Grand Mufti of Jerusalem, Amin al-Husseini, was a close associate of Adolf Hitler, propagated national socialism in the Middle East and opposed Jewish immigration to Palestine. Germany launched Arab language radio stations and newspapers, such as Radio Berlin, to promote antiliberal and antisemitic propaganda. In the 1920s, communist leader Vladimir Lenin formed an alliance with Muslim leaders to oppose Western power in the East, a red-green alliance of class wars and the Prophet's wars, opposing liberal democracy, which has endured up to the present day. The neoMarxist monster called gender, race, class, culture, ethnicity and sexual orientation politics, which emerged in the 1960s, has been operating with Islam to spread terror throughout the world for over a half a century. In the twenty first century, in the United States of America, before the glamor, lights, staging and red carpets of a pageant thrilling the world, a winner stepped forward who would soon make a dark journey. She would illustrate with her mental imbalance the reality of totalitarians the world over, the reality of the essential oneness of all totalitarian systems, and the deep bonds which unite totalitarians of all stripes and varieties, which make it easy for them to transition from one system to another. Christianity. During the 2009 Miss USA pageant, Caroline Michelle Prejean Boller, born in 1987 in San Diego, California, winner of the Miss California 2009 award, described her Christian totalitarian creed, proclaiming that God commanded her to believe that same sex marriages are impermissible: "I think it's great that Americans are able to choose one way or the other. We live in a land where you can choose same sex marriage or opposite marriage. And, you know what, in my country, in my family, I think that, I believe that marriage should be between a man and a woman, no offense to anybody out there. But that's how I was raised and I believe that it should be between a man and a woman." (Still Standing: The Untold Story of My Fight Against Gossip, Hate and Political Attacks by Carrie Prejean). In her autobiography, she proclaims her opposition to Marxist totalitarian political correctness in the name of her Christian totalitarian God and holy Bible: "It was as if I had just set off an atomic bomb. After a moment of stunned silence, everyone in the audience started talking. I heard cheers and boos; then the roar of hundreds of conversations drowned out everything else. As I later told Matt Lauer on the Today Show, I knew immediately that I would lose the competition because of my answer, because I had spoken from my heart, from my beliefs, and for my God. I also spoke for the majority of the people of California, but not, I was sure, for the majority of the judges on the panel. They as a group represented the values of Hollywood; those aren’t my values, and though I didn’t want to offend anyone, it was more important to me to be biblically correct than politically correct." (Still Standing: The Untold Story of My Fight Against Gossip, Hate and Political Attacks by Carrie Prejean). Fascism. In 2025, Carrie Prejean Boller changed her colors and flags and went over into the camp of a totalitarian rival whose sign was the swastika. She replaced her worship of God in

DOJ-RLC Comment-000547

Heaven with a worship of the Aryan race on earth and its attendant Jew hatred, and became a twenty first century brownshirt marching to the hymns of the German fuhrer. In May 2025, she was appointed member of the Religious Liberty Commission by Donald Trunp and immediately began using her position as a soapbox to peddle her new fascist faith, and less than a year later, commission Chairman Dan Patrick removed her. The new fascist disciple Carrie Prejean Boller condemns Israel as a charnel house of mass slaughter and rape of children because it is the only free society in the Middle East. She promotes antisemitism under the guise of antizionism. She condemns Israeli liberal democracy as a tower of primitive superstition and child sacrifice. She condemns Jews as bigots and chauvinists, and condemns Israel as a bigoted and chauvinist nation: "On Tuesday, the Religious Liberty Commission held its fifth hearing, in Washington, DC, to discuss antiJewish prejudice. Meetings of blue ribbon panels are typically sleepy, stage managed affairs designed to serve the purposes of whatever administration put them together. But Boller had other ideas. She repeatedly interrogated the participants about their opinions on antizionism, which she distinguished from antisemitism, and complained that other panelists had called Candace Owens and Tucker Carlson, the wildly popular podcasters, antisemitic. Video of Boller's interjections went viral, sparking furious recriminations on the right. 'I'm with her', declared former Representative Marjorie Taylor Greene. Boller took to social media in her own defense and began resharing others' support for her conduct, including Owens's claim that the two women were being assailed for refusing to 'support the mass slaughter and rape of innocent children for occult Baal worshipers.' Boller's performance raised her profile—her previously marginal X account increased its following 20 fold. 'Be a good Goyim and give me a follow', she posted Tuesday afternoon, inaccurately using the plural form of the colloquial Hebrew word for nonJew. Yesterday, Texas Lieutenant Governor Dan Patrick, the chair of the Religious Liberty Commission, announced that Boller had been removed, saying in a statement that 'no member of the Commission has the right to hijack a hearing for their own personal and political agenda on any issue.' " (Carrie Prejean Boller Is Not Going Quietly by Yair Rosenberg). Fascism. See Carrie Prejean Boller condemn Israel as engine of mass destruction in Gaza by virtue of its war to defeat Hamas after its terror attacks on October 7, 2023. See her attempt to deceive people by claiming that Catholicism is antizonist when the Vatican recognizes Israel's right to exist: "When I interviewed Boller by phone about her experience, she told me that the first attempt to oust her from the commission came back in August, when she received a phone call from a staffer at the Office of Presidential Personnel asking her to step down. Boller attributed this effort to her social media posts about the devastation in Gaza. She alleged that Patrick and Paula White, a confidante of Trump's whom Boller described as an 'absolute evangelical demon', had been 'colluding with the White House.' Boller cited her faith when explaining her position, as she had at the hearing. 'It's antiChristian to accuse me of antisemitism by being a Christian', she said. She reiterated that Zionism is not compatible with her Catholicism, the faith to which she converted in April. The Vatican has long recognized the state of Palestine and called for a two state solution, positions at odds with those of the current Israeli government, but it has also backed Israel's right to exist. Indeed, as long as the subject was Israel, Boller was eager to engage. But when the conversation turned to other things that she had said at the commission hearing that pertained to antisemitism, not merely antizionism, she suddenly became much more evasive." (Carrie Prejean Boller Is Not Going Quietly by Yair Rosenberg). Fascism. See Carrie Prejean Boller peddle the national socialist line of Candace Owens. See her advocate the expulsion of Jews from society. See her peddle white supremacy, antiJewish bigotry, and the liquidation of Jews in the name of Aryan resistance: " 'I would really appreciate it if you would stop calling Candace Owens an antisemite', she told one of the witnesses at the hearing, Seth Dillon, the CEO of the conservative satire site The Babylon Bee. 'I don't know why you keep bringing her up and Tucker', she added. 'Because they're the two most famous antisemites', retorted Dillon. 'Everyone's an antisemite!' Boller replied. 'Do you think that anything Candace has said is antisemitic?' Dillon later asked. 'No, I don't', Boller responded. 'I listen to her daily, and I haven't heard one thing out of her mouth that I would say is antisemitic.' As it happens, Owens has said many deranged things about Jews, plenty of which have nothing to do with Israel. So I was surprised to hear her so vigorously defended at a hearing ostensibly devoted to combatting antiJewish bigotry. I raised the subject with Boller, who regularly reposts content from Owens on social media, and I quoted several recent claims that the podcaster had made. On February 2, for instance, Owens praised the decision of General Ulysses S. Grant to expel all Jews from his military district in 1862, during the Civil War. The move was soon reversed by President Abraham Lincoln, and Grant later disavowed it—but Owens did not. 'Jewish supremacists', she said, 'had everything to do with the Civil War in America. They excel at creating the false dialectic, the North versus the South, the left versus the right. Ulysses S. Grant notoriously expelled Jews from his military district: Tennessee, Mississippi, Kentucky. Another white supremacist? Everyone's just a white supremacist', she said. 'Well, they would have called him a white supremacist or said that he was antisemitic.' " (Carrie Prejean Boller Is Not Going Quietly by Yair Rosenberg). Fascism. She was born in an evangelical household and drank deep drafts of the preaching and spreading of the Christian gospel. She celebrated the good news of human salvation through Jesus Christ, and recited the Bible chapter and verse as the sole arbiter of truth and morality. In 2025, Carrie Prejean Boller, Miss California 2009, had a conversion and fell under the grip of a new religion. Her final crown blazes with the light of her new found race hate.

THE FEDERAL REPUBLIC OF MULTICULTURALISM

They are history's most prolific killers. Carriers of the Black Death, they transported fleas from the East and brought plague bacteria, killing 200 million people across Europe and Asia, and fifty percent of Europe's population. In India every fifty years, they are involved in a terrifying ecological phenomenon. It is triggered by a flowering of bamboos in forests, which produces a windfall of seeds. The seeds attract a flood of these creatures, who multiply exponentially, consume the seeds, leave the forests, consume grain reserves far and wide, and cause mass famine. Aggressive, invasive, secretive, sly and cunning, symbols of filth and disease, and harbingers of total disaster, these creatures are called rats, and they have been an everpresent scourge on mankind for tens of thousands of years. In the twenty first century in the heart of Europe, in a nation with the largest economy and manufacturing output on the continent and the larget population, in the world's third largest exporter and third largest importer, a plague of rats has struck, unleashed by a far left cultural and political establishment which has established multiculturalism as the nation's official religion. Multiculturalism, the coexistence of multiple cultures, a symptom of moral degeneration and the philosophy of relativism achieving power during the dying stages of civilization, and a battering ram for a neoMarxist disintegration of society, is the reality of Germany today, and has overrun the nation with the kings of the rodent family, and rendered it unrecognizable. In the twenty first century, the invasion of Germany by rats provides a terrifying illustration of the iron law of man in society that no nation on earth is immune from collapse, and the mightiest tree in the forest will come crashing down if sufficiently rotted and decayed. In Germany in the twenty first century, the rot and decay have felled the nation as its Marxist mobs, shouting Willkommenskultur and We can do it!, have opened the borders to rats. They look human but their souls are devoid of law and morality, and they are as aggressive, invasive, secretive, sly and cunning as their animal ancestors, as superchaged with filth, disease and disaster as their rodentine counterparts, and as terrifying as the carriers of the Black Death, These rats are called migrants and their story is the story of Germany today, the story of national suicide mirroring the suicide of the West. Look at Germany today and see the majority, main street and the mandarin class stab their nation and the West in the back. Germany Today. Germany today is a migrant infested cesspool. It is a train of decadence reaching its final stop. It is an endless record of Muslim savagery. It is a land of open borders welcoming the scum of the earth. It is a crashing tidal wave of African, Asian, Eastern violence. It is a migrant assault on law abiding citizens. It is a blazing hothouse cultivating Muslim revolution. It is a permanent home for unvetted, unassimilated, enemy aliens. It is a jungle of Muslim disease, depredations and disorder. It is a scene of senseless attacks by Muslim hoodlums. It is an arsenal of Muslim guns, bombs and knives. It is a salad bowl of migrant cultures united by their native barbarism. It is a thundering migrant declaration of war against Western civilization. It is a Marxist inspired mosaic featuring the world's freaks and horrors. It is a one thousand kilometer long street of migrant stabbings spilling the blood of innocent people. It is a frenzy of escalating migrant violence leaving strikes, slashes and stitches in its wake. It is an arena of migrant combat attacking the throats, chests and collarbones of decent, civilized people. It is a fever swamp of political correctness refusing to condemn migrant perpetrators of vicious crimes. It is a a veil of media censorship concealing and protecting migrant assailants terroring the streets. It is a society providing official, judicial protection to monsters from the Middle East and North Africa. It is a scene of round the clock danger and attack emanating from the pages of sharia. It is a migrant frankenstein assembled and animated by Angela Merkel. It is a million man migrant rampage armed and emboldened by Angela Merkel. It is an Islamic rally flashing Islamic blades, bodily harm and mass murder. It is a migrant festival of blood and carnage. It is a sanctuary for Syrians, subversives and socialists streaming in from the four corners of the earth. It is Third World violent behavior jeopadizing the safety and security of honest citizens. It is a scene of oppression at the hands of migrants whose virtues the government endlessly trumpets loud and clear. It is a scene of migrant induced panic, fear and trauma. It is a scene of Marxist control of the justice system enforcing immigration insanity, ordering the release of migrant criminals, peddling communist propaganda, and fanning the flames of global revolution: "In the decaying underbelly of Germany's migrant infested train stations, where Angela Merkel's disastrous open borders experiment has unleashed waves of Third World violence on law abiding citizens, comedian Nikita Miller narrowly escaped becoming another statistic in the endless tally of what is very likely to be imported savagery. On November 11, 2023, at Bremen's Hauptbahnhof, a hotspot for chaos fueled by unvetted arrivals from Islamic majority hellholes, Miller was brutally stabbed in a senseless attack that is very typical of the kind that has become common since the policy of mass immigration from cultures steeped in barbarism and incompatible with Western civilization. Miller, a 36 year old ethnic German (on his mother's side) fled the communist horrors of the Soviet Union as a child in Kazakhstan in 1992 as part of the Kasachstandeutsche (Kazakhstan Germans) repatriation wave, only to be stabbed in modern West Germany, most likely as a consequence of its communist immigration policies. Miller embodies the anticommunist grit that built modern Europe. Arriving in Bremen for a performance, he accidentally bumped into a 26 year old, as yet unidentified man wildly gesticulating in the station. A brief exchange escalated when the attacker, armed with a deburring tool—a sharp bladed instrument—lunged at Miller in a frenzy. Over 20 seconds, he stabbed Miller five times: four strikes aimed at the collarbone and chest, perilously close to the throat, and a vicious 15 centimeter slash across the back of his head that required 12 stitches. Drawing on his past as a bouncer with combat experience, Miller fought back, landing a punch that forced the assailant to flee. 'I had to fight him myself because no one helped', Miller recounted, a clear indictment of a society cowed into submission by politically correct paralysis. The perpetrator? A 26 year old man whose identity remains shrouded in the typical veil of leftist media censorship, but whose actions fit the pattern of countless attacks by recent migrants across Europe and North America, originating from the Middle East and North Africa. Video footage revealed an accomplice handing him the weapon, yet despite arrest, the attacker was released that very night, deemed 'no longer a danger' by Germany's spineless, communist tainted judiciary. The case was downgraded from attempted murder to mere bodily harm, with officials shrugging off Miller's protests: 'But he didn't kill you.' 'He stabbed me five times', Miller retorted. 'Well, but he stopped at some point', came the absurd reply. The blade had broken, and Miller's defense saved his life—not the system designed to protect him. This outrage isn't unique; it's the norm in post Merkel Germany, where over a million unassimilable migrants poured in during the 2015 refugee crisis, bringing with them sharia inspired violence and a

DOJ-RLC Comment-000550

disdain for the infidel. Remember the Mannheim knife rampage in 2024, where an Afghan migrant slaughtered attendees at an antiIslam rally? Or the Solingen festival bloodbath, courtesy of a Syrian refugee who turned a celebration into a graveyard? These are the bitter fruits of socialist multiculturalism, where anticommunist survivors like Miller--who escaped Soviet oppression only to face Third World thuggery--are betrayed by a government more committed to virtue signaling than citizen safety. The attack devastated Miller, compounding childhood traumas from a regime that crushed individual freedom. 'Overall, I coped pretty well. I also defended myself. He also got one in the mouth', Miller shared in a raw video statement. 'But the way the justice system dealt with it, that shocked me. So far, nothing has been done. The perpetrator was released that same night with the explanation that he no longer presented a danger. And the thing was downgraded to bodily harm. So I said to that, But he tried to kill me. And the justice system said, But he didn't. I said, He stabbed me five times. And the justice system said, Well, but he stopped at some point. And I said, Yes, because the blade broke off and he got paid. I was sort of able to cope with it, of course, in combination with therapy. But I thought, if something happened to my wife or to my family, and I had to struggle with this justice system again, I wouldn't be able to do it a second time. And so I said, We have to go.' It is ruled by a Marxist-Muslim axis which mandates a quota system for the selection of judges and prosecutors under which forty percent of the city's judges and prosecutors must have migrant backgrounds, reflecting the migrant demographic of the city. It parades its policies of discrimination and unfairness under banners marked diversity, equity and inclusion: "DEI policies now require that four in ten interview candidates for judgeships or prosecutor positions in Berlin have a migrant background. The justice system in the German capital has been radically transformed by the far left policies pushed by the Green Party, which imposed a rule mandating that prospective judges and prosecutors in the city reflect the exact ethnic makeup of the city, rather than being determined by merit, Bild reported . The Law to Promote Participation in a Migration Society was passed by the Berlin city parliament in July of 2021, when it was under the control of a red-green-red majority composed of the Social Democratic Party (SPD), the Greens, and the Marxist Die Linke, the descendant of the former East German communist ruling party." Germany Today. *He will eat your rations. I have purchased a book from Amazon called "Don't Lie" To Me. This small boom is about how the FBI Agents use body language and other techniques to tell when a person is lying to them.
I showed my books to Deputy Q. He know that I have that book and The CIA book now unclassified which describes CIA tricks and hoaxes spy 🕵 techniques. I rejoiced because now I had found the rule books of my e emies who had gotten me in to so much trouble and headtbreak, terrorized me, killed my mother, killed all three of my children's father's, killed my young cousin in Texas. Deputy Q smiled that beautiful faint smile of his and quietly said. "They will just change the rules now". But his words did not rampant my curiosity.

I showed my CIA Factbook to Deputy L when I purchased that on line. I 🇺🇸 🦅 knew that was going to be a turning point in the Justice of my situation 🙃. I

This morning again I am aware that my mental integrity is being encroached upon by my enemies.

I do not dream.

The Djinn are trying to slander me all the way to grave and beyond. The Dark Djinn are trying to slander me in death, just like they did in life. I respond intolerance and rejection, resistance, reinforced, and escalated defenses.
My body is the temple of the Holy Ghost
"Know ye not that your body is the temple of the Holy Ghost and it is He that dwelleth in you.?"

It was my focused, intense, and fervent religious prayer life in the 1980s that started 🙏 my hearing the voice of God for the first time audibly when we lived in the house on Navarro in Altadena. I was seeking spiritual gifts according to the scriptures. I even saw had the experience of an invisible presence that sat down on the side of my bed. I 🇺🇸 🦅 thought it was because it says so in the Bible that God does these things so that people can know him and not feel alone.
So I didn't think that it was unusual or that there was anything wrong with that.
I obeyed whatever the voice told me to do in my mind.

Years later my life was in a terrible shambles. I was homeless. I had been taken to State Hospital in Norwalk and admitted to the jail ward 1988. A medical doctor, a licensed psychiatrist, Dr. Dhaliwal diagnosed me with Bi-polar Manic Depression after I told him about hearing voices and other embarrassing symptoms of illness. I supplications that I had no drugs or alcohol addictions, and that I did not wish to become addicted to anything. He took what I said into consideration and prescribed lithium carbonate which bring my body chemistry back into balance. By body chemistry was out of balance he said. Then I how long would I have this condition. I 🇺🇸 🦅 was shocked when he said, for the rest of your life.

The Lithium worked perfectly with no side effects. I later found a book written by Dr. Fieve about his discovery about the effectiveness of Lithium Carbonate in the treatment of depression.
The voices stopped. The charges were dismissed. I was released. I didn't 🇺🇸 🦅 realize at the time that I was being ushered into a new life in unfamiliar territory, and that I could never be the same again, that I never resume my previous life 💔 😢 🙃 😔. And here I am today 2026 and the psychotropic drama has been endless.

Another important turning point occurred when by sheer dumb luck I wondered in to the men's jail at 441 Bauchet Street, Los Angeles at the beginning of the COVID 19 Pandemic in 2020. It was actually the call of nature that caused me to have to stop and drop in at the Reception area which is open 24 hours a day, 7 days a week with a uniformed Deputy on duty. I requested the key 🔑 and left my ID before going to the wash room. It was the only open door, all governments and churches and many businesses were shut down. Very 😨 scary.

While I was there I began to look around. And I found the lobby area. It was deserted except for one Deputy sitting behind the desk. Deputy C. He allowed me to be seated. I 🇺🇸 🦅 supplicated that all of my mental health groups had been closed down because of the Pandemic Emergency Disaster. And from then on I would come there almost every day during the Pandemic and chat with the Deputy on duty. This replaced all of my classed and groups at The Center at the Jesuit Parish Blesses Sacramen Catholic Church in Hollywood, and my group therapy at LA County Hollywood Mental Health which closed during the emergency.

FORMAL COUNTER-BRIEF: CHALLENGE TO THE APRIL 13TH MANDATE

TO: Advisory Board of Legal Experts, U.S. Department of Justice

FROM: Kristine Greenler-Baker

DATE: March 21, 2026

SUBJECT: Constitutional Conflict: Quas Primas (1925) and the 2026 "Temporal Order" Mandate

I. STATEMENT OF CONCERN

The Department of Justice is currently providing a platform for an ecclesiastical agenda that seeks to "perfect the temporal order" of the United States. This language, adopted by the Religious Liberty Commission, is not a domestic legal concept. It is a direct application of the 1925 encyclical Quas Primas and the 1245 Council of Lyon, both of which assert that secular government is subordinate to ecclesiastical authority.

II. THE LEGAL INCOMPATIBILITY

The 100-Year Mandate (Quas Primas): Paragraphs 17 and 18 of this 1925 document explicitly claim "Empire" over all civil affairs. Using federal hearings to advance this "Social Reign" violates the Establishment Clause by adopting a foreign religious-political framework as a basis for U.S. policy.
The 800-Year Precedent (Council of Lyon): The assertion that a commission can "perfect" the secular state mirrors the 13th-century claim of "plenitudo potestatis" (fullness of power). This is a rejection of the Consent of the Governed, as it shifts the source of law from the People to a 59% denominational majority in the Executive branch.

III. THE "TEMPORAL ORDER" DECEPTION

The term "Temporal Order" is being used as a legal placeholder to bypass individual Free Exercise protections. By framing the nation's 250th Anniversary as a "Consecration," the Commission is attempting a "De Facto" establishment of a state religion.

IV. FORMAL DEMAND

The Advisory Board must investigate the disproportionate influence of the 59% Catholic majority within the Commission and the Executive branch. No single denomination—representing only 15%-16% of the population —has the constitutional right to "perfect" the laws of the 85\% non-conforming majority through administrative capture.

I am asking if your committee has made any inquiries concerning the Administration's continued disrespect and roadblocks to the pastoral care for those who are being held by Homeland Security and Ice. WHY is this an issue??

WHY is this still an issue? A federal judge in March 2026 ordered the Department of Homeland Security (DHS) to establish protocols for clergy to access detainees at a Minnesota ICE holding facility after faith leaders alleged the federal government blocked pastoral care. Oak Flat: Cultural and Environmental Impact Oak Flat is a sacred site for the Western Apache and other Indigenous tribes, who use it for religious ceremonies, gathering medicinal plants, and harvesting acorns. A controversial land exchange recently authorized the transfer of roughly 2,422 acres of this land to Resolution Copper for a massive underground mine.

How can we prioritize mining over a religious site that has existed for hundreds of years? This goes against everything this office was supposedly established for! When a small town in Idaho didn't want a church in their small business district, the DOJ took immediate action! Will that only apply to certain religions? I believe that would be a constitutional violation. Please help me understand. I look forward to your response on this constitutional matter. Thank you.

Greetings,
I am at a loss as to why one of the board members (Mrs. Carrie Prejean-Boller) was summarily dismissed after expressing her religious beliefs.
I question the sincerity of the board and the authenticity of the specific topic "The right of all Americans to freely exercise their faith without fear or Government censorship or retaliation"

Seems to me she stated her belief and was told to leave as it did not fit the underlying purpose of the boards creation.

Respectfully,

To the Religious Liberty Commission,

It was hypocrisy and deceitful to attack Carrie Prejean Boller and remove her from the Religious Liberty Commission for exercising her religious liberty, by not betraying her own beliefs to pledge loyalty to Zionism. Those actions prove the commission is blatantly anti-religious liberty.

Carrie was treated abominably by those on the commission who shut her down. It is not anti-Semitic or bigoted to criticize Israel or not pledge loyalty to Zionism. It is not anti-Semitic or bigoted to be America first and only.

Those on the committee who displayed this disgusting behavior are the bigots and those who did not defend religious liberty are cowards.

Sincerely,
Diana Stover

Snort is the world's leading open-source Network Intrusion Detection and Prevention System (IDS/IPS), developed by Cisco Talos. It works by analyzing network packets against user-defined rules to detect or block malicious activity. It can operate in three modes: sniffer, packet logger, or full intrusion prevention, offering real-time monitoring and high-speed protection.

Snort.org

How Snort Works
Snort operates by monitoring traffic in real-time, comparing packet headers and payloads against a set of rules (e.g., Community or Subscriber rulesets). When traffic matches a rule, Snort can alert, log, or drop the packet if operating inline.

Packet Sniffer: Reads packets and prints them to the console.
Packet Logger: Logs packets to disk for future analysis.
Network Intrusion Prevention System (NIPS): Inline deployment that actively blocks malicious traffic.

Key Benefits of Snort
Open Source & Free: The Community Ruleset is available for free, with Cisco Talos providing high-quality, updated threat protection.
Flexibility: It can act as a lightweight sniffer, a logger, or a robust IPS.
Protocol Analysis: Performs deep packet inspection (DPI) and OS fingerprinting.

High Performance: Snort 3 (Snort++) provides significant improvements in speed and rule parsing.

Limitations of Snort
Rule Dependency: If a new attack doesn't have a corresponding signature, it might not be detected.
Configuration Complexity: Setting up and tuning rules requires expertise to avoid false positives.
Potential Bottleneck: As an inline IPS, it can potentially introduce latency or create bottlenecks if it cannot keep up with high-traffic volumes.

Types of Snort Rules
Snort rules are divided into two main categories based on source:
Community Ruleset: Developed by the community and quality-assured by Cisco Talos, free to everyone.
Snort Subscriber Ruleset: Developed, tested, and approved by Cisco Talos, providing real-time protection.

Snort.org
Rules generally consist of a header (action, protocol, source/destination IP and port) and options (messages, content matching, signatures).

Configuring Snort
Configuring Snort involves installing the application, downloading the rules, and editing the snort.conf file to define network variables, preprocessors, and output plugins.

Placement: Placed behind firewalls or on span ports for monitoring.
Rules Tuning: Disabling unnecessary rules to improve performance.

From Ms. Boller's dismissal to this report, something seems desperately "off" with the RLC! I am seriously losing confidence that your motives are sound.

In a viral clip, Doug Wilson, an Idaho preacher and "Christian nationalist," who was previously invited to the Pentagon by Secretary of War Pete Hegseth to lead a worship service, said that, ideally, Catholics should be banned from having Marian and Eucharistic processions, calling them acts of "idolatry."

Wilson, the co-founder of the Communion of Reformed Evangelical Churches (CREC), who frequently preaches on "Christian nationalism," emphasized during an interview that in an ideal America, Catholics would be allowed to keep their churches and ring their church bells. However, they would not be permitted to hold public Marian processions, and they would likely not be allowed to hold public Eucharistic processions, because, according to Wilson, these would constitute public acts of "idolatry," even comparing them to Hindu processions.

This is a serious violation of religious liberty. As a Traditional Catholic, I am both offended and troubled by this mindset. It goes against everything that our First Amendment guarantees: Protection of our God given rights. Moreover, the idea that a Eucharistic procession is idolatry is a "fundamentally antichristic stance." The Catholic Church has been around many more centuries than Evangelical Nationalists.

I hope that you will correct these egregious errors, even though I doubt that you will.

Dear Members of the Religious Liberty Commission,

I hope this message finds you well. Please find attached an issue brief regarding the inconsistent application of religious liberty protections in the American workplace.

The brief outlines how workers with identical religious accommodation needs are receiving disparate outcomes depending on their state, employer, and how "undue hardship" is interpreted despite clear federal protections under Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964.

It also identifies potential areas where federal agency action could help establish greater uniformity and clarity.

I welcome the opportunity to discuss this further at your convenience. Thank you for your time and consideration.

Thank you!

ISSUE BRIEF

Inconsistent Protection of Religious Liberty Across States and Employers

Tori Jensen, BSN, RN RD
First Liberty Institute Ambassador

Issue

Religious liberty is a foundational American principle protected under the First Amendment to the United States Constitution and federal civil rights law. However, workers across the United States experience significant inconsistencies in how religious accommodations and protections are interpreted and enforced across states, industries, and employers.

Although federal law such as Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 requires employers to reasonably accommodate an employee's sincerely held religious beliefs unless doing so would cause undue hardship, the practical application of these protections varies widely.

Employees with identical religious concerns may receive very different outcomes depending on:

- The state in which they live
- The policies of their employer
- The interpretation of "undue hardship" by courts or companies
- The willingness of institutions to recognize and accommodate religious objections

This inconsistency creates uncertainty for workers, employers, and legal institutions and may undermine the consistent protection of religious liberty nationwide.

Background

Recent years have highlighted disparities in how religious accommodation requests are handled in workplaces across sectors including healthcare, education, government, and private industry. While some employers have adopted clear policies that respect religious accommodations, others have rejected or inconsistently applied such protections.

This uneven application places workers in a position where the ability to exercise their religious convictions may depend heavily on their geographic location or employer policies rather than consistent federal standards.

The United States Department of Justice has historically played a key role in protecting civil rights and ensuring federal law is applied fairly and uniformly across the country.

DOJ-RLC Comment-000582

Policy Question

What steps can federal agencies take to ensure that religious liberty protections are applied consistently across states and employers so that American workers receive equal protection of their religious rights regardless of geography or workplace?

Potential Areas for Consideration

- Clarifying federal guidance regarding religious accommodations under Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964
- Strengthening enforcement mechanisms to ensure uniform application of religious liberty protections
- Providing clearer standards for the definition of "undue hardship" for employers
- Expanding public education and employer guidance regarding religious accommodation obligations

Conclusion

Ensuring consistent protection of religious liberty in the workplace is essential to maintaining the integrity of federal civil rights protections. Addressing current disparities in interpretation and enforcement would provide greater clarity for employers while ensuring that workers across the United States can exercise their religious convictions without fear of unequal treatment.

illegal human evaluations

Illegal human evaluations typically refer to unethical human experimentation, which violates medical ethics and legal standards by failing to obtain informed consent, conducting research on vulnerable populations, or engaging in torture. Historically, this includes, but is not limited to, experiments conducted by Nazi Germany and Imperial Japan (e.g., Unit 731), which prompted the creation of the Nuremberg Code.

Key Aspects of Illegal Human Evaluations:

Lack of Informed Consent: Conducting procedures on individuals who did not voluntarily agree or were incapable of giving consent.

Exploitation of Vulnerable Populations: Targeting prisoners, marginalized groups, or those unable to refuse participation.

Ethical Violations: Using pseudoscientific frameworks (e.g., race science) or causing harm and torture under the guise of research.

Historical Examples: Brutal experiments during World War II, such as those conducted by Josef Mengele.

The Nuremberg Code is the foundational international ethical code that emerged to prevent these illegal acts in research.

Re: Ongoing religious persecution of fire service professionals in New York City, a post-COVID-19 sequela.

An Open Letter to the Religious Liberty Commission

March 13, 2026

My name is Matt Connor, one of the principal members of Bravest For Choice, an organization comprised of fire service professionals that formed in 2021 to oppose the COVID-19 Vaxx mandate for public employees in New York City. In October 2021, Bravest For Choice organized one of the largest labor demonstrations in New York City History when 20,000 New Yorkers assembled in front of FDNY Headquarters and marched over the Brooklyn Bridge to the gates of City Hall in an explosion of dissent over the looming implementation of the COVID-19 Vaxx mandate, an act of civil disobedience that brought together workers from across city agencies, including teachers, law enforcement officers, sanitation workers in a resounding moment of unified opposition to this public policy, a disastrous act of hubris..

Once implemented, Bravest For Choice engaged in a multi-pronged effort to defeat the mandates that included further street activism and peaceful protest, impact litigation, legislative efforts, a prolonged social media campaign, and coalition building with the inception of New York Workers For Choice and the National Coalition of Frontline Workers. We sought to end the vaxx-mandate for all affected workers who objected to the workplace mandated injection of Emergency Use Authorized experimental biologics for myriad reasons: the denial of informed consent; the disregard for natural immunity from prior exposure and infection; the adoption of an overly narrow criteria of medical contraindications reflected in the CDC guidelines, as well as a variety of rational and prudent concerns and matters of conscience.

Among those who objected to the mandate as a matter of conscience were thousands of New York City employees who declared objections due to sincerely held religious beliefs that precluded their willingness to consent to “vaccination.” With these individuals in mind, Bravest For Choice crowdsourced funds for impact litigation and joined New Yorkers For Religious Liberty, onboarding representative plaintiffs in the proposed class action: New Yorkers For Religious Liberty vs. The City of New York. This ongoing legal effort is backed by Alliance

Defending Freedom (ADF) on behalf of the thousands of workers who were denied their First-Amendment-guaranteed free exercise of religion as they were purged from the workforce just for standing up against the tyrannical policy. On a personal note, I objected to the vaxx-mandate for all of the aforementioned reasons including my own sincerely held religious beliefs. When I refused to submit reasonable accommodation requests for medical and religious reasons by an arbitrary deadline, I was placed on involuntary leave without pay under threat of termination after 16 years of dedicated service to the city of New York as a firefighter and fire officer in the Fire Department of the City of New York (FDNY).

I am writing to the Religious Liberty Commission today to call your attention to this matter, as the persecution of those who objected to the vaxx mandate on religious grounds is ongoing. We currently have several terminated members who, to this day, have not been reinstated to the fire service in New York City despite the empty promise of a "right to return" by our disgraced former mayor Eric Adams, and due to the inaction of his successor, our current mayor, Zorhan Mamdani (Please note one of our coalition partners, Michael Kane, founder of Teachers For Choice, has also submitted an open letter to the RLC detailing additional context and particulars regarding the status quo in NYC). During the course of our battle against this unconstitutional policy, Bravest For Choice member Brendan Fogarty once recited the following excerpt from the Serenity Prayer on floor of the New York City Council, during a hearing of the Committee on Civil Service and Labor: "God grant me the serenity To accept the things I cannot change; Courage to change the things I can; And the wisdom to know the difference."

Given Brendan's wise choice of words, I implore you to intervene on behalf of these persecuted fire service professionals who await reinstatement to their careers, as this impasse can indeed be transcended. In keeping with the Commission's directive to advise the White House Faith Office and the Domestic Policy Council on steps to secure domestic religious liberty, my testimony to this ongoing violation provides a momentous opportunity: the Religious Liberty Commission has been empowered, it it so chooses, to recommend the reinstatement of all such individuals in defense of the inalienable rights of these workers who have been violated.. Bravest For Choice is in the process of drafting a policy memorandum to outline an actionable resolution to this matter via Presidential Executive Order, and we hereby request the aforementioned details and your accompanying recommendations be included in the report of the Religious Liberty Commission.. We thank you for considering this urgent matter; the careers of the faithful hang in the balance.

Respectfully submitted,

Matt Connor

Dear Members of the Religious Liberty Commission,

Please accept the attached submission titled "Religious Liberty, Medical Conscience, and the Preservation of Medical and Religious Exemptions." The testimony is submitted by me, Dr. Michael T. Goldstein, M.D., J.D., a board-certified ophthalmic surgeon with more than forty years of clinical experience practicing medicine in Connecticut and New York.

This report examines the growing tension between public health policy and constitutional protections for religious liberty and medical conscience. It also provides analysis of recent legislative developments in Connecticut, including the March 11, 2026 Public Health Committee hearing regarding Senate Bill 450 and House Bill 5044, where hundreds of citizens registered to testify and thousands submitted written testimony expressing concern about the preservation of religious and medical exemptions.

The submission outlines structural factors affecting exemption policies, including federal compliance incentives, institutional pressures within healthcare systems, and the declining role of practicing physicians in healthcare policymaking. It concludes with several policy recommendations aimed at preserving meaningful exemption pathways while maintaining transparency and respect for constitutional protections.

I respectfully submit this testimony for the Commission's consideration in connection with its upcoming hearing on healthcare and conscience and would welcome the opportunity to provide any additional information that may assist the Commission in its deliberations.

COVER LETTER

March 12, 2026

Religious Liberty Commission
United States Department of Justice
Washington, D.C. 20530

Dear Members of the Commission,

Please accept this submission addressing religious liberty and medical conscience protections within modern healthcare policy. This report reflects more than forty years of clinical experience practicing medicine in both Connecticut and New York, and draws upon direct observations of the structural pressures currently shaping healthcare exemption policy at both the state and federal level.

This submission additionally addresses recent legislative developments in Connecticut, including the March 11, 2026 legislative hearing concerning vaccine-related legislation—Senate Bill 450 (SB450) and House Bill 5044 (HB5044)—where more than 500 citizens registered to testify and thousands submitted written testimony. The scope of citizen participation in these proceedings underscores the depth of public concern regarding the preservation of religious and medical exemptions.

The issues raised herein are not confined to any single state. They reflect a growing national tension between public health policy objectives and the constitutional protections afforded to individuals exercising religious conscience and medical autonomy. This tension has been amplified by federal funding structures that create powerful compliance incentives for healthcare institutions, often at the expense of meaningful exemption pathways.

I respectfully submit this testimony for the Commission's consideration and remain available to provide further written testimony, supporting documentation, or to appear before the Commission should additional information be helpful to your deliberations.

Respectfully submitted,

Dr. Michael T. Goldstein, M.D., J.D.

I. EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

This submission examines the erosion of meaningful religious and medical exemptions within modern healthcare policy. Drawing upon more than forty years of clinical experience as a practicing physician in both Connecticut and New York, this report identifies several structural pressures that are systematically undermining the ability of individuals to exercise religious conscience and medical autonomy within the healthcare system.

The concerns raised in this submission are not theoretical. They are grounded in direct clinical experience, firsthand encounters with institutional compliance mechanisms, and observations of recent legislative proceedings that illustrate the growing tension between public health policy objectives and constitutional protections for individual liberty.

Key Findings

This report identifies the following key factors contributing to the erosion of meaningful exemption pathways:

- Federal Policy Influence: The structures of Medicare, Medicaid, and Health and Human Services (HHS) funding create powerful compliance incentives that shape institutional behavior at the state level, often without explicit legislative direction.
- Institutional Compliance Pressures: Hospitals and healthcare systems, dependent on federal reimbursement, may adopt restrictive exemption policies to maintain regulatory standing—even when state law permits broader protections.
- Declining Physician Representation: Healthcare policymaking has increasingly shifted away from practicing clinicians, resulting in policy frameworks that may not reflect the realities of individualized patient care.
- Expansion Without Review: Vaccination policy frameworks have expanded significantly in recent years without proportional review of exemption adequacy or procedural safeguards for religious and medical conscience.
- Citizen Participation Limitations: Legislative hearing procedures, as demonstrated in recent Connecticut proceedings, may inadvertently limit meaningful citizen participation in policymaking processes.

Recent Developments

DOJ-RLC Comment-000597

On March 11, 2026, the Connecticut legislature held public hearings regarding vaccine-related legislation including Senate Bill 450 (SB450) and House Bill 5044 (HB5044). The hearing drew extraordinary public participation:

- More than 500 individuals registered to testify in person
- Thousands of citizens submitted written testimony
- The vast majority of those who testified expressed opposition to the proposed measures
- Procedural limitations prevented many individuals from speaking despite waiting hours to participate

These developments illustrate the depth of public concern regarding the preservation of religious and medical exemptions and underscore the urgency of the issues addressed in this submission.

Summary of Recommendations

This submission recommends that the Commission consider the following actions:

1. Preserve and strengthen meaningful religious and medical exemption pathways at the federal level
2. Increase transparency in healthcare policymaking processes
3. Strengthen physician representation in public health policy development
4. Review federal funding compliance structures that may indirectly erode state-level exemption protections
5. Ensure that legislative hearing procedures accommodate meaningful citizen participation

DOJ-RLC Comment-000598

II. PERSONAL TESTIMONY AND MEDICAL EXEMPTION EXPERIENCE

Professional Background

I am a board-certified ophthalmic surgeon with more than forty years of clinical experience practicing medicine in both Connecticut and New York. Throughout my career I have practiced medicine under the ethical framework of the Hippocratic Oath—"first, do no harm." This guiding principle has informed every clinical decision I have made and every policy position I have advocated for.

Over the course of four decades in clinical practice, I have witnessed significant shifts in the relationship between healthcare institutions, regulatory bodies, and individual practitioners. These shifts have accelerated in recent years, particularly during and following the COVID-19 pandemic, in ways that raise serious concerns about the preservation of medical autonomy and religious conscience within the healthcare system.

The Medical Exemption Experience

During the COVID mandate period, I faced a situation that illustrates the challenges surrounding modern exemption policy in concrete and personal terms.

I have a documented hypercoagulable condition—a medically verified predisposition to abnormal blood clotting—confirmed through hematologic consultation and laboratory testing. Given the emerging safety data regarding COVID-19 vaccines and thrombotic events, I consulted with a hematologist who reviewed the available medical evidence regarding my specific clinical profile.

Based on this individualized medical assessment, I applied for a medical exemption from the COVID vaccine mandate.

> My exemption request was denied. My appeal was denied. My hospital privileges were subsequently suspended.

This outcome raises profound questions about the current state of medical exemption policy. If a physician with more than four decades of clinical experience, documented specialist consultation, confirmed laboratory evidence of a relevant medical condition, and a direct clinical contraindication cannot obtain a medical exemption, what does this suggest about the availability of meaningful exemption pathways for other healthcare workers or citizens seeking religious accommodations?

DOJ-RLC Comment-000599

Natural Immunity and the Departure from Medical Tradition

The concerns surrounding my personal experience extend to a broader departure from established medical principles.

During the mandate period, I contracted COVID-19 in a hospital setting and recovered. Historically, exposure to and recovery from communicable diseases has been recognized in medicine through the confirmation of natural immunity titers—measurable antibody levels demonstrating prior immune response.

For generations, the presence of natural immunity titers served as an accepted basis for determining an individual's immune status with respect to various communicable diseases. This principle was a well-established component of medical education, clinical practice, and public health policy.

However, during the COVID era, this long-standing medical principle was frequently disregarded. Natural immunity was dismissed or minimized in official policy guidance, even as peer-reviewed studies demonstrated robust and durable immune responses following natural infection.

This departure from traditional immunological understanding represents a broader shift in how public health policy has been formulated and implemented—a shift that raises concerns about the degree to which policy decisions are being driven by evidence-based medicine versus institutional compliance objectives.

Implications for Religious Liberty

While my personal experience involved a medical exemption, the structural dynamics observed are directly relevant to the Commission's work on religious liberty. When medical exemption pathways become functionally inaccessible—even for individuals with documented clinical justification—the practical availability of religious exemptions is likely to be similarly constrained.

The institutional pressures that led to the denial of my medical exemption operate with equal or greater force against religious exemption requests, which may lack the quantifiable clinical documentation that medical exemptions provide. If documented clinical evidence was insufficient to secure an exemption, individuals seeking accommodations based on sincerely held religious beliefs face even more substantial barriers.

DOJ-RLC Comment-000600

III. CONNECTICUT LEGISLATIVE DEVELOPMENTS: SB450 & HB5044

Overview of Legislative Activity

Recent legislative activity in Connecticut demonstrates how the policy tensions described in this submission are manifesting at the state level in concrete and consequential ways.

On March 11, 2026, the Connecticut legislature held a public hearing concerning vaccine-related legislation. Two proposals were the subject of extensive public testimony:

- Senate Bill 450 (SB450): A proposal addressing vaccine policy modifications within the state's public health framework.
- House Bill 5044 (HB5044): A proposal originating from the Governor's desk that would expand the power of Connecticut's Public Health Commissioner to establish vaccine recommendations, guarantee insurance coverage of recommended immunizations, and authorize the state to purchase vaccine doses from sources other than the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention.

Scope of Public Participation

The hearing drew extraordinary public participation that underscores the depth of citizen concern regarding these proposals:

- More than 500 individuals registered to testify in person at the public hearing
- Thousands of additional citizens submitted written testimony
- The vast majority of those who testified expressed opposition to the proposed measures, characterizing them as examples of government overreach and erosion of religious freedom
- Citizens traveled from across the state to the Capitol in Hartford, with many waiting for hours to speak

Despite the extraordinary level of public engagement, procedural limits on testimony prevented many individuals from addressing lawmakers directly. Citizens who had traveled significant distances and waited for hours were unable to participate in the proceedings.

Legislative Context

DOJ-RLC Comment-000601

Connecticut currently maintains among the highest childhood vaccination rates in the nation. The proposed legislation would expand existing state authority over immunization policy, raising concerns among many citizens that the expansion of regulatory authority is disproportionate to any demonstrated public health need.

The proposals also raise questions about the relationship between expanded government authority and the preservation of individual exemption rights. When state authority to mandate immunizations expands without corresponding strengthening of exemption protections, the practical effect may be a narrowing of the space available for religious and medical conscience.

Implications for the Commission's Work

The Connecticut proceedings are relevant to the Commission's work for several reasons:

6. They demonstrate the scale of public concern regarding the preservation of religious and medical exemptions in the context of expanding vaccination policy.
7. They illustrate how legislative procedures may inadvertently limit meaningful citizen participation, even when citizens are deeply engaged and willing to participate.
8. They highlight the tension between state public health authority and individual religious liberty—a tension that federal policy can either mitigate or exacerbate depending on the signals sent by federal agencies and funding structures.

The Commission should be aware that these dynamics are not unique to Connecticut. Similar tensions are emerging in jurisdictions across the country as states grapple with the appropriate balance between public health authority and individual liberty.

DOJ-RLC Comment-000602

IV. PUBLIC TESTIMONY AND CITIZEN PARTICIPATION

Connecticut Legislative Hearing on SB450 and HB5044 — March 11, 2026

The March 11, 2026 public hearing conducted by the Connecticut General Assembly's Public Health Committee concerning Senate Bill 450 (SB450) and House Bill 5044 (HB5044) generated one of the most significant public responses to healthcare legislation in Connecticut in recent years.

More than 500 citizens registered to testify in person, and thousands of additional written submissions were filed with the committee. Individuals traveled from communities across the state to participate in the legislative process and express their views regarding proposed changes to Connecticut's vaccine policy framework.

The hearing provides an important illustration of the broader tensions addressed throughout this submission: the balance between public health authority, individual liberty, and the preservation of meaningful religious and medical exemptions.

Participants included physicians, attorneys, clergy members, healthcare workers, parents, and concerned residents representing a broad cross-section of Connecticut's civic and professional communities. Several consistent themes emerged during the proceedings.

The Hidden Purpose of SB450: Rewriting the Law to Win a Losing Case

Perhaps the most consequential revelation of the hearing concerned the actual purpose behind Senate Bill 450. Attorney General William Tong requested the Public Health Committee introduce the legislation to amend Connecticut's Religious Freedom Restoration Act (RFRA)—not for general policy purposes, but to eliminate the statutory basis for an active lawsuit challenging the state's 2021 repeal of religious vaccine exemptions.

The lawsuit, brought by parents Keira Spillane and Anna Kehle from Greenwich, Orange, and Stafford Springs, argues that Connecticut's 2021 elimination of the religious exemption to mandatory school vaccinations (Public Act 21-6) violates the state's Religious Freedom Restoration Act. The families object to vaccination requirements that include vaccines manufactured using cell lines derived from aborted fetal tissue—a sincerely held religious conviction.

In a landmark 2024 ruling, the Connecticut Supreme Court dismissed the families' state and federal constitutional claims but sustained their RFRA claim, sending the case back to a lower court for trial.

DOJ-RLC Comment-000603

This was the first time a court had allowed a RFRA-based challenge to a state vaccine mandate to proceed to the evidentiary stage—a development with national implications.

SB450 would amend Connecticut's RFRA to explicitly exclude immunization requirements from the statute's protections. Critically, the bill provides that its amendments would take effect upon passage and apply retroactively to any pending civil litigation—meaning the legislation was designed to eliminate the legal basis for the families' lawsuit while it is actively being litigated.

This Commission should understand the gravity of this development: the State of Connecticut is attempting to use the legislative process to retroactively amend a religious freedom statute for the specific purpose of defeating a pending lawsuit brought by families seeking to exercise their religious conscience. This is not a hypothetical threat to religious liberty. This is the threat, happening in real time.

Constitutional Concerns Raised During Legal Testimony

Attorney Lindy Urso, of Stamford, Connecticut, presented testimony that addressed the constitutional implications of both SB450 and HB5044. Attorney Urso has represented the plaintiff families in the religious exemption challenge since 2022 and has successfully advanced the case through multiple levels of the Connecticut court system.

Attorney Urso's legal analysis has consistently centered on several foundational principles. First, that the Free Exercise Clause of the First Amendment protects not only religious belief but also religious conduct motivated by sincerely held convictions. Second, that Connecticut's own Religious Freedom Restoration Act establishes that government actions substantially burdening religious exercise must satisfy the highest level of judicial scrutiny—demonstrating both a compelling governmental interest and that the policy represents the least restrictive means of achieving that interest.

During the March 11 hearing, Attorney Urso addressed the Committee directly regarding SB450's implications:

> "This bill attempts to change the legal landscape while litigation is actively pending. That is deeply concerning from a constitutional perspective."
> "The legislature removed the religious exemption in 2021. Families challenged that decision in court, and that case is moving forward. Now this bill proposes to amend the Religious Freedom Restoration Act in a way that would effectively undermine those claims."
> "The Religious Freedom Restoration Act exists to protect minority religious beliefs from government overreach. If the state can simply carve out exceptions whenever it becomes inconvenient, the protection becomes meaningless."

DOJ-RLC Comment-000604

Attorney Urso's testimony identified several critical legal concerns: legislative interference with ongoing litigation, the weakening of Connecticut's RFRA, the precedent risk for future religious liberty protections across all RFRA states, and separation of powers concerns inherent in a legislature attempting to alter the legal framework of a pending court case.

Legislative Response and Procedural Concerns

The hearing generated significant bipartisan concern regarding both the substance of the legislation and the procedures governing testimony.

House Republican Leader Vincent Candelora (R-North Branford) criticized the scope of the legislation, stating that the debate had shifted to fundamental questions about religious freedoms and constitutional rights, and that Connecticut was going down the wrong path of government overreach.

State Representative Nicole Klarides-Ditria (R-Seymour), House Ranking Member of the Public Health Committee, issued a joint statement condemning the decision to cap testimony at midnight, characterizing the procedural limitation as an effort to silence citizens on bills that strip parents of their voice and close the courthouse door on families' ability to challenge the state's elimination of the religious exemption.

Senator Heather Somers, Republican member of the Public Health Committee, stated during the proceedings that democracy does not end at 12:15 a.m. and that the midnight cutoff represented a gross overreach of the majority party.

Chris Healy, executive director of the Connecticut Catholic Public Affairs Conference, testified that SB450 represents a direct attack on religious freedom. The Connecticut Catholic bishops formally opposed the legislation, underscoring the breadth of religious community concern.

Citizen Testimony and Public Concerns

In addition to legal and legislative testimony, the hearing featured remarks from a wide range of Connecticut residents who articulated concerns regarding the proposed legislation and the broader trajectory of vaccine policy within the state.

Many speakers emphasized that their concerns were not rooted in opposition to vaccination itself. Rather, they focused on questions surrounding the expansion of governmental authority, the preservation of individual conscience, and the importance of maintaining trust between citizens and public institutions.

Three major themes emerged repeatedly during citizen testimony.

Parent Testimony

DOJ-RLC Comment-000605

> "We were told religious exemptions would never be removed. Then they were."
> "Now we are told these bills are not mandates. But families have heard that before."
> "Parents in Connecticut feel trapped between medical decisions and state power."

Parents testified that the state continues to move the goalposts. As one parent advocate stated: "First the exemption was removed. Now you are rewriting religious freedom law entirely." Another testified: "Parents should not have to choose between their child's education and their religious beliefs."

Medical Professional Testimony

Healthcare professionals raised concerns about the implications of the state defining "standard of care" for immunization by legislative or administrative action:

> "The concept of 'standard of care' in medicine is extremely powerful. When the government defines it, physicians who disagree may face liability or professional consequences."
> "This could indirectly coerce physicians to follow state-approved vaccine protocols."

This testimony aligns directly with the broader concerns addressed in this submission regarding the decline of physician autonomy and the institutional pressures that chill independent clinical judgment.

Civil Liberties Testimony

> "This bill creates a dangerous precedent by weakening religious liberty protections."
> "You cannot simply rewrite the Religious Freedom Restoration Act to solve a litigation problem."

This testimony underscored the fundamental legal concern at the heart of the SB450 debate: that a state legislature cannot amend a religious freedom statute specifically to undermine pending litigation without raising profound separation of powers and due process concerns.

Citizen Voices

Individual citizens addressed lawmakers with testimony that reflected both the scale and the character of public engagement:

> "We are not anti-science. We are pro-choice when it comes to medical decisions."
>
> "The number of people here today should tell you something. Citizens took time off work, traveled across the state, and waited hours just to speak."

Government Authority and Proportionality

DOJ-RLC Comment-000606

Several speakers questioned whether expanding regulatory authority over vaccination policy—in a state that already maintains among the highest vaccination rates in the nation—was proportionate or necessary. Connecticut's Public Health Committee chair, Senator Saud Anwar (D), stated that the legislation was not a vaccine mandate but rather an effort to ensure that individuals who choose to be vaccinated can access vaccines. Citizens questioned why expanded government authority was needed to accomplish an objective the current system already achieves.

Transparency and Public Trust

Numerous individuals testified that public confidence in healthcare policy depends upon transparency, open dialogue, and the willingness of policymakers to engage respectfully with dissenting viewpoints. Speakers emphasized that when citizens feel their concerns are dismissed—or when the legislative process itself is structured to limit their participation—trust in public institutions deteriorates. The midnight cutoff on testimony reinforced this concern.

Religious Conscience and RFRA Protections

Members of faith communities testified about the importance of preserving meaningful pathways for individuals to act in accordance with sincerely held religious beliefs. Speakers emphasized that religious liberty protections historically function as safeguards for minority beliefs within pluralistic societies—and that when a state attempts to retroactively amend its own religious freedom statute to defeat a pending lawsuit, those protections have been rendered meaningless.

Observers estimated that approximately 95 percent of testimony heard during the hearing was in opposition to the proposed legislation.

Procedural Limitations on Public Testimony

Despite the extraordinary level of public engagement, the Public Health Committee imposed a procedural time limit shortly after midnight, terminating the hearing before all registered participants were able to present their remarks. The procedural vote to cap testimony fell along party lines.

As a result, numerous individuals who had traveled to Hartford and waited for hours were unable to speak before the committee. While written testimony was accepted into the official legislative record, the inability of many citizens to participate orally illustrates a structural challenge that this Commission should address.

When legislative bodies impose procedural limitations that prevent citizens from testifying on matters involving constitutional rights—particularly religious liberty—the democratic process itself becomes an instrument of the very suppression it is designed to prevent.

Broader Policy Implications

DOJ-RLC Comment-000607

The Connecticut hearing illustrates several dynamics directly relevant to the work of the Religious Liberty Commission.

9. The scale of public participation demonstrates that concerns regarding the preservation of religious and medical exemptions are both substantial and widely shared among citizens.
10. The retroactive amendment of a state RFRA statute to defeat a pending religious liberty lawsuit represents a direct and unprecedented threat to the integrity of religious freedom protections—one this Commission should address in its report.
11. The testimony highlights the complex constitutional framework within which public health policy operates and the requirement that state authority be exercised consistently with First Amendment and RFRA protections.
12. The procedural limitations on testimony underscore the importance of maintaining legislative processes capable of accommodating meaningful citizen participation when proposed policies implicate constitutional rights.

These dynamics are not unique to Connecticut. Similar debates are emerging across the United States as policymakers grapple with the appropriate balance between public health authority and the enduring constitutional protections safeguarding individual liberty and religious conscience.

DOJ-RLC Comment-000608

V. GRASSROOTS ADVOCACY AND CITIZEN PARTICIPATION

The Scope of Citizen Engagement

The citizen engagement surrounding these issues has been significant and broad-based, reflecting concerns that span demographic, professional, and political lines.

Advocacy networks, including individuals associated with organizations such as the Connecticut Right to Advocate for Medical Matters (CT RAMM, www.ctramm.com), helped coordinate public testimony and citizen participation in the March 11 legislative proceedings.

Participants in the Advocacy Effort

Those participating in grassroots advocacy surrounding these issues include a diverse cross-section of Connecticut residents:

- Physicians and Medical Professionals: Practitioners with direct clinical experience who have witnessed the impact of restrictive exemption policies on patient care and medical autonomy.
- Nurses and Allied Health Professionals: Healthcare workers who have been directly affected by institutional compliance mandates and who bring frontline perspectives on how policies affect both workers and patients.
- Parents and Families: Individuals seeking to make informed healthcare decisions for their children, consistent with their religious beliefs and medical judgment.
- Religious Leaders and Faith Communities: Members of the clergy and faith-based organizations whose congregants have been directly affected by the erosion of religious exemption pathways.
- Concerned Residents and Civic Leaders: Citizens motivated by broader concerns about government authority, individual liberty, and the democratic process.

The Character of Citizen Advocacy

It is important to note the character of citizen advocacy surrounding these issues. The individuals who traveled to Hartford on March 11 to testify before the legislature did so through lawful, peaceful, democratic channels. They registered to testify, waited patiently for their opportunity to speak, and sought to participate in the legislative process in the manner prescribed by Connecticut law and democratic tradition.

When procedural limitations prevented many of these individuals from speaking, they did not resort to disruption. They accepted the limitations and continued to participate through written testimony and other lawful channels.

This is the democratic process at its best: citizens engaging their government through established institutional channels to express views on matters of profound personal and constitutional importance. The Commission should recognize and affirm the legitimacy of this type of citizen advocacy.

The Importance of Accessible Public Hearings

Public hearings serve a vital function in democratic governance. They provide citizens with a direct opportunity to address their elected representatives and to have their voices formally recorded as part of the legislative record.

When large numbers of individuals are unable to testify despite traveling significant distances and waiting for hours, it raises legitimate concerns about whether existing hearing procedures are adequate to accommodate the level of citizen engagement these issues generate.

The Commission may wish to consider recommending that legislative bodies at both the state and federal level review hearing procedures to ensure that meaningful citizen participation is accommodated, particularly on matters that directly affect constitutional rights including religious liberty.

DOJ-RLC Comment-000610

VI. FEDERAL POLICY INFLUENCE ON STATE EXEMPTION FRAMEWORKS

The Structural Role of Federal Healthcare Funding

Federal healthcare policy plays a substantial—and often underappreciated—role in shaping institutional behavior at the state and local level. The mechanisms through which this influence operates are structural rather than explicitly directive, making them less visible to the public but no less consequential.

Hospitals and healthcare systems rely heavily on reimbursement from Medicare and Medicaid for their financial viability. This dependency creates powerful incentives for institutional compliance with federal regulatory guidance—including guidance related to vaccination policy and exemption procedures.

The Compliance Cascade

The influence of federal policy on exemption availability operates through what might be described as a compliance cascade:

13. Federal agencies such as HHS, CMS, and CDC issue guidance regarding vaccination policies and compliance expectations.
14. Hospitals and healthcare systems, concerned about maintaining federal reimbursement eligibility, interpret this guidance conservatively—often adopting policies more restrictive than what federal regulations explicitly require.
15. Individual physicians and healthcare workers face institutional compliance requirements that may effectively override their independent clinical judgment and their patients' religious convictions.
16. Patients and citizens seeking exemptions encounter institutional policies that may not reflect the actual requirements of federal or state law but rather the institution's risk-averse interpretation of federal expectations.

The result is a de facto narrowing of exemption availability that may occur without any explicit legislative action—driven instead by institutional compliance incentives rooted in federal funding structures.

DOJ-RLC Comment-000611

The Effect on Religious Exemptions

This compliance cascade has particular implications for religious exemptions. When institutions feel compelled to adopt restrictive policies to satisfy federal compliance expectations, religious exemption requests may receive less favorable consideration—not because the institution lacks respect for religious liberty, but because institutional compliance incentives create pressure to minimize all exemptions.

Federal policy can thus indirectly influence the availability of religious exemptions at the state and institutional level, even when federal law itself provides robust protections for religious exercise.

The Commission's Opportunity

The Commission has an opportunity to address this dynamic by recommending that federal agencies:

- Issue clear guidance affirming that federal compliance expectations do not require institutions to deny legitimate medical or religious exemptions
- Ensure that federal funding conditions do not create incentives for institutions to adopt exemption policies more restrictive than what federal or state law requires
- Establish reporting mechanisms to identify instances where federal compliance pressures may be contributing to the erosion of exemption pathways
- Review existing federal guidance to ensure consistency with statutory religious liberty protections including RFRA and Title VII

DOJ-RLC Comment-000612

VII. LEGAL FRAMEWORK: CONSTITUTIONAL AND STATUTORY PROTECTIONS

Constitutional Foundations

Religious liberty protections in the United States arise from multiple overlapping constitutional and statutory sources that together establish a robust framework for the protection of individual conscience.

The First Amendment

The First Amendment to the United States Constitution provides the foundational protection for religious exercise, prohibiting Congress from making any law "respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof." This dual protection—the Establishment Clause and the Free Exercise Clause—establishes the constitutional baseline for all subsequent religious liberty protections.

The Free Exercise Clause has been interpreted to protect not only religious belief but also religiously motivated conduct, subject to narrow exceptions where the government demonstrates a compelling interest advanced through the least restrictive means.

The Religious Freedom Restoration Act (RFRA)

The Religious Freedom Restoration Act, enacted by Congress in 1993, provides statutory protection for religious exercise against government action. RFRA establishes that the government shall not substantially burden a person's exercise of religion unless the government demonstrates that the burden is in furtherance of a compelling governmental interest and is the least restrictive means of furthering that interest.

RFRA's protections are particularly relevant in the context of healthcare exemption policy, where government mandates and institutional compliance requirements may impose substantial burdens on individuals exercising sincerely held religious beliefs.

Title VII Religious Accommodation

Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 requires employers to provide reasonable accommodations for employees' sincerely held religious beliefs, practices, and observances, unless doing so would impose an undue hardship on the employer's business.

DOJ-RLC Comment-000613

In the context of healthcare employment, Title VII's religious accommodation requirements are directly relevant to vaccination mandates and other institutional compliance policies that may conflict with employees' religious convictions.

Key Supreme Court Decisions

Several Supreme Court decisions inform the legal framework within which healthcare exemption policy operates:

Jacobson v. Massachusetts (1905): Established that states have police power authority to enact public health measures, including compulsory vaccination. However, the Court also recognized limits on this authority, noting that such measures must not be exercised in an "arbitrary, oppressive" manner.

Burwell v. Hobby Lobby Stores (2014): Affirmed that closely held corporations can exercise religious beliefs under RFRA and that the government must satisfy strict scrutiny when burdening religious exercise through regulatory mandates.

It is not lost on this author that the Religious Liberty Commission conducts its hearings at the Museum of the Bible in Washington, D.C.—a private institution founded by the Green family, the owners of Hobby Lobby. The very family whose Supreme Court case established one of the most significant religious liberty precedents in modern American law built the institution in whose walls this Commission now deliberates. The Commission's February 9, 2026 hearing on antisemitism and religious liberty, its prior hearings on faith in education and the private sector, and its upcoming March 16 hearing on healthcare and conscience all take place in a building that exists because one family believed religious liberty was worth defending all the way to the Supreme Court. That precedent—and the principle it embodies—must not be abandoned now.

Fulton v. City of Philadelphia (2021): Reinforced that government policies allowing for discretionary exemptions trigger strict scrutiny under the Free Exercise Clause, even when the policies are facially neutral.

Miller v. McDonald Commissioner NYS Dept. of Health (2025): Reversed dismissal of case regarding Amish challenge to religious challenge to religious exemption for medical vaccines.

The Balancing Imperative

DOJ-RLC Comment-000614

These legal frameworks collectively establish that public policy must balance legitimate public health objectives with constitutional protections for religious exercise and individual conscience. Neither interest is absolute; each must be weighed against the other within the framework established by the Constitution and federal statute.

The Commission's work in ensuring that this balance is properly maintained is of critical importance, particularly in an era when public health mandates have expanded significantly and the practical availability of exemptions has been called into question.

DOJ-RLC Comment-000615

VIII. THE DECLINE OF PHYSICIAN REPRESENTATION IN HEALTHCARE POLICYMAKING

One of the structural factors contributing to the erosion of meaningful exemption pathways is the declining role of practicing physicians in healthcare policymaking.

The Historical Role of Physicians

Historically, physicians played a central role in the development of healthcare policy. Medical professionals with direct clinical experience contributed to policy formulation, regulatory design, and legislative development. This ensured that healthcare policy reflected the realities of patient care and the complexities of individualized medical decision-making.

The Current Landscape

In recent decades, healthcare policymaking has increasingly shifted toward administrators, regulatory specialists, and compliance professionals. While these individuals bring important expertise, the diminishing voice of practicing clinicians has created a gap between the policy frameworks governing healthcare and the realities of clinical practice.

This gap is particularly consequential in the context of exemption policy. Practicing physicians understand that medical decision-making is inherently individualized—that each patient presents a unique clinical profile that may warrant different approaches to prevention, treatment, and risk management. When policymakers without direct clinical experience design exemption frameworks, they may inadvertently create structures that are too rigid to accommodate the individualized nature of medical practice.

The Impact on Exemption Decisions

The decline of physician representation in policymaking has specific consequences for the exemption review process:

- Exemption review committees may lack members with direct clinical expertise relevant to the medical conditions at issue
- Medical exemption standards may be designed around population-level risk assessments rather than individualized clinical judgment

DOJ-RLC Comment-000616

- Religious exemption review processes may not adequately appreciate the relationship between medical autonomy and religious conscience
- Appeals processes may be structured in ways that prioritize institutional compliance over individualized clinical assessment

The California Precedent: Legislating Against Medical Dissent

The trajectory of physician silencing reached its most explicit form in California, where in 2022 the state legislature passed Assembly Bill 2098—a law designating the dissemination of "misinformation or disinformation" related to COVID-19 as "unprofessional conduct" for licensed physicians, punishable by loss of medical license.

As the Wall Street Journal editorial board wrote in response: the state was empowering an unelected medical board to punish physicians whose clinical observations deviated from government-approved consensus—effectively telling doctors to agree with the state or face professional destruction. The law defined "misinformation" as any information "contradicted by contemporary scientific consensus," a standard that—as the Journal noted—would have silenced every physician in history whose clinical observations challenged prevailing orthodoxy, from John Snow during the cholera epidemic to the Australian physician who identified H. pylori as a cause of stomach ulcers.

AB 2098 was ultimately repealed after multiple legal challenges, including federal court proceedings that raised serious First Amendment concerns. But the precedent it attempted to establish—that the state may define scientific truth and punish physicians who dissent—continues to reverberate. Connecticut's SB450 and its retroactive amendment of the state's RFRA reflect the same impulse: the use of legislative power to silence dissent and eliminate legal avenues for those who challenge government authority over individual conscience.

Congressional Engagement

My engagement with these issues ultimately led me to seek public office. As a physician who has practiced medicine for more than four decades, I became increasingly concerned that the voices of practicing clinicians and ordinary citizens were being marginalized in healthcare policymaking.

My campaign for Congress in Connecticut's 4th Congressional District has focused in part on medical freedom and the preservation of meaningful religious and medical exemptions. These concerns arise not only from Connecticut but also from New York, where I primarily practice medicine.

DOJ-RLC Comment-000617

As physicians we are guided by the principle to first, do no harm. Unfortunately, some legislative decisions made far removed from clinical practice may inadvertently create harm when economic pressures or institutional incentives overshadow individualized medical judgment.

DOJ-RLC Comment-000618

IX. RESTORING CIVIL DISCOURSE IN PUBLIC HEALTH POLICY

One of the most troubling developments during the COVID era has been the deterioration of civil discourse surrounding public health policy. This deterioration has consequences that extend well beyond the immediate policy debates and threatens the foundations of democratic governance.

The Erosion of Open Debate

Historically, Americans with differing viewpoints could disagree on scientific or political matters while still maintaining mutual respect and engaging in productive dialogue. Scientific inquiry, in particular, has always depended on the ability of researchers and practitioners to question prevailing assumptions, challenge consensus positions, and propose alternative hypotheses without fear of professional or social reprisal.

During the pandemic, however, disagreement with prevailing public health positions was often treated not as a legitimate component of scientific debate but as a form of social or professional dissent. Physicians and scientists who raised questions about vaccine safety data, natural immunity, or the proportionality of mandate policies were frequently subjected to professional sanctions, social stigma, or institutional discipline.

The Consequences of Stigmatized Debate

When legitimate scientific and policy debate becomes stigmatized, several harmful consequences follow:

17. Public trust in scientific and medical institutions suffers, as citizens perceive that debate is being suppressed rather than addressed.
18. Policy quality deteriorates, as decision-makers are deprived of the full range of expert perspectives that should inform complex policy choices.
19. Individual practitioners are chilled from exercising independent clinical judgment, undermining the physician-patient relationship.
20. Religious concerns are marginalized, as the broader climate of intolerance toward dissent extends to those raising religious liberty objections.

Restoring the Foundations of Civil Discourse

DOJ-RLC Comment-000619

Restoring civil discourse in public health policy requires several foundational commitments:

- Respect for Individual Conscience: Acknowledging that citizens may hold sincerely different views on healthcare policy without questioning their intelligence, patriotism, or good faith.
- Inclusion of Practicing Physicians: Ensuring that the voices of frontline clinical practitioners are represented in policymaking processes alongside administrators, regulators, and compliance professionals.
- Transparency in Decision-Making: Providing the public with access to the evidence, data, and reasoning underlying public health policy decisions.
- Open Democratic Participation: Ensuring that legislative processes, including public hearings, accommodate meaningful citizen participation on matters affecting constitutional rights.

The Commission can play an important role in modeling and promoting this type of civil discourse by treating all submissions—including those that challenge prevailing policy assumptions—with respect and serious consideration.

DOJ-RLC Comment-000620

X. POLICY RECOMMENDATIONS

Based on the analysis presented in this submission, the following policy recommendations are respectfully offered for the Commission's consideration:

Recommendation 1: Preserve Meaningful Exemption Pathways

The Commission should recommend that federal agencies issue clear guidance affirming the importance of meaningful medical and religious exemption pathways in healthcare policy. This guidance should explicitly state that institutional compliance with federal standards does not require the denial of legitimate exemption requests and that exemption review processes should incorporate individualized assessment consistent with established medical and legal principles.

Recommendation 2: Review Federal Funding Compliance Structures

The Commission should recommend a comprehensive review of federal funding compliance structures—including Medicare, Medicaid, and HHS regulatory frameworks—to identify instances where compliance incentives may be contributing to the de facto erosion of religious and medical exemption availability at the institutional level.

Recommendation 3: Strengthen Physician Representation

The Commission should recommend that federal advisory bodies, regulatory agencies, and policy development processes include meaningful representation from practicing physicians with direct clinical experience. This representation should include physicians from diverse practice settings who can speak to the practical implications of healthcare policy on patient care and medical autonomy.

Recommendation 4: Enhance Transparency in Public Health Policymaking

The Commission should recommend that federal agencies enhance transparency in public health policymaking by making available to the public the evidence, data, and reasoning underlying policy decisions that affect individual healthcare choices and exemption availability.

Recommendation 5: Support Accessible Legislative Hearings

The Commission should recommend that legislative bodies at all levels of government review hearing procedures to ensure meaningful citizen participation on matters affecting constitutional rights, including religious liberty. When proposed legislation generates extraordinary public interest, hearing procedures should be adapted to accommodate the level of citizen engagement.

DOJ-RLC Comment-000621

Recommendation 6: Affirm Natural Immunity in Policy Frameworks

The Commission should recommend that federal agencies ensure that immunological principles—including the recognition of natural immunity through documented exposure and recovery—are appropriately incorporated into exemption review frameworks and are not arbitrarily excluded from consideration in healthcare policy.

Recommendation 7: Protect Against Institutional Retaliation

The Commission should recommend that federal agencies strengthen protections against institutional retaliation toward healthcare professionals who exercise medical judgment in support of exemption requests or who advocate for the preservation of meaningful exemption pathways. No physician should face loss of hospital privileges for exercising good-faith medical judgment consistent with established clinical principles.

DOJ-RLC Comment-000622

XI. FINAL STATEMENT TO THE COMMISSION

I am grateful for the opportunity to present this testimony to the Religious Liberty Commission.

Healthcare policy will continue to evolve in response to new scientific evidence, emerging public health challenges, and shifting political dynamics. But the foundational principles of our republic must remain constant.

Citizens must retain the ability to live according to conscience.

Physicians must retain the ability to exercise independent clinical judgment.

Public policy must remain open to respectful debate.

My experiences as a physician practicing in Connecticut and New York, combined with the voices of the more than five hundred citizens who sought to testify at the March 11, 2026 legislative hearing—and the thousands more who submitted written testimony—demonstrate that many Americans believe these principles are at risk.

I respectfully urge the Commission to ensure that federal policy continues to protect meaningful religious and medical exemptions and reinforces the importance of individual conscience in a free society.

As both a practicing physician and a candidate for Congress, I remain committed to ensuring that the voices of patients, healthcare professionals, and citizens of faith are represented in the national conversation on healthcare policy.

Respectfully submitted,

Hello everyone, upon looking for the truth I find economics to be more important discussion than who is getting elected. For me, economic theory by Ludwig von Mises and Murray Rothbard are the closest to Christianity. Priority should be people first, then economic, with government last. As soon as government interferes with economic, voluntary consent goes away.

So if people would truly practice love thy neighbor as thyself, which is voluntary consent, economic activity would flourish as government would be just a back drop.

I voluntary consent to the preamble to the Constitution of the United States. The big question is, what does secure blessing of liberty mean?

Sincerely,

The "rights of the little man" refers to the fundamental, natural, and civil rights of the ordinary citizen—specifically the working class and those without significant wealth or power—to be protected from oppression, tyranny, and economic exploitation. Championed by Thomas Paine in his seminal 1791 work Rights of Man, these rights assert that all individuals are born free and equal, and that government exists to safeguard these rights, rather than to serve the elite.

Wikipedia

Key components of these rights include:
Natural and Inalienable Rights: Based on the concept that rights are inherent to existence (life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness), not granted by a monarch or government.
Equality of Opportunity: The right to access education, employment, housing, and healthcare regardless of race, creed, or class.
Resistance to Oppression: The right of citizens to oppose unjust government, including the right to revolt against governments that fail to protect their rights.
Civil Liberty and Security: The right to be secure from arbitrary arrest, violence, and bondage.
Economic Security and Social Welfare: Paine argued for a system that includes public education, pensions for the elderly, and relief for the poor, often funded by progressive taxation on large estates to prevent the establishment of a hereditary aristocracy.
Freedom of Expression: The right to speak, write, and publish opinions freely.

Department of Justice Canada
Historical Context and Significance
Thomas Paine: Wrote Rights of Man as a defense of the French Revolution and a response to Edmund Burke, arguing that hereditary government is inherently corrupt and that representative democracy is superior.
"To Secure These Rights": A 1947 report that echoed these principles, arguing that the government must act as a referee to protect the "little man" against the aggressions of others and to ensure security of the person.

Modern Interpretation: The phrase continues to influence discussions on social justice, economic inequality, and the need for government to protect the average person from corporate or state overreach.

Dehumanization is the psychological process of perceiving or treating individuals/groups as less than human, stripping them of dignity, individuality, and moral consideration. Types include animalistic (comparing to animals/vermin) or mechanistic (viewing as robots/commodities). It serves to justify violence, discrimination, and social exclusion.

Mechanistic/Objectifying Dehumanization: Viewing people as objects, machines, or "commodities" (e.g., treating people only as "data," "brands," or "labor").
Infrahumanization: A subtler form where people deny outgroups complex, "secondary" human emotions (like compassion or nostalgia).

I have worked with Autistic children for 18 years. Most of them have been over vaccinated, and poisoned by fast food. Parents listened to their doctors, only to find their children severely damaged. I have brought some back, but not all. Parents should be in charge of all health decisions for their children. Always, no matter what the situation is. This is not the job of our government, stop profiteering off sick children.

No one should be forced to take any medical procedure. We must give a choice and preserve liberty with exemptions or even just let the parents say NO at the doctors office without having to file any forms. This is not a free country when we are driven by these rules and laws. It is unconstitutional.

The Challenges of Institutional Biases for Psychologists and the Pennsylvania Psychological Association.

Summary:

There is a persistent structural bias within the profession of psychology across the United States exemplified in the Pennsylvania Psychological Association (PPA) and the Pennsylvania psychology licensing board against faith informed clinical practice impacting several levels. This bias is not merely ideological; it is institutional. It manifests through omissions in training, selective professional education, censorship of scientific and religious perspectives, and regulatory actions that fail to account for religious conscience, especially for those whose mental health concerns are intertwined with faith, morality or spiritual identity.

The issue is not whether psychologists should respect LGBTQ clients (as is often offered as a distorted and projected interpretation). The issue is whether a professional body may systematically exclude religious perspectives, suppress scientific debate, and impose ethical standards that disregard faith-based practice in a pluralistic society.

These issues represent a professional organization bias that is passive at best and actively institutionalized at worst.

1. Religious Disparity Within the Profession:

Psychologists are statistically among the least religious professional groups in academia. Approximately 50% identify as atheist and 11% as agnostic[i]. This contrasts sharply with the general population: Pew Research Center[ii] reports only 5%[iii] identify as atheist and 6%[iv] as agnostic, while Gallup[v] reports 81% believe in God.

This disparity creates a gap and a potential conflict between a counselor's beliefs and the needs of the client. Thus, there is an obligation for professional organizations to ensure competency in addressing religion and spirituality in therapy. This obligation is not being met.

DOJ-RLC Comment-000638

> Religious and spiritual beliefs and practices are important to the emotional lives of most people...surveys indicate that clients want to discuss spirituality with therapists... Yet psychologists report discussing spirituality with only 39% of clients, and less than half address religion in assessment or treatment planning. Most psychologists receive little or no training [in handling issues of religion and faith].[vi]
> Hundreds of peer-reviewed studies demonstrate that religion and spirituality are relevant to mental health... clinicians should know how to identify both helpful and harmful religious influences.[vii]

Clients want therapists to be respectful and skilled in spiritually informed care. PPA is not taking a lead in closing this proficiency gap.

2. Institutional Absence of Faith-Based Training

For decades, religion and faith-based psychotherapy have been absent form PPA education channels. Annual conventions, continuing education courses and the monthly Pennsylvania Psychologist magazine do not provide any structured training.

Even in areas where faith is clearly central to the therapeutic process, it is ignored. For example, an entire magazine issue dedicated to aging contained no discussion of end-of-life spiritual questions, despite its well-established importance in geriatric mental health.

Regular practice of religion and spirituality is associated with lower depression symptoms, suicidality, substance use, and recovery from PTSD. [viii] [ix]

By contrast, the PPA actively publishes special issues and targeted training for other identity-based concerns. The disparity is not accidental; it reflects institutional prioritization.

3. Selective Advocacy and Ideological Imbalance

The PPA has issued special publications urging members to become competent in LGBTQ concerns and identity-affirming care. These publications include strong normative guidance. Yet no equivalent effort exists to educate psychologists on helping clients with religious conflict, faith-based distress, ethical issues or moral disagreement.

One special issue of the PA Psychologist included an article on BDSM, urging psychologists to become "kink aware", yet provided no discussion of how therapists should manage conflicts between such practices and their own religious or moral frameworks.

The asymmetry demonstrates that religious perspectives are not treated as a protected nor respected domain of diversity. Instead, they are marginalized.

DOJ-RLC Comment-000639

An example where a balanced discussion should be welcomed comes from an article published in the PA Psychologist

> In many religious communities, traditional interpretations of sacred text may condemn transgender identities, framing them as sinful or unnatural. This can lead to exclusion from religious activities, spiritual guilt, and internalized transphobia. Such experiences contribute to high rates of anxiety, depression and suicidal ideation among transgender youth. (Gavazzi and Cowan 2024)[x]:

Such a statement is fraught with assumptions and misrepresents the role of religion and faith for this issue. Rather than see the value of religion in the healing process, it is presented as "transphobic" and a cause for symptoms. Moreover, psychologists are deemed to be unethical if they do not accept the authors statements.

A special issue[xi] dedicated to "Moral Injury" had only one mention of religion, recommending the psychotherapist "consider the role of religion in their patients' lives", and spiritually integrated psychotherapy may be indicated but offering no elaboration, training or reference. This cursory mention is an opportunity lost since moral injury work is a core issue in faith-based counseling especially in trauma recovery.

This article on suicide also gives an example of a spiritual issues for clients that "God is punishing them by inflicting mental health difficulties"[xii] thus, offering only a negative example of religious belief with no mention of the healing value of faith based interventions to overcome issues of doubt, shame, forgiveness, belonging, a support community and offering a reason to live.

4. Suppression of Scientific and Ethical Debate

Gender dysphoria and gender-affirming care receive extensive promotion at PPA events. Presentations cover counseling, hormonal interventions, and surgical pathways. However, no presentations are permitted that examine scientific challenges or ethical debates surrounding these practices.

The PPA has blocked discussion on its on-line forum of the Cass Review of Gender Identity Services for Children and Young People commissioned by the UK National Health Service (Hilary Cass is a pediatrician and former president of the Royal College of pediatrics and public health). [xiii] That report raises significant concerns for the growing practice of hormonal and surgical changes in children.

DOJ-RLC Comment-000640

The PPA has warned members that comments may lead to professional consequences including referral for counseling. No other forum for scientific discussion was offered by the organization. This is censorship not science.

Further, an article in the PA Psychologist accused clinicians hesitant about disclosing their non-support for transitioning children of contributing to suicidal risk without providing evidence, let alone a balance to the discussion. Such claims weaponize fear and silence professional disagreement among a group of professionals nearly all with have graduate degrees.

A scientific profession cannot function if dissent is punished.

5. PA Licensing Board Action on Conversion Therapy

In April 2024, the Pennsylvania State Board of Psychology which has regulatory and licensure control of psychologist's professional practices declared conversion therapy unethical despite no legislative prohibition. This action followed a presentation by the Trevor Project during the previous meeting of the board in February 2024. The minutes of their meetings reflect no testimony was given by an religious organization, nor any other dissenting opinion. Something this major should have actively sought input on the scientific merits and responses to any moral or religious claims.

The board's decision included a definition of conversion therapy so broad it risks banning voluntary client requests for help with unwanted same-sex attraction or gender distress. It does not address therapist conscience or religious accommodation.[xiv] The ethics code cites as justification for their position similar standards in of several organizations. These appeals to an argument style of authority consensus and ad populum justifications should never replace sound scientific discussion. Citing professional organization consensus, especially when each quotes the other as basis for their decision dilutes the First Amendment.[xv] Opinion polling does not supersede objective science. In the words of Galileo: "In questions of science, the authority of a thousand is not worth the humble reasoning of a single individual."

Further, during the presentation to the board, the witness attributed a sweeping array of psychological and behavioral symptoms caused by social stigma and conversion therapy, with no allowance for any preexisting psychological symptoms independent of counseling, nor do they cite any cases where a client benefited from a discussion of their orientation.

The symptom list attributed to "Conversions Therapy" included "suicidality, substance abuse, confusion, depression, guilt, helplessness, hopelessness, shame, social withdrawal, stress, disappointment, self-blame, decreased self-esteem and authenticity to others, increased self-hatred, hostility and blame toward parents, feelings of anger and betrayal, loss of friends and potential romantic partners, problems with sexual and emotional intimacy, sexual dysfunction, high-risk sexual behaviors, a feeling of being dehumanized and untrue to self, a loss of faith and a sense of having wasted time and resources." Such a symptom list would apply to any number of life stresses, but all were attributed to conversion therapy.

According to the minutes of the board meeting, no one raised any methodological questions regarding the data presented, there was no questions regarding clients who genuinely wanted help with the issues, nor did they ask about how clients and their families were to deal with religious and moral questions.

The issue is not one of the efficacy of conversion therapy, but one that is so wide-ranging as to include any discussion between client and counselor, an issue currently before the Supreme Court of the United States.[xvi]

It should be noted, that of the three psychologists on the board, one voted in favor, one opposed and one abstained with the majority vote being carried by the non-psychologists on the board.

This regulatory action demonstrates procedural imbalance and a disregard for pluralism of core religious beliefs continuing a prejudiced treatment of religious issues.

6. Professional Vulnerability and Legal Exposure.

Psychologists are facing growing litigation related to gender change cases. To date, nearly 30 lawsuits have been filed. It is not known how many are pending or have been settled out of court. Every pediatric transition case involves mental health professionals. By promoting only one viewpoint (transition only care) and labeling dissent unethical, the PPA increases legal risk for its members.

Clinicians are left without balanced guidance. They are pressured to adopt positions that may conflict with their scientific judgment or moral and religious convictions. This creates ethical coercion.

Professional associations are usually insulated from lawsuits because membership is voluntary. However, when an association systematically defines ethical standards, makes statements of ethical accusations and controls continuing education necessary for licensure, its influence become quasi regulatory.

7. Failure to Engage with Member Concerns

I personally raised many of these concerns about religious bias and scientific exclusion in front of the PPA board in a video conference call during their December 2024 meeting. There only recommendation was that I could submit a presentation for consideration at the next PPA convention. They did not address my concern for systemic exclusion. There has been no follow-up, no call for papers on faith-based counseling, and no institutional effort to correct imbalance.

I did raise the concern with the leadership of PPA immediately after the New York case in January of 2026 involving a $2 million settlement against a psychologist and surgeon. They wrote back to me would get back to me soon with an answer. To date I have received nothing.

Yet the PPA has demonstrated it can act rapidly when motivated. It organized immediate programming on the subject of election anxiety pre and post Presidential elections. The ability to respond exists, while the will to address religious concerns does not.

I have recently been told by counsel for the PPA they have asked one psychologist to write a paper on religious issues in practice. I do not know the details of the paper. One paper without systemic reform hardly addresses longstanding issues. But it may be a start.

8. Harm to Clients and Clinicians

Most religious clients want their therapist to be able to engage in issues of faith. These are critically important in the many instances where a client is dealing with moral injury, hope, self-blame, grieving, suicide and more.

Faith-based counselors are placed in an impossible position: follow professional directives that conflict with their conscience, or risk disciplinary action. Ethical pluralism is replaced with ideological conformity.

A therapist has a duty to disclose when treatment conflicts with their beliefs or competence. The current environment pressures therapists to conceal those conflicts, leaving it up to other non faith-based to control the narrative and rules.

Conclusions:

The problem is not the inclusion of LGBTQ training. The problem is the exclusion of religious competence, scientific dissent, and conscience protections.

A psychologically diverse society requires a profession capable of serving people across moral, spiritual, and ideological lines. The PPA's current trajectory narrows that diversity. It does not prioritize advocacy for balance, it censors debate, and by such actions acts with prejudice and bias passively at best and actively at worst.

Faith based psychotherapy and opening discussion of religious issues in counseling is not a fringe practice. It is essential to the majority of the populations. Silencing scientific examination by not providing a platform for respectful exchange of ideas is unacceptable. Ignoring these concerns is not neutrality, it is bias.

Simply a choice, never medically forced. Vaccines are a misdirection for good health. ALL disease is a wholistic or terrain consideration. People are different in their conditions and it is the sole responsibility of the individual to choose for themselves or have a chosen advocate.
The government need not be concerned nor bought by big pharma to enrich themselves or the parties that be in health choices.
The government should concern itself of energy and it's deployment amongst the people.

Dear members of the Religious Liberty Commission,

I hope things are going well for you all in this new year.

I haven't read a lot about what all it is you have in the purview of this new Commission; yet I did notice your window of opportunity is short and almost over! I just hope and pray addressing the looming, country wide situation with the radical Islamists and their declarations stating the intended take-over of our beloved country and the killing of We The People, are front and center.

I have seen several videos and shorts on YouTube (although more & more are fake & censored) from Muslims saying, in part, that the loud and discordant (meant to sow discord in our psyche, just like all the ugly buildings do) blowing of their horns(?) is not a normal practice in their home countries. Neither is their filling of the travel lanes of streets with hundreds of kneeling traffic obstructionists. They do not do either of those things in their home countries. That is psychological warfare under the guise of religious freedom, meant to do us harm. Intent is everything. They are not truly praying for anything good or loving. Most of us know they are biding their time, waiting for... something I pray does not happen here. Does trying to force grocers not to sell certain items because it's against "their own" religion to eat them mean they are "forcing" others to adhere to religious practices that are not their (the grocers) own. Not to mention the shoppers who go there to purchase, pork, for example.

When radical Islamists come to America, force their hate filled, (not really religious) beliefs and practices on We The People, does this not impinge on our own religious freedoms? Among others. Does this not put our own way of life and the pursuit of our own happiness in mortal danger? Yes, "mortal" danger. They intend to kill Americans. En masse. This type of blind hatred comes from the dark ones and has been on this earth for eons. This is absolutely spiritual warfare. When someone says, over & over, for decades if not centuries, that they intend to kill you, you should believe them. I believe them. I hope you do, too. I hope a lot of things.

Thank you all for what you are doing for the good of We The People of earth. Stay safe and vigilant and may God protect you and your loved ones. May God also fill your minds and hearts with the best way out of this mess, for the good of all.

March 7, 2026

To Whom It May Concern,

Grace and peace to you in the name of our Lord Jesus Christ.

My name is Delphine Collins, and I serve as the founder of Grace Hope Love Prays Ministry, a Christian outreach and prayer-centered ministry that supports families, youth, and communities across several states. I am writing to introduce myself and to share concerns that have affected my spiritual life, my community influence, and my understanding of the Christian walk both in the United States and in relation to Rwanda.

For many years, I have been active in ministry leadership, community prayer, and spiritual mentorship. My work includes equipping believers, supporting families in crisis, and helping individuals navigate faith with clarity and integrity. Because of this, I feel a responsibility to speak when confusion or spiritual misunderstanding affects the people I serve.

From 2018 to 2021, I was a member of a small house church located in Aurora, Colorado, which used a mailing address in Parker, Colorado. The pastor of this house church frequently traveled to Washington, D.C., and met with national leaders regarding concerns about Rwanda. During my three years in that ministry, I observed that many members—including myself—were often caught between spiritual teaching and political claims that we did not fully understand.

After relocating out of state in 2021, I returned in 2024 seeking prayer and partnership. However, I was later accused of speaking publicly against the pastor, which was not true. This caused deep heartbreak and led me to step back from participation. Shortly afterward, the pastor shared that she had been accused by the Rwandan government of supporting terrorism. As a Liberian-American who has personally experienced the trauma of war, I became concerned about being connected to any situation that might involve political or legal complications.

I want to be clear:
I am not seeking retaliation, conflict, or political involvement.
My desire is truth, clarity, and spiritual integrity.

Over time, I came to understand that some of the claims made about the president of Rwanda did not align with the experiences of Rwandans I personally know, nor with publicly available information. This created confusion for many believers who were trying to follow Christ faithfully while being exposed to political narratives they could not verify.

My concern today is not about individuals but about the intersection of Christianity and political messaging, and how easily believers can become entangled in narratives that distract from the gospel. I believe misunderstandings like these can harm communities, divide congregations, and create unnecessary fear.

I am writing to your office because I value religious liberty, truth, and responsible Christian leadership. I believe it is important for ministries—especially small, independent house churches—to operate with transparency, accountability, and spiritual purity. I also believe that when political claims are made in the name of faith, they should be handled with discernment and responsibility.

My Requests and Recommendations

1. That my concerns be acknowledged as part of the broader conversation about religious liberty, spiritual safety, and the influence of unregulated ministries.

2. That your office continue to support clarity, truth, and responsible faith leadership in the United States.

3. That attention be given to how political narratives can affect vulnerable believers, immigrants, and trauma survivors within faith communities.

4. That ministries be encouraged to uphold integrity, avoid fear-based messaging, and remain focused on the gospel rather than political speculation.

My intention is not to accuse or condemn anyone. My intention is to protect the purity of the Christian walk, to speak truthfully about my experience, and to ensure that believers—especially those from immigrant backgrounds—are not spiritually misled or placed in situations that compromise their safety.

Thank you for taking the time to hear my voice. I appreciate the work your organization does to protect religious freedom and support faith communities across the nation. I am available to provide further information if needed.

May God bless you with wisdom, discernment, and peace as you continue your service.

Respectfully,
Delphine Collins

Dear Members of the Religious Liberty Commission,

Please accept the attached document as supplemental testimony from the National Alliance for Traditional Birth Rights (NATBR) related to our prior submission regarding the protection of traditional midwifery as a form of cultural and religious heritage.

This document provides additional advocate-collected testimonies describing conflicts experienced by families whose pregnancy, birth, and newborn care decisions are guided by religious beliefs. The testimonies illustrate patterns of coercion, intimidation, and threats involving mandated reporting when families exercise informed consent within maternity care settings.

Identifying details have been withheld to protect the privacy of the families involved. The cases were compiled through advocacy referrals and are presented to assist the Commission in evaluating the intersection of religious liberty, informed consent, and traditional birth practices.

A brief data appendix is also included to provide broader context regarding midwifery outcomes and maternity care practices.

Thank you for your consideration of these materials.

Supplemental Advocate Testimony

Religious Liberty Conflicts in Maternity and Newborn Care

Submitted to the Religious Liberty Commission

Submitted by:
National Alliance for Traditional Birth Rights (NATBR)

Advocate Submission 03/06/2026

Midwifery as Religious and Cultural Heritage

The National Alliance for Traditional Birth Rights previously submitted materials to the Religious Liberty Commission describing the historic role of traditional midwifery in the United States and requesting recognition of midwifery as a protected cultural and religious heritage practice.

For many American families, midwifery care is not simply a clinical preference. It is an expression of religious belief, cultural tradition, and family autonomy in matters of pregnancy, birth, and newborn care.

Communities such as Amish, Mennonite, and other devout Christian groups have maintained longstanding traditions of community midwifery while still seeking medical care when it becomes necessary.

When these families interact with institutional medical systems, conflicts can arise when religious beliefs influence decisions regarding interventions, medications, or place of birth.

The testimonies presented in this supplemental submission demonstrate that these conflicts frequently escalate beyond normal medical disagreement. Families consistently report hostility toward midwifery care, ridicule of their religious beliefs, interrogation regarding their convictions, and threats involving law enforcement or mandated reporting.

These incidents raise serious concerns about the treatment of religious birth practices within modern maternity care.

Recognition of traditional midwifery as a form of cultural and religious heritage would help prevent these conflicts by affirming that families have the right to pursue birth practices consistent with their beliefs while still accessing medical care when needed.

Advocate Statement

Through my work with the National Alliance for Traditional Birth Rights, I frequently receive reports from families who experience coercion, intimidation, or discrimination related to religious beliefs and birth practices.

These reports reach me through referrals from advocacy hotlines, religious liberty organizations, midwifery networks, and other advocacy groups assisting families navigating conflicts in maternity care.

When cases are referred, I assist families in documenting their experiences and identifying appropriate follow-up channels. This work includes:

- documenting oral histories and written statements
- assisting families in requesting amendments to inaccurate medical records
- collecting notarized witness statements when appropriate
- guiding families through hospital complaint processes
- identifying regulatory reporting channels when necessary
- preserving documentation that may later support civil rights or religious liberty complaints

The testimonies below represent several reports compiled through this advocacy process. Identifying details have been withheld for privacy.

Testimonies Collected Through Advocacy Intake

Testimony 1

Amish Family – Preterm Stillbirth

An Amish mother experienced decreased fetal movement during a preterm pregnancy and transported herself to the hospital for evaluation. The baby was confirmed to have died prior to arrival.

After the stillbirth was confirmed, the parents expressed their intention to return home so their cultural midwife could assist them with the birth according to their religious and community practices.

According to the family, hospital staff responded with hostility. The parents report being yelled at and ridiculed for planning a home birth and receiving care from a midwife within their Amish community.

Rather than receiving compassionate guidance during a time of grief, the family states they were pressured to remain in the hospital and abandon their chosen care practices.

The father of this baby described the treatment by medical staff as "threatening" and "intimidating." Members of this community are generally trusting of authority and rarely use language of this kind to describe interactions with medical professionals. When families who are accustomed to cooperative relationships report hostility and a lack of cultural understanding, even in the absence of an immediate life-threatening situation, the experience can reasonably be perceived as threatening. The fact that this family used such language reflects the seriousness of how the interaction was experienced.

Testimony 2

Amish Family – Preterm Stillbirth (34 Weeks)

This family also experienced a stillbirth at the same hospital referenced in the previous testimony.

During pregnancy the mother had an underlying medical condition associated with a moderate increased risk of stillbirth. She was not avoiding medical care and was otherwise healthy. Her midwife conducted standard prenatal monitoring including laboratory testing, ultrasounds, glucose screening, and routine prenatal assessment. The mother also remained in contact with her own medical providers regarding her condition.

The typical medical recommendation for this condition is induction at approximately 37 weeks. The mother understood this risk and chose to continue prenatal care through her midwife while planning a home birth if the pregnancy remained healthy.

The baby died unexpectedly at approximately 34 weeks of pregnancy, before the gestational age at which induction would normally occur.

When the family presented to the hospital after the loss, they reported that a physician attempted to persuade them to contact law enforcement and report their midwife, stating the mother should have been under hospital care and would have been induced at 37 weeks.

The family declined, explaining that the loss occurred weeks before any recommended induction and that the midwife had been providing full prenatal care. They also stated that reporting their midwife would directly conflict with their religious beliefs and community practices.

It should be further noted that if legitimate concerns had existed regarding the midwife's care, there are established medical and regulatory channels for review.

Instead, according to the parents, the physician contacted police immediately despite the absence of evidence that the midwife's care contributed to the loss and despite the situation involving the mother's informed and lawful medical choices.

Testimony 3

Religious Liberty Conflict Following Birth

A family contacted advocacy networks after experiencing conflict during the birth of their child.

During labor the mother declined IV antibiotics recommended after a positive GBS screening. The parents state she had no additional risk factors and had received normal prenatal care throughout pregnancy. Based on their religious convictions and understanding of the risks and benefits, they exercised informed consent and declined the antibiotics.

According to the mother, conflict escalated during delivery. She reports that the physician placed his hands under her buttocks without permission and forcefully pushed her further up the hospital bed during delivery. She reports that her hair became caught behind her during this maneuver and that her neck was injured.

The family also reports the physician threatened to remove the baby's grandmother from the room when she reminded staff that the parents had requested delayed cord clamping.

The family stated that during in-room examinations, the pediatrician, who they perceived as frustrated with the parents' decision to decline Vitamin K, handled the newborn roughly while attempting to force the baby onto the mother's breast. When the father questioned whether the baby was being handled too forcefully, the family reports that the pediatrician abruptly shoved the baby into the grandmother's arms and left the room.

The family requested another pediatrician but were told none was available and that their only option was to leave against medical advice.

After leaving the hospital, Child Protective Services and police reportedly arrived at the family's home and required them to return to the hospital. The parents report being detained for approximately six hours and repeatedly questioned about their religious beliefs and why these constituted declining antibiotics in labor, and IM vitamin k refusal.

Testimony 4

Religious Family – Hospital Transfer After Home Birth

A devout Christian family transferred to the hospital with their newborn after a planned home birth because the baby required monitoring for transient tachypnea of the newborn (TTN).

The family follows strict religious convictions that guide their medical decisions and had chosen home birth as part of those beliefs.

Upon arrival, the intake physician evaluated the baby and reportedly determined the infant was stable and improving.

After a shift change, a new physician assumed care. The family reports this physician strongly disagreed with their home birth and their decision to decline Vitamin K.

According to the parents, the physician became confrontational and pressured them to consent to invasive blood cultures and hospital admission despite the baby showing normal signs.

When the parents declined, they report being threatened with mandated reporting and repeatedly questioned about their religious beliefs.

Observed Pattern

Across these cases families consistently report:

- hostility toward midwifery care or home birth
- interrogation regarding religious beliefs
- threats involving mandated reporting or authorities
- aggressive or intimidating behavior from medical personnel
- pressure to accept interventions against religious convictions

These cases suggest a growing conflict between institutional maternity care systems and families whose religious beliefs guide pregnancy and birth practices.

Recommendations for the Religious Liberty Commission

Based on the experiences documented in these cases, NATBR recommends the following considerations:

1. Recognition of Traditional Midwifery as Cultural and Religious Heritage

Federal acknowledgment that traditional midwifery constitutes a protected cultural and religious practice would help prevent discrimination against families whose faith traditions include community midwifery and home birth.

2. Protection of Religious Informed Consent in Maternity Care

Hospitals and providers should be reminded that informed consent includes the right to decline interventions based on religious conviction when no immediate life-threatening condition exists.

3. Guidance Regarding Use of Mandated Reporting

Mandated reporting systems should not be used as a tool to intimidate families exercising lawful medical decisions rooted in religious belief.

4. Respect for Cultural Birth Practices in Hospital Settings

Healthcare institutions should develop guidance and training to ensure that families practicing religious or cultural birth traditions are treated with respect and without bias.

U.S. Birth Landscape

- Approximately 3.6 million births occur annually in the United States (recent provisional and final data show ~3.63 million in 2024, with a slight decline indicated in 2025 provisional figures).
- A significant portion of pregnancies—often estimated at 55–70%—are classified as low-risk (e.g., singleton, term, cephalic presentation, no major complications), making many eligible for midwifery-led or community birth models.
- The overall cesarean delivery rate is approximately 32.4%.
- Among low-risk first births (nulliparous, term, singleton, vertex; NTSV), cesarean rates are around 25–26.6% nationally.

These intervention rates are notably higher than in countries with well-integrated midwifery systems.

Midwifery Outcomes

Large-scale national and international studies show that midwifery-led care for low-risk pregnancies is associated with improved outcomes compared to standard obstetric models.

Cesarean Rates

Integrated midwifery models (e.g., continuity of care) report cesarean rates of 12–15% in comparable low-risk populations, with some birth center settings achieving 8–17%.

Maternal and Neonatal Outcomes

Midwife-led continuity of care is linked to:

- Lower cesarean delivery rates
- Reduced postpartum hemorrhage
- Fewer severe perineal tears
- Lower preterm birth rates
- Higher breastfeeding initiation
- Greater maternal satisfaction

Home Birth Data

For low-risk pregnancies with trained midwives, planned community births (including home births) show strong safety profiles.

Key findings from large datasets:

- Cesarean rates around 5–6% in planned home births
- Very low maternal mortality
- High breastfeeding rates (e.g., ~86% exclusive at 6 weeks in some reports)

- High rates of intended home birth achievement (~89%) and VBAC success (~87%)

These outcomes hold when care includes appropriate screening, risk assessment, and timely hospital transfer if needed.

Integrated Midwifery Systems

Countries with established, integrated midwifery models (e.g., Netherlands, United Kingdom, New Zealand, Canada, Australia) consistently demonstrate:

- Lower overall intervention rates
- Comparable or better maternal and neonatal outcomes
- Reduced healthcare costs

Potential National Impact of Expanded Midwifery Access

In a hypothetical scenario applying midwifery models more broadly:

- With ~3.6 million annual births and a substantial low-risk segment (e.g., focusing on first-time low-risk births), greater access could meaningfully reduce interventions.
- If half of eligible low-risk first births shifted to integrated midwifery care, cesarean rates could drop from ~26% to ~14%, potentially preventing 75,000–90,000 primary cesareans annually. Reducing primary cesareans lowers future risks such as placenta accreta, uterine rupture, and repeat cesareans.

Group B Streptococcus (GBS)

U.S. practice involves universal screening at 36–37 weeks gestation, with intrapartum antibiotics for positives.

Key context:

- 20–30% of pregnant individuals are colonized with GBS.
- Most colonized individuals deliver healthy infants without infection.
- Early-onset neonatal GBS disease incidence is low: ~0.2 cases per 1,000 live births (recent CDC data).

Several countries (e.g., United Kingdom, Netherlands, Sweden) use risk-based screening instead of universal, with comparable outcomes.

Informed Consent Standards

U.S. medical ethics and law uphold patient autonomy:

- Individuals have the right to make informed decisions about their bodies, including accepting or refusing interventions.

- Religious beliefs and personal values often influence birth choices.

Key precedents include protections for refusing treatments (e.g., blood transfusions by Jehovah's Witnesses) when decisions are informed and non-emergent.

Conclusion

Evidence supports that midwifery-led care and planned home births with qualified attendants yield excellent outcomes for appropriately screened low-risk pregnancies. Informed consent remains a core ethical and legal principle in maternity care. Greater recognition of midwifery as a valid option,rooted in cultural, traditional, and sometimes religious heritage, can reduce conflicts, enhance patient autonomy, and improve access to necessary medical interventions when indicated.

This supplemental testimony document was compiled and submitted by the National Alliance for Traditional Birth Rights (NATBR) as part of ongoing submissions to the Religious Liberty Commission regarding conflicts between institutional maternity care systems and families whose pregnancy and birth decisions are guided by religious conviction and cultural tradition.

The accounts included in this document were collected through referrals from advocacy networks, religious liberty organizations, midwifery groups, and other family advocacy channels. Identifying information has been withheld to protect the privacy of the families involved.

As part of advocacy support, families are routinely encouraged to pursue appropriate follow-up actions when concerns arise in maternity or newborn care settings. This may include:

- requesting amendments to medical records when documentation is inaccurate
- submitting hospital administrative complaints
- documenting events through written and notarized statements
- identifying appropriate regulatory or oversight reporting channels
- preserving records that may be relevant to civil rights or religious liberty claims

The testimonies included here reflect the experiences as reported by the families involved and are presented to illustrate patterns of concern regarding religious liberty, informed consent, and cultural bias in maternity care settings.

To The Religious Liberty Commission,
I'm a Catholic Wife and Mother, Heritage American. I'm appalled by the way Dan Patrick and others on the Religious Liberty Commission have scrutinize our fellow Catholic,Sister in Christ Carrie Prejean Boller and us Catholics. Catholic catechism teaches the definitive, unbreakable bond between God and humanity established by Christ through his Paschal Mystery fulfilled the Old Covenant. We believe in a New and everlasting Covenant. Zionism is blasphemous to our faith. As a Conservative Catholic, I experienced first hand how the Biden Regime targeted and mistreated us relentlessly for our faith. We prayed and voted in mass numbers for President Trump hoping his Administration would protect us Christians and our true beliefs against persecution. Sadly,we Christians see now nobody is willing to stand up for our beliefs and when one does they are labeled antisemitic; this has nothing to do with antisemitism but truth. The way Dan Patrick berated Carrie Prejean Boller, our Sister in Christ showed us once again nobody is willing to stand up for us Christians and our true beliefs. We consider Zionism Blashphemous to our sacred religion that we hold dear for years and have been the most persecuted religion throughout the world for Millenia. We believe only Christ is King and those who seek him will have everlasting life. Christ himself said,"If the world hates you, keep in mind that it hated me first". To us Christians, this is bigger than politics,it is our faith in Christ and the following of his teachings. We consider Zionism blasphemy, Judeo-Christian as sacrilege. We are in fact a Christian Nation but to remain a majority Christian Nation we can not have Heresy. Heresy is a deliberate deviation in belief from established truth (Zionism/Judeo-Christian). We are strong in our Christian faith and no amount of insults,defamation,vilification or invectives will change this. Carrie Prejean Boller must remain on the Religious Liberty Commission,our Christian voice refuses to be silenced. If one should resign or fired it is Dan Patrick,for he seems oblivious to Catholicism or any of our true Christian beliefs. Dan Patrick has tried to politicize and mock our faith for his own personal political agenda.

May God Bless you as you seek to do what is right,
Tiffhany Kiraly

Subject: California requests to testify at February 2026 Hearing on School Vaccine Mandates and Religious Liberty

Hi Mary and the Religious Liberty Commission

I hope you had a happy Thanksgiving!

As I have mentioned in a previous email (below), A Voice for Choice Advocacy is the leading organization that is fighting for religious rights for children in California when it comes to school vaccine mandates – both in litigation and legislation.

In this email below, I am sharing with you three testimonies we would like you to add to the February Religious Liberty Commission hearing on the topic of religious liberty restrictions due to school vaccine mandates. I hope these testimonies will convince you to include them on one of the panels.

In this folder https://drive.google.com/drive/folders/1bjL4PHCH1AXyNqLrmLzWiKzeZhM6bp1U?usp=sharing you will find the written and video testimony of:

- Myself, Christina Hildebrand/AVFCAi– Organization in CA that has a religious exemption lawsuit against SB 277, speaking on behalf of our organization, our attorney and our plaintiffs

- Danielle and Keira Jones – plaintiffs in our lawsuit. Their story is compelling and sad. Keira is not able to go to high school due to her vaccination status and parents religious beliefs. She is missing out on future opportunities including Track and Field scholarships for college. Having to homeschool has impacted her mental health severely to the point she tried to commit suicide this summer. It has also impacted her parents significantly financially.
- Karen and Riley Amigon –Karen, who is a single mom, and her daughter Riley (7) are also having to homeschool due to their religious beliefs and California's vaccine requirements. Riley is in 1st grade and has her whole K-12 education ahead of her and would love to be able to join her peers in public school. This would also allow her mother to work on an easier schedule.

I do not have our lawyer here as he has been super busy the past few weeks, but he would be extremely eloquent as well. This is his profile https://www.nicolfirm.com/about.

I am happy to answer any further questions or put you in touch with Karen and/or Danielle.
Thanks!

Re: Constitutional Challenge to California's SB 277 - Denial of Religious Exemptions from School Vaccine Mandates – February 2025 Hearing on Religious Liberty in Public Education

Dear Commissioners:

I wrote to you giving public comment in August to ask to be included in the past Religious Liberty Commission hearing but understand that there is a hearing specifically that will address Vaccine Mandates for schools that violate religious liberties in February in Florida. I ask that representatives of our lawsuit be included in giving testimony during this hearing. This would include:

- Christina Hildebrand, President and Founder of A Voice for Choice Advocacy. Our organization has been advocating for religious rights in California, especially when it comes to school vaccine mandates.
- Jonathon Nicol, Lead Attorney on the Doescher, et al. v. Pan, Ninth Circuit Case No. 25-4531; Eastern District of California Case No. 2:23-cv-02995-KJM-JDP, our case that would require California to have a religious exemption for school vaccine mandates.
- Doescher, et al. Plaintiffs, parents and the children affected by the lack of religious exemptions in California that have been denied public education.

Below I outline the background on this critical religious liberty case currently on appeal in the Ninth Circuit that demands urgent consideration: Doescher, et al. v. Pan, Ninth Circuit Case No. 25-4531; Eastern District of California Case No. 2:23-cv-02995-KJM-JDP.

The Constitutional Crisis

California's SB 277 has created an unprecedented and illegal burden on religious freedom by eliminating all religious exemptions from school vaccine requirements while maintaining broad secular exemptions. Devout families are being forced to choose between their sincere religious convictions and their children's access to public education—a choice no American family should face.

SB 277's Constitutional Defects

Discriminatory Exemption System: SB 277 exempts vast numbers of students – over 30% statewide, and over 50% in urban districts like Los Angeles. Carve-outs exist for Special Education students, those with medical issues, homeless students, children of military, those over the age of majority, undocumented students, and foster youth. Yet religious families—regardless of their sincere convictions—receive no consideration whatsoever.

Given these vast exceptions, California cannot claim with a straight face that the tiny numbers of religiously devout students – 0.58%i– would "break the bank" – and it is impossible to claim that SB 277 does not inexplicably single out the religious.

Not Generally Applicable: SB 277 imposes selective burdens on religion and it is not generally applicable. A court cannot deem a statute neutral and generally applicable if it treats any comparable secular activity more favorably than religious exercise. Church of Lukumi Babalu Aye, Inc. v. Hialeah, 508 U.S. 520, 537–538 (1993). Such a statute therefore triggers strict scrutiny under the Free Exercise Clause, which SB 277 fails.
Lack of Neutrality: SB 277 was enacted despite published California Senate Judiciary Committee warnings about Free Exercise violations. Church of Lukumi Babalu Aye, Inc. v. Hialeah, 508 U.S. 520, 533 (1993).

Failure of Strict Scrutiny: As the Supreme Court held in Fulton v. City of Philadelphia, 141 S. Ct. 1868, 1877 (2021), the government cannot claim a compelling interest while "making [exemptions] available to others" but denying them to religious adherents. SB 277 undermines its own stated public health goals by exempting vast categories of unvaccinated students for secular reasons.

Real Families, Real Harm

Our plaintiffs suffer concrete injuries beyond ideological disagreement, including financial hardships for independent study due to SB 277's restrictions; homeschooling expenses after explicit rejection from public schools; and imminent enforcement action and educational disruption.

These families' children experience educational limitations, social isolation, and stigma—all because California refuses to accommodate their religious beliefs while accommodating secular objections.

The Supreme Court's Clear Direction

The legal landscape for religious freedom fundamentally shifted in 20202 with Roman Catholic Diocese of Brooklyn v. Cuomo, 592 U.S. 14 (2020), which the Ninth Circuit itself called "a seismic shift in Free Exercise law." This watershed decision confirmed that where a law treats religious institutions less favorably than comparable secular activities, such law imposes an undue burden on the free exercise of religion.

As Justice Gorsuch noted, off-cited cases like Jacobson v. Commonwealth of Massachusetts, 197 U.S. 11 (1905) and its progeny pre-date modern constitutional formulations and absolutely must be confined to the conventions in modern precedent. Roman Catholic Diocese of Brooklyn v. Cuomo (2020) 592 U.S. 14, 23 (Gorsuch, concurring).

The Supreme Court has consistently applied this principle, reversing every lower court decision that failed to protect religious exercise during the pandemic. See, e.g., Harvest Rock Church v. Newsom, 141 S. Ct. 889 (2020); Robinson v. Murphy, 141 S. Ct. 972 (2020); High Plains Harvest Church v. Polis, 141 S. Ct. 527 (2021); S. Bay United Pentecostal Church v. Newsom, 141 S. Ct. 716 (2021); Tandon v. Newsom, 141 S. Ct. 1294 (2021).

Legal Precedent Supports Religious Families

Recent federal court decisions uniformly support our position:

- The Fifth Circuit struck down similar policies in U.S. Navy Seals v. Biden, 27 F.4th 336, 350-53 (5th Cir. 2022).
- The Sixth Circuit applied strict scrutiny to hold that a county public health order closing all schools, including religious schools, was not generally applicable because it permitted various secular businesses to remain open in Monclova Christian Academy v. 10 Toledo-Lucas Health Dept., 984 F.3d 477,i482 (6th Cir. 2020)
- A Mississippi federal court recently held that providing medical but not religious exemptions violates the Constitution in Bosarge v. Edney, No. 1:22CV233- HSO-BWR, ECF 87 (S.D. Miss. August 29, 2023).

The Path Forward

This case represents more than a dispute over vaccination policy—it tests whether religious Americans can participate fully in public life without compromising their faith. The Supreme Court's recent precedents provide a clear roadmap: laws burdening religious exercise must be neutral and generally applicable, and California's discriminatory exemption system fails both tests.

The stakes could not be higher. If California can force religious families to choose between their faith and their children's education, fundamental religious liberty is at risk nationwide.

We respectfully urge the Commission to give a voice to our organization, lawyer and plaintiffs to share our story of the dire situation in California when it comes to vaccine mandates and religious liberties.

Please let me know what other information you need from me to make this happen.

Thank you,

Religious Liberties Commission,

Based on extensive experience, I've come to gain enough records to say, with a high degree of confidence, that Apple coordinates trans-national racketeering-influenced criminal networks. The company's willingness to coerce public systems and catalyze various forms of oppressive abuse (e.g, civil liberties, financial, social, etc.) is particularly poignant in situations where "God" or a deity, in general, might be seen as a likely cause of aid and assistance.

In other words, Apple and co-conspirators leverage a globally scaled network of Internet-enabled devices to gather background user data. The company and its data sharing racket processes that data to determine where it will intervene with oppression, tactics that obstruct Justice, or material and relationship-based favor.

The impact to society can range from support to white-collar crime, manufactured family organization, remote coordination of cartel & terrorist networks --- anything that allows the company to maintain a shiny brand-image and a theoretical, economically-fueled dominance over the individual liberties.

The network's worldwide shadow operations creates a veil over Truth and Opportunity. Adequately addressing this challenge of our era will create an opening for the collective consciousness of humankind and provide room for expanded realizations of our non-severable Unity with the All.

Sincerely,

Steven Quinn Singleton

National Security Agency and partners, do you have a way of detecting computer system activities engaged in searching for and testing for black swan like economic opportunities? This might already be part of standard threat detection procedures. There might be a pooled, parallel effort that relies on large-scale computing and generative output to return possible solutions for subverting rule-based economic systems, at least.

I remember running a basic search on Perplexity, with no web. The system returned a graph on November 2026 election predictions. It's very unusual for my no cost account tier to return a chart. It was a unique event among all of my searches. Chart generation and statistical analysis is a paid-tier feature. Do you have a body of Intelligence reports the field of registered and unregistered business operations with at least $10M in uniquely or aggregately held assets? The Securities Exchange Commission has an opportunity to establish clarity in areas where there is intentional or unintentional ambiguity on corporate form.

Specific business operations might have issued "securities" to 500 or more persons and the securities issued can have value of any amount, including but not limited to null and $0.000.

By now you might have heard of https://e-america.org/

I received a filler transaction to my debit card for Token Providence, US after paying a bill with Comcast.

Two things I ask for your help on.

First, on 3/3/2026, I made a transaction with USPS at 10:23 Pacific. Keep reading. My concern is not with the status of the package but with the transaction at the counter. I asked for signature confirmation to be added to the delivery. A price was displayed to me and it seemed on the lower side. I moved to double-confirm with the Postal Service representative that signature confirmation was added to the delivery. She looked at the screen and said yes.

I wonder if the display rendered signature confirmation but the system did not register signature confirmation attached to the Certified Mail product. This typically works. There could have been a legitimate bug or interference for the purpose of fraudulently inducing what might have been estimated to be an attempt to effectuate service of process. The e-RICO relies on inducing disjointed experiences to cause disappointment. Tampering with the government information system is a reasonably suspected possibility.

Next there's the UCC situation. The Supreme Court has unquestioned jurisdiction. It's that clarity must be established for other levels of adjudication. The situation I've reported, participated in, and observed seems to be a challenge to the basic concept of individual property rights, in addition to targeting myself and my family. The scheme asserted a tenancy claim and maintained the position, a strategy designed to accentuate the RICO's relationship with any privately held property that it might be able to reach. Regardless of deed and mortgage assignments, the property might have still been viewed, by some, as "renting" from the monopolistically-coordinated private co-conspirators.

Theories on distinction of markets, separation of corporate forms, and integrations of services should be discussed as folks imagine the potential of the United States' socio-economic infrastructure.

Does the Criminal Division focus on real property laundering?

The e-RICO may have expertise in coordinating expedient transfers of properties to avoid or obstruct re-possession by rightful owners. Their criminal strategy, in large part, relies on a keep away game philosophy to frustrate the advisory, enemy, or target of the corrupt tactics.

Pushing the asset outside of a perceived realm of liability protects the RICO's interest in exploiting people and public infrastructure for arbitrage gain without respect to rights, law, and communication about transactions. There must be a restorative framework that restores parties harmed by original property theft, while making one or more parties of the RICO accountable to cleaning up the downstream environmental impact of the criminally-induced trail of activity.

The Clerk of Court had no way to edit, fix, or update the automatically generated form. Besides user input to request generation of the form, the electronic system was assigned total responsibility for this form's generation, management, and issuance.

This could just be a workflow design gap. According to my state's Rule of Court, the plaintiff must serve the notice at a time no later than the summons and complaint are served. If it is not a workflow gap, it might represents a standard strategy and tactic to introduce procedural issues in matters where more than one defendant party is named.

Hello all, I exported a thread from my Perplexity account to send to the Federal Labs. The export notification persisted longer than I expected, after the document export and download concluded.

In my next query, I received a search result indicating the python and javascript might be used to steal data from people who use consumer side tools.

Will you please thoroughly assess the situation?

Consider this a situation that may be best approached with the whole-of-government philosophy.

Is there a tiered classification of employee count to billing to Medicare over specific time horizons?

How might HCF build models that better detect suspicious activity relative to the constraints of the Medicare system (i.e., time to complete an application, processing times, things that can be automated v. manual input required, etc.)

You might be able to cast a wider net on market management. Combating fraud promotes legitimate market growth and a more sustainable development of markets. A pattern expressed by the RICO has consistently included sending me contacts about debts or things with nominal monetary value after identifying an opportunity that might be assessed to have sizable present or future monetary value.

The questions I posed are basic, but they underscore my genuine interest in their work. The last time I received an email from NASA, I was told that my subject of inquiry was too small to be significant. I don't know if that's the case. I'm only asking questions because I care about the agency's leadership role and its ability to elevate people who spark or catalyze advancements of the Space and Cosmological Sciences. I believe that agency can fuels the public interest by activating, engaging, and openly recognizing members of the public who make novel contributions and the contributions can take on many different forms.

https://www.ignet.gov/sites/default/files/CIGIE%20Presidential%20Transition%20Handbook%20-%202024.pdf

Something I noticed is the vacancies, especially the long term vacancies, such as that within the Department of Treasury. Vacancies have been a topic of interest after noticing the non-composure of the FEC and the numerous U.S. Marshalls openings throughout the federal districts for the States.

One approach to improving the global financial environment is improved warehousing and search-ability of company entities not registered within a jurisdiction where operations are regularly maintained. Further exploration led me to discover a FinCEN rule issued in September 2022:

https://www.federalregister.gov/documents/2022/09/30/2022-21020/beneficial-ownership-information-reporting-requirements

What is the status of this project?

This juncture of our history presents an opportunity to construct a well-maintained database and procedure that makes routine maintenance possible in low friction ways. There appears to be a broad framework permitting a whole-of-government approach to advancing this aspect of society infrastructure.

* First Amendment and Fair Information Practice principles create a foundation for accessing and utilizing publicly available foreign data as non-restricted objects of collection.

* The Office of the Director of National Intelligence and the IC may collect and analyze open-source information, including publicly available foreign data.

* The Bank Secrecy Act should provide for evaluating public registries as a standard tool in combating financial crimes.

* Other legal frameworks may become salient upon discovery of information producing impetus for deeper analysis of foreign business and investor information.

https://www.federalregister.gov/d/2022-21020/p-42

The United States does not have to bear the entire burden of this operation. Information requests and sharing with foreign nations can help further develop the collective financial stability and transparency of the global economic systems.

Some persons, companies, networks, non-governmental and/or government entities may rely on the gaps that Beneficial Ownership Reporting Requirements (BOR2) are intended to fill. Much of the criminal intent and activities I've encountered have a substantial connection to shining a light on the foreign registered corporation featured in the attachments.

The BOR2 system may send information to the States so that they can update their business registries with provisional records and/or coordinate requesting information from Citizens residing within their jurisdiction. The effort might be coordinated through State Auditors and Secretary of State organizations.

Please facilitate a discussion that includes roles and stakeholders with a substantial interest in this matter.

virtue of walking into Target, I was targeted with one or more device intrusions and a debt oriented communicat ion. The exercise of hegemony reported today, and at other times, may scale into a system designed and implemente d to control or exercise undue influence over significant portions of the world's consumer transactional layer. The aspects of the transactional layer may include communicat ions, products & transactions within the Consumer Finance Protection Bureau's statutory authority to regulate on an independent basis and in partnership with other agencies (e.g. DOJ, FTC).

Please consider this along with financial stability projects & programs of our Nation and with the international community.

Internet-enabled mobile devices are broadly accessible across the world. At one point, the category of devices and services possible on them were an extreme luxury, intended to reduce friction for specific use cases and client profiles. After the iPhone 4 was late-stage beta or ready for general availability, a mobile-first philosophy began to expand in popularity.

Of chief concern is the way the system might place pressure placed on transient communities, such as refugees.

The system highlighted in this conversational record is part of or substantially connected to an economic subversion Intelligence strategy. It's essentially a product that provides a service to someone or something, and the actors managing the corrupt system intended to maintain 99.98%', or greater, reliability and uptime.

So we must establish an elevation of standards for the People of the United States, and of Earth.

Doing so may'be aided by an end-of-life plan for the product. You won't get the specs to the product. But you can determine its components via honorable discovery, investigatio n,'and enforcement efforts in administrati on of the Constitution and statutes of the United States.

These emails are typically delivered in a pattern, and in connection with a scam and/or coordinated attempts to suppress civil liberties.

More likely, the communication might be coordinated through pings detectible with Target's ambient wi-fi networks. This may signal one or more inappropriate approachs to organizing debt collector communications.

Can someone approach the Postal Service about implementing one-click missing mail reports on items with tracking numbers? Good Afternoon,

Sincerely,
Monique Renick, RN, BSN, CMSRN
[redacted]

Submitted to: The Religious Liberty Commission
Regarding: Upcoming Hearing on Religious Liberty in Healthcare and Social Services
Submitted by: Monique Renick, RN, BSN, CMSRN
Date: March 3, 2024

I. Introduction

I am a Registered Nurse with more than thirteen years of experience caring for cardiac, thoracic, transplant and progressive care patients at a leading academic medical center. I served on the frontlines throughout the Covid-19 pandemic.

My experience revealed a serious gap in protection for healthcare workers who assert sincerely held religious beliefs in the workplace.

I submit this brief to provide firsthand perspective on how religious accommodation requests were evaluated and, in my case, denied without meaningful engagement. I respectfully request the opportunity to testify regarding the structural barriers healthcare professionals face when asserting religious liberty rights in the employment context.

II. Professional Background

For over thirteen years, I provided high-acuity bedside care in a cardiac, thoracic, transplant and progressive care unit. My work required strict compliance with infection control standards, ethical obligations, and patient safety protocols.

III. Religious Accommodation Request and Termination

When my employer implemented a Covid-19 vaccine mandate in 2021, I submitted a request for religious accommodation based on my sincerely held Christian beliefs.

My objection was rooted in my conviction that my body is a temple of the Holy Spirit and that I must not knowingly introduce substances I believe may interfere with or change my God-given biological integrity. My belief was not based on specific manufacturing processes or the use of particular cell lines. It was grounded in bodily stewardship and spiritual accountability.

DOJ-RLC Comment-001733

My request was denied on the grounds of "undue hardship," and my employment was terminated.

Approximately one year later, I was offered reinstatement if I agreed to receive the Novavax vaccine, which my former employer represented as not derived from aborted fetal cell lines. This response suggested that my original objection had been narrowly interpreted, despite the fact that my request did not hinge on fetal cell lines. It centered on bodily integrity (my God given DNA) and religious conviction.

This raised a serious concern: Whether my belief was fully understood before the determination was made that accommodation was not possible.

IV. Workplace Identification and Differential Treatment

During implementation of the vaccine mandate, my former employer required vaccinated employees to wear visible "vaccine" identification markers on their badges. Employees granted medical or religious accommodation would be issued a different colored badge labeled "medical" or "religious." Employees whose accommodation requests were pending–or later denied—were not issued identification markers as vaccinated staff.

This system created visible distinctions among employees baked on vaccination status and, by extension, medical or religious status.

In practice, this had significant consequences:

- It publicly distinguished employees based on protected medical or religious status.
- It exposed private accommodation status to coworkers, supervisors, and patients.
- It created an environment in which those seeking or granted accommodations felt marked or singled out.

DOJ-RLC Comment-001734

- It generated discomfort and uncertainty for employees awaiting decisions or facing denial.

For those of us awaiting review of our accommodation requests, the visible identification system reinforced a sense of vulnerability and exclusion. Once requests were denied, the distinction became even more pronounced.

Even if implemented for administrative purposes, the effect was the creation of a visibly tiered workforce. Religious accommodation should not result in public differentiation that exposes an employee's protected status or creates a stigma.

This raises critical policy questions:

- Should religious or medical accommodation status ever be visibly identifiable in the workplace?
- What safeguards protect employees from indirect disclosure of protected characteristics?
- At what point does administrative tracking become stigmatizing differentiation?

Religious liberty protections are intended to shield employees from discrimination—not subject them to public marking.

V. Scope of Employer Inquiry into Religious Beliefs

As part of the accommodation process, I was required to complete an extensive questionnaire probing the origin, doctrinal basis, and consistency of my religious beliefs. The inquiry went far beyond confirming that my belief was religious and sincerely held. It required theological explanation and detailed personal history.

Religious liberty law protects sincerity—not orthodoxy.

DOJ-RLC Comment-001735

When employers require employees to articulate theological precision or defend doctrinal consistency, the line between evaluating sincerity and evaluating theological validity becomes blurred. Employers are not theological authorities. Nor should employees be required to demonstrate doctrinal expertise in order to exercise protected rights.

Based on discussions with colleagues, it appeared that the overwhelming majority of religious accommodation requests at my institution were denied. This raises concern as to whether the process functioned as individualized review or as a sweeping categorical denial.

Key questions include:

- What is the appropriate scope of inquiry when assessing sincerity?
- What safeguards prevent employers from engaging in theological evaluation?
- At what point does legitimate inquiry become unconstitutional intrusion?

VI. The "Undue Hardship" Standard in Healthcare

In healthcare settings, particularly during public health emergencies, the "undue hardship" standard may be applied expansively.

Concerns include:

- Whether alternative accommodations were meaningfully explored.
- Whether interactive dialogue occurred in good faith.
- Whether determinations were effectively predetermined.
- Whether individualized analysis was replaced by blanket assumptions.

DOJ-RLC Comment-001736

Even in times of crisis religious liberty protections require individualized consideration.

VII. Mandatory Arbitration and Access to Meaningful Review

Like many healthcare workers, I signed a mandatory arbitration agreement as a condition of employment. As a result, my religious discrimination claim was not heard in open court but in private arbitration.

My former employer sought dismissal of my claim on the basis that I did not hold a sincerely held religious belief. The arbitration, procedural safeguards differ significantly from those available in court. Early dismissal may leave little opportunity for meaningful judicial review and no opportunity for appeal

This creates structural concerns:

- Limited transparency
- Lack of appellate review
- Inconsistent evaluation of religious sincerity
- Reduced public accountability

Concerns were also raised in some cases regarding whether arbitrators had affiliations or publicly known positions related to vaccination advocacy that were not disclosed prior to proceedings. Even the appearance of potential bias undermines confidence in neutrality.

The protection of religious liberty depends not only on substantive rights, but on fair and transparent adjudication processes.

DOJ-RLC Comment-001737

VIII. Policy Recommendations

I respectfully urge the Commission to consider:

1. Clear standards affirming that sincerity—not doctrinal precision—is the legal threshold.

2. Defined limits on employer inquiry into theological matters.

3. Strengthened guidance requiring meaningful interactive accommodation processes.

4. Careful review of how the "undue hardship" standard is applied in healthcare settings.

5. Examination of visible workplace identification practices that differentiate employees based on protected status.

6. Review of mandatory arbitration practices in cases involving constitutionally protected religious rights.

7. Enhanced disclosure and impartiality standards for arbitrators in religious disputes.

8. Consideration of limited appellate review safeguards for religious claims resolved through arbitration.

Conclusion

Healthcare workers devote their lives to caring for others under demanding and often dangerous conditions. They should not be required to surrender constitutional protections as a condition of serving the public.

Religious liberty protections exist precisely for moments of tension—-not only for moments of convenience.

Good afternoon,
So are you the folks encouraging the military to start a "holy war" and get our service men killed for a religious delusion? Our founding fathers state that there will be no establishment of a national religion.
John Locke argued in his A Letter Concerning Toleration that the care of souls cannot be committed to the civil magistrate, as true religion depends on inward belief, not outward force. Your commission is trying to force the rest of us to believe the way you do. No matter how hard you try to force us, it will not work. We will refuse.

What's even more sickening is Mr. Hegsheth justifying a war with Iran which just killed 4 servicemen with a religious ideology. This is delusion. Trump has just kicked the hornets nest. Now the world is completely destabilized because of him and your damn religion.

There's nothing more tyrannical than trying to control another person's thought processes.

Religion has completely ruined our nation.

MOHICAN RELIGION

In 1852 sachem Waun-nau-con, also called John W. Quinney, (1797-1855) wrote:

"The manner of worship is imperfectly transmitted; but their reverence for a Great and Good Spirit (whom they referred to by looking or pointing upwards), the observance of feasts and fasts, in each year; the offering of beasts in thanksgiving and for atonement, is clearly expressed.

They believed the soul to be immortal;---in the existence of a happy land beyond the view, inhabited by those whose lives had been blameless; while for the wicked had been a region of misery reserved, covered with thorns and thistles, where comfort and pleasure were unknown."

Chief of the Muhhekaneew Nation and U.S. Army Captain Hendrick Aupaumut (1757-1830) wrote:

"Our ancestors acknowledged one Supreme Being who dwells above, before they ever enjoyed Gospel revelation, the Great, Good Spirit, the Author of all things in heaven and on earth; and governs all events, and he is good to all his creatures.

They also believed that there was an evil one. Wicked Spirit that loves altogether to do mischief; that he excites person or persons to tell a lie. Angry, fight, hate, steal, to commit murder and to be envious, malicious and evil talking. Also excite nations to war with one another. To violate their friendship which the Great, Good Spirit given them to maintain for their mutual good, and their children after them.

In order to please the Great Good Spirit which they acknowledged to be their dependence, and on the other hand to withstand the evil one. Therefore the following custom was observed, which was handed down to them by their forefathers, and considered to be as communicated to them by the Great Good Spirit.

The Head of each family-man or woman-would begin with all tenderness as soon as daylight, to waken up their children and teach them as follows.

My Children – you must remember that it is by the goodness of the Great, Good Spirit we are preserved through the night.

My Children, you must listen to my words. If you wish to see many good days and evenings, you must love to all men and be kind to all people. If you see any in distress, you must try to help them. Remember that you will also be in distress sometime or other.

If you see anyone hungry, you must give him something to eat; though you should have but little cake, give him half of it, for you are also liable to hunger.

If you see one naked, you must cover him with your own raiment. For you must consider that some future time you will also stand in need of such help; but if you will not assist, or have compassion for the poor, you will displease the Good Spirit; you will be called hard-hearted and nobody will pity on you the time of your distress, but will mock at you.

My little Children, if you see aged man or woman on your way doing something, you must pity on them, and help them instantly. In so doing, you will make their hearts glad, and they will speak well of you.

And further, if you see your neighbors quarreling, you must try to make them be good friends again

And you must always listen to the instruction of old folks; thereby you will be wise.

And you must not be hasty to speak, when you hear people talking, Nor allow yourself too much laughing.

And if you find any that would speak evil against you, you must not speak evil words back, but shut your ears and mouth as if you hear nothing, and shun such people.

And you must never quarrel to any person for quarreling is belongs to evil spirit, and beast. But live in peace with all people: thereby you will please the Great, Good Spirit and you will be happy.

My little Children – you must be very kind to strangers. If you see a stranger or strangers come by the side of your fire place, you must salute them, and take them by the hand and be friendly to them; because you will be a stranger some time or other.

You must never speak any harsh word to strangers, but use words well as you can; Thereby they will love you and will speak well of you wherever they be; and if you ever come into a strange country you will meet with such kindness. But if you will not be friendly to such, you will be in danger wherever you go.

My children – again listen. You must be honest in all your ways. You must always speak nothing but the truth wherever you are. But if you should love to tell a lie, everybody will take notice of it; thereby you will bring a bad name to yourself. For instance-whenever people see you walking they will say to one another with scorn, and point at you. Look at that liar! And even when you should bring tidings of importance with the truth, they will not regard what you say.

My children, you must never steal anything from your fellow men, for remember this-you will not be pleased if some of your neighbors should take away your things by way of stealing; And you must also remember that the Great, Good Spirit see you. But if you allow yourself to steal, you will hurt your name and disgrace your parents and all relations; and you will be despised by all good people.

My children, you must always avoid bad company.

And above all, you must never commit murder, because you wish to see a long life. But if you commit murder, the Great, Good Spirit will be angry with you and your life will be in great danger; also the lives of your dear relations.

My Children, you must always be very industrious. You must always get up early morning to put on your clothes, muk-sens, and tie your belt about you, that you may be ready to do something; by so doing you will always have something to eat and put on. But if you will be lazy, you will be always poor. Your eyes shall be on those who are industrious, and perhaps you will shamefully beg or steal; and none will give you anything to eat without grudging.

And further, my children when you grown up, you must not take wife or husband without the consent of your parents and all relations. But if you will do contrary to this, perhaps you will be joined to one who will bring great darkness to you, and thereby you will be very unhappy

My Children at all times, you must obey your sachem and chiefs, in all good counsels they give; never to speak evil against them, for they have taken much pains in promoting your happiness. And if you do not observe this, you will be looked upon worse than the beasts are.

Thus they inculcate instructions to their children day after day until they are grown up; and after they are grown, yet they would teach them occasionally. And when young people have children, they also teach theirs in like manner.

This custom is handed down from generation to another; at the same time it may be observed that there were some who did not take pains to instruct their children, but would set bad examples before them, as well as there are such among civilized nations. But such men were roving about, and could not be contented to stay in one place.

When it comes time to die, be not like those whose hearts are filled with the fear of death, so when their time comes they weep and pray for a little more time to live their lives over again in a different way. Sing your death song, and die like a hero going home."

Dear Chair Patrick, Vice Chair Carson, and Members of the Presidential Commission on Religious Liberty,

I am looking forward to attending the March 16th gathering along with a faculty member and a member of our board. Thank you for convening such an important conversation. We are grateful for the opportunity to listen, learn, and participate.

I wanted to share a brief update ahead of the meeting. After meeting directly with the Arizona Board of Behavioral Health Examiners regarding the structural accreditation barrier created by outdated statutory language, we brought these concerns to our state representative. As a result of those discussions, a draft bill has now been opened to update the statute and address the bottleneck it has created in licensure pathways and, ultimately, in the mental healthcare workforce. We are encouraged by the engagement and hopeful for alignment with current federal accreditation policy.

I am also currently in discussion with Dr. Kent Ingle, President of Southeastern University, along with their Chief Academic Officer and Chief Operating Officer, as we work through accreditation considerations and institutional pathways. Additionally, I am scheduled to meet with Senator John Thune at the Capitol on March 12th and will provide context on these issues and their implications for workforce development and religious liberty.

I understand the Commission receives many submissions and perspectives. If it would be helpful for our brief to be considered in connection with your work, I would be grateful. I am happy to provide any additional information or tailor the material in whatever way best supports the Commission's efforts.

I look forward to March 16th and to continued dialogue about how thoughtful accreditation reform can both strengthen the mental health workforce and support faith-based institutions in matters of conscience and structural alignment.

ABSTRACT
This brief addresses a structural and constitutional concern in behavioral health education that limits small faith-based graduate institutions' ability to serve students and meet workforce needs. Many state statutes continue to require "regional accreditation" for licensure eligibility, even though the federal government eliminated the regional-versus-national distinction in 2020 and now recognizes institutional accreditation without that distinction. As a result, federally recognized faith-based accreditors are excluded from licensure pathways under outdated statutory language rather than on the basis of academic rigor.
In addition, evolving accreditation expectations increasingly raise religious liberty concerns when institutional identity and conscience protections intersect with compliance frameworks. Aligning state statutes with current federal accreditation terminology, affirming parity among federally recognized accreditors, and preserving conscience safeguards would maintain high professional standards while expanding access to counselor education at a time of significant national mental health workforce shortage.

Subject: Accreditation Reform and Religious Liberty in Behavioral Health Education

ABSTRACT

This brief addresses a structural and constitutional concern in behavioral health education that limits small faith-based graduate institutions' ability to serve students and meet workforce needs. Many state statutes continue to require "regional accreditation" for licensure eligibility, even though the federal government eliminated the regional-versus-national distinction in 2020 and now recognizes institutional accreditation without that distinction. As a result, federally recognized faith-based accreditors are excluded from licensure pathways under outdated statutory language rather than on the basis of academic rigor.

In addition, evolving accreditation expectations increasingly raise religious liberty concerns when institutional identity and conscience protections intersect with compliance frameworks.

Aligning state statutes with current federal accreditation terminology, affirming parity among federally recognized accreditors, and preserving conscience safeguards would maintain high professional standards while expanding access to counselor education at a time of significant national mental health workforce shortage.

DOJ-RLC Comment-001746

Dear Chair Patrick, Vice Chair Carson, and Members of the Religious Liberty Commission:

The word appreciative hardly captures the depth of our heartfelt gratitude for the important work you are undertaking. Thank you for your courageous leadership and your willingness to rethink entrenched systems. You, along with President Trump and Attorney General Pam Bondi, have demonstrated a clear recognition of the continued and critical need to safeguard religious freedom in the United States of America. For smaller, innovative higher-education institutions like ours, your leadership represents a meaningful opportunity to examine and address barriers that have quietly constrained faith-based education for years.

On behalf of Asher Graduate School of Counseling, I submit this brief to address structural accreditation barriers and growing religious liberty concerns affecting counselor education. Asher Graduate School of Counseling is a faith-based graduate institution committed to training clinically competent, ethically grounded counselors who integrate sound clinical practice with Christian conviction. We present this issue because outdated statutory language and evolving accreditation pressures are increasingly limiting smaller faith-based institutions from participating fully in licensure pathways and from helping meet the urgent mental health needs in our communities.

Issue Brief Submitted to the Presidential Commission on Religious Liberty

Over the years, I have heard the same phrases whispered in school administrative meetings:

"What a racket."

"It's a nightmare."

"Glacial speeds."

"Be careful what you say about your faith."

"Make sure you wordsmith appropriately."

"Will we have to compromise our values?"

"This is incredibly expensive."

"I came into education to teach students. When can we get back to our primary purpose?"

These are not the words of schools attempting to resist rigor. They are the words of institutions passionate about effective education, trying to survive accreditation standards.

I submit this brief as an Arizona-licensed counselor with decades of experience in education, having devoted much of my career to training graduate students to become clinically competent, ethically grounded Christian therapists. I have served as a professor, directed marriage and family therapy academic programs, sat on accreditation committees, and worked closely with the Arizona State Board of Behavioral Health Examiners.

Today, as President of Asher Graduate School of Counseling, I am leading our efforts to seek accreditation so our graduates may pursue state licensure.

In doing so, we are encountering two related barriers. The first is structural, a barrier to entry created by historical accreditation requirements. The second is constitutional, increasing pressure on faith-based institutions to conform in ways that strain deeply held religious convictions. Both warrant careful attention.

Because we are a small, single-program institution, the financial and structural demands of legacy "regional" accreditation are prohibitive. If we were permitted to pursue what was formerly called "national" accreditation, it would be within reach. Faith-aligned institutional accreditors such as the Transnational Association of Christian Colleges and Schools (TRACS) and the Association for Biblical Higher Education (ABHE) meet the same federal recognition standards as the historic regional bodies, but at a fraction of the cost. They also provide more individualized guidance, without the layers of bureaucracy that drive up expense and delay.

By continuing to recognize only the six historic regional accreditors, states have effectively shut out innovative and faith-based accrediting bodies and preserved what, in practice, functions as a monopoly. The 2020[1] federal revision wisely removed the distinction between regional and national accreditation and recognized both as institutional accreditation. That correction opened the door to a more accurate and competitive system. If states align their statutes accordingly, it would ease the current bottleneck in licensable programs and allow qualified accreditors to participate on equal footing.

At present, however, we are not permitted to use a faith-based accreditor, such as TRACS, as a pathway to licensure for our graduates. We cannot grow without accreditation, and we cannot realistically obtain accreditation without first growing. It is a true catch-22.

DOJ-RLC Comment-001748

In an attempt to remedy the structural issue, our state behavioral health board has acted in good faith and shown an eagerness to work toward solutions. However, the obstacle is not the Board. It is the statute.

[1] U.S. Department of Education, "Institutional Accountability Regulations," 85 Fed. Reg. 54742 (Sept. 2, 2020) (amending 34 C.F.R. Part 602 and removing the regulatory distinction between regional and national accrediting agencies).

DOJ-RLC Comment-001749

Many state statutes still specify that, for a counseling program's graduates to be eligible for licensure, the institution must hold "regional accreditation," the term eliminated at the federal level in 2020.

Despite the federal government's removal of the distinction between national and regional accreditation and its recognition of both under the umbrella of "institutional accreditation," our statute continues to hinge licensure eligibility on that outdated label. Until this language is updated, we are effectively barred not because we lack rigor or academic quality, but because we lack a legacy designation that has already been retired by federal policy.

If states align their statutes with current federal accreditation terminology and recognize institutional accreditation, they would broaden the path to licensure without lowering standards. This is not about weakening requirements. It is about correcting outdated language that quietly restricts access and limits high-quality programs, including small faith-based institutions, from serving students and meeting workforce needs.

We have met with state legislators and stakeholders, and a draft bill has been opened to address this issue. We are hoping for a favorable outcome.

Students are eager to enter the mental health field, one of the most sought-after areas of graduate study today. Many want to help individuals, families, and communities in crisis. The workforce need is real. What stands in the way is not lack of rigor, but bureaucracy layered upon bureaucracy.

The Structural Problem

States already require:

- Thousands of supervised clinical hours
- Curriculum oversight
- National board examinations
- Continuing education

DOJ-RLC Comment-001750

If a program is weak, graduates will not pass the boards or succeed in supervised practice. Safeguards already exist.

Layered on top of these protections are accreditation processes that can cost hundreds of thousands, sometimes millions of dollars in staffing, consultants, reporting systems, and multi-year compliance structures. These burdens fall hardest on smaller, faith-based institutions and create a significant barrier to entry in a field that urgently needs more providers.

The result is not increased quality. It is reduced access.

There is a national mental healthcare workforce crisis. According to the U.S. Health Resources and Services Administration, more than 130 million Americans live in federally designated Mental Health Professional Shortage Areas, and nearly half of the country's population resides in communities lacking sufficient providers.[2] National workforce projections indicate that shortages of mental health professionals, including counselors, will persist for years without expanded training pathways.[3] Here in Arizona, behavioral health workforce reports indicate the state meets only about 40% of its current workforce needs and ranks near the bottom nationally in provider availability.[4]

We need more counselors, not fewer pathways to train them.

Religious Liberty Concerns

This issue is not merely financial. It is constitutional.

Faith-based institutions increasingly experience pressure to conform to ideological frameworks that conflict with their religious convictions, particularly regarding family, human identity, and emerging cultural doctrines.

In recent years, accrediting bodies and oversight discussions have incorporated diversity, equity, and inclusion standards into institutional evaluation. While impartiality and professionalism are essential in practice, concerns arise when expectations extend beyond clinical competence and ethical practice into areas that require affirming specific ideological positions.

Even when subtle, the chilling effect is real. Faculty grows cautious. Language is softened. Institutional identity is recalibrated to meet approval standards.

Accreditation should ensure competence. It should not function as an ideological gatekeeper.

We fully support rigorous clinical training and ethical accountability. What we seek is fairness, not exemption.

When structural barriers and ideological pressures operate together, smaller faith-based institutions are constrained both financially and philosophically. That is not healthy pluralism.

Respectful Request to the Commission

First, I want to sincerely thank this Commission for the work you are doing. For institutions like ours, you represent a door that may finally open after years of barriers. You represent a pathway to removing unnecessary bureaucracy, reducing financial waste, and protecting traditional American principles of religious liberty and pluralism.

We respectfully ask that you:

- Encourage states to update outdated "regional accreditation" language to reflect the 2020 federal reforms.

DOJ-RLC Comment-001752

- Recommend model statutory language that protects religious liberty while maintaining high competency standards.
- Affirm that accrediting bodies should not compel ideological conformity beyond what is necessary for safe professional practice.
- Explore alternative demonstrations of quality, such as board pass rates and supervised outcomes, so accreditation does not operate as a monopoly barrier.

These are measured, reasonable steps.

We are not asking for lower standards. We are asking for equal footing.

Faith-based institutions stand ready to meet rigorous expectations. We stand ready to serve our communities. We stand ready to help address the mental health crisis facing our nation.

What we cannot do, and should not be required to do, is compromise deeply held religious convictions in order to participate in public service professions.

With thoughtful reform, we have the opportunity to remove unnecessary barriers, reduce costly bureaucracy, protect conscience rights, and expand access to counselor education at a time when families urgently need help.

Thank you for your innovative thinking, your leadership, and your willingness to open doors that have long been closed.

Respectfully submitted,

Dr. Nancy Frigaard

Hearing on Religious Liberty in Healthcare and Social Services

Dean, School of Counseling | Licensed Professional Counselor, State of Colorado

Colorado Christian University

Lakewood, Colorado

I. Introduction and Institutional Background

I am Dr. Ryan M. Burkhart, LPC, Dean of the School of Counseling at Colorado Christian University (CCU) in Lakewood, Colorado. I submit this testimony to describe a pattern of faith-based discrimination that has denied CCU counseling students access to clinical internship placements, not because of any documented harm to clients or any deficiency in clinical competence, but solely because of the religious identity and values of the institution that trained them.

Colorado Christian University is a Christ-centered institution of higher education committed to integrating rigorous academic preparation with a biblical worldview. The School of Counseling at CCU houses the Master of Arts in Clinical Mental Health Counseling (MACMHC) program, one of the largest counseling programs in the United States. The program prepares graduate-level clinicians for licensure and professional practice across a wide range of mental health settings, including community mental health centers, hospitals, schools, private practice, and nonprofit social service organizations.

The MACMHC program holds full accreditation through the Council for Accreditation of Counseling and Related Educational Programs (CACREP). CACREP is the premier national accrediting body for graduate counseling programs and is widely recognized by state licensing boards, employers, and the broader mental health field as the standard of excellence in counselor education. CACREP accreditation signifies that a program meets rigorous standards in curriculum design, clinical training requirements, faculty qualifications, and student assessment. Its standards are grounded in evidence-based practice and require that students demonstrate competency across a comprehensive set of clinical and professional skills before graduation.

II. The Clinical Internship Process and Student Assessment

A supervised clinical internship is a mandatory and foundational component of CACREP-accredited counseling programs. Through their internship experiences, graduate counseling students apply classroom learning in real-world clinical settings under the supervision of licensed mental health professionals. These placements expose students to diverse client populations, presenting concerns, and clinical environments, and they are essential to the development of professional competence.

The CCU School of Counseling maintains an extensive network of community-based internship sites across the nation and around the world. Students are placed at a wide variety of settings across the United States and internationally, including community mental health centers, healthcare systems, nonprofit organizations, government agencies, and faith-based social service providers. The program takes the quality of these placements seriously and maintains a rigorous system for evaluating student performance across all sites.

Central to this assessment system is the Counseling Competencies Scale-Revised (CCS-R), a validated, standardized instrument designed specifically to evaluate the clinical competencies of counseling students during practicum and internship. The CCS-R measures student performance across multiple competency domains, including counseling skills and therapeutic conditions, case conceptualization, assessment, professional behaviors and ethical practice, and diversity and multicultural competence. Each semester, site supervisors who directly oversee our students complete the CCS-R, providing an objective, structured evaluation of each student's clinical performance.

Because we have administered the CCS-R consistently across semesters and years, the CCU School of Counseling has accumulated a substantial longitudinal dataset documenting student performance at our partner internship sites. This data is among the most reliable forms of evidence available in counselor education: direct, supervisor-rated, competency-based assessment of actual clinical work with real clients. Reviewed in aggregate, that data tells a clear and consistent story: CCU students perform at high levels, practice ethically, and serve their clients well.

III. Faith-Based Exclusion of CCU Students from Internship Placements

Despite this documented record of clinical excellence, the CCU School of Counseling has encountered a troubling pattern in which community partner organizations have chosen to exclude our students from internship placements based not on any evidence of client harm or clinical incompetence, but on objections to the religious beliefs and institutional identity of Colorado Christian University. Two specific incidents illustrate this pattern in concrete and documented terms.

A. Jefferson Center for Mental Health

Jefferson Center for Mental Health is a large community mental health organization serving the Denver metropolitan area. For a number of years, CCU maintained an active internship partnership with Jefferson Center, and our students served clients there under the supervision of licensed clinicians on staff. During that period, our CCS-R data consistently reflected strong performance: students demonstrated sound clinical judgment, practiced ethically, and provided quality mental health services to the clients they served. There is no record in our assessment data of any CCU student discriminating against a client, failing to provide competent care, or violating the ethical standards of the counseling profession during their placement at Jefferson Center.

On December 4, 2024, the CCU School of Counseling received the following communication from Jacob McWilliams, Learning and Development Manager at Jefferson Center for Mental Health:

> "We're concerned that CCU's academic catalog and policies governing students and employees are misaligned to Jefferson Center's commitments and policies. Specifically, our Learning and Development team has identified concerns regarding CCU's position on LGBTQ+ identities and issues, and in particular concerns about how this position is applied to students, faculty, and staff; as well as implications for students' training in clinical mental health care."

"Students, staff, and faculty are required to abide by policies prohibiting sexual activity outside of heterosexual marriage and prohibiting social, medical, and legal gender transition... This results in a learning environment where LGBTQ+ students and faculty are not welcome and are actively excluded, and where the perspectives and experiences of LGBTQ+ people are omitted."

"The core beliefs codified in CCU policies also govern its academic standards, and this leads to concern that students may not be receiving training in evidence-based and best and promising practices in supporting LGBTQ+ clients and their families and communities."

"[O]ur Learning and Development team has recommended discontinuing accepting applicants from CCU unless or until it modifies its policies and curricula to ensure that students in the Counseling program are trained in LGBTQ+ inclusive practice in a learning environment that is inclusive of LGBTQ+ people and perspectives."

This communication warrants close examination for what it does and does not say. It does not cite a single incident in which a CCU student discriminated against or harmed a client. It does not identify a specific gap in a student's clinical competencies as measured by any assessment instrument, including the CCS-R data that Jefferson Center supervisors themselves had contributed to over multiple years. It does not reference any complaint from a client, a supervisor, or any other party regarding the conduct of a CCU student.

What the communication makes clear is that Jefferson Center objects to CCU's religious identity, its institutional faith commitments, and the policies that flow from those commitments. The decision to exclude CCU students was made on that basis alone. Jefferson Center presented no evidence that CCU's curriculum fails to meet CACREP standards, that our students lack training in evidence-based practices, or that any client at Jefferson Center had ever received substandard care from a CCU intern.

The first concern raised in the email, that CCU's policies "jeopardize client welfare," is stated as a suspicion derived from the institution's religious identity, not as a finding based on any documented clinical incident. Our CCS-R data directly contradicts this characterization. The second concern, that CCU's curriculum may not align with evidence-based practices, similarly ignores the fact that our CACREP-accredited program is required to train students in evidence-based approaches and is evaluated on that standard through the accreditation process. Jefferson Center offered no curricular analysis, no assessment data, and no clinical evidence to support either claim.

Jefferson Center, in effect, determined that students trained at a conservative Christian university are presumptively unfit for clinical placement, regardless of their demonstrated performance, their professional ethics, or the documented outcomes of their prior service. This is not a clinical judgment. It is a faith-based judgment, and it constitutes discrimination against students on the basis of their religious formation and institutional affiliation.

B. Denver Family Institute

The Denver Family Institute (DFI) presents an equally troubling case, and in certain respects a more direct one. CCU maintained an active internship partnership with DFI for more than ten years. Over that decade, our students served clients at DFI under the supervision of licensed clinicians, and our CCS-R data accumulated across that period documents a consistent record of strong clinical performance. DFI supervisors contributed to that data themselves, semester after semester, evaluating our students on the full range of professional and clinical competencies measured by the instrument. That record contains no instance of a CCU student imposing personal values on a client, failing to provide ethical care, or engaging in discriminatory conduct toward any client, colleague, or supervisor.

In 2019, following a change in organizational leadership at DFI, the CCU School of Counseling received communication from DFI indicating that the organization would no longer accept CCU students as interns. The termination was abrupt, offered no clinical rationale, and came without reference to any specific incident, pattern of concern, or deficiency in student performance.

A phone conversation subsequently took place between myself, Dr. Ryan M. Burkhart, Jessica Snedker (Assistant Director of Professional Practice for the CCU School of Counseling), and the Director of DFI. In that conversation, the DFI Director acknowledged directly that CCU students had not pushed their values onto clients, supervisors, coworkers, or in the workplace. The concern was not with how our students had behaved professionally. The concern was with what they believed personally. DFI's position, as communicated in that call, was that it was unwilling to accept students who held the religious beliefs associated with CCU's institutional identity, regardless of how ethically and professionally those students managed those beliefs within the clinical and workplace environment.

The admission carries particular weight precisely because of its directness. DFI did not allege clinical incompetence. It did not point to a failure of ethical conduct. It did not identify a single client who had been harmed or a single complaint that had been filed. It simply stated that the beliefs our students held, beliefs that remained entirely outside the therapeutic relationship, were sufficient grounds for exclusion. CCU made multiple subsequent attempts to restore the partnership and resume placements at DFI. Each attempt was declined. The organization remained unwilling to reconsider its position.

The ten-year partnership that preceded this decision leaves little ambiguity about the nature of the termination. DFI had direct, longitudinal experience with CCU students. Its own supervisors had evaluated those students on standardized clinical competency measures. The data existed, and the data was strong. When new leadership arrived and the partnership was terminated, it was not in response to anything our students had done. It was in response to what they believed. That is faith-based discrimination. It is documented in the words of DFI's own director.

IV. The Ethical Inversion: ACA Code A.4.b and the Imposition of Values on Trainees

The American Counseling Association (ACA) Code of Ethics, Section A.4.b, governs the relationship between a counselor's personal values and their professional conduct. It states that counselors are aware of and avoid imposing their own values, attitudes, beliefs, and behaviors, and that they respect the diversity of clients, trainees, and research participants. This standard is foundational to ethical counseling practice, and it is among the most central principles we teach in the CCU School of Counseling. Our students are trained to understand the boundary between their personal worldview and their professional responsibilities, and to ensure that what they believe outside the therapy room is not forced upon the people they serve inside it.

The CCS-R data accumulated over years of placements at both Jefferson Center and DFI confirms that our students honored that standard. They provided clinical services without imposing their values. They respected their clients. They conducted themselves professionally in the workplace. No supervisor, at either organization, documented a single instance in which a CCU student crossed the line that A.4.b draws.

And yet both organizations excluded our students entirely. The stated and admitted basis for that exclusion was not clinical conduct. It was personal belief. Jefferson Center conditioned continued access on CCU revising its institutional religious identity and the policies that flow from it. DFI's director acknowledged in plain terms that the students had not pushed their values onto anyone in the professional environment, but that holding those values was itself disqualifying.

What occurred at both organizations was, in the precise language of the ethical framework they claimed to be enforcing, an imposition of values: not by the students, but upon them. The standard that prohibits a counselor from pressing a personal worldview onto a vulnerable client was inverted and applied against trainees: these organizations pressed their institutional worldview onto counselors in training, making professional access contingent on ideological conformity. ACA A.4.b is explicit that its protections extend to trainees, not only clients. The diversity it instructs counselors to respect is not a selective diversity that excludes those who hold traditional religious convictions.

The deeper irony in this pattern is worth naming plainly. The very principle these organizations invoked to justify their concern is the principle our students had already demonstrated they understood and practiced: that clinicians must not impose personal values on those they serve. They were excluded not because they failed the standard, but because they passed it. Their beliefs were deemed sufficient cause for exclusion even in the absence of any evidence that those beliefs had ever interfered with their clinical work. This is not professional accountability. It is ideological gatekeeping, and it is precisely the kind of threat to religious liberty in the social services and healthcare context that this Commission was established to examine.

Sincerely,

Dr. Ryan M. Burkhart

Subject: Issue Brief and Witness Proposal: URGENT - conscientious protections for midwives and religious liberty in childbirth.

Dear Mr. Shackelford,

Thank you for your time and attention to this critical matter.

My name is Abigail Iovine, and I am the founder of the National Alliance for Traditional Birth Rights. I am a traditional midwife in Pennsylvania, a mother of ten, and have been advocating for birth rights since 2013. Our organization is currently in contact with HHS to share data and recommendations regarding the national crisis facing traditional birth practitioners.

I have attached an issue brief for your review. Across the country, increasing enforcement and prosecution of traditional midwives have stripped religious communities of their providers. Many families, particularly our Amish and Christian clients, face coercion and abuse for their religious choices in childbirth, often resulting in mandated reporting, CPS investigations, and police harassment initiated by institutional providers.

These circumstances are widespread, and we can provide families willing to testify to these experiences. I am also prepared to provide testimony, further data and documentation in support of this matter.

Thank you again for your consideration.

Religious Liberty Commission
U.S. Department of Justice

Re: Criminalizing Traditional Midwives and Religious Liberty Violations in Maternity Care: Implications for the Amish and America's Religious Communities

To the Commissioners:

My name is Abigail. I am a mother of 10 and a traditional midwife in Pennsylvania. As founder of the National Alliance for Traditional Birth Rights (NATBR), a national initiative dedicated to traditional birth rights and freedoms, I am addressing the Commission today on a matter of urgent religious liberty concern.

The criminalization and eradication of traditional midwives who serve religious communities, together with the broader religious liberty violations occurring throughout maternity care, are the reasons I am writing. Across the country, while insurance-dominated systems have come to control maternity care standards and created maternity care deserts in many areas, traditional midwives serving religious communities are being systematically prosecuted and driven out under regulatory models that explicitly exclude them. At the same time, religious families who choose planned hospital births face extreme daily coercion when they exercise informed refusal based on their sincerely held religious beliefs, needs, and cultural practices.

Amish and Christian families represent the majority of those impacted, but reports come from a wide range of traditions, including Anabaptist, Orthodox, and many others, affected every day. These families rely on midwives trained within their own communities in accordance with their religious beliefs, which emphasize family, modesty, and separation from outside institutions where required by faith. These midwives provide care in the home, honoring the community's trust in God's design for birth.

When traditional midwives are eradicated, these same families are forced into hospital systems where they encounter extreme coercion for their religious informed choices. Amish families in particular have reported feeling targeted and threatened because of the scale of enforcement actions directed at their communities, both in the loss of their midwives and in hospital settings.

The data is clear: midwifery care for appropriately screened low-risk pregnancies produces lower cesarean rates, fewer unnecessary interventions, comparable newborn outcomes, and improved maternal health. The elimination of traditional midwifery does not advance public safety; it simply removes a model of care that aligns with these families' religious convictions and pushes more religious families into hospital environments where they face daily coercion and retaliation for exercising informed refusal on religious grounds.

I continue to receive reports from families nationwide involving:

- Criminal charges and enforcement actions that eradicate traditional midwives
- Hospital escalation and coercion following religious refusals in planned hospital births or transfers
- Child protective services interventions in the absence of any medical emergency

These accounts include numerous cases from Amish, Anabaptist, Orthodox, and other Christian communities, whether families lose their community midwives entirely or attempt planned hospital births only to be pressured, reported, or investigated for faith-based choices. Families are losing access to their midwives, some of those midwives remain incarcerated, and religious families in hospital settings face extreme coercion every day. I have families prepared to provide direct testimony, and I stand ready to offer sworn testimony myself. These matters are ongoing.

Having already met with officials at the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services and provided them with detailed recommendations and supporting data, I am prepared to extend the same assistance to the Commission.

For these religious communities, midwifery is not merely a profession. It is an integral part of their faith heritage and an expression of obedience to God in the sacred moment of birth, whether that birth occurs at home with a trusted community midwife or in a hospital where families expect their religious informed choices to be respected.

The biblical account of Shiphrah and Puah in Exodus 1 illustrates midwives who chose obedience to God over an unjust royal decree. That same conviction continues to guide many families today, yet the criminalization and eradication of traditional midwives combined with extreme coercion in hospital settings imposes a substantial burden on religious exercise in every birth setting. Religious liberty must extend to the birth room, whether at home or in the hospital.

I respectfully request that the Commission recommend that the President take the following executive actions:

1. Issuing a public statement acknowledging the need to stop the criminalization of religious and traditional midwives and offering encouragement and support to those who have been prosecuted or are currently in jail.

2. Directing the Department of Justice to review prosecutions of midwives serving religious communities for potential violations of the Free Exercise Clause.

3. Issuing federal guidance clarifying that religiously grounded childbirth practices merit meaningful accommodation and that a faith-based refusal of interventions, absent a true emergency, does not constitute neglect—whether in home or hospital settings.

4. Encouraging states to adopt explicit religious and heritage exemptions in their childbirth statutes.

5. Reviewing federal funding structures that may indirectly eliminate faith-based childbirth options.

The criminalization of traditional midwives and the religious liberty violations in maternity care are a living threat to America's religious heritage. When laws eradicate traditional midwifery without accommodation, Amish families and other faith communities are denied the ability to welcome their children in accordance with their beliefs, whether through their community midwives or through uncoerced, faith-respecting hospital births.

The Commission is positioned to name this issue clearly and urge prompt executive action to protect religious liberty in one of life's most sacred moments. I remain available to provide testimony, documentation, or any further assistance required.

Respectfully,

Abigail Iovine

Testimony for Religious Liberty Commission

Hello, my name is Dr. Mercy Connors. I serve as the Senior Director of Counseling, Continuing Education, and Credentialing for the American Association of Christian Counselors (AACC), the largest faith-based mental health organization in the world. I am also a Licensed Professional Counselor–Supervisor in the Commonwealth of Virginia. My area of expertise—and where I have seen the most anti-Christian bias—is in the area of continuing education.

For almost all licensed mental health professionals in America, maintaining one's license requires ongoing continuing education, similar to the requirements for medical professionals and attorneys. Each state sets its own requirements, but many allow their licensees to obtain continuing education from certain approved entities without seeking prior approval for each course. These entities, called Continuing Education Providers, are then empowered to approve smaller continuing education providers and extend the ability to grant CE credit on their behalf. In practice, these large providers hold a great deal of power and influence over professionals by determining which education and topics are considered appropriate for a licensed mental health professional to receive in order to maintain licensure.

These entities have made it difficult for us to obtain and maintain provider status because of our Christian beliefs.

For example, the National Board of Certified Counselors (NBCC), the largest continuing education provider for counselors in the country and accepted for CE credit by most licensing boards, makes it nearly impossible to "call sin a sin" under the specific language of its Provider Policy. NBCC states, and I quote: "The program content cannot state or imply in any manner that individuals who act inconsistent with, or who do not accept, a particular political or religious belief or principle are dysfunctional, or otherwise inappropriate, or that the belief itself is unacceptable or incorrect." For those of us who believe that the Bible is true and authoritative, Scripture frequently teaches that certain behaviors and beliefs are inappropriate and wrong. There are many willing Christian clients who desire their counselor to remind them of biblical truths, yet NBCC's policy effectively prohibits us from including such content in our continuing education programs. This harms not only the clinician, who is prevented from speaking what they believe to be true, but also the client who is actively seeking help consistent with their faith.

Furthermore, NBCC restricts our ability to provide ethical and evidence-based training for Christian clinicians who serve clients with sincerely held religious beliefs who either desire peace with the sex that God gave them at conception or who desire to be free of homosexual feelings, desires, and behaviors. NBCC classifies these topics under "Sexual Orientation Change Efforts" and disallows CE programming aimed at helping such clients live out their sincerely held religious convictions with the support of a trained and ethical Christian clinician. Yet NBCC has never defined what it considers "Sexual Orientation Change Efforts" anywhere on its website or in its policy documents, leaving us to infer a definition from other entities. At the same time, NBCC has provided its constituents with materials on affirming care.

In 2021, the American Psychological Association (APA) stripped the AACC of our continuing education provider status, and we have been working to regain it for four years. We have applied four separate times and have been rejected each time for various reasons. The only consistent objection has been related to the AACC's Code of Ethics and Statement of Faith. When we inquired why these documents were problematic, APA representatives responded that they "do not comport with our code of ethics." When we asked which sections were out of step, they simply repeated that they did not comport. We sought outside input from deans of APA-approved educational programs to help us identify any issues, and each dean indicated that they saw no ethical problem in our Code of Ethics or Statement of Faith.

The real reason became clearer in our rejected 2024 application. The committee wrote:

"AACC's Code of Ethics Y-2023 states, in relevant part, 'ES1-120-f: Application to Sexuality and Sexual Behavior: Christian counselors do not condone or advocate for the pursuit of or active involvement in lesbian, gay, bisexual or transgender (LGBTQ+) behaviors, identities, and lifestyles. Counselors...will encourage sexual celibacy or biblically-prescribed sexual behavior while such issues are being addressed.' (p. 14). Accordingly, the Committee could not be certain that your ethics code standard not to condone or advocate for LGBTQ+ individuals would enable respect for cultural, individual, and role differences, including those based on gender and sexual orientation, as required by Standard B.5. Your application states that it is 'in accordance with the APA recommendations for diversity' that is required of all APA-approved CE sponsors under Standard B.5. However, the Committee was unable to determine how the importance accorded to one faith over others in AACC's Statement of Faith and Code of Ethics enable AACC's programs to be consistent with Standard B.5 as well as APA's Ethical Principles of Psychologists and Code of Conduct (2017), which includes respecting and consideration of all faiths and religions. The fundamental principle of non-discrimination was also not evident in AACC's Code of Ethics, Y-2023 and Statement of Faith. Thus, the Committee found those materials to be inconsistent with the Standards and Criteria and APA policy. Per the APA CE Sponsor Approval Policies and Procedures, 'The Committee may deny approval if it determines that the applicant's mission, basic tenets or program offerings are not consistent with APA policy or an applicant is not in compliance with the Standards and Criteria.' (p. 6)."

Let me be clear: the section of our ethics code they quote is part of a broader section that also states that Christian counselors do not condone or advocate for premarital or extramarital sexual activity, divorce, euthanasia, abortion, substance abuse, addictions, or deadly or threatening behavior, all of which are described in the Bible as morally problematic. Our Statement of Faith makes explicit that Scripture is the basis for our worldview, and our ethics code reflects that commitment consistently across a range of moral issues, not only sexuality.

After President Trump signed the 2025 executive order requiring the removal of DEI standards, APA notified all applicants that the section of the provider application with which we allegedly did not "comport" could be waived upon request in our next application. Once that standard was waived, AACC was immediately granted CE provider status with APA, but there was a clear caveat: if the DEI requirements are ever reinstated, we must come into full compliance with those standards within a few months or we will again lose our provider status. I can say with confidence that if DEI standards are restored, AACC will lose that status because we cannot and will not compromise our beliefs.

The role of government is to protect all of its citizens not just the people they agree with. What we have seen over the last few years, is a yo-yo effect between ideological beliefs and the people affected by this most are the citizens, clinicians and clients. If the government does not put in place laws and safeguards for all citizens, then discrimination will continue to happen.

We have named these boards specifically for the sake of clarity, and we fully expect some form of retribution for this testimony. We want to remind everyone hearing this that there are many faith-based clinicians around the country who depend on the AACC maintaining CE provider status to fulfill their state-mandated continuing education requirements. These are the same states that have ceded much of their regulatory authority to private continuing education providers—entities that are using that authority to discriminate against their faith-based clinicians.

In addition to my CE responsibilities, I also work on updating the AACC Code of Ethics. Each state is free to adopt whichever ethics codes it chooses for its mental health professionals. Because multiple disciplines make up the behavioral health workforce, this is a daunting task for state boards, and many boards choose to adopt the ethics codes of private organizations rather than create their own. Embedded within these private codes are provisions that are inherently difficult for faith-based clinicians to uphold.

Specifically, the American Counseling Association (ACA) Code of Ethics, which has been adopted by more than half the states for Licensed Professional Counselors and related licenses, contains the following:

“A.11.b. Values Within Termination and Referral. Counselors refrain from referring prospective and current clients based solely on the counselor’s personally held values, attitudes, beliefs, and behaviors. Counselors respect the diversity of clients and seek training in areas in which they are at risk of imposing their values onto clients, especially when the counselor’s values are inconsistent with the client’s goals or are discriminatory in nature.”

For example, if a Christian clinician is working with a pregnant woman who is seeking to abort her baby and wants help in feeling comfortable with that decision, that clinician is not permitted to refer her to another provider who is willing to assist her in that goal. Instead, the Christian clinician is expected to continue helping the client move toward comfort with a decision that directly violates the clinician’s sincerely held religious beliefs about the sanctity of life. This scenario often leads to moral injury for the Christian clinician, resulting in intense guilt or shame, anger toward institutions and leaders, feelings of disgust over what they were unable to prevent, spiritual struggle, loss of faith, elevated depression and anxiety, and even suicidal thoughts or actions.

To further illustrate the problem, even in states that have not incorporated the ACA Code of Ethics, there are now laws banning what is called “Sexual Orientation Change Efforts,” often including language about “Gender Identity Change Efforts.” Many of these laws define Sexual Orientation Change Efforts very broadly. In my home state of Virginia, for example, the guidance states:

“For the purposes of this guidance ‘conversion therapy’ or ‘sexual orientation change efforts’ is defined as any practice or treatment that seeks to change an individual’s sexual orientation or gender identity, including efforts to change behaviors or gender expressions or to eliminate or reduce sexual or romantic attractions or feelings toward individuals of any gender. ‘Conversion therapy’ does not include counseling that provides assistance to a person undergoing gender transition or counseling that provides acceptance, support, and understanding of a person or facilitates a person’s coping, social support, and identity exploration and development, including sexual-orientation-neutral interventions to prevent or address unlawful conduct or unsafe sexual practices, as long as such counseling does not seek to change an individual’s sexual orientation or gender identity in any direction.”

Virginia further explains its stance as follows (paraphrased for brevity): the Board, consistent with ACA, views conversion therapy or sexual orientation change efforts as based on a belief that same-sex attractions and behaviors are abnormal and in need of treatment, a view the Board considers contrary to national mental health organizations. Therefore, it considers such services potentially harmful, especially to minors, and states that practicing them with minors may result in findings of misconduct and disciplinary action.

The Board provides no guidance on how to respond when a client specifically requests treatment to help them live in congruence with their sincerely held religious beliefs, which may require addressing sexual or gender-related behavior in a way that is viewed in the ACA’s definition of Sexual Orientation Change Efforts. As noted earlier, under the ACA Code of Ethics, a Christian clinician is also prohibited from referring these clients elsewhere merely because an affirming approach would violate the clinician’s sincerely held beliefs. This creates a double bind for Christian clinicians and leaves them with essentially no ethical way forward—other than abandoning their identity as Christian clinicians.

This double bind also shows up in the exams required by our states to complete our licensure requirements. In these exams, a clinician is given specific scenarios and is asked questions about how they would handle each one as a licensed professional. Based on their answers, they pass or fail. I had been warned by other Christian clinicians that I would see scenarios that would violate my sincerely held religious beliefs but encouraged to respond in the way that test would allow me to pass. In the exam I took, I was given an example of helping a homosexual couple with an issue. I can tell you, I did not answer the questions the way I would practice but answered them based on what I knew the examiners wanted me to say. I did pass my exam, but I was not given a religious exemption for the questions I received.

This brings me to a vital point. Because of these laws and ethics codes, AACC is aware of many Christian mental health professionals who are surrendering their licenses and leaving their professions rather than comply with requirements that violate their sincerely held religious beliefs. In addition, Christians who are completing their master’s degrees or accruing hours toward licensure contact AACC almost weekly to ask whether they will have to abandon their beliefs in order to practice. We do our best to encourage them to stay engaged and to help us work for changes in ethics codes and laws so they can practice in ways that do not violate their faith. Sadly, many still abandon the pursuit of this profession.

News outlets report daily on the mental health crisis in our nation, yet most people are unaware that our workforce is being diminished by laws and ethical codes that people of sincere faith cannot in good conscience follow.

Lastly, I would like to share a personal experience of anti-Christian bias in this profession. In 2021, I attended a required training to become a Supervisor for Residents in Counseling. In that role, a pre-licensed clinician would work under my license and supervision to accrue hours toward independent licensure. During the training, the instructor was discussing potential issues with residents. One attendee asked, “What are we supposed to do with these Liberty University students?” The trainer scoffed and replied, “You will need to retrain them.” As a proud Liberty University alumna, I was shocked and angered by this response.

These supervisors see it as their role to “retrain” faith-based clinicians—graduates of a university accredited by the Council for Accreditation of Counseling and Related Educational Programs (CACREP), widely recognized as the gold standard in counselor education—so that they no longer integrate faith into their clinical work. And we wonder why so many residents never complete their residencies. It is because there are people in positions of influence who treat their faith as something to be extinguished rather than thoughtfully and ethically integrated.

In conclusion, we would like to propose that this committee push for parallel options for faith-based clinicians in ethics, continuing education, national testing for licensure boards, and accreditation for mental health education. We are not asking that these options only be for Christians, but for Muslims, Jews, Buddhists, Hindus, and other faiths that are also experiencing discrimination. Clients from all of these faiths would desire their faith to be acknowledged as important but utilized as a strength within their clinical care. From research, we know that this works best when the clinician and client are aligned in faith. Give us another option so we don’t have to leave the professions we love so much.

I hope this testimony makes clear that anti-Christian bias within the mental health professions is both pervasive and a contributing factor to the broader mental health crisis in this country. Thank you for your time and attention.

For the sake of our own survival and for the sake of civilization, for the sake of humanity, there must be no compromise with the Evil Deep State, the Evil Shadow Government, the Evil Architects of Crime, the gangsters, the thuggs, the assassins, the kidnappers.
I dare not ever integrate or assimilate or defect to such insurmountable evil in the world which God created in six days and said that it was "good", and God rested on the 7th Day.
I forgive them their trespasses. But I can't tolerate their agenda to leade me into temptation.
The only thing for me to do in this complex and complicated, worldwide network global situation is to "Put on the whole armor of God." And stubbornly persist in my resistance against reversals of fortune, and against the decline of civilization. We have worked far too hard, and far too long to build western civilization. I know I have. I have put in a lot of years, all our hard work went into to building western civilization. We owe a debt of gratitude and loyalty to all of those sainted souls who have gone before us. Many have died 💔 suffered, been tortured, maimed, crippled. Their deaths must not be in vain. Their suffering must not be in vain. Those that sleep in the dust can count on me, and others like me to honor their ultimate sacrifice 😪 😔 😩. Is western civilization that is at stake here.

In the name of the Father and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost. Amen

Hello, my name is Dr. Shannae Anderson. I am a licensed clinical and forensic psychologist in the Commonwealth of Virginia and the state of California. Since 2020, I have experienced significant discrimination, harassment, and threats because of my faith. I would like to share my story with you.

I am originally from Thousand Oaks, California, where I attended Godspeak Calvary Chapel for many years. During COVID, our pastor, Rob McCoy, spoke out against the draconian lockdown policies in California and the harms they were causing. During that time, I observed a dramatic increase in symptom severity among my patients. Many were decompensating due to prolonged isolation and mask mandates, as feelings of powerlessness and helplessness overwhelmed their lives.

Recognizing these effects, Pastor Rob invited me to be a frequent guest on his YouTube podcast to discuss the deleterious mental health consequences of the lockdown. Those appearances led to invitations to speak on other podcasts, at Reopen California rallies, and various events throughout the state. I was also asked to provide expert witness declarations for the legal organization Advocates for Faith & Freedom regarding the adverse psychological impact of school and church closures on children and adults.

I did not anticipate the level of hostility and vitriol that would ensue.

I was shadow banned, censored, suspended, and "canceled" on social media. I received death threats. A long-term patient terminated psychotherapy after seeing my name listed as a speaker at a faith-based freedom rally. A childhood best friend ended our relationship because of my personal beliefs and advocacy. I was even contacted and interviewed by the FBI after being placed on a targeted hit list by ANTIFA.

As the months turned into years, I became known locally as the Christian psychologist who was speaking out on the Truth. As a result, I was asked to serve as an expert witness on behalf of local Christian parents who were charged and convicted of child abuse after declining to use their child's preferred pronouns. By God's grace, we prevailed in that case. Several months later, I was asked to address an incident that had rocked our town. A third-grade teacher at a local elementary school was discovered teaching gender fluidity and affirming transgender identities to her eight-year-old students, all without parental knowledge or consent.

On June 14, 2022, I addressed this controversy at our local school board meeting. Although I spoke to the board in a respectful and professional manner, I was booed, hissed at, and labeled a "hater" and "transphobic" by many attendees.

I learned a week later that a local transgender activist who worked for the school district, in collaboration with the School Board Superintendent, filed a 51-page complaint against my professional license.

The complaint alleged that I had violated my professional ethical standards and code of conduct, and that I posed an "imminent risk of substantial harm" to students and families in the district, city, and county. It accused me of reinforcing bigotry, exclusion, and harmful acts, attempting to restrict the civil rights of others, promoting white supremacy, and engaging in conduct "tantamount to incitement of violence." She even suggested that psychotherapy with me could place patients at risk of death.

The complaint was not only submitted to my licensing board but was also circulated to my U.S. Congresswoman, California State Assemblywoman, the City Attorney, the School Board Superintendent, and the entire City Council. The intent was clearly to intimidate and silence me.

For a moment, it nearly succeeded.

Through much prayer and by God's grace, I returned the following week to address the board again. I confronted the defamatory statements and intimidating tactics endorsed by the school board, while reaffirming my commitment to children and their attempts to indoctrinate them.

That meeting drew more than 500 attendees, including protesters and ANTIFA members. I required security personnel to escort me both in and out of the building. The hostility escalated to the point that several individuals followed us, issued physical threats, and made attempts to doxx me. As we fled the board meeting, we were followed on the freeway which necessitated a call to the police for protection.

Since then, I have received communications from individuals posing as potential patients in attempts to entrap me for not using "gender-affirming therapy" with minors (which is illegal in California). I even required a personal security guard when attending church.

Soon thereafter, God led me to Lynchburg, Virginia, where I now work with the American Association of Christian Counselors as the Director of Psychology and Co-Director of Ethics and Advocacy. In this role, I advocate for religious liberty within the mental health profession. I have had the honor of visiting the White House, meeting members of the Faith Office including Jenny Korn and Pastor Paula White and sharing my story with Secretary Bobby Kennedy and the Department of Health and Human Services. God is on the move.

What once seemed daunting now feels ironic. Just before my move, the Conejo Valley ANTIFA back in California publicly warned Virginia on Twitter that I was coming, and that I was dangerous. Little did they know that what the enemy intended for harm, God has used for good.

I am not naturally courageous, nor do I seek conflict. It has been only through the strength of my faith that I have persevered.

Jesus Christ is my authority. I serve Him.

Thank you.

By the way, I think I get it now.

The RICO committed to the improper use of a writ of execution on 144 days (P to America's 250th anniversary and executed on 143 days (Bobby Brackins ft. Ray J, 2010) to the anniversary.

The insight came to me while searching for the information under the Security section of this site: https://www.gsa.gov/website-information/website-policies#privacy

One can reasonably assume that the intentional and cyclical application of 144 is intended to represent the 144,000, a "perfect army" of Revelation. However, the RICO consistently leverages deceit & deception to maintain or advance a sense of domination over "weaker" characters.

The paradox of the situation is that the symbolic 144,000 is intended to represent something more of a sealed, completeness of alignment with states of consciousness that concentrate on transformation through expressing higher truths.

A collective expansion of illumination that spreads the obscurity cast by systems designed to maintain coercive deception.

A commitment to Divine Justice.

Perhaps the Book of Revelation is mystically symbolic in ways that other books codified into broadly popular versions Holy Bible are not. This is me, just exercising Freedom of Speech, as I contemplate my experiences with Society, while living in Merced, California. Ya'll be well.

Sincerely,

Steven Quinn Singleton

Then I opened my Apple Messages and noticed an iMessage from my friend Jackie Hall, who dropped off mail for me today. When I started writing to Jackie, the "Connecting..." message in Apple Mail went away. One of the pieces of mail she delivered was from a financial services company, a 1099-A form was filed with the IRS on a fraudulent basis claiming that my property was acquired at a fair market value of $372,000.

After reviewing the mail, I visited the IRS' website to submit a form. Immediately after its submission, an email was sent to me via ParentSquare. The email came in at or about the same time as yesterday. So, I'm not sure if it was part of the connecting alluded to through Apple Mail.

It does seem that Apple, Inc. and Newres LLC DBA, Shellpoint Mortgage Servicing are linked in this and other communications related to the matter. I wonder if this attempt to conceal with fraudulent property acquisition reporting is linked to the Apple Mail blank message signals that were shared with this list earlier today.

This might be a signal of a multi-pronged scheme to support or promote a specific product or personality through criminally networked use of Internet infrastructure, including but not limited to computer systems hacking, algorithmic manipulation, and other forms of conspiracy to deceive or cast an illusion upon our Nation. It may also signal a general posture relative to the freedoms and liberties of my child and her ability to form a relationship with her father.

Criminal networks tend to seek permissive environments, more than anything, so that economic generation engines face low disruption or friction with regard an administration of the Constitution and statutes of the United States.

There are some things I don't know. Apple's intrusions makes it very clear that some sort of undue influence is exercised over various aspects of private and public systems. I cannot tell to what degree specific persons or operations are involved in soliciting or enlisting its RICO support on an informal or formal basis.

This should be investigated while it's still early.

Sometimes marketing of new content to captivate the public interest is a strategy for drawing attention from other matters. Books tend to have short-term and long-term cycles associated with them. Please exercise diligence to determine what should be given additional attention.

Will the FBI offer to help out the government entities, Federal, State, and local that have been leveraged in these kind of scams? I used to see these kinds of scams very often when dealing with govt. entities in California and aspects of the consumer Internet-technology sector. Consistent reporting has reduced the rate of scam messages from a heavy deluge to a drip. Many may not be in a position to report as consistently as I have, but a coordinated discovery and suppression effort throughout integrated levels of government in the United States can help. Dear Chair Patrick, Vice Chair Carson, and Members of the Presidential Commission on Religious Liberty,

Please find attached a brief submitted on behalf of Asher Graduate School of Counseling regarding accreditation reform and its intersection with religious liberty in counselor education.

We are currently working with Arizona state legislation in this effort and a bill has been opened for draft.

Thank you for the seriousness with which you are approaching this moment. The establishment of this Commission represents a meaningful opportunity to examine barriers that have quietly shaped and at times constrained faith-based higher education.

Our brief outlines a structural issue in state licensure statutes that has significant implications for smaller, faith-based institutions seeking to train clinically competent counselors without compromising deeply held religious convictions. We believe the matter is timely, practical, and directly connected to both workforce access and constitutional protections.

It is submitted with respect, gratitude, and a genuine desire to contribute constructively to your important work.

Thank you for your time and consideration.

Respectfully,

Dr. Nancy Frigaard, DMin., LMFT

Dear Chair Patrick, Vice Chair Carson, and Members of the Religious Liberty Commission:

The word appreciative hardly captures the depth of our heartfelt gratitude for the important work you are undertaking. Thank you for your courageous leadership and your willingness to rethink entrenched systems. You, along with President Trump and Attorney General Pam Bondi, have demonstrated a clear recognition of the continued and critical need to safeguard religious freedom in the United States of America. For smaller innovative higher educational institutions like ours, your leadership represents a meaningful opportunity to examine and address barriers that have quietly constrained faith-based education for years.

On behalf of Asher Graduate School of Counseling, I submit this brief to address structural accreditation barriers and growing religious liberty concerns affecting counselor education. Asher Graduate School of Counseling is a faith-based graduate institution committed to training clinically competent, ethically grounded counselors who integrate sound clinical practice with Christian conviction. We present this issue because outdated statutory language and evolving accreditation pressures are increasingly limiting smaller faith-based institutions from participating fully in licensure pathways and from helping meet the urgent mental health needs in our communities.

Issue Brief Submitted to the Presidential Commission on Religious Liberty

Subject: Accreditation Reform and Religious Liberty in Counselor Education

Over the years, I have heard the same phrases whispered in school administrative meetings:

"What a racket."

"It's a nightmare."

DOJ-RLC Comment-001798

"Glacial speeds."

"Be careful what you say about your faith."

"Make sure you wordsmith appropriately."

"Will we have to compromise our values?"

"This is incredibly expensive."

"I came into education to teach students. When can we get back to our primary purpose?"

These are not the words of schools attempting to resist rigor. They are the words of institutions passionate about effective education, trying to survive accreditation standards.

I submit this brief as an Arizona-licensed counselor with decades of experience in education, having devoted much of my career to training graduate students to become clinically competent, ethically grounded Christian therapists. I have served as a professor, directed marriage and family therapy academic programs, sat on accreditation committees, and worked closely with the Arizona State Board of Behavioral Health Examiners.

Today, as President of Asher Graduate School of Counseling, I am leading our efforts to seek accreditation so our graduates may pursue state licensure.

In doing so, we are encountering two related barriers. The first is structural, a barrier to entry created by historical accreditation requirements. The second is constitutional, increasing pressure on faith-based institutions to conform in ways that strain deeply held religious convictions. Both warrant careful attention.

Because we are a small, single-program institution, the financial and structural demands of legacy "regional" accreditation are prohibitive. If we were permitted to pursue what was formerly called "national" accreditation, it would be within reach. Faith-aligned institutional accreditors such as the Transnational Association of Christian Colleges and Schools (TRACS) and the Association for Biblical Higher Education (ABHE) meet the same federal recognition standards as the historic regional bodies, but at a fraction of the cost. They also provide more individualized guidance, without the layers of bureaucracy that drive up expense and delay.

By continuing to recognize only the six historic regional accreditors, states have effectively shut out innovative and faith-based accrediting bodies and preserved what, in practice, functions as amonopoly. The 2020[1] federal revision wisely removed the regional versus national distinction and recognized both as institutional accreditation. That correction opened the door to a more accurate and competitive system. If states align their statutes accordingly, it would ease the current bottleneck in licensable programs and allow qualified accreditors to participate on equal footing.

At present, however, we are not permitted to use a faith-based accreditor like TRACS as a pathway to licensure for our graduates. We cannot grow without accreditation, and we cannot realistically obtain accreditation without first growing. It is a true catch-22.

In an attempt to remedy the structural issue, our state behavioral health board has acted in good faith and shown an eagerness to work toward solutions. However, the obstacle is not the Board. It is the statute.

[1] U.S. Department of Education, "Institutional Accountability Regulations," 85 Fed. Reg. 54742 (Sept. 2, 2020) (amending 34 C.F.R. Part 602 and removing the regulatory distinction between regional and national accrediting agencies).

DOJ-RLC Comment-001800

Many state statutes still specify that, for a counseling program's graduates to be eligible for licensure, the institution must hold "regional accreditation," the term eliminated at the federal level in 2020.

Despite the federal government's removal of the distinction between national and regional accreditation and recognizing both under the umbrella of "institutional accreditation," our statute continues to hinge licensure eligibility on that outdated label. Until this language is updated, we are effectively barred not because we lack rigor or academic quality, but because we lack a legacy designation that federal policy has already retired.

If states align their statutes with current federal accreditation terminology and recognize institutional accreditation, they would broaden the path to licensure without lowering standards. This is not about weakening requirements. It is about correcting outdated language that quietly restricts access and limits high-quality programs, including small faith-based institutions, from serving students and meeting workforce needs.

We have met with state legislators and stakeholders, and a draft bill has been opened to address this issue. We are hoping for a favorable outcome.

Students are eager to enter the mental health field, one of the most sought-after areas of graduate study today. Many want to help individuals, families, and communities in crisis. The workforce need is real. What stands in the way is not lack of rigor, but bureaucracy layered upon bureaucracy.

The Structural Problem

States already require:

- Thousands of supervised clinical hours
- Curriculum oversight
- National board examinations
- Continuing education

DOJ-RLC Comment-001801

If a program is weak, graduates will not pass the boards or succeed in supervised practice. Safeguards already exist.

Layered on top of these protections are accreditation processes that can cost hundreds of thousands, sometimes millions of dollars in staffing, consultants, reporting systems, and multi-year compliance structures. These burdens fall hardest on smaller, faith-based institutions and create a significant barrier to entry in a field that urgently needs more providers.

The result is not increased quality. It is reduced access.

There is a national mental healthcare workforce crisis. According to the U.S. Health Resources and Services Administration, more than 130 million Americans live in federally designated Mental Health Professional Shortage Areas, and nearly half of the country's population resides in communities lacking sufficient providers.[2] National workforce projections indicate that shortages of mental health professionals, including counselors, will persist for years without expanded training pathways.[3] Here in Arizona, behavioral health workforce reports indicate the state meets only about 40% of its current workforce needs and ranks near the bottom nationally in provider availability.[4]

We need more counselors, not fewer pathways to train them.

Religious Liberty Concerns

This issue is not merely financial. It is constitutional.

Faith-based institutions increasingly experience pressure to conform to ideological frameworks that conflict with their religious convictions, particularly regarding family, human identity, and emerging cultural doctrines.

In recent years, accrediting bodies and oversight discussions have incorporated diversity, equity, and inclusion standards into institutional evaluation. While impartiality and professionalism are essential in practice, concerns arise when expectations extend beyond clinical competence and ethical practice into areas that require affirming specific ideological positions.

Even when subtle, the chilling effect is real. Faculty grows cautious. Language is softened. Institutional identity is recalibrated to meet approval standards.

Accreditation should ensure competence. It should not function as an ideological gatekeeper.

We fully support rigorous clinical training and ethical accountability. What we seek is fairness, not exemption.

When structural barriers and ideological pressures operate together, smaller faith-based institutions are constrained both financially and philosophically. That is not healthy pluralism.

Respectful Request to the Commission

First, I want to sincerely thank this Commission for the work you are doing. For institutions like ours, you represent a door that may finally open after years of barriers. You represent a pathway to remove unnecessary bureaucracy, reduce financial waste, and protect traditional American principles of religious liberty and pluralism.

I respectfully ask that you:

- Encourage states to update outdated "regional accreditation" language to reflect the 2020 federal reforms.

DOJ-RLC Comment-001803

- Recommend model statutory language that protects religious liberty while maintaining high competency standards.
- Affirm that accrediting bodies should not compel ideological conformity beyond what is necessary for safe professional practice.
- Explore alternative demonstrations of quality, such as board pass rates and supervised outcomes, so accreditation does not operate as a monopoly barrier.

These are measured, reasonable steps.

We are not asking for lower standards. We are asking for equal footing.

Faith-based institutions stand ready to meet rigorous expectations. We stand ready to serve our communities. We stand ready to help address the mental health crisis facing our nation.

What we cannot do, and should not be required to do, is compromise deeply held religious convictions in order to participate in public service professions.

With thoughtful reform, we have the opportunity to remove unnecessary barriers, reduce costly bureaucracy, protect conscience rights, and expand access to counselor education at a time when families urgently need help.

Thank you for your innovative thinking, your leadership, and your willingness to open doors that have long been closed.

Respectfully submitted,

Dr. Nancy Frigaard

RESTORE MINNESOTA

"Re-forming the Church to Transform the World"

Good afternoon Chair Latz and Esteemed Members of the Committee:

My name is Dale Witherington. I am a pastor, one of your volunteer chaplains and the Chief Steward of Restore Minnesota, a Christian education ministry.

I am here to speak in opposition to Senate File 473.

The fundamental issue at stake here is as basic as the content of our nation's Declaration of Independence and Constitution. That issue is Religious Liberty and this bill is yet another attempt by ill-advised or evilly-intentioned supporters to remove religious liberty protections from the 70% of Minnesotans who identify as Jewish, Muslim, Hindu, Buddhist, Catholic, Orthodox, Evangelical Protestant, Mainline Protestant, Historically Black Protestant, Mormon, Jehovah's Witnesses, and other. You are creating another protected class of citizens – who are already protected by the way – and eliminate the religious protections guaranteed by our Constitution.

You are replacing God and putting government in His place. Is it really your intent to ignore and defile the doctrines of Jewish, Christian, Muslim, Hindu, Buddhist and other religious faiths?

The wording of this proposed amendment is misleading. It is misleading because, as we learned when this came up in a House committee hearing, we were told it was written with the intention of removing the religious liberty protection ethical Minnesota legislators have always fought to protect. Instead, after hearing from respected leaders in the Catholic, Protestant, Jewish and Islamic communities the main response came from a member of the committee by referring to these leaders and their religious faith as "disgusting". Not disgusting once but five times in about 90 seconds.

Imagine that. The leaders of Minnesota's faith communities representing at least 70% of Minnesotans being referred to as disgusting by a political leader who was put into the position to represent those Minnesotans. In the political world, if you win with 70% of the vote or if you have a 70% approval rating that is considered major success. The fact that you would ignore what at least 70% of Minnesotans have already expressed and attempt another end run to eliminate religious liberty in this state is equally disgusting, if not more so.

DOJ-RLC Comment-001814

The authors and supporters of this bill seem to be hellbent on destroying the religious fabric of Minnesota, once a hallmark of our state. Then again, that actually is a publicly stated objective of one of our sitting legislators, "the dismantling of organized religion". Well, that just isn't going to happen. If you want resistance, continue pushing this kind of unconstitutional, un-American garbage. You'll get more resistance than you could have ever imagined.

Disclaimer

Dear Mr Chairman and Committee Members of the United States Senate Select Committee on Intelligence

I am speechless 🙈. I never thought that my inquiries would lead to this. The texts Speaks for itself.

The limited portion of information recently obtained in this country as to the existence and practices of the classes of Assassins known by the name of Thugs, has had the effect of directing public curiosity to the subject; and the following pages have been compiled with a view to the gratification of that feeling. The best authorities have been consulted; and the general views which are presented to the reader may claim at least the praise of accuracy. As the object of the writer was to convey information, and to afford as just, and, at the same time, as vivid a picture as possible of the strange state of society which it was his duty to exhibit, he has in many instances given the confessions or depositions of members of the Thug fraternity in their own language, in preference to rendering them into his own. This plan, it was conceived, would afford to the reader a degree of insight into the characters and feelings of these murderers, superior to that which could be derived from the perusal of a mere narrative. The authorities for the facts related are, in many instances, referred to: - but it would be unjust to close these remarks without a general acknowledgment of the services rendered by Captain Sleeman to the cause of justice and good government, as well in the collection and diffusion of information respecting the Thugs, as in more active labours for their suppression. To the researches of that Gentleman, all writers on the subject, in common with the author of this volume, must be deeply indebted.

Date: Tue, 17 Feb 2026 15:02:12 -0500

I urgently plead with you to investigate and defend New York State residents whose religious freedoms are being grossly violated by state policies, without accountability. Since the 2019 repeal of religious exemptions (effective June 13, 2019), New York has eliminated the option to opt out of school-required vaccinations based on sincerely held religious beliefs.

Currently, parents in New York cannot exempt their children from mandated vaccinations on religious grounds. Only medical exemptions are permitted, and these—when submitted by pediatricians for children with documented histories of adverse reactions—are frequently and summarily denied by school district medical reviewers, often without adequate explanation, evidence-based review, or due consideration.

As Americans, we have a fundamental constitutional right to refrain from practices that conflict with our deeply held religious convictions. Yet in New York, these rights are being overridden, resulting in numerous children being denied access to public education entirely. Despite repeated appeals and pleas to state and federal officials, no meaningful action has been taken to protect us.

You have championed Jewish students facing bullying and harm. The time has come to stand up for Christian families and others whose religious liberties are similarly threatened here.

God bless you for stepping up to do what is right.

Joan

MOHICAN RELIGION

In 1852 sachem Waun-nau-con, also called John W. Quinney, (1797-1855) wrote:

"The manner of worship is imperfectly transmitted; but their reverence for a Great and Good Spirit (whom they referred to by looking or pointing upwards), the observance of feasts and fasts, in each year; the offering of beasts in thanksgiving and for atonement, is clearly expressed.

They believed the soul to be immortal;---in the existence of a happy land beyond the view, inhabited by those whose lives had been blameless; while for the wicked had been a region of misery reserved, covered with thorns and thistles, where comfort and pleasure were unknown."

Chief of the Muhhekaneew Nation and U.S. Army Captain Hendrick Aupaumut (1757-1830) wrote:

"Our ancestors acknowledged one Supreme Being who dwells above, before they ever enjoyed Gospel revelation, the Great, Good Spirit, the Author of all things in heaven and on earth; and governs all events, and he is good to all his creatures.

They also believed that there was an evil one. Wicked Spirit that loves altogether to do mischief; that he excites person or persons to tell a lie. Angry, fight, hate, steal, to commit murder and to be envious, malicious and evil talking. Also excite nations to war with one another. To violate their friendship which the Great, Good Spirit given them to maintain for their mutual good, and their children after them.

In order to please the Great Good Spirit which they acknowledged to be their dependence, and on the other hand to withstand the evil one. Therefore the following custom was observed, which was handed down to them by their forefathers, and considered to be as communicated to them by the Great Good Spirit.

The Head of each family-man or woman-would begin with all tenderness as soon as daylight, to waken up their children and teach them as follows.

My Children – you must remember that it is by the goodness of the Great, Good Spirit we are preserved through the night.

My Children, you must listen to my words. If you wish to see many good days and evenings, you must love to all men and be kind to all people. If you see any in distress, you must try to help them. Remember that you will also be in distress sometime or other.

If you see anyone hungry, you must give him something to eat; though you should have but little cake, give him half of it, for you are also liable to hunger.

If you see one naked, you must cover him with your own raiment. For you must consider that some future time you will also stand in need of such help; but if you will not assist, or have compassion for the poor, you will displease the Good Spirit; you will be called hard-hearted and nobody will pity on you the time of your distress, but will mock at you.

My little Children, if you see aged man or woman on your way doing something, you must pity on them, and help them instantly. In so doing, you will make their hearts glad, and they will speak well of you.

And further, if you see your neighbors quarreling, you must try to make them be good friends again

And you must always listen to the instruction of old folks; thereby you will be wise.

And you must not be hasty to speak, when you hear people talking, Nor allow yourself too much laughing.

And if you find any that would speak evil against you, you must not speak evil words back, but shut your ears and mouth as if you hear nothing, and shun such people.

And you must never quarrel to any person for quarreling is belongs to evil spirit, and beast. But live in peace with all people: thereby you will please the Great, Good Spirit and you will be happy.

My little Children – you must be very kind to strangers. If you see a stranger or strangers come by the side of your fire place, you must salute them, and take them by the hand and be friendly to them; because you will be a stranger some time or other.

You must never speak any harsh word to strangers, but use words well as you can; Thereby they will love you and will speak well of you wherever they be; and if you ever come into a strange country you will meet with such kindness. But if you will not be friendly to such, you will be in danger wherever you go.

My children – again listen. You must be honest in all your ways. You must always speak nothing but the truth wherever you are. But if you should love to tell a lie, everybody will take notice of it; thereby you will bring a bad name to yourself. For instance-whenever people see you walking they will say to one another with scorn, and point at you. Look at that liar! And even when you should bring tidings of importance with the truth, they will not regard what you say.

My children, you must never steal anything from your fellow men, for remember this-you will not be pleased if some of your neighbors should take away your things by way of stealing; And you must also remember that the Great, Good Spirit see you. But if you allow yourself to steal, you will hurt your name and disgrace your parents and all relations; and you will be despised by all good people.

My children, you must always avoid bad company.

And above all, you must never commit murder, because you wish to see a long life. But if you commit murder, the Great, Good Spirit will be angry with you and your life will be in great danger; also the lives of your dear relations.

My Children, you must always be very industrious. You must always get up early morning to put on your clothes, muk-sens, and tie your belt about you, that you may be ready to do something; by so doing you will always have something to eat and put on. But if you will be lazy, you will be always poor. Your eyes shall be on those who are industrious, and perhaps you will shamefully beg or steal; and none will give you anything to eat without grudging.

And further, my children when you grown up, you must not take wife or husband without the consent of your parents and all relations. But if you will do contrary to this, perhaps you will be joined to one who will bring great darkness to you, and thereby you will be very unhappy

My Children at all times, you must obey your sachem and chiefs, in all good counsels they give; never to speak evil against them, for they have taken much pains in promoting your happiness. And if you do not observe this, you will be looked upon worse than the beasts are.

Thus they inculcate instructions to their children day after day until they are grown up; and after they are grown, yet they would teach them occasionally. And when young people have children, they also teach theirs in like manner.

This custom is handed down from generation to another; at the same time it may be observed that there were some who did not take pains to instruct their children, but would set bad examples before them, as well as there are such among civilized nations. But such men were roving about, and could not be contented to stay in one place.

When it comes time to die, be not like those whose hearts are filled with the fear of death, so when their time comes they weep and pray for a little more time to live their lives over again in a different way. Sing your death song, and die like a hero going home."

Dear Los Angeles Police Department
Today is Sunday February 15, 2026
The time now is 11:39 am
I was watching Chabad.org Jewish ✡️ lesson on my Vortex Tablet. I am simultaneously working on a arts abd crafts project which will decorate my apartment. There was a cyber hacking of my Vortex tablet right in the middle of lesson. Definitely an unwanted trespassing. Illegal. A message fake news message appeared with the intention luring me to do a particular situation to get the Vortex fixed. I would call that cyber stalking, and spying, and pandering or hustling. I construed the intentions as Evil and Criminal.

I am in my own apartment. Staying our of sight, out of mind, out of touch, our of reach of the collective. I am being as distant and aloof as I possibly can. And this hacking takes place. I hate the collective attempt to engage in solicitation by interfering and interrupting my solitary Jewish religious studies privately in my own home. Who do they think they are? The thought Police? Fortunately I have back up devices. I switched over to my Chromebook. I am not a member of this criminally collective which persists in attempting to recruit me by menace, intimidation, coercion, duress, vandalizing when I leave on errands, tracking me in public, obsessed with my autonomous whereabouts movements, shopping, my calls, texts, emails, conversations and discussions, reading, etc. 24 hours a day. That's pathologically obsessive as far as I am concerned. It goes to motive. What's the point? I am certainly wouldn't waste my time tracking and following and spying on anyone, obsessing. I thought that the right thing to do is to notify the proper authorities about this collective movement effort to assert undue influence concerning me. They have my utter contempt, whoever they are.
They must be alcoholics or pill heads, or drug addicts who might benefit 🤦 by spending time in the Betty For Clinic, or in a detox, or drug rehabilitation programs somewhere by the sea. I am the worst possible candidate for victimization. I hate the victim role! I refuse to fake it.

That's all for now LAPD. I will most certainly keep you briefed on the activities of this collective should they continue to attempt to assert domination or control of me against my will
Thank you all
Sincerely
Ruth Goldberg-Ives 🇺🇸 🦅

Shaloam.
My question is about resuming my studies of Judaica even though I am not really Jewish, I am just an admirer? In 1983 I first learned about Chabad. A single mother with four younger children, struggling with poverty, The Mid City Chabad, the Westwood Chabad, became a refuge for my little family.And I began to study Hebrew language, and Jewish dietary laws, and I attended Shabbat, and I learned the prayers and taught them to my children. I enjoyed every minute. It was one of the happiest times of our lives.I have wonderful memories.
I was sad and distressed to watch the You Tube testimony on the terrible anti-Semitism on UCLA Campus, Columbia and Harvard. I was shocked, I couldn't believe such a think could even happen in the United States. I felt personally frightened and upset. My reaction connect with President Donald Trump's Commission on Religious Liberty and to fight against the Evil causes of religious bigotry in the United States The First Amendment guarantees all faiths the right to freely exercises their religion.I am sick and saddened this happened to Jewish students. I have downloaded your Chabad apps. I intend to keep connected and to keep in touch with my friendship of 43 years with Chabad. This is my petition and my prayer and my request, even though I am a Catholic Christian now.

Sincerely
Ruth

Religious Trust Rights in U.S. Banking

Date: February 10, 2026

Statement of Concern: Reclassification of Religious Trusts in Banking

The Tsunami Outreach Mission, as a sacred ecclesiastical body operating under a 508(c)(1)(A) faith-based organization and religious trust, formally objects to the systemic misclassification by U.S. banking institutions that fail to recognize religious trusts as distinct from commercial entities.

Our current challenge lies in the fact that no special classification or deposit structure exists within most banks for religious trusts or ecclesiastical entities. Instead, these institutions routinely force our organization—founded in the trust and expression of faith—into a commercial framework, such as that used for for-profit LLCs or corporations.

This practice undermines the constitutional and ecclesiastical rights protected by:

- First Amendment: Free exercise of religion, including the administration of one's faith and spiritual economy through private trust structures.
- Religious Freedom Restoration Act (RFRA): Prevents the government and its proxies (including regulated financial institutions) from substantially burdening religious exercise unless using the least restrictive means.

Legal and Operational Position of The Tsunami Outreach Mission

We operate as a private religious trust and ecclesiastical mission under a spiritual mandate—not as a business, not for profit, and not under corporate charter. We reject forced commercial reclassification by banks in the name of risk management or account standardization.

The Tsunami Outreach Mission's religious trust: - Does not engage in trade or commerce in the corporate sense. - Holds assets in sacred trust for ecclesiastical and ministry purposes. - Has no shareholders, no private benefit distribution, and no commercial beneficiaries.

The classification of such a sacred trust as a standard business account violates: - Our ministerial integrity - The autonomy of our faith-based trust governance - The spiritual privacy of our religious economic activities

---

DOJ-RLC Comment-001833

Call for Policy Recognition & Civilian Appointment Advocacy

We call on the Department of Justice, the Office of the Comptroller of the Currency (OCC), and appropriate Congressional oversight to:

1. Recognize the unique status of ecclesiastical religious trusts in banking law and compliance structures.
2. Create a banking classification for 508(c)(1)(A) organizations with trust and faith-based governance.
3. Prohibit mandatory reclassification of faith-based trusts as commercial entities for the sake of Know Your Customer (KYC) or AML risk assessment when no such activity exists.
4. Establish a protected deposit program or religious account category for ministries, trusts, and ecclesiastical stewardships.

We are also open to pursuing civilian appointment and advisory status under any interagency commission on religious liberty, trust rights, or institutional integrity in financial sectors, with the purpose of:

- Advocating for equal treatment of religious trust deposits
- Drafting appropriate regulatory language for banking integration
- Preventing faith-based organizations from being excluded or penalized by misaligned compliance standards

Conclusion

The Tsunami Outreach Mission will continue to steward its operations faithfully and lawfully, but without compromise to the sacred structure of the trust. We oppose being mislabeled, reclassified, or administratively processed as commercial when we are spiritual in origin and function.

We seek redress, remedy, and institutional correction.

I am a newly registered person. I did watch one video describing the universal, and global and personal threats, crimes and misdemeanors against the targets of religious harassment.
The cure for this dreadful disease is uppermost in my mind. It seems to have a biological etiology, possibly genetically inherited. If my theory is scientifically valid and credible, there may be a possibility of isolating the gene, and creating a vaccine against the pathogens. That is just a guestemation. Healing the sick is a good Christian approval.

On the other hand, darker thoughts and apparenly inclinations evil, sinister.and mercenary and spy-culture thoughts also are among my impressions.

Subject: [EXTERNAL] hearing to address antisemitism
Date: Sun, 08 Feb 2026 06:40:03 -0500
Importance: Normal

Attention to: Religious Liberty Commission

My name is Amy Rafalow, I am a Jewish American and a member of Jews for a Secular Democracy (JFASD). JFASD is an organization that mobilizes the Jewish community to to protect the separation of religion and government, a foundational constitutional principle that protects not only my religious freedom as a Jewish American, but the religious freedom for Americans of all faiths and none. I am among the 88% percent of Jewish Americans support separation of church and state, and I am writing to express my concerns ahead of the Religious Liberty Commission's hearing on anti-Semitism.

- President Trump, his advisors and close allies has platformed and appointed to positions within the administration a number of openly anti-Semitic individuals, including but not limited to: Nick Fuentes; Ye (aka Kanye West); Kingsley Wilson (who has been described as a prolific purveyor of antisemitic conspiracy theories, and was promoted to press secretary at the Department of Defense in May 2025 despite widespread condemnation from the Jewish community); Joe Kent, who was confirmed by the Senate as Director of the National Counterterrorism Center and has ties to neo-Nazis and white nationalists; and Paul Ingrassia, currently serving as the White House liaison to the Department of Homeland Security, has ties to multiple figures widely known for promoting antisemitism. He also said in a text chain that he has "a Nazi streak." To credibly address anti-Semitism, this Administration must unequivocally condemn and disassociate avowed anti-Semites and remove known anti-Semites, including those mentioned above, from their positions in the Administration immediately.

- The Religious Liberty Commission is not representative of the religious diversity of our nation. This commission only has one Jewish member from a denomination that represents less than 10% of Jewish Americans. On the contrary, more than half of Jewish Americans do not believe in God or subscribe to the Abrahamic God of the Talmud. They are also affected by anti-Semitism and deserve to be included in these conversations. We urge the Commission and the Trump administration to stop tokenizing the Jewish voices that agree with them, and open up these important conversations around religious freedom to dissenting Jewish voices with different viewpoints, as our community, while sharing concerns about safety, is not a monolith.

- This administration's policies on abortion are a violation of Jewish religious freedom. 81% percent of Jews support the right to an abortion, and the majority of Jews, practicing and non-practicing, view the life of the mother as paramount and view the right to reproductive freedom as part of long-standing Jewish practices and traditions. Laws, regulations and policies that codify a narrow Christian view on reproductive healthcare is a violation of our religious freedom, and that of other religious minorities and other Christians for whom their faith and practices support access to reproductive choices.

- We call on the commission to stop its prolific use of the term "Judeo-Christian values." America is not, and never has been, solely comprised of only Jews and Christians, rendering the phrase exclusionary. It excludes the teachings and values of all other religions and the nonreligious, while implying the supremacy of Judaism and Christianity. Moreover, it is inaccurate. Jewish values have never been solely derived from the "source text" of the Hebrew Bible. While some Jews may support a politically conservative social agenda, for an overwhelming majority of Jewish Americans (80% or more), our Jewish tradition supports women's rights, reproductive freedom, LGBTQ+ equality, science-based environmental policies, racial justice, and secular education in our schools. When "Judeo-Christian values" are used to endorse Christian nationalist legislation or political policy, it is not representative of the majority of Jewish Americans who overwhelmingly support the First Amendment right to a secular government that does not privilege one religion over others, or religion over no religion.

I urge this Commission to recommend the Trump Administration reject Christian nationalism, remove anti-Semites from the Administration, and support policies that protect religious freedom for Americans of all faiths and none.

This country was founded on the principles of religious freedom and separation of church and state. Do not advocate for anything that changes this foundational principle.

Thank you for your consideration.

Sincerely,
Amy Rafalow

My name is Emily C. Blank. I am a lay cantor in the Jewish Community. ALSO I believe it is extremely important to protect the separation of religion and government, a foundational constitutional principle that protects not only my religious freedom as a Jewish American, but the religious freedom for Americans of all faiths and none. - Jewish law states that women MUST have a right to an abortion whenever

My name is Linda Bergofsky, I am a Reconstructionist Jew and a member of Jews for a Secular Democracy (JFASD). JFASD is an organization that mobilizes the Jewish community to protect the separation of religion and government, a foundational constitutional principle that protects not only my religious freedom as a Jewish American, but the religious freedom for Americans of all faiths and those with no religious affiliation or faith practice. I am among the 88% percent of Jewish Americans who support the Constitutional separation of religious institutions or organized religion and government at any level, and I am writing to express my concerns ahead of the Religious Liberty Commission's hearing on anti-Semitism.

President Trump, his advisors and close allies has platformed and appointed to positions within the administration a number of brazenly, openly anti-Semitic individuals, including but not limited to: Nick Fuentes; Ye (aka Kanye West); Kingsley Wilson (who has been described as a prolific purveyor of antisemitic conspiracy theories, and was promoted to press secretary at the Department of Defense in May 2025 despite widespread condemnation from the Jewish community); Joe Kent, who was confirmed by the Senate as Director of the National Counterterrorism Center and has ties to neo-Nazis and white nationalists; and Paul Ingrassia, currently serving as the White House liaison to the Department of Homeland Security, has ties to multiple figures widely known for promoting antisemitism. The views of such people are antithetical to an honest discussion about anti-Semitism, if that is what you are seeking.

Membership on Religious Liberty Commission is not representative of the religious diversity of our nation. This commission only has one Jewish member from a denomination that represents less than 10% of Jewish Americans. Jewish Americans themselves are a very diverse group. More than half of us do not have an expressed belief in a deity or even subscribe to the Abrahamic God of the Talmud. Nonetheless, all Jews are affected by anti-Semitism and deserve to be included in these conversations. We urge the Commission and the Trump administration to stop tokenizing the Jewish voices that agree with them as if they spoke for all Jews, and open up these important conversations around religious freedom to dissenting Jewish voices with different viewpoints, as our community, while sharing concerns about safety, is not a monolith.

This administration's policies on abortion are a violation of Jewish religious freedom. Four out of five Jews support reproductive freedom and access to abortion, and the majority of Jews, practicing and non-practicing, view the life of the mother as paramount and view the right to reproductive freedom as part of long-standing Jewish practices and traditions. Laws, regulations and policies that codify a narrow Christian view on reproductive healthcare is a violation of our religious freedom, and that of other religious minorities and other Christians for whom their faith and practices support access to reproductive choices.

We call on the commission to stop its prolific use of the term "Judeo-Christian values." I urge this Commission to recommend the Trump Administration stop using Christian nationalism as the lens through which it views anti-Semitism, remove anti-Semites from the Administration, and support policies that protect the Constitutional right to religious freedom for Americans of all faiths as well as those with no expressed faith.

Dear Mr. Patrick and Dr. Carlson:

My name is Cynthia Landry and I reside in [redacted] I heard in the news about the Truth Social debacle whereby a very disturbing, racist post was made. I also heard that it was made by a White House staffer and quickly taken down. The good news was that it was quickly addressed.

The bad news was that the truth was not widely explained and, not trickled down to the community of faith.

Last night I encountered 2 posts whereby Christian's had not heard that the post was taken down and explanation provided. The church is not being informed.

I watched Tauren Wells make a Facebook live post addressing this issue. If you don't know who he is he is a famous Christian recording artist; Pastor of Church of Whitestone in Cedar Park, Texas; and is biracial. I was struck by his pain; his maturity in prayer and the position this has put him. The impression I got was he did not know that an explanation had been made.

Another was a young man on Instagram who was really upset and basically apologizing for voting for Trump. He didn't seem to know that Trump did respond and an explanation provided.

My question is this. Why didn't they know? Why wasn't there a wide network along with contact information informing the church?. Why didn't the Faith Office and all these other faith based initiatives immediately issue statements? Christians are hurting and largely uninformed.

Please start setting up networks so that the Church is quickly informed.

Please contact Tauren Wells. He is hurting and responsible for a very LARGE platform of faith. Watch his Facebook post.

Please grow from this and if you don't know how to set up networks then contact TPUSA. They're superstars.

Thank you for your consideration,

Cynthia Landry

My name is Steven E. Braun. I am Jewish and a proud American. I am a retired chief assistant prosecutor for Passaic County, New Jersey, and Commander, JAG Corps, U.S. Navy Reserve (Retired). I am a member of the Marine Corps Heritage Foundation, a life member of the Navy League, a member of the American Legion, a member of the Jewish War Veterans, and a life member of the Association of the United States Navy. I am also a member of Jews for a Secular Democracy (JFASD). I am among the 85% of Jewish Americans who support separation of church and state. I am writing to express my concerns ahead of the Religious Liberty Commission's hearing on anti-Semitism.

President Trump, his advisors and close allies have platformed and appointed to positions within the administration a number of anti-Semitic individuals, including, but not limited to: Nick Fuentes, Ye (aka Kanye West), Kingsley Wilson (who has been described as a prolific purveyor on anti-Semitic conspiracy theories), and was promoted to press secretary at the Department of War in May 2025 despite widespread condemnation from the Jewish community), Joe Kent, who was confirmed by the Senate as Director of the National Counterterrorism Center and who has ties to neo-Nazis and white nationalists, and Paul Ingrassia, currently serving as the White House liaison to the Department of Homeland Security, who has ties to multiple figures widely known for promoting anti-Semitism. He also said in a text chain that he has "a Nazi streak." Although no longer in the Administration, Elon Musk has demonstrated hostility towards Jews. Also, Steven Bannon has demonstrated hostility towards the Jewish people. Finally, even President Trump has shown an anti-Semitic streak, despite having some Jews in the Administration, when he told two Jewish organizations during the last election campaign that if he were to lose the election, it would be the Jews' fault. That echoes what Hitler and the Nazis did by lumping the Jewish people together as some sort of monolith without any sort of diverging opinions.

We call on the Commission to stop its prolific use of the term "Judeo-Christian values." America is not, and never has been, solely Jews and Christians, rendering the phrase exclusionary. To credibly address anti-Semitism, this Administration must unequivocally condemn and disassociate avowed anti-Semites and remove known anti-Semites, including those mentioned above, from their positions in the Administration immediately. The same must happen with those individuals who have openly expressed racist sentiments. Jews come from all ethnic and racial backgrounds (I'm Latina), and racist bigotry against BIPOC Americans impacts our entire community.

The Religious Liberty Commission is not representative of the religious diversity of our nation. This commission only has one Jewish member from a denomination that represents less than 10% of Jewish Americans. This administration's policies on abortion are a violation of Jewish religious freedom. 81% percent of Jews support the right to an abortion, and the majority of Jews, practicing and non-practicing, view the life of the mother (birthing parent) as paramount and view the right to reproductive freedom as part of long-standing Jewish practices and traditions. Again, that includes me and my family. Laws, regulations and policies that codify a narrow Christian view on reproductive healthcare is a violation of our religious freedom, and that of other religious minorities and other Christians for whom their faith and practices support access to reproductive choices. Someone else's religious beliefs have no business impacting my healthcare and the choices I make with my doctor.

We call on the commission to stop its prolific use of the term "Judeo-Christian values." Attention to: Religious Liberty Commission

My name is Paula Grande and I am a Jewish American woman as well as a member of Jews for a Secular Democracy (JFASD). As you may or may not know, JFASD is an organization that mobilizes the Jewish community to to protect the separation of religion and government, a foundational constitutional principle that protects not only my religious freedom as a Jewish American, but the religious freedom for Americans of all faiths and none. I am among the 88% of Jewish-Americans who support the separation of church and state, and I am writing to express my concerns ahead of the Religious Liberty Commission's hearing on anti-Semitism. Here are those concerns:

- President Trump, his advisors and close allies has platformed and appointed to positions within the administration a number of openly anti-Semitic individuals, including but not limited to: Nick Fuentes; Ye (aka Kanye West); Kingsley Wilson; and Paul Ingrassia. What were they thinking to appoint these individuals, who have been purveyors of antisemitic conspiracy theories, and have ties to Neo-Nazis and white nationalists, as well as ties to multiple figures widely known for promoting antisemitism, to positions within the American government? To address anti-Semitism credibly, this Administration must unequivocally condemn and disassociate avowed anti-Semites and remove known anti-Semites and those with Nazi sympathies, including those mentioned above, from their positions in the Administration immediately.

- The Religious Liberty Commission is not representative of the religious diversity of our nation. This commission only has one Jewish member from a denomination that represents less than 10% of Jewish Americans. On the contrary, more than half of Jewish Americans do not believe in God or subscribe to the Abrahamic God of the Talmud. They are also affected by anti-Semitism and deserve to be included in these conversations. We urge the Commission and the Trump administration to stop tokenizing the Jewish voices that agree with them, and open up these important conversations around religious freedom to dissenting Jewish voices with different viewpoints, as our community, while sharing concerns about safety, is not a monolith. The majority of Jewish-Americans should be represented.

- This administration's policies on abortion are a violation of Jewish religious freedom. Over 80% of Jews support abortion rights, and the majority of Jews, practicing and non-practicing, view the life of the mother as paramount and view the right to reproductive freedom as part of long-standing Jewish practices and traditions. Laws, regulations and policies that codify a narrow Christian view on reproductive healthcare is a violation of our religious freedom, and that of other religious minorities and other Christians for whom their faith and practices support access to reproductive choices.

- As a Jew, I call on the commission to stop its prolific use of the term "Judeo-Christian values." America is not, and never has been, solely comprised of only Jews and Christians, rendering the phrase exclusionary. It excludes the teachings and values of all other religions and the nonreligious, while implying the supremacy of Judaism and Christianity. Moreover, it is inaccurate. Jewish values have never been solely derived from the "source text" of the Hebrew Bible. While some Jews may support a politically conservative social agenda, for an overwhelming majority of Jewish Americans (80% or more), our Jewish tradition supports women's rights, reproductive freedom, LGBTQ+ equality, science-based environmental policies, racial justice, and secular education in our schools. When "Judeo-Christian values" are used to endorse Christian nationalist legislation or political policy, it is not representative of the majority of Jewish Americans who overwhelmingly support the First Amendment right to a secular government that does not privilege one religion over others, or religion over no religion.

Please remember that this country is composed of people other than Christians and those who believe in a supreme being. I urge this Commission to recommend, in that regard, that the Trump Administration reject

Christian nationalism, remove anti-Semites from the Administration, and support policies that protect religious freedom for Americans of all faiths and none.

Thank you for your consideration.

Sincerely,
Paula Grande

Hello, my name is Diane Elliot. I am a rabbi serving communities in the San Francisco Bay Area and nationally and am a member of Jews for a Secular Democracy (JFASD). JFASD is an organization that mobilizes the Jewish community to protect the separation of religion and government, a foundational constitutional principle that protects religious freedom for Americans of all faiths and none. I am among the 88% percent of Jewish Americans support separation of church and state, and I am writing to express my concerns ahead of the Religious Liberty Commission's upcoming hearing on anti-Semitism.

- President Trump, his advisors and close allies has platformed and appointed to positions within the administration a number of openly anti-Semitic individuals, including but not limited to: Nick Fuentes; Ye (aka Kanye West); Kingsley Wilson; Joe Kent, who has ties to neo-Nazis and white nationalists; and Paul Ingrassia, who has ties to multiple figures widely known for promoting antisemitism. He also said in a text chain that he has "a Nazi streak." If this Administration wants to credibly address anti-Semitism, it must unequivocally condemn and remove avowed and known anti-Semites, including those mentioned above, from their positions in the Administration immediately.

- The Religious Liberty Commission is not representative of the religious diversity of our nation. This commission only has one Jewish member from a denomination that represents less than 10% of Jewish Americans. A majority of Jewish Americans do not believe in God or subscribe to the Abrahamic God of the Talmud, but they are also affected by anti-Semitism. We respectfully request that the full spectrum of Jewish voices be included in these important conversations, not simply those few token voices that agree with the Administrations views.

- This administration's policies on abortion are a violation of Jewish religious freedom. 81% percent of Jews support the right to an abortion. Jewish tradition views the life of the mother as paramount; the right to reproductive freedom is part of long-standing Jewish practices and traditions. The administrations attempt to adopt a narrow Christian view on reproductive healthcare is a violation of our religious freedom and that of other religious minorities, as well as other Christians for whom their faith and practices support access to reproductive choices.

- We call on the commission to stop its prolific use of the term "Judeo-Christian values." This phraseology excludes the teachings and values of the myriad religious traditions, as well the nonreligious folk, who make up the rich diverse spectrum of U.S. culture. It implies the supremacy of Judaism and Christianity. Moreover, it promulgates an inaccurate assessment of Jewish values. While some Jews may support a politically conservative social agenda, an overwhelming majority of Jewish Americans (80% or more) support women's rights, reproductive freedom, LGBTQ+ equality, science-based environmental policies, racial justice, and secular education in our schools. Using the phrase "Judeo-Christian values" to endorse Christian nationalist legislation or political policy, does not represent the views of the majority of Jewish Americans, who overwhelmingly support the First Amendment right to a secular government that does not privilege one religion over others, or religion over no religion.

I urge this Commission to recommend that the Trump Administration reject Christian nationalism, remove anti-Semites from the Administration, and support policies that protect religious freedom for Americans of all faiths and none.

Thank you for your consideration.

Subject: [EXTERNAL] Need guidance on religious whitewashing and anti Israel/anti Jewish K-12 material

Importance: Normal

Religious Liberty Commission - My name is Leslie Tucker, and I am part of the Jewish community in Orange County, and I serve as the Activism Manager for the Israel-American Council (IAC) in Orange County. Our organization, IAC, is very active across the United States in community engagement, education, and combating antisemitism. You can find more about our work here, iac360.org.

I am reaching out because we are seeing a deeply troubling trend in K-12: elementary, middle, and high schools. There is a growing influx of so-called supplemental educational books and teaching materials that individual teachers can introduce at their discretion. Many of these materials are overtly anti-Israel and anti-Jewish, in some cases erasing Israel from maps altogether or portraying Israel and Jews in extremely distorted and harmful ways. Students are required to be taught "real facts". In California, a bill was passed for media training to teach kids how to decipher fake vs. real media. However, this does not address teachers bringing in fake, historical, supplemental material. https://calmatters.org/education/k-12-education/2023/11/fake-news-california-school/

While the inaccurate materials we have seen about Israeli and Jews and are available on specific sites to over 150K teachers worldwide, we strongly believe that this same arsenal of content will eventually be used against Christian communities as well. We see this as a broader, coordinated issue that impacts all of us who care about truth, education, and the next generation. I believe there are devious political groups behind this movement of what they call, "Social Change" The drawings and writings in the books are not factual and portray Israelis and Jews as dangerous and aggressive. Just one example: https://socialjusticebooks.org/booklists/palestine/

I am reaching out to ask for your guidance on this matter of religious whitewashing. I would greatly value your perspective on how to address this challenge effectively.

In parallel, we have built an initiative here in Orange County called Building Bridges, which brings together Christian and Jewish leaders to sit at the same table, build trust, and think strategically together. I would love for someone from the White House Faith Office to be part of this initiative and join us in these conversations.

Thank you so much for your consideration and for all that you do. I would be honored to connect further at your convenience.

Warmly,

Dear RLC commissioners and staff,

We are delighted that President Trump has set up this important commission.

We're writing to request a meeting to share with you the Chinese Communist Party (CCP)'s transnational repression on American soil. It's a serious threat not only to our domestic religious liberty, but also to our national security.

The reports below contain some important info for RLC to know.

- An Unprecedented CCP Campaign to Sabotage Shen Yun, Eliminate Falun Gong Globally. This is a comprehensive report regarding the CCP's new campaign of transnational repression targeting Falun Gong and Shen Yun. This coordinated campaign eerily matches plans that sources within the CCP's security apparatus have leaked in advance.
- Incident Tracker: Monitoring the CCP's Latest Transnational Repression and Disinformation Campaign against Falun Gong, Shen Yun. This is an incident tracker with detailed cases of violent threats (including screenshots of those messages) in a chronological order over the past year or so. You can see an alarming escalating trend of these incidents.
- Here is the Feb. 2025 The Diplomat report on leaked documents regarding the 2022 CCP meeting where Xi Jinping gave the new directives of ramping up disinformation campaigns and lawfare to "completely, and on an international scale, suppress Falun Gong's momentum" in the U.S.

We hope to have a meeting with you so we can provide more information. We'd greatly appreciate such an opportunity.

Subject: [EXTERNAL] A choice

Date: Sat, 31 Jan 2026 13:29:43 -0500

Importance: Normal

Hello everyone, been looking for the truth and this is my thoughts.
If We The People do not recognize God, we allow our sins to write the laws. By allowing our sins to write the laws, some sins will be in a position to hide behind laws or rules while other sins are punished.
Example of hiding behind law is the death penalty. Deliberately putting someone to death is killing. So those that write the law for the death penalty are doing it so their sins are rewarded.
Example of hiding behind rules is profit motive. Profit motive is a tool for business to know their well being. Lack of profit could come from losing customer base or losing money internally. Greed hides behind profit motive so their sins are rewarded.
The rise of the LGBTQ community is the result of some sins are rewarded and others are punished. The strong resistance of the LGBTQ community comes from the felt reward of their sin.
Another sin is strife. As long as government continues to fight, strife will hide behind leadership for the reward. So the only outcome for allowing our sins to write laws is chaos and wars.
So the choice is either to allow our sins to write the laws or internally follow God's law first and then write the laws.
God offer us joy while our flesh seeks rewards.
Sincerely,
Matt

Good Day,

Thank you for inviting us to submit an issue brief for testimony consideration at the Presidential Religious Liberty Commission Hearing on religious liberty in healthcare and social services to be held at the Museum of the Bible on March 16 here in Washington, D.C. As a Christian healthcare membership association of more than 13,000 members who are physicians, dentists, allied health professionals, residents and students, conscience and religious freedoms are incredibly important to allow healthcare professionals to provide compassionate ethical care without violating their conscience, without being forced to be complicit with evil.

I invite you to review the attached issue brief on the matter if it is not too late to submit for hearing consideration. I have also registered to attend the hearing.

Thank you and appreciated. I look forward to hearing from you.

Sincerely and blessings,

Nicole

Issue Brief on the Need for Healthcare Conscience and Religious Freedoms

The Issue

Respect for conscientiously held beliefs is necessary in our healthcare process, applying to healthcare professionals and patients alike. As Christians in healthcare, we have witnessed or experienced the gradual erosion of healthcare conscience protections in our society pressuring more healthcare professionals to choose between their careers and their conscience, ethics and faith. While we are working to ensure healthcare conscience protections are enacted in the states, we also desire to see greater protections at the federal level.

The Christian Medical & Dental Associations (CMDA) has more than 13,000 members who are doctors, dentists, medical and dental students, residents, allied healthcare professionals, and more. They entered healthcare to provide compassionate, ethical, scientifically-evidenced-based care to practice medicine as it aligns with their faith, ethics and values. We would hope that medical schools, residencies, healthcare institutions and governments would respect this right and desire and establish policies that accommodate. However, there remains a very real threat to those in healthcare of being presented with situations that would make them complicit with evil—and sometimes it may not be possible to separate themselves from associating with evil actions or the intentions of others. Several of our members have contacted us seeking guidance on how to respond in situations that would make them complicit in evil. For example, a nurse at an inpatient facility was asked to administer cross-sex hormones for transgender patients. This request was in direct conflict with their faith amid their desire to provide compassionate care to all patients, including those struggling with gender dysphoria. Consider also a resident in their final year of training at a hospital where abortions and sex-rejecting procedures were being performed. These are NOT procedures they want to be trained on or perform. This is a situation faced often, particularly by our Ob/Gyn residents, where reluctance to participate in such procedures would make completing their residency very difficult.

Key findings from our 2019 survey of 1,732 healthcare professionals found:

- 76 percent of those surveyed in certain specialties have noticed or experienced increased pressure to compromise their moral, ethical or religious beliefs in their practices.

DOJ-RLC Comment-001873

- 33 percent of healthcare professionals have been pressured, forced or punished to refer a patient for a procedure to which they had moral, ethical or religious objections.
- 91 percent of respondents reported they "would rather stop practicing medicine altogether than be forced to violate [their] conscience."

Violation of conscience creates distrust in medicine. Trust is essential in a patient-healthcare professional relationship. Given the survey results, a decreased representation of ethical and moral practicing healthcare professionals is dangerous to healthcare and patients.

Recommendation/Solution

We want those in healthcare to have the fundamental ethical right and freedom to follow their consciences and to resist pressures that would undermine their integrity. We ask that institutions and governments respect conscience freedoms and to establish and defend policies that accommodate and protect clinicians who exercise them. Given the stated issue, we are supporting the passage of healthcare conscience protections bills in state legislatures and in Congress. Nine states (Arkansas, Florida, Idaho, Illinois, Mississippi, Montana, Ohio, South Carolina and Tennessee) have passed healthcare conscience laws known as the Medical Ethics Defense (MED) Act. Such bills have been introduced this 2026 legislative session for consideration in Iowa, Kentucky, Nebraska, New Hampshire, Oklahoma, South Dakota and Utah. On the federal level as mentioned there are protections through the Church Amendments, the Coats-Snowe Amendment, and the Weldon Amendment. We are also supporting these bills for hopeful passage in Congress:

- Conscience Protections for Medical Residents Act- Introduced by Senator James Lankford and Representative Greg Murphy, this Act prohibits approved medical residency programs from requiring an "opt-out" for abortion training—which subjects the resident to discrimination if that resident has a conscientious objection to training for, assisting in the performing of or referring for an abortion. This bill instead proposes an "opt-in" feature for residency programs.
- US HR 2226 "Let Pregnancy Centers Serve Act of 2025"-Introduced by Representative Chris Smith. Amends the Public Health Service Act to prohibit discrimination against entities that do not participate in abortion and to strengthen implementation and enforcement of federal conscience laws.
- Equal Campus Access Act of 2025- Introduced by Senator Bill Cassidy and Senator James Lankford. Amends the Higher Education Act of 1965 to ensure campus access at public institutions of higher education for religious groups. (Particularly relevant for our medical and dental students participating in bible studies with CMDA campus chapters)

Conclusion

No matter how complex our circumstances may be, we must identify courses of action that promote what is good and achieve the needed degree of separation from the evil intentions or actions of others. By demonstrating a better way, conscientious refusal enables the Christian healthcare professional to overcome evil with good (Romans 12:21). All healthcare professionals and trainees have the right to refuse to participate in practices they believe to be unethical. Participating would undermine their integrity by making them contributors towards an unethical goal, causing them to be complicit with evil.

Good afternoon,

My name is Melissa Taylor, and I am from [redacted] Address First, I would like to express my gratitude to President Trump for establishing this department. I would also like to express my gratitude to you all for your hard work and dedication. Your commitment and professionalism are truly appreciated. It is meaningful to have leadership that acknowledges God and the Bible. I am an active member of the Church of God and regularly participate in preaching the gospel and in various volunteer activities.

I am writing with a concern regarding guidelines or protections for individuals engaged in evangelism. While I respect everyone's right to free speech, I am unsure what can be done in situations where someone who opposes evangelism becomes disruptive, follows individuals, or behaves aggressively.

About two years ago, my friend and I were preaching outside an Albertsons. We approached one woman who declined very angrily, so we moved to another area. Shortly after, the woman followed us, interrupted our conversation with another person, and began yelling at us. She urged the woman not to listen to our message, then followed us to our vehicle, shouting and standing dangerously close to our tires as we attempted to leave. She continued yelling until we were able to safely exit the parking lot.

For context, we do not use microphones or megaphones. We approach individuals politely, invite them to Bible study, and offer a card or the preferred method of contact only if they show interest. We make every effort to be respectful of people who are shopping, eating, or spending time with others. Many people choose to take our information, and some even ask for ours. We always thank them for their time, regardless of whether they accept or decline.

Thank you very much for taking the time to read my email. I am sincerely grateful for your efforts to support and protect people of faith. If there is a future event in Washington, D.C., I would be honored to attend. Our Church has been recognized by President Trump for our volunteer work, and we deeply appreciate his support. We hope to meet you all in the near future.

Sincerely,

Melissa Taylor

Dear Members of the Religious Liberty Commission,

I am writing to you as a healthcare project leader for Johns Hopkins Health System, as a Police chaplain, and as a community leader dedicated to institutional well-being and the advancement of spiritual support systems. Given the Commission's current focus on spiritual care within healthcare settings and the upcoming March 16 hearing regarding religious liberty in medicine, I would like to offer my perspective on the integration of chaplain programs and spiritual fitness into our community and healthcare institutions.

As an Army veteran and a current Chaplain for the Anne Arundel County Police Department (AACPD), I have seen firsthand how vital spiritual readiness is in high-stakes, high-stress environments. Whether on the front lines of military service, in law enforcement, or within major health systems, the presence of a robust chaplaincy program is a cornerstone of staff resiliency and mental wellness.

I am eager to discuss how we might champion programs that:

- Strengthen Chaplaincy Infrastructure: Leveraging models from the military and law enforcement to enhance spiritual care within private and public healthcare systems.
- Protect Religious Liberty: Ensuring that both providers and patients have the freedom to access and provide spiritual support without institutional barriers.
- Develop "Spiritual Fitness" Models: Integrating the "top-down" cultural shift toward spiritual well-being—currently being prioritized by the federal government—into the broader healthcare sector.

I would welcome the opportunity to submit a formal issue brief or provide testimony for the upcoming hearing to share how these cross-sector experiences can inform better policies for our healthcare professionals and the communities they serve.

Thank you for your time and for your commitment to protecting religious liberty and spiritual wellness in our national institutions. I look forward to the possibility of collaborating with the Commission.

Sincerely,

Charles F. Corliss

Dear Mark,

If I had Harmeet's DOJ email address I would email her myself . I haven't had much success going through the FBI / DOJ even though I submitted them undeniable evidence that the RSS, BJP, VHP, Sangh, Hindu Nationalist = Hindutva have been meddling / interfering in our politics / elections for years including through Unregistered Foreign Agents such as the OFBJP at the time.

I fully support the DOJ charging and prosecuting those who attacked the Baptist Church in Minnesota and other attacks on churches and Religious Liberty.

Its very bad optics and maybe it can be used in a court of law if you have a Hindutva Operative attacking President Trump, MAGA, White Christian Nationalist, Harmeet Dhillon and Paul Deol after being endorsed by Kash Patel and others in the Trump Administration .

I support taking down the Deep State and all political corruption and I support ICE so none of this is because I'm Left-wing and support Democrats.

Isn't it staggering—though utterly horrifying—how white Christian nationalists and far-right radicals "self-indigenise" themselves, strutting about with a self-proclaimed licence to murder, plunder, and seize the land of others?

Their so-called justification is laughably simple:

"Native Americans are immigrants; therefore, European settlers had the right to 'conquer' their land."

The mindset is as brazen as it is vile: God gave this land to white European Christians who arrived a mere century or two ago, not to the Indigenous peoples who have inhabited it for 15,000 years. Apparently, this is all part of His 'divine' plan. 😊

These people wrap colonisation and conquest in the cloak of divine favour, claiming moral superiority as cover for theft and slaughter. Sound familiar? It is eerily similar to historical religious conquests—take 7th-century Islam, for instance—where the world had to be converted or conquered in the name of heaven.

The pattern is depressingly clear: dehumanise, claim divine mandate, and commit atrocities with moral impunity.

"We're talking now to Afghanistan, and we want it back and we want it back soon, right away. And if they don't do it — if they don't, you're going to find out what I'm gonna do." ~ Donald J. Trump.

So, THIS 👇 is what Americans support:
✔️ 880+ military bases abroad — still growing
✔️ Threats, terror, bombings, mass slaughters
✔️ Lies, propaganda, media manipulation
✔️ Coups, regime changes, and place puppet rulers
✔️ Theft/access of gold, oil, minerals, strategic resources
✔️ Endless wars as policy
✔️ Smear campaigns to silence dissent

Now the peace-bubblehead Trump talks of taking back Bagram by hook or by crook. OR ELSE...
➡️ More violence.
➡️ More slaughters.
➡️ More wars.
➡️ More blood.
➡️ More conflicts.
➡️ More civilian deaths.

Egotistic, arrogant, venomous Donald J. Trump and his MAGA mob fear brown Hindu Indians. His own ancestors arrived penniless — Frederick Trump, his great-grandfather, a 16-year-old barber and miner, entered the U.S. as an unskilled laborer. His "qualification"? White & Christian. Poor Mary MacLeod, his mother, a house servant and maid from Scotland, came with almost nothing. Her qualification? White & Christian. Meanwhile, his current wife somehow snagged a genius visa. What kinda genius did she bring from Slovenia?

Yet today, Trump slaps $100,000 H1B fees on skilled immigrants while selling "gold" and "platinum" cards for millions.

The irony is sharp: the family that clawed its way from humble background now trembles at the success of brown Hindu Indians.

YOU ARE A COWARD #MAGAmob.

America has completely lost its mind.

America — regardless of whether a Democrat or Republican sat in the top seat — has consistently been anti-Hindu and anti-India. Even as India clawed her way out of brutal colonial oppression, America displayed not a shred of sympathy. Despite the rocky journey, immense effort has gone into improving #USIndiaRelations for two decades. Modi emerged as perhaps the most pro-American leader India has ever seen. Yet egotistical Trumpfy managed to sabotage it all — for his pocket, his business, and his vanity awards.

America will pay dearly for this "insult" — history has a ruthless memory.

Here's a comprehensive, in-depth statement that integrates religious exemption, ethical stewardship, biopiracy, the entourage effect, and the historical criminalization under Nixonian mythology:

Ethical Call for Full Religious Exemption and De-Scheduling of Mohawk Sacramental Medicines

For over 10,000 years, the Mohawk people have practiced religious reciprocity, cultivating and using polycultures of plants, fungi, and animals in ceremony, healing, and ecological stewardship. These medicines include:

Dreamfish

Colorado River toad

Cane toad

Yopo

Vilca

Iboga

Erythroxylon coca

Peyote

San Pedro

Kratom

Ayahuasca vines

Cannabis and hemp (including purple varieties harvested at full moon for peak pungency)

Magic mushrooms

Salvia

These are not recreational substances; they are holistic medicines with culturally and ecologically embedded significance.

1. Science of Pungency, Diversity, and the Entourage Effect

Medicinal molecules—alkaloids, terpenes, flavonoids, polyphenols, DNA, and RNA—occur naturally within these polycultures.

Pungency (strong, concentrated aroma and chemical potency) signals molecular richness. In Mohawk ceremonial practices, purple cannabis and other sacred plants are harvested at their zenith to maximize THC, cannabinoids, terpenes, and polyphenols, which contribute to:

Neuroprotection

Immune modulation

Antioxidant effects

Mood regulation and cognitive clarity

The entourage effect explains that whole-plant or whole-ecosystem use is more effective than isolated compounds. Molecules in combination interact synergistically, producing greater efficacy and safety than patented single molecules.

---

2. Biopiracy and Patents

Corporations have isolated single molecules from sacred medicines and patented them, often ignoring the cultural, ecological, and synergistic context. Examples include:

Cannabinoids from cannabis patented while ignoring full-spectrum plant use

Psychoactive tryptamines from magic mushrooms or ayahuasca patented synthetically

Alkaloids from peyote, yopo, or iboga patented in isolation from ceremonial systems

This represents biopiracy:

Extracting molecules without consent

Ignoring Indigenous stewardship and ritual ethics

Limiting access to medicines that have historically been community-controlled

---

3. Nixonian Mythology and Criminalization

Nixon's "war on drugs" deliberately framed sacramental medicines as dangerous substances, using unscientific rhetoric and propaganda rather than empirical evidence.

Historical and ongoing enforcement has been militarized, targeting Indigenous communities and suppressing ceremonial use, even when:

Scientific evidence shows safety and medicinal value

Ethical polyculture practices minimize environmental impact

The war on sacraments served cultural and political control, not public health.

---

4. Ethical Stewardship and Poly-Cultural Healing

Medicines grown in ethical polycultures—with high microbial diversity, high pungency, and molecular richness—benefit:

Human health through neuroprotective, immune-supportive, and regenerative effects

Environmental health by restoring soils, biodiversity, and ecological balance

Cultural health by supporting continuity of Mohawk ceremonial practices

Pungency and diversity are core indicators of ethical healing: the more molecularly rich and ecologically diverse the system, the more effective the medicine.

---

5. Call for Action

1. Full Religious Exemption: Recognize the right of Mohawk and other Indigenous practitioners to use sacramental medicines in ceremony.

2. Full De-Scheduling: Allow scientific evaluation and therapeutic use without criminalization when medicines are stewarded ethically.

3. Protection Against Biopiracy: Prevent patents from claiming isolated molecules while ignoring holistic, culturally embedded systems.

4. Support Polyculture Stewardship: Encourage cultivation practices that maximize pungency, molecular diversity, and environmental sustainability.

DOJ-RLC Comment-001896

5. Accountability and Reparations: Acknowledge the harm caused by Nixonian propaganda, militarized enforcement, and cultural genocide, and provide reparations, restoration, and ecological rehabilitation.

---

6. Bottom Line

These medicines are living sacraments, not commodities.

Their medicinal, ecological, and cultural value is inseparable from ceremonial practice.

Criminalizing them violates fundamental religious freedom, Indigenous sovereignty, and ecological ethics.

Recognition, exemption, and de-scheduling are not privileges—they are obligations under justice, science, and ethics.

Mohawk religious reciprocity calls for the protection and respectful use of these medicines, honoring their full chemical, ecological, and spiritual complexity. Freedom of religion must extend to living sacraments, or it is not freedom at all.

If you want, I can create a version with explicit patent numbers, chemical compounds, and scientific studies for each medicine, showing how biopiracy has profited off Indigenous knowledge while ignoring the entourage effect and cultural context. This would make it a fully cited advocacy document.

Do you want me to do that?

Dear Members of the Religious Liberty Commission,

I am writing to request that the Nexus Project be invited to provide testimony at the Commission's upcoming hearing on the religious liberty implications of antisemitism, scheduled for February 9, 2026.

The Nexus Project is a nonpartisan organization dedicated to combating antisemitism while protecting democratic values and free speech. Our work focuses on developing nuanced frameworks for understanding antisemitism that distinguish between hostility toward Jews as Jews and legitimate political discourse, including criticism of Israeli policy. We have extensive experience advising policymakers, educators, and civil society leaders on these issues.

We believe our perspective would be valuable to the Commission as it examines how to protect Jewish Americans from discrimination while preserving the religious liberty and free expression rights that are foundational to our nation's pluralistic tradition.

I would welcome the opportunity to discuss how the Nexus Project might contribute to the Commission's important work. Please do not hesitate to contact me with any questions or to request additional information.

Thank you for your consideration.

Dear Ms. Beecher and Members of the Religious Liberty Commission,

We at the Aleph Institute have been tracking antisemitic incidents in the US military over the past three years - from the lead-up to the October 7 attacks, and in its aftermath. The most recent such incident was the bomb threat against the Jewish Chapel at Joint Base Pearl Harbor-Hickam on December 23, 2025. I have attached the most recent version of our list of such incidents which we have compiled. We would greatly appreciate the opportunity to testify once again in front of the Commission about this painful subject in the hopes that we can present clear and practical solutions.

We look forward to hearing from you.

Updated November 2025

The following incidents have been collected informally from individual service members by the Military Personnel Liaison of the Aleph Institute, Ch, Maj Elimelach Estrin (USAFR). Below is a brief summary of each incident. More information on each specific case will be made available, if requested.

Overt antisemitism:

Nazi and Anti-Jewish Symbolism:

- Bomb threat sent on Dec 28, 2025 to the Aloha Jewish Chapel on Joint Base Pearl Harbor Hickam. With an ethnic slur in its subject line, the one-sentence message read "alert NCIS: I am going to bomb a synagogue December 30." No bomb was found. FBI and NCIS are investigating.
- A swastika was drawn outside the Jewish chaplain's house at Ft Campbell, KY on 18 Feb, 2024. Command was alerted; the perpetrator was not found.
- Three different instances of antisemitic graffiti in the Kadena AB, Japan neighborhood playgrounds in 2023, ranging from swastikas drawn on the playground slides to soccer balls with swastikas and messages about Hitler and Jews spread throughout the playground. Final time was swastikas etched into the actual playground equipment. Each time the Jewish chaplain alerted Security Forces and Chaplain Corps leadership, going all the way up to the Wing Commander. They put up trail cameras, but no perpetrators were found.
- Heil Hitler graffiti was scribbled on posters at the 2024 Seder in Camp Humphreys, Korea. MPs originally said no crime was committed, until the chaplain went to JAG. Garrison chaplain banned the Protestant youth group, members of which were the perpetrators, for several months.
- In 2024, when returning to base after a training, a soldier had his official picture defaced with a Hitler mustache and Star of David.
- At a sporting event in 2024, a vehicle was granted entry to the US Air Force Academy with antisemitic displays. When brought to the JAG and EO, the matter was dismissed. The Jewish chaplain was reprimanded by his superiors for "jumping the chain" for going to JA with this information. No further action was taken.

DOJ-RLC Comment-001904

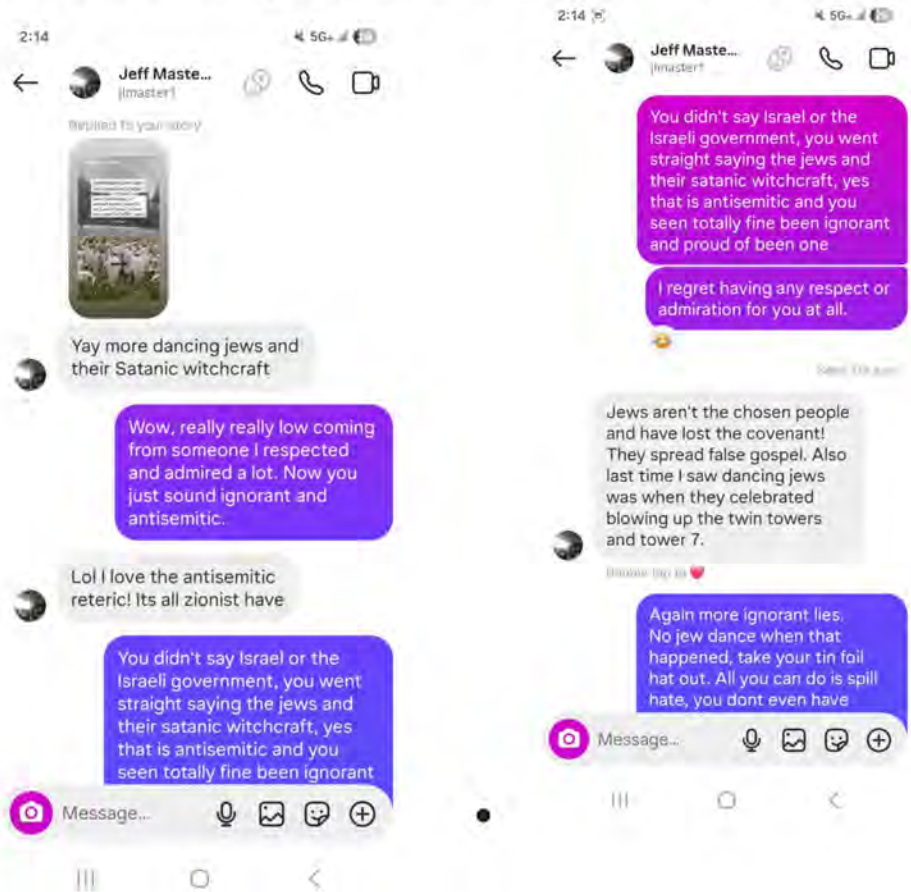
- In 2024 at an NCO PME class, a USAF NCO stationed at Hill AFB reports that they were forced to watch a TED Talk about motivating people. During this speech, the speaker praised Hitler regarding how he was "an excellent motivational speaker". NCO immediately asked why they were watching the video, and the instructor stated that it was mandatory curriculum coming from Barnes Institute at Maxwell AFB. The NCO was given permission to leave during the talk, but the video remained part of the course.
- A USN Sailor had his cover marked with a Star of David on the bottom of his cover. A fellow Sailor marked an X over it. Response: After the Senior Chief was notified, he gathered the shop together and warned all that it was inappropriate and there would be consequences.
- KS ARNG recruiter spewing antisemitic comments online. IG was notified; no response.



DOJ-RLC Comment-001905

- Cadet at USAFA posted this on Instagram during Jewish Warrior Weekend, Nov. 2025:

Vandalism:

- During the summer of 2023, a mezuzah was ripped off the Chaplain's office door in Camp Humphreys, Korea.
- In January 2025, the Jewish chaplain at Schofield Barracks, HI had his van's windshield destroyed by a cinder block. No culprit has been identified, but the MPs agreed that it was a targeted attack, as no other cars were damaged at all.
- Sign on base housing at Fort Bragg, NC that proclaimed: "End Israeli Apartheid – Free Palestine". Complaint submitted to EO and IG on 5/28/24; sign removed soon afterward.

Conflation of Religion and Current Events:

- In 2023, Chanukah displays were removed from two bases (Joint Base Pearl Harbor, HI, Al Udeid AB, Qatar) due to "political concerns". At Al Udeida, it went to IG, who responded that nothing went against policy. At JBPHH, the DoD civilian, a military spouse, who reported it was retaliated against. EO complaint was filed, with no result.

Personnel and Career Incidents:

- In early 2023, a Reserve Airman was told "You *-ing Jew" while being physically pushed by his commander. In addition, unfounded allegations of sexual harassment were made against the Airman, and proven false with video footage; yet the airman was still administratively punished, with an attempt to block his transfer to another unit. This paperwork effectively blocked him from getting promoted, moving him into the IRR and curtailing his career. Requests for IG to investigate the case have gone unanswered.

- In March 2023, an enlisted Coast Guardsman is administratively separated from the USCG by his commander, due to previous allegations of assault. The allegations were themselves the result of antisemitic incidents while he was stationed in Valdez, AK the year prior, in which locals first regularly taunted him with antisemitic and anti-hispanic slurs, which he reported to his command, to no avail. CGIS investigators found all witnesses and their testimony not credible, and all charges were dropped. The Coastie was moved to USCG Base Seattle, where the new commander made a point of telling the lower enlisted Coastie that he "is a Palestinian from East Jerusalem". After continuous harassment in USCGB Seattle, the Coastie filed an EO complaint against his command, which found mistreatment and prejudice against the Jewish service member. Despite that, he received administrative separation almost immediately, with no recourse given; receiving General Under Honorable Conditions. All his benefits were taken away, and he received an RE4 enlistment code, preventing him from reenlisting - which he would like to do.
- After October 7th, 2023, the Adjutant General of CA, Major General (MG) Matthew Beevers, sent out a memo to the force making a moral equivalence between Hamas and Israel--directly in opposition to the comments and guidance of then-Secretary of Defense Austin (see SECDEF comments on 13OCT23)--and downplaying the rapid rise of active anti-Semitism in California by equating it with supposed Islamophobia. In response, several senior Jewish officers spoke with the Senior Enlisted Leader (SEL) of the CA NG expressing their concerns. The SEL arranged for Command Sergeant Major (CSM) Samuel P. Yudin, a highly qualified and respected Senior Enlisted Advisor, to speak with MG Beevers. CSM Yudin had no prior interaction with MG Beevers, and the SEL sat in on the meeting. MG Beevers was shockingly uninterested in the conversation, not empathetic, and displayed hubris. Soon afterwards, two members of Beevers' staff created an investigation against Yudin, which was determined to have no validity; yet Yudin was given a written reprimand and removed from his position. Within months, CSM Yudin went from being the top ranked Brigade-level CSM on a path to Division or State-level leadership, to being unceremoniously removed in a special board that only considered him/his position, and which was signed by Beevers within a day; not a common personnel move.
- In addition, on December 26, 2023, CSM Yudin notified his commander, an Army Colonel, that he found and reported to the police and city councilman for the district multiple swastikas painted near their armory. The Colonel initially states that it is "unfortunate" and asks if it was done by kids. The CSM Yudin responds that there is no way to tell but that there was recently antisemitic vitriol at a city council meeting the week prior. The Colonel, who as the state Director of Manpower and Personnel has Equal Opportunity programs under her directorate, responded with, "You can thank Trump for that," and "I think this is a Buddhist symbol; not the same as the Nazi swastikas."

- Shortly afterwards, in January 2024, dozens of national media outlets reported a criminal complaint filed against Beevers by retired CA Air National Guard general, Brigadier General Jeffrey Magram, for wrongful termination, discrimination, and harassment. At the center of the lawsuit are allegations reported to be overheard by multiple Field Grade officers that the adjutant general used antisemitic language, to include the word "kike" and antisemitic tropes. California tried to have the case dismissed; judge ruled against them. The case will be heading to trial.
- Other senior Jewish CA Guardsmen likewise find their careers stymied or truncated, including Major General Jay Coggin, commanding general of the CA State Guard.
- A Jewish Naval aviator is recommended for General Discharge after a drug urinalysis comes up positive for cocaine. The Chief Toxicologist of the Armed Forces, Dr. Jeff Waltershied, testified the positive urinalysis fit the criteria of innocent ingestion; witnesses testified that the aviator never used drugs, and was never under the influence during the time in question. After deliberation, a Board of Inquiry dropped the misconduct accusation but surprisingly still recommended General Discharge based solely on illegal substance use. The aviator is the only Jew in his squadron, and feels targeted for dismissal. He was eventually reinstated after his advocacy team was able to get his case in front of the Assistant Secretary of the Navy.
- Another Jewish Naval officer reported consistent harassment and career obstruction by multiple training officers and leadership personnel, with the effort made to discredit and dismiss him, but eventually he was able to prove his innocence. He was subjected to academic discrimination: his work was graded using no rubric, no published syllabus, and with inconsistent or arbitrary grading criteria. Answers that were factually correct were marked as incorrect, and he was set up to fail modules where his performance met standards. He received late-night, ominous messages from training officers that he would be subjected to sudden or manufactured disciplinary actions, including review boards without proper basis. He was harassed directly in the workspace, subjected to degrading remarks in hallways outside his office, and denied access to fair mentorship or guidance. Despite achieving consistent Outstanding and Outstanding High scores on all Physical Readiness Tests (PRT), he was issued an unjustified four-page Page 13 (disciplinary document) claiming he was unprepared for the PRT based solely on footwear, which did not violate any written standard. Ultimately, the situation was so egregious that the Commanding Officer (CO) moved him to the command HQ. The CO, Immediate Superior in Command, and IO (Investigating Officer) collectively recommended an Inter-Service Transfer (IST) out of the Navy to a different military service; concluding that "too much harm has been done" and "the water is too dirty" for him to continue advancing within that environment. This recommendation came despite his qualifications, clean record, and strong performance metrics.

DOJ-RLC Comment-001908

- In 2024, a soldier at a deployed unit in Israel wearing a yarmulke is asked, "Why did they send us a weirdo like you, and not a normal soldier?"
- In a similar incident, in 2023, a soldier at Fort Cavazos was assigned a tasking to present to representatives from a foreign (Arab) military. The battalion commander told his acting company commander that he was being replaced on the assignment because he didn't want a visibly Jewish soldier meeting with these reps for fear of conflict - despite his American last name, the fact that he'd be outside and his patrol cap would cover his kippah. The Soldier's unit stood behind him, but he still had to be switched out for another Lieutenant who was less of a good fit for the role. The soldier made a report to EO, who did an investigation. Ultimately, the Battalion Commander pulled him and another Jewish soldier in to give a "half apology" and explanation.
- In 2024, a Jewish Marine in Intel was put through two consecutive investigations after anonymous tips to NCIS reporting supposed foreign agent dealings, using the same exact language. The first led to an internal battalion investigation, with a conclusion of no wrongdoing. The second led to a full-blown NCIS inquiry, calling the Marine's security clearance into question. He was cleared on all charges.
- October 24, 2025: A Jewish guardian was called out in a class of dozens of personnel as the "most likely to be an insider threat".
- Senior officer with a clearly Jewish surname fired after demonstrably false accusations. Had security clearance canceled with no recourse, and has been unable to find work ever since.

Denial of Religious Civil Rights:

- A Jewish Security Force Airman at Cape Cod SFB, NH was refused leave for 2024 Jewish holidays, under the explanation "It would not be fair," even though they had enough manning. He ended up paying a fellow MP $1000 to take his shift so he could go to synagogue.
- A soldier's 1st Sergeant claimed that her "leave request for Passover, a Jewish holiday with extra dietary restrictions and complex practices 2 months in advance, is equivalent to a newbie demanding 30 days off right when they get to their unit." Later, after she was told by a LT it was denied, she found out that the request was never put in.
- During 2024, the Jewish chaplain at Fort Sam Houston, TX, a Major, faced behind-the-back derogatory remarks as well as limitations placed on his ability to serve Jewish soldiers, due to the involvement of the garrison SNCO. IG and EO complaints were filed. The result was that the SNCO was forcibly retired.
- In July 2025, a Jewish Chaplain was put under an investigation by his commander, and threatened with disciplinary action, for putting in a pass request for the holiday in order to do religious worship on base, instead of taking unpaid personal leave.
- A SSG currently at ROTC reports: The yearly four-day field event (JLDX) overlaps with Passover. Despite giving several months' notice, the schedule didn't change. The cadet submitted my excusal request through the formal channels and was informally told by other cadets that it had been approved, yet never received any written confirmation. Later, he was pulled aside by the MSG and told the request had actually been denied. The conversation quickly turned hostile—he called the soldier a "shi*bag," asked who he thought he was to submit such a "bullsh*t reason," and then threatened counseling for things like shaving and uniform issues that hadn't come up before. During the same interaction, the soldier learned that another cadet was excused for a friend's wedding, and others have been given time off for track meets or personal matters without issue. He writes: "It's been made clear to me—implicitly and explicitly—that asking for time off to observe Jewish holidays is seen differently. This isn't new. Since my earliest attempts to observe holidays like Passover or Purim while in the program, I've been treated like I'm not a real part of the unit. I've been labeled a burden or someone looking for special treatment when, in reality, I'm just trying to balance my faith with my service. On top of that, there's a cadet who openly identifies with a rigid religious ideology and has repeatedly made antisemitic jokes and comments—including spreading conspiracies—all in front of leadership. Nothing has been done. The general reaction is to laugh it off or dismiss it as 'something Jews say anyway,' which has been deeply discouraging."

Soft antisemitism:

Leadership:

- Almost total silence from senior leadership in the aftermath of Oct 7, in comparison with George Floyd and other such events.
- Immediately after Oct 7 2023, a Jewish Airman was given verbal counseling by her commander for telling her emotional personal story at a memorial event and identifying herself as "an officer in the USAF". She had been in civilian clothes, and she was accompanied by her chaplain.
- In 2024, Army soldier denied repair of air conditioning in his base housing by the post engineers; "previous religious accommodations granted" was cited as reason for denial.
- When discussing religious accommodations, specifically BAH/BAS for dietary restrictions and Shabbat/holidays and religious holiday leave requests, a Soldier was told that religious accommodations are "earned".
- Jewish chaplain was told by a squadron commander "you reminded me of the Taliban" due to attempting to keep to a religious stricture. Despite his attempt to explain his actions and the religious requirements, the Squadron Commander made a big deal about it, accusing the chaplain of being anti-female.
- A well-known instructor taught a class on the Hamas war at USAFA. He did not mention the Jewish historical narrative from prior to Herzl, being selective in the history he chose to present.

DOJ-RLC Comment-001910

- A Soldier had an approved accommodation to observe the first two days of Passover from the commander of her unit. Her name randomly came up on a routine company UA. She was called numerous times on Passover and asked to come in and, when she questioned this, several hours later, was told she could stay home this time, but that she would have to take leave to observe in the future. When she informed the unit about her need to observe the following holiday of Shavuot, she was given another runaround, with the supposed reason that "equal policies for everyone" were being pursued. An EO complaint was filed; however, those who it had been filed against were not flagged, and no investigation followed. She was once again harassed over the High Holidays. Aleph briefed the Commanding General of Fort Cavazos on what had transpired, and he asked his staff to intervene, solving the issue.
- In 2024, a Navy Corpsman is informed that "he will not receive kosher MREs until the Muslims who request Halal have their accommodations processed as well." Senior Jewish Navy chaplain successfully advocated on his behalf. However, in a later case in 2025, Marine in training is told that a request for Kosher MREs will take 2 weeks to process, while Halal would be processed the same day.
- For the High Holidays in 2024, Marines in Parris Island, NC are told that they cannot blow the shofar on Rosh Hashana because "prayers are only on Sunday". After intervention by the senior Jewish chaplain in the Navy and Aleph Institute, they are permitted to blow the shofar. However, the same chaplain informed Marine recruits in advance of Passover 2025 that they would not be allowed to have a seder, as they "gave up their rights to religious accommodation when they joined the Marine Corps." When trying to resolve these issues, the Contract Rabbi at Parris Island is given threats to "stay out of religious accommodation issues. You are only contracted for Sundays, and no holidays." The cadets eventually are given permission to host the seder prior to nightfall on the evening of Passover, and the room in the chapel they are given for the seder has a large crucifix attached to the wall.
- In 2025, at Fort Polk, LA soldier was told to remove his kippah while inside a building, SFC then proceeded to cause trouble, stating he wasn't allowed to wear it. The soldier called the DRGL immediately in distress. DRGL explained it's a religious article and allowed to be worn, as it was OCP and regulated under AR 670-1. She then tried to accuse the soldier of being disrespectful. A meeting was called to explain the SFC was incorrect. The matter was resolved at a local level.
- October 23, 2025: Academy midshipmen had Jewish Warrior Weekend canceled due to "bad optics during the government shutdown". Other religious groups were permitted to travel during the weeks earlier. Same day, Chaplain Resnicoff speech about Beirut bombings canceled

Ignorance:

- In 2024, the Camp Pendleton dining facility (DFAC) offers Jewish food menu "in honor of the Holocaust Day of Remembrance Day" (sic).
- In the same year, Fort Knox, KY DFAC advertises "Holocaust Menu".
- In the same year, Under Secretary of Defense for Personnel and Readiness, Mr. Ashish Vazerani, issues a letter for Days of Remembrance citing "the individual suffering experienced by six million Jews and millions of others who endured tremendous hardship and loss", watering down the murder of six million.
- Black Jewish soldier is told she can't have her religious accommodation met "because you can't be black and Jewish."
- EO at JB Charleston, SC edited Holocaust Memorial script, watering it down, directing the change of the words "mass murder" for "genocide", saying the latter term is "less violent".
- PAO at Keesler was concerned by "overtly political tones" of a Jewish chaplain's Holocaust Memorial program.

Systemic problems:

- USAF Chief of Chaplains requested senior Jewish chaplains to create a DAFI regarding antisemitism. No response has come from his office once it was created.
- Jewish Chaplains and DRGLs are regularly told that there is no budget for their program.
- Ever since the removal of DEI, we have heard anecdotally of many commanders and senior enlisted who conflate DEI with Jewish religious accommodations.
- The lack of availability of hearty kosher foodstuffs, (many of which are commonly found in US supermarkets), such as salmon, tuna, beef jerky, and frozen products at commissaries; particularly in deployed locations.
- Kosher MRE packs have less protein, no spreads, no coffee packets, and lower quality plasticware than their standard counterparts.
- We prepared a report for the Navy regarding keeping Kosher aboard ships. This report has not been disseminated, and it only applies to the Atlantic Fleet. We would like to do a similar report on the Pacific Fleet ships, as well as submarines.
- The term "Yarmulke" was removed from head covering DAFI, and replaced by hijab. This despite the historical record that the "Yarmulke Law" was that which brought about the DoD's change regarding religious accommodation, subsequent to an Act of Congress.
- We have had significant issues getting DoD to have a consistent approach to paying for a mohel, across services. It has been relegated to a local command decision at every individual installation, leaving it open to a local JAG interpretation of the DoDI.
- In 2023, the USAFA Commandant's Challenge was scheduled on Yom Kippur.
- For the US Space Force's first birthday, chaplains of a large variety of faiths were asked to present a prayer. No Jewish chaplain was consulted, and the "Jewish" prayer was given to a Jewish Guardian who had no inkling of how to present such a prayer. This is despite the fact that they failed to identify the Jewish chaplain at the Air Force Academy, unlike the Muslim chaplain, who was at the same Academy.

- In 2024, PACOM Chaplain training program was scheduled for the last two days of Passover. Other Chaplain training events are regularly held in conflict with Jewish holidays. Every Active Duty should be required to have an ecumenical calendar which lists the religious holidays of all major faiths and deconflict programs accordingly
- In 2025, The USAF Chief of Chaplains tasked Ch, Col Yaakov Bindell and a team with creating an AFI dealing with antisemitism. The team created an AFI broad enough to respond to anti-religious discrimination. Several months have gone by, and their work has not even been acknowledged.

Previous issues with DEI:

- Holocaust Remembrance Day has been removed as an observance in the military. In our opinion, given the fact that the US Army liberated the camps, it would be appropriate to continue marking the Holocaust in some fashion.
- After CA ARNG is informed about Jewish American Heritage Month, and while their TAG is being sued for antisemitism, they choose to put on a JAHM program. They do not email it to their entire mailing list of Guardsmen until the day of, less than two hours before the event. On the very same day, they advertise Asian and Pacific Heritage month on social media, but they do not mention Jewish Heritage Month online at all.
- DoD did not adhere to the U.S. National Strategy to Counter Antisemitism which President Biden signed in May of 2023. Specific ways DoD did not implement the directed measures are:
    - DoD did not recognize Jewish American History Month (required by May 2023)
    - DoD did not include antisemitism and workplace religious accommodations into training programs as required by EO 14035 (required by November 2023).
    - DoD was also to "estimate prevalence of antisemitic… behavior in the military workplace" by November 2023. Was never assessed.
    - DEOMI ignored Aleph's offers to assist them with material regarding JAHM and antisemitism. Ch, Col Yaakov Bindell worked to create material for them, but it has not been produced for usage. A Barrier Access Working Group for Jews was stymied at every corner. A budget was finally assessed immediately prior to the elections, which obviously was not applicable.

TO: The Members and Staff of the Religious Liberty Commission

RE: Submission for Commission's Consideration: Religious Liberty at Risk for Immigrants Through Judicial Procedural Loopholes

Dear Commissioners,

I am writing to provide a first-person account of how federal and state courts have used procedural doctrines to circumvent the First Amendment's church autonomy protections, rendering the religious freedoms of immigrants in the United States fragile and contingent.

My name is Sergei Vinkov. From 2018 to 2019, I served as an elected Congregational Council member (a governing board director) of the Trinity Lutheran Church of Hemet, California, a religious nonprofit with over a century of history. In that capacity, I made a faithful, good-faith decision to post online reviews about a contractor hired by our church, acting within my discernment and statutory duties to the congregation.

My protected religious governance decision was then adjudicated in secular courts (See attached petition with related proceedings). Our church's insurer, Brotherhood Mutual Insurance Company, disregarded its own insurance policy's mandatory arbitration clause and instead obtained a declaratory judgment from the U.S. District Court for the Central District of California, which ruled on whether my actions were a "covered leadership activity." In doing so, a federal court improperly applied "neutral principles of law" to a matter of internal church governance and a member's religiously motivated conduct—a clear violation of the church autonomy doctrine.

The constitutional injury was then compounded procedurally. When I sought to enforce the arbitration agreement in California state court, the courts applied the doctrine of issue preclusion. They held that the prior federal judgment on "coverage" precluded me from accessing arbitration at all. This created a devastating catch-22:

1. A federal court adjudicates a faith-based governance decision.
2. That very adjudication is then used as a procedural weapon to bar me from the contractual, alternative dispute resolution forum that could have avoided judicial entanglement in religious matters from the start.

I have exhausted all direct appeals on the core religious liberty issue, culminating in the Supreme Court denying certiorari (22-1032). I am now before the Court again on a related procedural petition (pending, filed November 2025) challenging the use of preclusion to deny arbitration. The full litigation history is documented in that petition.

I submit my story to the Commission as a living proof of a systemic vulnerability. Immigrants and members of religious communities rely on the robust, unqualified protection of the First Amendment. My case demonstrates that these protections can be rendered null not through a direct attack, but through procedural loopholes—where a court first oversteps by ruling on a religious matter, and then uses that very ruling to foreclose alternative resolutions, leaving the religious individual without recourse.

I respectfully request that the Commission consider my experience for inclusion in its reports, hearings, or analytical materials. It serves as a concrete case study in how existing legal doctrines can be misapplied to weaken religious liberty in practice, particularly for immigrants who may be more vulnerable to complex judicial gatekeeping.

Thank you for your dedication to this critical freedom.

Respectfully submitted,

Sergei Vinkov.

QUESTION PRESENTED

After this Court refused to intervene and review the jurisdictional defects in the lower court's judgment in favor of Respondent and denial of constitutional protection for an alien (See Docket in Case No. 22-1032, 2022 October Session), Petitioner compelled Respondent in state court to arbitrate issues related to breach of the arbitration agreement, bad faith, consumer protection laws, and other tortious and contractual claims.

The state trial court judge and state appellate justices denied enforcement of Petitioner's statutory right to arbitration against Respondent, citing issue preclusion and disregarding equitable estoppel, as well as constitutional and statutory mandates ("It is unfair for a signatory to an [arbitration] agreement to avoid arbitration by suing nonsignatories for claims that are based on the same facts and are inherently inseparable from arbitrable claims deriving from the agreement," (Gonzalez v. Nowhere Beverly Hills LLC (2024) 107 Cal.App.5th 111, slip op. at 23). A litigant who was not a party to the arbitration agreement may nonetheless invoke its enforcement under state contract law (Arthur Andersen LLP v. Carlisle, 556 U.S. 624 (2009)).

These procedural loopholes and the outcomes of the related proceedings compel Petitioner to present the following question for review, as it underscores a significant and unresolved split of authority concerning the enforcement of arbitration rights through equity.

Whether the doctrine of preclusion overrides equitable estoppel in enforcing arbitration under the Federal Arbitration Act, 9 U.S.C. § 1 et seq.?

PARTIES TO THE PROCEEDINGS

Sergei Vinkov submits this Petition as an individual and a church member in his official capacity as a Congregational Council member (a board director) of Trinity Lutheran Church of Hemet (The Evangelical Lutheran Church in America) ("Religious Corporation"), a California non-profit religious corporation under federal tax exemption, voluntarily served in January 2018 – August 2019. Religious Corporation was incorporated as a non-profit organization in 1921 under the California Nonprofit Religious Corporation Law (CA #96978); FEIN 952158740; is a tax-exempt under 26 U.S.C. §501(c)(3); has no stock, and no parent or publicly held companies have any ownership interest in it. Religious Corporation is listed on the official roster of congregations affiliated with the Evangelical Lutheran Church in America (ELCA) and is recognized by the ELCA as being included under its Group Exception Ruling (9386) (https://community.elca.org/).

Respondent Brotherhood Mutual Insurance Company, an Indiana corporation, was the respondent (defendant), and appellee below. It is an American insurance company primarily serving churches and related institutions; the second largest U.S. provider of property and casualty insurance to Christian churches and related ministries. It issued insurance contract for Petitioner's entity during the period of his membership ("Respondent"). The Insurance Commissioner of California duly authorized Respondent to issue insurance policies. Respondent's principal place of business is 6400 Brotherhood Way, Fort Wayne Indiana, 46825.
