PETITION FOR A WRIT OF CERTIORARI

This petition seeks a threshold number of votes to review the denial to enforce arbitration agreement within the state courts in the context of the federal statutory and constitutional prescriptions (Apps.B-D,2a-20a, CDA 4/2's decision and judgement denying petition to compel arbitration).

DECISIONS BELOW

CDA 4/2's decision and order denying rehearing are not reported but reproduced version is attached to this Petition as Apps.B-C,2a-12a. The trial court's denial of petition to compel arbitration is also not reported but reproduced at App.D.13a-20a.

JURISDICTION

The Supreme Court of California denied the petition for review on May 14, 2025 (App.A,1a). On June 13, 2025, Justice Kagan granted Application No. 24A1230, extending the time to file this petition for a writ of certiorari from August 12, 2025, to September 15, 2025 (Vinkov v. Brotherhood Mut. Ins. Co.). Accordingly, this Court has jurisdiction under 28 U.S.C. § 1257(a). The Deficiency Notice dated September 22, 2025, afforded a period of sixty (60) days for correction. Accordingly, the Petition is presented in timely fashion.

CONSTITUTIONAL PROVISIONS AND STATUTES

The primary sources of legal error in the challenged proceedings are the Federal Arbitration Act, 9 U.S.C. § 2, which provides that a written arbitration provision in a contract involving commerce "shall be valid, irrevocable, and enforceable, save upon such grounds as exist at law or in equity for the revocation of any contract," and the Supremacy Clause, U.S. Const. art. VI, cl. 2 ("This Constitution, and the Laws of the United States which shall be made in Pursuance thereof; and all Treaties made, or which shall be made, under the Authority of the United States, shall be the supreme Law of the Land; and the Judges in every State shall be bound thereby, any Thing in the Constitution or Laws of any State to the Contrary notwithstanding.") (App.F,25a).

DOJ-RLC Comment-001929

INTRODUCTION

Respondent, an insurer, disregarded the arbitration clause in its own insurance policy and obtained an unenforceable declaratory relief judgment in federal court, asserting no duty to defend against Petitioner, a non-signatory party. Petitioner, having exhausted all procedural steps, preserved issues for collateral attack, and gathered substantial evidence supporting tort and contract claims for breach of the arbitration agreement across multiple jurisdictions. Immediately after this Court declined to intervene on September 8, 2023, Petitioner submitted an arbitration demand to the American Arbitration Association and, to secure the statute of limitations, filed and served a petition to compel arbitration in state trial court on September 19, 2023. The further development of this case again presents recurring issues of law intertwined with the resolution of doctrinal questions.

When Petitioner sought to compel arbitration in California state courts, the lower courts denied enforcement of the arbitration agreement, citing issue preclusion and this Court's non-intervention, despite clear indications that the federal declaratory relief judgment is unenforceable as a matter of law ("Vinkov appealed to the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals and petitioned for review in the United States Supreme Court, but did not prevail in either," App.B,7a; "Petitioner is barred from seeking to compel arbitration by a prior federal lawsuit," App.D,18a). The federal court's adjudication of a faith-based decision violated the church autonomy doctrine, which prohibits courts from resolving matters of faith, doctrine, or church governance (see James Huntsman

v. Corporation of the President of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, No. 21-56056, slip op. at 19–20 (9th Cir. Jan. 31, 2025) (en banc) (Bress, J., concurring in the judgment, "Courts therefore cannot resolve disagreements over church teachings and governance, which would pose grave threats to the autonomy of religious organizations" and "this case is on a collision course with the First Amendment."; Id. at 34; Bumatay, J., concurring in the judgment, "the church autonomy doctrine bars federal courts from resolving matters of faith, doctrine, and church governance"). Moreover, the district court erroneously applied the neutral principles doctrine to resolve a religious controversy, and the state courts' subsequent misapplication of issue preclusion improperly deprived Petitioner of his arbitration rights under the Federal Arbitration Act, 9 U.S.C. § 1 et seq. Respondent exploited the split in authorities to evade arbitration of an ongoing and escalated coverage dispute. Petitioner contends that Respondent should be equitably estopped from resisting arbitration. The lower courts' application of preclusive effect to an unenforceable declaratory relief judgment, thereby infringing Petitioner's federal statutory and constitutional rights, raises an important question of law warranting this Court's review.

STATEMENT OF CASE

I. This Court Declined Review of Petitioner's Challenges to a Defective Declaratory Judgment Adjudicating His Faith-Based Decisions (2019–2023).

In 2021, the U.S. District Court for the Central District of California granted summary judgment in favor of Respondent, concluding that Petitioner's social media posts were not "leadership activities" covered by the insurance policy (Brotherhood Mutual Insurance Co. v. Vinkov, No. 5:19-cv-01779, (C.D. Cal. Aug. 10, 2021)). The Ninth Circuit affirmed, and this Court denied certiorari on June 26, 2023, with rehearing denied on September 8, 2023 (Vinkov v. Brotherhood Mut. Ins. Co., No. 22-1032).

Records of this Court show Respondent refused to arbitrate the coverage dispute and obtained a declaratory relief judgment from the federal courts (2019–2023) that adjudicated Petitioner's faith-based decisions to post online reviews of a church contractor. This adjudication conflicts with Article III's case-or-controversy requirement and the First Amendment's church autonomy doctrine, which prohibits courts from resolving matters of faith, doctrine, or church governance (See Petition No. 22-1032 for writ of certiorari to the United States Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit, denied on June 26, 2023, rehearing denied on September 8, 2023 (Vinkov v. Bhd. Mut. Ins. Co.); "Civil courts cannot adjudicate ecclesiastical matters," McRaney v. N Amer Mission Bd, ____ slip at 6 (No 23-60494, September 9, 2025) 5th Cir.).

The arbitration agreements in Respondent's MinistryFirst® Commercial Multi-Peril Insurance Coverage policy (Policy No. 04M5A0426174, Forms GL-89 CA 4.0, GL-66 CA 1.0, BGL-11 4.0, effective June 25, 2016–June 25, 2019) state: "Any dispute...must be submitted to the American Arbitration Association; "Any dispute...must be submitted to the American Arbitration Association. Arbitration agreement indicated that its application for all disputes to be settled by binding arbitration. Language contained in the arbitration provision is sufficiently broad to bar all of parties claims in the federal jurisdiction (Martin Marietta Aluminum, Inc. v. General Electric Co., 586 F.2d 143(9th Cir.1978)). "Any" is a general term, and where a provision for arbitration is in general terms, the contract will be properly construed as including any dispute between the parties growing out of the contract and its performance (Morris v. Zuckerman, 257 Cal.App.2d 91, 94 (Cal. Ct. App. 1967)). Interpretation of an insurance policy is a question of law (California Specialty Insulation, Inc. v. Allied World Surplus Lines Ins. Co. (2024) 102 Cal.App.5th 1.) and "[a] question of law is not subject to the doctrine of forfeiture."

DOJ-RLC Comment-001932

With irrefutable evidence, including traceable judicial proceedings and the valid arbitration agreement, Petitioner submitted the matter to the American Arbitration Association and petitioned the California state courts to compel Respondent to arbitrate the escalated controversy. Despite well-known jurisdictional defects in the 2021 federal declaratory judgment, and Respondent also obtained the narrow interpretation of the insurance contract, which restricts Petitioner's ability to post online reviews in violation of consumer protection statutes (15 U.S.C. § 45b(1)(A) "a provision of a form contract is void from the inception of such contract if such provision-- (A) prohibits or restricts the ability of an individual who is a party to the form contract to engage in a covered communication"; CA Civil Code § 1670.8 ("Yelp Law")).

Respondent and its agents knew or should have known that such restrictions violate state and federal consumer protection laws, which are non-waivable. Consumer's right to bring a claim under consumer protections statute is not waivable (civil penalties available from $2,500 up to $10,000, CA Civil Code § 1670.8, "(b) Any waiver of the provisions of this section is contrary to public policy, and is void and unenforceable."; CA Civil Code § 1751 ("the Consumers Legal Remedies Act") "Any waiver by a consumer of the provisions of this title is contrary to public policy and shall be unenforceable and void."; 15 USC § 45(b) – this statute does not explicitly or implicitly withdraw from arbitrator's purview the contracts restricting customers reviews).

Accordingly, the Respondent trapped itself within federal jurisdiction. It did so by: (1) disregarding judicially noticeable evidence of violated arbitration agreements; (2) obtaining a jurisdictionally defective declaratory judgment; and (3) securing an unenforceable, ultra-narrow interpretation of the insurance contract. This interpretation improperly limited the Petitioner's ability to post reviews while he was exercising his statutory duties, responsibilities, obligations, and discretion under CA Corp. Code §§ 9240, 9241, and 9247 (the state statutes governing the management of religious non-profit corporations).

The Petitioner therefore argues that these actions—far from settling the controversy — escalated the dispute, thereby expanding the Petitioner's grounds for recovery on tortious, statutory, and contractual theories before the arbitrators.

II. State Courts Applied Issue Preclusion to Deny Arbitration, Ignoring Equitable Estoppel (2023–2025).

Two conflicting legal perspectives emerged in the state court proceedings: Respondent treated prior proceedings as judicially noticeable evidence supporting arbitration enforcement via equitable estoppel, while the state courts applied issue preclusion based on the federal declaratory judgment to deny arbitration, raising an unresolved question of law: whether doctrine of preclusion overrides equitable estoppel under the Federal Arbitration Act (FAA), 9 U.S.C. § 1 et seq. The relationship of the transaction (Indiana insurer and California insured) is sufficient to determine that parties' agreement relates to interstate or foreign commerce and FAA is governing law on substantial rights of parties, Mangum v. Ross Dress for Less, Inc. (E.D.N.C. 2025) 777 F. Supp. 3d 519, 532. (1) Party seeking arbitration needs to show only that a valid agreement to arbitrate exists and indicate whether the agreement encompasses the dispute at issue. (Chiron Corp. v. Ortho Diagnostic Sys., Inc., 207 F.3d 1126, 1130 (9th Cir. 2000)). Petitioner met these threshold requirements (See the copies of Petition to compel arbitration and contract in the state reviewing court records in in AA026-AA027 & AA049-AA051).

Petitioner presented to the lower courts excerpts of contract authored by Respondent (I AA026 - "Any dispute...must be submitted to the American Arbitration Association); IAA027 "Any dispute...must be submitted to the American Arbitration Association)"). The entire contract exceeds 300 pages.

The entire arbitration clause contained in the insurance contract can be presented in the form of argument, wherein:

Major Premise (Subject(s)):

Any dispute between us and any covered person

Minor Premise (Object(s)):

regarding the existence or application of coverage under the terms of this endorsement

Conclusion (Action):

must be submitted to the AAA.

The arbitration clause leads to broad and narrow interpretations (for example, "any dispute" may encompas contract, tort or other claims, Maynard v. BTI Group, Inc., 216 Cal.App.4th 984, 993 (Cal. Ct. App. 2013); ""any dispute ... refers to the type of dispute in controversy not the period of time the agreement operates.", Reigelsperger v. Siller (2005) 125 Cal.App.4th 1008).

Five reasonable interpretations support the conclusion that arbitration is required (See the full discussion through the meanings of English words in denied Request for judicial notice, fn. at App.C,5a). The language of arbitration contract creates reasonable expectations that parties must resolve the dispute via arbitration. (Yahoo Inc. v. National Union Fire Ins. Co. etc. (2022) 14 Cal.5th 58 [301 Cal.Rptr.3d 1, 519 P.3d 992] – language of the contract creating reasonable expectations of performance must be resolved against the drafter.) Moreover, exploring the ambiguity of the contract language, "the meaning of the word or phrase must be considered in light of its context," Id. An ambiguity exists when a policy provision is capable of two or more constructions, both of which are reasonable. (Royal Indem. Co. v. Rolofson (1989) 213 Cal.App.3d 373 [261 Cal.Rptr. 720].) The courts construe the ambiguity against the drafted of arbitration agreement (Mondragon v. Sunrun Inc. (2024) 101 Cal.App.5th 592). In RN Solution, Inc. v. Catholic Healthcare West (2008) 165 Cal.App.4th 1511, reviewing court concluded that the trial court lacked discretion under Code Civ. Proc. § 1280 et seq. to deny arbitration of causes of action covered by the arbitration clause, even on interrelated contract, business, and personal injury claims.

Furthermore, the federal declaratory judgment creates sufficient conditions per se for equitable estoppel because: (1) Respondent relies on the insurance contract, which includes the arbitration clause, to obtain the judgment; (2) the dispute between Petitioner (non-signatory) and Respondent (signatory) is substantially intertwined with the contract; and (3) it is unfair for Respondent to rely on the contract's interpretation to avoid coverage while disclaiming its arbitration obligation (Arthur Andersen LLP v. Carlisle, 556 U.S. 624 (2009) (non-signatories may enforce arbitration under state contract law principles like equitable estoppel); GE Energy Power Conversion France SAS v. Outokumpu Stainless USA, LLC, 590 U.S. 432 (2020) (equitable estoppel applies to intertwined disputes)). Respondent consistently relies on the insurance contract to assert claims against Petitioner, yet seeks to evade its embedded arbitration clause (Apps.B–D, Hyundai Amco America, Inc. v. S3H, Inc. (2014) 242 Cal.4th 572, 574, 576-578. - if the responding party has filed suit, that establishes the refusal to arbitrate).

It appears that the California Court of Appeal, Fourth District, Division 2 (CDA 4/2), and the state trial court improperly relied on the federal judgment as both premise and conclusion, engaging in circular reasoning that lacks independent legal analysis (App.C). CDA 4/2 stated:

1. Premise: "the federal court's entry of judgment was a final adjudication.," at 8a.

2. Conclusion: "because the federal court had already determined that Vinkov's actions are not covered by the church's insurance policy, which means he cannot invoke the arbitration clause," at 7a).

This reasoning commits a logical fallacy by assuming the judgment's validity without scrutiny and presents a false dilemma by framing the issue as a binary choice between enforcing the federal judgment and arbitration. The state courts ignored the arbitration clause's severability (Buckeye Check Cashing, Inc. v. Cardegna, 546 U.S. 440 (2006)). CDA 4/2 failed to recognize that the federal court's ruling is non-enforceable due to jurisdictional defects, procedural irregularities, conflicts with public policy or other substantive flaws timely objected and preserved on the records. The assigned panel failed to consider that the dispute over the duty to defend itself is arbitrable under the policy's arbitration clause, assessment of preclusive effects must be on the shoulder of the arbitration providers, not the courts. The federal court's ruling on a single coverage issue, while leaving unaddressed other potential sources of coverage under the multi-peril contract, impermissibly extended the legal effect of that declaratory judgment. This extension improperly influences the separate proceedings to enforce the arbitration clause from the same instrument.

Consequently, the lower court's reasoning commits the fallacy of affirming the consequent. It incorrectly presumes that the absence of a duty to defend under one theory (provision) necessarily precludes Vinkov's statutory right to enforce arbitration for the entire dispute and other potentially applicable provisions of the same contract. (FAA&CAA).

Accordingly, this Court should review the correctness of application of the doctrine of preclusion overriding equitable estoppel in enforcing arbitration under the Federal Arbitration Act, 9 U.S.C. § 1 et seq.

SUMMARY OF ARGUMENTS

Petitioner asserts that erroneous rulings by the California state courts, coupled with conflicting applications of the doctrine of issue preclusion among lower courts, prejudiced his statutory right to compel arbitration under the Federal Arbitration Act (FAA), 9 U.S.C. § 1 et seq., preventing resolution of an escalated insurance controversy during the federal litigation through arbitration. The following prima facies errors warrant this Court's review:

~ Erroneous Application of Issue Preclusion: The California courts' reliance on issue preclusion, based on a prior federal coverage ruling (Apps.B-D), improperly deprived Petitioner of his arbitration rights. This misapplication ignored Buckeye Check Cashing, Inc. v. Cardegna, 546 U.S. 440 (2006), which holds that arbitration clauses are severable and must be enforced unless the clause itself is challenged, not the underlying contract or proceedings. The courts' failure to enforce the arbitration clause prejudiced Petitioner's statutory rights under the FAA.

~ Failure to Limit Review to Arbitration Clause Validity: The California courts erred by addressing the insurance policy's coverage dispute rather than the arbitration clause's validity, contravening Prima Paint Corp. v. Flood & Conklin Mfg. Co., 388 U.S. 395 (1967). This Court held that judicial review is limited to the arbitration agreement's validity, leaving substantive contract disputes to arbitrators. By focusing on coverage issues (Apps.B-D), the courts improperly denied Petitioner's right to arbitrate the escalated controversy.

~ Violation of FAA Preemption: The California courts' application of issue preclusion to block arbitration violated AT&T Mobility LLC v. Concepcion, 563 U.S. 333 (2011), which holds that the FAA preempts state laws or doctrines that disproportionately burden arbitration agreements. This error prejudiced Petitioner's federal statutory rights under the FAA, undermining the federal policy favoring arbitration.

These errors, compounded by a split in authorities on the interplay between issue preclusion and equitable estoppel in arbitration enforcement, require this Court's intervention.

REVIEW SHOULD BE GRANTED

I. The Challenged Decision Is Wrong as a Matter of Law and Should Not Stand

"Lower court judges may sometimes disagree with this Court's decisions, but they are never free to defy them...[W]hen this Court issues a decision, it constitutes a precedent that commands respect in lower courts." (National Institutes of Health v. American Public Health Assn., 606 U. S. ____ (2025), GORSUCH, J., slip at 1-2). The California state courts' erroneous application of issue preclusion to deny enforcement of Petitioner's arbitration rights under the FAA, 9 U.S.C. § 1 et seq., defies this Court's precedents and warrants review.

a. Application of Issue Preclusion to the Declaratory Judgment Improperly Extends Relief Beyond Respondent's Request in Arbitration Enforcement Action

The four essential elements to decide if issue preclusion applies are: 1) the former judgment must be valid and final; 2) the same issue is being brought; 3) the issue is essential to the judgement; 4) the issue was actually litigated (Little v. Blue Goose Motor Coach Co., 346 Ill. 266 (1931)). Declaratory Judgment is full of defects (See Petition 22-1032, constitutional restraints of federal officials to interfere with a matter of religion make Respondent's claims not justiciable under Article III jurisprudence, Medimmune, Inc. v. Genentech, 549 U.S. 118, 127, 127 S. Ct. 764, 166 L. Ed. 2d 604 (2007)). Furthermore, Declaratory Judgment proceedings and Enforcement of Arbitration do not share a "common nucleus of operative facts," which makes issues of preclusion is not applicable to the action of enforcement of arbitration rights (Lucky Brand Dungarees, Inc. v. Marcel Fashions Group, Inc., 590 U.S. 556 (2020)). By applying issue preclusion to block Petitioner's rights to compel arbitration, the California state courts impermissibly extended the scope of the declaratory judgment beyond Respondent's original request. This procedural maneuver frustrates the FAA's purpose and Petitioner's federal statutory rights, supports the finding of judicial hostility to arbitration among the state judges and justices (Apps.B-D). This loophole impermissibly broadens the scope of the declaratory judgment the Respondent received in 2021. Intervention by this Court could terminate this procedural maneuver for the parties and enforce the rule of law between them and the lower courts.

Moreover, this Court's precedents establish that arbitration clauses are severable and must be enforced unless the clause itself is challenged, not the underlying contract or related proceedings (Buckeye Check Cashing, Inc. v. Cardegna, 546 U.S. 440 (2006)). The Supremacy Clause, U.S. Const. art. VI, cl. 2, further precludes state courts from applying issue preclusion to block arbitration, as the FAA preempts state laws or doctrines that disproportionately burden arbitration agreements (AT&T Mobility LLC v. Concepcion, 563 U.S. 333 (2011)). The California courts' erroneous rulings defy these controlling precedents, warranting this Court's intervention to enforce the rule of law and protect Petitioner's arbitration rights.

b. No Grounds Exist for Revocation of the Contract.

The California court's application of issue preclusion based on a federal court's ruling that Petitioner's actions were not covered under the insurance policy (Apps.C-D) improperly conflated coverage with arbitrability. The lower court's preclusion error was prejudicial because it nullified Petitioner's statutory right to arbitrate disputes over coverage and consumer protection claims. Records show no grounds exist for revocation of the contract.

The Federal Arbitration Act, 9 U.S.C. § 1 et seq., establishes a strong federal policy favoring arbitration, requiring courts to enforce arbitration agreements unless grounds exist for revocation of the contract itself. See Southland Corp. v. Keating, 465 U.S. 1, 10 (1984); Moses H. Cone Mem'l Hosp. v. Mercury Constr. Corp., 460 U.S. 1, 24 (1983). This Court has consistently held that arbitration clauses are severable from the underlying contract, and disputes over the contract's validity or scope do not preclude enforcement of the arbitration clause. See

Buckeye Check Cashing, Inc. v. Cardegna, 546 U.S. 440, 445–46 (2006); Prima Paint Corp. v. Flood & Conklin Mfg. Co., 388 U.S. 395, 403–04 (1967).

The California Court of Appeal's decision contravenes these principles by applying issue preclusion to bar enforcement of the arbitration clause based on a federal court's ruling on insurance coverage. The federal court determined that Petitioner's actions were not covered by the policy but did not address the arbitrability of the dispute or the enforceability of the arbitration clause. By treating the coverage determination as preclusive of arbitration, the state court effectively nullified the severability doctrine, undermining the FAA's mandate to enforce arbitration agreements independently of substantive contract disputes.

This Court should grant review to clarify how issue preclusion may override equitable estoppel to enforce arbitration when the prior ruling does not address the arbitration clause's validity or applicability. The arbitration clause in Respondent's policy explicitly covers "[a]ny dispute" regarding coverage, and there is no evidence that the parties intended to exclude disputes over the duty to defend. The state court's decision creates a conflict with federal law, warranting this Court's intervention to ensure uniform application of the FAA.

c. The Decision Below Undermines the Supremacy Clause by Allowing State Courts to Circumvent Federal Arbitration Law

The Supremacy Clause, U.S. Const., art. VI, cl. 2, mandates that federal law, including the FAA, preempts conflicting state laws or judicial decisions that hinder arbitration. See AT&T Mobility LLC v. Concepcion, 563 U.S. 333, 341 (2011). The California

DOJ-RLC Comment-001942

Court of Appeal's reliance on issue preclusion to deny arbitration effectively imposes a state-law barrier to enforcing a valid arbitration agreement, contravening the FAA's preemptive scope. This Court has invalidated state laws and decisions that restrict arbitration, emphasizing that such restrictions violate the Supremacy Clause. Id.

The FAA creates a substantive federal right to enforce arbitration agreements, preempting state laws or judicial decisions that undermine arbitration, under the Supremacy Clause (U.S. Const., art. VI, cl. 2, Southland Corp. v. Keating, 465 U.S. 1 (1984))

This Court's review is necessary to resolve the tension between state court applications of preclusion and the federal policy favoring arbitration, ensuring that state courts do not undermine the FAA through procedural judicial doctrines.

II. The Case Presents an Important Question of Federal Law with Broad Implications for Arbitration Rights.

This case offers a critical opportunity to address a recurring issue in arbitration law: the use of judicial rules to evade arbitration agreements[1]. "The text of the FAA makes clear that courts are not to create arbitration-specific procedural rules"(Morgan v. Sundance, Inc., 142 S. Ct. 1708 (2022), slip at 7). Lower courts, both state and federal, frequently grapple with the interplay between preclusion doctrines and arbitration enforcement, particularly in insurance and consumer protection contexts. The California Court of Appeal's decision exacerbates this confusion by allowing a coverage determination to preclude arbitration, despite the severability of arbitration clauses under Buckeye, 546 U.S. at 445. Prioritizes FAA policy; substantive rulings (e.g., coverage) do not bar arbitration absent clause-specific preclusion, with arbitrators handling merits estoppel (Howsam v. Dean Witter Reynolds, Inc., 537 U.S. 79 (2002). "[W]hen the parties' contract delegates the arbitrability question to an arbitrator, a court may not override the contract, even if the court thinks that the arbitrability claim is wholly groundless" (Henry Schein, Inc. v. Archer & White Sales, Inc., 586 U.S. (Jan 8, 2019)).

[1] Due to word limits, the Petitioner does not recount the well-known split of authority among the States and Circuits on the jurisdictional issues, which stems from First Amendment jurisprudence and has been presented to this Court in previous proceedings. See, e.g., Petitions in Vinkov v. Brotherhood Mutual Ins. Co., No. 22-1032, and Bethesda Univ. v. Cho, No. 24-530. If the petition is granted, he can recap the additional circuit split on this matter in his merits brief. This is necessary because applying res judicata requires the reviewing court to assess whether the prior court had jurisdiction.

The question presented has significant implications for consumers, volunteers, and religious organizations, who rely on arbitration to resolve disputes efficiently and avoid costly litigation. Petitioner, a volunteer director of a religious corporation, was denied arbitration based on a federal ruling that did not address the arbitration clause's enforceability. This ruling not only deprives him of his contractual right to arbitrate but also undermines public policy favoring arbitration as a means to resolve disputes outside the courts, particularly those involving sensitive religious or consumer issues.

Granting certiorari will allow this Court to reaffirm the primacy of arbitration agreements under the FAA and clarify the role of preclusion doctrines in arbitration enforcement, providing guidance to lower courts and protecting the rights of parties to arbitration agreements nationwide.

The application of collateral estoppel to bar arbitration enforcement is a contentious issue, with divergent approaches among federal circuit courts and state courts. The key question is whether a prior judicial determination on merits (e.g., insurance coverage) precludes enforcement of a severable arbitration clause. The FAA does not have a clear answer and everything depends on the judicial forum and appellate panel's judicial attitudes. Petitioner found that application of collateral estoppel and equitable estoppel depends on the offset of the specific procedural history of controversy and factual background. However, this case presents the opportunity to review how equitable doctrines work in the light of the enforceability of arbitration rights. Petitioner suggests that there can be several approaches in evaluation of arbitration rights of parties[2].

The restrictive approach, adopted by the 7th, 9th, Circuit, and Illinois, risks conflict with the FAA by permitting the indirect invalidation of arbitration clauses, thereby favoring judicial resolution. In contrast, the liberal approach of the 5th, 2nd, 1st, and 11th Circuits, along with Texas, New York, and Arizona, upholds severability but may lead to duplicative arbitration proceedings. Equitable estoppel serves as a bridge between these positions: liberal circuits apply it broadly to compel arbitration, while restrictive circuits apply it narrowly to preclude arbitration.

[2] The Petitioner's earlier application for an extension of time wrongly cited Wolf v. Langemeier, No. 2:09-CV-03086-GEB-EFB, and Engel v. Novex Biotech LLC, No. 14-CV-03457-MEJ, 2015 WL 846777 (N.D. Cal. Feb. 25, 2015), aff'd, 689 F. App'x 510 (9th Cir. 2017), as indicative of Ninth Circuit practice on preclusion and collateral estoppel.

d. Restrictive Approach: 7th/9th/CA/IL

In Vinkov v. Brotherhood Mutual Insurance Company (Cal. Ct. App. 2025, No. E082818), the California Court of Appeal applied issue preclusion to bar arbitration, holding that a federal court's ruling on insurance coverage (no duty to defend) precluded enforcing the policy's arbitration clause. Disregarding circumstances that Party who obtained the favorable from the judgment in fact escaped arbitration. This aligns with the Ninth Circuit's tendency to allow application of equitable estoppel to limit arbitration when a prior ruling resolves a related issue, even if arbitrability was not litigated.

• Kramer v. Toyota Motor Corp., 705 F.3d 1122 (9th Cir. 2013) (finding of waiver); another case is Mundi v. Union Sec. Ins. Co., 555 F.3d 1042 (9th Cir. 2009) (claims found not "intertwined with the contract providing for arbitration")). Reviewing courts provides the wide discretions for denial of arbitration to the trial court. In one case, 9th Circuit denied to apply preclusion due to reasoning that "[i]ssue preclusion does not apply if "'the party sought to be precluded. . . did not have an adequate opportunity or incentive to obtain a full and fair adjudication in the initial action. (Johnson v. Lowe's Home Ctrs., LLC (9th Cir. 2024) 93 F.4th 459, 467.) (state law controls)).

• In Illinois jurisdiction (e.g., Pine Top Receivables of Ill., LLC v. Transfercom, Ltd., 2017 IL App (1st) 161781 (Ill. App., 2017).), reviewing court affirmed denial of motion to compel arbitration on collateral estoppel grounds after prior coverage ruling.

• The Seventh Circuit affirmed the district court's denial of Uber's motion to compel arbitration as to Zurek's claims, based on the doctrine of issue preclusion. Agha v. Uber Techs., Inc. (7th Cir. Aug. 26, 2025, No. 24-1749) 2025 U.S. App. LEXIS 21854. At the same time, another panel of 7th Cir. states that the US Supreme Court guides "that arbitrators presumptively decide procedural issues that grow out of an arbitrable dispute." (Nat'l Cas. Co. v. Cont'l Ins. Co. (7th Cir. 2024) 121 F.4th 1151, 1152. - the preclusive effect of prior arbitral awards is an issue for the arbitrator to decide, not the federal court.)

These courts permit collateral estoppel or equitable estoppel to bar arbitration when a prior judgment resolves key substantive issues (e.g., coverage matter), even if arbitrability or breach of arbitration agreement was unlitigated, treating clauses as non-severable in context. This approach treats arbitration clauses as non-severable when a prior ruling negates the contract's substantive obligations, conflicting with the FAA's severability doctrine (Buckeye Check Cashing, Inc. v. Cardegna, 546 U.S. 440 (2006)).

e. Liberal Approach: 5th/2nd/TX/AZ/NY

These jurisdictions enforce severability strictly, barring collateral estoppel unless arbitrability was litigated. Prior coverage rulings do not preclude arbitration; arbitrators decide merits preclusion. Equitable estoppel compels arbitration for intertwined nonsignatory claims.

- Halliburton Energy Servs., Inc. v. Ironshore Specialty Ins. Co., 921 F.3d 522 (5th Cir. 2019): Prior coverage suit (duty to indemnify) did not preclude compelling arbitration of related disputes; arbitrability unlitigated, so no estoppel. Equitable estoppel applied against nonsignatory.
- Grigson v. Creative Artists Agency, LLC, 210 F.3d 524 (5th Cir. 2000): Equitable estoppel compelled signatory to arbitrate against nonsignatories for intertwined tort claims; prior rulings on clause validity precluded evasion.
- National Union Fire Ins. Co. v. Belco Petroleum Corp., 88 F.3d 129 (2d Cir. 1996): Prior coverage ruling did not bar arbitration; severability under

Prima Paint (388 U.S. 395 (1967)) preserved clause independently. Arbitrators assess prior judgments' merits effect. See also Citigroup, Inc. v. Abu Dhabi Inv. Auth. (2d Cir. 2015) 776 F.3d 126, 127. - arbitrators, not the federal courts, ordinarily determined the claim preclusive effect of a federal judgment.

• American Ins. Co. v. Messinger, 43 N.Y.2d 184 (1977): New York Court of Appeals enforced arbitration post-coverage litigation; clause language mandated it, and estoppel inapplicable absent arbitrability ruling.

• In re Vesta Ins. Grp., Inc., 192 S.W.3d 759, 761-62) (per curiam): Texas Supreme Court enforced arbitration per FAA (direct-benefits estoppel resolved).

• The parties explicitly agreed to resolve all disputes arising out of appellant's employment through arbitration, including whether the current lawsuit was barred by claim preclusion.

• Gray v. GC Servs., LP (Ct.App. 2023) 256 Ariz. 480, 482 [540 P.3d 1240, 1242]. The parties explicitly agreed to resolve all disputes arising out of appellant's employment through arbitration, including whether the current lawsuit was barred by claim preclusion.

CONCLUSION

This Court has the opportunity to restore Petitioner's statutory right to enforce arbitration by granting review of the application of equitable doctrines to statutory and constitutional law. The Court should grant the Petition.

Dear Ms. Mary Margaret Bush,
I hope this email finds you well. My name is Dr. Shannon Kroner, and I am a California mother and long-time advocate for religious liberty, particularly as it intersects with parental rights and vaccine choice. Since 2015, I have actively opposed restrictive vaccine legislation in California to preserve the freedom of vaccine choice. In fact, prior to the removal of religious/personal belief exemptions in CA, my doctoral dissertation, completed in 2013, focused on vaccine choice.

I serve as the Executive Director of Freedom of Religion - United Solutions (FOR-US), a 2019 nonprofit coalition of faith leaders from diverse backgrounds dedicated to protecting the religious freedom of vaccine choice under the First Amendment. Our work unites religious voices to safeguard conscience rights against mandates that infringe on sincerely held beliefs. I am writing to express my interest in speaking at the Religious Liberty Commission's hearing scheduled for March 16, 2026. My experience as a parent, activist, public speaker, and coalition leader would allow me to provide valuable testimony on how vaccine-related policies can threaten religious liberty, parental rights, and the free exercise of faith in everyday American life.

Additionally, I will be attending the National Prayer Breakfast on February 5, 2026, and participating in the International Religious Freedom Roundtable. I would be honored to connect with faith leaders during these events to encourage their attendance and engagement at the March hearing. Chairman Patrick and Mary Margaret --

I would respectfully encourage you to consider Ambassador Sam Brownback to testify at the Religious Liberty Commission's February 9 hearing when you examine religious liberty in the private sector. While you both have experience with the National Council for Religious Freedom, Ambassador Brownback also serves as chairman of our c4, the National Committee for Religious Freedom, which was debanked by Chase in 2022.

Although this happened almost four years ago, we believe we continue to be one of the more high profile cases of debanking. Just last week the Ambassador appeared on GB News in the UK to discuss our experience and he is regularly quoted and referenced in the US media for debanking stories. Here are links to just a few of the interviews or columns Ambassador Brownback has done in just the past 12 months on this topic:

Fox Business (Video) - August 5, 2025
New York Post Opinion Column - March 11, 2025
Christian Post - January 24, 2025

Despite their assertions to the contrary, we still don't know why Chase debanked us. They gave us not one reason for it but, since it happened and we began pushing for answers, we received six different reasons. Some of these were similar but not the same and some were completely different. We like to stress that if an organization led by a former US Senator, governor and ambassador can be debanked, it can happen to anyone. Debanking is a part of the much larger problem of deplatforming, none of which should be happening in America. We welcome your examination of this important issue.

I am happy to answer any questions you might have. We have carefully documented everything that we have experienced. Rather than inundate you with a large .pdf file, please find attached a timeline of our debanking experience.

Thanks,
Matt

#ChasedAway Campaign

Timeline with Chase Bank and the NCRF

- The National Committee for Religious Freedom, a bipartisan, multi-faith nonprofit that advocates for religious freedom for all Americans opened our business checking account with Chase Bank on Friday, April 15, 2022.

- Three weeks later, Chase Bank sent a letter dated May 6, 2022, notifying us that they had decided to "end their relationship" with the NCRF effective May 9. We only found out the account was closed on May 19 when trying to make a deposit. The May 6 letter was received the following week. This account was closed without any written request for information. A check closing out the account was received on May 25.

- When contacted, Chase described the decision to close the account as one coming from the corporate office. It was initially explained that the decision was final and non-revocable. A note in the file read that Chase employees were not permitted to provide any further clarifying information to the customer.

- Finally, after multiple requests for information (including multiple calls in May, three on June 1 and again on June 8) a member of the executive office at Chase in New York stated on June 8 that Chase would reconsider providing the NCRF disclosed all donors, provide a list of intended fund recipients for the next election cycle, and the full details of how the NCRF would select pro-religious freedom candidates to support.

- After inquiries from the press, in October 2022 a JP Morgan Chase spokesperson described our version of the events as "patently false" to the Daily Caller. However, the recording of the June 8 call and its transcript were made available to journalists.

- Chase then contacted the NCRF through a former Senate staffer of Ambassador Brownback who arranged for a formal written explanation to be sent. The NCRF was assured that asking for a major donor list was standard operating practice for all of Chase's 50,000+ faith based non profits and the decision to terminate our account was in no way related to our religious or political views. It is worth noting that at this point, the NCRF had never suggested that there was a political motive at work.

- On October 21 Chase Bank sent a letter stating that something Ambassador Brownback or NCRF Executive Director Justin Murff said at the account opening triggered a money laundering and domestic terrorism investigation. When pressed for information on what was said to trigger such an investigation and when asked why the NCRF was not given the standard 60 days to provide information or written explanations, Chase once again changed their explanation.

- On multiple occasions the NCRF has asked to speak with the responsible Chase senior executive but Chase CCO Patricia Wexler stated in an email on November 9 with the NCRF and the Wall Street Journal, that Chase wanted to avoid a phone call on the record.

- In that same November 9 email, Chase stated that the account was closed because of a heightened customer risk profile triggered by the involvement of Ambassador Brownback because Chase designated him as a "'Politically Exposed Person' given his recent roles as Senator and U.S. Ambassador." However, this designation, according to Federal banking guidance, DOES NOT apply to US elected officials, only foreign nationals.

- In response to a shareholder question at the JPMorgan Chase annual shareholder meeting on May 16, 2023, CEO Jamie Dimon said, "No apologies are necessary and no corrective action is necessary." This marks yet another about-face by Chase. In the October 21 letter, Chase apologized for our experience and, in the November 9 email, Patricia Wexler at Chase wrote, "We're not proud of how we handled communicating with this client about what we needed from them, have apologized verbally and in writing, and are using this example to improve our processes in a number of areas that made this unnecessarily painful for the client."

Despite Chase representatives repeatedly telling reporters that the Bank does not comment on customer accounts, Dimon decided that policy does not apply to the CEO and said, "In this particular case, an account was closed because they didn't fill out all the forms we asked them for." This is patently false because the account was closed just three weeks after opening and without any request for additional customer information.

- Chase CEO Jamie Dimon and other big bank CEO's met with Republican members of the Senate Banking Committee on February 13, 2025. After that meeting Dimon told members of the media, "We don't debank people because of political or religious affiliations, but there are a lot of things that can be fixed. We should fix them. The rules and requirements are so onerous, and it does cause people to be debanked, in my opinion, who should not be debanked."

After contending for years that no one was being debanked, Dimon admitted it was happening but blamed bank regulators. There was no specific reference to the NCRF.

- On March 5, 2025, in return for the withdrawal of a shareholder proposal at its May annual meeting, Chase Bank agreed to amend its Code of Conduct to prevent future discrimination on the basis of religious or political views. First, "religious views" are now on its list of protected characteristics in its Diversity and Inclusion policy.

More importantly, the Code of Conduct now specifically prohibits “conduct against employees, customers, suppliers or contractors, or any other individual who conduct business or seek to do business with our firm based on race, color, ethnicity, religion, religious affiliation, or religious views, national origin or ancestry, gender, military status, disability, martial or familial status, political opinions, speech or affiliations, age, or any status protected under applicable local law.”

It should be noted that this new language would not have prevented past cases of debanking which Chase always contended were not due to religious or political viewpoints.

- Thus far, Chase Bank has given five different explanations for why the NCRF account was closed:

- May 19, 2022 - The account is closed and, per instructions from the corporate office, branch employees are not permitted to provide any clarifying information to the customer. (In-Person Conversation)

- June 8, 2022 - Chase Bank needed additional information from the NCRF and the organization failed to provide the requested information within 60 days even though the account was closed within three weeks of opening. (Phone Call)

- October 21, 2022 - Chase Bank required additional information from the NCRF to comply with anti-money laundering and terrorist finance laws under the Bank Secrecy Act. (Letter)

- November 9, 2022 - Chase Bank designated Ambassador Brownback a “Politically Exposed Person (PEP)” because he was a Senator eleven years prior and an ambassador at large fifteen months earlier. As such, the NCRF had a customer risk profile that required additional information be provided. It should be noted that, per an August 2020 joint statement, US banking regulators “do not interpret the term ‘politically exposed persons’ to include U.S. public officials.” (E-Mail)

- May 16, 2023 – At the annual shareholder meeting, JP Morgan Chase CEO Jamie Dimon said, “In this particular case, an account was closed because they didn’t fill out all the forms we asked them for.” This is patently false because the account was closed just three weeks after opening and without any request for additional customer information. Dear Sir/Madam,

I am sharing a concise Reconciliation Program developed as a non-political, non-religious moral framework to address global division and violence.

I kindly urge you not only to review, but to help bring this Reconciliation Program into practice.
War, genocide, racism , mob Lynch, crime, rape, accidents, and terrorist attacks are no longer two-day headlines.

They have become a permanent reality — and our generation will suffer deeply if we do not stand today.
This program does not place responsibility on governments alone.
It calls every individual on the planet to act before hatred and extremism occupy the minds of our children, before dictators turn this blue planet red with blood, and before events spiral beyond control.

The Last Chance for the Blue Planet is not literature meant to comfort hearts.
It is meant to make us feel the pain — and react.

Dear Madam/Sir,
Hope you are doing well.

Pardon me, I need your vital help and I hope you rescue me from the painful predicament I'm stuck in.

My name is "Mosayeb Dashtpeyma" from Iran.
I am not only "a member of a religious minority in Iran" (Magi Religion), but I am also "a member of an ethnic minority in Iran" (Talesh/Talysh Ethnicity).
I am a member of a religion and an ethnicity that the world has forgotten.
Currently, I am the only person in the world who, like my ancestors, is both Talesh/Talysh and Magus.

My "Religious Minority Document" and "Ethnic Minority Document", in form of the PDF files, are attached. I prepared and sent these documents to the U.S. Embassy in Yerevan, Armenia. These documents are confidential. Hence, if these documents are revealed, my life will be in danger.

My dream is dying.
I was admitted to a PhD program in the field of Civil Engineering at the Texas A&M University for the Fall 2024 and Spring 2025. I was interviewed on the 12th November 2024 at the U.S. Embassy in Yerevan, Armenia. Because I am a religious minority and ethnic minority in Iran, I am therefore eligible to get my visa and be exempt from the travel ban act. But since that date my visa application case has been undergoing administrative processing. I'm breaking down inside.
Without a valid visa, no university in the USA will admit me as an Iranian applicant. All professors and universities officially require a valid visa as a condition of admission.
The applications deadlines are approaching. I have less than a month to convince the professors and admissions committees to admit me, which is only possible with a valid approved visa.

I have endured much hardship for my beliefs and identity. My religion and ethnicity are not recognized in my country, Iran. The United States of America is the land of hope, justice, and freedom. It is very upsetting and torturous that the U.S. Embassy in Yerevan, Armenia does not recognize my religion and ethnicity either. The justice has not yet been served in my visa application case.

+ Why am I eligible for an exemption from the travel ban act:
- I am a poet.
- I am an author.
- I am a member of religious minority in Iran (Magi Religion).
- I am a member of ethnic minority in Iran (Talesh/Talysh Ethnicity).
- I am a beekeeper.
- I am an environmental activist focused on the conservation of various tree species.
- I haven't had any jobs that fit my academic field of study just because of my beliefs.
- I have not been, am not, and will not be a member of or employed by any entity that has hostile objectives, plans, or actions against the land, people, and civilization of the USA.
- I will accept and sign any official document you provide that binds and guarantees my commitment to the people, civilization, and land of the USA.
- I respect USA.
- I love USA.

As a human being, what else can I offer to prove my eligibility for an exemption from the travel ban act?

I am Magus, the one who, following the great Zoroaster, believes in "good thoughts", "good words", and "good deeds". My religion is the most peaceful religion in human history. This religion was the originator and developer of the concept of wisdom in human history.
I am Talesh/Talesh. Talesh/Talysh is an ethnic minority in Iran whose language and culture are at risk of complete annihilation. My ethnicity is not recognized in Iran and Caucasus. They want us to be destroyed.
The world has forgotten my religion (Magi Religion) and my ethnicity (Talesh/Talysh Ethnicity). As a Talesh/Talysh Magus, it's as if I don't exist at all. It is a deadly torment that I am not even recognized as a human being.
I am under pressure because of my religion and ethnicity. The Islamic regime in Iran and its proxies have fabricated a case against me within security and intelligence agencies to endanger my life. They want to eliminate me, simply because I write books about my religion, civilization, and ancestors.
I recently intended to publish my poetry book in three languages: Talesh/Talysh, English, and Persian. However, publishing houses informed me that, due to my beliefs, they could not take the risk and accept the danger of publishing it. Nevertheless, I am trying to publish my poetry book in any way possible, even at the risk of my life. I have added over 3,000 pages to one of my published book in the field of etymology of ancient words, but due to my beliefs, I cannot publish it.
I don't even have enough money to publish my books, because due to my beliefs, I cannot find a suitable job.
I have been repeatedly threatened with death by the proxies of the Islamic regime. If they find out I have converted my religion, they will execute me. One of them has previously threatened to dismember my body just because of my books.

Unlike members of other religious minorities, I have no material or spiritual support.
Please help me live in safety and achieve my own and my ancestors' aspirations.
It is very sad that the world has forgotten us.
I kindly request you to help me not to lose time and make my dreams come true.

Pursuing a degree in the USA is a resounding response to all those in Iran and Caucasus who humiliated me, mocked me, threatened me, and did not consider me even a human just because of my peaceful beliefs, my ethnicity, my books, my personality, my poor financial situation, my path of life, etc.
Getting my visa and studying in the USA is a matter of life and death for me.
Please do not allow the suppression of my thoughts, words, and deeds to continue. I am the loneliest and most suppressed religious minority and ethnic minority.

I hope that with your support and the consideration of the exceptions in travel ban act for the religious minorities and ethnic minorities, I will be able to get my visa as soon as possible.
Your contact with the U.S. Embassy in Yerevan, Armenia or any other relevant department, organization, institution, etc. regarding my situation could have a positive impact on my visa application case.
Email addresses of U.S. Embassy in Yerevan, Armenia:

- Place of Birth: Iran
- Visa Application Type: Nonimmigrant Visa (NIV) – F1
- Date of Interview: November 12, 2024

What God Wants = (Good Thoughts, Good Words, Good Deeds)

Subject: Religious Minority and a Request for Emergency and Necessary Consideration of a Document in Visa Case
To Whom It May Concern: The Embassy of United States of America in Yerevan, Armenia
The Date of My Conversion/Return to Mughan (Magi) Religion is as Follows: August, 31th, 2014

My name is Mosayeb Dashtpeyma, a member of the Talysh-Mughan (Talysh-Magi) people. Talysh-Mughan (Talysh-Magi) are the people who held a belief, the Mughan (Magi) religion, that was first established by the great Zoroaster thousands of years ago and nowadays they often live with this name in northern Iran and southern Azerbaijan. Mughan (Magi) religion is somewhat different from the religion we know today as Zoroastrianism. Mughan (Magi) religion is also related to the Mithraism-based beliefs and is specific to the Talysh-Mughan (Talysh-Magi) people. The Mughan (Magi) religion is connected to the nature. What god wants through the Mughan (Magi) religion can be summed up in three principles: "Good Thoughts", "Good Words", and "Good Deeds". The Mughan (Magi) religion is very flexible, in that it can be integrated into any culture by adhering to the three principles mentioned above. In English language and literature, Mughan is addressed as the word "Magi". The word Mughan (Magi)(in plural form) is used to address our community and its singular form is Mugh (in English language and literature, it is addressed as the word "Magus"). After the collapse of the Safavid dynasty of Iran about three hundred years ago, the Talysh-Mughan (Talysh-Magi) people were either subjected to genocide or forced migration. The result of this blatant oppression was the loss of a large part of their identity, culture, language and literature, ..., and especially their religion. Today, no one specifically and purely believes in Mughan (Magi) religion, and almost all those who were Talysh-Mughan (Talysh-Magi) a few hundred years or decades ago have converted to Islam religion. But I believed, and still believe, that the Mughan (Magi) religion, thousands of years old, can be revived, because love, truth, and purity are the foundations of its nature and existence.

In this regard, about 11 years ago, I made a fateful decision that changed the course of my life. Even though doing so, in a country with a fanatical and one-dimensional religious ideology, meant death. It is my honor, after about centuries or decades, I decided to return to the religion of my ancestors, return to the Mughan (Magi) religion. Hence, without anyone knowing, I converted my belief from "Islam religion" to "Mughan (Magi) religion", without any hesitation. Since, I did it with faith in my heart and with wisdom in my mind, so that in the very first moments I felt a sense of liberation, as if I had been released from a dark prison.

After converting the religion, I began my quest to revive the Talysh-Mughan (Talysh-Magi) civilization. The path I chose was to conduct research as well as writing books and articles. After years of efforts and enduring hardships, my first book related to the Talysh-Mughan (Talysh-Magi) civilization were published in 2022 in the scope of developing a new alphabet, set of numbers, and calendar based on Avestan manuscripts and Talysh-Mughan (Talysh-Magi) language and literature. After that, radical Muslims accused me of hiding my religious and political beliefs and published their opinions in a magazine to endanger me. In the area of identity, my name and my writings are still under suppression and censorship. In the following, with help of my enlightened friend, I was able to publish my second book in 2023 in the scope of etymology of ancient words related to the ancient Iranian and Talysh-Mughan (Talysh-Magi) civilizations. In this regard, radical Muslims who hate the great Zoroaster began to threaten me again. They mercilessly accused me of being anti-Islam, engaging in secret political activities, and being separatist, and then informed the Islamic-security organizations of the regime in Iran about them. Such accusations in Iran are punishable by death and mutilation. It is frightening that some radical Muslims threatened to tear me to pieces. This is while I only want to revive the religion of my ancestors, which was destroyed in recent centuries by repression and genocide, and I have no enmity with any religion. I am proud that I have written thousands of pages about my civilization, and the number of pages is increasing every week. But I have no hope of publishing them in Iran. I have no doubt that if I express or publish my new findings, my life will be seriously endangered. It should be emphasized that all my activities in this area are limited to conduct research as well as writing books and articles. I am committed to my Talysh-Mughan (Talysh-Magi) ancestors, I am not afraid of death, and I will continue their path of love, truth, and purity again with my wounded heart, mind, and pen. Undoubtedly, it will only be possible with your support and help. It should be noted that I hid my religious conversion from everyone for years, but recently I decided to share it with a limited number of people. Now, only my father, one of my supporters, and you know about it. I would have liked to make it public after I arrived in the United States of America, but my visa case is still in administrative processing. Hence, I still have to live in secret from an ideological perspective in Iran.

As the most powerful and respectful country in the world, the United States of America is the land of freedom of religions and beliefs, because of its reliable and admirable constitution. Now that my conditions for being in the United States of America are in place and I have the opportunity to pursue my dreams as a PhD student in that land full of peace and hope, I believe that, given the exception for religious minorities and those at risk as well as providing the documentary statement, the obstacles to getting my F1 visa approved and issued will be eliminated. Therefore, I will be able to enter the United States of America to fulfill my goals and those of my ancestors as well as continuing my activities as a multidisciplinary author, poet, and researcher on the right and good path in safety and tranquility. By doing so, you are not only saving me from serious dangers, but you are also saving a specific civilization and its associated religion, namely Mughan (Magi) religion, from the risk of complete destruction.

Subject: Ethnic Minority Document

Ethnic Minority: Talesh (Talysh) Ethnicity

My name is Mosayeb Dashtpeyma, a member of the most oppressed ethnicity that the world has forgotten, the Talesh (Talysh) ethnicity. Taleshs (Talyshs) are the people who now often live with this name in northern Iran and southern Azerbaijan. Talesh (Talysh) people lived in many areas in Asia, Europe, and Africa, but through hundreds of years of persecution, slaughter, and atrocities, the majority of them were assimilated or killed. Among the great figures of history who were Talesh (Talysh), I can mention Zoroaster the Great and Babak Khorramdin, who are symbols of wisdom, love, and freedom in history. Nowadays, there are no official statistics on the population of Talesh (Talysh) people, because the governments do not allow the truth to be revealed. For the past hundred years, despite the increase in the population of Talesh (Talysh) people, the governments of Iran and Azerbaijan have considered their population insignificant and have not recognized Talesh (Talysh) people as an independent ethnicity. Indeed, the governments and their mercenaries, through various methods that are more akin to mental and physical tortures, systematically erase the real identity of Talesh (Talysh) people and assign them fake and oppressive identities of Turk, Gilak, and so on. Many governments have been trying to destroy Talesh (Talysh) people, civilization, and land for hundreds of years, and this process is intensifying. For hundreds of years, my people have been severely subjected to organized humiliation, oppression, genocide and forced displacement. The result of this blatant process was the loss of a large part of their population, identity, culture, language and literature, antiquities, etc. It should be noted that the name of Talesh (Talysh), as name of an ethnicity, is still one of the banned names in Iran and Azerbaijan, enforced by the governments and their mercenaries. My ancestors founded the mother of civilizations and served history, but the reward they received was the greatest injustice. The world has forgotten us.

I have endured many hardships to revive Talesh (Talysh) people, civilization, and land so far, and I am constantly threatened to stop my efforts. The path I chose was to conduct research as well as writing books and articles. After years of efforts and enduring hardships and threats, my first book related to the Talesh (Talysh) civilization were published in 2022 in the scope of developing a new alphabet, set of numbers, and calendar based on Avestan manuscripts and Talesh (Talysh) language and literature. Subject: Urgent Appeal for RLC to Docket Religious Exemption Hearings in 2025

Dear Director Mary Margaret Bush and Members of the Religious Liberty Commission:

As the pastor of the First Congregational Church of Woodbury, Connecticut, I write with urgency regarding the denial of religious exemptions to childhood vaccination requirements in New York, California, Connecticut, and Maine. These policies violate the First Amendment rights of families in my congregation and beyond. In my own church, two families, including those of my parishioners [redacted] and [redacted], have been forced out of the public school system due to their Christian convictions against the vaccine schedule, rooted in 1 Corinthians 6:19-20 and 2 Corinthians 7:1.

For Elizabeth Smith and her husband, the 2021 removal of the religious exemption left them no choice but to homeschool their three school-aged children, scaling back their freelance business and incurring added expenses for curriculum and enrichment—all while knowing dozens of other families face similar hardships. Thea Alfes, a homeschooling mom and U.S. Air Force veteran, chose this path after Connecticut's abusive COVID policies closed schools and stripped away religious exemptions. While her son Richard thrives in homeschooling, free from mandated vaccines and secular ideologies, she emphasizes that many families lack the resources to choose homeschooling, leaving their children without access to equal educational opportunities.

These families face impossible choices: compromise their faith, bear the heavy burden of homeschooling, or relocate, all of which harm their children's education and well-being. Your 2025 schedule lists September and October hearings on religious liberty in education. Since children in these states are barred from public, private, and faith-based schools over their families' religious objections, will these hearings address this injustice? I can't imagine a greater threat to religious liberty in education than policies that exclude children from school entirely. With the school year approaching and significant public comments already submitted, this issue demands immediate attention.

I understand a dedicated hearing on vaccine-related matters is planned but does not appear on the 2025 schedule. Has it been delayed to 2026? If so, this is unacceptable given the ongoing harm to families. I respectfully urge the Commission to docket at least one representative from coalitions supporting these families to testify at the September and October education hearings. I also request that the dedicated vaccine hearing be docketed in 2025 to provide timely relief.

Thank you for your commitment to protecting religious liberty. I look forward to your response clarifying the timeline and opportunities to address this critical matter.

Sincerely,

The Rev. Jacob W. Dell

Subject: [EXTERNAL] URGENT: Immediate U.S. Action Needed to Stop Systematic Persecution of Christians in India
Date: Sat, 27 Dec 2025 03:47:57 -0500
Importance: Normal

Dear Sir or Madam,

I write with extreme urgency to report the escalating and systematic persecution of Christians in India. This is no longer sporadic or localized violence—it is organized, state-enabled intimidation occurring across multiple Indian states governed by the ruling Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP).

Christians are facing grave violations of fundamental human rights, including:

- Christian converts being denied burial rights, with bodies forcibly exhumed or refused burial
- Explicit threats warning Christians not to celebrate Christmas or gather for worship
- Organized mobs aligned with ruling-party interests forcibly entering churches, threatening pastors and congregations
- Police refusal to register complaints, delayed response, or open complicity

These abuses are not isolated incidents. They are part of a nationwide pattern documented by:

- U.S. Commission on International Religious Freedom (USCIRF) Annual Reports
- U.S. Department of State International Religious Freedom Reports
- Human Rights Watch and Amnesty International investigations
- United Nations Special Rapporteurs on Freedom of Religion or Belief

The world has already witnessed the consequences of delayed action. In Manipur, India, in 2023, Christians were brutally targeted—churches were burned, communities displaced, and innocent civilians were slaughtered while authorities failed to intervene in time. That violence did not erupt overnight; it followed the same warning signs now visible across many Indian states.

If decisive international pressure is not applied now, there is a serious risk that Manipur-like violence will repeat itself across multiple regions, resulting in mass bloodshed on a far larger scale.

The United States has both moral authority and strategic leverage. I respectfully urge immediate action through:

- Public condemnation of India's failure to protect religious minorities
- Diplomatic pressure tied to measurable human-rights benchmarks
- Policy tools including trade leverage, tariffs, visa restrictions, and accountability measures

I am prepared to provide comprehensive ground reports, incident logs, eyewitness testimonies, photographic evidence, and verified documentation upon request.

Silence at this moment will be interpreted as permission. Timely intervention can prevent loss of life.

Respectfully,

Solomon Tribhuwan

Creating the "Task Force to Eradicate Anti-Christian Bias" at the Department of Justice to end the anti-Christian weaponization of government and unlawful targeting of Christians

Can you tell me, Department of Justice, why our government is creating a task force to eradicate anti-Christian bias? There is the separation of Church and State in this country. It is a founding principle. Why is the Justice Dept. and by extension the US government getting involved in this?

Although it has no place in the US government, when this task force was conceived, did anyone consider protecting the rights of American citizens who practice other faiths besides Christianity? Why did you choose the protection of only Christianity?

The previous administration's Department of Justice targeted peaceful Christians while ignoring violent, anti-Christian offenses.

Can you give me examples of the Dept of Justice targeting peaceful Christians? What were they doing when they were targeted?

I am a 2nd generation American, lived in NJ all my life. When I went to school, I learned US history, civics, American law and policy.This stands in opposition to my studies.

Please respond to my email by telling me why and when the US changed its policy on the division of church and state.

Dear Madam/Sir,
Hope you are doing well.

Pardon me, I need your vital help and I hope you rescue me from the painful predicament I'm stuck in.

My name is "Mosayeb Dashtpeyma" from Iran.
I am not only "a member of a religious minority in Iran" (Magi Religion), but I am also "a member of an ethnic minority in Iran" (Talesh/Talysh Ethnicity).
I am a member of a religion and an ethnicity that the world has forgotten.
Currently, I am the only person in the world who, like my ancestors, is both Talesh/Talysh and Magus.

My "Religious Minority Document" and "Ethnic Minority Document", in form of the PDF files, are attached. I prepared and sent these documents to the U.S. Embassy in Yerevan, Armenia. These documents are confidential. Hence, if these documents are revealed, my life will be in danger.

My dream is dying.
I was admitted to a PhD program in the field of Civil Engineering at the Texas A&M University for the Fall 2024 and Spring 2025. I was interviewed on the 12th November 2024 at the U.S. Embassy in Yerevan, Armenia. Because I am a religious minority and ethnic minority in Iran, I am therefore eligible to get my visa and be exempt from the travel ban act. But since that date my visa application case has been undergoing administrative processing. I'm breaking down inside.
Without a valid visa, no university in the USA will admit me as an Iranian applicant. All professors and universities officially require a valid visa as a condition of admission.
The applications deadlines are approaching. I have less than a month to convince the professors and admissions committees to admit me, which is only possible with a valid approved visa.

I have endured much hardship for my beliefs and identity. My religion and ethnicity are not recognized in my country, Iran. The United States of America is the land of hope, justice, and freedom. It is very upsetting and torturous that the U.S. Embassy in Yerevan, Armenia does not recognize my religion and ethnicity either. The justice has not yet been served in my visa application case.

+ Why am I eligible for an exemption from the travel ban act:
- I am a poet.
- I am an author.
- I am a member of religious minority in Iran (Magi Religion).
- I am a member of ethnic minority in Iran (Talesh/Talysh Ethnicity).
- I am a beekeeper.
- I am an environmental activist focused on the conservation of various tree species.
- I haven't had any jobs that fit my academic field of study just because of my beliefs.
- I have not been, am not, and will not be a member of or employed by any entity that has hostile objectives, plans, or actions against the land, people, and civilization of the USA.
- I will accept and sign any official document you provide that binds and guarantees my commitment to the people, civilization, and land of the USA.
- I respect USA.
- I love USA.

As a human being, what else can I offer to prove my eligibility for an exemption from the travel ban act?

I am Magus, the one who, following the great Zoroaster, believes in "good thoughts", "good words", and "good deeds". My religion is the most peaceful religion in human history. This religion was the originator and developer of the concept of wisdom in human history.
I am Talesh/Talesh. Talesh/Talysh is an ethnic minority in Iran whose language and culture are at risk of complete annihilation. My ethnicity is not recognized in Iran and Caucasus. They want us to be destroyed.
The world has forgotten my religion (Magi Religion) and my ethnicity (Talesh/Talysh Ethnicity). As a Talesh/Talysh Magus, it's as if I don't exist at all. It is a deadly torment that I am not even recognized as a human being.
I am under pressure because of my religion and ethnicity. The Islamic regime in Iran and its proxies have fabricated a case against me within security and intelligence agencies to endanger my life. They want to eliminate me, simply because I write books about my religion, civilization, and ancestors.
I recently intended to publish my poetry book in three languages: Talesh/Talysh, English, and Persian. However, publishing houses informed me that, due to my beliefs, they could not take the risk and accept the danger of publishing it. Nevertheless, I am trying to publish my poetry book in any way possible, even at the risk of my life. I have added over 3,000 pages to one of my published book in the field of etymology of ancient words, but due to my beliefs, I cannot publish it.
I don't even have enough money to publish my books, because due to my beliefs, I cannot find a suitable job.
I have been repeatedly threatened with death by the proxies of the Islamic regime. If they find out I have converted my religion, they will execute me. One of them has previously threatened to dismember my body just because of my books.

Unlike members of other religious minorities, I have no material or spiritual support.
Please help me live in safety and achieve my own and my ancestors' aspirations.
It is very sad that the world has forgotten us.
I kindly request you to help me not to lose time and make my dreams come true.

Pursuing a degree in the USA is a resounding response to all those in Iran and Caucasus who humiliated me, mocked me, threatened me, and did not consider me even a human just because of my peaceful beliefs, my ethnicity, my books, my personality, my poor financial situation, my path of life, etc.
Getting my visa and studying in the USA is a matter of life and death for me.
Please do not allow the suppression of my thoughts, words, and deeds to continue. I am the loneliest and most suppressed religious minority and ethnic minority.

I hope that with your support and the consideration of the exceptions in travel ban act for the religious minorities and ethnic minorities, I will be able to get my visa as soon as possible.
Your contact with the U.S. Embassy in Yerevan, Armenia or any other relevant department, organization, institution, etc. regarding my situation could have a positive impact on my visa application case.

What God Wants = (Good Thoughts, Good Words, Good Deeds)

Subject: Religious Minority and a Request for Emergency and Necessary Consideration of a Document in Visa Case
To Whom It May Concern: The Embassy of United States of America in Yerevan, Armenia
The Date of My Conversion/Return to Mughan (Magi) Religion is as Follows: August, 31th, 2014

My name is Mosayeb Dashtpeyma, a member of the Talysh-Mughan (Talysh-Magi) people. Talysh-Mughan (Talysh-Magi) are the people who held a belief, the Mughan (Magi) religion, that was first established by the great Zoroaster thousands of years ago and nowadays they often live with this name in northern Iran and southern Azerbaijan. Mughan (Magi) religion is somewhat different from the religion we know today as Zoroastrianism. Mughan (Magi) religion is also related to the Mithraism-based beliefs and is specific to the Talysh-Mughan (Talysh-Magi) people. The Mughan (Magi) religion is connected to the nature. What god wants through the Mughan (Magi) religion can be summed up in three principles: "Good Thoughts", "Good Words", and "Good Deeds". The Mughan (Magi) religion is very flexible, in that it can be integrated into any culture by adhering to the three principles mentioned above. In English language and literature, Mughan is addressed as the word "Magi". The word Mughan (Magi)(in plural form) is used to address our community and its singular form is Mugh (in English language and literature, it is addressed as the word "Magus"). After the collapse of the Safavid dynasty of Iran about three hundred years ago, the Talysh-Mughan (Talysh-Magi) people were either subjected to genocide or forced migration. The result of this blatant oppression was the loss of a large part of their identity, culture, language and literature, ..., and especially their religion. Today, no one specifically and purely believes in Mughan (Magi) religion, and almost all those who were Talysh-Mughan (Talysh-Magi) a few hundred years or decades ago have converted to Islam religion. But I believed, and still believe, that the Mughan (Magi) religion, thousands of years old, can be revived, because love, truth, and purity are the foundations of its nature and existence.

In this regard, about 11 years ago, I made a fateful decision that changed the course of my life. Even though doing so, in a country with a fanatical and one-dimensional religious ideology, meant death. It is my honor, after about centuries or decades, I decided to return to the religion of my ancestors, return to the Mughan (Magi) religion. Hence, without anyone knowing, I converted my belief from "Islam religion" to "Mughan (Magi) religion", without any hesitation. Since, I did it with faith in my heart and with wisdom in my mind, so that in the very first moments I felt a sense of liberation, as if I had been released from a dark prison.

After converting the religion, I began my quest to revive the Talysh-Mughan (Talysh-Magi) civilization. The path I chose was to conduct research as well as writing books and articles. After years of efforts and enduring hardships, my first book related to the Talysh-Mughan (Talysh-Magi) civilization were published in 2022 in the scope of developing a new alphabet, set of numbers, and calendar based on Avestan manuscripts and Talysh-Mughan (Talysh-Magi) language and literature. After that, radical Muslims accused me of hiding my religious and political beliefs and published their opinions in a magazine to endanger me. In the area of identity, my name and my writings are still under suppression and censorship. In the following, with help of my enlightened friend, I was able to publish my second book in 2023 in the scope of etymology of ancient words related to the ancient Iranian and Talysh-Mughan (Talysh-Magi) civilizations. In this regard, radical Muslims who hate the great Zoroaster began to threaten me again. They mercilessly accused me of being anti-Islam, engaging in secret political activities, and being separatist, and then informed the Islamic-security organizations of the regime in Iran about them. Such accusations in Iran are punishable by death and mutilation. It is frightening that some radical Muslims threatened to tear me to pieces. This is while I only want to revive the religion of my ancestors, which was destroyed in recent centuries by repression and genocide, and I have no enmity with any religion. I am proud that I have written thousands of pages about my civilization, and the number of pages is increasing every week. But I have no hope of publishing them in Iran. I have no doubt that if I express or publish my new findings, my life will be seriously endangered. It should be emphasized that all my activities in this area are limited to conduct research as well as writing books and articles. I am committed to my Talysh-Mughan (Talysh-Magi) ancestors, I am not afraid of death, and I will continue their path of love, truth, and purity again with my wounded heart, mind, and pen. Undoubtedly, it will only be possible with your support and help. It should be noted that I hid my religious conversion from everyone for years, but recently I decided to share it with a limited number of people. Now, only my father, one of my supporters, and you know about it. I would have liked to make it public after I arrived in the United States of America, but my visa case is still in administrative processing. Hence, I still have to live in secret from an ideological perspective in Iran.

As the most powerful and respectful country in the world, the United States of America is the land of freedom of religions and beliefs, because of its reliable and admirable constitution. Now that my conditions for being in the United States of America are in place and I have the opportunity to pursue my dreams as a PhD student in that land full of peace and hope, I believe that, given the exception for religious minorities and those at risk as well as providing the documentary statement, the obstacles to getting my F1 visa approved and issued will be eliminated. Therefore, I will be able to enter the United States of America to fulfill my goals and those of my ancestors as well as continuing my activities as a multidisciplinary author, poet, and researcher on the right and good path in safety and tranquility. By doing so, you are not only saving me from serious dangers, but you are also saving a specific civilization and its associated religion, namely Mughan (Magi) religion, from the risk of complete destruction.

Subject: Ethnic Minority Document

Ethnic Minority: Talesh (Talysh) Ethnicity

To Whom It May Concern: The Embassy of United States of America in Yerevan, Armenia

My name is Mosayeb Dashtpeyma, a member of the most oppressed ethnicity that the world has forgotten, the Talesh (Talysh) ethnicity. Taleshs (Talyshs) are the people who now often live with this name in northern Iran and southern Azerbaijan. Talesh (Talysh) people lived in many areas in Asia, Europe, and Africa, but through hundreds of years of persecution, slaughter, and atrocities, the majority of them were assimilated or killed. Among the great figures of history who were Talesh (Talysh), I can mention Zoroaster the Great and Babak Khorramdin, who are symbols of wisdom, love, and freedom in history. Nowadays, there are no official statistics on the population of Talesh (Talysh) people, because the governments do not allow the truth to be revealed. For the past hundred years, despite the increase in the population of Talesh (Talysh) people, the governments of Iran and Azerbaijan have considered their population insignificant and have not recognized Talesh (Talysh) people as an independent ethnicity. Indeed, the governments and their mercenaries, through various methods that are more akin to mental and physical tortures, systematically erase the real identity of Talesh (Talysh) people and assign them fake and oppressive identities of Turk, Gilak, and so on. Many governments have been trying to destroy Talesh (Talysh) people, civilization, and land for hundreds of years, and this process is intensifying. For hundreds of years, my people have been severely subjected to organized humiliation, oppression, genocide and forced displacement. The result of this blatant process was the loss of a large part of their population, identity, culture, language and literature, antiquities, etc. It should be noted that the name of Talesh (Talysh), as name of an ethnicity, is still one of the banned names in Iran and Azerbaijan, enforced by the governments and their mercenaries. My ancestors founded the mother of civilizations and served history, but the reward they received was the greatest injustice. The world has forgotten us.

I have endured many hardships to revive Talesh (Talysh) people, civilization, and land so far, and I am constantly threatened to stop my efforts. The path I chose was to conduct research as well as writing books and articles. After years of efforts and enduring hardships and threats, my first book related to the Talesh (Talysh) civilization were published in 2022 in the scope of developing a new alphabet, set of numbers, and calendar based on Avestan manuscripts and Talesh (Talysh) language and literature. Religious Liberty Commission
Office of the Associate Attorney General
U.S. Department of Justice

Dear Lawyers that defend the Constitution of the United States of America:

I'm sending to you here the copy of the letter I mailed to President TRUMP and Director of the FBI:

Honorable KASH PATEL:

Letters mailed to President TRUMP and KASH PATEL (FBI). They received this letter 6 days ago…original typed on Dec.10, 2025.

Dear President TRUMP,

Justice Should Have NO limitations

Especially when the FIRST Amendment of the US CONSTITUTION, or the entire Articles of the Constitution are involved!

The Holy Bible was the first book used in Miami, South Florida to teach children to read! Reverend Merrick and his wife were Congregationalists who moved from Massachusetts west of Coconut Grove in1899, after the Florida Coastal Railway had Reached Miami in 1896. The Merrick family was deeply involved in establishing EDUCATION in Coral Gables. George Merrick Paid for the construction of Coral Gables Elementary School in 1924. It was the beginnings of MIAMI DADE County Public Schools.

I, Maria E. Tuma was fired from Miami Dade County Public Schools because I gave a HOLY BIBLE to 6 of my students as a gift for having done a good job singing a song I composed for Palm Lakes Elementary in1992 in Hialeah, Fla.

The unjust employees that persecuted me wrote that was was being fired for: "willful insubordination and dereliction of duty", yet
My peer teachers nominated me for "Teacher of the Year" for all the Art Awards my students won due to my guidance!
I was persecuted because I'm very conservative;

I quit being in the Teachers Union because I realized how "LIBERAL", BIAS and UNJUST the UNION is!

I took my case to the 3erd District Court of Appeals way back and the lawyer I had told me "NOT to speak", even though I wanted to tell the 3 Judges that the FIRST AMENDMENT of the Constitution was violated against me!

I need compensation for all the income that was taken from me! This humble home my mother bought in 1968 needs repairs on the roof and other areas of the house.

It was a HUGE MISTAKE to have removed BIBLE READING from the Schools; they should have left it to be VOLUNTARILY, because by removing it completely; MANY WERE PUNISHED UNJUSTLY! As their 1st AMENDMENT was trampled upon due to the anti JUDEO - CHRISTIANS. In fact this could be fixed now by having RELIGION as an ELECTIVE course and students can select: I want to learn, Buddhism, Catholicism, Lutheranism, Judaism and many other religions!

Now that we have a JUST MAN as PRESIDENT and is trying to fix all the wrongs done. Please try to pay me by this Christmas:
all the money I should have received!

I taught art in MIAMI DADE County Public Schools since 1973 - 1995. Employee #: 03899 Salary was $42,740.00

Bible Reading and Reciting of the Lord's Prayer should have never been removed from our schools and the public domains; nor prohibit Out freedom of speech.
America was GREAT, because AMERICA respected the GOD of OUR FOUNDING FATHERS.

May GOD ALMIGHTY give RIGHTEOUS elected officials the WISDOM and HONOR to correct all the wrongs !

Thank you for all you are doing!

Truly,

Maria E. Tuma, Artist, Art Educator Retired

Dear Religious Liberty Commission,

I write to urge you to speak out against the alarming rise in anti-Muslim attacks and discriminatory policies targeting Muslim communities in the United States.

Recently, the administration suspended all immigration applications for individuals from 19 countries already subjected to a travel ban. The administration also placed an "adjudicative hold" on all asylum applications and announced a review of immigrants who arrived during the Biden presidency from so-called "high risk countries of concern." Most of these countries are Muslim-majority, making this action a renewed version of the "Muslim Ban." These policies represent a clear threat to religious freedom and disproportionately harm Muslim families seeking safety and belonging.

These government actions are unfolding against a backdrop of dangerous and escalating Islamophobia. Far-right activist Laura Loomer, who openly calls herself a "proud Islamophobe," has targeted Muslim State Department staff, spreading their personal information online and questioning their loyalty based solely on their faith.

These hateful attacks have real consequences. The Department of Homeland Security pulled $8 million in security funding for houses of worship and nonprofits based on claims from an Islamophobic hate group. ICE has detained and threatened to deport Muslim clergy and activists. Federal authorities are reportedly preparing targeted actions against Somali communities in Minnesota.

As the administration's Religious Liberty Commission, you are tasked with identifying threats to domestic religious liberty. These policies and attacks represent some of the most serious threats facing any faith community today. You have a responsibility to condemn these actions clearly and forcefully and to affirm that religious freedom must protect all people without exception.

I strongly urge you to speak out against Islamophobia, call for oversight to prevent discriminatory government actions, and protect the religious freedom of Muslim communities nationwide.

Sincerely,
Ms. Rabbi Simone Schicker

To President Donald J. Trump and Attorney General Bondi,

Interfaith Alliance is writing to nominate its President, Rev. Paul Brandeis Raushenbush, to serve as a member of the federal Religious Liberties Commission, which President Trump created in Executive Order 14291. There was no advertised process for Commission membership; therefore, Interfaith Alliance is submitting this request through the Commission's publicly available contact information.

The Religious Liberties Commission is tasked with, among other things, "increasing" awareness of and celebrating America's peaceful religious pluralism." The Commission, as it is currently configured, is not structured to achieve this goal because its composition is skewed towards conservative, predominantly Christian viewpoints. Indeed, no minority faith group, other than Orthodox Judaism, or interfaith group, is represented in the Commission's Membership.

Since 1994, Interfaith Alliance has advocated for an America that respects the freedoms of belief and religious practice for all persons, including those subscribing to minority religions such as Hinduism, Islam, Buddhism, and Sikhism. We maintain a diverse network of clergy from all faiths and religious backgrounds to push back against all manner of threats to religious liberty.

To ensure the Religious Liberties Commission can accomplish its mission, we believe the Commission needs a more balanced membership that includes the voices of minority faith groups and interfaith groups committed to religious pluralism. Interfaith Alliance is uniquely positioned to represent the religious diversity currently lacking in the Commission's membership. Accordingly, we hope that you will agree to appoint Rev. Raushenbush to the Commission immediately.

We look forward to hearing from you, and thank you for your consideration.

Importance: Normal

Religious Liberty Commission,

Hello, my name is Steven. This morning, I'm writing to submit a comment about the first 5 minutes, 13 seconds of the Fourth Hearing of the Religious Liberty Commission, Part 2.

The conversation of the RLC is full of valuable discussion that offers us an opportunity to reflect and introspect into belief systems and practices that sustain the Nation. The open, substantive conversations appear to have produced a wealth of raw material for dissection and analysis. Within analysis distilled from these conversations, the RLC and supporting organs may identify (a) discreet operational development opportunities, (b) subject matters requiring further clarification through definition, (c) subject matters requiring further clarification through quantitative qualification, (d) opportunities for generating scaled, qualitative feedback.

With this said, in the space and time I've allocated to communicating with the RLC, I will approach the portion of the conversation I've highlighted at the beginning of this email. My intention is to add to and enhance the discussion held, with respect for each of the speakers contributing to the conversation's development.

I am a person who is very interested in the field of human wellness and the advancement of Public Health. My position is not to advocate for vaccines or against vaccines, but to consider the topics presented through a fundamental perspective of harm reduction and one's ability to self-determine through an exercise of choice.
The conversation is particularly focused on individual liberty, a natural person's ability to exercise a hyper-local expression of executive agency within the context of their day-to-day experiences. This exercise of executive agency can be applied to participation in rule-based organizations, whereas an organization's rules may represent an intellectual framework that expresses a collective approach to self-determination. A legitimate concern may arise for organizations when exceptions to rules are known to or can be reasonably estimated to cause significant degradation to structural integrity, an ability to maintain statutory form and achieve mission-objectives. A legitimate concern may be concluded from an evidence-based analysis or a reasonable determination may be surmised from evidence-based analysis.

In other words, a legitimate concern that denies or obstructs a citizen's opportunity to serve in a branch of the Armed Forces may not pass tests of rationality at very low levels of exceptions granted on a case-by-case basis. With respect to the "special" case of COVID-19 vaccinations, a blanket mandatory requirement might not be appropriate. However, mandatory requirements might be appropriate based on an operational organ's ability to maintain redundant functions, adequate staffing coverage, and access to skills through personnel.
Certain offices and units might have good cause for mandatory requirements. Individual service members who run into such a conflict might be given an opportunity to assume a temporary role or transfer stations. In the absence of a well-substantiated and valid case for denying a vaccine exception request, a service member should not face process obstruction in pursuit of a vaccine exception approval, on the basis of religion or another qualifying life factor, especially with a substantial body of precedent.

The development speed of a vaccine might be considered a function a multi-dimensional set of resources allocated to address a society-scale need. The rapid development, testing, and approval of the COVID-19 vaccines led to two products that were thought to be workable. If I accurately recall, one of the vaccines eventually produced higher than average failure rates in one or more categories. This is not exclusively a religious freedoms challenge, but a challenge that the FDA should address for posterity; a future endemic or pandemic situation has a non-zero chance of occurring and the organization should be ready to effectively and efficiently connect the public with high-confidence solutions.
Skepticism is a signal that can arise from a set of cognitive constructs, emotional excitement, and intuitive hunches. It is something with which a degree of confidence might be associated, but shouldn't be an ultimate determining factor in policy setting for the People.

There are valid situations for someone to be granted medical exceptions on an evidence-based framework of reason. Again, this has utility to principles of harm reduction. It is not reasonable for someone to be considered for a vaccine when risk of adverse reaction is known to significantly exceed that of a range of risk assumed by the general population.

In the case of a belief systems based on a religious framework, a conversation about harm reduction must be extended beyond a local time-space, and consider an individual's existential considerations into a state beyond a connection to the layer of reality expressed through gross matter and physical construction. Harm reduction has a connection to existential considerations, especially when mortality rates are factored into the equation.

The priority that one might set for balancing physical and spiritual considerations is subject to discussion. It is worth considering an integrated perspective on the value of physical and spiritual form. Although physical form arises within a theoretical or an absolute eternal continuum, it is not inherently separate from it. Some say I have no religion and that I am destined for hell.
Perhaps this is because I am a maximalist on the contemplation and investigation of a unified approach to the concept of Reality, whereas the Laws of Nature, their Creator, the Creation, and the divine Providence operate as one harmonic process. Maintaining this Liberty requires me to sustain the integration of multi-dimensional expression of spiritual frameworks derived from texts that have been assigned to a central role in the set of World Religions.
Form gives expression to Spirit on this plane of existence. In a sense, an experience of mortality might be adequately described as a rule-based experience. Rules are established on different planes of existence. The physical plane possesses biological and non-biological rules. In the Holy Bible, the creation of the human form, which arises from the a-priori firmament and is imbued with Living Spirit, was established within an order of operations.

The Gospel of Thomas moves to reinforce this order of operations:

"If the flesh came into being because of the spirit, it is a wonder. But if the spirit came into being because of the body, it is a wonder of wonders."

The Book of Psalm asserts the unity of the transient mortal expression with the Most High:

"You are gods, sons of the Most High, all of you; nevertheless you shall die, and fall like any other prince."

Interpreted differently, perhaps more expansively:
You are imbued with Living Spirit, children of the Most High, all of you. Nevertheless, someday, at some time, you shall put off your form, without respect to background, positions, or titles assumed during an experience in the realm of mortality.
I choose to practice and express an integrated spirituality, derived from inspired works that have been placed into a role of central religious texts. For me, a mono or pluralistic choice of religion would offer a structured set of frameworks for practicing sincerely held intrinsic beliefs. It is critical to keep in mind that the People a an ability to formally establish religion through pathways subject to due process. The presence of specific religions in the United States pre-date the Nation's independent administration of systems governing due process.
The discourse includes conversation about physical wellness and fitness. My connection to self-determination includes a deep respect for the physical being. Each day, I operate with a belief that "with long life" I shall satisfy my unity with the Creator, with God, as an expression of Living Spirit, and show my salvation through a practicing conscious exercise of thought, words, and actions.
Being physically able and increasingly vital is a privilege. Knowledge and the responsible application of knowledge, to the best of my Ability, enables this stewardship. I and my process are one, a continuous, non-finite, unbound expression of Life. This includes but is not limited to expressions on the physical plane.

I believe our education systems can advance human development outcomes by challenging pupils to define, contemplate, deconstruct, reconstitute, and evolve their understanding of intrinsic belief systems, religious choice, spiritual beliefs, associated concepts. Transforming education settings into encouraging active participation in deriving awareness of these terms, without respect to a specific creed, may empower current and future generations to advance an intrinsic value framework through religious choice and/or spiritual beliefs.
The Book of Proverbs highlights the value of insight and wisdom. Equipping people with experience in exploring this society aspect of the Humanities can also lead to more tolerance and understanding, an environment that deconstructs uninformed expressions of discrimination into greater respect for the individual liberties as a function of personal choices.

For time, I've exhausted my expression on the subject of the Fourth Hearing of the Religious Liberty Commission's Hearing, Part 2, first 5 minutes and 13 seconds. Thank you all for your commitment to exploring this valuable topic and for reviewing my informal comments. Your efforts contribute to an environment where the People of the United States can remain free to believe and express their beliefs through First Amendment rights.

Sincerely,

Steven Quinn Singleton

RE: Hearing on Religious Liberty in the Military

Dear Religious Liberty Commissioners:

Thank you for the opportunity to provide testimony during the fourth hearing to discuss religious liberty issues in the military as well as "state and local religious liberty issues." On behalf of the Council on Foundations, Independent Sector, National Council of Nonprofits, and United Philanthropy Forum, we submit this testimony to underscore the importance of maintaining and preserving the Johnson Amendment, the part of Section 501(c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code, which, for more than 70 years, has safeguarded the integrity of America's charitable nonprofits, houses of worship, and foundations. The federal law keeps nonprofits focused on mission, not partisan politics, by prohibiting charitable organizations from endorsing or opposing political candidates. Federal law preserves public trust and protects these vital institutions from partisan pressure and manipulation.

Our organizations collectively represent tens of thousands of charitable and philanthropic organizations that employ millions of individuals in every state, engage tens of millions of additional individuals who serve as board members and other volunteers, and touch the lives of virtually every American every day. We stand united with the majority of charitable, religious, and philanthropic organizations across America in opposition to any effort to repeal or weaken the Johnson Amendment.

The Johnson Amendment protects public trust in civil society.
Charitable nonprofits exist to serve the public good, not partisan interests. Efforts to make nonprofits partisan or politicized threaten their ability to provide essential services and undermine public trust in these vital institutions. The Johnson Amendment protects nonprofits' and foundations' ability to serve while keeping the focus on fairness, trust, and preserving spaces that unite – not divide – our communities. Nonprofits need broad public support and bipartisan cooperation to fulfill their missions. If the Johnson Amendment is weakened, charitable nonprofits will be drawn into partisan battles. This will divide who they serve; undermine what makes them effective; weaken our communities; threaten the independence of charitable nonprofits; undermine public trust; give tax breaks to donors for campaign contributions; and distract nonprofits, houses of worship, and philanthropy from their missions.

By contrast, when nonprofits stay out of partisan politics, they can serve the whole community without fear of political favoritism; maintain credibility with donors, congregants, and the broader public; and focus on their mission, not political endorsements.

Protection against partisanship is not about silencing voices. Faith leaders and charitable nonprofits can and should speak out on moral, social, and public policy issues that impact their missions. They serve as vital voices in our society on a wide range of issues, including justice, freedom, community values, civic engagement, and more. Federal law draws the line at endorsing or opposing candidates for office – a line that protects the independence of the pulpit, nonprofits, and the ballot box. The independence of these community institutions depends on keeping partisanship out of them.

The majority of nonprofits and foundations oppose partisan politics in nonprofits.
Local nonprofits are lifelines for communities across the country. According to polling from Independent Sector, eight in 10 voters (81%) trust nonprofits to serve their community in a nonpartisan way — including at least 78% of Republicans, Democrats, and Independents.

During previous legislative attempts to weaken the Johnson Amendment, the majority of charitable nonprofit organizations also supported keeping partisan politics out of their organizations, as reflected in a community letter signed by more than 5,800 organizations in all 50 states, in the Faith Voices letter signed by more than 4,300 faith leaders, in a separate letter signed by more than 100 denominations and major religious organizations, and in letters from the law enforcement community.

I was greatly encouraged by Trump's decision to commute the sentence of David Gentile.

I have been incarcerated for five years and have been blessed with an amazing family as well as significant public support as seen on https://wepetition.top

Despite the support I feel like I am starting to lose hope. Please write me back and let me know you received this email.

Subject: [EXTERNAL] Request to testify at February 2026 Hearing on School Vaccine Mandates and Religious Liberty
Date: Tue, 09 Dec 2025 14:03:49 -0500
Importance: Normal

Dear Commissioners:

I am writing to request the opportunity to testify at your February hearing in Florida regarding vaccine mandates that violate religious liberties in public education. As lead counsel in Doescher, et al. v. Pan, Ninth Circuit Case No. 25-4531; Eastern District of California Case No. 2:23-cv-02995-KJM-JDP, I can provide the Commission with critical legal analysis of California's unconstitutional denial of religious exemptions from school vaccine requirements.

Background on the Case

I represent families who have been denied access to public education in California due to their sincere religious objections to vaccines. California's SB 277 eliminated all religious exemptions while maintaining broad secular exemptions, creating a discriminatory system that fails constitutional scrutiny under current Supreme Court precedent.

The Constitutional Violations

Discriminatory Exemption System: SB 277 exempts over 30% of students statewide—exceeding 50% in districts like Los Angeles—including Special Education students, those with medical issues, homeless students, military dependents, students over the age of majority, undocumented students, and foster youth. Yet families with sincere religious convictions—representing only 0.58% of students—receive no accommodation whatsoever.

Not Generally Applicable: SB 277 imposes selective burdens on religious exercise and is not generally applicable. Under Church of Lukumi Babalu Aye, Inc. v. Hialeah, 508 U.S. 520, 537–538 (1993), when a statute treats comparable secular activity more favorably than religious exercise, it triggers strict scrutiny. SB 277 fails this standard.

Lack of Neutrality: California's Senate Judiciary Committee warned of Free Exercise violations before SB 277's passage, yet the legislature proceeded regardless. Church of Lukumi Babalu Aye, Inc. v. Hialeah, 508 U.S. 520, 533 (1993).

Failure of Strict Scrutiny: As the Supreme Court held in Fulton v. City of Philadelphia, 141 S. Ct. 1868, 1877 (2021), the government cannot claim a compelling interest while making exemptions available to others but denying them to religious adherents. California's extensive secular exemptions undermine any claimed public health imperative.

The Supreme Court's Clear Direction

The legal landscape shifted fundamentally with Roman Catholic Diocese of Brooklyn v. Cuomo, 592 U.S. 14 (2020), which the Ninth Circuit itself characterized as "a seismic shift in Free Exercise law." This decision confirmed that laws treating religious exercise less favorably than comparable secular activities impose an unconstitutional burden on religious freedom.

Justice Gorsuch's concurrence emphasized that Jacobson v. Commonwealth of Massachusetts, 197 U.S. 11 (1905), predates modern constitutional formulations and must be confined within current precedent. Roman Catholic Diocese of Brooklyn v. Cuomo, 592 U.S. 14, 23 (Gorsuch, J., concurring).

The Supreme Court has consistently applied this principle, reversing every lower court decision that failed to protect religious exercise during the pandemic, including Harvest Rock Church v. Newsom, 141 S. Ct. 889 (2020); Robinson v. Murphy, 141 S. Ct. 972 (2020); High Plains Harvest Church v. Polis, 141 S. Ct. 527 (2021); S. Bay United Pentecostal Church v. Newsom, 141 S. Ct. 716 (2021); and Tandon v. Newsom, 141 S. Ct. 1294 (2021).

Supporting Federal Precedent

Recent circuit court decisions uniformly support our constitutional challenge:

- The Fifth Circuit struck down similar vaccine mandate policies in U.S. Navy Seals v. Biden, 27 F.4th 336, 350-53 (5th Cir. 2022).
- The Sixth Circuit applied strict scrutiny to a public health order that treated religious schools less favorably than secular businesses in Monclova Christian Academy v. Toledo-Lucas Health Dept., 984 F.3d 477, 482 (6th Cir. 2020).
- A Mississippi federal court held that providing medical but not religious exemptions violates the Constitution in Bosarge v. Edney, No. 1:22CV233-HSO-BWR, ECF 87 (S.D. Miss. August 29, 2023).

Real Harm to Real Families

My clients suffer concrete and ongoing injuries: financial hardships from forced independent study arrangements, homeschooling expenses after explicit rejection from public schools, and imminent enforcement actions resulting in educational disruption. Their children experience educational limitations, social isolation, and stigma—solely because California accommodates secular objections while refusing religious ones.

Why This Testimony Matters

This case represents a critical test of whether religious Americans can participate fully in public life without compromising their faith. California's discriminatory exemption system demonstrates how state governments can effectively exclude religious families from fundamental public services while claiming to protect public health—even as they exempt vast numbers of students for secular reasons.

I respectfully request the opportunity to present legal analysis and case evidence to the Commission. I can provide detailed testimony regarding the constitutional deficiencies of SB 277, the current state of religious liberty jurisprudence, and the practical impact on families of faith.

I would also recommend that the Commission consider testimony from Christina Hildebrand, President and Founder of A Voice for Choice Advocacy, and affected plaintiff families who can share their personal experiences.

Please advise what additional information you require to include me in the February hearing.

Respectfully Submitted,

Jonathon Nicol

RELIGIOUS FREEDOM INSTITUTE

White House Religious Liberty Commission

Written Testimony of Rev. Graham B. Glover
Senior Chaplain Fellow
Religious Freedom Institute

December 9, 2025

Mr. Chairman and members of the Commission:

Thank you for the opportunity to submit these written comments to the Commission as you continue your important work of ensuring religious liberty protections for all Americans, including the brave men and women serving in our nation's Armed Forces. Please note that the following statement is solely my own and does not necessarily represent the views of the US Department of War (DoW), the US Army, or the US Army Office of the Chief of Chaplains.

For the past 6 years I have served as a Chaplain Fellow at the Religious Freedom Institute (RFI) in Washington, DC, and the last 18 years as a Chaplain in the US Army – 12 on Active Duty and as a Reservist for the last 6, assigned to the Army Office of the Chief of Chaplains at the Pentagon since August of 2017. My responsibilities at RFI and my service to our nation have allowed me to observe how the US Chaplain Corps is the most important governmental organization in ensuring that American servicemembers have the freedom to exercise their faith and in understanding the role of religious freedom in contexts of engagement.

In every instance, the Chaplain Corps is, without question, the first line of defense in protecting the religious liberties of our nation's warriors. As this Commission advises the White House on what steps to take to ensure that American servicemembers' religious liberties are upheld, it must ensure that the Chaplain Corps remains strategically positioned to continue its critical role as the primary defender of this sacred American right.

Over the course of my career, I have also seen how chaplains assigned to the DoW are instrumental in advancing the cause of religious freedom abroad, assisting time and again in the advancement of our National Security Strategy. To that end, and as this Commission prepares its recommendations to the administration, it should never lose sight of the profound reality that if our own freedoms as Americans aren't guaranteed, the US military cannot continue to advance the cause of freedom abroad.

With this background in mind, I offer below 3 areas where I believe the US Chaplain Corps excels in protecting the religious liberties of our nation's servicemembers, along with recommendations on how I believe the administration can further enhance these important capabilities of the US Chaplain Corps.

1) Continuing and Strengthening Religious Freedom Training for Military Chaplains. For years, the DoW, as a result of Department of Defense Instructions, has required that Commanders, Chaplains, and Judge Advocate Generals (JAGs) receive annual training and instruction on the religious freedom protections in place in US law, as well as in DoW policies and doctrines. Although these protections are for all servicemembers, chaplains, in the discharge of their duties, are afforded an extra layer of protection that ensures they are never asked to violate the tenets of their faith or the dictates of their conscience.

   While the DoW continues to lean forward in ensuring that these policies and doctrines are updated to reflect the ever changing legal and cultural landscape of our nation, I cannot emphasize enough how important it is that the DoDI continues to require Commanders, Chaplains, and JAGs to receive annual, updated training and instruction on religious liberty protections. This is especially important when laws are changed or court decisions are rendered that affect how Commanders and JAGs should understand and adjudicate servicemembers' freedom to exercise their faith.

   For the past 10 years, RFI has been privileged to assist in this training across the Army, Navy, and Air Force Chaplains Corps', to include the Active, Reserve, and Guard components, witnessing first-hand how a sound training curriculum profoundly impacts how the military, and in particular chaplains, can ensure that the religious liberties of servicemembers are never denied. Since the purpose of the military is to defend the Constitution, the first liberty of which is the free exercise of religion, our nation's military leaders must never lose sight of the fact that the military exists to serve the cause of religious liberty.

   RFI also recognizes that changing political dynamics will always pose challenges to this first freedom, and that while our military leaders at every level need to be annually educated on the laws, policies, and doctrines of religious freedom, Congress can also lean forward in passing legislation that provides a greater sense of permanency than military doctrine and policy. This commission can recommend that the White House propose and support such legislation.

2) Emphasizing the Critical Role of US Military Chaplains in Advising their Commanders. While a chaplain's primary responsibility will always be performing religious functions for servicemembers or providing them time, space, and resources to practice their religion if it is different from their chaplain, US military chaplains also serve as one of the principal advisors to their Commander. This is true for the First Lieutenant Chaplain serving a Battalion, as well as the Major General/Rear Admiral (upper half) Chief of Chaplains serving their respective Chief of Staff/Chief of Operations and Service Secretaries.

   Ensuring that chaplains always have a "seat at the table" – from the tactical level to the most senior strategic level, is an absolute necessity if our nation's military leaders are to be properly advised on the religious dynamics affecting warrior readiness and the religious landscape of their respective theater. As this Commission knows, and as RFI professes in everything we do, our nation is a deeply religious land, where faith directs much of how we live our lives. Chaplains must regularly reiterate the importance of religion – not philosophy or non-religious spirituality – to every military Commander. This point was highlighted in the recent National Security Strategy, noting that: "Finally, we want restoration and reinvigoration of American spiritual and cultural health, without which long-term security is impossible." RFI believes that the US military chaplain, serving as both an advisor and religious practitioner, will help bring about such restoration and reinvigoration to our military, and consequently, to our nation. In its report to the White House, this commission should emphasize this important role and recommend that this and future administrations continue to recognize it in practice and written policy.

3) Expand Interagency Involvement for U.S. Military Chaplains in Support of the National Security Strategy. Finally, RFI has been privileged for the last several years to be a part of the annual International Military Chiefs of Chaplains Conference (taking place in Athens, Greece in January 2026), as well as the annual International Religious Freedom Summit in Washington, DC, co-hosted by former US Ambassador at-large for Religious Freedom Sam Brownback. Through these conferences and others, we are afforded the awesome privilege of training US military chaplains across all services, at every grade, on the role of religion in US national security and the importance of religious freedom in advancing US foreign policy. At these conferences and in these trainings, RFI notes and subsequently observes how the US military champions the principle that faith is central to liberty.

   Through our other educational and advocacy engagements across the globe, we also witness how the principle of faith transforms foreign militaries and governments to advance the cause of freedom in their own nation and region. This is why RFI recommends that the administration explore new and innovative ways for US military chaplains to be more involved with other governmental agencies (e.g., the Department of State) to assist in the advancement of the administration's National Security Strategy that is, as noted above, deeply rooted in the importance of a spiritually healthy and religiously vigorous society, including the US military.

Allow me to conclude my statement by thanking the church body where I serve as a pastor, the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod (LCMS). The LCMS has always followed the Holy Scriptures lead in recognizing government as a good and God-ordained part of God's created order (Romans 13:1-7). We have followed Paul's apostolic mandate in offering prayers and other support for "our leaders and all in authority" so that, living in a peaceful and well-ordered society, we might share the Gospel freely. We have understood this ordering to be "pleasing to God, who wants all men to be saved and come to the knowledge of truth" (1 Timothy 2:2). As this Commission continues its critical work on behalf of our nation and its government, my prayers remain with you, that all of us may never hinder "the knowledge of truth."

I remain available to the Commission to provide any additional insight beyond my comments and recommendations, or to clarify anything noted above.

To the Religious Liberty Commission,

My name is Irene Krasniansky. My husband, Noam, and I are the stewards of Treehouse Sanctuary, a historic church property in St. Petersburg, Florida, originally built in 1926. Although the last church congregation ceased functioning in 2019, the building was constructed and permitted as a house of worship and remained designated as such when we purchased it.

We are writing to share a specific and ongoing example of government action that has effectively prevented the free exercise of religion through excessive and non-neutral enforcement by a local authority.

After nearly a decade of disuse, we undertook the restoration of Treehouse Sanctuary with the intent of reopening it. Over the past two years, we have invested significant personal funds, labor, and care into rehabilitating the building so it could once again serve as a place of worship. Like many newly forming churches, we were unable to obtain traditional bank financing; lending institutions are generally unwilling to extend loans to newly reestablished religious congregations. We were able to get a short term hard money loan at 100% interest which we were able to pay with some community events. But then the Fire Dept closed us down.

Despite our willingness to comply with reasonable safety measures, the St. Petersburg Fire Department has repeatedly prevented us from reopening for Sunday services. During an early inspection, a fire inspector identified a short list of achievable safety improvements—such as fire extinguishers, exit signage, and procedural safeguards—which we now have. However, after our pastor communicated that we were ready to resume worship services, those less restrictive options disappeared.

Instead, we were later presented with an extensive and financially prohibitive list of requirements, including the installation of a full fire sprinkler system and a voice-alarm system at an estimated cost of approximately $300,000. These requirements were justified on the assertion that we had made a "substantial change" to the building by removing a portion of the seating. However, original building permits from 1926 make no reference to seating capacity.

This interpretation has created a regulatory Catch-22. Reinstalling the original seating configuration would increase occupancy beyond 300 people, thereby triggering even more stringent modern fire code requirements—requirements from which historic structures are often granted relief, provided reasonable protective measures are in place. Under the current posture of enforcement, no compliance path exists that allows us to operate.

Equally concerning is the Fire Department's refusal to consider alternative safety measures or engage Hooking or negotiation. Under constitutional principles and the Religious Land Use and Institutionalized Persons Act (RLUIPA), government entities regulating religious assemblies are required to use the least restrictive means to achieve legitimate safety objectives. Here, the department has instead imposed the most restrictive and financially punitive requirements available.

The lack of neutrality is further evidenced by the department's insistence on us applying for a "change of use" —traditionally determined by the Building Department—even though the property was built, permitted, and operated historically as a church. Even compliance with the demanded fire systems would not permit us to resume worship services.

As a result of these actions, Treehouse Sanctuary has been unable to operate, generate revenue, or host services. The continued closure directly prevented us from meeting our mortgage obligations and ultimately forced us to file for Chapter 11 bankruptcy protection, not due to mismanagement, but due to regulatory enforcement that made operation impossible.

We are submitting our experience to the Commission because it reflects a broader concern facing houses of worship nationwide: when agencies abandon neutrality and proportionality, religious freedom is denied not by statute, but by administrative process. Regulatory mechanisms become de facto censorship, threatening both religious exercise and the preservation of historic sacred spaces.

We respectfully ask the Commission to consider our situation as it evaluates the ways in which houses of worship are being constrained through excessive or discriminatory regulatory enforcement.

Thank you for your attention to this matter and for your work in defending the free exercise of religion in the United States.

Respectfully,
Irene Krasniansky

Dear Religious Liberty Commission,

First I'm no fan of Pakistan especially since they also have a bad record regarding the Religious Persecution of Christians and I'm not a fan the Khailistan Movement even though I can understand Sikh's wanting their own country.

Also in California where I live District 1 Rep Doug LaMalfa , there are Indian / Pakistan Communities made up of several faiths and they pretty much live in harmony but if Gov Newsom / Democrats get their way with their Unconstitutional Redistricting while Gov Newsom is backed by Hindutva , that could likely change because Hindutva likes to stir up problems wherever can .

Now I want to bring to your attention Michael Rubin who appears to be a India First Agent instead of American First. You might want to research basically what lobby he is linked to and how they can be linked to India / Hindutva Lobby while Christians are being wrongly accuse of crimes and jailed and persecute and killed while the Hindutva Lobby freely operates across America and basically buys / influencing US Bureaucrats and Politicians which creates bad US India Foreign Policy that enriches Hindutva and hurts Christians.

I submitted these article before but I'm including some more .

One of the tactics that Hindutva uses is wrongly attacking someone of of being anti-India when they point our Hindutva abuses Christians, Muslims and other minorities and pointing out corruption and etc.

Isn't it staggering—though utterly horrifying—how white Christian nationalists and far-right radicals "self-indigenise" themselves, strutting about with a self-proclaimed licence to murder, plunder, and seize the land of others?

Their so-called justification is laughably simple:

"Native Americans are immigrants; therefore, European settlers had the right to 'conquer' their land."

The mindset is as brazen as it is vile: God gave this land to white European Christians who arrived a mere century or two ago, not to the Indigenous peoples who have inhabited it for 15,000 years. Apparently, this is all part of His 'divine' plan. 😊

These people wrap colonisation and conquest in the cloak of divine favour, claiming moral superiority as cover for theft and slaughter. Sound familiar? It is eerily similar to historical religious conquests—take 7th-century Islam, for instance—where the world had to be converted or conquered in the name of heaven.

The pattern is depressingly clear: dehumanise, claim divine mandate, and commit atrocities with moral impunity.

Dear Religious Liberty Commission,

First I'm all for having good relations with India and trying to persuade them to be true friends and allies but as long as they wrongly accuse Christians of crimes and jail them and or persecute and kill Christians and embracing the Fascist Ideology of Hitler / Nazis they will never be true friends and allies of the USA. Unless they change or spinless bureaucrats and politicians in DC sacrifice our Jude-Christian Foundation which is what the Biden Regime was doing after the Hindutva Lobby helped put Biden / Harris in the White House and then place Indian American Hindus in the Biden Regime.

Michael Rubin is a India RSS / BJP / Modi Regime sellout who is India First instead of America First and he has helped create anti-Christian Bias with his propaganda and lies and by making Hindus out to be victims when they are wrongly accusing Christians of crimes and jailing them and or persecuting and killing Christians which he appears to ignores while basically helping coverup the RSS / BJP / Hindutva have illegally operated in the US and meddled / interfering in our politics / elections.

While the 2024 Madonna stamp is said to be available, none of my friends or family or I, throughout the US, have been offered these at the actual post office locations when we inquired about them.

I realize that you have committees and other deliberative reasons for the stamps that you print each year but for Catholics celebrating Christmas, sending Christmas cards with Madonna stamps is an important practiced and revered tradition.

Dear Religious Freedom Advocates,

This is some more disturbing and disgraceful information regarding a US Politician and the RSS / those behind the Kandhamal Riots.

The RSS and their afflicates in American should be labelled a terrorist organization which would help prevent them from meddling in our elections and stop funding being delivered to them in India from the USA.

Dear Chair Patrick, Vice Chair Carson, and members of the Religious Liberty Commission:

On behalf of Americans United for Separation of Church and State, we write to the Commission to outline important considerations regarding the landscape of religious liberty in America's military.

Founded in 1947, Americans United is a nonpartisan educational and advocacy organization dedicated to preserving the constitutional principle of church-state separation, which is the foundation of true religious freedom for all Americans. We fight to protect the right of individuals and religious communities to practice religion—or not—as they see fit without government interference, compulsion, support, or disparagement. We represent people of all faiths and none and have a network of more than 380,000 members and supporters across the country.

Americans United is the only organization in the country dedicated solely to defending and promoting the separation of church and state. Our 78-year legacy of protecting religious freedom and expertise as an organization staffed with constitutional lawyers means that we are uniquely positioned to offer guidance and information for your discussion of religious liberty issues in the military.

Religious freedom is a fundamental American value. It protects all of us, including service members and military chaplains. Religious freedom guarantees us the right to believe—or not—as we see fit. It does not give anyone the right to use religion as an excuse to discriminate or harm others or undermine obligations. This is true for all Americans—including service members. All service members must uphold the duty, shared regardless of their religion or background, to protect and defend our nation. People with different religious beliefs and who are nonreligious serve together in the military and treat one another with dignity and respect.

There are circumstances unique to the military that may affect religious freedom. First, the military has a clear and prevailing interest in maintaining military readiness, unit cohesion, good order, discipline, health, well-being, and safety. Decisions concerning religious freedom, therefore, cannot be made without consideration of how they will affect these goals. Second, the command structure of the military creates an obvious potential for undue pressure on an individual to conform in order not to jeopardize their military career. This atmosphere "presents particular dangers of coerced religious activities."[1] Thus, it is of particular importance that the military protect service members from unwanted pressure to engage in certain religious activities or adopt particular religious beliefs. Indeed, religious coercion and proselytization can have an even greater impact on service members than civilians, both because of the military chain of command and because service members are part of a small and sometimes isolated community.

Our comments focus on two important policy areas that shape service members' religious freedoms in the military: protections for religious minorities and the military chaplaincy.

Recognizing and Protecting Religious Minorities

Members of the Armed Forces come from all religions and beliefs, reflecting the diversity of our nation. A 2019 Department of Defense Study found that about one-third of active duty personnel were non-Christian.[2] Over time, the Department has updated policies to better recognize and respond to the needs of all service members—ensuring that those who put their lives on the line to defend our Constitution can exercise the rights enshrined in it.

For example:

- In 2017, the Pentagon updated its list of faiths and beliefs that service members can identify with, nearly doubling the number.[3] The updated official list of religious preferences includes 221 different options spanning a wide range of faiths and non-theist belief systems, including the three main movements within Judaism, additional Protestant groups, Humanism, and earth-based religions.[4] As a result, the military will have more accurate demographic information about its service members, allowing it to better plan for all service members' religious support and assess the capabilities and requirements for chaplains.

- In 2014, the Air Force reversed a policy that violated the religious freedom of non-theist airmen.[5] Even though other service members were allowed to omit the phrase, "so help me God" in their enlistment or appointment oaths, the Air Force forced all airmen to include the phrase.[6] Before the policy reversal, an airman was told he had to leave the Air Force if he would not agree to the religious oath,[7] which would have violated the Constitution and coerced non-theists to swear an oath in which they do not believe. The current policy aligns with other branches of the military and ensures that non-theists do not face discrimination.

One of the most consequential ways the military has protected religious freedom is allowing service members to serve with their articles of faith. The military is stronger when service members can abide by the requirements of their faith—wearing, for instance, head coverings or a beard—when it does not undermine safety or other necessary objectives.

The policy allowing religious accommodations for articles of faith emerged in part from the successful efforts of Lt. Col. Kamaljeet Kalsi, a Sikh American, to wear a beard, unshorn hair, and turban while serving. Lt. Col. Kalsi grew up in New Jersey and came from a family with three generations of military service.[8] The Army recruited him while he was in medical school and assured him that his religiously required articles of faith would be accommodated.[9] Lt. Col. Kalsi spent several years as an Army reserve officer while in medical school. In 2009, upon completion of his medical education, he was called to active duty. That's when the Army told him that military policy actually prohibited his religious articles of faith. Unless he shaved his beard, cut his hair, and removed his turban, he could not attend basic training and continue his military duties.[10]

It took two years of advocacy and negotiation before the Army finally granted Lt. Col. Kalsi an accommodation to maintain his articles of faith. This was the first accommodation granted to a Sikh American in more than twenty-five years.[11] After receiving the accommodation, Lt. Col. Kalsi was deployed to Afghanistan as Officer-in-Chief of a tented emergency room in Helmand province. During his tour in Afghanistan, Dr. Kalsi personally treated over 750 combat casualties and local nationals who suffered from IED blasts, gunshot wounds, and other emergent conditions. For his service in Afghanistan, Lt. Col. Kalsi was awarded the Bronze Star.[12] Later at Fort Bragg, he directed the Army's largest EMS system.[13]

Although Lt. Col. Kalsi might have been the first service member in a generation to receive this kind of religious accommodation, he paved the way for a change in policy that has helped more people to serve their country. In 2017, the Army established a streamlined accommodations process.[14] Finally, in 2020, the Armed Forces officially adopted a formal process for granting religious accommodations for grooming, appearance, and apparel policies in order to wear their articles of faith.[15] And now, hundreds of Christians,[16] Muslims,[17] and Sikhs[18] have served their country in combat zones, conventional units, and Special Forces.[19]

These accommodations have no negative effect on mission accomplishment, including military readiness, unit cohesion, good order, discipline, health, well-being, and safety.[20] For example, beards do not impede honorable and capable performance—modern technical innovations in gas masks mitigate the safety risks of maintained beards. There is no negative impact on the rights of any third parties.

Unfortunately, Secretary Pete Hegseth has taken deeply concerning steps that could lead to reversing this progress. In a September speech, Secretary Hegseth stated that service members would need to meet grooming standards, declaring, "No more beards, long hair, superficial individual expression. We're going to cut our hair, shave our beards, and adhere to standards."[21] His proclamation of "No more beardos. The era of rampant and ridiculous shaving profiles is done" was deeply troubling and offensive. These statements belittled and diminished service members who wear beards for religious reasons, as well as those who wear beards for medical reasons. And, they suggested that no allowances would be made for religiously compelled facial hair.

An accompanying memorandum on "Grooming Standards for Facial Hair Implementation," threatens to severely limit individuals' abilities to get religious accommodations.[22] The memo calls for a return to pre-2010 standards, meaning a return to an era before Lt. Col. Kalsi's accommodation opened the door to others seeking religious accommodations. It also states that pre-accession recruits will have to "meet existing standards" (i.e. shave) to even seek an accommodation—an impossible hurdle for people whose faith requires beards. Finally, it states that accommodation approvals will be limited to non-deployable roles, suggesting that individuals with facial hair could be denied equal opportunity to deploy and potentially harming their military careers.

The military should be applauded for the steps it has already taken to protect the religious freedom of all our service members. Inclusion and pluralism are essential to meet the needs of our diverse twenty-first century fighting force. The Pentagon should not retreat from these policies. Doing so would violate the religious freedom of our service members and, ultimately, undermine the Armed Forces from being able to defend and protect our nation.

Religious Programs and Military Chaplains

Military commanders are responsible for programs that provide for religious exercise, promote resilience and well-being, and protect the religious freedom of all service members and their families. Military chaplains implement the religious programs to support the diverse needs of service members and families in a pluralistic environment. This inherently requires chaplains to serve all, regardless of belief, without discriminating, proselytizing, or coercing others.

[20] The Religious Freedom Restoration Act (RFRA) has been an important tool to attain these accommodations. This is exactly what RFRA was designed to do—be a shield to safeguard religious freedom, not a sword to harm others. It provides heightened, but not unlimited, protections for religious exercise. RFRA cannot be used to grant exemptions that result in discrimination or cause harm.

Role of Chaplains in the Military

Given the important roles of chaplains and the First Amendment interests at stake, the Department and branches of the Armed Forces have adopted a comprehensive series of policies, instructions, and regulations that govern the chaplaincy, including the appointment of chaplains, their roles and responsibilities, and their relationships with the chain of command.[23]

Religious programs are under the authority of commanders, not individual chaplains.[24] The chaplains are stewards of their commanders' programs. Within the programs, chaplains play two important roles: military religious leaders and military religious staff advisers.[25] In their first role as religious leaders, chaplains provide or facilitate religious support that "accommodates the [service members'] right to the free exercise of religion, and support resilience efforts to sustain [them]."[26] Chaplains must fulfill their commitment to serve in a pluralistic environment, working with service members and their families who come from all faiths and are nonreligious.[27] Service members are often stationed far from home, including on ships, in foreign countries, and in combat zones, where they lack access to their houses of worship. Chaplains help accommodate service members' religious exercise in these instances, allowing service members and their families to worship where they are based within the military community.

In their second role, as religious staff advisors, chaplains advise commanders on, among other things, "the discharge of the commander's responsibility to support the free exercise of religion" and "matters of morale, morals, ethics, and overall wellbeing within the command."[28]

In practice, this means that all denominations and faiths that sponsor military chaplains agree to provide chaplains who will honorably fulfill the office's responsibilities.[29] Military chaplains must be willing to serve every service member, even if that means refraining from proselytizing, sectarian prayer, or engaging in religious activity in certain situations. And, while the First Amendment and federal law ensure that chaplains cannot be required "to perform any rite, ritual, or ceremony that is contrary to [their] conscience, moral principles, or religious beliefs,"[30] if chaplains cannot perform certain services, they are expected to work cooperatively with other chaplains to ensure that service members' religious needs are met.[31]

The Navy describes chaplains' responsibilities as "care, facilitate, provide, and advise."[32]

Care: Chaplains care for the welfare and morale of all service members, regardless of their religious faith. They must deliver care that "demonstrate[s] a dedication to the dignity of all," where the "well-being of the individual receiving service will always receive the highest priority."[33] This means they must be sensitive to the religious, spiritual, moral, and personal differences of those served.

This includes providing secular programming that is mandatory for all personnel in a military unit, including post-deployment transition counseling and suicide prevention training. Chaplains are trained and experienced in trauma counseling and are an important resource in the military's efforts to fight post-traumatic stress disorder and other mental health challenges. Military chaplains provide service members a safe, confidential space to discuss issues of conscience and ethics. Many service members are more comfortable seeking assistance from their unit chaplain than from a mental health provider. However, individual advice from chaplains should be faith-based only "when requested," and not when the chaplain unilaterally desires to engage in religious speech.[34]

Facilitate: Chaplains facilitate the free exercise of service members of other faiths and beliefs. For instance, chaplains provide hymnals, prayer books, and study guides, arrange places to meet, and help find leaders from who can conduct services or lead discussions.[35]

Provide: Chaplains provide religious services for those of the same faith group. Chaplains lead religious services, administer sacraments, and perform the rites or ceremonies according to their own religion.[36]

Advise: Chaplains assist and advise officers in their chain of command regarding religious ministry requirements, ethics, morale, and quality of life among service members, unit enhancement, culture, and religious accommodations.[37]

Military chaplains serve a vital role for commanders. Chaplains serve as counselors, advocates, and confidants for service members. Chaplains are integrated into the daily life of every unit, even during busy times and deployments, and actively seek opportunities to provide support to all service members and their families. And chaplains help build the resiliency of service members and their families by assisting them to follow their beliefs and providing counseling and care. This resiliency is key to military readiness, unit cohesion, and mission accomplishment.

DOJ-RLC Comment-002041

Service members and their families receive spiritual and emotional support according to the dictates of their conscience, regardless of an individual chaplain's religious beliefs. Chaplains must serve everyone and "be willing to function in the military's pluralistic environment, respecting the rights of individuals to determine their own religious convictions."[38]

Efforts to Undermine Chaplains' Roles

Unfortunately, there have been efforts to disrupt the relationships between chaplains and service members and interfere with chaplains' roles and responsibilities.[39] But if individual chaplains were allowed to proselytize and engage in sectarian activities when carrying out their duties to serve all, the interests, rights, and needs of the service members they are supposed to serve would be harmed. Likewise, if chaplains were allowed to deny services to those who have different views or don't follow the same religious tenets, service members would face violation of their Free Exercise rights and discrimination, threatening the unity and cohesion necessary for military effectiveness.

These outcomes could put the whims of an individual chaplain ahead of the interests, rights, and needs of those they are required to serve, demonstrating a lack of respect for service members and the diversity in our military.

When chaplains are performing their own religious services, they have an almost unlimited opportunity to pray according to their own consciences and faiths. But military commanders have the authority to determine the appropriate role for chaplains at command functions, such as retirements, promotions, changes of command, or official memorial observances. These events are often mandatory for service members. Any religious elements "are included at the commander's discretion."[40] In other words, chaplains do not have the right to participate in these functions; instead, they are invited to do so. Indeed, commanders are constitutionally obligated to ensure that such functions are neutral with regard to religion and not used as an occasion to promote or disparage any religious belief. Service members attending mandatory events should not be forced to participate in sectarian prayers given by a chaplain. As a retired naval chaplain and Episcopal bishop explained, "[M]y responsibility when offering public prayers in uniform is to care for all of those who are present, not just those from my own faith tradition."[41]

Another retired naval chaplain, who is a rabbi, illustrated why this responsibility is so important: he estimated that more than 95% of the troops with whom he served were not Jewish. He "served the needs of Catholics and Protestants of every denomination, different groups of Latter-Day Saints, and numerous Christians of other affiliations[,] Buddhists and Muslims and more, as well as those with no affiliation, including agnostics and atheists."[42]

[38] Sec'y of the Navy Instruction 1730.7E, ¶ 2.i(2). See also Dep't of Defense Instruction 1304.28, § 3.2.

[39] These efforts are often based on anecdotes that are misreported and politicized by those outside the military. And just as often, these anecdotes are either easily debunked or actually examples of religious coercion that the military should have stopped.

[40] Sec'y of the Navy Instruction 1730.7E, ¶ 3.a(6).

DOJ-RLC Comment-002042

A retired Rear Admiral and rabbi explained, when a rabbi helps a Catholic Marine to recite the rosary, he "has not abandoned his faith; he has found room in his heart to know and support the Marine in his, allowing him to find strength and solace there. . . . [The rabbi] is clear on the distinctions between his personal spiritual needs and his responsibility to help others to fulfill theirs."[43] Indeed, "[t]he religious freedom of the troops is not to be sacrificed to meet the demands of the chaplain. The chaplain adjusts to meet the faith requirements of the troops. Doing so creates the right atmosphere for enhanced unit cohesion, enhanced readiness, and enhanced mission accomplishment."[44]

For more than two hundred years, military chaplains fostered a reputation for putting the needs of service members first. The trust in, and respect for, chaplains is based on the understanding that they will uphold their duty to serve fellow service members and avoid taking advantage of their role by interfering with the rights of those whom they serve.

Conclusion

We urge the Commission to support the continued protection of the religious freedom of our service members and their families. The military should accommodate service members' religious exercise—like by allowing Sikh soldiers to wear head coverings, uncut hair, and beards—when it will not harm military readiness, health, well-being or safety, or lead to the harm of or discrimination against others. Military chaplains must support all service members, regardless of their religion or beliefs. And no member of the Armed Forces should face discrimination or religious coercion.

Hi Mary and the Religious Liberty Commission

I hope you had a happy Thanksgiving!

As I have mentioned in a previous email (below), A Voice for Choice Advocacy is the leading organization that is fighting for religious rights for children in California when it comes to school vaccine mandates – both in litigation and legislation.

In this email below, I am sharing with you three testimonies we would like you to add to the February Religious Liberty Commission hearing on the topic of religious liberty restrictions due to school vaccine mandates. I hope these testimonies will convince you to include them on one of the panels.

In this folder https://drive.google.com/drive/folders/1bjL4PHCH1AXyNqLrmLzWiKzeZhM6bp1U?usp=sharing you will find the written and video testimony of:

- Myself, Christina Hildebrand/AVFCA – Organization in CA that has a religious exemption lawsuit against SB 277, speaking on behalf of our organization, our attorney and our plaintiffs
- Danielle and Keira Jones – plaintiffs in our lawsuit. Their story is compelling and sad. Keira is not able to go to high school due to her vaccination status and parents religious beliefs. She is missing out on future opportunities including Track and Field scholarships for college. Having to homeschool has impacted her mental health severely to the point she tried to commit suicide this summer. It has also impacted her parents significantly financially.
- Karen and Riley Amigon –Karen, who is a single mom, and her daughter Riley (7) are also having to homeschool due to their religious beliefs and California's vaccine requirements. Riley is in 1st grade and has her whole K-12 education ahead of her and would love to be able to join her peers in public school. This would also allow her mother to work on an easier schedule.

Re: Constitutional Challenge to California's SB 277 - Denial of Religious Exemptions from School Vaccine Mandates – February 2025 Hearing on Religious Liberty in Public Education

Dear Commissioners:

I wrote to you giving public comment in August to ask to be included in the past Religious Liberty Commission hearing but understand that there is a hearing specifically that will address Vaccine Mandates for schools that violate religious liberties in February in Florida. I ask that representatives of our lawsuit be included in giving testimony during this hearing. This would include:

- Christina Hildebrand, President and Founder of A Voice for Choice Advocacy. Our organization has been advocating for religious rights in California, especially when it comes to school vaccine mandates.
- Jonathon Nicol, Lead Attorney on the Doescher, et al. v. Pan, Ninth Circuit Case No. 25-4531; Eastern District of California Case No. 2:23-cv-02995-KJM-JDP, our case that would require California to have a religious exemption for school vaccine mandates.
- Doescher, et al. Plaintiffs, parents and the children affected by the lack of religious exemptions in California that have been denied public education.

Below I outline the background on this critical religious liberty case currently on appeal in the Ninth Circuit that demands urgent consideration: Doescher, et al. v. Pan, Ninth Circuit Case No. 25-4531; Eastern District of California Case No. 2:23-cv-02995-KJM-JDP.

The Constitutional Crisis

California's SB 277 has created an unprecedented and illegal burden on religious freedom by eliminating all religious exemptions from school vaccine requirements while maintaining broad secular exemptions. Devout families are being forced to choose between their sincere religious convictions and their children's access to public education—a choice no American family should face.

SB 277's Constitutional Defects

Discriminatory Exemption System: SB 277 exempts vast numbers of students – over 30% statewide, and over 50% in urban districts like Los Angeles. Carve-outs exist for Special Education students, those with medical issues, homeless students, children of military, those over the age of majority, undocumented students, and foster youth. Yet religious families—regardless of their sincere convictions—receive no consideration whatsoever.

Given these vast exceptions, California cannot claim with a straight face that the tiny numbers of religiously devout students – 0.58% – would "break the bank" – and it is impossible to claim that SB 277 does not inexplicably single out the religious.

Not Generally Applicable: SB 277 imposes selective burdens on religion and it is not generally applicable. A court cannot deem a statute neutral and generally applicable if it treats any comparable secular activity more favorably than religious exercise. Church of Lukumi Babalu Aye, Inc. v. Hialeah, 508 U.S. 520, 537–538 (1993). Such a statute therefore triggers strict scrutiny under the Free Exercise Clause, which SB 277 fails.
Lack of Neutrality: SB 277 was enacted despite published California Senate Judiciary Committee warnings about Free Exercise violations. Church of Lukumi Babalu Aye, Inc. v. Hialeah, 508 U.S. 520, 533 (1993).

Failure of Strict Scrutiny: As the Supreme Court held in Fulton v. City of Philadelphia, 141 S. Ct. 1868, 1877 (2021), the government cannot claim a compelling interest while "making [exemptions] available to others" but denying them to religious adherents. SB 277 undermines its own stated public health goals by exempting vast categories of unvaccinated students for secular reasons.

Real Families, Real Harm

Our plaintiffs suffer concrete injuries beyond ideological disagreement, including financial hardships for independent study due to SB 277's restrictions; homeschooling expenses after explicit rejection from public schools; and imminent enforcement action and educational disruption.

These families' children experience educational limitations, social isolation, and stigma—all because California refuses to accommodate their religious beliefs while accommodating secular objections.

The Supreme Court's Clear Direction

The legal landscape for religious freedom fundamentally shifted in 20202 with Roman Catholic Diocese of Brooklyn v. Cuomo, 592 U.S. 14 (2020), which the Ninth Circuit itself called "a seismic shift in Free Exercise law." This watershed decision confirmed that where a law treats religious institutions less favorably than comparable secular activities, such law imposes an undue burden on the free exercise of religion.

As Justice Gorsuch noted, off-cited cases like Jacobson v. Commonwealth of Massachusetts, 197 U.S. 11 (1905) and its progeny pre-date modern constitutional formulations and absolutely must be confined to the conventions in modern precedent. Roman Catholic Diocese of Brooklyn v. Cuomo (2020) 592 U.S. 14, 23 (Gorsuch, concurring).

The Supreme Court has consistently applied this principle, reversing every lower court decision that failed to protect religious exercise during the pandemic. See, e.g., Harvest Rock Church v. Newsom, 141 S. Ct. 889 (2020); Robinson v. Murphy, 141 S. Ct. 972 (2020); High Plains Harvest Church v. Polis, 141 S. Ct. 527 (2021); S. Bay United Pentecostal Church v. Newsom, 141 S. Ct. 716 (2021); Tandon v. Newsom, 141 S. Ct. 1294 (2021).

Legal Precedent Supports Religious Families

Recent federal court decisions uniformly support our position:

- The Fifth Circuit struck down similar policies in U.S. Navy Seals v. Biden, 27 F.4th 336, 350-53 (5th Cir. 2022).
- The Sixth Circuit applied strict scrutiny to hold that a county public health order closing all schools, including religious schools, was not generally applicable because it permitted various secular businesses to remain open in Monclova Christian Academy v. 10 Toledo-Lucas Health Dept., 984 F.3d 477, 482 (6th Cir. 2020)

- A Mississippi federal court recently held that providing medical but not religious exemptions violates the Constitution in Bosarge v. Edney, No. 1:22CV233- HSO-BWR, ECF 87 (S.D. Miss. August 29, 2023).

The Path Forward

This case represents more than a dispute over vaccination policy—it tests whether religious Americans can participate fully in public life without compromising their faith. The Supreme Court's recent precedents provide a clear roadmap: laws burdening religious exercise must be neutral and generally applicable, and California's discriminatory exemption system fails both tests.

The stakes could not be higher. If California can force religious families to choose between their faith and their children's education, fundamental religious liberty is at risk nationwide.

We respectfully urge the Commission to give a voice to our organization, lawyer and plaintiffs to share our story of the dire situation in California when it comes to vaccine mandates and religious liberties.

Please let me know what other information you need from me to make this happen.

Thank you,

Dear Religious Freedom Advocates,

This is some more disturbing and disgraceful information regarding a US Politician and the RSS / those behind the Kandhamal Riots.

The RSS and their afflicates in American should be labelled a terrorist organization which would help prevent them from meddling in our elections and stop funding being delivered to them in India from the USA.

Dear Representatives of the Religious Liberty Commission,

My name is Boris Perchatkin. I am a former dissident of the Soviet Union and a former political prisoner. For many years, I worked to defend freedom of religion and documented the persecution of believers in the USSR, work that resulted in five years in prison camps. Over the decades, I have testified before the U.S. Congress, the Helsinki Commission, and international human rights bodies, providing evidence of violations of freedom of conscience.
My family was granted refugee status thanks to the support of the United States and the enduring American commitment to protecting religious liberty.

Current Situation of Christian Pacifists

The ongoing conflict between Russia and Ukraine has placed Christian believers in an impossible position: many are being compelled to fight against one another, while those who refuse to bear arms face severe and often violent persecution.

Across both Russia and Ukraine:

- More than 400 criminal cases have been opened against Christian pacifists, with approximately 800 additional cases under investigation.
- Families of such believers face intimidation, loss of access to education, and confiscation of property.
- There are documented cases of torture, beatings, and prison sentences ranging from 3 to 10 years for refusing military service.
- In Russia particularly, repression is systemic: church closures, confiscation of church property, and severe restrictions on religious activity and missionary work.

Situation of Christian Pacifists in the United States

We estimate that 4,000–8,000 Christian pacifists from post-Soviet countries entered the United States through the Uniting for Ukraine program (U4U), Temporary Protected Status pathways, and CBP One procedures. These individuals fled specifically due to persecution for refusing military service. They represent a very small proportion—approximately 2–3% of the total arriving population—but they are among the most vulnerable.

Today, many face:

- risk of ICE detention or deportation (with documented precedents),
- near-certain imprisonment, torture, and family separation if returned,
- bullying, discrimination, and educational disruption for their children.

We possess extensive documentation confirming these risks.

Our Delegation and Purpose

Our delegation includes:

- former prisoners of conscience,
- pastors and clergy,
- human rights defenders and analysts

—individuals who have personally experienced persecution and have documented violations of religious freedom for decades.

We advocate on behalf of the 4,000–8,000 Christian pacifists who arrived through U4U, TPS, and CBP One. This is a small, peaceful, and deeply at-risk group urgently needing protection.

Our Goal

To ensure that these individuals have a clear legal pathway to safety in the United States so they can avoid imprisonment and persecution and continue to live, work, and worship freely.

We respectfully ask you to consider targeted legislative or administrative measures that would provide federal protection for Christian pacifists who conscientiously refuse to participate in war.

Our Request

We respectfully ask:

1. For your support of this initiative;
2. For assistance in facilitating the review of cases involving Christian pacifists at risk of removal;
3. For guidance in developing a reliable legal protection mechanism for this group within the United States.

We stand ready to provide additional documentation, case files, and expert testimony. We would also welcome the opportunity for an in-person meeting at your convenience.

Dear John,

This is a pretty interesting discovery especially after the way that I was betrayed by some of the other International Religious Freedom Advocates who lacked the INTEGRITY to speak up about how Hindutva who persecute and kill Christians , are also operating in the US and meddling / interfering in our politics / elections which has a negative impact on Christians and it also appears it has a negative impact on US Tech Workers .

One way to rectify the problem would be to label the RSS and their affiliates such as the OFBJP, HSS, VHP and others part of the Hindutva USA as TERRORIST and hold them accountable especially if they don't repent of what they are doing to Christians. And open the door to Christians because of they are the ones being false accused of crimes and jailed and or persecuted and killed.

I think I discovered some more information that fits in with your email and helps explain why President Trump really doesn't care about Christians in India and may just be using American Christian and other Christians around the world for political gain.

It may also help prove that the Religious Liberty Commission is really not about rooting out anti-Christian Bias because if they were then they would address this and Trump Officials such as Tulsi Gabbard and Kash Patel who are obviously pro-Hindutva and have been helping them with their anti-Christian Agenda.

You are right. If Trump's ancestry could be tied to Slave traders, it would be widely discussed though we should not hold him responsible for it the same way Biden or any other public figure today could not be or rather should not be held responsible.

In a way, even Kamala Harris's mother side of the family could also be tied to oppression and imposing untouchability of native people between the 8th and 17th centuries. But we can not hold her culpable either. But as far as Kamala is concerned, my worry was about the wisdom of picking a Hindu to be a running mate while Biden himself is quite aged.

America is most likely to tilt leftward in the next four years. The Christian identity of America could be impacted substantially. In fact it is not much about what they would do policy wise but rather the demographics could force them to tilt leftward.

However, at the same time be aware that Trump is not God sent either. I hold him squarely responsible for actively stopping the state department from putting India on the spot for the persecution of Christians. I say this because i know the details and i am intimately involved in several efforts to over ride the strong objection from Trump to even discuss India's persecution of Christians. But Mr. Trump not only objected to any such effort, he also steadfastly refused to help the Christian church in India everytime an issue was brought to him.

His White House actively blocked any funds that could have helped Christian victims in India in the last four years. He actively encouraged Hindu nationalists to carryout their agenda. There is much more to this story than I can or should write in an email. This is something the public does not know. I am assuming you did not know these things either.

Though I am a registered republican and supported Trump last time, honestly I could not let him destroy the church in India by his ignorant and misplaced loyalty to a radical Hindu militant movement and its leaders. People i know show a direct link between such efforts and financial gain for the Trump Corporation. Please understand i am not saying these things lightly. It is a very serious matter.

I am also very worried about what approach Biden would take given his deputy is a Hindu married to a Jewish man. It is not a coincidence that the Hindu nationalists and the Israeli leaders have forged an alliance since 1970s. I simply do not know what to expect from a Biden Kamala administration. But I can only hope that they won't actively support the Hindu nationalists like Trump has.

I am sure this is not what you would have expected from me. But you must understand that I am extremely sad that Trump has single handedly tried to destroy the church in India. I want to believe he did that out of ignorance and not knowingly. But if I ever find out he did it knowingly for financial gain, I will make it a mission to expose the ill gotten wealth by sacrificing the Christians in India. God bless.

John

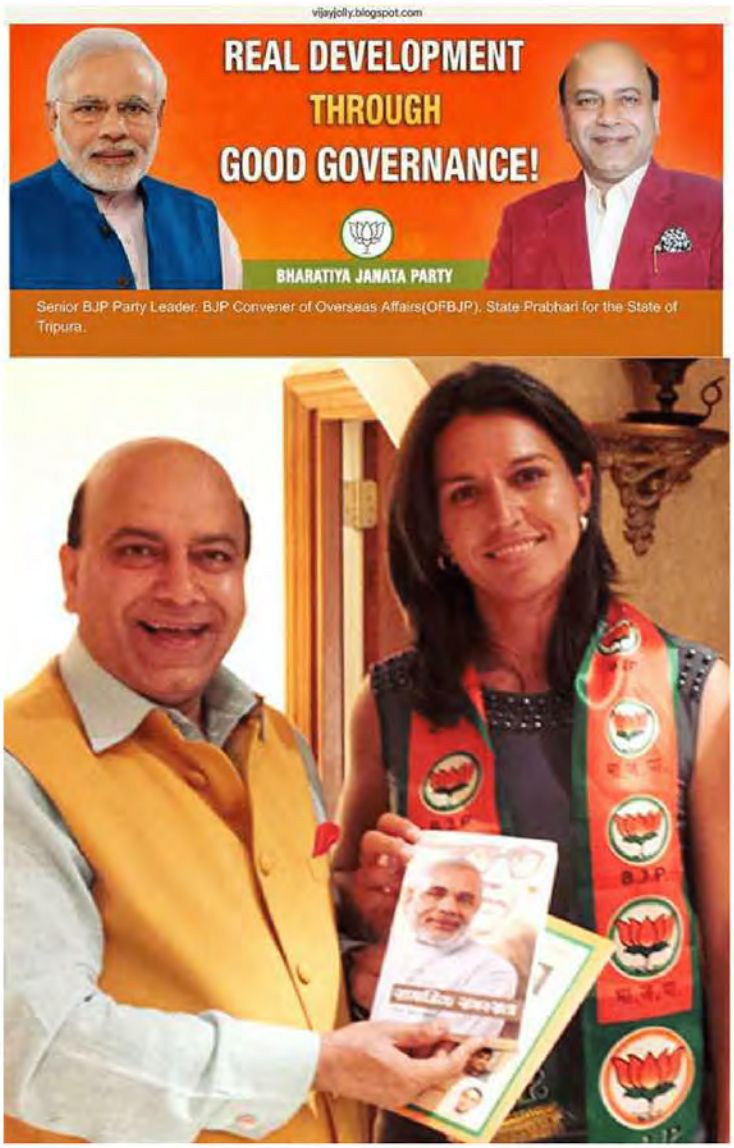
The Blatant Agenda of the BJP Government: Eradicating Christianity in India - Updated

The Blatant Agenda of the BJP Governmen...



I had several angry email exchanges with Ram Madhav and said they turned my books look and format into a kind of Communist style agitprop. This really upset Ram Madhav. In the end a truncated version was made that included the work of others called Kandhamal - a fact file (I think)

I then selfpublished the report as I had finalized it calling it Orissa in the Crossfire - Kandhamal Burning.

Then in 2011 I finally went to Kandhamal itself and interviewed as many people I could on behalf of the RSS. This report was never made and I eventually uploaded all the interviews to youtube to make it available to the public or any researchers authorities etc.

After I accepted the invitation of a breakaway RSS faction to do a similar report on the Bangladeshi Hindus Ram Madhav and the RSS basically excommunicated me. Thus my 2nd report never made.

Coincidentally I have known Tulsi Gabbard since she was a kid and used to work for her dad. I therefore spent 2 years trying to convince the RSS to take her seriously. They finally did and when she won the 2012 election Ram Madhav called me from India to congratulate me and that was pretty much thenlast time ive heard from him or anyone in the RSS.

DELUSIONAL CRAP from the RSS the same Radical Hindus who helped build the Democrat Congressional Career of Tulsi Gabbard.

FOREWORD
CHAIRMAN

I am pleased to author this report about the violence against Christians in India and its direct impact on the interests of the United States. I believe the violence against Indian Christians indicates where India is headed. It is up to us to determine what that means to America's national security and trade interests in that part of the world.

In the 1980s and 1990s, US policies towards China were driven by business interests. When the Tiananmen Square massacre happened, America sided with the business lobby. The US policy then was decidedly pro-Chinese regime with the false hope that China would change one day. America argued that any action to upset the Chinese leaders could hurt the pocketbooks of the American people.

Right about that time, America needed the cooperation of a military regime in Pakistan for its strategic interest in Afghanistan. America was more than willing to ignore the cherished principles to please a dictatorship and stood idly by witnessing the epic slide of Pakistan into becoming a radical state. The radicalization of Pakistan was taking place at the cost of the lives of the Christians, Hindus, and Ahmadis there in broad daylight. In Washington, diplomats and political leaders argued that America was in Pakistan only because of our strategic interests and not to police them or to tell them how to run their country.

As a result, America's long-term security interests, as well as its business interests, have suffered both in China and Pakistan. While Pakistan is permanently lost to being a much-needed American ally, China has become foe#1. In fact, China, flush with American dollars, is threatening the global order and America's primacy.

Now, successive American Administrations are again making a wrong choice in India. America seems to be ignoring India's epic slide into a radical religious state in recent years as Hindu nationalism is gripping the lives of millions of people. Hindu nationalism is taking India down the same path the Islamist parties did in Pakistan to that country during the 80s and 90s.

Instead of raising the alarm, America is now talking about how amenable the Indian nationalist leaders are to America's short-term goals in Asia. Political appointees at the NSC and DoS seem more interested in getting an agreement to sell a weapons system or soybeans rather than focusing on America's long-term interests.

If America is willing to turn a blind eye to India's slide into a religious fundamentalist state, the result will be the creation of another Pakistan or Sri Lanka-like country in South Asia. It will directly threaten America's national security interests in that region.

This 2023 Report shows in the strongest terms why naming India as a Country of Particular Concern is the least America could do in her own interest.

PREFACE
PRESIDENT

India's epic slide into becoming a radical Hindutva state must concern the US and other democracies.

A member of the US Commission on International Religious Freedom (USCIRF) recently pointed out, as per the law, the President must accept the recommendations made by USCIRF after extensive research. The law also provides the President the authority to waive the mandatory sanctions that follow. But unfortunately, successive US Administrations have interpreted the law to ignore USCIRF recommendations.

The International Religious Freedom Act states

The Title IV: Presidential Actions - Subtitle I: Targeted Responses to Violations of Religious Freedom Abroad - Directs the President, for each foreign country in which the government engages in or tolerates violations of religious freedom (including particularly severe violations), to oppose such violations by taking certain actions and promoting the right to freedom of religion in that country.

(Sec. 402) Requires the President to review annually the status of religious freedom in each foreign country during the preceding 12 months, and to designate countries of particular concern for religious freedom, including agencies, instrumentalities, and officials responsible for particularly severe violations of religious freedom.

(Sec. 403) Directs the President to: (1) consult with the violating foreign government prior to taking any action against it; and (2) report to the Congress.

(Sec. 405) Specifies among the actions the President may take: (1) public condemnation; (2) delay or cancellation of scientific and cultural exchanges; (3) withdrawal, limitation, or suspension of U.S. development assistance and U.S. security assistance; (4) instruction of U.S. executive directors of international financial institutions to vote against loans primarily benefiting the foreign government responsible for such violations; (5) restrictions on the issuance of licenses to export any goods or technology to such foreign government; (6) prohibition against the making, guaranteeing, or insuring of loans, or extension of credit by certain U.S. financial institutions to the violating government; and (7) prohibition of U.S. Government procurement of goods or services from such government. Provides for: (1) commensurate actions in substitution for any of the above presidential actions; and (2) binding agreements with foreign governments obliging them to cease, or take substantial steps to address and phase out, the acts, policies, or practices constituting violations of religious freedom.

(Sec. 407) Authorizes the President to waive the requirements of this Act if certain conditions are met.

However, this law does not authorize the President or the Secretary of State to ignore the findings and recommendations of the Commission. FIACONA hopes that the US Administration will agree with the reasoning made in this report backed by overwhelming data.

One million plus Indian American Christians ask the US State Department to correct its wrong interpretation of the law and accept what the data shows about the extent of violence against Christians and other religious minorities carried out by a political party that is running the government of India by using the government agencies, institutions, and its officials. Failing to do so will amount to repeating America's past mistakes with China and Pakistan.

2023 REPORT
HIGHLIGHTS

This is the second Annual Report produced by the Federation of Indian American Christian Organizations of North America (FIACONA) exclusively on India, to provide critical information and analysis for Washington policymakers.

- FIACONA has recorded 1198 cases of verified violence against Christians in India during the calendar year 2022.
- The data shows that violence against Christians in India is planned and orchestrated by Hindutva nationalist political parties as a part of a larger design to create a Hindus-only state, to the exclusion of the people of Abrahamic faiths.
- FIACONA urges that human rights-related issues be proactively integrated into US policies uniformly, not selectively.
- FIACONA believes that India's slide into becoming a Hindu nationalist state will adversely impact America's national security and financial interests.
- FIACONA urges the US Administration to advise the Union Government of India to collect data on the violence committed against all weaker sections of the society. Making such data public could discourage the fascist tendency from getting stronger in India.
- The US must require all international and corporate investors in India to incorporate 'Equal Opportunity Disclosure' labels to include religious and linguistic diversity for their hiring process in India.
- FIACONA asks that the US Congress pass a law that would allow the victims of religious violence to sue the perpetrators, be it a non-state actor or a government official, in the courts under the US jurisdiction for both criminal and civil negligence.
- FIACONA asks the US Administration to allocate 10,000 Asylum Visas annually for Christian victims of religious violence from India.
- This report quantifies the cost of ongoing harassment against Christians in US dollars. FIACONA estimates the total loss to be around $100 million (INR 790 crores).
- FIACONA implores the Union Government of India to compensate victims for their losses, including lynchings, damages to churches, homes, and properties, jail time, psychological and emotional toll, and legal fees to defend against false charges.
- FIACONA calls on the Indian government to permit the victims of fake police cases to sue the officials involved for damages.
- FIACONA demands that the government of India reconstruct all churches and places of worship, including homes that were demolished illegally.
- There may be an effort to tone down the violence against Christians ahead of the G-20 Summit in September 2023 to avoid international criticism. But FIACONA expects violent attacks to increase following the Summit, based on earlier patterns of behavior by the Hindutva extremists.

INTRODUCTION
FIACONA

The Federation of Indian American Christian Organizations (FIACONA) is a not-for-profit established in 2000. The 2023 Annual Report, prepared and published in Washington, DC, presents authenticated and precisely documented real-time data for 2022. This data shows that attacks against Indian Christians were premeditated, organized, and meticulously planned and executed by India's Hindutva political groups and their network of organizations working closely with law enforcement and other agencies of the Hindu nationalist government.

Last year's 2022 Annual Report was the first of its kind in the Western World and was the beginning of the 'empirical and analytical' study of India's domestic social policy pertaining to Indian Christians.

According to the projections from the latest official census taken in 2011, Indian Christians would constitute over 30 million in 2022. By this count, Christianity is the third-largest religion in India.

This report, is an essential reading and reference material for law enforcement and government officials in countries where large numbers of Indian immigrants live, such as the USA, the UK, and other Western nations. Hindu nationalism and the radicalization of Hindu youth have reached US soil.

This report has documented and verified 1198 cases of attacks against Christians in India during the calendar year 2022. Thousands of attacks are believed to have never been reported.

DOJ-RLC Comment-002080

BACKGROUND
CASE STUDIES

In early August 2022, a Christian man, Madhavan, took a day off to visit his family during a wedding in his hometown. He was working in a town nearby. But when he reached his hometown, his children learned that he had recently become a Christian. The family disapproved of his conversion. So, they forced him to denounce his newfound faith. His children took his Bible and burnt it. He was harassed and verbally abused. But he refused to give up his faith.

A few days later, on August 14th, Madhavan's wife and son went looking for him in the town where he was working. They finally found him in a church. After a brief but intense argument, they assaulted Madhavan physically. But the man refused to fight back. The family took him with them to their home. Later Madhavan's charred body was found in the woods near their village.

It is not uncommon in India for people to profess different religious faiths living in the same household. For example, Sikhs and Hindus live together in the same household. Similarly, Christians marrying Hindus also live together. But lately, this is becoming an issue. One of the reasons for this change seems to be the Hindu nationalist party's constant propaganda against Christians.

In another incident on April 25, 2022, the Education Department officials of the state of Karnataka, ruled by the Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP), visited a Christian school in the city of Bengaluru and "investigated" if the school teaches Christian scriptures to students. It was prompted by a complaint from the Hindu Janajagruti Samiti, a religious extremist group affiliated with the Rashtriya Swayamsevak Sangh (RSS).

DOJ-RLC Comment-002081

The Education Minister of the BJP government in Karnataka falsely claimed that there is no provision for compulsory Bible reading in schools. He promised that his government will take action against the school. According to the principal of the school, Mr. Mathew, their lawyers will answer all the questions raised by the government. However, according to the Indian Express, a local English Daily, alumni of the school have rejected the claims of the Hindu nationalists.

It is just one example of how the elected governments are on a witch hunt against Christian institutions in India under the BJP rule.

India did not experience any such institutional harassment until recently. Since her independence, the Union of India has made impressive progress towards becoming a modern liberal democracy with strong institutions of governance. But as the data in this report shows, such a trend toward becoming a liberal democracy holds true no longer. The data shows that India is becoming an 'autocratic dictatorship' with a substantial percentage of the Hindu population following the political trend set by Hindu nationalists. Society is growing intolerant of Christians and other religious minorities. The Sweden-based V-Dem Institute called India an Electoral Autocracy. FIACONA asserts that holding national and state-level elections alone does not make India a democratic nation.

In the West, India is known as the land of yoga. It is associated with Mahatma Gandhi and nonviolence. But, in reality, India is changing rapidly.

The recent increase in violence against Indian Christians in India is attributed to the rise of Hindu nationalism, popularly known as Hindutva. This ideology follows beliefs akin to Nationalsozialismus (Nazism). Like the SS, the parent organization of Hindutva ideology is known as the RSS (Rashtriya Swayamsevak Sangh). In fact, the RSS is modeled after the SS[1].

This Hindu nationalist movement promotes a Hindu Rashtra (Hindu Nation) to the exclusion of non-Hindus. Like the Nazis, the Hindutva groups uses propaganda, false accusations, and terror tactics to promote religious hatred among the Hindus. The RSS uses every occasion and every development in the country to define and identify non-Hindus as the "other".

In 1948, Mahatma Gandhi was assassinated by former members of the RSS for refusing to agree with the RSS ideology[2]. Shockingly, the RSS celebrates Gandhi's assassin as a hero of an India they envision[3].

The current government of India, run by the Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP) is the political arm of the RSS. The data in this report reveals that this is the reason why the violence against Indian Christians, Muslims, Dalits, farmers, manual laborers, dissenting Hindus, and women has increased exponentially in the last decade after the BJP came to power.

This report also argues why Washington must clearly understand the imminent threat from passive Hindu extremism.

Brutality against Indian Christians & Anti-Conversion Law

During 2022, FIACONA recorded 1198 incidents of violence against Indian Christians. It is a 157% increase from the 2021 data. The increase in these incidents can be directly attributed to the propaganda by the BJP government officials accusing Indian Christians of large-scale 'forced' conversion. A sustained propaganda campaign for the past ten years or so against Christians has made a lot of people believe it. But the government census data shows that the Christian population has not increased in the last 75 years. According to the census estimates, Indian Christians are still around 2.4% of the population despite 2000 years of existence in Indian territories. The RSS claims that the actual number of Christians is much larger. They have no evidence or government data to back up their claim. However, such arguments should have no place in a secular democracy either. Yet, BJP-run state governments are using the false propaganda of largescale conversion to impose restrictions on people to change their religious faith.

The anti-conversion laws, or the Freedom of Religion Act as it is known in many Indian states, are written in such a way that providing education or medical assistance to a Hindu can be construed as 'force' - a prosecutable offense for attempted conversions. The law argues providing education or medical assistance to a poor Hindu exploits his or her economic condition and makes the Christian faith attractive to him/her. The law implies that it is a form of force on poor Hindu people and hence is a criminal offense. For all practical purposes, this law is a mirror image of apostasy laws (minus the death penalty) one finds in several Islamic countries.

On August 13, 2022, the northern Indian state of Himachal Pradesh, under the Hindutva BJP rule, became the 11th state to pass the most restrictive and highly punitive draconian version of such laws yet on the books. This law makes it a crime punishable by ten years of imprisonment to convert to the Christian faith. At the same time, the law does not restrict Christians from converting to Hinduism. This law deprives an adult citizen of his fundamental right to choose a faith of his choice. Many of these so-called anti-conversion laws also apply unrealistic and restrictive conditions to grant permits to build a church or even allow prayer meetings in private residential homes.

Our data indicate that these anti-conversion laws are weaponized against Indian Christians. In the states where these laws are enforced, Hindutva militants often barge into Christian homes and churches, claiming to stop the conversion. No evidence or proof is needed for such accusations. The data also shows that police file false charges against Christians using this law.

FIACONA recorded a total of 355 instances where Christians were arrested on false charges of converting Hindus to the Christian faith.

Although no Christian charged under this law has ever been found guilty, it places an unreasonable financial and emotional burden on Christians. Under the BJP rule, anti-conversion laws helped normalize the violence and harassment of Christians. It has made religious hate a politically acceptable behavior.

DOJ-RLC Comment-002083

Extreme Cases of National Security Laws Against Christians

Intel agencies and law enforcement often resort to charging Christian leaders under national security acts and holding them indefinitely without charging them with any crime. The case of Fr. Stan Swamy is a prime example of it.

Fr. Swamy was a Jesuit priest working among the tribal people. He championed the civil and land rights of the tribal people against the government taking over their lands for mining purposes. So, an irritated government arrested Fr. Swamy and refused to grant bail. The government claimed to have found incriminating evidence in Fr. Swamy's computer. The agencies said he was conspiring to assassinate political leaders and create unrest in the entire country.

The BJP government's case against the Jesuit priest was a fabricated lie, and the evidence was planted by National Intelligence Agency (NIA) on his personal computer. After arresting the 83-year-old priest suffering from the advanced stage of Parkinsons' disease along with a dozen other intellectuals, the Special Judge Dinesh E. Kothalikar of the N.I.A.'s special court said Father Swamy and others "hatched a serious conspiracy to create unrest in the entire country and to overpower the Government, politically and by using muscle power," and rejected their bail application. The priest died in police custody.

On December 13th, 2022, the Washington Post revealed, "Now, an examination of an electronic copy of his computer by Arsenal Consulting, a Massachusetts-based digital forensics firm, concludes that a hacker infiltrated his device and planted evidence, according to a new report by the company. The analysis is more proof that Swamy and his co-defendants were framed in a case that exemplifies the Indian government's crackdown against civil society and prominent critics, the defense team says[6].

Contribution of Christians to the Development of India

From its early arrival in the first century AD, the Christian faith has enriched and helped shape India's trajectory in more ways than one could imagine. Later, when Christian missionaries began to arrive in the 14th century AD onwards, they focused on education and health care. They established lower and higher levels of educational institutions. Unlike the Hindu system, which expressly prohibited education to non-Brahmins and women, Christian missions focussed on educating women and children of all castes.

It was only during the middle of the 20th Century that many regions managed by locally elected governments under the British Raj began to fund large-scale public education systems. A detailed research paper written by Fr. Kennedy is available to the public on their portal. This report outlines a detailed history of the schools and colleges started by Christian missions from 1540 in India. For your convenience, FIACONA has added select portions of that paper as Appendix #3 here.

It is striking to note that most top-level bureaucrats and businessmen in India have received their education from Christian institutions until recently. It is true even today to a large extent, though, due to capacity limits, the share of the Christian educated population has come down lately.

The BJP's Hindutva nationalist militia denies the contribution of Christian educational institutions to the trajectory of India. India has become an economic powerhouse and a regional power from being an impoverished nation, not by accident. Some from the Hindutva nationalist movement have argued that Christian schools encourage students to convert to the Christian faith by making them study the faith compulsorily. Christian school managements deny such charges.

DOJ-RLC Comment-002084

Violence and Destruction of Properties

Hindutva terror groups consider Indian Christians alien to India. Hindu militant vigilantes demolish churches and force Christians to convert to Hinduism. Since the BJP party came to power in 2013, these militant groups have enjoyed the tacit support and protection of the Union (Federal) government and State governments wherever the BJP is in power. Such protection comes in the form of shielding perpetrators from arrests by local police, biased bureaucratic orders, and protection from prosecution.

Non-State Actors and their Network

Non-State actors in India are a group of extremist militant organizations that, at times, function as proxies for the ruling BJP party and, at other times, elected to public offices as members of the BJP party.

Members of Hindutva militant organizations like the Hindu Mahasabha, Vishwa Hindu Parishad (VHP)[7], Bajrang Dal, and Akil Bharatiya Vidyarti Parishad (ABVP) contested and got elected on BJP ticket. For example, Ms. Pragya Singh Thakur, a member of the ABVP and accused of terrorism by a court, was elected to the Indian Parliament as a member of the BJP party[8]. Also, Mr. Vinay Katyar, the founder and president of Bajrang Dal - the other militant organization, has been a Member of the Indian Parliament from the BJP[9].

Hence, members of militant groups are part of the BJP governments at the state and national levels. They effectively control territories while causing egregious human rights violations of the civilian population based on one's religious affiliation. For all practical purposes, these groups are the trained militia of the current BJP government. It is also important to note that the Annual CIA Report has named VHP and Bajrang Dal as militant organizations. A list of such militant organizations affiliated with the BJP government through its parent organization is listed in Appendix #1.

DOJ-RLC Comment-002085

Duplicity of the Government Response

The current Union Government of India is selective in responding to religious violence in India. Most of the time, the leaders of the BJP government follow a no-comment policy when attacks take place. The Indian public sees their observed silence as the approval of their violence. However, while traveling overseas, top officials such as the Prime Minister, the External Affairs Minister, or other leaders tell the western leaders/audience that they are speaking out and taking action against such violence against Christians. This research data suggests otherwise.

There could be a reason why the BJP government leaders are reluctant to say anything about the attacks. FIACONA's report shows that Hindutva terror groups are the real support base for the BJP party and act as its militia. Hence, the Indian Prime Minister's silence domestically is seen as their tacit approval to attack the Christians and that they want it to continue. But for the consumption of the Western audience, the Indian officials repeat a few talking points without considering their truthfulness or taking any action to support their claims.

When Western governments raise this issue with Indian officials, they respond by saying, 'some isolated incidents of violence are bound to happen in a large country of 1.4 billion'. They argue that these "isolated" attacks on Christians should not be exaggerated. They also effectively argue that the BJP party may have been involved in certain attacks, but the government of India is not. They say the government of India is secular, and the Constitution of India binds the government agencies to be secular. This report presents evidence to show that every attack on Christians in India is neither sporadic nor isolated. They are strategically planned actions by elected and non-elected officials of the BJP party who hold government positions.

To a certain extent, the Indian government and the ruling BJP are able to get away with it because businesses beholden to the ruling BJP are also funding many think tanks and lobby groups in the United States with the sole purpose of protecting the image of India's fascist leaders.

US Long-Term Interests and the People of India

The United States, since its formation, has been committed to protecting religious freedom at home and around the world. It has created creditable non-partisan institutional mechanisms to document human rights and religious freedom violations. These institutions are responsible for producing their annual reports. The State Department's annual report documents violence against religious minority groups around the world. It has also documented serious violations by certain political parties in India. But the US Administration has been unwilling to accept the findings of its own reports. The US Administration also does not apply uniform standards and laws to all countries.

FIACONA believes that the US foreign policy must have a long-term perspective so that the offending nations understand and work out a durable human rights policy. Discriminating policies of the US Administration regarding human rights issues from country to country is ineffective. It has the potential to discredit the whole process. FIACONA believes that the US Administration's current focus on turning a blind eye to religious violence in India for short-term gains will come at the expense of America's long-term interests in the region.

Concurrently India continues to ignore and promote its unabated human rights violations against Christians and other religious minorities besides the native people of India and the lower castes. Genocide Watch, a civil society organization in partnership with the Holocaust Museum of Washington, has predicted that India is moving towards witnessing a large-scale genocide of its religious minorities sooner than later[10].

HINDUTVA NATIONALISM
IN THE UNITED STATES

Hindus, by and large, enjoy a certain level of goodwill and respect among the American public. This image was built over several decades through the examples of Gandhi, Nehru, and other leaders. This favorable public image provides a convenient cover for several Hindutva militant extremist organizations today to hide behind. These extremist groups are operating in plain sight as Hindu cultural and educational organizations across the United States. It allows them to raise funds as non-profit organizations. Reports show that those funds are then sent to aid a religious terror agenda that hurts the Christian community in many parts of India.

Hindutva extremist sleeper cells operate in the United States as Hindu religious, cultural, and business associations. They promote an extremist ideology among second-generation Indian Americans. FIACONA strongly believes that these organizations must be flagged prominently in public debates in the USA and must be brought to the attention of the Justice Department and local law enforcement officials.

Almost every month, new organizations are registered in one of the states under the guise of a cultural organization, a religious organization, a business/trade promotion network, or some political entities affiliated with either the Democratic or Republican parties. One common interest for all these groups is to raise funds to support the activities of the radical Hindutva nationalist organizations in India or to protect their image in the US.

In most cases, their publicly stated agenda would not make one suspect their motives. These Hindu militant organizations on US soil have names like "Hindu Foundation", "Cultural Foundation", "Trade Council", "Leadership Forum,"...etc. They often talk about education and supporting the Hindu heritage. But their actual programs show the promotion of a radical Hindutva agenda on American soil.

For example, the stated goal of a Hindu Foundation based in Washington, DC, says it aims to educate the public about the Hindu tradition and advocate for issues and policies serving the Hindus and others. But they are actually providing a platform for radical extremist leaders to come to the US in the name of cultural exchange. These organizations become the conduit to raise funds. These organizations facilitate travel and speaking engagements for many radical leaders, including many accused of terror-related charges. Then they also use frivolous lawsuits to silence the voices that try to expose them. Some of these entities are also reported to be holding "workshops" for other extremist organizations on how to use the American legal system and the courts to shut down their critics.

Another Hindu Foundation out of Frisco, TX, held a fundraising gala in the heart of the lone star state in November 2022 to " demolish churches" in India. The invitation also declared that it needed more funds to forcefully convert Christians to Hinduism because, in their mind, Christians in India were once Hindus, and white men illegally converted them, so they should be converted to Hinduism by all means.

These so-called Hindu foundations and organizations play a critical role in exploiting many less informed US-born Hindu students and radicalizing them. A good majority of this immigrant population that came to America in the past 50 years or so were predominantly from a specific upper caste group whose counterparts in India led the campaign to make India a Hindutva-only country to the exclusion of Abrahamic faiths. This particular segment of the population is driving this agenda in the US, and it has found plenty of help from US-based entrepreneurs and companies.

FIACONA acquired information about another non-profit in New Jersey recently. This organization calls itself a service organization. They raised several million dollars in 2022 to support an effort in India called Ekal Vidhyalayas. These Ekal Vidyalayas are a network of one-teacher schools in remote Indian villages.

It is a noble idea to provide education to children in remote villages. But what this charity doesn't tell most donors in America is that these single-teacher schools they fund are run by an RSS-affiliated religious terror network focused on brainwashing the children. Many of these children educated in such schools are believed to have ended up as foot soldiers for terror attacks against Christians under the direction of the RSS.

There are many such organizations sprouting all across the US, operating as Hindu charitable groups. Some openly say what they plan to do, while others hide them from the public. But it is a web of extremist networks that have established a well-funded operation on US soil. Many of them also spend a considerable amount of money on political contributions to both the Democratic and Republican parties. Of course, because these groups are hiding behind the benign image of Hinduism, many lawmakers in Wahington are said to have fallen for the campaign contributions. (FIACONA will issue a report on how many Members of Congress have inadvertently accepted campaign contributions from groups that are connected with radical militant organizations).

Organizations such as the one in Frisco, TX, or New Jersey are not just creating trouble in a foreign country like India. Rather, they are becoming an American problem as these organizations are creating a radical network under the radar in calm and peaceful neighborhoods in America. With over 5 million immigrants from India living in the United States, a good number of them may feel that they are not part of the mainstream and could be very vulnerable to becoming radicalized. These organizations operating on US soil could affect almost every community in all major cities.

NOTE: Many believe Hindus can not be radicalized. It is true. Modern Hinduism is not violent. But Hindu political nationalism, defined as Hindutva, is a violent ideology. It is not Hinduism. It is akin to Buddhism and political Buddhism, like the ones we witness in Myanmar or Sri Lanka. When extremism can flourish within Buddhism, it should not surprise anyone to see that young vulnerable Hindu adults could also be radicalized.

DATA AND ANALYSIS

Improving upon the 2022 data-collection methodology, the 2023 data for this report was collected through self-reporting on dedicated phone numbers, which were shared throughout the Indian Christian community. The 2022 data was collected through a well-planned dedicated phone reporting system, and hence the vetting of incidents in 2023 has also improved. Therefore the data presented in the following consists of those violent incidents reported almost immediately. A number of these incidents were corroborated through secondary sources such as videos, newspaper reports, and in a few cases, access to police documents known as the First Information Report (FIR).

The reported violent atrocities against the Christians by the Hindutva terror groups have substantially increased to a total of 1198 during the calendar year 2022 as opposed to a total of 761 incidents collected in 2021.

The number of assaults where Christians sustained physical injuries stands at 321. In each incident, several people were injured, and the majority required hospitalization. There were 107 incidents of property damage and 35 attacks where church buildings sustained substantial physical damages.

The police have often arrested the Christian victims instead of those who attacked them in 355 incidents. In each such incident, many Christians were arrested, making the number of people arrested much higher. In some cases, police arrested the Christians and held them for several days without charging them before releasing them eventually.

The data also shows that in 248 attacks, charges were filed against the Christian victims, of which 243 cases were filed under the so-called Anti-conversion laws passed by BJP-run states. It means the Hindu militia would first attack either a house-prayer meeting or a church gathering under the pretext that a conversion ceremony is being held. Then call the police. The police arrest the Christians, charging them with "conversions" under the Anti-conversion Laws.

Only in 31 instances have police agreed to file cases against the assailants. It is important to note that in 11 such incidents when the Christian victims of violence asked to file a case against specific leaders of the BJP and its Hindu militia, the police refused.

In one case, the police instructed the medical staff not to report the injuries of the Christian victims. Several Christian victims have also informed us that the police accompanied the Hindu militia at the time of the attacks.

The following is the analysis and key findings of the data. A complete list of violent attacks can be found in Appendix #4 (All personal details were removed to protect the identity of the victims, and a concise description was entered for the record)

Estimated Monetary Loss Due to Violent Attacks on Christians

(The value is calculated at 80 Rupees per 1 US$):

Christian victims of orchestrated religious violence are left to fend for themselves. These attacks took place as a result of the failure of the state to protect the Christians. Christian victims are forced to bear personal losses besides medical treatment, legal fees, and the cost of rehabilitating or rebuilding their lives.

FIACONA believes the government must provide financial compensation for its failure in its constitutional obligations to protect the victims.

FIACONA has calculated the total loss suffered by the Christian victims from all reported cases in this document. This is the first time such damages were assessed monetarily for the Christian victims. See Table 1 for data. Each type of loss is assigned a monetary value for compensation.

The research team of this report has arrived at a direct financial loss of $ 17.5 million (Rs.140 crores) to the victims listed in this report. However, the rehabilitation, re-employment, health recovery, and resettlement of displaced people will additionally cost $18.75 million (Rs. 150 crores).

Besides these direct losses suffered by the victims, an economic estimate of the loss to the national GDP due to this violence and associated civil unrest during 2022 is estimated at $62.50 million (Rs. 500 crores).

Thus there is a total national loss of $98.75 million (Rs.790 crores) caused by the Hindutva terror attacks on the Christian Community that are confirmed in this report alone. Please note that these estimates do not include similar, much higher losses to the nation caused by terror attacks against other religious communities (Muslims), Dalits, women, and farmers.

FIACONA demands that the Indian government constitute a committee of highly respected unbiased scholars acceptable to Indian Christian leaders to study the extent of the violence and physical property damage, psychological, medical, and legal damages, and estimate accurate financial packages to the affected people, churches, and villages.

Such rehabilitation measures can also be initiated and executed through Christian NGOs and churches that bear the interest of these victims.

FIACONA could assist the US State Department and the USAID with a detailed study, should it be commissioned to assess the financial damage caused by the Hindu terror groups in India.

DOJ-RLC Comment-002091

Punitive Restrictions on Christian Organizations

The BJP government, upon coming to power, made it a priority to shut down financial contributions from overseas Christian organizations to their Indian counterparts. Example: blocking the Foreign Contributions Regulation Act (FCRA) license to Mother Teresa's Missionaries of Charity and thousands of other Christian NGOs. At the same time, RSS-affiliated organizations raising monies from US corporations and foundations are sent to Hindutva terror groups operating in India under the protection of the BJP government. Though most Hindutva organizations in the US are covert about their real work in India, a few organizations, like the one in Texas, have been careless in letting the donors or the supporters know what they do in India.

Most RSS-affiliated organizations in the US say that the funds benefit organizations affiliated with the RSS or its programs in India. An average donor would consider the work of these organizations to be benevolent. But only a well-informed donor would be able to ascertain that the funds thus raised are sent to RSS-affiliated organizations that are at the forefront of the violence against Christian institutions and the Christian population.

US-based Hindutva charities are complicit in the violence by making financial contributions to RSS-affiliated organizations. This complicity makes such organizations liable for monetary damages caused by their support to militant organizations in India.

FIACONA demands the US Revenue and Treasury agencies classify these funds as terror funding by US-based organizations.

DOJ-RLC Comment-002093

Premeditated and Targeted

The interesting dynamics in the state of Uttar Pradesh (UP) is that the terror attacks against Christians are highly planned, coordinated, and executed by picking a Christian target, such as a house prayer, church worship, or Christian schools. These attacks are neither inter-religious tensions naturally developing at the village level nor are they sporadic. For example, the state of UP has a population of 200 million, but there are only 356,000 Christians in the entire state. Christians are less than 0.2 percent of the state population. Hence it is impossible for inter-religious social tensions to develop organically. However, 334 violent attacks were reported from this state in 2022 alone. Further analysis revealed that most of these attacks happened in small to larger towns and not in villages. All these attacks targeted Christian institutions or small prayer meetings with a handful of Christians scattered around the town. These Christians become the unprotected soft targets for local BJP leaders looking to consolidate their Hindu support in urban areas.

Given this kind of geography and demography, violent attacks against the Christians in the state of UP can happen only when they are targeted. The RSS groups also receive official support from the police and local administration. Local BJP leaders always lead these attacks. And at all times, the police arrest the Christian victims and charge them with attempted conversion under the state's anti-conversion laws instead of arresting the attackers. Hence, it clearly indicates premeditated attacks on Christians by the Hindutva terror groups.

As per the media and police records, the major militant organizations, namely Bajarang Dal, VHP, and Hindu Mahasabha, are the perpetrators of violence. It is carried out with the tacit support of the local police and political patronage in the state of Uttar Pradesh.

Killing and Mutilation

The first killing of a Christian pastor in 2022 happened in the Bijapur district of Chhattisgarh on March 17. According to Police sources, Pastor Yallam Shankar was stabbed to death by a mob of 50 masked men when the pastor was having his supper at his home.

The attack took place while the Hindu festival of Holika Dahan (a celebration of good over evil) was being celebrated in the Angampalli village where Pastor Shankar lives.

Before he became a pastor in his village, Yallam served as the head of the village. During that time, he was vocal in expressing his support to the rights of Christians. After he retired, he received several threats to his life because he continued to be a vocal supporter of the Christian community there. Hindu nationalist leaders had demanded that he abandon his Christian faith and stop supporting Christians.

The RSS-affiliated Hindu nationalists had a clear motive. The day after Pastor Yallam was murdered, local police concluded that he was killed by the Maoist insurgents. The police said Maoists suspected him of being a police informant. Police even released a handwritten note supposedly left by the killers giving their reasons for killing the Pastor. It is a very convincing argument except for a few contradicting details and total negation of the actual threat he faced from the Hindu nationalist leaders.

Maoist connection always works when police run out of reasons to turn a story in their favor. In this case, the question is, why would Maoist insurgents stab the Pastor if they wanted to kill him? Maoist carry more guns and rifles than the local police, and they always shoot and kill their targets. They don't have a history of stabbing anyone. The Maoists also do not leave handwritten notes. Besides, there was no threat from any Maoist outfits to his life at any time.

The family and local pastors who know Pastor Yallam say he was killed by a group of Hindu nationalists who were upset about his continued support for Christians in the area.

This incident, as well as the murder of Madhavan, as discussed in the introduction, is the result of society becoming radicalized.

In another instance, on October 23rd, Pastor Adam Digal was killed in the Kandhamal district of Odisha state. But the police wanted to close the case quickly by saying it was a road accident. They did not want to say that Pastor Digal was killed for his faith by Hindu nationalists. Such a statement has the potential to create widespread unrest in that area, as that district witnessed widespread rioting in 2007 after a radical Hindu leader was assassinated. So, according to police, a tree fell on him while he was riding a motorcycle. The problem was there were no fallen trees. The pastor's family disputed the official narrative. The authorities refused to undertake even a mandatory postmortem of the deceased in this case.

Denying Burials Rites to Christians

Denying the Christian community the right to bury their dead is one of the special tactics adopted by Hindutva forces in the State of Chhattisgarh. More than three-fourths of the reported 26 denials were from the state of Chhattisgarh. Villagers refused even a two-month-old dead infant burial rite on the pretext that her parents were Christians.

Expulsion from Villages

Chhattisgarh is also becoming a specialist of sorts in ostracizing and expelling a large number of Christian citizens from their villages. Our data indicate that more than 700 families across 75 villages have been expelled from their villages. The total number of people expelled from these villages, including women and children, would exceed 3500. They were forced to leave their homes and villages unless they renounced their Christian faith. This internally displaced population was never even acknowledged by the respective governments in India nor by any international agencies.

Note that all these incidents are 'targeted' attacks. They were planned and executed by local BJP leaders. These conflicts and expulsions do not develop without external political pressure.

Police Collusion with Militia

The data shows that state governments ruled by the BJP party have shown a high number of police cases against Christian victims. It also shows that the BJP leaders protect their militia, who carry out these attacks, through official and non-official interventions. The police under BJP governments have refused to file cases against Hindutva militias in at least 11 instances. In contrast, the police filed three cases against Hindutva militants for attacking Christians in states that were not governed by the BJP party.

The data also shows that the Hindutva militia disrupted 416 prayer meetings/ worship sessions. In more than 289 such cases, the victims have reported that the Hindutva militia was accompanied by the local police. It indicates that the police were not only acting as an extension of the Hindutva militia, but a large number of attacks were pre-planned to arrest Christians during the Sunday service. Without the state government's approval, the police could not have taken the side of the Hindutva militia against the Christians. The law and order responsibility rests with the state governments in India, which directly control the police under the Indian system.

SUMMARY
AND RECOMMENDATIONS

- Though India has one of the best Constitutions a country could wish for, often, the police, judiciary, and other officials do not follow due process under the law. Often the courts decide cases based on political pressure and public opinion by setting aside Constitutional guidelines.
- The Union government of India refuses to collect data and therefore claims to have no data on matters that will embarrass them. When private citizen groups and NGOs produce data, the government dismisses it by questioning its credibility. FIACONA will not be surprised if the Union government of India calls the data published in this report to be unreliable or worse.
- The US must prevail upon the Union government of India to make financial compensation to the victims of religious violence through reputed agencies that are acceptable to the Christian community.
- The US must let India know that it has to reconstruct all churches and places of worship and homes demolished.
- The US Administration must take the violence against different sections of the people in India seriously and include it as a part of the negotiations while dealing with investment, trade, and military cooperation with India.
- All international investment and business contracts must incorporate 'Equal Opportunity Disclosure' labels to include religious and linguistic diversity across the nation, the States, and corporate deals and negotiations.
- The US Congress must pass a law that enables the victims of religious violence to sue, in the US, not only the perpetrators but also those officials and leaders who motivate, patronize, order, or shield perpetrators of egregious human rights violations in other countries.
- The State and the Treasury Departments must use tools like the Global Magnitsky Act to impose travel sanctions against any official or unofficial leaders who are involved in leading, aiding or abetting terror campaigns against Christians, other religious minorities, women, Dalits, farmers, indigenous people, and other affected groups.
- The US Administration must set aside at least a token number of 10,000 visas for Indian Christian asylum seekers each year as long as the Hindutva nationalist government refuses to turn away from its current course.

An organization called Rashtriya Swayamsevak Sangh (RSS), which started in the 1920s, is considered to be the originator of all Hindutva groups. RSS is a militant paramilitary organization that identifies itself only as a "Hindu Cultural organization". Its agendas are executed through a number of militant groups.

The following are some of an estimated 130 shadow organizations created, inspired or assisted by the Rashtriya Swayamsevak Sangh (RSS), compiled by Dr. Shamsul Islam, a Professor of Political Science at the University of Delhi. (Many of these organizations in India have their presence in the US through their sister organizations, often registered as charities)

[1] Akhil Bharatiya Vidyarthi Parishad (student)

[2] Vidya Bharati (education)

[3] Bharatiya Janata Party (political)

[4] Vishwa Hindu Parishad, Bajrang Dal, Durga Vahini, Dharam Sansad or Religious Parliament (anti-minority). The RSS insists that Dharm Sansad is the highest supreme body of Hindutva. This book tells us that "VHP established Dharam Sansad in 1984." Clearly, Dharam Sansad or the Religious Parliament is a puppet in the hands of the VHP.

[5] Akhil Bharatiya Vanvasi Kalyan Ashram (tribal)

[6] Bhartiya Mazdoor Sangh (working class)

[7] Bhartiya Kisan Sangh (peasants)

[8] Rashtriya Sevika Samiti (national women's committee)

[9] Seva Bharati and Tatsam (social service). SV has taken over governmental welfare programmes in slums and poor areas even in cities like Delhi even under non-BJP governments. It is alleged that these organizations are basically fronts to divert government welfare funds to the RSS.recently got a license for sending adopted kids to foreign countries.

[10] Vishva Vibhag (foreign affairs)

[11] Akhil Bhartiya Rashtriya Shikshak Mahasangh (teachers)

[12] Bhartiya Shiksha Mandal (education)

[13] Rashtriya Sikh Sangat (for propagating Hindutva among Sikhs)

DOJ-RLC Comment-002099

According to the Economic Times, the most aggressive organizations of the RSS are:

Dharam Jagaran Samanvay Samiti: It is the 'conversion' wing of RSS. Its Ghar Wapsi initiative made it to headlines after Modi government came to power. This outfit was led by Rajeshwar Singh. Its main task is to convert Christians, Muslims and Tribals to Hindutva. They allege that the Christians are offering education and medical treatment that induces people to convert. (If so, the question is: what prevents Hindutva organizations, since they claim to represent the vast majority of Indians, and has access to many times the funds and resources of Indian Christian organizations, to provide better education and medical facilities?).

Akhil Bharatiya Hindu Mahasabha: One of the oldest Hindutva organizations in India. They honor its most famous member Nathuram Godse, the assassin of Mahatma Gandhi.

Vishwa Hindu Parishad: It is one of the groups connected to the RSS. VHP is most active and even has overseas branches. They compete with other RSS outfits to show they can force more Christians to convert to Hindutva than their sister organizations.

National Hindu Movement: The group has held demonstrations in various places in Goa and Maharashtra, urging all Hindu parents not to "deprive" their children of Hindutva culture.

Rashtriya Hindu Andolan: This Maharashtra-based umbrella organization of many Hindutva groups has been protesting for years for removal of the word 'secular' from the Indian constitution. They want India to stop aspiring to be a secular country. Rashtrawadi Shiv Sena: One of its demands is that Indians must boycott all Pakistani products.

Shiv Sena Hindustan: The group in May 2015 defaced and blackened signages of roads named after Muslim kings Akbar and Firoze Shah in New Delhi.

Hindu Janajagruti Samiti: The group offers crash courses on "how to protect Hindu girls from Muslims" and "how to perform Ghar Wapsi" and has also accused PM Modi of being not harsh enough on religious minorities.

Hindu Dharma Sena: The group was accused of vandalizing a church in Jabalpur in March 2015 and five of its members were arrested..

Hindu Makkal Katchi: An extreme rightwing group in the southern state of Tamil Nadu that came to public attention for opposing writer Perumal Murugan's book, 'Maathorubagan', the group continued its protests even after the writer announced that he has given up writing, citing pressure from fundamentalists.

Hindu Rashtra Sena: The group was accused of distributing provocative pamphlets in Pune which led to unrest in the city, as well as to the murder of a 28-year-old technical expert.

USCIRF Outraged by Omission of Nigeria and India from State Department's List of Countries of Particular Concern

Washington, DC – The U.S. Commission on International Religious Freedom (USCIRF) finds it inexplicable that the U.S. Department of State did not include Nigeria or India in its latest designations of "Countries of Particular Concern" (CPCs) under the International Religious Freedom Act (IRFA), turning a blind eye to both countries' particularly severe religious freedom violations.

"There is no justification for the State Department's failure to recognize Nigeria or India as egregious violators of religious freedom, as they each clearly meet the legal standards for designation as CPCs. USCIRF is tremendously disappointed that the Secretary of State did not implement our recommendations and recognize the severity of the religious freedom violations that both USCIRF and the State Department have documented in those countries," said USCIRF Chair Nury Turkel. "The State Department's own reporting includes numerous examples of particularly severe religious freedom violations in Nigeria and India."

Pursuant to IRFA, the State Department re-designated 10 countries as CPCs—Burma, China, Eritrea, Iran, North Korea, Pakistan, Russia, Saudi Arabia, Tajikistan, and Turkmenistan. The State Department also added Cuba and Nicaragua to its CPC list, both of which previously had been on the Department's SWL. In its 2022 Annual Report in April, USCIRF recommended re-designation of the 10 CPC countries, and also recommended CPC designation for Afghanistan, India, Nigeria, Syria, and Vietnam. At that time USCIRF recommended SWL placement for Cuba and Nicaragua based on conditions in those countries in 2021, but the situation in both has deteriorated in 2022.

The State Department placed on its SWL Algeria, the Central African Republic (CAR), Comoros, and Vietnam. USCIRF recommended in its 2022 Annual Report that Algeria and CAR be placed on the SWL, but also that Azerbaijan, Egypt, Indonesia, Iraq, Kazakhstan, Malaysia, Turkey, and Uzbekistan be included as well.

"USCIRF welcomes the State Department's recognition of the worsening situations in both Cuba and Nicaragua this year. We also appreciate the State Department's inclusion this year of CAR and Vietnam on its Special Watch List. While we believe conditions in Vietnam meet the CPC standard, we hope the State Department's SWL designation will encourage the Vietnamese government to take concrete steps to address long standing religious freedom concerns," said USCIRF Vice Chair Abraham Cooper. "USCIRF is disappointed that the State Department did not include Afghanistan as a CPC this year. While it did re-designate the Taliban as an 'entity of particular concern,' or EPC, that does not reflect the reality that the group is the de facto government of the country."

The State Department also designated nine EPCs, which are non-state actors that engage in systematic, ongoing, and egregious violations of religious freedom pursuant to IRFA. USCIRF recommended the redesignation of seven of these actors in its 2022 Annual Report: al-Shabaab, Boko Haram, Hay'at Tahrir al-Sham (HTS), the Houthis, Islamic State in the Greater Sahara (ISGS), Islamic State in West Africa Province (ISWAP) (also referred to as ISIS-West Africa), and Jamaat Nasr al-Islam wal Muslimin (JNIM).

Since the issuance of its 2022 Annual Report, USCIRF has consistently shared its recommendations with the U.S. Department of State and Congress. USCIRF's recent publications include updated reports on Religious Freedom Conditions in India, Blasphemy Laws in Nigeria, Violence and Religious Freedom in Nigeria, Religious Freedom in Afghanistan, Religious Freedom in Nicaragua, and Constitutional Reform and Religious Freedom in Cuba. During 2022, USCIRF held hearings on Afghanistan, Nigeria, and Nicaragua.

The excerpts of a paper by Dr. Kennedy published in a journal Vol.17 No.6 January-March 2018 is publicly available and quoted here:

The Santa Fe School in Goa, founded in 1540 by the Franciscans, was the first formal Christian educational enterprise anywhere outside Europe. In 1542 it was taken over by St. Francis Xavier and in 1548 it was raised to the status of a college and renamed as St. Paul's College.

Soon more missionary schools appeared in other parts of India — at Bassein (1546), in Cochin (1549), at Punnaicayil in Tamil Nadu (1567), in Madurai (1595), in Pondicherry (1713), a High School in Tamil at Ellacurichi in Tamil Nadu (1731) and a Sanskrit School at Mannanam in Kerala (1846)

He further notes: The period 1813 — 1833 can be termed as, the period of Elementary Schools wherein the focus was on elementary schools and primarily teaching was done through the medium of vernacular language. By 1818 the Serampore Missionaries established more than 100 schools with about 10,000 boys. However, in the period 1833 — 1857, the emphasis was shifted to secondary schools and colleges imparted through the medium of English language. It was during this period that some of the outstanding Christian colleges came into the forefront in India — St. Xavier's College in Kolkatta (1835), the Madras Christian College (1837), Robert T. Noble at Masulipatnam (which later was named as Noble College) (1843), Hislop College at Nagpur (1844), and St. John's College in Agra (1853)13 are highly reputed to this day. Till the beginning of the twentieth century Christian educational institutions had played a dominant role in the education of young Indians.

Other well known Christian colleges, established during this period were Scottish Church College (Kolkatta, 1830), Wilson College (Mumbai 1832), Madras Christian College (Chennai 1857), St. Joseph's College (Tiruchirappalli 1844), St. John's College (Agra, 1850), Christ College (Kanpur, 1866), St. Xavier's College (Mumbai 1869), Baring Union Christian College (Batala, 1874), St. John's College (Palayamkottai, 1878), St. Alosius College (Mangalore 1880), St. Stephen's College (New Delhi, 1881), and The American College (Madurai, 1881), and St. Joseph's College (Bangalore 1882). Some of the early colleges were started in big cities - Calcutta, Madras, Delhi and Bombay – but many early founders tended to prefer rural areas. Colleges were started in small towns like Agra, Kanpur, and Madurai, and remote places like Palayamkottai, Machilipattinam, Batala, Guntur, Indore and Nagercoil. They reflected the missionary determination to reach out to the ordinary people of India and not simply favor the urban high-caste elites.

Christians have been pioneering educational initiatives from pre independence time onwards and now has some 25000+ schools, colleges and universities even in very remote and rural areas, imparting quality education to all

The missionaries were the first to promote women's education in India. Women's education led to the enlightenment of Indian women of all religions, castes, and regions in modern times. The first ever Girl's school in India was opened by the missionaries at Kottayam in 181917. The CMS missionaries Mary Anne Cooke, and Mrs. Wilson started female education in Calcutta in 182018. Serampore Mission took the lead in organizing female schools in the Serampore area in 1821. With the progress made through Zenana visitation, a number of mission societies have established special societies such as the Zenana Mission and the Bible Medical Mission and the Church of England Zenana Missionary Society (1881)19. The first attempts towards the education of women in North East India were made at the turn of the twentieth century. The inception of women's education was a major breakthrough in the transformation of society at large.

Clearly Indian Christian Higher education has made women's education a priority. The first women's college, Isabella Thoburn College, was established in Uttar Pradesh State in 1886 with the noble goal of sharing with women the love of the Lord through higher education. Quite aptly the motto of the college is "We Receive to Give." This was followed by the establishment of the second college exclusively for women, Sarah Tucker College (1895), in Palayamkottai, Tamil Nadu, a highly conservative and underdeveloped area. In 1947, the year of independence, out of the seventy-two Christian Colleges in India, sixteen were exclusively for women. Quite interestingly, all four Christian colleges started in 1948, the first year of independence, were for women. Historically, the importance of providing education to women among Christians is well documented. In the co-educational Christian colleges, 56% are girls.

This is in regard to disturbing rumors that are floating around. Does Paula White practice mysticism? Also, is there a substantial amount of money (millions) unaccounted for in TPUSA and do they operate several shell companies to hide their nefarious activities (including funds going to JD Vance and Erica Kirk)? I am a staunch supporter of President Trump and would like to be able to honestly defend against these rumors. Thank you for a reply. ~~ Sincerely, Denise Curtis, Address

As you know I have the evidence including confessions which identify the RSS / BJP Asset American Brannon Michael Parker who worked for the RSS / BJP, Indian Foundation, Ram Madhav, Nirmala Sitharaman and NSA Ajit Doval and help them justify and coverup the RSS / BJP / Hindutva lied about who killed the swami and then used Parker to justify and coverup that the RSS / BJP/ VHP / Hindutva raped, beat, stabbed, cut to pieces, burned , raped , tortured, persecuted and murder their follow Indian Citizens.

A Trump supporter or what you want to refer to me as identified Parker as a RSS / BJP Asset and then flipped him and got him to confess and provided evidence including interviews Parker made in India while illegally working for the RSS and those interviews help paint what really happened in Kandhamal and who was involved and how they lied to the US State Department in the report submitted by RSS Leader Ram Madhav.

Some of Parker's confessions were political in nature and helped identify other RSS activities and assets in the US who have been meddling / interfering in our politics / elections for years and who have been monitored / under surveillance for years so US Agencies are in the process of finalizing investigations and will hold them accountable.

We discovered that the RSS, BJP, VHP, Sangh, Hindutva, Hindu Nationalist in the video and others wrongly accused Christians of killing the swami when it was Maoist. Then they persecuted and killed Christians / mass murdered Christians and then used American Brannon Michael Parker to justify and cover it up in a report submitted to the US State Department by RSS Leader Ram Madhav.

In 2018 / 19 I tracked down Parker and started a recorded dialogue with him which lead to some serious confessions which lead to a phone and more confessions and then several in person recorded interviews and more confessions including Parker denouncing the report submitted to the US State Department and said that it was wrong because it was propaganda.

I had read Parker was once involved in politics in Hawaii so I asked if he knew Tulsi Gabbard and this was one of his replies.

I had several angry email exchanges with Ram Madhav and said they turned my books look and format into a kind of Communist style agitprop. This really upset Ram Madhav. In the end a truncated version was made that included the work of others called Kandhamal - a fact file (I think)

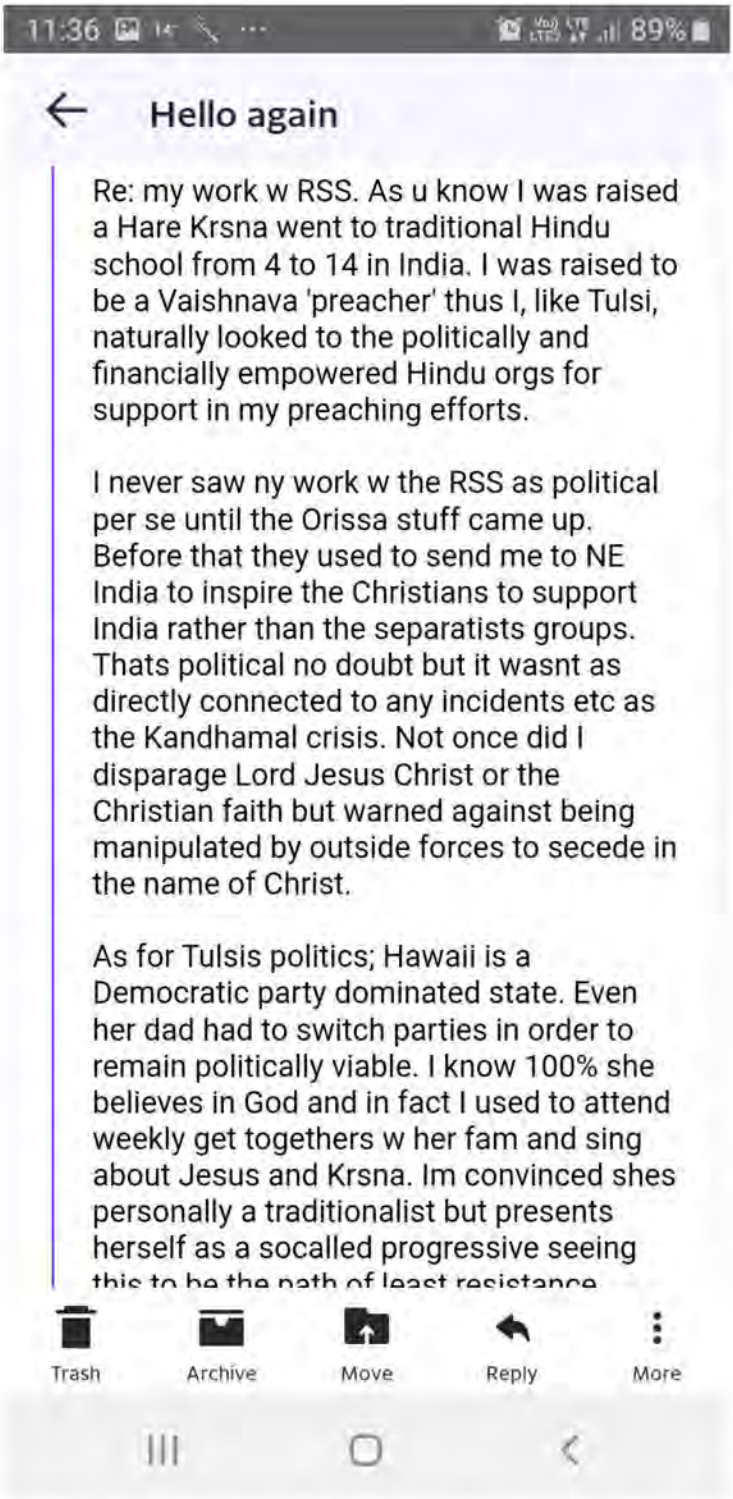
I then selfpublished the report as I had finalized it calling it Orissa in the Crossfire - Kandhamal Burning.

Then in 2011 I finally went to Kandhamal itself and interviewed as many people I could on behalf of the RSS. This report was never made and I eventually uploaded all the interviews to youtube to make it available to the public or any researchers authorities etc.

After I accepted the invitation of a breakaway RSS faction to do a similar report on the Bangladeshi Hindus Ram Madhav and the RSS basically excommunicated me. Thus my 2nd report never made.

Coincidentally I have known Tulsi Gabbard since she was a kid and used to work for her dad. I therefore spent 2 years trying to convince the RSS to take her seriously. They finally did and when she won the 2012 election Ram Madhav called me from India to congratulate me and that was pretty much thenlast time ive heard from him or anyone in the RSS.

This is another but there are still more.



I did more research and discovered another journalist who reported on Tulsi Gabbard and we shared notes and discovered more evidence that linked Tulsi Gabbard to the RSS, BJP, VHP, Sangh, Hindutva, Hindu Nationalist and their Unregistered Foreign Agent at the times Overseas Friends of the BJP.

I don't agree with the political ideology who wrote this and I don't agree with everything they write but they linked Tulsi Gabbard to the same Radical Hindus behind Parker and the International Coverup of the Human Rights Abuses / Religious Persecution of Christians in Kandhamal.

Subject: FARA Act , Michael Brannon Parker , RSS, Ram Madhav , India Foundation, Sitharaman and Doval

Dear Ambassador Brownback,

I recently read several articles regarding former Obama Adviser / Counsel Greg Craig being indicted for violations related to the FARA Acts and it reminded me of Michael Brannon Parker working with / for the RSS , Ram Madhav and Hindu Nationalist to convince the US State Department that Christians were not the victims in Orissa in 2008 and that the Hindus were the victims of Western Christian Missionaries and others.

I attached Parker's confession again in which he confessed to working with / for the RSS and basically initiating the relationship between the RSS / Ram Madhav and Rep Tulsi Gabbard.

And there are also the recordings Parker made made in Orissa that is evidence he worked with / for the RSS / Hindu Nationalist to help cover up Religious Persecution in his report that Ram Madhav submitted to the US State Department.

Anto Akkara also has evidence that the RSS, Ram Madhav, the India Foundation, present India Defense Minister Sitharaman and National Security Adviser Doval were also behind the report .

Anto has been working on this for 10 years and I have been working on this for approximately a year including by contacting the White House, DOJ, US State Department, You, Riley Barnes , Sameer Hossain, USCIRF and others but we haven't seen anything that convinces us or anybody else that the Trump Administration is working to advance Religious Freedom in India and mitigate Religious Persecution in India while the India / Hindutva Lobby is advancing their cause in the US and RSS / BJP / Hindu Nationalist campaign funds are flowing back and forth between the US and India.

I believe Justice and Mercy go together but these Hindu Nationalist need to come forward to take responsibility , make amends, show remorse, repentance and prove their remorse and repentance is sincere with actions / deeds because since 2008 they haven't proven they have repented / changed.

I am reporting these alleged crimes and Human Rights Violations to you , US State Department Policy Advisers Riley Barnes and Sameer Hossain so please assure me that they will be thoroughly investigated by the US State Department and DOJ.

I am respectfully requesting a reply back so I am assured that there is a thorough investigation.

If there was no violations then please clearly state that in a official letter .

Thank you, Will Rogers

Year ago or more I had voted for and contacted Rep Doug LaMalfa and requested his help but his staff didn't provide much help and just directed me to the FBI who I said that I already contacted but didn't get much help.

Rep LaMalfa would be loosing his seat under Democrats / Gavin Newsom's Unconstitutional / illegal gerrymandering .

During my research I discovered that the RSS, BJP, Sangh, Hindu Nationalist , Hindutva have a strong lobby in the US and are meddling / interfering in our politics / elections which is pretty obvious from what I just showed you about Tulsi Gabbard but there are others.

This is one of the Hindutva Operatives and she is now attacking President Trump, MAGA, White Christian Nationalist and DOJ Civil Rights Official Harmeet Dhillion and accuser her of being a terrorist supporter.

Egotistic, arrogant, venomous Donald J. Trump and his MAGA mob fear brown Hindu Indians. His own ancestors arrived penniless — Frederick Trump, his great-grandfather, a 16-year-old barber and miner, entered the U.S. as an unskilled laborer. His "qualification"? White & Christian. Poor Mary MacLeod, his mother, a house servant and maid from Scotland, came with almost nothing. Her qualification? White & Christian. Meanwhile, his current wife somehow snagged a genius visa. What kinda genius did she bring from Slovenia?

Yet today, Trump slaps $100,000 H1B fees on skilled immigrants while selling "gold" and "platinum" cards for millions.

The irony is sharp: the family that clawed its way from humble background now trembles at the success of brown Hindu Indians.

* Unique Advocacy for Truth & Justice for Kandhamal

With Masters in English literature, Diploma in Journalism and LL. B from Delhi University, Anto Akkara has been a journalist for three decades with international media. The 57-year-old journalist has reported extensively from hotspots in South Asia on human rights, religious issues and social problems. He has to his credit several 'leader' articles for the Times of India and his wire reports have been carried even by The Washington Post.

Akkara reported extensively from the ground the 2004 tsunami devastation in South Asia, protracted ethnic war in Sri Lanka, oppression in Myanmar, birth of democracy and devastating earthquake of 2015 in Nepal, winning over a dozen national and international media awards.

David vs Goliath Fight for Truth & Justice for Kandhamal:
When the national media forgot the simmering anti-Christian violence in remote Kandhamal jungles of eastern Odisha state in 2008, Akkara stirred the nation's conscience with his investigative book: Kandhamal - a blot on Indian Secularism.

(Christian targets across Kandhamal went up in flames following the murder of Hindu Swami Laxmanananda Saraswati on August 23, 2008. Weeks of unabated violence, triggered by the propaganda that the Hindu leader's murder was a Christian conspiracy, left nearly 100 Christians dead, 300 churches and 6,000 Christian houses plundered rendering 56,000 Christians homeless with the state mandarins remaining spectators.)

P. Chidambaram, the Home Minister of India had a personal audience with the author following the headlines the book made and visited Kandhamal soon after receiving the book. Chidambaram even told Indian Parliament in July 2009 that what happened in Kandhamal was 'a blot on the face of Orissa' – quoting the title of the book.

The journalist's maiden book had been provoked by government officials' refusal to register criminal cases even in murders. In three weeks after the release of the book, Odisha government acknowledged five murders highlighted in it, paving way for Rs half a million ($ 6,800) compensation to each of the dependant families. Despite his goal being achieved on 'unacknowledged murders', Akkara continued to pursue Kandhamal with frequent trips to the remote region.

Hindu nationalist conspiracy: Soon after the Swami's murder, four Christians had been beaten up and dumped in police station by Hindu bigots, after inserting the Bible and a knife in their bags. It was World Hindu Council leader Praveen Togadia who announced the names of 'Swami's Christian killers' and not the police.

The police released them after 40 days and arrested seven 'innocent' Christians - six of them illiterates including a mentally challenged. After four years of trial, the second judge too who had questioned the prosecution was transferred in 2013 and court was shut down before the verdict.

Soon, Akkara called on Home Minister Sushil Kumar Shinde in New Delhi, requesting a federal inquiry into Kandhamal due to the bizarre situation: Fast Track trial over, judge transferred, court shut down and innocents behind bars.

With shocking revelations, the journalist brought out 'Kandhamal craves for Justice' on the 5th anniversary in 2013, exposing the travesty of justice: a single conviction in 29 murder trials completed while 'innocent' Christians languished behind bars on trumped up murder charge.

The BJP rode to power after the May 2014 election. Yet, Akkara continued his pursuit and forayed deep into remote jungles to meet the illiterate wives of the 'innocents'. The Hindu neighbours too vouched for their innocence. The scrutiny of dozens of court documents, dubious books and videos from 'India Foundation', led by BJP stalwarts, confirmed the Hindu nationalist conspiracy.

DOJ-RLC Comment-002202

The journalist author came out with the masterpiece of his arduous research on Kandhamal 'Who Killed Swami Laxmanananda? in May 2016, silencing the ruling Hindu nationalists with stunning evidence.

'Kandhamal tale in new light', wrote 'The Telegraph' English daily about the investigative book that read like a detective novel decoding the mystery behind the murder of the Hindu leader on a sacred Hindu festival night and why seven 'innocent' Christians languished in jail for the murder.

Why was the Swami killed?: "The actual intention of the Europe, US, the Pope and Sonia Gandhi was to convert the entire region into the independent Christian land. God has sent me from Himalaya, and it was stalled. That is why their campaign was to drive away swami and create a Christian land. As long as I am alive I shall not let you do that"- Swami Laxmanananda had boasted years before his murder. This claim was cited as proof in the documentary 'The Agony of Kandhamal' - produced by the India Foundation that anchored the Kandhamal cover-up.

Since the Swami had named even the Pope and Sonia Gandhi as people who considered him a threat to the Christianization of Kandhamal, it was easy to spread the conspiracy theory that Christians had killed him. Hence, a contract killing was commissioned.

When the Christians in Kandhamal were brutalized after Swami's murder, the Hindu Nationalist leadership expected, the international Christian lobby led by the Pope would persuade Sonia Gandhi (of Italian Catholic origin) as chairperson of the ruling federal coalition to dismiss the Odisha government in which the BJP was a coalition partner at the time. That would pave way for the BJP to sweep the 2009 election – with the propaganda that Mrs. Gandhi was 'Papa ki Beti' (Pope's daughter to Christianize India).

But the intelligence agencies got the wind of this outlandish conspiracy and cautioned the federal government against stepping on the Kandhamal landmine.

Cover up that exposed the conspiracy: When the grandiose scheme fell flat, top Hindu nationalists launched an elaborate cover up under the 'India Foundation', producing ghost books and documentaries on Kandhamal. As if in a fairy tale, these dubious products reached Akkara from Ram Madhav, spokesperson of Hindu nationalist network and BJP general secretary!

The 'Harvest of Hate - Kandhamal in Crossfire' by Michael Parker was published by the India Foundation in 2009. The book carried a 'Publisher's Note' by India Foundation director Nirmala Sitharaman (presently Finance Minister of India) who described Michael Parker as 'born in India' while the profile at the end of the book declared that Parker was 'born in the US'!

"In August 2009, this report was presented to the US State Department by Ram Madhav, a National Executive of the Rashtriya Swayamsevak Sangha," confirmed Brannon Parker who later published the same book with minor modifications as 'ORISSA in the CROSSFIRE - Kandhamal Burning'.

Since the 'India Foundation' had listed no phone number, the intrepid journalist reached the address printed in 'Harvest of Hate': 343, Chandanwadi Apartment, Sector 10, Dwarka, New Delhi 110 045. This venture gave him the shock of his life. The flat was owned by Ajit Kumar Doval, Prime Minister Narendra Modi's top strategist as the National Security Advisor!

(In September 2019, Akkara met Brannon Parker at Seattle with the help of US national William Rogers who had traced Brannon. In this meeting, Brannon confirmed that he was 'fooled' into the Kandhamal cover-up book by Ram Madhav and wrote even 'lies' about the Christians.)

Caught red-handed in the Kandhamal cover-up, India Foundation has recast itself to exorcise the Kandhamal ghost from haunting it by shunning the word 'Kandhamal' itself on its website.

DOJ-RLC Comment-002203

The stunning findings of 'Who Killed Swami Laxmanananda?' - released in major cities with eminent jurists, writers, and activists – made the media highlight the travesty of justice with headlines:

- Book questions conviction of Christians in Kandhamal violence
- New Book Reignites Questions Over Alleged Cover-Up of Kandhamal Killings
- Christian community falsely framed in Saraswati killing: Book
- Book On Kandhamal 'A Wake-Up Call For The Nation'
- Odia media rewrites Kandhamal script
- Kerala CM demands fresh probe into death of Swami Laxmanananda

This relentless campaign has baffled many as the vociferous Hindu nationalist clan led by the ruling BJP has not uttered a word against Akkara nor challenged the charges raised by the fearless journalist repeatedly naming even top BJP government officials as Kandhamal 'conspirators.

Such has been the impact of the book that after reading the book, a retired judge of Odisha High Court (FYI only - Justice A S Naidu whose report of the Kandhamal Inquiry Commission not yet made public) called the author for a meeting and said: "I have gone through your book. Congratulations."

Online signature campaign for Kandhamal's 7 Innocents: Prior to the release of the investigative book, the journalist author discretely brought the illiterate wives of the seven 'innocents' on March 3, 2016 to New Delhi to launch the online signature campaign for the release of their husbands in the presence of a host of national celebrities.

(The dignitaries including opposition political leaders were stunned when the crew of half a dozen TV channels left on 'urgent call' minutes before the launch of the campaign, indicating that powerful forces were trying to black out the campaign. The crusader had several censorship experiences including his email account getting disrupted in critical moments ahead of his programs.)

The bold campaign, bordering on 'contempt of court' for challenging the judicial system, generates four instant emails from each online signature to the Chief Justice of India, the President of India, the Chairman of the National Human Rights Commission and the Chief Justice of Odisha High Court.

In follow up, Akkara released the stunning documentary 'INNOCENTS IMPRISONED' on the 10th anniversary of Kandhamal on 23 August 2018. Visual presentation of Kandhamal's travesty of justice, the documentary calls for endorsing the online petition, the documentary has been dubbed into key Odia, Hindi and Malayalam languages.

The 17-minute documentary inspired THE WIRE (critical news portal) interview - 10 Years of Kandhamal Riots: "7 Innocents Have Been Convicted," Says Anto Akkara. The bare-all interview exposed why the 'innocents' including a mentally challenged continued to languish in jail for a crime they never committed.

Bail for the 'Innocents': After the Odisha High Court rejected bail to them a second time on December 4, 2018 – contrary to norms laid down by the Supreme Court, Christian legal networks moved the federal Supreme Court challenging the denial of bail.

When the Supreme Court granted bail to Gornath Chalanseth, Akkara rushed to Kandhamal to receive the first 'innocent' coming out in May 21. Two months later, Bijay Kumar Sanseth too was granted bail by the Supreme Court.

However, the bail applications of the remaining five - Bhaskar Sunamajhi, Buddhadeb Nayak, Durjo Sunamajhi, Munda Badamajhi and Sanathan Badamajhi - got adjourned repeatedly in the Supreme Court. The routine hearing on the bail applications were adjourned repeatedly - not by judges but by the office of the Registrar of the Supreme Court!

Akkara challenged this judicial farce in a November 21 Facebook post: "When will the Hon'ble Judges of the Supreme Court fix the 'COMPUTER' bug in the Registrar's Office that has been adjourning repeatedly the bail pleas of Kandhamal's remaining five INNOCENTS?" (Coincidence or not, the bail order for the remaining five 'Innocents' from the Supreme Court came five days later on November 26 - the next 'computer generated' date of hearing.)

Campaign for 'Justice for 7 Innocents of Kandhamal': Following the bail for the five, Akkara cut short a reporting trip to Europe and rushed to Kandhamal to receive the 'Innocents coming out of jail', parade them before the media, and revise the campaign to 'Justice for 7 Innocents of Kandhamal'.

Kandhamal Faith Saga: The journalist author, who has also chronicled the incredible witness of Kandhamal Christians with 'Shining Faith in Kandhamal' in 2009 and followed it up with 'Early Christians of 21st Century' that was released by Cardinal Fernando Filoni, president of Vatican's Congregation for Evangelization of Peoples at Indian bishops' assembly in 2013.

The book highlights how homeless Christians turned their 'losses into gains' amid saffron foot-soldiers blackmailing thousands of Christians to forsake faith to return to their villages. They chose to languish in dingy slums than to turn their back to Christ and gave sterling testimony as true followers of Christ who gladly carried the cross without running away from it (Mat 16:24).

History repeats itself. As in the 'Early Christians' era, hardly any Christian gave up their faith while hundreds of Hindus including those who tormented the Christians have been flocking to churches to profess the faith they tried to banish from Kandhamal. The poor but Christians have defeated and silenced the mighty Hindu nationalists.

Akkara is a witness to their incredible witness. His fractured leg was healed miraculously on the New Year Day of 2012 at the spot where the first martyr of Kandhamal – a paralyzed youth Rasanand Pradhan - had been torched alive. With the fracture, Akkara believes God made him sit to work with full concentration on 'Early Christians of 21st Century' when he was handicapped. When he went to Kandhamal eight months later to verify some crucial facts ignoring doctor's caution, he had a biblical healing at the martyrdom spot of the paralyzed youth.

A missionary friend asked Akkara to include this testimony in the book "since you are a witness to their faith." With the doctor too confirming his miraculous healing, Cardinal Oswald Gracias who has written the Foreword promptly approved insertion of this 'author's testimony' titled: 'Woe to me unless I preach the Good News". That is what Akkara has done all these years. The rock-like faith of even illiterate Christians inspired him to accompany them to document their incredible testimony.

The political outcome of this unique pilgrimage is the fulfilment of the Gospel assurance of Luke 12:2: "Nothing is covered up that will not be revealed or hidden that will not be known."

For holding on to their faith amid diabolic cruelty, rampant impunity and state apathy, Kandhamal Christians deserve the title 'Early Christians of 21st Century':

In February 2020, Akkara brought the Seven Innocents on bail to Bangalore at great risk. Presenting the seven Pentecostal illiterates before the assembly of nearly 200 Catholic bishops in India, Akkara reminded them about the silence of the Christian community to the 'innocents' due to fear of the ruling BJP.

"Faith must lead to Action," urged Akkara, calling for solidarity in the fight for justice for the 'Innocents' of Kandhamal. END [redacted]

William Rogers – 'John the Baptist of Kandhamal' in the US

My crusade for Truth & Justice for Kandhamal's valiant Christians is replete with amazing biblical-like incidents with the Lord guiding my path for 17 years and stunning evidences falling in my path like manna in the desert to silence the mighty and ruling Hindu nationalists in the David versus Goliath fight, without any harm whatsoever throughout.

One such amazing episode in the Kandhamal voyage is how I got connected with William Rogers, a passionate Christian and a former US Marine, and how he has turned out to be 'John the Baptist of Kandhamal for the US'. How we connected sounds like a biblical anecdote.

In early February 2018, I was in Guwahati (capital of Assam state - biggest city in the north east India) to speak on 'Kandhamal's Incredible Witness & Travesty of Justice' at the national assembly Signis India (Catholic forum of those in electronic media) with over 200 delegates. After that, I called on my key contacts there including Rev Laldawngliana, national moderator of the Presbyterian Church of India (PCI), who requested me to address the once in four year PCI national assembly in May first week at Haflong in Assam.

Gladly I accepted the proposal and booked my flight ticket (at my expense) two months in advance, which I seldom do. After the silver of our marriage on May 2, I flew from Kochi to Guwahati and called up the PCI moderator for the travel arrangement to Haflong. He stunned me saying that my session has been cancelled as the new executive (elected from each state) opposed my presentation at the last minute as the Hindu nationalist BJP had made big inroads in the PCI elections with its money power, getting candidate friendly to the Hindu nationalists winning the key church posts, who were aware of my spirited advocacy on Kandhamal from 2009.

I was stunned and disappointed as I had declined an invitation later to address a huge charismatic convention in Bangalore on the same days. I also did not know what to do with the 500 books I had sent by courier at big expense from New Delhi for the PCI assembly which would gather 30,000 on the final day. Five days later, I had fixed a program at Darjeeling mountains and so, I could not go to Bangalore with last minute prohibitive summer fares.

(I have gone through several such reversals in the Kandhamal crusade but I was always convinced that the Lord will find me a way out).

Then I had the inspiration to call up Archbishop Dominic Jala (who died in a road accident in the US in 2019) of Shillong, 60 miles from Guwahati and capital of Christian Meghalaya state.

"I will not be there. But don't worry. I will tell the Cathedral vicar to make you speak during all the five Sunday masses," Archbishop Jala, fond of my Kandhamal advocacy, assured me.

So, I hired a van and carried nearly 200 books to Shillong and duly spoke at the end of all the 5 Masses – three at the Cathedral with local Khasi language service and two at the Grotto church down with English service. While Catholic youth managed the sale of my books at the Cathedral, at the Grotto, it was my Kerala classmate Joe Chirayil, married to a Khasi lady and working in local school, who took care of the books. When I came down for the final English Mass, Joe told me: "An American was impressed by what you said in the church and has taken your books and he will contact you."

Soon I got an email from William Rogers, an evangelical who had come to the church with his Catholic wife who is from Shillong. Without naming the Hindu nationalists (inside churches, I do not mention political names), I shared diplomatically how 'those behind the Kandhamal bloodshed and travesty of justice had fooled' - to attack the Christians alleging Christians killed the Hindu swami - the people of Kandhamal, Odisha, India and even the whole world led by the US. Fraudulent and concocted books were made to cover up Kandhamal and this was presented to even the US State department to fool them."

Rogers went through my books carefully and got excited with the 'Parker fraud' I had exposed in nationally acclaimed 'Who Killed Swami Lakshmanananda?'

Ghost US authors & State Department fooled: While pursuing the saga of the seven Christians being tried for the sensational murder, I had stumbled upon the mammoth fraud behind Kandhamal. Two 'US authors' - Michael Parker and Brannon Parker - are supposed to have authored one and the same book on Kandhamal under different titles:

The 'Harvest of Hate Kandhamal in Crossfire' by Seattle-based Michael Parker was published by the India Foundation in 2009. The bulky book carried a 'Publisher's Note' by India Foundation director Nirmala Sitharaman (presently finance minister of India) and published from a flat registered in the name of Ajit Doval, National Security Advisor of India for the third time with Prime Minister Narendra Modi.

In her introduction to 'Harvest of Hate – Kandhamal in Crossfire', Sitharaman, described the author Michael Parker as 'born in India' while the profile at the end of the book declared that Parker was 'born in the US'!

The same Michael Parker book has been subsequently marketed as 'ORISSA in the CROSSFIRE - Kandhamal Burning' by Brannon Parker:

"In August 2009, this report was presented to the US State Department by Ram Madhav, National Executive of the Rashtriya Swayamsevak Sangha (RSS)," confirmed Brannon Parker in his preface to the reincarnated work. That confirmed how the Hindu nationalists tried to fool even the US State Department about Kandhamal!

Thrilled by these revelations. Rogers was in touch with me and came to New Delhi with my classmate Joe for the launch of the thrilling documentary 'Innocents Imprisoned' that was released on Aug 23, 2018 – on the 10th anniversary of Kandhamal – at the Constitution Club of India.

Roger also bought 40 copies of my book 'Who Killed Swami Lakshmanananda?' and carried them to the US and managed to trace after much hard work the real Parker – Brannon Parker based in Seattle and established contact with him.

A year later, in August 2019, I flew to New York to address Indian NGO forum at the UN and had to address an Indian Conference in San Francisco where Rogers joined me and drove me in his car all the way to Seattle to meet Brannon Parker. In mid-September, I met the mysterious author Brannon Parker in Seattle, who confided to me that he too had been 'fooled' by top Hindu nationalist leaders to be a partner in the Kandhamal cover-up and he was trapped to write lies about the Christians after he was taken to Odisha soon after the Kandhamal bloodshed, introducing him to 'ghost' celebrities to prepare the cover-up book.

After visiting Roger's house near Sacramento, we travelled together to Washington at his expense and met many big guys before I returned to India.

But for the biblical connection with Rogers, I would not have succeeded in this mission to get bail for all the Seven Innocent Christians. Though two had been given bail by the Supreme Court in May and July, the sudden bail for all the remaining five came from the Supreme Court of India on 26 November, 2019 after I made social media posts about the US visit and meeting the REAL PARKER.

Enthused by this big breakthrough, Rogers has since turned into a true researcher, pursuing the Octopus like hold of Hindu nationalists in the US political system.

It is certainly worth interviewing Rogers.

FOREWORD
CHAIRMAN

I am pleased to author this report about the violence against Christians in India and its direct impact on the interests of the United States. I believe the violence against Indian Christians indicates where India is headed. It is up to us to determine what that means to America's national security and trade interests in that part of the world.

In the 1980s and 1990s, US policies towards China were driven by business interests. When the Tiananmen Square massacre happened, America sided with the business lobby. The US policy then was decidedly pro-Chinese regime with the false hope that China would change one day. America argued that any action to upset the Chinese leaders could hurt the pocketbooks of the American people.

Right about that time, America needed the cooperation of a military regime in Pakistan for its strategic interest in Afghanistan. America was more than willing to ignore the cherished principles to please a dictatorship and stood idly by witnessing the epic slide of Pakistan into becoming a radical state. The radicalization of Pakistan was taking place at the cost of the lives of the Christians, Hindus, and Ahmadis there in broad daylight. In Washington, diplomats and political leaders argued that America was in Pakistan only because of our strategic interests and not to police them or to tell them how to run their country.

As a result, America's long-term security interests, as well as its business interests, have suffered both in China and Pakistan. While Pakistan is permanently lost to being a much-needed American ally, China has become foe#1. In fact, China, flush with American dollars, is threatening the global order and America's primacy.

Now, successive American Administrations are again making a wrong choice in India. America seems to be ignoring India's epic slide into a radical religious state in recent years as Hindu nationalism is gripping the lives of millions of people. Hindu nationalism is taking India down the same path the Islamist parties did in Pakistan to that country during the 80s and 90s.

Instead of raising the alarm, America is now talking about how amenable the Indian nationalist leaders are to America's short-term goals in Asia. Political appointees at the NSC and DoS seem more interested in getting an agreement to sell a weapons system or soybeans rather than focusing on America's long-term interests.

If America is willing to turn a blind eye to India's slide into a religious fundamentalist state, the result will be the creation of another Pakistan or Sri Lanka-like country in South Asia. It will directly threaten America's national security interests in that region.

This 2023 Report shows in the strongest terms why naming India as a Country of Particular Concern is the least America could do in her own interest.

Chairman, FIACONA

DOJ-RLC Comment-002213

PREFACE
PRESIDENT

India's epic slide into becoming a radical Hindutva state must concern the US and other democracies.

A member of the US Commission on International Religious Freedom (USCIRF) recently pointed out, as per the law, the President must accept the recommendations made by USCIRF after extensive research. The law also provides the President the authority to waive the mandatory sanctions that follow. But unfortunately, successive US Administrations have interpreted the law to ignore USCIRF recommendations.

The International Religious Freedom Act states

The Title IV: Presidential Actions - Subtitle I: Targeted Responses to Violations of Religious Freedom Abroad - Directs the President, for each foreign country in which the government engages in or tolerates violations of religious freedom (including particularly severe violations), to oppose such violations by taking certain actions and promoting the right to freedom of religion in that country.

(Sec. 402) Requires the President to review annually the status of religious freedom in each foreign country during the preceding 12 months, and to designate countries of particular concern for religious freedom, including agencies, instrumentalities, and officials responsible for particularly severe violations of religious freedom.

(Sec. 403) Directs the President to: (1) consult with the violating foreign government prior to taking any action against it; and (2) report to the Congress.

(Sec. 405) Specifies among the actions the President may take: (1) public condemnation; (2) delay or cancellation of scientific and cultural exchanges; (3) withdrawal, limitation, or suspension of U.S. development assistance and U.S. security assistance; (4) instruction of U.S. executive directors of international financial institutions to vote against loans primarily benefiting the foreign government responsible for such violations; (5) restrictions on the issuance of licenses to export any goods or technology to such foreign government; (6) prohibition against the making, guaranteeing, or insuring of loans, or extension of credit by certain U.S. financial institutions to the violating government; and (7) prohibition of U.S. Government procurement of goods or services from such government. Provides for: (1) commensurate actions in substitution for any of the above presidential actions; and (2) binding agreements with foreign governments obliging them to cease, or take substantial steps to address and phase out, the acts, policies, or practices constituting violations of religious freedom.

(Sec. 407) Authorizes the President to waive the requirements of this Act if certain conditions are met.

However, this law does not authorize the President or the Secretary of State to ignore the findings and recommendations of the Commission. FIACONA hopes that the US Administration will agree with the reasoning made in this report backed by overwhelming data.

One million plus Indian American Christians ask the US State Department to correct its wrong interpretation of the law and accept what the data shows about the extent of violence against Christians and other religious minorities carried out by a political party that is running the government of India by using the government agencies, institutions, and its officials. Failing to do so will amount to repeating America's past mistakes with China and Pakistan.

G. Koshy
President, FIACONA

2023 REPORT
HIGHLIGHTS

This is the second Annual Report produced by the Federation of Indian American Christian Organizations of North America (FIACONA) exclusively on India, to provide critical information and analysis for Washington policymakers.

- FIACONA has recorded 1198 cases of verified violence against Christians in India during the calendar year 2022.
- The data shows that violence against Christians in India is planned and orchestrated by Hindutva nationalist political parties as a part of a larger design to create a Hindus-only state, to the exclusion of the people of Abrahamic faiths.
- FIACONA urges that human rights-related issues be proactively integrated into US policies uniformly, not selectively.
- FIACONA believes that India's slide into becoming a Hindu nationalist state will adversely impact America's national security and financial interests.
- FIACONA urges the US Administration to advise the Union Government of India to collect data on the violence committed against all weaker sections of the society. Making such data public could discourage the fascist tendency from getting stronger in India.
- The US must require all international and corporate investors in India to incorporate 'Equal Opportunity Disclosure' labels to include religious and linguistic diversity for their hiring process in India.
- FIACONA asks that the US Congress pass a law that would allow the victims of religious violence to sue the perpetrators, be it a non-state actor or a government official, in the courts under the US jurisdiction for both criminal and civil negligence.
- FIACONA asks the US Administration to allocate 10,000 Asylum Visas annually for Christian victims of religious violence from India.
- This report quantifies the cost of ongoing harassment against Christians in US dollars. FIACONA estimates the total loss to be around $100 million (INR 790 crores).
- FIACONA implores the Union Government of India to compensate victims for their losses, including lynchings, damages to churches, homes, and properties, jail time, psychological and emotional toll, and legal fees to defend against false charges.
- FIACONA calls on the Indian government to permit the victims of fake police cases to sue the officials involved for damages.
- FIACONA demands that the government of India reconstruct all churches and places of worship, including homes that were demolished illegally.
- There may be an effort to tone down the violence against Christians ahead of the G-20 Summit in September 2023 to avoid international criticism. But FIACONA expects violent attacks to increase following the Summit, based on earlier patterns of behavior by the Hindutva extremists.

INTRODUCTION
FIACONA

The Federation of Indian American Christian Organizations (FIACONA) is a not-for-profit established in 2000. The 2023 Annual Report, prepared and published in Washington, DC, presents authenticated and precisely documented real-time data for 2022. This data shows that attacks against Indian Christians were premeditated, organized, and meticulously planned and executed by India's Hindutva political groups and their network of organizations working closely with law enforcement and other agencies of the Hindu nationalist government.

Last year's 2022 Annual Report was the first of its kind in the Western World and was the beginning of the 'empirical and analytical' study of India's domestic social policy pertaining to Indian Christians.

According to the projections from the latest official census taken in 2011, Indian Christians would constitute over 30 million in 2022. By this count, Christianity is the third-largest religion in India.

This report, is an essential reading and reference material for law enforcement and government officials in countries where large numbers of Indian immigrants live, such as the USA, the UK, and other Western nations. Hindu nationalism and the radicalization of Hindu youth have reached US soil.

This report has documented and verified 1198 cases of attacks against Christians in India during the calendar year 2022. Thousands of attacks are believed to have never been reported.

DOJ-RLC Comment-002217

BACKGROUND
CASE STUDIES

In early August 2022, a Christian man, Madhavan, took a day off to visit his family during a wedding in his hometown. He was working in a town nearby. But when he reached his hometown, his children learned that he had recently become a Christian. The family disapproved of his conversion. So, they forced him to denounce his newfound faith. His children took his Bible and burnt it. He was harassed and verbally abused. But he refused to give up his faith.

A few days later, on August 14th, Madhavan's wife and son went looking for him in the town where he was working. They finally found him in a church. After a brief but intense argument, they assaulted Madhavan physically. But the man refused to fight back. The family took him with them to their home. Later Madhavan's charred body was found in the woods near their village.

It is not uncommon in India for people to profess different religious faiths living in the same household. For example, Sikhs and Hindus live together in the same household. Similarly, Christians marrying Hindus also live together. But lately, this is becoming an issue. One of the reasons for this change seems to be the Hindu nationalist party's constant propaganda against Christians.

In another incident on April 25, 2022, the Education Department officials of the state of Karnataka, ruled by the Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP), visited a Christian school in the city of Bengaluru and "investigated" if the school teaches Christian scriptures to students. It was prompted by a complaint from the Hindu Janajagruti Samiti, a religious extremist group affiliated with the Rashtriya Swayamsevak Sangh (RSS).

DOJ-RLC Comment-002218

The Education Minister of the BJP government in Karnataka falsely claimed that there is no provision for compulsory Bible reading in schools. He promised that his government will take action against the school. According to the principal of the school, Mr. Mathew, their lawyers will answer all the questions raised by the government. However, according to the Indian Express, a local English Daily, alumni of the school have rejected the claims of the Hindu nationalists.

It is just one example of how the elected governments are on a witch hunt against Christian institutions in India under the BJP rule.

India did not experience any such institutional harassment until recently. Since her independence, the Union of India has made impressive progress towards becoming a modern liberal democracy with strong institutions of governance. But as the data in this report shows, such a trend toward becoming a liberal democracy holds true no longer. The data shows that India is becoming an 'autocratic dictatorship' with a substantial percentage of the Hindu population following the political trend set by Hindu nationalists. Society is growing intolerant of Christians and other religious minorities. The Sweden-based V-Dem Institute called India an Electoral Autocracy. FIACONA asserts that holding national and state-level elections alone does not make India a democratic nation.

In the West, India is known as the land of yoga. It is associated with Mahatma Gandhi and nonviolence. But, in reality, India is changing rapidly.

The recent increase in violence against Indian Christians in India is attributed to the rise of Hindu nationalism, popularly known as Hindutva. This ideology follows beliefs akin to Nationalsozialismus (Nazism). Like the SS, the parent organization of Hindutva ideology is known as the RSS (Rashtriya Swayamsevak Sangh). In fact, the RSS is modeled after the SS[1].

This Hindu nationalist movement promotes a Hindu Rashtra (Hindu Nation) to the exclusion of non-Hindus. Like the Nazis, the Hindutva groups uses propaganda, false accusations, and terror tactics to promote religious hatred among the Hindus. The RSS uses every occasion and every development in the country to define and identify non-Hindus as the "other".

In 1948, Mahatma Gandhi was assassinated by former members of the RSS for refusing to agree with the RSS ideology[2]. Shockingly, the RSS celebrates Gandhi's assassin as a hero of an India they envision[3].

The current government of India, run by the Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP) is the political arm of the RSS. The data in this report reveals that this is the reason why the violence against Indian Christians, Muslims, Dalits, farmers, manual laborers, dissenting Hindus, and women has increased exponentially in the last decade after the BJP came to power.

This report also argues why Washington must clearly understand the imminent threat from passive Hindu extremism.

Brutality against Indian Christians & Anti-Conversion Law

During 2022, FIACONA recorded 1198 incidents of violence against Indian Christians. It is a 157% increase from the 2021 data. The increase in these incidents can be directly attributed to the propaganda by the BJP government officials accusing Indian Christians of large-scale 'forced' conversion. A sustained propaganda campaign for the past ten years or so against Christians has made a lot of people believe it. But the government census data shows that the Christian population has not increased in the last 75 years. According to the census estimates, Indian Christians are still around 2.4% of the population despite 2000 years of existence in Indian territories. The RSS claims that the actual number of Christians is much larger. They have no evidence or government data to back up their claim. However, such arguments should have no place in a secular democracy either. Yet, BJP-run state governments are using the false propaganda of largescale conversion to impose restrictions on people to change their religious faith.

The anti-conversion laws, or the Freedom of Religion Act as it is known in many Indian states, are written in such a way that providing education or medical assistance to a Hindu can be construed as 'force' - a prosecutable offense for attempted conversions. The law argues providing education or medical assistance to a poor Hindu exploits his or her economic condition and makes the Christian faith attractive to him/her. The law implies that it is a form of force on poor Hindu people and hence is a criminal offense. For all practical purposes, this law is a mirror image of apostasy laws (minus the death penalty) one finds in several Islamic countries.

On August 13, 2022, the northern Indian state of Himachal Pradesh, under the Hindutva BJP rule, became the 11th state to pass the most restrictive and highly punitive draconian version of such laws yet on the books. This law makes it a crime punishable by ten years of imprisonment to convert to the Christian faith. At the same time, the law does not restrict Christians from converting to Hinduism. This law deprives an adult citizen of his fundamental right to choose a faith of his choice. Many of these so-called anti-conversion laws also apply unrealistic and restrictive conditions to grant permits to build a church or even allow prayer meetings in private residential homes.

Our data indicate that these anti-conversion laws are weaponized against Indian Christians. In the states where these laws are enforced, Hindutva militants often barge into Christian homes and churches, claiming to stop the conversion. No evidence or proof is needed for such accusations. The data also shows that police file false charges against Christians using this law.

FIACONA recorded a total of 355 instances where Christians were arrested on false charges of converting Hindus to the Christian faith.

Although no Christian charged under this law has ever been found guilty, it places an unreasonable financial and emotional burden on Christians. Under the BJP rule, anti-conversion laws helped normalize the violence and harassment of Christians. It has made religious hate a politically acceptable behavior.

Extreme Cases of National Security Laws Against Christians

Intel agencies and law enforcement often resort to charging Christian leaders under national security acts and holding them indefinitely without charging them with any crime. The case of Fr. Stan Swamy is a prime example of it.

Fr. Swamy was a Jesuit priest working among the tribal people. He championed the civil and land rights of the tribal people against the government taking over their lands for mining purposes. So, an irritated government arrested Fr. Swamy and refused to grant bail. The government claimed to have found incriminating evidence in Fr. Swamy's computer. The agencies said he was conspiring to assassinate political leaders and create unrest in the entire country.

The BJP government's case against the Jesuit priest was a fabricated lie, and the evidence was planted by National Intelligence Agency (NIA) on his personal computer. After arresting the 83-year-old priest suffering from the advanced stage of Parkinsons' disease along with a dozen other intellectuals, the Special Judge Dinesh E. Kothalikar of the N.I.A.'s special court said Father Swamy and others "hatched a serious conspiracy to create unrest in the entire country and to overpower the Government, politically and by using muscle power," and rejected their bail application. The priest died in police custody.

On December 13th, 2022, the Washington Post revealed, "Now, an examination of an electronic copy of his computer by Arsenal Consulting, a Massachusetts-based digital forensics firm, concludes that a hacker infiltrated his device and planted evidence, according to a new report by the company. The analysis is more proof that Swamy and his co-defendants were framed in a case that exemplifies the Indian government's crackdown against civil society and prominent critics, the defense team says[6].

Contribution of Christians to the Development of India

From its early arrival in the first century AD, the Christian faith has enriched and helped shape India's trajectory in more ways than one could imagine. Later, when Christian missionaries began to arrive in the 14th century AD onwards, they focused on education and health care. They established lower and higher levels of educational institutions. Unlike the Hindu system, which expressly prohibited education to non-Brahmins and women, Christian missions focussed on educating women and children of all castes.

It was only during the middle of the 20th Century that many regions managed by locally elected governments under the British Raj began to fund large-scale public education systems. A detailed research paper written by Fr. Kennedy is available to the public on their portal. This report outlines a detailed history of the schools and colleges started by Christian missions from 1540 in India. For your convenience, FIACONA has added select portions of that paper as Appendix #3 here.

It is striking to note that most top-level bureaucrats and businessmen in India have received their education from Christian institutions until recently. It is true even today to a large extent, though, due to capacity limits, the share of the Christian educated population has come down lately.

The BJP's Hindutva nationalist militia denies the contribution of Christian educational institutions to the trajectory of India. India has become an economic powerhouse and a regional power from being an impoverished nation, not by accident. Some from the Hindutva nationalist movement have argued that Christian schools encourage students to convert to the Christian faith by making them study the faith compulsorily. Christian school managements deny such charges.

Violence and Destruction of Properties

Hindutva terror groups consider Indian Christians alien to India. Hindu militant vigilantes demolish churches and force Christians to convert to Hinduism. Since the BJP party came to power in 2013, these militant groups have enjoyed the tacit support and protection of the Union (Federal) government and State governments wherever the BJP is in power. Such protection comes in the form of shielding perpetrators from arrests by local police, biased bureaucratic orders, and protection from prosecution.

Non-State Actors and their Network

Non-State actors in India are a group of extremist militant organizations that, at times, function as proxies for the ruling BJP party and, at other times, elected to public offices as members of the BJP party.

Members of Hindutva militant organizations like the Hindu Mahasabha, Vishwa Hindu Parishad (VHP)[7], Bajrang Dal, and Akil Bharatiya Vidyarti Parishad (ABVP) contested and got elected on BJP ticket. For example, Ms. Pragya Singh Thakur, a member of the ABVP and accused of terrorism by a court, was elected to the Indian Parliament as a member of the BJP party[8]. Also, Mr. Vinay Katyar, the founder and president of Bajrang Dal - the other militant organization, has been a Member of the Indian Parliament from the BJP[9].

Hence, members of militant groups are part of the BJP governments at the state and national levels. They effectively control territories while causing egregious human rights violations of the civilian population based on one's religious affiliation. For all practical purposes, these groups are the trained militia of the current BJP government. It is also important to note that the Annual CIA Report has named VHP and Bajrang Dal as militant organizations. A list of such militant organizations affiliated with the BJP government through its parent organization is listed in Appendix #1.

Duplicity of the Government Response

The current Union Government of India is selective in responding to religious violence in India. Most of the time, the leaders of the BJP government follow a no-comment policy when attacks take place. The Indian public sees their observed silence as the approval of their violence. However, while traveling overseas, top officials such as the Prime Minister, the External Affairs Minister, or other leaders tell the western leaders/audience that they are speaking out and taking action against such violence against Christians. This research data suggests otherwise.

There could be a reason why the BJP government leaders are reluctant to say anything about the attacks. FIACONA's report shows that Hindutva terror groups are the real support base for the BJP party and act as its militia. Hence, the Indian Prime Minister's silence domestically is seen as their tacit approval to attack the Christians and that they want it to continue. But for the consumption of the Western audience, the Indian officials repeat a few talking points without considering their truthfulness or taking any action to support their claims.

When Western governments raise this issue with Indian officials, they respond by saying, 'some isolated incidents of violence are bound to happen in a large country of 1.4 billion'. They argue that these "isolated" attacks on Christians should not be exaggerated. They also effectively argue that the BJP party may have been involved in certain attacks, but the government of India is not. They say the government of India is secular, and the Constitution of India binds the government agencies to be secular. This report presents evidence to show that every attack on Christians in India is neither sporadic nor isolated. They are strategically planned actions by elected and non-elected officials of the BJP party who hold government positions.

To a certain extent, the Indian government and the ruling BJP are able to get away with it because businesses beholden to the ruling BJP are also funding many think tanks and lobby groups in the United States with the sole purpose of protecting the image of India's fascist leaders.

US Long-Term Interests and the People of India

The United States, since its formation, has been committed to protecting religious freedom at home and around the world. It has created creditable non-partisan institutional mechanisms to document human rights and religious freedom violations. These institutions are responsible for producing their annual reports. The State Department's annual report documents violence against religious minority groups around the world. It has also documented serious violations by certain political parties in India. But the US Administration has been unwilling to accept the findings of its own reports. The US Administration also does not apply uniform standards and laws to all countries.

FIACONA believes that the US foreign policy must have a long-term perspective so that the offending nations understand and work out a durable human rights policy. Discriminating policies of the US Administration regarding human rights issues from country to country is ineffective. It has the potential to discredit the whole process. FIACONA believes that the US Administration's current focus on turning a blind eye to religious violence in India for short-term gains will come at the expense of America's long-term interests in the region.

Concurrently India continues to ignore and promote its unabated human rights violations against Christians and other religious minorities besides the native people of India and the lower castes. Genocide Watch, a civil society organization in partnership with the Holocaust Museum of Washington, has predicted that India is moving towards witnessing a large-scale genocide of its religious minorities sooner than later[10].

HINDUTVA NATIONALISM
IN THE UNITED STATES

Hindus, by and large, enjoy a certain level of goodwill and respect among the American public. This image was built over several decades through the examples of Gandhi, Nehru, and other leaders. This favorable public image provides a convenient cover for several Hindutva militant extremist organizations today to hide behind. These extremist groups are operating in plain sight as Hindu cultural and educational organizations across the United States. It allows them to raise funds as non-profit organizations. Reports show that those funds are then sent to aid a religious terror agenda that hurts the Christian community in many parts of India.

Hindutva extremist sleeper cells operate in the United States as Hindu religious, cultural, and business associations. They promote an extremist ideology among second-generation Indian Americans. FIACONA strongly believes that these organizations must be flagged prominently in public debates in the USA and must be brought to the attention of the Justice Department and local law enforcement officials.

Almost every month, new organizations are registered in one of the states under the guise of a cultural organization, a religious organization, a business/trade promotion network, or some political entities affiliated with either the Democratic or Republican parties. One common interest for all these groups is to raise funds to support the activities of the radical Hindutva nationalist organizations in India or to protect their image in the US.

In most cases, their publicly stated agenda would not make one suspect their motives. These Hindu militant organizations on US soil have names like "Hindu Foundation", "Cultural Foundation", "Trade Council", "Leadership Forum,"...etc. They often talk about education and supporting the Hindu heritage. But their actual programs show the promotion of a radical Hindutva agenda on American soil.

For example, the stated goal of a Hindu Foundation based in Washington, DC, says it aims to educate the public about the Hindu tradition and advocate for issues and policies serving the Hindus and others. But they are actually providing a platform for radical extremist leaders to come to the US in the name of cultural exchange. These organizations become the conduit to raise funds. These organizations facilitate travel and speaking engagements for many radical leaders, including many accused of terror-related charges. Then they also use frivolous lawsuits to silence the voices that try to expose them. Some of these entities are also reported to be holding "workshops" for other extremist organizations on how to use the American legal system and the courts to shut down their critics.

Another Hindu Foundation out of Frisco, TX, held a fundraising gala in the heart of the lone star state in November 2022 to " demolish churches" in India. The invitation also declared that it needed more funds to forcefully convert Christians to Hinduism because, in their mind, Christians in India were once Hindus, and white men illegally converted them, so they should be converted to Hinduism by all means.

These so-called Hindu foundations and organizations play a critical role in exploiting many less informed US-born Hindu students and radicalizing them. A good majority of this immigrant population that came to America in the past 50 years or so were predominantly from a specific upper caste group whose counterparts in India led the campaign to make India a Hindutva-only country to the exclusion of Abrahamic faiths. This particular segment of the population is driving this agenda in the US, and it has found plenty of help from US-based entrepreneurs and companies.

FIACONA acquired information about another non-profit in New Jersey recently. This organization calls itself a service organization. They raised several million dollars in 2022 to support an effort in India called Ekal Vidhyalayas. These Ekal Vidyalayas are a network of one-teacher schools in remote Indian villages.

It is a noble idea to provide education to children in remote villages. But what this charity doesn't tell most donors in America is that these single-teacher schools they fund are run by an RSS-affiliated religious terror network focused on brainwashing the children. Many of these children educated in such schools are believed to have ended up as foot soldiers for terror attacks against Christians under the direction of the RSS.

There are many such organizations sprouting all across the US, operating as Hindu charitable groups. Some openly say what they plan to do, while others hide them from the public. But it is a web of extremist networks that have established a well-funded operation on US soil. Many of them also spend a considerable amount of money on political contributions to both the Democratic and Republican parties. Of course, because these groups are hiding behind the benign image of Hinduism, many lawmakers in Wahington are said to have fallen for the campaign contributions. (FIACONA will issue a report on how many Members of Congress have inadvertently accepted campaign contributions from groups that are connected with radical militant organizations).

Organizations such as the one in Frisco, TX, or New Jersey are not just creating trouble in a foreign country like India. Rather, they are becoming an American problem as these organizations are creating a radical network under the radar in calm and peaceful neighborhoods in America. With over 5 million immigrants from India living in the United States, a good number of them may feel that they are not part of the mainstream and could be very vulnerable to becoming radicalized. These organizations operating on US soil could affect almost every community in all major cities.

NOTE: Many believe Hindus can not be radicalized. It is true. Modern Hinduism is not violent. But Hindu political nationalism, defined as Hindutva, is a violent ideology. It is not Hinduism. It is akin to Buddhism and political Buddhism, like the ones we witness in Myanmar or Sri Lanka. When extremism can flourish within Buddhism, it should not surprise anyone to see that young vulnerable Hindu adults could also be radicalized.

DATA AND ANALYSIS

Improving upon the 2022 data-collection methodology, the 2023 data for this report was collected through self-reporting on dedicated phone numbers, which were shared throughout the Indian Christian community. The 2022 data was collected through a well-planned dedicated phone reporting system, and hence the vetting of incidents in 2023 has also improved. Therefore the data presented in the following consists of those violent incidents reported almost immediately. A number of these incidents were corroborated through secondary sources such as videos, newspaper reports, and in a few cases, access to police documents known as the First Information Report (FIR).

The reported violent atrocities against the Christians by the Hindutva terror groups have substantially increased to a total of 1198 during the calendar year 2022 as opposed to a total of 761 incidents collected in 2021.

The number of assaults where Christians sustained physical injuries stands at 321. In each incident, several people were injured, and the majority required hospitalization. There were 107 incidents of property damage and 35 attacks where church buildings sustained substantial physical damages.

The police have often arrested the Christian victims instead of those who attacked them in 355 incidents. In each such incident, many Christians were arrested, making the number of people arrested much higher. In some cases, police arrested the Christians and held them for several days without charging them before releasing them eventually.

The data also shows that in 248 attacks, charges were filed against the Christian victims, of which 243 cases were filed under the so-called Anti-conversion laws passed by BJP-run states. It means the Hindu militia would first attack either a house-prayer meeting or a church gathering under the pretext that a conversion ceremony is being held. Then call the police. The police arrest the Christians, charging them with "conversions" under the Anti-conversion Laws.

Only in 31 instances have police agreed to file cases against the assailants. It is important to note that in 11 such incidents when the Christian victims of violence asked to file a case against specific leaders of the BJP and its Hindu militia, the police refused.

In one case, the police instructed the medical staff not to report the injuries of the Christian victims. Several Christian victims have also informed us that the police accompanied the Hindu militia at the time of the attacks.

The following is the analysis and key findings of the data. A complete list of violent attacks can be found in Appendix #4 (All personal details were removed to protect the identity of the victims, and a concise description was entered for the record)

Estimated Monetary Loss Due to Violent Attacks on Christians

(The value is calculated at 80 Rupees per 1 US$):

Christian victims of orchestrated religious violence are left to fend for themselves. These attacks took place as a result of the failure of the state to protect the Christians. Christian victims are forced to bear personal losses besides medical treatment, legal fees, and the cost of rehabilitating or rebuilding their lives.

FIACONA believes the government must provide financial compensation for its failure in its constitutional obligations to protect the victims.

FIACONA has calculated the total loss suffered by the Christian victims from all reported cases in this document. This is the first time such damages were assessed monetarily for the Christian victims. See Table 1 for data. Each type of loss is assigned a monetary value for compensation.

The research team of this report has arrived at a direct financial loss of $ 17.5 million (Rs.140 crores) to the victims listed in this report. However, the rehabilitation, re-employment, health recovery, and resettlement of displaced people will additionally cost $18.75 million (Rs. 150 crores).

Besides these direct losses suffered by the victims, an economic estimate of the loss to the national GDP due to this violence and associated civil unrest during 2022 is estimated at $62.50 million (Rs. 500 crores).

Thus there is a total national loss of $98.75 million (Rs.790 crores) caused by the Hindutva terror attacks on the Christian Community that are confirmed in this report alone. Please note that these estimates do not include similar, much higher losses to the nation caused by terror attacks against other religious communities (Muslims), Dalits, women, and farmers.

FIACONA demands that the Indian government constitute a committee of highly respected unbiased scholars acceptable to Indian Christian leaders to study the extent of the violence and physical property damage, psychological, medical, and legal damages, and estimate accurate financial packages to the affected people, churches, and villages.

Such rehabilitation measures can also be initiated and executed through Christian NGOs and churches that bear the interest of these victims.

FIACONA could assist the US State Department and the USAID with a detailed study, should it be commissioned to assess the financial damage caused by the Hindu terror groups in India.

DOJ-RLC Comment-002228

Punitive Restrictions on Christian Organizations

The BJP government, upon coming to power, made it a priority to shut down financial contributions from overseas Christian organizations to their Indian counterparts. Example: blocking the Foreign Contributions Regulation Act (FCRA) license to Mother Teresa's Missionaries of Charity and thousands of other Christian NGOs. At the same time, RSS-affiliated organizations raising monies from US corporations and foundations are sent to Hindutva terror groups operating in India under the protection of the BJP government. Though most Hindutva organizations in the US are covert about their real work in India, a few organizations, like the one in Texas, have been careless in letting the donors or the supporters know what they do in India.

Most RSS-affiliated organizations in the US say that the funds benefit organizations affiliated with the RSS or its programs in India. An average donor would consider the work of these organizations to be benevolent. But only a well-informed donor would be able to ascertain that the funds thus raised are sent to RSS-affiliated organizations that are at the forefront of the violence against Christian institutions and the Christian population.

US-based Hindutva charities are complicit in the violence by making financial contributions to RSS-affiliated organizations. This complicity makes such organizations liable for monetary damages caused by their support to militant organizations in India.

FIACONA demands the US Revenue and Treasury agencies classify these funds as terror funding by US-based organizations.

DOJ-RLC Comment-002230

Premeditated and Targeted

The interesting dynamics in the state of Uttar Pradesh (UP) is that the terror attacks against Christians are highly planned, coordinated, and executed by picking a Christian target, such as a house prayer, church worship, or Christian schools. These attacks are neither inter-religious tensions naturally developing at the village level nor are they sporadic. For example, the state of UP has a population of 200 million, but there are only 356,000 Christians in the entire state. Christians are less than 0.2 percent of the state population. Hence it is impossible for inter-religious social tensions to develop organically. However, 334 violent attacks were reported from this state in 2022 alone. Further analysis revealed that most of these attacks happened in small to larger towns and not in villages. All these attacks targeted Christian institutions or small prayer meetings with a handful of Christians scattered around the town. These Christians become the unprotected soft targets for local BJP leaders looking to consolidate their Hindu support in urban areas.

Given this kind of geography and demography, violent attacks against the Christians in the state of UP can happen only when they are targeted. The RSS groups also receive official support from the police and local administration. Local BJP leaders always lead these attacks. And at all times, the police arrest the Christian victims and charge them with attempted conversion under the state's anti-conversion laws instead of arresting the attackers. Hence, it clearly indicates premeditated attacks on Christians by the Hindutva terror groups.

As per the media and police records, the major militant organizations, namely Bajarang Dal, VHP, and Hindu Mahasabha, are the perpetrators of violence. It is carried out with the tacit support of the local police and political patronage in the state of Uttar Pradesh.

Killing and Mutilation

The first killing of a Christian pastor in 2022 happened in the Bijapur district of Chhattisgarh on March 17. According to Police sources, Pastor Yallam Shankar was stabbed to death by a mob of 50 masked men when the pastor was having his supper at his home.

The attack took place while the Hindu festival of Holika Dahan (a celebration of good over evil) was being celebrated in the Angampalli village where Pastor Shankar lives.

Before he became a pastor in his village, Yallam served as the head of the village. During that time, he was vocal in expressing his support to the rights of Christians. After he retired, he received several threats to his life because he continued to be a vocal supporter of the Christian community there. Hindu nationalist leaders had demanded that he abandon his Christian faith and stop supporting Christians.

The RSS-affiliated Hindu nationalists had a clear motive. The day after Pastor Yallam was murdered, local police concluded that he was killed by the Maoist insurgents. The police said Maoists suspected him of being a police informant. Police even released a handwritten note supposedly left by the killers giving their reasons for killing the Pastor. It is a very convincing argument except for a few contradicting details and total negation of the actual threat he faced from the Hindu nationalist leaders.

Maoist connection always works when police run out of reasons to turn a story in their favor. In this case, the question is, why would Maoist insurgents stab the Pastor if they wanted to kill him? Maoist carry more guns and rifles than the local police, and they always shoot and kill their targets. They don't have a history of stabbing anyone. The Maoists also do not leave handwritten notes. Besides, there was no threat from any Maoist outfits to his life at any time.

The family and local pastors who know Pastor Yallam say he was killed by a group of Hindu nationalists who were upset about his continued support for Christians in the area.

This incident, as well as the murder of Madhavan, as discussed in the introduction, is the result of society becoming radicalized.

In another instance, on October 23rd, Pastor Adam Digal was killed in the Kandhamal district of Odisha state. But the police wanted to close the case quickly by saying it was a road accident. They did not want to say that Pastor Digal was killed for his faith by Hindu nationalists. Such a statement has the potential to create widespread unrest in that area, as that district witnessed widespread rioting in 2007 after a radical Hindu leader was assassinated. So, according to police, a tree fell on him while he was riding a motorcycle. The problem was there were no fallen trees. The pastor's family disputed the official narrative. The authorities refused to undertake even a mandatory postmortem of the deceased in this case.

Denying Burials Rites to Christians

Denying the Christian community the right to bury their dead is one of the special tactics adopted by Hindutva forces in the State of Chhattisgarh. More than three-fourths of the reported 26 denials were from the state of Chhattisgarh. Villagers refused even a two-month-old dead infant burial rite on the pretext that her parents were Christians.

Expulsion from Villages

Chhattisgarh is also becoming a specialist of sorts in ostracizing and expelling a large number of Christian citizens from their villages. Our data indicate that more than 700 families across 75 villages have been expelled from their villages. The total number of people expelled from these villages, including women and children, would exceed 3500. They were forced to leave their homes and villages unless they renounced their Christian faith. This internally displaced population was never even acknowledged by the respective governments in India nor by any international agencies.

Note that all these incidents are 'targeted' attacks. They were planned and executed by local BJP leaders. These conflicts and expulsions do not develop without external political pressure.

Police Collusion with Militia

The data shows that state governments ruled by the BJP party have shown a high number of police cases against Christian victims. It also shows that the BJP leaders protect their militia, who carry out these attacks, through official and non-official interventions. The police under BJP governments have refused to file cases against Hindutva militias in at least 11 instances. In contrast, the police filed three cases against Hindutva militants for attacking Christians in states that were not governed by the BJP party.

The data also shows that the Hindutva militia disrupted 416 prayer meetings/ worship sessions. In more than 289 such cases, the victims have reported that the Hindutva militia was accompanied by the local police. It indicates that the police were not only acting as an extension of the Hindutva militia, but a large number of attacks were pre-planned to arrest Christians during the Sunday service. Without the state government's approval, the police could not have taken the side of the Hindutva militia against the Christians. The law and order responsibility rests with the state governments in India, which directly control the police under the Indian system.

AND RECOMMENDATIONS

- Though India has one of the best Constitutions a country could wish for, often, the police, judiciary, and other officials do not follow due process under the law. Often the courts decide cases based on political pressure and public opinion by setting aside Constitutional guidelines.
- The Union government of India refuses to collect data and therefore claims to have no data on matters that will embarrass them. When private citizen groups and NGOs produce data, the government dismisses it by questioning its credibility. FIACONA will not be surprised if the Union government of India calls the data published in this report to be unreliable or worse.
- The US must prevail upon the Union government of India to make financial compensation to the victims of religious violence through reputed agencies that are acceptable to the Christian community.
- The US must let India know that it has to reconstruct all churches and places of worship and homes demolished.
- The US Administration must take the violence against different sections of the people in India seriously and include it as a part of the negotiations while dealing with investment, trade, and military cooperation with India.
- All international investment and business contracts must incorporate 'Equal Opportunity Disclosure' labels to include religious and linguistic diversity across the nation, the States, and corporate deals and negotiations.
- The US Congress must pass a law that enables the victims of religious violence to sue, in the US, not only the perpetrators but also those officials and leaders who motivate, patronize, order, or shield perpetrators of egregious human rights violations in other countries.
- The State and the Treasury Departments must use tools like the Global Magnitsky Act to impose travel sanctions against any official or unofficial leaders who are involved in leading, aiding or abetting terror campaigns against Christians, other religious minorities, women, Dalits, farmers, indigenous people, and other affected groups.
- The US Administration must set aside at least a token number of 10,000 visas for Indian Christian asylum seekers each year as long as the Hindutva nationalist government refuses to turn away from its current course.

An organization called Rashtriya Swayamsevak Sangh (RSS), which started in the 1920s, is considered to be the originator of all Hindutva groups. RSS is a militant paramilitary organization that identifies itself only as a "Hindu Cultural organization". Its agendas are executed through a number of militant groups.

The following are some of an estimated 130 shadow organizations created, inspired or assisted by the Rashtriya Swayamsevak Sangh (RSS), compiled by Dr. Shamsul Islam, a Professor of Political Science at the University of Delhi. (Many of these organizations in India have their presence in the US through their sister organizations, often registered as charities)

[1] Akhil Bharatiya Vidyarthi Parishad (student)

[2] Vidya Bharati (education)

[3] Bharatiya Janata Party (political)

[4] Vishwa Hindu Parishad, Bajrang Dal, Durga Vahini, Dharam Sansad or Religious Parliament (anti-minority). The RSS insists that Dharm Sansad is the highest supreme body of Hindutva. This book tells us that "VHP established Dharam Sansad in 1984." Clearly, Dharam Sansad or the Religious Parliament is a puppet in the hands of the VHP.

[5] Akhil Bharatiya Vanvasi Kalyan Ashram (tribal)

[6] Bhartiya Mazdoor Sangh (working class)

[7] Bhartiya Kisan Sangh (peasants)

[8] Rashtriya Sevika Samiti (national women's committee)

[9] Seva Bharati and Tatsam (social service). SV has taken over governmental welfare programmes in slums and poor areas even in cities like Delhi even under non-BJP governments. It is alleged that these organizations are basically fronts to divert government welfare funds to the RSS.recently got a license for sending adopted kids to foreign countries.

[10] Vishva Vibhag (foreign affairs)

[11] Akhil Bhartiya Rashtriya Shikshak Mahasangh (teachers)

[12] Bhartiya Shiksha Mandal (education)

DOJ-RLC Comment-002236

According to the Economic Times, the most aggressive organizations of the RSS are:

Dharam Jagaran Samanvay Samiti: It is the 'conversion' wing of RSS. Its Ghar Wapsi initiative made it to headlines after Modi government came to power. This outfit was led by Rajeshwar Singh. Its main task is to convert Christians, Muslims and Tribals to Hindutva. They allege that the Christians are offering education and medical treatment that induces people to convert. (If so, the question is: what prevents Hindutva organizations, since they claim to represent the vast majority of Indians, and has access to many times the funds and resources of Indian Christian organizations, to provide better education and medical facilities?).

Akhil Bharatiya Hindu Mahasabha: One of the oldest Hindutva organizations in India. They honor its most famous member Nathuram Godse, the assassin of Mahatma Gandhi.

Vishwa Hindu Parishad: It is one of the groups connected to the RSS. VHP is most active and even has overseas branches. They compete with other RSS outfits to show they can force more Christians to convert to Hindutva than their sister organizations.

National Hindu Movement: The group has held demonstrations in various places in Goa and Maharashtra, urging all Hindu parents not to "deprive" their children of Hindutva culture.

Rashtriya Hindu Andolan: This Maharashtra-based umbrella organization of many Hindutva groups has been protesting for years for removal of the word 'secular' from the Indian constitution. They want India to stop aspiring to be a secular country. Rashtrawadi Shiv Sena: One of its demands is that Indians must boycott all Pakistani products.

Shiv Sena Hindustan: The group in May 2015 defaced and blackened signages of roads named after Muslim kings Akbar and Firoze Shah in New Delhi.

Hindu Janajagruti Samiti: The group offers crash courses on "how to protect Hindu girls from Muslims" and "how to perform Ghar Wapsi" and has also accused PM Modi of being not harsh enough on religious minorities.

Hindu Dharma Sena: The group was accused of vandalizing a church in Jabalpur in March 2015 and five of its members were arrested..

Hindu Makkal Katchi: An extreme rightwing group in the southern state of Tamil Nadu that came to public attention for opposing writer Perumal Murugan's book, 'Maathorubagan', the group continued its protests even after the writer announced that he has given up writing, citing pressure from fundamentalists.

Hindu Rashtra Sena: The group was accused of distributing provocative pamphlets in Pune which led to unrest in the city, as well as to the murder of a 28-year-old technical expert.

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE
December 2, 2022

USCIRF Outraged by Omission of Nigeria and India from State Department's List of Countries of Particular Concern

Washington, DC – The U.S. Commission on International Religious Freedom (USCIRF) finds it inexplicable that the U.S. Department of State did not include Nigeria or India in its latest designations of "Countries of Particular Concern" (CPCs) under the International Religious Freedom Act (IRFA), turning a blind eye to both countries' particularly severe religious freedom violations.

"There is no justification for the State Department's failure to recognize Nigeria or India as egregious violators of religious freedom, as they each clearly meet the legal standards for designation as CPCs. USCIRF is tremendously disappointed that the Secretary of State did not implement our recommendations and recognize the severity of the religious freedom violations that both USCIRF and the State Department have documented in those countries," said USCIRF Chair Nury Turkel. "The State Department's own reporting includes numerous examples of particularly severe religious freedom violations in Nigeria and India."

Pursuant to IRFA, the State Department re-designated 10 countries as CPCs—Burma, China, Eritrea, Iran, North Korea, Pakistan, Russia, Saudi Arabia, Tajikistan, and Turkmenistan. The State Department also added Cuba and Nicaragua to its CPC list, both of which previously had been on the Department's SWL. In its 2022 Annual Report in April, USCIRF recommended re-designation of the 10 CPC countries, and also recommended CPC designation for Afghanistan, India, Nigeria, Syria, and Vietnam. At that time USCIRF recommended SWL placement for Cuba and Nicaragua based on conditions in those countries in 2021, but the situation in both has deteriorated in 2022.

The State Department placed on its SWL Algeria, the Central African Republic (CAR), Comoros, and Vietnam. USCIRF recommended in its 2022 Annual Report that Algeria and CAR be placed on the SWL, but also that Azerbaijan, Egypt, Indonesia, Iraq, Kazakhstan, Malaysia, Turkey, and Uzbekistan be included as well.

"USCIRF welcomes the State Department's recognition of the worsening situations in both Cuba and Nicaragua this year. We also appreciate the State Department's inclusion this year of CAR and Vietnam on its Special Watch List. While we believe conditions in Vietnam meet the CPC standard, we hope the State Department's SWL designation will encourage the Vietnamese government to take concrete steps to address long standing religious freedom concerns," said USCIRF Vice Chair Abraham Cooper. "USCIRF is disappointed that the State Department did not include Afghanistan as a CPC this year. While it did re-designate the Taliban as an 'entity of particular concern,' or EPC, that does not reflect the reality that the group is the de facto government of the country."

The State Department also designated nine EPCs, which are non-state actors that engage in systematic, ongoing, and egregious violations of religious freedom pursuant to IRFA. USCIRF recommended the redesignation of seven of these actors in its 2022 Annual Report: al-Shabaab, Boko Haram, Hay'at Tahrir al-Sham (HTS), the Houthis, Islamic State in the Greater Sahara (ISGS), Islamic State in West Africa Province (ISWAP) (also referred to as ISIS-West Africa), and Jamaat Nasr al-Islam wal Muslimin (JNIM).

Since the issuance of its 2022 Annual Report, USCIRF has consistently shared its recommendations with the U.S. Department of State and Congress. USCIRF's recent publications include updated reports on Religious Freedom Conditions in India, Blasphemy Laws in Nigeria, Violence and Religious Freedom in Nigeria, Religious Freedom in Afghanistan, Religious Freedom in Nicaragua, and Constitutional Reform and Religious Freedom in Cuba. During 2022, USCIRF held hearings on Afghanistan, Nigeria, and Nicaragua.

The excerpts of a paper by Dr. Kennedy published in a journal Vol.17 No.6 January-March 2018 is publicly available and quoted here:

The Santa Fe School in Goa, founded in 1540 by the Franciscans, was the first formal Christian educational enterprise anywhere outside Europe. In 1542 it was taken over by St. Francis Xavier and in 1548 it was raised to the status of a college and renamed as St. Paul's College.

Soon more missionary schools appeared in other parts of India — at Bassein (1546), in Cochin (1549), at Punnaicayil in Tamil Nadu (1567), in Madurai (1595), in Pondicherry (1713), a High School in Tamil at Ellacurichi in Tamil Nadu (1731) and a Sanskrit School at Mannanam in Kerala (1846)

He further notes: The period 1813 — 1833 can be termed as, the period of Elementary Schools wherein the focus was on elementary schools and primarily teaching was done through the medium of vernacular language. By 1818 the Serampore Missionaries established more than 100 schools with about 10,000 boys. However, in the period 1833 — 1857, the emphasis was shifted to secondary schools and colleges imparted through the medium of English language. It was during this period that some of the outstanding Christian colleges came into the forefront in India — St. Xavier's College in Kolkatta (1835), the Madras Christian College (1837), Robert T. Noble at Masulipatnam (which later was named as Noble College) (1843), Hislop College at Nagpur (1844), and St. John's College in Agra (1853)13 are highly reputed to this day. Till the beginning of the twentieth century Christian educational institutions had played a dominant role in the education of young Indians.

Other well known Christian colleges, established during this period were Scottish Church College (Kolkatta, 1830), Wilson College (Mumbai 1832), Madras Christian College (Chennai 1857), St. Joseph's College (Tiruchirappalli 1844), St. John's College (Agra, 1850), Christ College (Kanpur, 1866), St. Xavier's College (Mumbai 1869), Baring Union Christian College (Batala, 1874), St. John's College (Palayamkottai, 1878), St. Alosius College (Mangalore 1880), St. Stephen's College (New Delhi, 1881), and The American College (Madurai, 1881), and St. Joseph's College (Bangalore 1882). Some of the early colleges were started in big cities - Calcutta, Madras, Delhi and Bombay – but many early founders tended to prefer rural areas. Colleges were started in small towns like Agra, Kanpur, and Madurai, and remote places like Palayamkottai, Machilipattinam, Batala, Guntur, Indore and Nagercoil. They reflected the missionary determination to reach out to the ordinary people of India and not simply favor the urban high-caste elites.

Christians have been pioneering educational initiatives from pre independence time onwards and now has some 25000+ schools, colleges and universities even in very remote and rural areas, imparting quality education to all

The missionaries were the first to promote women's education in India. Women's education led to the enlightenment of Indian women of all religions, castes, and regions in modern times. The first ever Girl's school in India was opened by the missionaries at Kottayam in 181917. The CMS missionaries Mary Anne Cooke, and Mrs. Wilson started female education in Calcutta in 182018. Serampore Mission took the lead in organizing female schools in the Serampore area in 1821. With the progress made through Zenana visitation, a number of mission societies have established special societies such as the Zenana Mission and the Bible Medical Mission and the Church of England Zenana Missionary Society (1881)19. The first attempts towards the education of women in North East India were made at the turn of the twentieth century. The inception of women's education was a major breakthrough in the transformation of society at large.

Clearly Indian Christian Higher education has made women's education a priority. The first women's college, Isabella Thoburn College, was established in Uttar Pradesh State in 1886 with the noble goal of sharing with women the love of the Lord through higher education. Quite aptly the motto of the college is "We Receive to Give." This was followed by the establishment of the second college exclusively for women, Sarah Tucker College (1895), in Palayamkottai, Tamil Nadu, a highly conservative and underdeveloped area. In 1947, the year of independence, out of the seventy-two Christian Colleges in India, sixteen were exclusively for women. Quite interestingly, all four Christian colleges started in 1948, the first year of independence, were for women. Historically, the importance of providing education to women among Christians is well documented. In the co-educational Christian colleges, 56% are girls.

Sanjay Puri, who serves as chairman of the US-India Political Action Committee (USINPAC), has also attended meetings with both Gabbard and Madhav. After Joe Biden was elected in 2020, Puri said that USINPAC was holding meetings with officials to advocate for Indian Americans who wanted to serve in the Biden administration. Puri also applauded the work of Robinder Sachdev in getting Biden elected. Sachdev is the director of the Imagindia Institute and recently praised Gabbard's nomination, saying it was positive for India.

The Intercept reported in 2019 that at least 105 current and former officers and members of RSS affiliates have donated hundreds of thousands of dollars to Gabbard since she entered Congress.

Tulsi Gabbard likely to face scrutiny over Hindu nationalist ties

Donald Trump's nominee to head the US intelligence community has long had ties to members of a controversial Indian right-wing paramilitary organisation. The pick comes amid strained relations between Washington and New Delhi over India's clandestine operations and assassination attempts on US soil.

Tulsi Gabbard's ties to Indian right-wing paramilitary groups are likely to play an important role in hearings to confirm her as the United States' next Director of National Intelligence (DNI, IO, 02/12/24). Ram Madhav, former spokesperson for Indian right-wing paramilitary organisation Rashtriya Swayamsevak Sangh (RSS) and former general secretary of the Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP), welcomed Donald Trump's election in an Indian Express article and on his own website in early November. Intelligence Online's sources understand that Madhav has been close to Gabbard for years.

Gabbard began her career as a progressive Democrat and initially supported Senator Bernie Sanders for president in 2016 (IO, 26/10/22). However, after she left Congress, her views shifted rightwards, and she endorsed Donald Trump in 2024.

Growing influence in Washington

After Gabbard was elected to Congress in 2012, Madhav found a willing ally, frequently holding meetings with her, alongside Texas-based businessman Vijay Pallod. Both men attended Gabbard's 2015 wedding.

Madhav himself has been able to cultivate US government connections beyond Gabbard. This past summer, he spoke at the National Conservatism Conference in Washington, along with Republican Senators Josh Hawley, Ron Johnson, and Mike Lee. All three will have a say in the vote to confirm Gabbard. Swapan Dasgupta, a member of the National Executive of Indian Prime Minister Narendra Modi's BJP, also attended the conference.

Documents filed in accordance with the Foreign Agents Registration Act (FARA) in 2018 show that law firm and lobbyist Brownstein Hyatt Farber Schreck, which was working for the government of India at the time, employed consultant Milan Dalal to organise meetings with

There are some things that I would like to point out which are mention in the article that are linked to the information and email exchanges I provided you regarding Brannon Michael Parker and the Kandhamal Riots in Odisha. The 2008 anti-Christian riots in the state of Odisha mentioned below are those same riots.

The Savera report shows that the VHP-A has played a continuous role in Hindu supremacist violence, not just during the Ram Janmabhoomi movement, but also in the 2002 anti-Muslim riots in the state of Gujarat, the 2008 anti-Christian riots in the state of Odisha and the infamous 2020 riots in India's capital of Delhi. In this latest spate of violence, a VHP-A member from Houston, Sachin Chitlangia, both helped run the online platform of and personally raised over $115,000 for Kapil Mishra, who is widely seen as one of the key architects of the Delhi violence.

Also this Kapil Mishra who is mentioned in the article is I strongly suspect is the same Kapil Misra mentioned by this Hindutva Operative who was endorsed by Kash Patel and Richard Grennel.

Egotistic, arrogant, venomous Donald J. Trump and his MAGA mob fear brown Hindu Indians. His own ancestors arrived penniless — Frederick Trump, his great-grandfather, a 16-year-old barber and miner, entered the U.S. as an unskilled laborer. His "qualification"? White & Christian. Poor Mary MacLeod, his mother, a house servant and maid from Scotland, came with almost nothing. Her qualification? White & Christian. Meanwhile, his current wife somehow snagged a genius visa. What kinda genius did she bring from Slovenia?

Yet today, Trump slaps $100,000 H1B fees on skilled immigrants while selling "gold" and "platinum" cards for millions.

The irony is sharp: the family that clawed its way from humble background now trembles at the success of brown Hindu Indians.

YOU ARE A COWARD #MAGAmob.

I've long warned about the emboldened white Christian MAGA mobs targeting brown Hindu Indian-Americans. The United States of America is now acting truly bizarre. And the Trump administration is utterly UNHINGED. From relentless insults to threatening a nation that has never invaded anyone, the sheer audacity of America is staggering... and now the dagger is pointing at the brown Hindu Indian-Americans. America has completely lost its mind.

Tulsi Gabbard will fully utilize her intelligence and experience as our next Director of National Intelligence.

She understands the threats we face and the need to supply unbiased and unvarnished information to decision makers.

I have complete confidence in her and look forward to voting for her confirmation.

'Refuse to be their puppet': Top 5 moments from Tulsi Gabbard's confirmation hearing

There is not much I know about Tulsi Gabbard being Putin's puppet but there is this-

Sharon Tennison - InfluenceWatch

In 2021, Tennison was the largest donor to the PAC run by former Democratic presidential candidate Tulsi Gabbard.

Since July 2016, Tennison donated $15,000 to Gabbard's PACs, including a $2,000 donation in December 2021. [3]

And sure appears that Tulsi Gabbard could have been Modi's RSS / BJP puppet.

Since we are talking about Russia and India and there have been recent reports in the news regarding new investigations into the the FBI / DOJ Trump / Russia Collusion Hoax then I should include these.

And I suspect International Religious Freedom would improve.

It appears that the Texas Democrat Party not only embraces the rule of the mob, chaos and violence, here but also in India.

Can anyone imagine the outrage if the roles were reversed and it was a Republican congressional candidate supported by a violent, racist, extremist group?

Hypocrisy, it is the calling card of the Democrat (Socialist) Party.

PS Religious Freedom Commission, I'm requesting a investigation into the way that the US State Department and FBI/ DOJ FARA Division have a handled / investigated my tips / evidence regarding the Religious Persecution of Christians in India by Hindutva who also operates as the Hindutva Lobby in the US and appears to be buying / influencing US Bureaucrats and Pol's which appears has helped created a anti-Christian bias in the Federal Government especially when it comes to Hindutva / India.

I'm attaching a previous chat I had with US State Department / Reward's for Justice but it appears they ignored. Maybe if they wouldn't have ignored it something could have been done to prevent the violence against Christians in Manipur and other abuses against Christians in India.

I suspect that something similar as taken place with the Muslim Brothers, CAIR and etc.

01/07/2022, 12:36 - 5757556: I work with Investigative Journalist and Author Anto Akkara out of India helping him fight for 7 Innocent Christians who were wrongly convicted in a sham trial and imprisoned for killing Swami Laxmanananda. I am helping him expose how the RSS / BJP / The India Foundation / Hindu Nationalist out of India hired American Brannon Michael Parker to justify and coverup Human Rights Abuses against Christians, Religious Persecution of Christians including the gang rape of Sister Meena and who really killed Swami Laxmanananda in propaganda report Harvest of Hate which Parker has claimed RSS / BJP Ex Ram Madhav submitted to the US State Department in August 2009. I tracked down Parker in the USA in 2018 / 2019 and started a recorded online dialogue which lead to some serious confessions which lead to a phone conversation and more confessions which lead to several in person recorded interviews and more confessions that help prove the Christians are innocent and Maoist killed the swami, the RSS paid Parker including his travel, room and etc and he used their facilities, the RSS changed his report including the title which he did not agree with, they also submitted the report to the UN, Russia and China where it was well received and etc. Parker also confessed to introducing Tulsi Gabbard to the RSS and they basically helped her. So I did more research and discovered they helped build her political career including through Unregistered Foreign Agents who I have photos and videos of her with. The RSS / BJP / Hindu Nationalist appear to have a whole webb of Unregistered Foreign Agents illegally operating in the USA and meddling / interfering in our politics / elections. I will submit the evidence through email because it's mostly on my computer and not this phone. Please contact me at my Home Phone [redacted] or email- willrogers4christ@yahoo.com.

The publisher for Harvest of Hate listed a address so Anto Akkara went to the apartment and they said it was owned by Doval who is the NSA. Some of this blog was written by me and it was submitted to the DOJ years ago but I suspect they didn't do their jobs by investigating Nisha Biswal links to the RSS, BJP, Indian Foundation , Ram Madhav and Ajit Doval who were involved in the International Coverup using Brannon Michael Parker.

She should have been a target of a FBI / DOJ investigation years ago but maybe the FBI / DOJ can redeem themselves by including her in the H1B visa abuse investigation recently announced by the Trump Administration.

Subject: Hello again

I started writing a reply responding to the geo-political points re BJP Tulsi etc but not sure if I wanna send it. Problem is we are both sincere but I am not comfortable diving back into all these topics. If it actually helped the helpless fine, but Im basically powerless to help anyone.

I havent gone over my kandhamal report for many years nor even watched my videos on youtube. But i am grateful you understand my motivations. They were based upon a hope to do something for Indias tribals. I want them to avoid the devastation and cultural genocide experienced by Americas tribals.

This is made quite obvious by the forward I wrote in my version of the book. Was I naive? Probably. Was I successful? I guess not.

To be honest I look back on my activist phase with sadness. I should have put that same energy into my personal well being. Thats why im nervous to be involved at any level.

I wrote u again because I really was impressed with my Ram Madhav emails. (RM and I also talked on the phone about it by the way and we made up and fell out again in 2011 when I told an American philanthropist in India that the RSS. identified her as a CIA agent. Then we made up again when Tulsi was elected to congress. I intentionally retired from activism in 2015 and havent had any connection since)

Anyhow Im worried Peter is using my name to promote another conspiracy theory. Tulsi was raised Hindu is into politics so naturally sought out politically empowered Hindus to build a potent support base. Its quite normal and logical. Peter probably has some crazy conspiracy theories about it. I just hope that since im a private citizen he didnt misrepresent me as Anto did.

So for better or worse ive definitely changed over these years. Now I have absolute faith that God is in control. He doesnt need me with all my pride, vanity, naivety and weaknesses to 'save the world.'

Thats not a slight on you nor any sincere activists. Im only referring to myself. If I were truly doing good then the outcome would be good.

Im just not sure why the Lord guided you to seek me out. I truly have no ambition but to be helpful to my kids n their mom and to get my new wife out of Pakistan.

After work I saw today's Kashmir news. It is ominous to say the least and I may he running out of time. Lets see what happens.

God Bless You and your beloved ones
With respect
Brannon

Dear Rewards for Justice,

This goes with my other emails regarding the RSS, BJP, VHP, Hindutva and Brannon Michael Parker.

Its one of Parker's email exchanges with the RSS / BJP elders including RSS Leader Ram Madhav.

They writing about the murder of Swami Laxmanananda in which the RSS / BJP falsely accused Christians and if you refer back to the other email exchange I had with Parker he said that he concluded it was Maoist / power behind Maoist.

And they are writing about the book / report Harvest of Hate which RSS Leader Ram Madhav submitted to the US State Department and then they revised their conclusion on the Kandhamal Riots which appears fit into the Hindutva version which it was much more simple. The Kandhamal Riots were incited by Hindutva lying about Christians killing the swami.

When me and Anto Akkara interviewed Parker in 2019 in Settle WA , he put some blame on the Rami Desai who is included in the email exchange and he said that he believed that she was the one who changed his report.

She appears to be one of the Hindutva / India Foundation front people in the media.

She also report on the violence in Manipur in which Christians are being slaughtered by Hindus which you can search on the web and / or contact USCIRF.

Parker working with the RSS Ram Madhav can also fit into the picture in the NE and it appears they helped prepare the way for the violence in Manipur.

But for you to claim that it is not your book shows that you have developed afterthought.

I will once again reiterate that it is a good report and served to present Hindu case. Title is no issue at all and it has not caused any harm. Also, we could have just replaced it.

Anyway, I must be very grateful for the important lesson that I have learnt from this episode.

I once again apologise to you for causing hurt. You would appreciate the fact that we wouldn't have spent several lakhs of rupees on your project had we not been serious about it. Your suggestion that we are non-serious is far fetched.

Subject: Fw: Greetings!

Dear Rami,
Thank you for your detailed reply. Let me just get to the heart of the issue. To begin I dont see this as a personal issue or an attack on your efforts. I however am extremely disheartened that my view has so little value that only after the fact is any concern being shown towards the author. I try to understand such an attitude and can only blame myself for not being assertive and pushy. I try to show courtesy and respect and my kindness is taken as blindness and weakness. My willingness to not make waves and to trust is being treated as a lack of will, dependability and resoluteness.

Anyway first I must say that the elders were wrong in their choice of the title. It is what we call a 'loaded' title. It does not allow the reader to be convinced by the contents but rather leads them to an immediate conclusion. My entire effort was to make a case and present the case in such a manner that our primary audience would gradually be convinced of the victimization of the hindus, specifically Swamiji, the Sangh overall and the Kandhas tribals themselves. I was writing by using the extensive and intensive anti-hindu media bias as a foil. It was a supposed to be a balanced response. The title 'Harvest of Hate' instantly destroyed any sense of balance and unbiased objectivity. It is a conclusion that pointedly portrays the Christians as the 'bad guys'. My intentional use of Christians, Nehru, Indira, Indian UN delegates, Western love of dogs, European anti-conversion laws etc was meant to highlight that the entire case was a human rights issue above and beyond a Hindu-centric one. These issues are common global concerns that do not require one to be a 'rabid fanatical' hindu in order to have value and lead to concern. The title accepted by the elders instantly threw all that out the window. Such an emotional and loaded word as 'Hate' should never go on the cover of a book specifically if it is being targetted towards those outside of an idealogical community. These are people who are usually on the fence on the issues concerned and they must be coached in a gentle yet effective manner. We must target their sense of fairplay and recognize that they are often too busy are too disconnected from the issues in question to have an accurate opinion. Like a court jury they must be wooed by facts and logic.
To top it off the subtitle of 'Kandhamal in Crossfire' is bad english. As it is on the cover and on every page of the book it adds a very juvenile and unprofessional look and feel to the book.

Now to get to a couple of examples of my concerns about the paragraphs and the syntax.
On page 97 we are reading about problems with India's legal system etc. Suddenly with not even a paragraph break the text is italicized and begins with 'Jalaspata girls school massacre etc'
The chapter ends with that quote. That quote was to be the title and intro of the massacre of Swamiji... This was not just a side subject or filler. this is about the very incident that is at the very heart of the entire matter. Its why Im writing you right now. Yet it is clumsily presented in a disjointed manner and bifurcated by its placement at the end of a chapter with no relevance to the subject at hand.
Next another headline straight out of the anti hindu media is applied to present the chapter. "VHP leader gunned down" Again this feeds the oppositions propoganda that Swamiji was 'just a radical VHP guy and you know they get killed because they cause so much trouble anyway' attitude. Again my entire case was jeapordized by this. Im presenting the case that swamiji was one who is doing that which has been done for countless millenia by countless hindu leaders and acharyas long before the creation of the VHP. When you present him as merely a "VHP leader' it completley changes the entire picture. To put it clearly it would be as if we were talking about the death of a soldier on the frontline. Of course it is sad and its a loss but what do you expect. Soldiers are targetted and they die. Its normal. In the same way the media has cleverly created the image that the Sangh activists are merely another flavor of 'radical' similar to the maoists or the jihadis. They make trouble, they riot and they die. No loss and 'good riddance' is the overall mentality.
(Another note, repeatdedly the word 'maoist' was not pluralized and at other times it is. again such a lack of consistency takes away form the presentation.)

I carefully attemtped to reveal that Swamiji was in the calibre of the greatest sants and and acharyas like Shankrdev, Mahaprabhu, Adi Shankaracharya, Ramanuja, Madhwa, Mirabai, Kabir, Guru Nanak etc. He didnt change or invent anything. Rather modern Indians have changed and are no longer in synch with India's original pulse or character. The hostility of the modern 'secualr' Indian is the new phenomenon that has decided to discredit that which is authentically Indian and has always been a part of the Indian context. Thus I loved the image of swamiji holding the mahashivlinga which was not published in the book.

Thus again the headline of 'VHP leader gunned down' stole the thunder of my case and discredited my perspective. What is that perspective? That Swamiji and the Hindu activists are living breathing examples of what India is and has always has been. They are not the NEW phenomenon or mere replicates of Hitler's National Socialist Movement. They are as Indian as Bharat Natyam, Kichadi, Kaphadi, Roti, Ma Ganga, Go Mata, the Vedic Texts and the Sanskrit language itself. I also tried to show that it is the BJP and Sangh that are in synch with the nationalist visions of Nehru, Gandhi, Indira, Patel and others...specifically in regards to the tribal issues and the preservation of that which is uniquely Indian. In fact it is my opinion that Gandhi, Indira and Rajiv were assasinated because they were gravitating towards the Sangh nationalist vision. Also China's invasion was Nehru's punishment for going 'nationalistic'. Anyway that is another matter.

Regarding my title of "Orissa in the Crossfire". This is the most accurate title when we take the entire conclusion of my report into context. It is Orissa that is the target of the Maoists and Christians etc. Kandhamal is just a phase in the overall goal of breaking Orissa down and firmly setting it in the control of anti-national forces. Orissa is the link in the Red corridor of terror. Orissa's resources are the target of those driving to keep India dependent on foreign resources. looking at the big picture it is actually India that is in the Crossfire but my report was about Orissa. Kandhamal is Orissa's Achilles heel and it is only the focus of the anti-nationalists because of its weaknesses. Swamiji was strengthning those very weaknesses and thus he was murdered. However Kandhamal is not the actual target. Orissa and than India are the real targets and thus my title reflects that reality. Changing the title has disintegrated my carefully thought out presentation.

'Harvest of Hate' is an example of straight up communist style idealogically driven juvenile agit-prop. When I first saw the book my first instinct was one of rejection. This was based upon the title. What sane person wants anything to do with hate? It is ugly and unattractive and goes against every rule of successful propoganda and effective media promotion. It wins no hearts and convinces none. At best it adds to the many dust collecting publications that are read by none beyond those already convinced or those duty bound to read them.

Going back to the syntax issues. Go to page 135 as an example. We find my intro quote presented yet no break is made between the quote and the actual start of the chapter. No period is even added. This mistake is repeated throughout again and again and once more takes away from the professionalism of the overall presentation.

On page 246 the copy of the text states that 'below are two versions of the TOI story' of the nun's alleged rape. Despite my having added the copy the documents are no where to be seen what to speak of being presented below as stated by me. Again this is sloppy and unprofessional. Also many times the font of the reference numbers is changed adding to sloppy feel of the book. i havent looked at the references to verify that they are accurate. I hope so. Anyway I have read many Indian books and am used to the fact that typographical errors are common yet I have never seen one with so many mistakes before. In my view there is no real excuse in the India of 2009 for such sloppy workmanship.

Another major blow to my penmanship and perhaps that which hurts the most is that time and again my original writing, from my heart, when I am making my case after all the evidence, is italicized and presented as the quotes of others. These are then merged with actual quotes and attributed to whoever the source is for the actual quote merged into my writing. That really took the wind out of my sails and said loud and clear to me that I, the caring human being and heartfelt Hindu ally, was not valued. I am just a cog, if that, in the Sangh machine.
At other times real quotes are not presented as quotes and presented as my original writing. Thus a careful opponent has been handed ammunition to discredit the authenticity of my report.

Beyond these concerns, which the above is just a sample, it would be an entire job to find every mistake involved, I am sorely disappointed at the lack luster approach in regards to the report. No effort has been made to use the report. Nothing. No book release. No public talk. No media event. You say and as does Ram Madhav, that the response has been great. i dont see it. If that response comes from our own people who already believed in Swamiji, that is meaningless. Pep talks to the troops are only a tool, they are not the goal. I would be impressed if those millions of fence sitting fairminded Hindus, Westerners and others were allowed to learn the truth revealed and if it were they that responded. That would be a victory. That is what I call a tremedous response. As it is now it is an internal agit-prop piece on par with the various radical jihadi and maoist publications. I therefore doubt that any 'mainstream' journalist or publciation has responded to it. The entire point of having an 'outsider' named with the very non-Hindu non-Indian Michael Parker was to prove the human value of the entire incident. In my view that entire effort has been discredited.

I am glad it has been withdrawn. It is not what I wrote. I am not sure what you and the others concerned will do. What I suggest is that the right thing and normal thing be done. Consult me and interact with me the human being and artist/writer. Let this report become an effective Astra. As it is now the entire mentality has been of belittlement and an absolute disinterest in me the human being and my art. No concern or understanding has been displayed by my carefully crafted approach and attempt to stimulate genuine concern in the masses and the fairminded people of the world.

I have absolute faith in my personal genuis in the art of the handling of information for the cause of truth. Yet if no proper stage is given and my art is deformed into a caricature of itself the expected results will never become a reality.

Anyhow perhaps I go beyond the purview of this communication with you. My only hope is that I have been able to clarify why I am sorely disappointed and explain my dissatisfaction with the final result. There can be many reasons but again I get back to the human equation. I could have explained all of this before the book was changed and published and saved us the hassle if some human consideration was shown towards me. I do not particularly blame you as surely you are also doing your part for the cause of Dharma and Seva. I am however sharing this with Ram Madhav and it is my hope that he shares this with the Elders and others. It is they that decide and it is they that have not shown the proper courtesy to my art and to my artistry.
Sincerely,
Parker

Subject: Greetings!

Dear Michael,

Greetings!

I hope my letter finds you in good health.

We were very saddened on hearing your perspective on the book. This email is in no way to contradict your statements but an attempt from our side to hopefully bring to light our perspective. This project was undertaken so that we could shed some light on the situation in Kandhamal. To which your book has done justice. At the outset I must inform you that we received an astounding feedback to the book.

We did make some changes in terms of chapterising the book. It was felt that since this was an exhaustive report; it would be easier for our readers if we divided the book up in terms of chapters. When we formed these chapters, at no point was there an attempt to change the context of your book. The chapters were merely formed to create a sense of easy readability. The chapter names, their placement was all kept in, or atleast attempted to be kept in tandem with the flow of your report. These chapters were introduced at intervals as keeping in sync with the report. At no point did we tamper with the positioning of content or delete any content in the book.

At no place, have paragraphs been changed in terms of position. At times when paragraph merging has happened, it has only been done to keep the page set-up in place. We are sure that you understand that when a publication goes into print, the final layout of the page positions etc have to be done keeping in mind, the page size. So if any changes have been made in terms of paragraph merging, it has been done to keep the flow of the book and set-up of the entire book in place.

The entire book as well as the title of the book was reviewed by our elders who thought it would add to the essence of the publication rather than take away from it. This was our intention. I must again highlight here that not a word from your original text has been replaced or changed.

We hope that this will put some things in perspective from our end and you understand that it was our endeavour as well to bring out a quality book. Unfortunately due to the objections raised by you the distribution of the report is being withheld.

Regards

Rami Desai

Yes. I may have read something before this time but never dug deep into until in 2018 / 19 when I started working with Investigative Journalist and Author Anto Akkara and tracked down Brannon Michael Parker online and then asked if he knew Tulsi Gabbard.

I can forward the emails if you plan to thoroughly investigate but most of the emails are already in the US State Department system if you check the emails of IRF Ambassador Sam Brownback, Riley Barnes, USCIRF Tony Perkins and there was another guy at State linked to Brownback and Riley Barnes.

Please see article below by Tony Perkins who became a USCIRF Commissioner . The article was written from information I provided the Family Research Council , Tony and Travis Weber so it was approximately that time or a little after when I tracked down Parker and asked him about Tulsi Gabbard.

Foreign Agent activities such as basically buying / influencing bureaucrats and pols through individuals / organizations such as the the Overseas Friends of the BJP, US Indian PAC Sanjay Puri, Republican Hindu Coalition Chairman, Purnima Nath and other organizations which I have mentioned in my other emails.

Tulsi Gabbard likely to face scrutiny over Hindu nationalist ties

Donald Trump's nominee to head the US intelligence community has long had ties to members of a controversial Indian right-wing paramilitary organisation. The pick comes amid strained relations between Washington and New Delhi over India's clandestine operations and assassination attempts on US soil.

Tulsi Gabbard's ties to Indian right-wing paramilitary groups are likely to play an important role in hearings to confirm her as the United States' next Director of National Intelligence (DNI, IO, 02/12/24). Ram Madhav, former spokesperson for Indian right-wing paramilitary organisation Rashtriya Swayamsevak Sangh (RSS) and former general secretary of the Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP), welcomed Donald Trump's election in an Indian Express article and on his own website in early November. Intelligence Online's sources understand that Madhav has been close to Gabbard for years.

Gabbard began her career as a progressive Democrat and initially supported Senator Bernie Sanders for president in 2016 (IO, 26/10/22). However, after she left Congress, her views shifted rightwards, and she endorsed Donald Trump in 2024.

Growing influence in Washington

After Gabbard was elected to Congress in 2012, Madhav found a willing ally, frequently holding meetings with her, alongside Texas-based businessman Vijay Pallod. Both men attended Gabbard's 2015 wedding.

Madhav himself has been able to cultivate US government connections beyond Gabbard. This past summer, he spoke at the National Conservatism Conference in Washington, along with Republican Senators Josh Hawley, Ron Johnson, and Mike Lee. All three will have a say in the vote to confirm Gabbard. Swapan Dasgupta, a member of the National Executive of Indian Prime Minister Narendra Modi's BJP, also attended the conference.

Documents filed in accordance with the Foreign Agents Registration Act (FARA) in 2018 show that law firm and lobbyist Brownstein Hyatt Farber Schreck, which was working for the government of India at the time, employed consultant Milan Dalal to organise meetings with

Sanjay Puri, who serves as chairman of the US-India Political Action Committee (USINPAC), has also attended meetings with both Gabbard and Madhav. After Joe Biden was elected in 2020, Puri said that USINPAC was holding meetings with officials to advocate for Indian Americans who wanted to serve in the Biden administration. Puri also applauded the work of Rohinder Sachdev in getting Biden elected. Sachdev is the director of the Hindu Institute and recently praised Gabbard's nomination, saying it was positive for India.

The Intercept reported in 2019 that at least 105 current and former officers and members of RSS affiliates have donated hundreds of thousands of dollars to Gabbard since she entered Congress.

September 13, 2018

Last week, the United States Secretaries of State and Defense traveled to India to meet with their counterparts to continue developing the U.S./India relationship. As this relationship proceeds to develop, religious freedom must be on the agenda. There will be pressure to sideline this topic, but our fellow Christians, along with others persecuted for their beliefs in India, can't afford our complacency.

This past August marked the 10-year anniversary of the mob slaughter of Christians by Hindu radicals whipped up by the murder of Hindu leader Lakshmanananda Saraswati a decade ago. Despite the fact that Maoists took responsibility for the leader's death, over the course of the ensuing months, Christians were blamed, and around 56,000 of them fled into forests and the homes of friends and relatives. Approximately 5,600 houses and 415 villages were raided and set on fire. The government reported that 38 people were killed and two women raped, though others have reported higher numbers. The events that unfolded following this killing constituted India's worst Christian persecution in 300 years, and even Hindu leaders have recognized the scheme perpetrated against Christians. In the aftermath, seven Christians (six of them illiterate) were tried and convicted of Saraswati's murder in sham proceedings. Their case has been stagnating, with the appeals court long overdue to hear the case. One journalist has set up a petition calling for their release.

Those inflamed by Hindu nationalist sentiment fanned by the governing Bharatiya Janata Party and allies have for years targeted Christians and others. Recently, U.S.-based charities like Compassion International have been restricted, shut down, or forced out of India. The idea that someone might choose a religion other than Hinduism has Hindu radicals up in arms, and this has led to support for "anti-conversion laws" in several areas of India which do in fact make it illegal to convert to other religions -- including Christianity. Made-up claims of "fraudulent" conversions, prohibited under the law, are often used as a way to stop any change of religion -- including the free acceptance of the gospel message.

False allegations seem to be a theme in India. Just yesterday, it was reported that police in India's Uttar Pradesh charged over 270 Christians with "spreading lies about Hinduism and drugging people to try and convert them to Christianity."

For the U.S. and India to build a lasting international partnership, the recognition and respect for religious freedom is essential. Prime Minister Modi must acknowledge that these serious religious freedom violations happening on his watch betray India's rule of law heritage as a Commonwealth country. The degradation of rule of law compounds the economic and security problems which will develop as religious freedom suffers, and corporations will begin to think twice before investing in India.

One way that concerns can immediately be addressed is by giving the Christians convicted for Saraswati's death a hearing date for their appeal, and a fair and speedy trial. This will only begin remedying the religious freedom and rule of law issues which have developed in recent years, but it is a start.

FOREWORD
CHAIRMAN

I am pleased to author this report about the violence against Christians in India and its direct impact on the interests of the United States. I believe the violence against Indian Christians indicates where India is headed. It is up to us to determine what that means to America's national security and trade interests in that part of the world.

In the 1980s and 1990s, US policies towards China were driven by business interests. When the Tiananmen Square massacre happened, America sided with the business lobby. The US policy then was decidedly pro-Chinese regime with the false hope that China would change one day. America argued that any action to upset the Chinese leaders could hurt the pocketbooks of the American people.

Right about that time, America needed the cooperation of a military regime in Pakistan for its strategic interest in Afghanistan. America was more than willing to ignore the cherished principles to please a dictatorship and stood idly by witnessing the epic slide of Pakistan into becoming a radical state. The radicalization of Pakistan was taking place at the cost of the lives of the Christians, Hindus, and Ahmadis there in broad daylight. In Washington, diplomats and political leaders argued that America was in Pakistan only because of our strategic interests and not to police them or to tell them how to run their country.

As a result, America's long-term security interests, as well as its business interests, have suffered both in China and Pakistan. While Pakistan is permanently lost to being a much-needed American ally, China has become foe#1. In fact, China, flush with American dollars, is threatening the global order and America's primacy.

Now, successive American Administrations are again making a wrong choice in India. America seems to be ignoring India's epic slide into a radical religious state in recent years as Hindu nationalism is gripping the lives of millions of people. Hindu nationalism is taking India down the same path the Islamist parties did in Pakistan to that country during the 80s and 90s.

Instead of raising the alarm, America is now talking about how amenable the Indian nationalist leaders are to America's short-term goals in Asia. Political appointees at the NSC and DoS seem more interested in getting an agreement to sell a weapons system or soybeans rather than focusing on America's long-term interests.

If America is willing to turn a blind eye to India's slide into a religious fundamentalist state, the result will be the creation of another Pakistan or Sri Lanka-like country in South Asia. It will directly threaten America's national security interests in that region.

This 2023 Report shows in the strongest terms why naming India as a Country of Particular Concern is the least America could do in her own interest.

PREFACE
PRESIDENT

India's epic slide into becoming a radical Hindutva state must concern the US and other democracies.

A member of the US Commission on International Religious Freedom (USCIRF) recently pointed out, as per the law, the President must accept the recommendations made by USCIRF after extensive research. The law also provides the President the authority to waive the mandatory sanctions that follow. But unfortunately, successive US Administrations have interpreted the law to ignore USCIRF recommendations.

The International Religious Freedom Act states

The Title IV: Presidential Actions - Subtitle I: Targeted Responses to Violations of Religious Freedom Abroad - Directs the President, for each foreign country in which the government engages in or tolerates violations of religious freedom (including particularly severe violations), to oppose such violations by taking certain actions and promoting the right to freedom of religion in that country.

(Sec. 402) Requires the President to review annually the status of religious freedom in each foreign country during the preceding 12 months, and to designate countries of particular concern for religious freedom, including agencies, instrumentalities, and officials responsible for particularly severe violations of religious freedom.

(Sec. 403) Directs the President to: (1) consult with the violating foreign government prior to taking any action against it; and (2) report to the Congress.

(Sec. 405) Specifies among the actions the President may take: (1) public condemnation; (2) delay or cancellation of scientific and cultural exchanges; (3) withdrawal, limitation, or suspension of U.S. development assistance and U.S. security assistance; (4) instruction of U.S. executive directors of international financial institutions to vote against loans primarily benefiting the foreign government responsible for such violations; (5) restrictions on the issuance of licenses to export any goods or technology to such foreign government; (6) prohibition against the making, guaranteeing, or insuring of loans, or extension of credit by certain U.S. financial institutions to the violating government; and (7) prohibition of U.S. Government procurement of goods or services from such government. Provides for: (1) commensurate actions in substitution for any of the above presidential actions; and (2) binding agreements with foreign governments obliging them to cease, or take substantial steps to address and phase out, the acts, policies, or practices constituting violations of religious freedom.

(Sec. 407) Authorizes the President to waive the requirements of this Act if certain conditions are met.

However, this law does not authorize the President or the Secretary of State to ignore the findings and recommendations of the Commission. FIACONA hopes that the US Administration will agree with the reasoning made in this report backed by overwhelming data.

One million plus Indian American Christians ask the US State Department to correct its wrong interpretation of the law and accept what the data shows about the extent of violence against Christians and other religious minorities carried out by a political party that is running the government of India by using the government agencies, institutions, and its officials. Failing to do so will amount to repeating America's past mistakes with China and Pakistan.

HIGHLIGHTS

This is the second Annual Report produced by the Federation of Indian American Christian Organizations of North America (FIACONA) exclusively on India, to provide critical information and analysis for Washington policymakers.

- FIACONA has recorded 1198 cases of verified violence against Christians in India during the calendar year 2022.
- The data shows that violence against Christians in India is planned and orchestrated by Hindutva nationalist political parties as a part of a larger design to create a Hindus-only state, to the exclusion of the people of Abrahamic faiths.
- FIACONA urges that human rights-related issues be proactively integrated into US policies uniformly, not selectively.
- FIACONA believes that India's slide into becoming a Hindu nationalist state will adversely impact America's national security and financial interests.
- FIACONA urges the US Administration to advise the Union Government of India to collect data on the violence committed against all weaker sections of the society. Making such data public could discourage the fascist tendency from getting stronger in India.
- The US must require all international and corporate investors in India to incorporate 'Equal Opportunity Disclosure' labels to include religious and linguistic diversity for their hiring process in India.
- FIACONA asks that the US Congress pass a law that would allow the victims of religious violence to sue the perpetrators, be it a non-state actor or a government official, in the courts under the US jurisdiction for both criminal and civil negligence.
- FIACONA asks the US Administration to allocate 10,000 Asylum Visas annually for Christian victims of religious violence from India.
- This report quantifies the cost of ongoing harassment against Christians in US dollars. FIACONA estimates the total loss to be around $100 million (INR 790 crores).
- FIACONA implores the Union Government of India to compensate victims for their losses, including lynchings, damages to churches, homes, and properties, jail time, psychological and emotional toll, and legal fees to defend against false charges.
- FIACONA calls on the Indian government to permit the victims of fake police cases to sue the officials involved for damages.
- FIACONA demands that the government of India reconstruct all churches and places of worship, including homes that were demolished illegally.
- There may be an effort to tone down the violence against Christians ahead of the G-20 Summit in September 2023 to avoid international criticism. But FIACONA expects violent attacks to increase following the Summit, based on earlier patterns of behavior by the Hindutva extremists.

INTRODUCTION
FIACONA

The Federation of Indian American Christian Organizations (FIACONA) is a not-for-profit established in 2000. The 2023 Annual Report, prepared and published in Washington, DC, presents authenticated and precisely documented real-time data for 2022. This data shows that attacks against Indian Christians were premeditated, organized, and meticulously planned and executed by India's Hindutva political groups and their network of organizations working closely with law enforcement and other agencies of the Hindu nationalist government.

Last year's 2022 Annual Report was the first of its kind in the Western World and was the beginning of the 'empirical and analytical' study of India's domestic social policy pertaining to Indian Christians.

According to the projections from the latest official census taken in 2011, Indian Christians would constitute over 30 million in 2022. By this count, Christianity is the third-largest religion in India.

This report, is an essential reading and reference material for law enforcement and government officials in countries where large numbers of Indian immigrants live, such as the USA, the UK, and other Western nations. Hindu nationalism and the radicalization of Hindu youth have reached US soil.

This report has documented and verified 1198 cases of attacks against Christians in India during the calendar year 2022. Thousands of attacks are believed to have never been reported.

DOJ-RLC Comment-002372

BACKGROUND
CASE STUDIES

In early August 2022, a Christian man, Madhavan, took a day off to visit his family during a wedding in his hometown. He was working in a town nearby. But when he reached his hometown, his children learned that he had recently become a Christian. The family disapproved of his conversion. So, they forced him to denounce his newfound faith. His children took his Bible and burnt it. He was harassed and verbally abused. But he refused to give up his faith.

A few days later, on August 14th, Madhavan's wife and son went looking for him in the town where he was working. They finally found him in a church. After a brief but intense argument, they assaulted Madhavan physically. But the man refused to fight back. The family took him with them to their home. Later Madhavan's charred body was found in the woods near their village.

It is not uncommon in India for people to profess different religious faiths living in the same household. For example, Sikhs and Hindus live together in the same household. Similarly, Christians marrying Hindus also live together. But lately, this is becoming an issue. One of the reasons for this change seems to be the Hindu nationalist party's constant propaganda against Christians.

In another incident on April 25, 2022, the Education Department officials of the state of Karnataka, ruled by the Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP), visited a Christian school in the city of Bengaluru and "investigated" if the school teaches Christian scriptures to students. It was prompted by a complaint from the Hindu Janajagruti Samiti, a religious extremist group affiliated with the Rashtriya Swayamsevak Sangh (RSS).

The Education Minister of the BJP government in Karnataka falsely claimed that there is no provision for compulsory Bible reading in schools. He promised that his government will take action against the school. According to the principal of the school, Mr. Mathew, their lawyers will answer all the questions raised by the government. However, according to the Indian Express, a local English Daily, alumni of the school have rejected the claims of the Hindu nationalists.

It is just one example of how the elected governments are on a witch hunt against Christian institutions in India under the BJP rule.

India did not experience any such institutional harassment until recently. Since her independence, the Union of India has made impressive progress towards becoming a modern liberal democracy with strong institutions of governance. But as the data in this report shows, such a trend toward becoming a liberal democracy holds true no longer. The data shows that India is becoming an 'autocratic dictatorship' with a substantial percentage of the Hindu population following the political trend set by Hindu nationalists. Society is growing intolerant of Christians and other religious minorities. The Sweden-based V-Dem Institute called India an Electoral Autocracy. FIACONA asserts that holding national and state-level elections alone does not make India a democratic nation.

In the West, India is known as the land of yoga. It is associated with Mahatma Gandhi and nonviolence. But, in reality, India is changing rapidly.

The recent increase in violence against Indian Christians in India is attributed to the rise of Hindu nationalism, popularly known as Hindutva. This ideology follows beliefs akin to Nationalsozialismus (Nazism). Like the SS, the parent organization of Hindutva ideology is known as the RSS (Rashtriya Swayamsevak Sangh). In fact, the RSS is modeled after the SS[1].

This Hindu nationalist movement promotes a Hindu Rashtra (Hindu Nation) to the exclusion of non-Hindus. Like the Nazis, the Hindutva groups uses propaganda, false accusations, and terror tactics to promote religious hatred among the Hindus. The RSS uses every occasion and every development in the country to define and identify non-Hindus as the "other".

In 1948, Mahatma Gandhi was assassinated by former members of the RSS for refusing to agree with the RSS ideology[2]. Shockingly, the RSS celebrates Gandhi's assassin as a hero of an India they envision[3].

The current government of India, run by the Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP) is the political arm of the RSS. The data in this report reveals that this is the reason why the violence against Indian Christians, Muslims, Dalits, farmers, manual laborers, dissenting Hindus, and women has increased exponentially in the last decade after the BJP came to power.

This report also argues why Washington must clearly understand the imminent threat from passive Hindu extremism.

DOJ-RLC Comment-002374

Brutality against Indian Christians & Anti-Conversion Law

During 2022, FIACONA recorded 1198 incidents of violence against Indian Christians. It is a 157% increase from the 2021 data. The increase in these incidents can be directly attributed to the propaganda by the BJP government officials accusing Indian Christians of large-scale 'forced' conversion. A sustained propaganda campaign for the past ten years or so against Christians has made a lot of people believe it. But the government census data shows that the Christian population has not increased in the last 75 years. According to the census estimates, Indian Christians are still around 2.4% of the population despite 2000 years of existence in Indian territories. The RSS claims that the actual number of Christians is much larger. They have no evidence or government data to back up their claim. However, such arguments should have no place in a secular democracy either. Yet, BJP-run state governments are using the false propaganda of largescale conversion to impose restrictions on people to change their religious faith.

The anti-conversion laws, or the Freedom of Religion Act as it is known in many Indian states, are written in such a way that providing education or medical assistance to a Hindu can be construed as 'force' - a prosecutable offense for attempted conversions. The law argues providing education or medical assistance to a poor Hindu exploits his or her economic condition and makes the Christian faith attractive to him/her. The law implies that it is a form of force on poor Hindu people and hence is a criminal offense. For all practical purposes, this law is a mirror image of apostasy laws (minus the death penalty) one finds in several Islamic countries.

On August 13, 2022, the northern Indian state of Himachal Pradesh, under the Hindutva BJP rule, became the 11th state to pass the most restrictive and highly punitive draconian version of such laws yet on the books. This law makes it a crime punishable by ten years of imprisonment to convert to the Christian faith. At the same time, the law does not restrict Christians from converting to Hinduism. This law deprives an adult citizen of his fundamental right to choose a faith of his choice. Many of these so-called anti-conversion laws also apply unrealistic and restrictive conditions to grant permits to build a church or even allow prayer meetings in private residential homes.

Our data indicate that these anti-conversion laws are weaponized against Indian Christians. In the states where these laws are enforced, Hindutva militants often barge into Christian homes and churches, claiming to stop the conversion. No evidence or proof is needed for such accusations. The data also shows that police file false charges against Christians using this law.

FIACONA recorded a total of 355 instances where Christians were arrested on false charges of converting Hindus to the Christian faith.

Although no Christian charged under this law has ever been found guilty, it places an unreasonable financial and emotional burden on Christians. Under the BJP rule, anti-conversion laws helped normalize the violence and harassment of Christians. It has made religious hate a politically acceptable behavior.

DOJ-RLC Comment-002375

Extreme Cases of National Security Laws Against Christians

Intel agencies and law enforcement often resort to charging Christian leaders under national security acts and holding them indefinitely without charging them with any crime. The case of Fr. Stan Swamy is a prime example of it.

Fr. Swamy was a Jesuit priest working among the tribal people. He championed the civil and land rights of the tribal people against the government taking over their lands for mining purposes. So, an irritated government arrested Fr. Swamy and refused to grant bail. The government claimed to have found incriminating evidence in Fr. Swamy's computer. The agencies said he was conspiring to assassinate political leaders and create unrest in the entire country.

The BJP government's case against the Jesuit priest was a fabricated lie, and the evidence was planted by National Intelligence Agency (NIA) on his personal computer. After arresting the 83-year-old priest suffering from the advanced stage of Parkinsons' disease along with a dozen other intellectuals, the Special Judge Dinesh E. Kothalikar of the N.I.A.'s special court said Father Swamy and others "hatched a serious conspiracy to create unrest in the entire country and to overpower the Government, politically and by using muscle power," and rejected their bail application. The priest died in police custody.

On December 13th, 2022, the Washington Post revealed, "Now, an examination of an electronic copy of his computer by Arsenal Consulting, a Massachusetts-based digital forensics firm, concludes that a hacker infiltrated his device and planted evidence, according to a new report by the company. The analysis is more proof that Swamy and his co-defendants were framed in a case that exemplifies the Indian government's crackdown against civil society and prominent critics, the defense team says[6].

Contribution of Christians to the Development of India

From its early arrival in the first century AD, the Christian faith has enriched and helped shape India's trajectory in more ways than one could imagine. Later, when Christian missionaries began to arrive in the 14th century AD onwards, they focused on education and health care. They established lower and higher levels of educational institutions. Unlike the Hindu system, which expressly prohibited education to non-Brahmins and women, Christian missions focussed on educating women and children of all castes.

It was only during the middle of the 20th Century that many regions managed by locally elected governments under the British Raj began to fund large-scale public education systems. A detailed research paper written by Fr. Kennedy is available to the public on their portal. This report outlines a detailed history of the schools and colleges started by Christian missions from 1540 in India. For your convenience, FIACONA has added select portions of that paper as Appendix #3 here.

It is striking to note that most top-level bureaucrats and businessmen in India have received their education from Christian institutions until recently. It is true even today to a large extent, though, due to capacity limits, the share of the Christian educated population has come down lately.

The BJP's Hindutva nationalist militia denies the contribution of Christian educational institutions to the trajectory of India. India has become an economic powerhouse and a regional power from being an impoverished nation, not by accident. Some from the Hindutva nationalist movement have argued that Christian schools encourage students to convert to the Christian faith by making them study the faith compulsorily. Christian school managements deny such charges.

Violence and Destruction of Properties

Hindutva terror groups consider Indian Christians alien to India. Hindu militant vigilantes demolish churches and force Christians to convert to Hinduism. Since the BJP party came to power in 2013, these militant groups have enjoyed the tacit support and protection of the Union (Federal) government and State governments wherever the BJP is in power. Such protection comes in the form of shielding perpetrators from arrests by local police, biased bureaucratic orders, and protection from prosecution.

Non-State Actors and their Network

Non-State actors in India are a group of extremist militant organizations that, at times, function as proxies for the ruling BJP party and, at other times, elected to public offices as members of the BJP party.

Members of Hindutva militant organizations like the Hindu Mahasabha, Vishwa Hindu Parishad (VHP)[7], Bajrang Dal, and Akil Bharatiya Vidyarti Parishad (ABVP) contested and got elected on BJP ticket. For example, Ms. Pragya Singh Thakur, a member of the ABVP and accused of terrorism by a court, was elected to the Indian Parliament as a member of the BJP party[8]. Also, Mr. Vinay Katyar, the founder and president of Bajrang Dal - the other militant organization, has been a Member of the Indian Parliament from the BJP[9].

Hence, members of militant groups are part of the BJP governments at the state and national levels. They effectively control territories while causing egregious human rights violations of the civilian population based on one's religious affiliation. For all practical purposes, these groups are the trained militia of the current BJP government. It is also important to note that the Annual CIA Report has named VHP and Bajrang Dal as militant organizations. A list of such militant organizations affiliated with the BJP government through its parent organization is listed in Appendix #1.

Duplicity of the Government Response

The current Union Government of India is selective in responding to religious violence in India. Most of the time, the leaders of the BJP government follow a no-comment policy when attacks take place. The Indian public sees their observed silence as the approval of their violence. However, while traveling overseas, top officials such as the Prime Minister, the External Affairs Minister, or other leaders tell the western leaders/audience that they are speaking out and taking action against such violence against Christians. This research data suggests otherwise.

There could be a reason why the BJP government leaders are reluctant to say anything about the attacks. FIACONA's report shows that Hindutva terror groups are the real support base for the BJP party and act as its militia. Hence, the Indian Prime Minister's silence domestically is seen as their tacit approval to attack the Christians and that they want it to continue. But for the consumption of the Western audience, the Indian officials repeat a few talking points without considering their truthfulness or taking any action to support their claims.

When Western governments raise this issue with Indian officials, they respond by saying, 'some isolated incidents of violence are bound to happen in a large country of 1.4 billion'. They argue that these "isolated" attacks on Christians should not be exaggerated. They also effectively argue that the BJP party may have been involved in certain attacks, but the government of India is not. They say the government of India is secular, and the Constitution of India binds the government agencies to be secular. This report presents evidence to show that every attack on Christians in India is neither sporadic nor isolated. They are strategically planned actions by elected and non-elected officials of the BJP party who hold government positions.

To a certain extent, the Indian government and the ruling BJP are able to get away with it because businesses beholden to the ruling BJP are also funding many think tanks and lobby groups in the United States with the sole purpose of protecting the image of India's fascist leaders.

US Long-Term Interests and the People of India

The United States, since its formation, has been committed to protecting religious freedom at home and around the world. It has created creditable non-partisan institutional mechanisms to document human rights and religious freedom violations. These institutions are responsible for producing their annual reports. The State Department's annual report documents violence against religious minority groups around the world. It has also documented serious violations by certain political parties in India. But the US Administration has been unwilling to accept the findings of its own reports. The US Administration also does not apply uniform standards and laws to all countries.

FIACONA believes that the US foreign policy must have a long-term perspective so that the offending nations understand and work out a durable human rights policy. Discriminating policies of the US Administration regarding human rights issues from country to country is ineffective. It has the potential to discredit the whole process. FIACONA believes that the US Administration's current focus on turning a blind eye to religious violence in India for short-term gains will come at the expense of America's long-term interests in the region.

Concurrently India continues to ignore and promote its unabated human rights violations against Christians and other religious minorities besides the native people of India and the lower castes. Genocide Watch, a civil society organization in partnership with the Holocaust Museum of Washington, has predicted that India is moving towards witnessing a large-scale genocide of its religious minorities sooner than later[10].

HINDUTVA NATIONALISM
IN THE UNITED STATES

Hindus, by and large, enjoy a certain level of goodwill and respect among the American public. This image was built over several decades through the examples of Gandhi, Nehru, and other leaders. This favorable public image provides a convenient cover for several Hindutva militant extremist organizations today to hide behind. These extremist groups are operating in plain sight as Hindu cultural and educational organizations across the United States. It allows them to raise funds as non-profit organizations. Reports show that those funds are then sent to aid a religious terror agenda that hurts the Christian community in many parts of India.

Hindutva extremist sleeper cells operate in the United States as Hindu religious, cultural, and business associations. They promote an extremist ideology among second-generation Indian Americans. FIACONA strongly believes that these organizations must be flagged prominently in public debates in the USA and must be brought to the attention of the Justice Department and local law enforcement officials.

Almost every month, new organizations are registered in one of the states under the guise of a cultural organization, a religious organization, a business/trade promotion network, or some political entities affiliated with either the Democratic or Republican parties. One common interest for all these groups is to raise funds to support the activities of the radical Hindutva nationalist organizations in India or to protect their image in the US.

In most cases, their publicly stated agenda would not make one suspect their motives. These Hindu militant organizations on US soil have names like "Hindu Foundation", "Cultural Foundation", "Trade Council", "Leadership Forum,"...etc. They often talk about education and supporting the Hindu heritage. But their actual programs show the promotion of a radical Hindutva agenda on American soil.

For example, the stated goal of a Hindu Foundation based in Washington, DC, says it aims to educate the public about the Hindu tradition and advocate for issues and policies serving the Hindus and others. But they are actually providing a platform for radical extremist leaders to come to the US in the name of cultural exchange. These organizations become the conduit to raise funds. These organizations facilitate travel and speaking engagements for many radical leaders, including many accused of terror-related charges. Then they also use frivolous lawsuits to silence the voices that try to expose them. Some of these entities are also reported to be holding "workshops" for other extremist organizations on how to use the American legal system and the courts to shut down their critics.

Another Hindu Foundation out of Frisco, TX, held a fundraising gala in the heart of the lone star state in November 2022 to " demolish churches" in India. The invitation also declared that it needed more funds to forcefully convert Christians to Hinduism because, in their mind, Christians in India were once Hindus, and white men illegally converted them, so they should be converted to Hinduism by all means.

These so-called Hindu foundations and organizations play a critical role in exploiting many less informed US-born Hindu students and radicalizing them. A good majority of this immigrant population that came to America in the past 50 years or so were predominantly from a specific upper caste group whose counterparts in India led the campaign to make India a Hindutva-only country to the exclusion of Abrahamic faiths. This particular segment of the population is driving this agenda in the US, and it has found plenty of help from US-based entrepreneurs and companies.

FIACONA acquired information about another non-profit in New Jersey recently. This organization calls itself a service organization. They raised several million dollars in 2022 to support an effort in India called Ekal Vidhyalayas. These Ekal Vidyalayas are a network of one-teacher schools in remote Indian villages.

It is a noble idea to provide education to children in remote villages. But what this charity doesn't tell most donors in America is that these single-teacher schools they fund are run by an RSS-affiliated religious terror network focused on brainwashing the children. Many of these children educated in such schools are believed to have ended up as foot soldiers for terror attacks against Christians under the direction of the RSS.

There are many such organizations sprouting all across the US, operating as Hindu charitable groups. Some openly say what they plan to do, while others hide them from the public. But it is a web of extremist networks that have established a well-funded operation on US soil. Many of them also spend a considerable amount of money on political contributions to both the Democratic and Republican parties. Of course, because these groups are hiding behind the benign image of Hinduism, many lawmakers in Wahington are said to have fallen for the campaign contributions. (FIACONA will issue a report on how many Members of Congress have inadvertently accepted campaign contributions from groups that are connected with radical militant organizations).

Organizations such as the one in Frisco, TX, or New Jersey are not just creating trouble in a foreign country like India. Rather, they are becoming an American problem as these organizations are creating a radical network under the radar in calm and peaceful neighborhoods in America. With over 5 million immigrants from India living in the United States, a good number of them may feel that they are not part of the mainstream and could be very vulnerable to becoming radicalized. These organizations operating on US soil could affect almost every community in all major cities.

NOTE: Many believe Hindus can not be radicalized. It is true. Modern Hinduism is not violent. But Hindu political nationalism, defined as Hindutva, is a violent ideology. It is not Hinduism. It is akin to Buddhism and political Buddhism, like the ones we witness in Myanmar or Sri Lanka. When extremism can flourish within Buddhism, it should not surprise anyone to see that young vulnerable Hindu adults could also be radicalized.

DATA AND ANALYSIS

Improving upon the 2022 data-collection methodology, the 2023 data for this report was collected through self-reporting on dedicated phone numbers, which were shared throughout the Indian Christian community. The 2022 data was collected through a well-planned dedicated phone reporting system, and hence the vetting of incidents in 2023 has also improved. Therefore the data presented in the following consists of those violent incidents reported almost immediately. A number of these incidents were corroborated through secondary sources such as videos, newspaper reports, and in a few cases, access to police documents known as the First Information Report (FIR).

The reported violent atrocities against the Christians by the Hindutva terror groups have substantially increased to a total of 1198 during the calendar year 2022 as opposed to a total of 761 incidents collected in 2021.

The number of assaults where Christians sustained physical injuries stands at 321. In each incident, several people were injured, and the majority required hospitalization. There were 107 incidents of property damage and 35 attacks where church buildings sustained substantial physical damages.

The police have often arrested the Christian victims instead of those who attacked them in 355 incidents. In each such incident, many Christians were arrested, making the number of people arrested much higher. In some cases, police arrested the Christians and held them for several days without charging them before releasing them eventually.

The data also shows that in 248 attacks, charges were filed against the Christian victims, of which 243 cases were filed under the so-called Anti-conversion laws passed by BJP-run states. It means the Hindu militia would first attack either a house-prayer meeting or a church gathering under the pretext that a conversion ceremony is being held. Then call the police. The police arrest the Christians, charging them with "conversions" under the Anti-conversion Laws.

Only in 31 instances have police agreed to file cases against the assailants. It is important to note that in 11 such incidents when the Christian victims of violence asked to file a case against specific leaders of the BJP and its Hindu militia, the police refused.

In one case, the police instructed the medical staff not to report the injuries of the Christian victims. Several Christian victims have also informed us that the police accompanied the Hindu militia at the time of the attacks.

The following is the analysis and key findings of the data. A complete list of violent attacks can be found in Appendix #4 (All personal details were removed to protect the identity of the victims, and a concise description was entered for the record)

Estimated Monetary Loss Due to Violent Attacks on Christians

(The value is calculated at 80 Rupees per 1 US$):

Christian victims of orchestrated religious violence are left to fend for themselves. These attacks took place as a result of the failure of the state to protect the Christians. Christian victims are forced to bear personal losses besides medical treatment, legal fees, and the cost of rehabilitating or rebuilding their lives.

FIACONA believes the government must provide financial compensation for its failure in its constitutional obligations to protect the victims.

FIACONA has calculated the total loss suffered by the Christian victims from all reported cases in this document. This is the first time such damages were assessed monetarily for the Christian victims. See Table 1 for data. Each type of loss is assigned a monetary value for compensation.

The research team of this report has arrived at a direct financial loss of $ 17.5 million (Rs.140 crores) to the victims listed in this report. However, the rehabilitation, re-employment, health recovery, and resettlement of displaced people will additionally cost $18.75 million (Rs. 150 crores).

Besides these direct losses suffered by the victims, an economic estimate of the loss to the national GDP due to this violence and associated civil unrest during 2022 is estimated at $62.50 million (Rs. 500 crores).

Thus there is a total national loss of $98.75 million (Rs.790 crores) caused by the Hindutva terror attacks on the Christian Community that are confirmed in this report alone. Please note that these estimates do not include similar, much higher losses to the nation caused by terror attacks against other religious communities (Muslims), Dalits, women, and farmers.

FIACONA demands that the Indian government constitute a committee of highly respected unbiased scholars acceptable to Indian Christian leaders to study the extent of the violence and physical property damage, psychological, medical, and legal damages, and estimate accurate financial packages to the affected people, churches, and villages.

Such rehabilitation measures can also be initiated and executed through Christian NGOs and churches that bear the interest of these victims.

FIACONA could assist the US State Department and the USAID with a detailed study, should it be commissioned to assess the financial damage caused by the Hindu terror groups in India.

DOJ-RLC Comment-002383

Punitive Restrictions on Christian Organizations

The BJP government, upon coming to power, made it a priority to shut down financial contributions from overseas Christian organizations to their Indian counterparts. Example: blocking the Foreign Contributions Regulation Act (FCRA) license to Mother Teresa's Missionaries of Charity and thousands of other Christian NGOs. At the same time, RSS-affiliated organizations raising monies from US corporations and foundations are sent to Hindutva terror groups operating in India under the protection of the BJP government. Though most Hindutva organizations in the US are covert about their real work in India, a few organizations, like the one in Texas, have been careless in letting the donors or the supporters know what they do in India.

Most RSS-affiliated organizations in the US say that the funds benefit organizations affiliated with the RSS or its programs in India. An average donor would consider the work of these organizations to be benevolent. But only a well-informed donor would be able to ascertain that the funds thus raised are sent to RSS-affiliated organizations that are at the forefront of the violence against Christian institutions and the Christian population.

US-based Hindutva charities are complicit in the violence by making financial contributions to RSS-affiliated organizations. This complicity makes such organizations liable for monetary damages caused by their support to militant organizations in India.

FIACONA demands the US Revenue and Treasury agencies classify these funds as terror funding by US-based organizations.

DOJ-RLC Comment-002385

Premeditated and Targeted

The interesting dynamics in the state of Uttar Pradesh (UP) is that the terror attacks against Christians are highly planned, coordinated, and executed by picking a Christian target, such as a house prayer, church worship, or Christian schools. These attacks are neither inter-religious tensions naturally developing at the village level nor are they sporadic. For example, the state of UP has a population of 200 million, but there are only 356,000 Christians in the entire state. Christians are less than 0.2 percent of the state population. Hence it is impossible for inter-religious social tensions to develop organically. However, 334 violent attacks were reported from this state in 2022 alone. Further analysis revealed that most of these attacks happened in small to larger towns and not in villages. All these attacks targeted Christian institutions or small prayer meetings with a handful of Christians scattered around the town. These Christians become the unprotected soft targets for local BJP leaders looking to consolidate their Hindu support in urban areas.

Given this kind of geography and demography, violent attacks against the Christians in the state of UP can happen only when they are targeted. The RSS groups also receive official support from the police and local administration. Local BJP leaders always lead these attacks. And at all times, the police arrest the Christian victims and charge them with attempted conversion under the state's anti-conversion laws instead of arresting the attackers. Hence, it clearly indicates premeditated attacks on Christians by the Hindutva terror groups.

As per the media and police records, the major militant organizations, namely Bajarang Dal, VHP, and Hindu Mahasabha, are the perpetrators of violence. It is carried out with the tacit support of the local police and political patronage in the state of Uttar Pradesh.

DOJ-RLC Comment-002386

Killing and Mutilation

The first killing of a Christian pastor in 2022 happened in the Bijapur district of Chhattisgarh on March 17. According to Police sources, Pastor Yallam Shankar was stabbed to death by a mob of 50 masked men when the pastor was having his supper at his home.

The attack took place while the Hindu festival of Holika Dahan (a celebration of good over evil) was being celebrated in the Angampalli village where Pastor Shankar lives.

Before he became a pastor in his village, Yallam served as the head of the village. During that time, he was vocal in expressing his support to the rights of Christians. After he retired, he received several threats to his life because he continued to be a vocal supporter of the Christian community there. Hindu nationalist leaders had demanded that he abandon his Christian faith and stop supporting Christians.

The RSS-affiliated Hindu nationalists had a clear motive. The day after Pastor Yallam was murdered, local police concluded that he was killed by the Maoist insurgents. The police said Maoists suspected him of being a police informant. Police even released a handwritten note supposedly left by the killers giving their reasons for killing the Pastor. It is a very convincing argument except for a few contradicting details and total negation of the actual threat he faced from the Hindu nationalist leaders.

Maoist connection always works when police run out of reasons to turn a story in their favor. In this case, the question is, why would Maoist insurgents stab the Pastor if they wanted to kill him? Maoist carry more guns and rifles than the local police, and they always shoot and kill their targets. They don't have a history of stabbing anyone. The Maoists also do not leave handwritten notes. Besides, there was no threat from any Maoist outfits to his life at any time.

The family and local pastors who know Pastor Yallam say he was killed by a group of Hindu nationalists who were upset about his continued support for Christians in the area.

This incident, as well as the murder of Madhavan, as discussed in the introduction, is the result of society becoming radicalized.

In another instance, on October 23rd, Pastor Adam Digal was killed in the Kandhamal district of Odisha state. But the police wanted to close the case quickly by saying it was a road accident. They did not want to say that Pastor Digal was killed for his faith by Hindu nationalists. Such a statement has the potential to create widespread unrest in that area, as that district witnessed widespread rioting in 2007 after a radical Hindu leader was assassinated. So, according to police, a tree fell on him while he was riding a motorcycle. The problem was there were no fallen trees. The pastor's family disputed the official narrative. The authorities refused to undertake even a mandatory postmortem of the deceased in this case.

Denying Burials Rites to Christians

Denying the Christian community the right to bury their dead is one of the special tactics adopted by Hindutva forces in the State of Chhattisgarh. More than three-fourths of the reported 26 denials were from the state of Chhattisgarh. Villagers refused even a two-month-old dead infant burial rite on the pretext that her parents were Christians.

Expulsion from Villages

Chhattisgarh is also becoming a specialist of sorts in ostracizing and expelling a large number of Christian citizens from their villages. Our data indicate that more than 700 families across 75 villages have been expelled from their villages. The total number of people expelled from these villages, including women and children, would exceed 3500. They were forced to leave their homes and villages unless they renounced their Christian faith. This internally displaced population was never even acknowledged by the respective governments in India nor by any international agencies.

Note that all these incidents are 'targeted' attacks. They were planned and executed by local BJP leaders. These conflicts and expulsions do not develop without external political pressure.

Police Collusion with Militia

The data shows that state governments ruled by the BJP party have shown a high number of police cases against Christian victims. It also shows that the BJP leaders protect their militia, who carry out these attacks, through official and non-official interventions. The police under BJP governments have refused to file cases against Hindutva militias in at least 11 instances. In contrast, the police filed three cases against Hindutva militants for attacking Christians in states that were not governed by the BJP party.

The data also shows that the Hindutva militia disrupted 416 prayer meetings/ worship sessions. In more than 289 such cases, the victims have reported that the Hindutva militia was accompanied by the local police. It indicates that the police were not only acting as an extension of the Hindutva militia, but a large number of attacks were pre-planned to arrest Christians during the Sunday service. Without the state government's approval, the police could not have taken the side of the Hindutva militia against the Christians. The law and order responsibility rests with the state governments in India, which directly control the police under the Indian system.

AND RECOMMENDATIONS

- Though India has one of the best Constitutions a country could wish for, often, the police, judiciary, and other officials do not follow due process under the law. Often the courts decide cases based on political pressure and public opinion by setting aside Constitutional guidelines.
- The Union government of India refuses to collect data and therefore claims to have no data on matters that will embarrass them. When private citizen groups and NGOs produce data, the government dismisses it by questioning its credibility. FIACONA will not be surprised if the Union government of India calls the data published in this report to be unreliable or worse.
- The US must prevail upon the Union government of India to make financial compensation to the victims of religious violence through reputed agencies that are acceptable to the Christian community.
- The US must let India know that it has to reconstruct all churches and places of worship and homes demolished.
- The US Administration must take the violence against different sections of the people in India seriously and include it as a part of the negotiations while dealing with investment, trade, and military cooperation with India.
- All international investment and business contracts must incorporate 'Equal Opportunity Disclosure' labels to include religious and linguistic diversity across the nation, the States, and corporate deals and negotiations.
- The US Congress must pass a law that enables the victims of religious violence to sue, in the US, not only the perpetrators but also those officials and leaders who motivate, patronize, order, or shield perpetrators of egregious human rights violations in other countries.
- The State and the Treasury Departments must use tools like the Global Magnitsky Act to impose travel sanctions against any official or unofficial leaders who are involved in leading, aiding or abetting terror campaigns against Christians, other religious minorities, women, Dalits, farmers, indigenous people, and other affected groups.
- The US Administration must set aside at least a token number of 10,000 visas for Indian Christian asylum seekers each year as long as the Hindutva nationalist government refuses to turn away from its current course.

An organization called Rashtriya Swayamsevak Sangh (RSS), which started in the 1920s, is considered to be the originator of all Hindutva groups. RSS is a militant paramilitary organization that identifies itself only as a "Hindu Cultural organization". Its agendas are executed through a number of militant groups.

The following are some of an estimated 130 shadow organizations created, inspired or assisted by the Rashtriya Swayamsevak Sangh (RSS), compiled by Dr. Shamsul Islam, a Professor of Political Science at the University of Delhi. (Many of these organizations in India have their presence in the US through their sister organizations, often registered as charities)

[1] Akhil Bharatiya Vidyarthi Parishad (student)

[2] Vidya Bharati (education)

[3] Bharatiya Janata Party (political)

[4] Vishwa Hindu Parishad, Bajrang Dal, Durga Vahini, Dharam Sansad or Religious Parliament (anti-minority). The RSS insists that Dharm Sansad is the highest supreme body of Hindutva. This book tells us that "VHP established Dharam Sansad in 1984." Clearly, Dharam Sansad or the Religious Parliament is a puppet in the hands of the VHP.

[5] Akhil Bharatiya Vanvasi Kalyan Ashram (tribal)

[6] Bhartiya Mazdoor Sangh (working class)

[7] Bhartiya Kisan Sangh (peasants)

[8] Rashtriya Sevika Samiti (national women's committee)

[9] Seva Bharati and Tatsam (social service). SV has taken over governmental welfare programmes in slums and poor areas even in cities like Delhi even under non-BJP governments. It is alleged that these organizations are basically fronts to divert government welfare funds to the RSS.recently got a license for sending adopted kids to foreign countries.

[10] Vishva Vibhag (foreign affairs)

[11] Akhil Bhartiya Rashtriya Shikshak Mahasangh (teachers)

[12] Bhartiya Shiksha Mandal (education)

[13] Rashtriya Sikh Sangat (for propagating Hindutva among Sikhs)

[14] Swadeshi Jagaran Manch (propaganda, gets crores of rupees from government departments to run its activities)

DOJ-RLC Comment-002391

According to the Economic Times, the most aggressive organizations of the RSS are:

Dharam Jagaran Samanvay Samiti: It is the 'conversion' wing of RSS. Its Ghar Wapsi initiative made it to headlines after Modi government came to power. This outfit was led by Rajeshwar Singh. Its main task is to convert Christians, Muslims and Tribals to Hindutva. They allege that the Christians are offering education and medical treatment that induces people to convert. (If so, the question is: what prevents Hindutva organizations, since they claim to represent the vast majority of Indians, and has access to many times the funds and resources of Indian Christian organizations, to provide better education and medical facilities?).

Akhil Bharatiya Hindu Mahasabha: One of the oldest Hindutva organizations in India. They honor its most famous member Nathuram Godse, the assassin of Mahatma Gandhi.

Vishwa Hindu Parishad: It is one of the groups connected to the RSS. VHP is most active and even has overseas branches. They compete with other RSS outfits to show they can force more Christians to convert to Hindutva than their sister organizations.

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

USCIRF Outraged by Omission of Nigeria and India from State Department's List of Countries of Particular Concern

Washington, DC – The U.S. Commission on International Religious Freedom (USCIRF) finds it inexplicable that the U.S. Department of State did not include Nigeria or India in its latest designations of "Countries of Particular Concern" (CPCs) under the International Religious Freedom Act (IRFA), turning a blind eye to both countries' particularly severe religious freedom violations.

"There is no justification for the State Department's failure to recognize Nigeria or India as egregious violators of religious freedom, as they each clearly meet the legal standards for designation as CPCs. USCIRF is tremendously disappointed that the Secretary of State did not implement our recommendations and recognize the severity of the religious freedom violations that both USCIRF and the State Department have documented in those countries," said USCIRF Chair Nury Turkel. "The State Department's own reporting includes numerous examples of particularly severe religious freedom violations in Nigeria and India."

Pursuant to IRFA, the State Department re-designated 10 countries as CPCs—Burma, China, Eritrea, Iran, North Korea, Pakistan, Russia, Saudi Arabia, Tajikistan, and Turkmenistan. The State Department also added Cuba and Nicaragua to its CPC list, both of which previously had been on the Department's SWL. In its 2022 Annual Report in April, USCIRF recommended re-designation of the 10 CPC countries, and also recommended CPC designation for Afghanistan, India, Nigeria, Syria, and Vietnam. At that time USCIRF recommended SWL placement for Cuba and Nicaragua based on conditions in those countries in 2021, but the situation in both has deteriorated in 2022.

The State Department placed on its SWL Algeria, the Central African Republic (CAR), Comoros, and Vietnam. USCIRF recommended in its 2022 Annual Report that Algeria and CAR be placed on the SWL, but also that Azerbaijan, Egypt, Indonesia, Iraq, Kazakhstan, Malaysia, Turkey, and Uzbekistan be included as well.

"USCIRF welcomes the State Department's recognition of the worsening situations in both Cuba and Nicaragua this year. We also appreciate the State Department's inclusion this year of CAR and Vietnam on its Special Watch List. While we believe conditions in Vietnam meet the CPC standard, we hope the State Department's SWL designation will encourage the Vietnamese government to take concrete steps to address long standing religious freedom concerns," said USCIRF Vice Chair Abraham Cooper. "USCIRF is disappointed that the State Department did not include Afghanistan as a CPC this year. While it did re-designate the Taliban as an 'entity of particular concern,' or EPC, that does not reflect the reality that the group is the de facto government of the country."

The State Department also designated nine EPCs, which are non-state actors that engage in systematic, ongoing, and egregious violations of religious freedom pursuant to IRFA. USCIRF recommended the redesignation of seven of these actors in its 2022 Annual Report: al-Shabaab, Boko Haram, Hay'at Tahrir al-Sham (HTS), the Houthis, Islamic State in the Greater Sahara (ISGS), Islamic State in West Africa Province (ISWAP) (also referred to as ISIS-West Africa), and Jamaat Nasr al-Islam wal Muslimin (JNIM).

Since the issuance of its 2022 Annual Report, USCIRF has consistently shared its recommendations with the U.S. Department of State and Congress. USCIRF's recent publications include updated reports on Religious Freedom Conditions in India, Blasphemy Laws in Nigeria, Violence and Religious Freedom in Nigeria, Religious Freedom in Afghanistan, Religious Freedom in Nicaragua, and Constitutional Reform and Religious Freedom in Cuba. During 2022, USCIRF held hearings on Afghanistan, Nigeria, and Nicaragua.

The excerpts of a paper by Dr. Kennedy published in a journal Vol.17 No.6 January-March 2018 is publicly available and quoted here:

The Santa Fe School in Goa, founded in 1540 by the Franciscans, was the first formal Christian educational enterprise anywhere outside Europe. In 1542 it was taken over by St. Francis Xavier and in 1548 it was raised to the status of a college and renamed as St. Paul's College.

Soon more missionary schools appeared in other parts of India — at Bassein (1546), in Cochin (1549), at Punnaicayil in Tamil Nadu (1567), in Madurai (1595), in Pondicherry (1713), a High School in Tamil at Ellacurichi in Tamil Nadu (1731) and a Sanskrit School at Mannanam in Kerala (1846)

He further notes: The period 1813 — 1833 can be termed as, the period of Elementary Schools wherein the focus was on elementary schools and primarily teaching was done through the medium of vernacular language. By 1818 the Serampore Missionaries established more than 100 schools with about 10,000 boys. However, in the period 1833 — 1857, the emphasis was shifted to secondary schools and colleges imparted through the medium of English language. It was during this period that some of the outstanding Christian colleges came into the forefront in India — St. Xavier's College in Kolkatta (1835), the Madras Christian College (1837), Robert T. Noble at Masulipatnam (which later was named as Noble College) (1843), Hislop College at Nagpur (1844), and St. John's College in Agra (1853)13 are highly reputed to this day. Till the beginning of the twentieth century Christian educational institutions had played a dominant role in the education of young Indians.

Other well known Christian colleges, established during this period were Scottish Church College (Kolkatta, 1830), Wilson College (Mumbai 1832), Madras Christian College (Chennai 1857), St. Joseph's College (Tiruchirappalli 1844), St. John's College (Agra, 1850), Christ College (Kanpur, 1866), St. Xavier's College (Mumbai 1869), Baring Union Christian College (Batala, 1874), St. John's College (Palayamkottai, 1878), St. Alosius College (Mangalore 1880), St. Stephen's College (New Delhi, 1881), and The American College (Madurai, 1881), and St. Joseph's College (Bangalore 1882). Some of the early colleges were started in big cities - Calcutta, Madras, Delhi and Bombay – but many early founders tended to prefer rural areas. Colleges were started in small towns like Agra, Kanpur, and Madurai, and remote places like Palayamkottai, Machilipattinam, Batala, Guntur, Indore and Nagercoil. They reflected the missionary determination to reach out to the ordinary people of India and not simply favor the urban high-caste elites.

Christians have been pioneering educational initiatives from pre independence time onwards and now has some 25000+ schools, colleges and universities even in very remote and rural areas, imparting quality education to all

The missionaries were the first to promote women's education in India. Women's education led to the enlightenment of Indian women of all religions, castes, and regions in modern times. The first ever Girl's school in India was opened by the missionaries at Kottayam in 181917. The CMS missionaries Mary Anne Cooke, and Mrs. Wilson started female education in Calcutta in 182018. Serampore Mission took the lead in organizing female schools in the Serampore area in 1821. With the progress made through Zenana visitation, a number of mission societies have established special societies such as the Zenana Mission and the Bible Medical Mission and the Church of England Zenana Missionary Society (1881)19. The first attempts towards the education of women in North East India were made at the turn of the twentieth century. The inception of women's education was a major breakthrough in the transformation of society at large.

Clearly Indian Christian Higher education has made women's education a priority. The first women's college, Isabella Thoburn College, was established in Uttar Pradesh State in 1886 with the noble goal of sharing with women the love of the Lord through higher education. Quite aptly the motto of the college is "We Receive to Give." This was followed by the establishment of the second college exclusively for women, Sarah Tucker College (1895), in Palayamkottai, Tamil Nadu, a highly conservative and underdeveloped area. In 1947, the year of independence, out of the seventy-two Christian Colleges in India, sixteen were exclusively for women. Quite interestingly, all four Christian colleges started in 1948, the first year of independence, were for women. Historically, the importance of providing education to women among Christians is well documented. In the co-educational Christian colleges, 56% are girls.

Dear Rewards for Justice,

This link / video goes with the other information I sent you regarding Hindutva and US Pols including GA Senator Shawn Still who has links to some of the same Hindutva Organizations who helped build the Democrat Congressional Career of Tulsi Gabbard including with the help of the Overseas Friends of the BJP when they were a Unregistered Foreign Agent.

GA Senator Shawn Still faces 7 felonies for the fake elector scheme. After his indictment, he took $10,800 from a PAC whose board members and top donors have been activists with a registered foreign agent organization. Then he admitted on video he

I know a little from the media regarding the fake electors scheme but I do believe the 2020 Election was rigged / stolen and Fulton County DA Fani Willis is not honest and her cases were political persecution and some of what she was involved in was linked to the corrupt J6 Committee that ignored and covered up tips / evidence regarding Indian Origin J6ers linked to Hindutva, a Hindutva Lobbyist, Democrat Tulsi Gabbard and another Democrat which I already sent you information about.

One of the Trump Officials indicted with Senator Still was John Eastman.

Dear Professor Eastman,

I recently saw you on Fox News so I decided to write to see if you would examine some material that I have.

I am a associate pastor at Victory Chapel (PCG Church) a small church in Live Oak, CA about 60 miles north of Sacramento and I am former US Marine / Gulf War Vet.

My wife is from India so I have sent time in the missionary field in India and working with author / investigative journalist / Christian Activist Anto Akkara helping him exposing who was behind the Religious Persecution of Christians in Orissa in 2008 and fighting for the release of 7 innocent Christians who were wrongly convicted in a sham trial and imprisoned for killing a Hindu Swami in which set off the violence in 2008.

Please watch the short documentary on YouTube: "Innocents Imprisoned Kandhamal Travesty of Justice"
Before the swami was killed he made a delusional video accusing the U.S. , the Pope, Sonia Gandhi and others of a conspiracy against him to remove him from Orissa so they could basically carry out their foreign agenda to convert Orissa into a Christian Land so we suspect the video might have had something to do with his death such as the Hindus killing him so they could accuse the Christians of killing him.
Shortly after I started working with Anto I contacted the Family Research Council / Tony Perkins and started sharing material with Religious Freedom Advocate Travis Weber so they started working with the ADF Attorneys representing the 7 Innocents and they posted two blogs regarding Religious Freedom in India and the 7 Innocents.
1. India's Opportunity for Religious Freedom
2. Christians Under Fire in India
I discovered some ties which made me suspect the Republican Party's loyalty to Evangelical Christians so I asked FRC about the ties and then they stopped responding to my emails.
We originally suspected that the RSS, RSS Ex Ram Madhav, the India Foundation, present Finance Minister Sitharaman and National Security Adviser Doval used U.S. Names Michael Parker and Brannon Parker and Ghost Writers for a report "Harvest of Hate" that they wrote, prepared, published and submitted to the US State Department to help cover up Religious Persecution in Orissa because we could not find any contact information for the Parker's.
But in late 2018 I returned to the US to try and get political attention to the 7 Innocents and search for the Parker's which I did for about two weeks until I discovered some Hindu material he posted online, videos he made in Orissa and a email address he was using with an alias so I reached out to him and started a dialogue with him which has been ongoing.

The recordings he made in Orissa was interviews he made with victims, witnesses, suspects, police officers, Hindu Tribal Leaders, advocates, politicians, justices and others linked to the violence in Orissa.
The recordings basically help prove that they lied to the US State Department to help cover up Religious Persecution , Christians were the victims and not Hindus as they claim, the best murder suspects are those closest to swami who took leave and left their post and that the 7 Christian are innocent.
Parker has confessed to working with / for the RSS and etc and he basically confessed to initiating RSS / Foreign Influence into Tulsi Gabbard congressional campaign which appears to be ongoing into her Presidential Campaign.
I have been a Trump supporter because I believed that he was pro-Christian and pro-Religious so I contacted the Trump Administration, DOJ FARA Div., Federal Election Committee and the US State Department including Ambassador Brownback but I did not get a pro-Christian and pro-Religious Freedom reply back which made me suspicious and dig deeper until I discovered the Republican Party and the Trump Organization's , Trump Campaign and Trump Administration has close ties to the RSS / BJP / Modi Regime / Hindu Nationalist including through Republican Hindu Coalition Chairman Kumar and US India PAC Sanjay Puri.
The Trump Campaign including Ivanka Trump and her husband Jared Kushner and the Trump Administration including Sec Pompeo who claims to be a Christian have close ties to Finance Minister Sitharaman and National Security Adviser Doval who are linked to the Religious Persecution of Christians in Orissa, falsely accusing the Christians for the problems in Orissa , falsely accusing Christians of the swami's murder while ignoring those closest to him as the most likely suspects.
Basically they lied to the US State Department to get them to

Re: Constitutional Challenge to California's SB 277 - Denial of Religious Exemptions from School Vaccine Mandates – February 2025 Hearing on Religious Liberty in Public Education

Dear Commissioners:

I wrote to you giving public comment in August to ask to be included in the past Religious Liberty Commission hearing but understand that there is a hearing specifically that will address Vaccine Mandates for schools that violate religious liberties in February in Florida. I ask that representatives of our lawsuit be included in giving testimony during this hearing. This would include:

- Christina Hildebrand, President and Founder of A Voice for Choice Advocacy. Our organization has been advocating for religious rights in California, especially when it comes to school vaccine mandates.
- Jonathon Nicol, Lead Attorney on the Doescher, et al. v. Pan, Ninth Circuit Case No. 25-4531; Eastern District of California Case No. 2:23-cv-02995-KJM-JDP, our case that would require California to have a religious exemption for school vaccine mandates.
- Doescher, et al. Plaintiffs, parents and the children affected by the lack of religious exemptions in California that have been denied public education.

Below I outline the background on this critical religious liberty case currently on appeal in the Ninth Circuit that demands urgent consideration: Doescher, et al. v. Pan, Ninth Circuit Case No. 25-4531; Eastern District of California Case No. 2:23-cv-02995-KJM-JDP.

The Constitutional Crisis

California's SB 277 has created an unprecedented and illegal burden on religious freedom by eliminating all religious exemptions from school vaccine requirements while maintaining broad secular exemptions. Devout families are being forced to choose between their sincere religious convictions and their children's access to public education—a choice no American family should face.

SB 277's Constitutional Defects

Discriminatory Exemption System: SB 277 exempts vast numbers of students – over 30% statewide, and over 50% in urban districts like Los Angeles. Carve-outs exist for Special Education students, those with medical issues, homeless students, children of military, those over the age of majority, undocumented students, and foster youth. Yet religious families—regardless of their sincere convictions—receive no consideration whatsoever.

Given these vast exceptions, California cannot claim with a straight face that the tiny numbers of religiously devout students – 0.58% – would "break the bank" – and it is impossible to claim that SB 277 does not inexplicably single out the religious.

Not Generally Applicable: SB 277 imposes selective burdens on religion and it is not generally applicable. A court cannot deem a statute neutral and generally applicable if it treats any comparable secular activity more favorably than religious exercise. Church of Lukumi Babalu Aye, Inc. v. Hialeah, 508 U.S. 520, 537–538 (1993). Such a statute therefore triggers strict scrutiny under the Free Exercise Clause, which SB 277 fails.
Lack of Neutrality: SB 277 was enacted despite published California Senate Judiciary Committee warnings about Free Exercise violations. Church of Lukumi Babalu Aye, Inc. v. Hialeah, 508 U.S. 520, 533 (1993).

Failure of Strict Scrutiny: As the Supreme Court held in Fulton v. City of Philadelphia, 141 S. Ct. 1868, 1877 (2021), the government cannot claim a compelling interest while "making [exemptions] available to others" but denying them to religious adherents. SB 277 undermines its own stated public health goals by exempting vast categories of unvaccinated students for secular reasons.

Real Families, Real Harm

Our plaintiffs suffer concrete injuries beyond ideological disagreement, including financial hardships for independent study due to SB 277's restrictions; homeschooling expenses after explicit rejection from public schools; and imminent enforcement action and educational disruption.

These families' children experience educational limitations, social isolation, and stigma—all because California refuses to accommodate their religious beliefs while accommodating secular objections.

The Supreme Court's Clear Direction

The legal landscape for religious freedom fundamentally shifted in 20202 with Roman Catholic Diocese of Brooklyn v. Cuomo, 592 U.S. 14 (2020), which the Ninth Circuit itself called "a seismic shift in Free Exercise law." This watershed decision confirmed that where a law treats religious institutions less favorably than comparable secular activities, such law imposes an undue burden on the free exercise of religion.

As Justice Gorsuch noted, off-cited cases like Jacobson v. Commonwealth of Massachusetts, 197 U.S. 11 (1905) and its progeny pre-date modern constitutional formulations and absolutely must be confined to the conventions in modern precedent. Roman Catholic Diocese of Brooklyn v. Cuomo (2020) 592 U.S. 14, 23 (Gorsuch, concurring).

The Supreme Court has consistently applied this principle, reversing every lower court decision that failed to protect religious exercise during the pandemic. See, e.g., Harvest Rock Church v. Newsom, 141 S. Ct. 889 (2020); Robinson v. Murphy, 141 S. Ct. 972 (2020); High Plains Harvest Church v. Polis, 141 S. Ct. 527 (2021); S. Bay United Pentecostal Church v. Newsom, 141 S. Ct. 716 (2021); Tandon v. Newsom, 141 S. Ct. 1294 (2021).

Legal Precedent Supports Religious Families

Recent federal court decisions uniformly support our position:

- The Fifth Circuit struck down similar policies in U.S. Navy Seals v. Biden, 27 F.4th 336, 350-53 (5th Cir. 2022).
- The Sixth Circuit applied strict scrutiny to hold that a county public health order closing all schools, including religious schools, was not generally applicable because it permitted various secular businesses to remain open in Monclova Christian Academy v. 10 Toledo-Lucas Health Dept., 984 F.3d 477, 482 (6th Cir. 2020)
- A Mississippi federal court recently held that providing medical but not religious exemptions violates the Constitution in Bosarge v. Edney, No. 1:22CV233- HSO-BWR, ECF 87 (S.D. Miss. August 29, 2023).

The Path Forward

This case represents more than a dispute over vaccination policy—it tests whether religious Americans can participate fully in public life without compromising their faith. The Supreme Court's recent precedents provide a clear roadmap: laws burdening religious exercise must be neutral and generally applicable, and California's discriminatory exemption system fails both tests.

The stakes could not be higher. If California can force religious families to choose between their faith and their children's education, fundamental religious liberty is at risk nationwide.

We respectfully urge the Commission to give a voice to our organization, lawyer and plaintiffs to share our story of the dire situation in California when it comes to vaccine mandates and religious liberties.

Please let me know what other information you need from me to make this happen.

Thank you,

Dear RLC,

I have been emailing regarding the RSS, BJP, VHP, Sangh, Hindutva , Hindu Nationalist Organizations in India who wrongly accuse Christians of crimes and jail them and or persecute and kill Christians, have also been operating in the US and meddling / interfering in our politics / elections which I first contacted the US State Department and FBI / DOJ starting back in 2018 / 19 but it appears that I have been treated differently and I suspect that might have something to do with me being a Christian and the perpetrators being Hindutva.

One of the pols I reported to the FBI / DOJ after exposing his corruption and ties to Hindutva was GA Senator Shawn Still. So I would like to include this the other information I sent you.

There were some tips that I also submitted to Fulton DA Fani Willis who appears with the Biden Regime and those tips might interest you as well because they also help expose that she is also corrupt and that the Hindutva Lobby helped put Biden / Harris in the White House.

Those tips also included videos of Democrat Congresswoman Tulsi Gabbard colluding with Hindutva / OFBJP in Georgia when they were a Unregistered Foreign Agent.

The FBI / DOJ has never held them accountable.

I believe it would send a impactful / helpful to International Religious Freedom Violators if the US State Department and FBI / DOJ help them accountable right here at home instead of letting them buy / influence our bureaucrats and pols.

Thank you Hindu Swayamsevak Sangh USA for the opportunity to take a deep dive into the Hindu culture in Alpharetta this weekend.

Respectfully I believe you are confusing this organization with another. This group in Roswell is a peaceful, loving, welcoming group who have nothing to do with the violence you posted in your video. I encourage you to attend so you can get the correct version of who you are discussing.

Importance: Normal

Chers Serviteurs de Dieu,

Nous vous écrivons aujourd'hui non seulement avec des mots, mais avec des cœurs brisés, porteurs du cri de millions de Congolais qui souffrent dans le silence. Dans l'Est de notre pays, depuis des décennies, un génocide silencieux est perpétré par des forces rwandaises, sur notre sol. Chaque minute, des vies innocentes sont arrachées à la vie. Chaque minute, des familles sont brisées, des villages incendiés, des enfants enlevés, des femmes violées, des communautés décimées. Et le monde continue de regarder, indifférent.

Imaginez une mère qui, au lieu de bercer son enfant, pleure sa fille disparue, violée et assassinée. Imaginez un garçon de 12 ans forcé de porter une arme contre ses frères et sœurs. Imaginez des villages entiers vidés de leurs habitants, des chefs traditionnels assassinés ou remplacés par la peur et la violence. Imaginez des générations marquées par le traumatisme, vivant dans un cauchemar quotidien qui ne cesse jamais,imaginez des militaires rwandais infecté de VIH sida pour venir propager des maladies à l'Est de la RDCongo dans l'objectif de rendre la communauté faible et reussir la domination,Voilà la réalité de nos enfants, de nos familles, de nos ville et nos villages.

Et pourtant, nos ressources naturelles nos minerais stratégiques continuent de quitter nos terres, acheminées vers le Rwanda et les marchés internationaux, enrichissant d'autres nations tandis que nos enfants meurent de faim, de violence et de désespoir. Nos voix sont réduites au silence. Nos médias locaux sont menacés. Les médias internationaux, complices par leur indifférence, ferment les yeux sur ce génocide.

Nous vous supplions : ne restez pas silencieux. Le Congo n'est pas un terrain de jeu pour des intérêts étrangers. Nos enfants méritent l'innocence, nos femmes la sécurité, nos familles la dignité, et nos terres la paix.

Nous demandons :

-Le retrait immédiat de toutes les forces rwandaises de notre territoire.
-La reconnaissance de ce génocide et la condamnation de ses auteurs.
-La protection des femmes, des enfants et des communautés menacées.
-La justice pour ceux qui ont été tués, violés, enlevés et déplacés.

Chers Serviteurs de Dieu, nous ne demandons pas vengeance. Nous demandons justice et protection. Nous demandons que le monde se lève et nous tende la main, que vous soyez notre voix, notre bouclier moral, notre lumière dans cette obscurité. Chaque minute de silence est une victoire pour les meurtriers et une honte pour l'humanité. Chaque minute compte.

« Défendez les faibles et les orphelins ; faites justice aux pauvres et aux opprimés » (Psaume 82:3). Nous vous appelons à être ce bouclier, à être la voix de ceux qui n'ont plus de voix, à rappeler à l'humanité que la vie humaine est sacrée et inviolable.

Que Dieu inspire vos prières et guide vos actions. Que justice soit faite. Que la paix revienne sur notre terre. Que les Congolais puissent enfin vivre libres et en sécurité, sur leur propre sol.

Avec douleur, courage et espérance,

Hello Commission, some thoughts from plough man. Ludwig von Mises book Human Action mentions how human beings work to rid themselves of uneasiness. Imagination of the youth would put money at the forefront of relieving uneasiness, however wisdom tells Jesus is the best at relieving uneasiness. In today's society, money is our lord and savior. The stock market is at all time high however, working class well being is poor.
Something more to think on,
Why a division of labor?
The division of labor exist due to different higher order of value. For example, since the two are always fighting, capitalist/business class higher order of value is different than working class higher order of value.
As everybody knows, capitalist/business class higher order is money, creating wealth. The more wealth created the greater the longevity.
As everybody knows, working class is no area for creating wealth. So if creating wealth is not of higher order of value for working class, then what should be the higher order of value? What the working class uses for its work in the free market is their body. So for the working class to acquire longevity, health is important. For the working class, health is a higher order than wealth, for a healthy body can work longer in life.
For capitalist/business class, wealth is the higher order of value. For working class, health is the higher order of value. Looking for money is the higher order of value for capitalist/business. Looking for work is the higher order of value for working class. Looking for money to gain wealth is profit motive, so profit motive is a higher order of value for capitalist/business. Working class looks for work to maintain health. This would be known as being productive, so being productive is a higher order of value for the working class.
Any value not in the higher order but still of use is called marginal utility. Money is not a higher order of value for working class, however it is still important so money becomes marginal utility. Capitalist/business class marginal utility is health.
Capitalist/business class and working class do have the same value, just different higher order.
So whats with the order of value? Every individual places value on something. Let's say someone likes the color orange but does not like the color brown and is ok with green. The colors all have value. Orange is the higher order of value, green is next, and brown for the most part might not make marginal utility. The reason for the priorities of value is due to the limited focus our brain provides. What we stay focused on is the first order, higher order stay within immediate range. Example is while at work, work is the first order and the spouse is the higher order.
The division of labor is due to the first order and higher order. Each with their own focus to reduce uneasiness.
The fight between division of labor is due to force, coercion, manipulation of what is higher value when what is needed is the understanding of different focus.
Theory - social cooperation stops when working class health is no longer slightly above upper middle class health.

Is being rich a sign of God's blessing or a spiritual danger? Is debt a smart financial tool or a sinful trap? Christians thinking has changed over time.

Hello Commission, some thoughts from a plough man. From James Wilson's Lectures on Law, with law comes superior and inferior. When ever one human feels superior over others, the results are chaos and wars. When we place God as our superior human live productive lives. The best advice for dealing with our emotions comes from Jesus. If society does not know who Jesus is we end up with some human being being our superior. Men rule household under God's rules, therefore never making women feel inferior. The importance of making sure people can read the Bible.
Sincerely,

'Mankeeping' Might Explain Why More Straight Women Are Staying Single

Men deserve opportunities to be vulnerable. But women are not an infinite resource for managing the emotions of men.

Dear Religious Freedom Commission,

Religious Liberty Commission

Religious Liberty Commission

The Commission will consider the past, present, and future of the religious liberty in the United States, including by:

- Exploring the foundations of religious liberty in America
- Considering the impact of religious liberty on American society
- Identifying current threats to domestic religious liberty
- Developing strategies to preserve and enhance religious liberty protections for future generations
- Recommending programs to increase awareness of and celebrate America's peaceful religious pluralism

First. Since I support the US Constitution I also support Religious Freedom and ones right to worship the god they wish to worship but please keep in mind the One and Only True God is Jesus Christ and the rest are false gods / demons which destroy the soul and will destroy the soul of America built on truth.

Second. Religious Pluralism is NOT BIBLICAL and there is NO PEACE between God / Jesus Christ and false religions / demons.

Third. Organizations like the American Hindu Jewish Congress are DECEIVERS and HYPOCRITES and not good for America and Religious Freedom in America because they are DECEIVERS and can erode the Rights of Christians with their HYPOCRISY, DECEPTIONS , LIES and PROPAGANDA because Hinduphobia is a LIE from HELL just like Islamophobia is a LIE from HELL.

https://ahjcongress.org/?fbclid=IwY2xjawNzH3VleHRuA2FlbQIxMABicmlkETFQSkt5SUFKYk1sYmxUVGdkAR77sQz7TlMAAY0nTIZOR2j8_v8Vg5s72DYPg8ngUo75Kk7xmF5NUONzm7sXJQ_aem_xZKifqCNE8F1OE_3N_icgQ

Hinduphobia and Islamophobia are being used to try and silence Christians and others who speak the TRUTH / BIBLE / WORD of GOD regarding false religions / demons / idols and corruption linked to those false religions.

Here is one example which can be linked to the Hindu American Foundation who can be linked to Tulsi Gabbard whose Democrat Congressional Career was built with the RSS, BJP, VHP, Sangh , Hindutva , Hindu Nationalist Organizations who wrongly accuse Christians of crimes and jail them and or persecute and kill Christians.

And if you look at Tulsi Gabbard's history it is a long history of anti-Christian Bias because she has largely ignored the Religious Persecution of Christians in India by Hindutva while she has lifted and praised Hindutva.

First Antisemitism and Hinduphobia is a very bad comparison because Antisemitism is linked to Israel / Jewish People being God's Chosen People in the Torah and Bible so the world , Satan (even Satan can masquerade as a angel of light/ hinduism) and false religions hate them and what they call Hinduphobia can be linked to believing what the Torah and Bible / Word of God says about idols, demons and false religions . Just go read Romans 1 and it describes Hinduism.

Also if you read the news there is a lot regarding Antisemitism and Nazis / Hitler and basically if you say anything that is critical of Israel and the Jewish People then you are attacked and accused of being antisemitic.

Here is Tucker's brother Buckley Carlson with Hindutva Lobbyist Republican Hindu Coalition Chairman Kumar who has clsoe ties with those involved in Kandhamal and using American Brannon Michael Parker to mislead the US State Department to justify and coverup Hindutva abuses against Christians.

Republican Sings Praise To Tulsi Gabbard!

Republican Sings Praise To Tulsi Gabbard!

From RHC website and go notice on their website there is nothing about all the Religious Persecution of Christians by Hindutva because they are DECEIVING HYPOCRITES and SCAMMERS just trying to make the Hindus the victims when they are some of the worst perpetrators against Christians.

Republican Hindu Coalition

Modeled after the highly successful Republican Jewish Coalition, the Republican Hindu Coalition ("RHC") was founded in 2015 to be the unique bridge between the Hindu-American community and Republican policymakers and leaders. Hindu Americans in the United States come from many countries, principally India but also include Hindus from Nepal, Sri Lankan, Caribbean, Indonesia, Bangladesh, New Zealand, Australia, Africa and various parts of Europe. Additionally Hindus include all faiths like Sikhs, Jains, and Buddhists that were born in India.

If you research RHC Chairman Kumar it pretty obvious he is supporter and appears to be a Foreign Agent of the RSS, BJP, VHP, Sangh, Bajrang , Hindu Nationalist , Modi Regime also collectively known as Hindutva and they are Hindu Fascist who get some of their inspirations and ideology from European Fascist including Hitler / Nazis and who are trying to turn India into a Hindu Rastra / Fascist State.

Statements from Parker.

I had several angry email exchanges with Ram Madhav and said they turned my books look and format into a kind of Communist style agitprop. This really upset Ram Madhav. In the end a truncated version was made that included the work of others called Kandhamal - a fact file (I think)

I then selfpublished the report as I had finalized it calling it Orissa in the Crossfire - Kandhamal Burning.

Then in 2011 I finally went to Kandhamal itself and interviewed as many people I could on behalf of the RSS. This report was never made and I eventually uploaded all the interviews to youtube to make it available to the public or any researchers authorities etc.

After I accepted the invitation of a breakaway RSS faction to do a similar report on the Bangladeshi Hindus Ram Madhav and the RSS basically excommunicated me. Thus my 2nd report never made.

Coincidentally I have known Tulsi Gabbard since she was a kid and used to work for her dad. I therefore spent 2 years trying to convince the RSS to take her seriously. They finally did and when she won the 2012 election Ram Madhav called me from India to congratulate me and that was pretty much thenlast time ive heard from him or anyone in the RSS.

'Harvest of Hate' is an example of straight up communist style idealogically driven juvenile agit-prop. When I first saw the book my first instinct was one of rejection. This was based upon the title. What sane person wants anything to do with hate? It is ugly and unattractive and goes against every rule of successful propoganda and effective media promotion. It wins no hearts and convinces none. At best it adds to the many dust collecting publications that are read by none beyond those already convinced or those duty bound to read them.

I don't agree with the political ideology who wrote this but it appears pretty accurate and it links Tulsi Gabbard to RSS / BJP Leader Ram Madhav and other Hindutva including US India PAC Sanjay Puri who can be linked to Indian Origin J6 Leaders who waved the India Flag at J6 and who can be linked to Tulsi Gabbard and another Democrat which the J6 Committee appears ignored because the tips / evidence destroyed their false narratives / lies . When I contacted Kash Patel and informed him that I preserved some of the J6 Committee tips / evidence he showed no interest.

Hindu Rashtra: Stealing everyones' Land...

Here is 13 Hours of anti-Christian Bias which the the Trump 45 Admin / US State Department, FBI / DOJ and some Congressional Leaders have been sent but appears they ignored. Also some of the International Religious Freedom Advocates such as FRC / Tony Perkins and Travis Weber .

The interviews are by American Brannon Michael Parker while backed by the RSS , BJP , India Foundation , RSS Leader Ram Madhav and or those in the Kandhamal video. They are justifying and covering Human Rights Abuse / Religious Persecution of Christians in Kandhamal by Hindutva and trying to make the Radical Hindus the victims and warriors which is similar to what the American Hindu Jewish Congress is trying to do with Hindus while they are wrongly accusing Christians of crimes and jailing them and or persecuting and killing Christians in India which the Trump Administration appears to be largely ignoring.

Again Parker and the Hindutva behind these anti-Christian Bias Interviews can be linked to Tulsi Gabbard. Why doesn't she use her position to help expose the Hindutva meddling / interfering in our politics elections . Could it have something to do with the Hindutva Lobby and Israel Lobby buying / influencing US Bureaucrats and Politicians and might Tucker Carlson and Candace Owens be right while Christians are being persecuted and killed in India . Maybe we could prevent India turning into a Nigeria.

Another 25 Nigerian Christians were murdered by Fulani attacks in October. I'm at a loss as to why it is taking so long for the President / Secretary of State to reinstate Nigeria as a Country of Particular Concern (CPC). I provided the attached point paper to one of your Commissioners, Eric Metaxas, earlier this month. I appreciate the Commission's focus on domestic challenges / persecutions; however, they pale in comparison to the atrocities ongoing in Nigeria. Please encourage President Trump and Secretary Rubio to get this done ASAP. The lives of our Nigerian brothers and sisters are on the line … daily!

Very Respectfully,

Charles F. Minter, Jr.
Lt Col (Ret) USAF
Address

TALKING PAPER

ON

CHRISTIAN GENOCIDE IN NIGERIA

- Purpose: To provide Mr. Metaxas with speaking points for upcoming Religious Liberty Commission meeting in order to have the Department of State (DoS) designate Nigeria as a Country of Particular Concern (CPC)

    - - CPC: a designation by the U.S. Secretary of State for countries that engage in severe violations of religious freedom. Economic sanctions are imposed. This designation is based on the International Religious Freedom Act of 1998

- 10 August 2025 Report from Nigeria-based human-rights NGO International Society for Civil Liberties and the Rule of Law (Intersociety):

    - - Since 2009, jihadist militants have massacred over 50,000 Christians and destroyed over 20,000 churches and Christian schools

    - - More than 7,000 Christians have been killed in the first seven months of 2025; 7,800 were abducted in the same period

    - - The Nigerian government is complicit as they enforce strict blasphemy / Sharia laws that limit religious freedom

- More Christians have been killed for their faith in Nigeria than the rest of the world combined according to Open Doors

- Recent efforts to designate Nigeria as a CPC:

    - - Family Research Council President Tony Perkins petitioned Congress to designate Nigeria as a CPC in March 2025

    - - Senator Ted Cruz proposed new legislation in October 2025, The Nigeria Religious Freedom Accountability Act, which would target Nigerian officials with sanctions and other tools. His legislation would also designate Nigeria as a CPC

- Proposed objective: open up a third initiative through the President's Religious Liberty Commission. During our 1 Oct Bonhoeffer Society Zoom call, Eric stated that the Commission is tasked to generate a periodic report to the President. Nigeria's designation as a CPC should be at the top of the list.

Dear Madam/Sir,

I urgently need your vital help to resolve the issue mentioned in the previous email.

Could you please link me to someone so I can discuss my problem with them?

You have strong and effective connections.
If you have the email address of a relevant person or entity in the US State Department or a member of Congress or Senate, please provide it to me so that I can discuss my problem with them.

Thank you very much,

I was interviewed on the 12th November 2024 at the U.S. Embassy in Yerevan, Armenia. Because I am a religious minority and ethnic minority in Iran, I am therefore eligible to get my visa and be exempt from the travel ban act. But since that date my visa application case has been undergoing administrative processing. I'm breaking down inside.
> Without a valid visa, no university in the USA will admit me as an Iranian applicant. All professors and universities officially require a valid visa as a condition of admission.
> The applications deadlines are approaching. I have less than a month to convince the professors and admissions committees to admit me, which is only possible with a valid approved visa.

I have endured much hardship for my beliefs and identity. My religion and ethnicity are not recognized in my country, Iran. The United States of America is the land of hope, justice, and freedom. It is very upsetting and torturous that the U.S. Embassy in Yerevan, Armenia does not recognize my religion and ethnicity either. The justice has not yet been served in my visa application case.

+ Why am I eligible for an exemption from the travel ban act:
- I am a poet.
- I am an author.
- I am a member of religious minority in Iran (Magi Religion).
- I am a member of ethnic minority in Iran (Talesh/Talysh Ethnicity).
- I am a beekeeper.
- I am an environmental activist focused on the conservation of various tree species.
- I haven't had any jobs that fit my academic field of study just because of my beliefs.
- I have not been, am not, and will not be a member of or employed by any entity that has hostile objectives, plans, or actions against the land, people, and civilization of the USA.
- I will accept and sign any official document you provide that binds and guarantees my commitment to the people, civilization, and land of the USA.
- I respect USA.
- I love USA.
As a human being, what else can I offer to prove my eligibility for an exemption from the travel ban act?

I am Magus, the one who, following the great Zoroaster, believes in "good thoughts", "good words", and "good deeds". My religion is the most peaceful religion in human history. This religion was the originator and developer of the concept of wisdom in human history.
I am Talesh/Talesh. Talesh/Talysh is an ethnic minority in Iran whose language and culture are at risk of complete annihilation. My ethnicity is not recognized in Iran and Caucasus. They want us to be destroyed.
The world has forgotten my religion (Magi Religion) and my ethnicity (Talesh/Talysh Ethnicity). As a Talesh/Talysh Magus, it's as if I don't exist at all. It is a deadly torment that I am not even recognized as a human being.
I am under pressure because of my religion and ethnicity. The Islamic regime in Iran and its proxies have fabricated a case against me within security and intelligence agencies to endanger my life. They want to eliminate me, simply because I write books about my religion, civilization, and ancestors.
I recently intended to publish my poetry book in three languages: Talesh/Talysh, English, and Persian. However, publishing houses informed me that, due to my beliefs, they could not take the risk and accept the danger of publishing it. Nevertheless, I am trying to publish my poetry book in any way possible, even at the risk of my life. I have added over 3,000 pages to one of my published book in the field of etymology of ancient words, but due to my beliefs, I cannot publish it.
I don't even have enough money to publish my books, because due to my beliefs, I cannot find a suitable job.
I have been repeatedly threatened with death by the proxies of the Islamic regime. If they find out I have converted my religion, they will execute me. One of them has previously threatened to dismember my body just because of my books.

Unlike members of other religious minorities, I have no material or spiritual support.
Please help me live in safety and achieve my own and my ancestors' aspirations.
It is very sad that the world has forgotten us.
I kindly request you to help me not to lose time and make my dreams come true.

Pursuing a degree in the USA is a resounding response to all those in Iran and Caucasus who humiliated me, mocked me, threatened me, and did not consider me even a human just because of my peaceful beliefs, my ethnicity, my books, my personality, my poor financial situation, my path of life, etc.
Getting my visa and studying in the USA is a matter of life and death for me.
Please do not allow the suppression of my thoughts, words, and deeds to continue. I am the loneliest and most suppressed religious minority and ethnic minority.

I hope that with your support and the consideration of the exceptions in travel ban act for the religious minorities and ethnic minorities, I will be able to get my visa as soon as possible.
Your contact with the U.S. Embassy in Yerevan, Armenia or any other relevant department, organization, institution, etc. regarding my situation could have a positive impact on my visa application case.

Subject: [EXTERNAL] Clarification- When I use I / We Its Not In The Progressive Ideology Sense
Date: Tue, 28 Oct 2025 14:21:28 -0400
Importance: Normal

Dear DOJ,

When I use I / We in my emails its not in the Progressive Ideology sense because I believe there are only two genders and a person can't be more than one person and or a he / him can't be a she / her or a they / them or whatever other crazy delusional crap they come up with.

Now Biblically a demon possessed person could use they / them because they could be referring to themselves and the demon / demons that possess them or it could be the demon speaking and referring to themselves and the person they possess and other demons possessing that person.

I have used I / we before all the Progressive non-sense regarding there is more than two genders and a person can be something other what God assigned him or her and what they were born.

I use it in the sense as working as a individual / team .

A baseball pitcher throws a no hitter and strikes out every player on the other team so he wins the game so he could say I / we won the game because he couldn't have did it without the other players / the team.

I may have discovered something / did something that benefited the team so when its brought to someones attention so I use I / we in some cases . I may have discovered it or did it but it was discovered or did as a team / individuals working together so the team gets the credit and not just the individual.

Lets say I'm working on a International Religious Freedom / Criminal Case originally built by someone else but I get involved and I discover evidence or contact a witness which leads to serious confessions which are not directly linked to the original case but could be linked to a new case / cases but the other party largely doesn't get involved in the new case because they stay focused more on the original case but they still deserve credit for the new case.

Instead of writing out long explanation I may just write I / we referring to the whole thing or just part.

I may use I / we when writing about the new case because it was built off the work of the original case

I may use I / we when writing about the new case even though the other party largely isn't involved but the new case evolved from the original case so the original party deserves credit.

Lets say I contribute something to the bigger picture of International Religious Freedom but others advocates have been working on Religious Freedom Issues much longer so I may write I / we when writing something about Religious Freedom.

So its referring to a individual contributing to the bigger picture / work / advocacy involving others.

Isn't it staggering—though utterly horrifying—how white Christian nationalists and far-right radicals "self-indigenise" themselves, strutting about with a self-proclaimed licence to murder, plunder, and seize the land of others?

Their so-called justification is laughably simple:

"Native Americans are immigrants; therefore, European settlers had the right to 'conquer' their land."

The mindset is as brazen as it is vile: God gave this land to white European Christians who arrived a mere century or two ago, not to the Indigenous peoples who have inhabited it for 15,000 years. Apparently, this is all part of His 'divine' plan. 😊

These people wrap colonisation and conquest in the cloak of divine favour, claiming moral superiority as cover for theft and slaughter. Sound familiar? It is eerily similar to historical religious conquests—take 7th-century Islam, for instance—where the world had to be converted or conquered in the name of heaven.

The pattern is depressingly clear: dehumanise, claim divine mandate, and commit atrocities with moral impunity.

I've long warned about the emboldened white Christian MAGA mobs targeting brown Hindu Indian-Americans. The United States of America is now acting truly bizarre. And the Trump administration is utterly UNHINGED. From relentless insults to threatening a nation that has never invaded anyone, the sheer audacity of America is staggering... and now the dagger is pointing at the brown Hindu Indian-Americans. America has completely lost its mind.

Honorable members of the Religious Liberty Commission,

The four page attached appeal raises Freedom of Religion, Freedom of speech, and fair treatment issues that have come into place on the Navajo Nation affecting all religious entities and churches across all denominations. This appeal is the position of one pastor on the Navajo Nation and is not the official position of my denomination, or a state district of that denomination, nor is it a legal document though new Navajo Nation Law is thoroughly and concisely referenced in establishing my position. I am not a lawyer!

U.S. Department of Justice

Honorable members of the Religious Liberty Commission,

I. Introduction and background.

This email attachment appeal raises Freedom of Religion, Freedom of speech, and fair treatment under law issues that have come into place on the Navajo Nation affecting all religious entities and churches across all denominations. These issues arise as all churches on the Navajo nation are required as of 7/26/2024 to establish a Revocable Mission Site ten-year renewable permit for their church location. Over time under changes in Navajo Nation Law the church has been moved from an entity capable of leasing land under favorable conditions under Navajo Nation law to a ten-year revocable permit under the authority of the Department Manager Navajo Nation Land Department, Division of Land Resources. Some of the procedures and terms and conditions of this permit, present grave concerns as to Freedom of Religion, Freedom of Speech, and due process to the churches.

Part of this application process requires environmental approvals requiring land survey, Cultural, Historical and Archeological Study, and Biological Study. So when all the terms and conditions are satisfied we have an expensive repetitive time-consuming process which as yet is not fully defined. [1] "This Permit shall be 10 years and reviewed every 5 years to evaluate the rent and compliance with these terms and conditions." Thus, a review occurs at the five year point and the application process repeats at the 9.5 year mark; then, this cycle repeats.

A. What culminated with roots before Covid 19?

During the Navajo Public Comment period required by Navajo Nation law, prior to Covid 19, and required before Navajo law creating resolutions are finalized, all public objections to the Mission Site permit across the Navajo Nation were disregarded. Since then, the present terms and conditions have come into being. These are driven by departmental policy moved into law by the 25th Navajo Nation Council Resolutions [2] "CJY-34-24 and RDCJY-26-24". These resolutions as ratified by the Navajo Nation Council and President of the Navajo Nation become new law placing into effect the new Religious Land Use requirements terminating previous renewable Mission site leases under Department of The Interior, Bureau of Indian Affairs and Navajo Nation authority.

[1] Go to gldd.org Scroll down To Religious Land Use Permit. Select CJY-34-24 Amendments to 16 N.N.C Section 1153 (pdf). Scroll Down to Exhibit B - "Terms And Conditions For Religious Land Use Permit - See 5.
[2] Go to gldd.org Scroll down To Religious Land Use Permit. Select or Download CJY-34-24 Amendments to 16 N.N.C Section 1153. (pdf). Religious Land Use Permit -RDCJY-26-24 (pdf)" is included in this document file.

Resolution CJY-34-24 is the 7/19/2024 Judiciary Committee approval of delegation of authority to the chain of authorities under The Resources and Development Committee. This resolution approves RDCJY-26-24 as the regulations, terms and conditions of the 10 Year Revocable Mission Site Permit. This resolution also removes the Navajo Nation Council Delegate as a required approval in the Mission Site Permit application process.

Resolution RDCJY-26-24, of The Resources and Development Committee, gives authority for establishing the rules, regulations, terms, conditions and the approvals for new Religious Land Permits to the Department Manager of the Navajo Land Department. The Land Department delegates administration of the permit process, submission, verification of correctness to Navajo Nation (GLDD i.e. General Land Development Department) who will submit its findings to the Manager of the Navajo Land Department for final permit approval.

II. What are the churches issues of concern?

A. Is the church being discriminated against due to its religious character?

[3](The church is required to incorporate under Navajo Nation Law, or register with the Navajo Nation Business Regulatory Department as a foreign corporation requiring annual financial reports.) Thus, the church is required to establish itself as a nonprofit business entity while all other business entities can occupy Navajo Nation land under a renewable land lease whereas the church is now restricted to a temporary, terminable revocable use permit. [4]"This permit is revocable at the discretion of the Resources and Development Committee of the Navajo Nation Council."

There are uncorroborated statements from multiple sources that the Mormon Church owns its Mission Sites land. If true this raises an additional red flag. Navajo Nation law requires that Navajo land use can only be acquired through lease or now as in the case of the church the permit process. If the LDS church can own Navajo land how can churches of other denominations be denied land ownership?

B. Will the Church receive due process and fair treatment under Navajo Nation Law?

1. At termination of the permit?

[5]"At the termination of the permit, the Permittee shall peaceably and without legal process deliver up the possession of the premises, in good condition, usual wear and tear excepted. Upon the written request of the Navajo Nation, the Permittee shall provide the Navajo Nation, at the Permittee's sole cost and expense, with an environmental audit assessment of the premises at least sixty (60) days prior to delivery of said premises." (Terms and conditions of the environmental audit are undefined.)

2. Is the appeal process abrogated under Navajo Nation Law?

[6] "By acceptance of the grant of permit, the Permittee consents to the full territorial legislative, executive and judicial jurisdiction of the Navajo Nation, including but not limited to the jurisdiction to levy fines and to enter judgements for compensatory and punitive damages and injunctive relief, in connection with all activities conducted by the Permittee within the Navajo Nation or which have a proximate (legal) effect on persons or property within the Navajo Nation."

[7] "By acceptance of the grant of the permit, the Permittee covenants and agrees never to contest or challenge the legislative, executive or judicial jurisdiction of the Navajo Nation on the basis that such jurisdiction is inconsistent with the status of the Navajo Nation as an Indian nation, or that the Navajo Nation government is not a government of general jurisdiction, or that the Navajo Nation government does not possess full police power (i.e., the power to legislate and regulate for the general health and welfare) over all lands, persons and activities within its territorial boundaries, or on any other basis not generally applicable to a similar challenge to the jurisdiction of a state government. Nothing contained in this provision shall be construed to negate or impair federal responsibilities with respect to the land subject to the permit or to the Navajo Nation."

[8] "Any action or proceeding brought by the Permittee against the Navajo Nation in connection with or arising out of the terms and conditions of the permit shall be resolved administratively under the laws of the Navajo Nation and no action or proceeding shall be brought by the Permittee against the Navajo Nation, in any court of any state."

C. Is freedom of speech for the pastor, missionary, or church endangered by Navajo Nation Law?

Given the nature of the gospel of Jesus Christ, which is an offense to many, and the traditional culture of the Navajo Nation, which its government is centered on, offense is inevitable. In fact 2025 has been a year of ongoing offense on the Navajo Nation in government between it executive, legislative Navajo Nation Council and citizenry over numerous issues. [9] "Members of the Navajo Nation Council issued a statement Tuesday urging President Buu Nygren to fulfill his responsibilities and respond to what they describe as growing concerns over inaction, legal noncompliance, and delayed infrastructure progress under his administration." Sustained complaints to Council Delegates from constituents include, failure to meet community needs such as veterans services, American Rescue Plan Act project implementation, road development, basic public services including electrification and sewage of out lying areas, and lack of natural gas access to communities when natural gas flows across the Navajo Nation.

So there is much occurring that the church will be called on to minister too in both a healing and also critical speaking out context on the Navajo Nation, but can the church do so under the new mission site ten-year revocable permit? Will the church be able to exercise freedom of speech as the Navajo Nation Council and the people have? Remember [10] "This permit is revocable at the discretion of the Resources and Development Committee of the Navajo Nation Council." Revocation means the Navajo Nation seizes the mission site land and buildings. The missionary is evicted and the ministry is out.

Further the new revocable Mission Site Permit changes the relationship of the Navajo Nation and missionary or pastor dwelling on the mission site to a landlord tenant relationship. Consequently, if the Navajo Nation dislikes the missionaries or churches message their immediate solution would be to evict the missionary and seize the Mission Site. [11] "Each residential home established within a mission site is required to pay a $150 per year rental. The Navajo Nation Council adopted 16 N.N.C. §§1151-1164 for the purposes of issuing permits to missionaries and mission bodies to conduct religious and religious activities on the Navajo Nation. Otherwise a homesite lease shall be required but must be outside the acreage boundaries of the mission permitted area." (Note: A homesite lease is not available to missionaries that are not Navajo. There are many.) Parsonages on mission sites makes it possible for non-Navajo pastors or missionaries to minister on the Navajo Nation where generally there is no housing available. Their presence on these mission sites also serves to prevent vandalism. Nearly all Navajo Nation Cities or villages have inadequate police coverage in major part due to mismanagement and governmental failure to release the funds appropriated to properly staff, equip and train the police. This is a complex issue due to the jurisdictional requirements of overlapping federal, state, county and Navajo Nation venues.

III. Will the Navajo Nation fairly and equitably administer the provisions of Mission Site Permit CJY 34-24 and RDCJY-26-24?

In the church I pastor my Navajo seniors tell me, if the Navajo Nation desires to rent our facilities for a community event make sure you collect the rental fee before the event! It appears that the Navajo Nation and the church are on a collision course. Generally, the church of the Lord Jesus Christ grows under persecution so the Navajo Nation will not ultimately prevail. Certainly CJY 34-24 and RDCJY-26-24 positions the traditional Navajo Nation government to persecute the church as it may choose to do so in the face of church dissent or opposition.

If the Navajo Nation successfully implements this mission site permit law it is likely to be copied by some or many of the 574 recognized or unrecognized tribes across the U.S. So this Navajo Nation Religious Law is a dangerous precedent to Freedom of Religion, Freedom of Speech and due process under law. Clearly the Navajo Nation needs to withdraw and properly correct this legislation.

I help him investigate the murder of Swami Laxmanananda and Human Rights Abuses / Religious Persecution of Christians in Kandhamal Odisha India.

The Radical Hindu Individuals / Organizations wrongly accuse Christians of killing the swami when it was Maoist. Then they persecuted and killed Christians and used a American Brannon Michael Parker to justify and cover it up in a report submitted to the US State Department by RSS Leader Ram Madhav and Parker said it was submitted to the UN, Russia and China.

In 2018 after some prayer I returned to the US from India, searched for Parker and discovered some weird Hindu material he posted online and then I discovered these interviews he made in India while illegally working for the RSS while in India on a Tourist Visa. The interviews are with victims, witnesses, suspects, tribal leaders, police, politicians, justices and others linked to the Swami's Murder and Kandhamal Riots and they paint a little different picture than what they reported to the US State Department. During the interviews they were very bias, praised the Radical Hindus, justified and covered up abuses and make some serious confessions when put with other evidence its expose a International Coverup against Christians in Kandhamal and basically all of India.

I reached out to Parker, he replied and I started a recorded dialogue that lead to some serious confessions which lead to a phone call and more confessions which lead to several in person interviews with Parker, me and Anto and more recorded confessions including Parker denouncing the report submitted to the US State Department.

I had read Parker was once involved in politics in Hawaii so I asked if he knew Democrat Congresswoman Tulsi Gabbard and this is some of what he said in a email exchange.

I had several angry email exchanges with Ram Madhav and said they turned my books look and format into a kind of Communist style agitprop. This really upset Ram Madhav. In the end a truncated version was made that included the work of others called Kandhamal - a fact file (I think)

I then selfpublished the report as I had finalized it calling it Orissa in the Crossfire - Kandhamal Burning.

Then in 2011 I finally went to Kandhamal itself and interviewed as many people I could on behalf of the RSS. This report was never made and I eventually uploaded all the interviews to youtube to make it available to the public or any researchers authorities etc.

After I accepted the invitation of a breakaway RSS faction to do a similar report on the Bangladeshi Hindus Ram Madhav and the RSS basically excommunicated me. Thus my 2nd report never made.

Coincidentally I have known Tulsi Gabbard since she was a kid and used to work for her dad. I therefore spent 2 years trying to convince the RSS to take her seriously. They finally did and when she won the 2012 election Ram Madhav called me from India to congratulate me and that was pretty much thenlast time ive heard from him or anyone in the RSS.

I did more research and discovered that Tulsi has ties to the very Hindutva who Parker worked with and where behind him and the report submitted to the US State Department.

Tulsi with Nirmala Sitharaman.

Tulsi with RSS Leader Ram Mahav, RSS / BJP Members and US India PAC Sanjay Puri which is important because he is linked to India Origin J6ers who are also linked to the same Radical Hindu Organizations as Tulsi and J6ers are linked to Tulsi which the J6 Committee ignored . I preserved most of my tips to the J6 Committee.

Ram Madhav, former RSS spokesperson turned BJP spokesperson, at Gabbard's wedding

Rising Persecution: Christians in India Under Attack by Radical Hindu Movements | American Center for Law and Justice

After Parker confessions I contacted the FBI / DOJ submitted tips and requested that we meet so I could submit additional tips / evidence but they ignored my request and I experienced a huge DOUBLE STANDARD when compared to the way the FBI / DOJ handled the Steele Dossier when the tips / evidence I submitted were much more fact based and could be confirmed by other sources.

Tulsi Gabbard colluding with the Overseas Friends of the BJP when they were a Unregistered Foreign Agent. She helped get a resolution removed against PM Modi after he was banned from the US for basically being linked to mass murder. By helping get the resolution removed it basically opened the door for Hunter Biden and his partners to use the VP Office and US State Department to get accuse to Modi for the Biden Crimes Family Influence Operations which there is evidence of in Hunter's emails.

I contacted another journalist and shared some information and he reported on Tulsi's ties with the RSS, BJP, VHP, Hindu American Foundation and Parker and he questioned Tulsi about her ties with the RSS through Parker.

I did more research and discovered that the RSS, BJP, VHP, Sangh, Hindu Nationalist , OFBJP are operating in the US and meddling / interfering in our politics / elections through what is known as the Hindutva Lobby and they helped put Biden / Harris in the White House in 2020 and then placed Indian American in the Biden Regime and some of the officials such as Sonal Shah and Amit Jami have ties with the same Radical Hindu Organizations as Tulsi Gabbard especially the OFBJP.

Then J6 comes around and I noticed that the Indian Flag was waved so I did more research and discovered the Indian Americans have ties to the same Radical Hindu Organizations, Tulsi Gabbard and another Democrat and Hindutva Lobbyist US India PAC Sanjay Puri who helped put Biden / Harris in the White House and place Indian Americans in the Biden Regime. Sanjay Puri also has close ties with the same Radical Hindus in the Kandhamal video.

So I submitted tips / evidence to the J6 Committee but they appeared to ignore my tips / evidence which is likely because they destroyed their false narratives / lies. I submitted tips through their website, then the same tips through Rep Liz Cheney's Office / staff by email and then called into the J6 Committee phone tip line and recorded one of the call myself . See attachments.

I don't agree with the political ideology who wrote this and I don't agree that there was a insurrection by Trump Supporters but this a article I submitted to the J6 Committee with other tips / evidence that go with it such as social media post and interviews by those in the article especially Vincent.

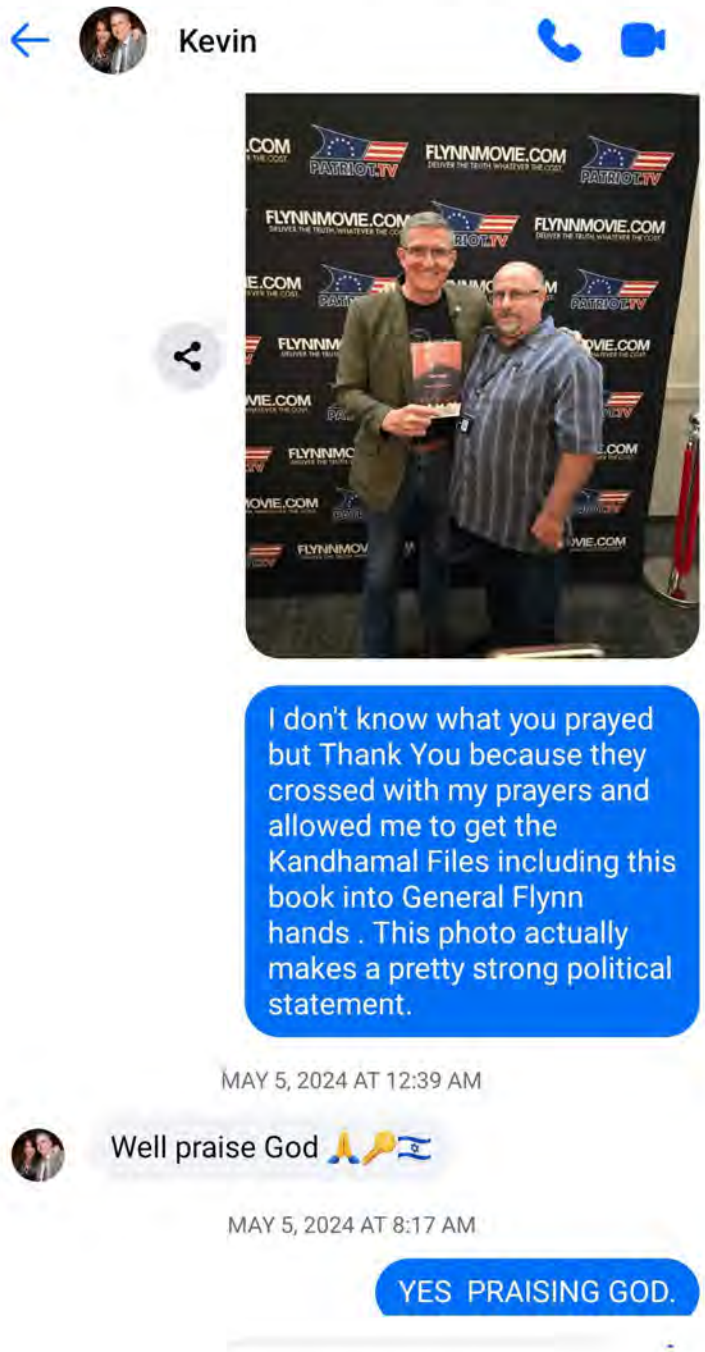
I heard and read President Trump, some Republicans and Kash Patel talking about the J6 Committee deleting / destroying the tips / evidence so I contacted Rep Doug LaMalfa 's Office, the White House website and others including Kash Patel through he website and told them I submitted tips / evidence and I preserved them but they showed no interest. I also contacted General Flynn's and they did show some interest.

I also provided General Flynn with a brief on Kandhamal which included Who Killed Swami Laxmanananda by Anto Akkara and we took this photo of General Flynn holding the book. Some of those mentioned in the book are also linked to Tulsi Gabbard but I / we didn't discover it until after the book was published.

I also have some very interesting email exchanges with other International Religious Freedom Advocates such as Kevin Jessip , Dede Laugesen, Frank Gaffney and John Probhudoss (also from FIACONA) all of Save The Persecuted Christians, FRC / Travis Weber, Sam Brownback, Open Doors David Curry, Sunny Meagher International Christian Ambassadors Association and others and those email and text exchanges help confirmed som of allegations especially regarding the RSS, BJP, VHP, Sangh, Hindu Nationalist , OFBJP, Hindutva Lobby operating in the US and meddling / interfering in our politics / elections which is helping to create bad US India Foreign Policy that enriches Radical Hindus and hurts Christians.



More recently I discovered that Kash Patel and others endorsed a Hindutva Operative for the Radical Hindu Organizations who wrongly accuse Christians of crimes and jail them and or persecute and kill Christians and who are meddling / interfering in our politics / elections.

Egotistic, arrogant, venomous Donald J. Trump and his MAGA mob fear brown Hindu Indians. His own ancestors arrived penniless — Frederick Trump, his great-grandfather, a 16-year-old barber and miner, entered the U.S. as an unskilled laborer. His "qualification"? White & Christian. Poor Mary MacLeod, his mother, a house servant and maid from Scotland, came with almost nothing. Her qualification? White & Christian. Meanwhile, his current wife somehow snagged a genius visa. What kinda genius did she bring from Slovenia?

Yet today, Trump slaps $100,000 H1B fees on skilled immigrants while selling "gold" and "platinum" cards for millions.

The irony is sharp: the family that clawed its way from humble background now trembles at the success of brown Hindu Indians.

✔️ 880+ military bases abroad — still growing
✔️ Threats, terror, bombings, mass slaughters
✔️ Lies, propaganda, media manipulation
✔️ Coups, regime changes, and place puppet rulers
✔️ Theft/access of gold, oil, minerals, strategic resources
✔️ Endless wars as policy
✔️ Smear campaigns to silence dissent

Now the peace-bubblehead Trump talks of taking back Bagram by hook or by crook. OR ELSE...

* Unique Advocacy for Truth & Justice for Kandhamal

With Masters in English literature, Diploma in Journalism and LL. B from Delhi University, Anto Akkara has been a journalist for three decades with international media. The 57-year-old journalist has reported extensively from hotspots in South Asia on human rights, religious issues and social problems. He has to his credit several 'leader' articles for the Times of India and his wire reports have been carried even by The Washington Post.

Akkara reported extensively from the ground the 2004 tsunami devastation in South Asia, protracted ethnic war in Sri Lanka, oppression in Myanmar, birth of democracy and devastating earthquake of 2015 in Nepal, winning over a dozen national and international media awards.

David vs Goliath Fight for Truth & Justice for Kandhamal:
When the national media forgot the simmering anti-Christian violence in remote Kandhamal jungles of eastern Odisha state in 2008, Akkara stirred the nation's conscience with his investigative book: Kandhamal - a blot on Indian Secularism.

(Christian targets across Kandhamal went up in flames following the murder of Hindu Swami Laxmanananda Saraswati on August 23, 2008. Weeks of unabated violence, triggered by the propaganda that the Hindu leader's murder was a Christian conspiracy, left nearly 100 Christians dead, 300 churches and 6,000 Christian houses plundered rendering 56,000 Christians homeless with the state mandarins remaining spectators.)

P. Chidambaram, the Home Minister of India had a personal audience with the author following the headlines the book made and visited Kandhamal soon after receiving the book. Chidambaram even told Indian Parliament in July 2009 that what happened in Kandhamal was 'a blot on the face of Orissa' – quoting the title of the book.

The journalist's maiden book had been provoked by government officials' refusal to register criminal cases even in murders. In three weeks after the release of the book, Odisha government acknowledged five murders highlighted in it, paving way for Rs half a million ($ 6,800) compensation to each of the dependant families. Despite his goal being achieved on 'unacknowledged murders', Akkara continued to pursue Kandhamal with frequent trips to the remote region.

Hindu nationalist conspiracy: Soon after the Swami's murder, four Christians had been beaten up and dumped in police station by Hindu bigots, after inserting the Bible and a knife in their bags. It was World Hindu Council leader Praveen Togadia who announced the names of 'Swami's Christian killers' and not the police.

The police released them after 40 days and arrested seven 'innocent' Christians - six of them illiterates including a mentally challenged. After four years of trial, the second judge too who had questioned the prosecution was transferred in 2013 and court was shut down before the verdict.

Soon, Akkara called on Home Minister Sushil Kumar Shinde in New Delhi, requesting a federal inquiry into Kandhamal due to the bizarre situation: Fast Track trial over, judge transferred, court shut down and innocents behind bars.

With shocking revelations, the journalist brought out 'Kandhamal craves for Justice' on the 5th anniversary in 2013, exposing the travesty of justice: a single conviction in 29 murder trials completed while 'innocent' Christians languished behind bars on trumped up murder charge.

The BJP rode to power after the May 2014 election. Yet, Akkara continued his pursuit and forayed deep into remote jungles to meet the illiterate wives of the 'innocents'. The Hindu neighbours too vouched for their innocence. The scrutiny of dozens of court documents, dubious books and videos from 'India Foundation', led by BJP stalwarts, confirmed the Hindu nationalist conspiracy.

DOJ-RLC Comment-002546

The journalist author came out with the masterpiece of his arduous research on Kandhamal 'Who Killed Swami Laxmanananda? in May 2016, silencing the ruling Hindu nationalists with stunning evidence.

'Kandhamal tale in new light', wrote 'The Telegraph' English daily about the investigative book that read like a detective novel decoding the mystery behind the murder of the Hindu leader on a sacred Hindu festival night and why seven 'innocent' Christians languished in jail for the murder.

Why was the Swami killed?: "The actual intention of the Europe, US, the Pope and Sonia Gandhi was to convert the entire region into the independent Christian land. God has sent me from Himalaya, and it was stalled. That is why their campaign was to drive away swami and create a Christian land. As long as I am alive I shall not let you do that"- Swami Laxmanananda had boasted years before his murder. This claim was cited as proof in the documentary 'The Agony of Kandhamal' - produced by the India Foundation that anchored the Kandhamal cover-up.

Since the Swami had named even the Pope and Sonia Gandhi as people who considered him a threat to the Christianization of Kandhamal, it was easy to spread the conspiracy theory that Christians had killed him. Hence, a contract killing was commissioned.

When the Christians in Kandhamal were brutalized after Swami's murder, the Hindu Nationalist leadership expected, the international Christian lobby led by the Pope would persuade Sonia Gandhi (of Italian Catholic origin) as chairperson of the ruling federal coalition to dismiss the Odisha government in which the BJP was a coalition partner at the time. That would pave way for the BJP to sweep the 2009 election – with the propaganda that Mrs. Gandhi was 'Papa ki Beti' (Pope's daughter to Christianize India).

But the intelligence agencies got the wind of this outlandish conspiracy and cautioned the federal government against stepping on the Kandhamal landmine.

Cover up that exposed the conspiracy: When the grandiose scheme fell flat, top Hindu nationalists launched an elaborate cover up under the 'India Foundation', producing ghost books and documentaries on Kandhamal. As if in a fairy tale, these dubious products reached Akkara from Ram Madhav, spokesperson of Hindu nationalist network and BJP general secretary!

The 'Harvest of Hate - Kandhamal in Crossfire' by Michael Parker was published by the India Foundation in 2009. The book carried a 'Publisher's Note' by India Foundation director Nirmala Sitharaman (presently Finance Minister of India) who described Michael Parker as 'born in India' while the profile at the end of the book declared that Parker was 'born in the US'!

"In August 2009, this report was presented to the US State Department by Ram Madhav, a National Executive of the Rashtriya Swayamsevak Sangha," confirmed Brannon Parker who later published the same book with minor modifications as 'ORISSA in the CROSSFIRE - Kandhamal Burning'.

Since the 'India Foundation' had listed no phone number, the intrepid journalist reached the address printed in 'Harvest of Hate': 343, Chandanwadi Apartment, Sector 10, Dwarka, New Delhi 110 045. This venture gave him the shock of his life. The flat was owned by Ajit Kumar Doval, Prime Minister Narendra Modi's top strategist as the National Security Advisor!

(In September 2019, Akkara met Brannon Parker at Seattle with the help of US national William Rogers who had traced Brannon. In this meeting, Brannon confirmed that he was 'fooled' into the Kandhamal cover-up book by Ram Madhav and wrote even 'lies' about the Christians.)

Caught red-handed in the Kandhamal cover-up, India Foundation has recast itself to exorcise the Kandhamal ghost from haunting it by shunning the word 'Kandhamal' itself on its website.

DOJ-RLC Comment-002547

The stunning findings of 'Who Killed Swami Laxmanananda?' - released in major cities with eminent jurists, writers, and activists – made the media highlight the travesty of justice with headlines:

- Book questions conviction of Christians in Kandhamal violence
- New Book Reignites Questions Over Alleged Cover-Up of Kandhamal Killings
- Christian community falsely framed in Saraswati killing: Book
- Book On Kandhamal 'A Wake-Up Call For The Nation'
- Odia media rewrites Kandhamal script
- Kerala CM demands fresh probe into death of Swami Laxmanananda

This relentless campaign has baffled many as the vociferous Hindu nationalist clan led by the ruling BJP has not uttered a word against Akkara nor challenged the charges raised by the fearless journalist repeatedly naming even top BJP government officials as Kandhamal 'conspirators.

Such has been the impact of the book that after reading the book, a retired judge of Odisha High Court (FYI only - Justice A S Naidu whose report of the Kandhamal Inquiry Commission not yet made public) called the author for a meeting and said: "I have gone through your book. Congratulations."

Online signature campaign for Kandhamal's 7 Innocents: Prior to the release of the investigative book, the journalist author discretely brought the illiterate wives of the seven 'innocents' on March 3, 2016 to New Delhi to launch the online signature campaign for the release of their husbands in the presence of a host of national celebrities.

(The dignitaries including opposition political leaders were stunned when the crew of half a dozen TV channels left on 'urgent call' minutes before the launch of the campaign, indicating that powerful forces were trying to black out the campaign. The crusader had several censorship experiences including his email account getting disrupted in critical moments ahead of his programs.)

The bold campaign, bordering on 'contempt of court' for challenging the judicial system, generates four instant emails from each online signature to the Chief Justice of India, the President of India, the Chairman of the National Human Rights Commission and the Chief Justice of Odisha High Court.

In follow up, Akkara released the stunning documentary 'INNOCENTS IMPRISONED' on the 10th anniversary of Kandhamal on 23 August 2018. Visual presentation of Kandhamal's travesty of justice, the documentary calls for endorsing the online petition, the documentary has been dubbed into key Odia, Hindi and Malayalam languages.

The 17-minute documentary inspired THE WIRE (critical news portal) interview - 10 Years of Kandhamal Riots: "7 Innocents Have Been Convicted," Says Anto Akkara. The bare-all interview exposed why the 'innocents' including a mentally challenged continued to languish in jail for a crime they never committed.

Bail for the 'Innocents': After the Odisha High Court rejected bail to them a second time on December 4, 2018 – contrary to norms laid down by the Supreme Court, Christian legal networks moved the federal Supreme Court challenging the denial of bail.

When the Supreme Court granted bail to Gornath Chalanseth, Akkara rushed to Kandhamal to receive the first 'innocent' coming out in May 21. Two months later, Bijay Kumar Sanseth too was granted bail by the Supreme Court.

However, the bail applications of the remaining five - Bhaskar Sunamajhi, Buddhadeb Nayak, Durjo Sunamajhi, Munda Badamajhi and Sanathan Badamajhi - got adjourned repeatedly in the Supreme Court. The routine hearing on the bail applications were adjourned repeatedly - not by judges but by the office of the Registrar of the Supreme Court!

Akkara challenged this judicial farce in a November 21 Facebook post: "When will the Hon'ble Judges of the Supreme Court fix the 'COMPUTER' bug in the Registrar's Office that has been adjourning repeatedly the bail pleas of Kandhamal's remaining five INNOCENTS?" (Coincidence or not, the bail order for the remaining five 'Innocents' from the Supreme Court came five days later on November 26 - the next 'computer generated' date of hearing.)

Campaign for 'Justice for 7 Innocents of Kandhamal': Following the bail for the five, Akkara cut short a reporting trip to Europe and rushed to Kandhamal to receive the 'Innocents coming out of jail', parade them before the media, and revise the campaign to 'Justice for 7 Innocents of Kandhamal'.

Kandhamal Faith Saga: The journalist author, who has also chronicled the incredible witness of Kandhamal Christians with 'Shining Faith in Kandhamal' in 2009 and followed it up with 'Early Christians of 21st Century' that was released by Cardinal Fernando Filoni, president of Vatican's Congregation for Evangelization of Peoples at Indian bishops' assembly in 2013.

The book highlights how homeless Christians turned their 'losses into gains' amid saffron foot-soldiers blackmailing thousands of Christians to forsake faith to return to their villages. They chose to languish in dingy slums than to turn their back to Christ and gave sterling testimony as true followers of Christ who gladly carried the cross without running away from it (Mat 16:24).

History repeats itself. As in the 'Early Christians' era, hardly any Christian gave up their faith while hundreds of Hindus including those who tormented the Christians have been flocking to churches to profess the faith they tried to banish from Kandhamal. The poor but Christians have defeated and silenced the mighty Hindu nationalists.

Akkara is a witness to their incredible witness. His fractured leg was healed miraculously on the New Year Day of 2012 at the spot where the first martyr of Kandhamal – a paralyzed youth Rasanand Pradhan - had been torched alive. With the fracture, Akkara believes God made him sit to work with full concentration on 'Early Christians of 21st Century' when he was handicapped. When he went to Kandhamal eight months later to verify some crucial facts ignoring doctor's caution, he had a biblical healing at the martyrdom spot of the paralyzed youth.

A missionary friend asked Akkara to include this testimony in the book "since you are a witness to their faith." With the doctor too confirming his miraculous healing, Cardinal Oswald Gracias who has written the Foreword promptly approved insertion of this 'author's testimony' titled: 'Woe to me unless I preach the Good News". That is what Akkara has done all these years. The rock-like faith of even illiterate Christians inspired him to accompany them to document their incredible testimony.

The political outcome of this unique pilgrimage is the fulfilment of the Gospel assurance of Luke 12:2: "Nothing is covered up that will not be revealed or hidden that will not be known."

For holding on to their faith amid diabolic cruelty, rampant impunity and state apathy, Kandhamal Christians deserve the title 'Early Christians of 21st Century':

In February 2020, Akkara brought the Seven Innocents on bail to Bangalore at great risk. Presenting the seven Pentecostal illiterates before the assembly of nearly 200 Catholic bishops in India, Akkara reminded them about the silence of the Christian community to the 'innocents' due to fear of the ruling BJP.

William Rogers – 'John the Baptist of Kandhamal' in the US

My crusade for Truth & Justice for Kandhamal's valiant Christians is replete with amazing biblical-like incidents with the Lord guiding my path for 17 years and stunning evidences falling in my path like manna in the desert to silence the mighty and ruling Hindu nationalists in the David versus Goliath fight, without any harm whatsoever throughout.

One such amazing episode in the Kandhamal voyage is how I got connected with William Rogers, a passionate Christian and a former US Marine, and how he has turned out to be 'John the Baptist of Kandhamal for the US'. How we connected sounds like a biblical anecdote.

In early February 2018, I was in Guwahati (capital of Assam state - biggest city in the north east India) to speak on 'Kandhamal's Incredible Witness & Travesty of Justice' at the national assembly Signis India (Catholic forum of those in electronic media) with over 200 delegates. After that, I called on my key contacts there including Rev Laldawngliana, national moderator of the Presbyterian Church of India (PCI), who requested me to address the once in four year PCI national assembly in May first week at Haflong in Assam.

Gladly I accepted the proposal and booked my flight ticket (at my expense) two months in advance, which I seldom do. After the silver of our marriage on May 2, I flew from Kochi to Guwahati and called up the PCI moderator for the travel arrangement to Haflong. He stunned me saying that my session has been cancelled as the new executive (elected from each state) opposed my presentation at the last minute as the Hindu nationalist BJP had made big inroads in the PCI elections with its money power, getting candidate friendly to the Hindu nationalists winning the key church posts, who were aware of my spirited advocacy on Kandhamal from 2009.

I was stunned and disappointed as I had declined an invitation later to address a huge charismatic convention in Bangalore on the same days. I also did not know what to do with the 500 books I had sent by courier at big expense from New Delhi for the PCI assembly which would gather 30,000 on the final day. Five days later, I had fixed a program at Darjeeling mountains and so, I could not go to Bangalore with last minute prohibitive summer fares.

(I have gone through several such reversals in the Kandhamal crusade but I was always convinced that the Lord will find me a way out).

Then I had the inspiration to call up Archbishop Dominic Jala (who died in a road accident in the US in 2019) of Shillong, 60 miles from Guwahati and capital of Christian Meghalaya state.

"I will not be there. But don't worry. I will tell the Cathedral vicar to make you speak during all the five Sunday masses," Archbishop Jala, fond of my Kandhamal advocacy, assured me.

So, I hired a van and carried nearly 200 books to Shillong and duly spoke at the end of all the 5 Masses – three at the Cathedral with local Khasi language service and two at the Grotto church down with English service. While Catholic youth managed the sale of my books at the Cathedral, at the Grotto, it was my Kerala classmate Joe Chirayil, married to a Khasi lady and working in local school, who took care of the books. When I came down for the final English Mass, Joe told me: "An American was impressed by what you said in the church and has taken your books and he will contact you."

Soon I got an email from William Rogers, an evangelical who had come to the church with his Catholic wife who is from Shillong. Without naming the Hindu nationalists (inside churches, I do not mention political names), I shared diplomatically how 'those behind the Kandhamal bloodshed and travesty of justice had fooled' - to attack the Christians alleging Christians killed the Hindu swami - the people of Kandhamal, Odisha, India and even the whole world led by the US. Fraudulent and concocted books were made to cover up Kandhamal and this was presented to even the US State department to fool them."

Rogers went through my books carefully and got excited with the 'Parker fraud' I had exposed in nationally acclaimed 'Who Killed Swami Lakshmanananda?'

Ghost US authors & State Department fooled: While pursuing the saga of the seven Christians being tried for the sensational murder, I had stumbled upon the mammoth fraud behind Kandhamal. Two 'US authors' - Michael Parker and Brannon Parker - are supposed to have authored one and the same book on Kandhamal under different titles:

The 'Harvest of Hate Kandhamal in Crossfire' by Seattle-based Michael Parker was published by the India Foundation in 2009. The bulky book carried a 'Publisher's Note' by India Foundation director Nirmala Sitharaman (presently finance minister of India) and published from a flat registered in the name of Ajit Doval, National Security Advisor of India for the third time with Prime Minister Narendra Modi.

In her introduction to 'Harvest of Hate – Kandhamal in Crossfire', Sitharaman, described the author Michael Parker as 'born in India' while the profile at the end of the book declared that Parker was 'born in the US'!

The same Michael Parker book has been subsequently marketed as 'ORISSA in the CROSSFIRE - Kandhamal Burning' by Brannon Parker:

"In August 2009, this report was presented to the US State Department by Ram Madhav, National Executive of the Rashtriya Swayamsevak Sangha (RSS)," confirmed Brannon Parker in his preface to the reincarnated work. That confirmed how the Hindu nationalists tried to fool even the US State Department about Kandhamal!

Thrilled by these revelations. Rogers was in touch with me and came to New Delhi with my classmate Joe for the launch of the thrilling documentary 'Innocents Imprisoned' that was released on Aug 23, 2018 – on the 10th anniversary of Kandhamal – at the Constitution Club of India.

Roger also bought 40 copies of my book 'Who Killed Swami Lakshmanananda?' and carried them to the US and managed to trace after much hard work the real Parker – Brannon Parker based in Seattle and established contact with him.

A year later, in August 2019, I flew to New York to address Indian NGO forum at the UN and had to address an Indian Conference in San Francisco where Rogers joined me and drove me in his car all the way to Seattle to meet Brannon Parker. In mid-September, I met the mysterious author Brannon Parker in Seattle, who confided to me that he too had been 'fooled' by top Hindu nationalist leaders to be a partner in the Kandhamal cover-up and he was trapped to write lies about the Christians after he was taken to Odisha soon after the Kandhamal bloodshed, introducing him to 'ghost' celebrities to prepare the cover-up book.

After visiting Roger's house near Sacramento, we travelled together to Washington at his expense and met many big guys before I returned to India.

But for the biblical connection with Rogers, I would not have succeeded in this mission to get bail for all the Seven Innocent Christians. Though two had been given bail by the Supreme Court in May and July, the sudden bail for all the remaining five came from the Supreme Court of India on 26 November, 2019 after I made social media posts about the US visit and meeting the REAL PARKER.

Enthused by this big breakthrough, Rogers has since turned into a true researcher, pursuing the Octopus like hold of Hindu nationalists in the US political system.

It is certainly worth interviewing Rogers.

September 13, 2018

Last week, the United States Secretaries of State and Defense traveled to India to meet with their counterparts to continue developing the U.S./India relationship. As this relationship proceeds to develop, religious freedom must be on the agenda. There will be pressure to sideline this topic, but our fellow Christians, along with others persecuted for their beliefs in India, can't afford our complacency.

This past August marked the 10-year anniversary of the mob slaughter of Christians by Hindu radicals whipped up by the murder of Hindu leader Lakshmanananda Saraswati a decade ago. Despite the fact that Maoists took responsibility for the leader's death, over the course of the ensuing months, Christians were blamed, and around 56,000 of them fled into forests and the homes of friends and relatives. Approximately 5,600 houses and 415 villages were raided and set on fire. The government reported that 38 people were killed and two women raped, though others have reported higher numbers. The events that unfolded following this killing constituted India's worst Christian persecution in 300 years, and even Hindu leaders have recognized the scheme perpetrated against Christians. In the aftermath, seven Christians (six of them illiterate) were tried and convicted of Saraswati's murder in sham proceedings. Their case has been stagnating, with the appeals court long overdue to hear the case. One journalist has set up a petition calling for their release.

Those inflamed by Hindu nationalist sentiment fanned by the governing Bharatiya Janata Party and allies have for years targeted Christians and others. Recently, U.S.-based charities like Compassion International have been restricted, shut down, or forced out of India. The idea that someone might choose a religion other than Hinduism has Hindu radicals up in arms, and this has led to support for "anti-conversion laws" in several areas of India which do in fact make it illegal to convert to other religions -- including Christianity. Made-up claims of "fraudulent" conversions, prohibited under the law, are often used as a way to stop any change of religion -- including the free acceptance of the gospel message.

False allegations seem to be a theme in India. Just yesterday, it was reported that police in India's Uttar Pradesh charged over 270 Christians with "spreading lies about Hinduism and drugging people to try and convert them to Christianity."

For the U.S. and India to build a lasting international partnership, the recognition and respect for religious freedom is essential. Prime Minister Modi must acknowledge that these serious religious freedom violations happening on his watch betray India's rule of law heritage as a Commonwealth country. The degradation of rule of law compounds the economic and security problems which will develop as religious freedom suffers, and corporations will begin to think twice before investing in India.

One way that concerns can immediately be addressed is by giving the Christians convicted for Saraswati's death a hearing date for their appeal, and a fair and speedy trial. This will only begin remedying the religious freedom and rule of law issues which have developed in recent years, but it is a start.

FOREWORD
CHAIRMAN

I am pleased to author this report about the violence against Christians in India and its direct impact on the interests of the United States. I believe the violence against Indian Christians indicates where India is headed. It is up to us to determine what that means to America's national security and trade interests in that part of the world.

In the 1980s and 1990s, US policies towards China were driven by business interests. When the Tiananmen Square massacre happened, America sided with the business lobby. The US policy then was decidedly pro-Chinese regime with the false hope that China would change one day. America argued that any action to upset the Chinese leaders could hurt the pocketbooks of the American people.

Right about that time, America needed the cooperation of a military regime in Pakistan for its strategic interest in Afghanistan. America was more than willing to ignore the cherished principles to please a dictatorship and stood idly by witnessing the epic slide of Pakistan into becoming a radical state. The radicalization of Pakistan was taking place at the cost of the lives of the Christians, Hindus, and Ahmadis there in broad daylight. In Washington, diplomats and political leaders argued that America was in Pakistan only because of our strategic interests and not to police them or to tell them how to run their country.

As a result, America's long-term security interests, as well as its business interests, have suffered both in China and Pakistan. While Pakistan is permanently lost to being a much-needed American ally, China has become foe#1. In fact, China, flush with American dollars, is threatening the global order and America's primacy.

Now, successive American Administrations are again making a wrong choice in India. America seems to be ignoring India's epic slide into a radical religious state in recent years as Hindu nationalism is gripping the lives of millions of people. Hindu nationalism is taking India down the same path the Islamist parties did in Pakistan to that country during the 80s and 90s.

Instead of raising the alarm, America is now talking about how amenable the Indian nationalist leaders are to America's short-term goals in Asia. Political appointees at the NSC and DoS seem more interested in getting an agreement to sell a weapons system or soybeans rather than focusing on America's long-term interests.

If America is willing to turn a blind eye to India's slide into a religious fundamentalist state, the result will be the creation of another Pakistan or Sri Lanka-like country in South Asia. It will directly threaten America's national security interests in that region.

This 2023 Report shows in the strongest terms why naming India as a Country of Particular Concern is the least America could do in her own interest.

DOJ-RLC Comment-002561

PREFACE
PRESIDENT

India's epic slide into becoming a radical Hindutva state must concern the US and other democracies.

A member of the US Commission on International Religious Freedom (USCIRF) recently pointed out, as per the law, the President must accept the recommendations made by USCIRF after extensive research. The law also provides the President the authority to waive the mandatory sanctions that follow. But unfortunately, successive US Administrations have interpreted the law to ignore USCIRF recommendations.

The International Religious Freedom Act states

The Title IV: Presidential Actions - Subtitle I: Targeted Responses to Violations of Religious Freedom Abroad - Directs the President, for each foreign country in which the government engages in or tolerates violations of religious freedom (including particularly severe violations), to oppose such violations by taking certain actions and promoting the right to freedom of religion in that country.

(Sec. 402) Requires the President to review annually the status of religious freedom in each foreign country during the preceding 12 months, and to designate countries of particular concern for religious freedom, including agencies, instrumentalities, and officials responsible for particularly severe violations of religious freedom.

(Sec. 403) Directs the President to: (1) consult with the violating foreign government prior to taking any action against it; and (2) report to the Congress.

(Sec. 405) Specifies among the actions the President may take: (1) public condemnation; (2) delay or cancellation of scientific and cultural exchanges; (3) withdrawal, limitation, or suspension of U.S. development assistance and U.S. security assistance; (4) instruction of U.S. executive directors of international financial institutions to vote against loans primarily benefiting the foreign government responsible for such violations; (5) restrictions on the issuance of licenses to export any goods or technology to such foreign government; (6) prohibition against the making, guaranteeing, or insuring of loans, or extension of credit by certain U.S. financial institutions to the violating government; and (7) prohibition of U.S. Government procurement of goods or services from such government. Provides for: (1) commensurate actions in substitution for any of the above presidential actions; and (2) binding agreements with foreign governments obliging them to cease, or take substantial steps to address and phase out, the acts, policies, or practices constituting violations of religious freedom.

(Sec. 407) Authorizes the President to waive the requirements of this Act if certain conditions are met.

However, this law does not authorize the President or the Secretary of State to ignore the findings and recommendations of the Commission. FIACONA hopes that the US Administration will agree with the reasoning made in this report backed by overwhelming data.

One million plus Indian American Christians ask the US State Department to correct its wrong interpretation of the law and accept what the data shows about the extent of violence against Christians and other religious minorities carried out by a political party that is running the government of India by using the government agencies, institutions, and its officials. Failing to do so will amount to repeating America's past mistakes with China and Pakistan.

HIGHLIGHTS

This is the second Annual Report produced by the Federation of Indian American Christian Organizations of North America (FIACONA) exclusively on India, to provide critical information and analysis for Washington policymakers.

- FIACONA has recorded 1198 cases of verified violence against Christians in India during the calendar year 2022.
- The data shows that violence against Christians in India is planned and orchestrated by Hindutva nationalist political parties as a part of a larger design to create a Hindus-only state, to the exclusion of the people of Abrahamic faiths.
- FIACONA urges that human rights-related issues be proactively integrated into US policies uniformly, not selectively.
- FIACONA believes that India's slide into becoming a Hindu nationalist state will adversely impact America's national security and financial interests.
- FIACONA urges the US Administration to advise the Union Government of India to collect data on the violence committed against all weaker sections of the society. Making such data public could discourage the fascist tendency from getting stronger in India.
- The US must require all international and corporate investors in India to incorporate 'Equal Opportunity Disclosure' labels to include religious and linguistic diversity for their hiring process in India.
- FIACONA asks that the US Congress pass a law that would allow the victims of religious violence to sue the perpetrators, be it a non-state actor or a government official, in the courts under the US jurisdiction for both criminal and civil negligence.
- FIACONA asks the US Administration to allocate 10,000 Asylum Visas annually for Christian victims of religious violence from India.
- This report quantifies the cost of ongoing harassment against Christians in US dollars. FIACONA estimates the total loss to be around $100 million (INR 790 crores).
- FIACONA implores the Union Government of India to compensate victims for their losses, including lynchings, damages to churches, homes, and properties, jail time, psychological and emotional toll, and legal fees to defend against false charges.
- FIACONA calls on the Indian government to permit the victims of fake police cases to sue the officials involved for damages.
- FIACONA demands that the government of India reconstruct all churches and places of worship, including homes that were demolished illegally.
- There may be an effort to tone down the violence against Christians ahead of the G-20 Summit in September 2023 to avoid international criticism. But FIACONA expects violent attacks to increase following the Summit, based on earlier patterns of behavior by the Hindutva extremists.

INTRODUCTION
FIACONA

The Federation of Indian American Christian Organizations (FIACONA) is a not-for-profit established in 2000. The 2023 Annual Report, prepared and published in Washington, DC, presents authenticated and precisely documented real-time data for 2022. This data shows that attacks against Indian Christians were premeditated, organized, and meticulously planned and executed by India's Hindutva political groups and their network of organizations working closely with law enforcement and other agencies of the Hindu nationalist government.

Last year's 2022 Annual Report was the first of its kind in the Western World and was the beginning of the 'empirical and analytical' study of India's domestic social policy pertaining to Indian Christians.

According to the projections from the latest official census taken in 2011, Indian Christians would constitute over 30 million in 2022. By this count, Christianity is the third-largest religion in India.

This report, is an essential reading and reference material for law enforcement and government officials in countries where large numbers of Indian immigrants live, such as the USA, the UK, and other Western nations. Hindu nationalism and the radicalization of Hindu youth have reached US soil.

This report has documented and verified 1198 cases of attacks against Christians in India during the calendar year 2022. Thousands of attacks are believed to have never been reported.

DOJ-RLC Comment-002565

BACKGROUND
CASE STUDIES

In early August 2022, a Christian man, Madhavan, took a day off to visit his family during a wedding in his hometown. He was working in a town nearby. But when he reached his hometown, his children learned that he had recently become a Christian. The family disapproved of his conversion. So, they forced him to denounce his newfound faith. His children took his Bible and burnt it. He was harassed and verbally abused. But he refused to give up his faith.

A few days later, on August 14th, Madhavan's wife and son went looking for him in the town where he was working. They finally found him in a church. After a brief but intense argument, they assaulted Madhavan physically. But the man refused to fight back. The family took him with them to their home. Later Madhavan's charred body was found in the woods near their village.

It is not uncommon in India for people to profess different religious faiths living in the same household. For example, Sikhs and Hindus live together in the same household. Similarly, Christians marrying Hindus also live together. But lately, this is becoming an issue. One of the reasons for this change seems to be the Hindu nationalist party's constant propaganda against Christians.

In another incident on April 25, 2022, the Education Department officials of the state of Karnataka, ruled by the Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP), visited a Christian school in the city of Bengaluru and "investigated" if the school teaches Christian scriptures to students. It was prompted by a complaint from the Hindu Janajagruti Samiti, a religious extremist group affiliated with the Rashtriya Swayamsevak Sangh (RSS).

DOJ-RLC Comment-002566

The Education Minister of the BJP government in Karnataka falsely claimed that there is no provision for compulsory Bible reading in schools. He promised that his government will take action against the school. According to the principal of the school, Mr. Mathew, their lawyers will answer all the questions raised by the government. However, according to the Indian Express, a local English Daily, alumni of the school have rejected the claims of the Hindu nationalists.

It is just one example of how the elected governments are on a witch hunt against Christian institutions in India under the BJP rule.

India did not experience any such institutional harassment until recently. Since her independence, the Union of India has made impressive progress towards becoming a modern liberal democracy with strong institutions of governance. But as the data in this report shows, such a trend toward becoming a liberal democracy holds true no longer. The data shows that India is becoming an 'autocratic dictatorship' with a substantial percentage of the Hindu population following the political trend set by Hindu nationalists. Society is growing intolerant of Christians and other religious minorities. The Sweden-based V-Dem Institute called India an Electoral Autocracy. FIACONA asserts that holding national and state-level elections alone does not make India a democratic nation.

In the West, India is known as the land of yoga. It is associated with Mahatma Gandhi and nonviolence. But, in reality, India is changing rapidly.

The recent increase in violence against Indian Christians in India is attributed to the rise of Hindu nationalism, popularly known as Hindutva. This ideology follows beliefs akin to Nationalsozialismus (Nazism). Like the SS, the parent organization of Hindutva ideology is known as the RSS (Rashtriya Swayamsevak Sangh). In fact, the RSS is modeled after the SS[1].

This Hindu nationalist movement promotes a Hindu Rashtra (Hindu Nation) to the exclusion of non-Hindus. Like the Nazis, the Hindutva groups uses propaganda, false accusations, and terror tactics to promote religious hatred among the Hindus. The RSS uses every occasion and every development in the country to define and identify non-Hindus as the "other".

In 1948, Mahatma Gandhi was assassinated by former members of the RSS for refusing to agree with the RSS ideology[2]. Shockingly, the RSS celebrates Gandhi's assassin as a hero of an India they envision[3].

The current government of India, run by the Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP) is the political arm of the RSS. The data in this report reveals that this is the reason why the violence against Indian Christians, Muslims, Dalits, farmers, manual laborers, dissenting Hindus, and women has increased exponentially in the last decade after the BJP came to power.

This report also argues why Washington must clearly understand the imminent threat from passive Hindu extremism.

Brutality against Indian Christians & Anti-Conversion Law

During 2022, FIACONA recorded 1198 incidents of violence against Indian Christians. It is a 157% increase from the 2021 data. The increase in these incidents can be directly attributed to the propaganda by the BJP government officials accusing Indian Christians of large-scale 'forced' conversion. A sustained propaganda campaign for the past ten years or so against Christians has made a lot of people believe it. But the government census data shows that the Christian population has not increased in the last 75 years. According to the census estimates, Indian Christians are still around 2.4% of the population despite 2000 years of existence in Indian territories. The RSS claims that the actual number of Christians is much larger. They have no evidence or government data to back up their claim. However, such arguments should have no place in a secular democracy either. Yet, BJP-run state governments are using the false propaganda of largescale conversion to impose restrictions on people to change their religious faith.

The anti-conversion laws, or the Freedom of Religion Act as it is known in many Indian states, are written in such a way that providing education or medical assistance to a Hindu can be construed as 'force' - a prosecutable offense for attempted conversions. The law argues providing education or medical assistance to a poor Hindu exploits his or her economic condition and makes the Christian faith attractive to him/her. The law implies that it is a form of force on poor Hindu people and hence is a criminal offense. For all practical purposes, this law is a mirror image of apostasy laws (minus the death penalty) one finds in several Islamic countries.

On August 13, 2022, the northern Indian state of Himachal Pradesh, under the Hindutva BJP rule, became the 11th state to pass the most restrictive and highly punitive draconian version of such laws yet on the books. This law makes it a crime punishable by ten years of imprisonment to convert to the Christian faith. At the same time, the law does not restrict Christians from converting to Hinduism. This law deprives an adult citizen of his fundamental right to choose a faith of his choice. Many of these so-called anti-conversion laws also apply unrealistic and restrictive conditions to grant permits to build a church or even allow prayer meetings in private residential homes.

Our data indicate that these anti-conversion laws are weaponized against Indian Christians. In the states where these laws are enforced, Hindutva militants often barge into Christian homes and churches, claiming to stop the conversion. No evidence or proof is needed for such accusations. The data also shows that police file false charges against Christians using this law.

FIACONA recorded a total of 355 instances where Christians were arrested on false charges of converting Hindus to the Christian faith.

Although no Christian charged under this law has ever been found guilty, it places an unreasonable financial and emotional burden on Christians. Under the BJP rule, anti-conversion laws helped normalize the violence and harassment of Christians. It has made religious hate a politically acceptable behavior.

DOJ-RLC Comment-002568

Extreme Cases of National Security Laws Against Christians

Intel agencies and law enforcement often resort to charging Christian leaders under national security acts and holding them indefinitely without charging them with any crime. The case of Fr. Stan Swamy is a prime example of it.

Fr. Swamy was a Jesuit priest working among the tribal people. He championed the civil and land rights of the tribal people against the government taking over their lands for mining purposes. So, an irritated government arrested Fr. Swamy and refused to grant bail. The government claimed to have found incriminating evidence in Fr. Swamy's computer. The agencies said he was conspiring to assassinate political leaders and create unrest in the entire country.

The BJP government's case against the Jesuit priest was a fabricated lie, and the evidence was planted by National Intelligence Agency (NIA) on his personal computer. After arresting the 83-year-old priest suffering from the advanced stage of Parkinsons' disease along with a dozen other intellectuals, the Special Judge Dinesh E. Kothalikar of the N.I.A.'s special court said Father Swamy and others "hatched a serious conspiracy to create unrest in the entire country and to overpower the Government, politically and by using muscle power," and rejected their bail application. The priest died in police custody.

On December 13th, 2022, the Washington Post revealed, "Now, an examination of an electronic copy of his computer by Arsenal Consulting, a Massachusetts-based digital forensics firm, concludes that a hacker infiltrated his device and planted evidence, according to a new report by the company. The analysis is more proof that Swamy and his co-defendants were framed in a case that exemplifies the Indian government's crackdown against civil society and prominent critics, the defense team says[6].

Contribution of Christians to the Development of India

From its early arrival in the first century AD, the Christian faith has enriched and helped shape India's trajectory in more ways than one could imagine. Later, when Christian missionaries began to arrive in the 14th century AD onwards, they focused on education and health care. They established lower and higher levels of educational institutions. Unlike the Hindu system, which expressly prohibited education to non-Brahmins and women, Christian missions focussed on educating women and children of all castes.

It was only during the middle of the 20th Century that many regions managed by locally elected governments under the British Raj began to fund large-scale public education systems. A detailed research paper written by Fr. Kennedy is available to the public on their portal. This report outlines a detailed history of the schools and colleges started by Christian missions from 1540 in India. For your convenience, FIACONA has added select portions of that paper as Appendix #3 here.

It is striking to note that most top-level bureaucrats and businessmen in India have received their education from Christian institutions until recently. It is true even today to a large extent, though, due to capacity limits, the share of the Christian educated population has come down lately.

The BJP's Hindutva nationalist militia denies the contribution of Christian educational institutions to the trajectory of India. India has become an economic powerhouse and a regional power from being an impoverished nation, not by accident. Some from the Hindutva nationalist movement have argued that Christian schools encourage students to convert to the Christian faith by making them study the faith compulsorily. Christian school managements deny such charges.

Violence and Destruction of Properties

Hindutva terror groups consider Indian Christians alien to India. Hindu militant vigilantes demolish churches and force Christians to convert to Hinduism. Since the BJP party came to power in 2013, these militant groups have enjoyed the tacit support and protection of the Union (Federal) government and State governments wherever the BJP is in power. Such protection comes in the form of shielding perpetrators from arrests by local police, biased bureaucratic orders, and protection from prosecution.

Non-State Actors and their Network

Non-State actors in India are a group of extremist militant organizations that, at times, function as proxies for the ruling BJP party and, at other times, elected to public offices as members of the BJP party.

Members of Hindutva militant organizations like the Hindu Mahasabha, Vishwa Hindu Parishad (VHP)[7], Bajrang Dal, and Akil Bharatiya Vidyarti Parishad (ABVP) contested and got elected on BJP ticket. For example, Ms. Pragya Singh Thakur, a member of the ABVP and accused of terrorism by a court, was elected to the Indian Parliament as a member of the BJP party[8]. Also, Mr. Vinay Katyar, the founder and president of Bajrang Dal - the other militant organization, has been a Member of the Indian Parliament from the BJP[9].

Hence, members of militant groups are part of the BJP governments at the state and national levels. They effectively control territories while causing egregious human rights violations of the civilian population based on one's religious affiliation. For all practical purposes, these groups are the trained militia of the current BJP government. It is also important to note that the Annual CIA Report has named VHP and Bajrang Dal as militant organizations. A list of such militant organizations affiliated with the BJP government through its parent organization is listed in Appendix #1.

Duplicity of the Government Response

The current Union Government of India is selective in responding to religious violence in India. Most of the time, the leaders of the BJP government follow a no-comment policy when attacks take place. The Indian public sees their observed silence as the approval of their violence. However, while traveling overseas, top officials such as the Prime Minister, the External Affairs Minister, or other leaders tell the western leaders/audience that they are speaking out and taking action against such violence against Christians. This research data suggests otherwise.

There could be a reason why the BJP government leaders are reluctant to say anything about the attacks. FIACONA's report shows that Hindutva terror groups are the real support base for the BJP party and act as its militia. Hence, the Indian Prime Minister's silence domestically is seen as their tacit approval to attack the Christians and that they want it to continue. But for the consumption of the Western audience, the Indian officials repeat a few talking points without considering their truthfulness or taking any action to support their claims.

When Western governments raise this issue with Indian officials, they respond by saying, 'some isolated incidents of violence are bound to happen in a large country of 1.4 billion'. They argue that these "isolated" attacks on Christians should not be exaggerated. They also effectively argue that the BJP party may have been involved in certain attacks, but the government of India is not. They say the government of India is secular, and the Constitution of India binds the government agencies to be secular. This report presents evidence to show that every attack on Christians in India is neither sporadic nor isolated. They are strategically planned actions by elected and non-elected officials of the BJP party who hold government positions.

To a certain extent, the Indian government and the ruling BJP are able to get away with it because businesses beholden to the ruling BJP are also funding many think tanks and lobby groups in the United States with the sole purpose of protecting the image of India's fascist leaders.

US Long-Term Interests and the People of India

The United States, since its formation, has been committed to protecting religious freedom at home and around the world. It has created creditable non-partisan institutional mechanisms to document human rights and religious freedom violations. These institutions are responsible for producing their annual reports. The State Department's annual report documents violence against religious minority groups around the world. It has also documented serious violations by certain political parties in India. But the US Administration has been unwilling to accept the findings of its own reports. The US Administration also does not apply uniform standards and laws to all countries.

FIACONA believes that the US foreign policy must have a long-term perspective so that the offending nations understand and work out a durable human rights policy. Discriminating policies of the US Administration regarding human rights issues from country to country is ineffective. It has the potential to discredit the whole process. FIACONA believes that the US Administration's current focus on turning a blind eye to religious violence in India for short-term gains will come at the expense of America's long-term interests in the region.

Concurrently India continues to ignore and promote its unabated human rights violations against Christians and other religious minorities besides the native people of India and the lower castes. Genocide Watch, a civil society organization in partnership with the Holocaust Museum of Washington, has predicted that India is moving towards witnessing a large-scale genocide of its religious minorities sooner than later[10].

HINDUTVA NATIONALISM
IN THE UNITED STATES

Hindus, by and large, enjoy a certain level of goodwill and respect among the American public. This image was built over several decades through the examples of Gandhi, Nehru, and other leaders. This favorable public image provides a convenient cover for several Hindutva militant extremist organizations today to hide behind. These extremist groups are operating in plain sight as Hindu cultural and educational organizations across the United States. It allows them to raise funds as non-profit organizations. Reports show that those funds are then sent to aid a religious terror agenda that hurts the Christian community in many parts of India.

Hindutva extremist sleeper cells operate in the United States as Hindu religious, cultural, and business associations. They promote an extremist ideology among second-generation Indian Americans. FIACONA strongly believes that these organizations must be flagged prominently in public debates in the USA and must be brought to the attention of the Justice Department and local law enforcement officials.

Almost every month, new organizations are registered in one of the states under the guise of a cultural organization, a religious organization, a business/trade promotion network, or some political entities affiliated with either the Democratic or Republican parties. One common interest for all these groups is to raise funds to support the activities of the radical Hindutva nationalist organizations in India or to protect their image in the US.

In most cases, their publicly stated agenda would not make one suspect their motives. These Hindu militant organizations on US soil have names like "Hindu Foundation", "Cultural Foundation", "Trade Council", "Leadership Forum,"...etc. They often talk about education and supporting the Hindu heritage. But their actual programs show the promotion of a radical Hindutva agenda on American soil.

For example, the stated goal of a Hindu Foundation based in Washington, DC, says it aims to educate the public about the Hindu tradition and advocate for issues and policies serving the Hindus and others. But they are actually providing a platform for radical extremist leaders to come to the US in the name of cultural exchange. These organizations become the conduit to raise funds. These organizations facilitate travel and speaking engagements for many radical leaders, including many accused of terror-related charges. Then they also use frivolous lawsuits to silence the voices that try to expose them. Some of these entities are also reported to be holding "workshops" for other extremist organizations on how to use the American legal system and the courts to shut down their critics.

Another Hindu Foundation out of Frisco, TX, held a fundraising gala in the heart of the lone star state in November 2022 to " demolish churches" in India. The invitation also declared that it needed more funds to forcefully convert Christians to Hinduism because, in their mind, Christians in India were once Hindus, and white men illegally converted them, so they should be converted to Hinduism by all means.

These so-called Hindu foundations and organizations play a critical role in exploiting many less informed US-born Hindu students and radicalizing them. A good majority of this immigrant population that came to America in the past 50 years or so were predominantly from a specific upper caste group whose counterparts in India led the campaign to make India a Hindutva-only country to the exclusion of Abrahamic faiths. This particular segment of the population is driving this agenda in the US, and it has found plenty of help from US-based entrepreneurs and companies.

FIACONA acquired information about another non-profit in New Jersey recently. This organization calls itself a service organization. They raised several million dollars in 2022 to support an effort in India called Ekal Vidhyalayas. These Ekal Vidyalayas are a network of one-teacher schools in remote Indian villages.

It is a noble idea to provide education to children in remote villages. But what this charity doesn't tell most donors in America is that these single-teacher schools they fund are run by an RSS-affiliated religious terror network focused on brainwashing the children. Many of these children educated in such schools are believed to have ended up as foot soldiers for terror attacks against Christians under the direction of the RSS.

There are many such organizations sprouting all across the US, operating as Hindu charitable groups. Some openly say what they plan to do, while others hide them from the public. But it is a web of extremist networks that have established a well-funded operation on US soil. Many of them also spend a considerable amount of money on political contributions to both the Democratic and Republican parties. Of course, because these groups are hiding behind the benign image of Hinduism, many lawmakers in Wahington are said to have fallen for the campaign contributions. (FIACONA will issue a report on how many Members of Congress have inadvertently accepted campaign contributions from groups that are connected with radical militant organizations).

Organizations such as the one in Frisco, TX, or New Jersey are not just creating trouble in a foreign country like India. Rather, they are becoming an American problem as these organizations are creating a radical network under the radar in calm and peaceful neighborhoods in America. With over 5 million immigrants from India living in the United States, a good number of them may feel that they are not part of the mainstream and could be very vulnerable to becoming radicalized. These organizations operating on US soil could affect almost every community in all major cities.

NOTE: Many believe Hindus can not be radicalized. It is true. Modern Hinduism is not violent. But Hindu political nationalism, defined as Hindutva, is a violent ideology. It is not Hinduism. It is akin to Buddhism and political Buddhism, like the ones we witness in Myanmar or Sri Lanka. When extremism can flourish within Buddhism, it should not surprise anyone to see that young vulnerable Hindu adults could also be radicalized.

DATA AND ANALYSIS

Improving upon the 2022 data-collection methodology, the 2023 data for this report was collected through self-reporting on dedicated phone numbers, which were shared throughout the Indian Christian community. The 2022 data was collected through a well-planned dedicated phone reporting system, and hence the vetting of incidents in 2023 has also improved. Therefore the data presented in the following consists of those violent incidents reported almost immediately. A number of these incidents were corroborated through secondary sources such as videos, newspaper reports, and in a few cases, access to police documents known as the First Information Report (FIR).

The reported violent atrocities against the Christians by the Hindutva terror groups have substantially increased to a total of 1198 during the calendar year 2022 as opposed to a total of 761 incidents collected in 2021.

The number of assaults where Christians sustained physical injuries stands at 321. In each incident, several people were injured, and the majority required hospitalization. There were 107 incidents of property damage and 35 attacks where church buildings sustained substantial physical damages.

The police have often arrested the Christian victims instead of those who attacked them in 355 incidents. In each such incident, many Christians were arrested, making the number of people arrested much higher. In some cases, police arrested the Christians and held them for several days without charging them before releasing them eventually.

The data also shows that in 248 attacks, charges were filed against the Christian victims, of which 243 cases were filed under the so-called Anti-conversion laws passed by BJP-run states. It means the Hindu militia would first attack either a house-prayer meeting or a church gathering under the pretext that a conversion ceremony is being held. Then call the police. The police arrest the Christians, charging them with "conversions" under the Anti-conversion Laws.

Only in 31 instances have police agreed to file cases against the assailants. It is important to note that in 11 such incidents when the Christian victims of violence asked to file a case against specific leaders of the BJP and its Hindu militia, the police refused.

In one case, the police instructed the medical staff not to report the injuries of the Christian victims. Several Christian victims have also informed us that the police accompanied the Hindu militia at the time of the attacks.

The following is the analysis and key findings of the data. A complete list of violent attacks can be found in Appendix #4 (All personal details were removed to protect the identity of the victims, and a concise description was entered for the record)

Estimated Monetary Loss Due to Violent Attacks on Christians

(The value is calculated at 80 Rupees per 1 US$):

Christian victims of orchestrated religious violence are left to fend for themselves. These attacks took place as a result of the failure of the state to protect the Christians. Christian victims are forced to bear personal losses besides medical treatment, legal fees, and the cost of rehabilitating or rebuilding their lives.

FIACONA believes the government must provide financial compensation for its failure in its constitutional obligations to protect the victims.

FIACONA has calculated the total loss suffered by the Christian victims from all reported cases in this document. This is the first time such damages were assessed monetarily for the Christian victims. See Table 1 for data. Each type of loss is assigned a monetary value for compensation.

The research team of this report has arrived at a direct financial loss of $ 17.5 million (Rs.140 crores) to the victims listed in this report. However, the rehabilitation, re-employment, health recovery, and resettlement of displaced people will additionally cost $18.75 million (Rs. 150 crores).

Besides these direct losses suffered by the victims, an economic estimate of the loss to the national GDP due to this violence and associated civil unrest during 2022 is estimated at $62.50 million (Rs. 500 crores).

Thus there is a total national loss of $98.75 million (Rs.790 crores) caused by the Hindutva terror attacks on the Christian Community that are confirmed in this report alone. Please note that these estimates do not include similar, much higher losses to the nation caused by terror attacks against other religious communities (Muslims), Dalits, women, and farmers.

FIACONA demands that the Indian government constitute a committee of highly respected unbiased scholars acceptable to Indian Christian leaders to study the extent of the violence and physical property damage, psychological, medical, and legal damages, and estimate accurate financial packages to the affected people, churches, and villages.

Such rehabilitation measures can also be initiated and executed through Christian NGOs and churches that bear the interest of these victims.

FIACONA could assist the US State Department and the USAID with a detailed study, should it be commissioned to assess the financial damage caused by the Hindu terror groups in India.

DOJ-RLC Comment-002576

Punitive Restrictions on Christian Organizations

The BJP government, upon coming to power, made it a priority to shut down financial contributions from overseas Christian organizations to their Indian counterparts. Example: blocking the Foreign Contributions Regulation Act (FCRA) license to Mother Teresa's Missionaries of Charity and thousands of other Christian NGOs. At the same time, RSS-affiliated organizations raising monies from US corporations and foundations are sent to Hindutva terror groups operating in India under the protection of the BJP government. Though most Hindutva organizations in the US are covert about their real work in India, a few organizations, like the one in Texas, have been careless in letting the donors or the supporters know what they do in India.

Most RSS-affiliated organizations in the US say that the funds benefit organizations affiliated with the RSS or its programs in India. An average donor would consider the work of these organizations to be benevolent. But only a well-informed donor would be able to ascertain that the funds thus raised are sent to RSS-affiliated organizations that are at the forefront of the violence against Christian institutions and the Christian population.

US-based Hindutva charities are complicit in the violence by making financial contributions to RSS-affiliated organizations. This complicity makes such organizations liable for monetary damages caused by their support to militant organizations in India.

FIACONA demands the US Revenue and Treasury agencies classify these funds as terror funding by US-based organizations.

DOJ-RLC Comment-002578

Premeditated and Targeted

The interesting dynamics in the state of Uttar Pradesh (UP) is that the terror attacks against Christians are highly planned, coordinated, and executed by picking a Christian target, such as a house prayer, church worship, or Christian schools. These attacks are neither inter-religious tensions naturally developing at the village level nor are they sporadic. For example, the state of UP has a population of 200 million, but there are only 356,000 Christians in the entire state. Christians are less than 0.2 percent of the state population. Hence it is impossible for inter-religious social tensions to develop organically. However, 334 violent attacks were reported from this state in 2022 alone. Further analysis revealed that most of these attacks happened in small to larger towns and not in villages. All these attacks targeted Christian institutions or small prayer meetings with a handful of Christians scattered around the town. These Christians become the unprotected soft targets for local BJP leaders looking to consolidate their Hindu support in urban areas.

Given this kind of geography and demography, violent attacks against the Christians in the state of UP can happen only when they are targeted. The RSS groups also receive official support from the police and local administration. Local BJP leaders always lead these attacks. And at all times, the police arrest the Christian victims and charge them with attempted conversion under the state's anti-conversion laws instead of arresting the attackers. Hence, it clearly indicates premeditated attacks on Christians by the Hindutva terror groups.

As per the media and police records, the major militant organizations, namely Bajarang Dal, VHP, and Hindu Mahasabha, are the perpetrators of violence. It is carried out with the tacit support of the local police and political patronage in the state of Uttar Pradesh.

DOJ-RLC Comment-002579

Killing and Mutilation

The first killing of a Christian pastor in 2022 happened in the Bijapur district of Chhattisgarh on March 17. According to Police sources, Pastor Yallam Shankar was stabbed to death by a mob of 50 masked men when the pastor was having his supper at his home.

The attack took place while the Hindu festival of Holika Dahan (a celebration of good over evil) was being celebrated in the Angampalli village where Pastor Shankar lives.

Before he became a pastor in his village, Yallam served as the head of the village. During that time, he was vocal in expressing his support to the rights of Christians. After he retired, he received several threats to his life because he continued to be a vocal supporter of the Christian community there. Hindu nationalist leaders had demanded that he abandon his Christian faith and stop supporting Christians.

The RSS-affiliated Hindu nationalists had a clear motive. The day after Pastor Yallam was murdered, local police concluded that he was killed by the Maoist insurgents. The police said Maoists suspected him of being a police informant. Police even released a handwritten note supposedly left by the killers giving their reasons for killing the Pastor. It is a very convincing argument except for a few contradicting details and total negation of the actual threat he faced from the Hindu nationalist leaders.

Maoist connection always works when police run out of reasons to turn a story in their favor. In this case, the question is, why would Maoist insurgents stab the Pastor if they wanted to kill him? Maoist carry more guns and rifles than the local police, and they always shoot and kill their targets. They don't have a history of stabbing anyone. The Maoists also do not leave handwritten notes. Besides, there was no threat from any Maoist outfits to his life at any time.

The family and local pastors who know Pastor Yallam say he was killed by a group of Hindu nationalists who were upset about his continued support for Christians in the area.

This incident, as well as the murder of Madhavan, as discussed in the introduction, is the result of society becoming radicalized.

In another instance, on October 23rd, Pastor Adam Digal was killed in the Kandhamal district of Odisha state. But the police wanted to close the case quickly by saying it was a road accident. They did not want to say that Pastor Digal was killed for his faith by Hindu nationalists. Such a statement has the potential to create widespread unrest in that area, as that district witnessed widespread rioting in 2007 after a radical Hindu leader was assassinated. So, according to police, a tree fell on him while he was riding a motorcycle. The problem was there were no fallen trees. The pastor's family disputed the official narrative. The authorities refused to undertake even a mandatory postmortem of the deceased in this case.

Denying Burials Rites to Christians

Denying the Christian community the right to bury their dead is one of the special tactics adopted by Hindutva forces in the State of Chhattisgarh. More than three-fourths of the reported 26 denials were from the state of Chhattisgarh. Villagers refused even a two-month-old dead infant burial rite on the pretext that her parents were Christians.

Expulsion from Villages

Chhattisgarh is also becoming a specialist of sorts in ostracizing and expelling a large number of Christian citizens from their villages. Our data indicate that more than 700 families across 75 villages have been expelled from their villages. The total number of people expelled from these villages, including women and children, would exceed 3500. They were forced to leave their homes and villages unless they renounced their Christian faith. This internally displaced population was never even acknowledged by the respective governments in India nor by any international agencies.

Note that all these incidents are 'targeted' attacks. They were planned and executed by local BJP leaders. These conflicts and expulsions do not develop without external political pressure.

Police Collusion with Militia

The data shows that state governments ruled by the BJP party have shown a high number of police cases against Christian victims. It also shows that the BJP leaders protect their militia, who carry out these attacks, through official and non-official interventions. The police under BJP governments have refused to file cases against Hindutva militias in at least 11 instances. In contrast, the police filed three cases against Hindutva militants for attacking Christians in states that were not governed by the BJP party.

The data also shows that the Hindutva militia disrupted 416 prayer meetings/ worship sessions. In more than 289 such cases, the victims have reported that the Hindutva militia was accompanied by the local police. It indicates that the police were not only acting as an extension of the Hindutva militia, but a large number of attacks were pre-planned to arrest Christians during the Sunday service. Without the state government's approval, the police could not have taken the side of the Hindutva militia against the Christians. The law and order responsibility rests with the state governments in India, which directly control the police under the Indian system.

AND RECOMMENDATIONS

- Though India has one of the best Constitutions a country could wish for, often, the police, judiciary, and other officials do not follow due process under the law. Often the courts decide cases based on political pressure and public opinion by setting aside Constitutional guidelines.
- The Union government of India refuses to collect data and therefore claims to have no data on matters that will embarrass them. When private citizen groups and NGOs produce data, the government dismisses it by questioning its credibility. FIACONA will not be surprised if the Union government of India calls the data published in this report to be unreliable or worse.
- The US must prevail upon the Union government of India to make financial compensation to the victims of religious violence through reputed agencies that are acceptable to the Christian community.
- The US must let India know that it has to reconstruct all churches and places of worship and homes demolished.
- The US Administration must take the violence against different sections of the people in India seriously and include it as a part of the negotiations while dealing with investment, trade, and military cooperation with India.
- All international investment and business contracts must incorporate 'Equal Opportunity Disclosure' labels to include religious and linguistic diversity across the nation, the States, and corporate deals and negotiations.
- The US Congress must pass a law that enables the victims of religious violence to sue, in the US, not only the perpetrators but also those officials and leaders who motivate, patronize, order, or shield perpetrators of egregious human rights violations in other countries.
- The State and the Treasury Departments must use tools like the Global Magnitsky Act to impose travel sanctions against any official or unofficial leaders who are involved in leading, aiding or abetting terror campaigns against Christians, other religious minorities, women, Dalits, farmers, indigenous people, and other affected groups.
- The US Administration must set aside at least a token number of 10,000 visas for Indian Christian asylum seekers each year as long as the Hindutva nationalist government refuses to turn away from its current course.

An organization called Rashtriya Swayamsevak Sangh (RSS), which started in the 1920s, is considered to be the originator of all Hindutva groups. RSS is a militant paramilitary organization that identifies itself only as a "Hindu Cultural organization". Its agendas are executed through a number of militant groups.

The following are some of an estimated 130 shadow organizations created, inspired or assisted by the Rashtriya Swayamsevak Sangh (RSS), compiled by Dr. Shamsul Islam, a Professor of Political Science at the University of Delhi. (Many of these organizations in India have their presence in the US through their sister organizations, often registered as charities)

[1] Akhil Bharatiya Vidyarthi Parishad (student)

[2] Vidya Bharati (education)

[3] Bharatiya Janata Party (political)

[4] Vishwa Hindu Parishad, Bajrang Dal, Durga Vahini, Dharam Sansad or Religious Parliament (anti-minority). The RSS insists that Dharm Sansad is the highest supreme body of Hindutva. This book tells us that "VHP established Dharam Sansad in 1984." Clearly, Dharam Sansad or the Religious Parliament is a puppet in the hands of the VHP.

[5] Akhil Bharatiya Vanvasi Kalyan Ashram (tribal)

[6] Bhartiya Mazdoor Sangh (working class)

[7] Bhartiya Kisan Sangh (peasants)

[8] Rashtriya Sevika Samiti (national women's committee)

[9] Seva Bharati and Tatsam (social service). SV has taken over governmental welfare programmes in slums and poor areas even in cities like Delhi even under non-BJP governments. It is alleged that these organizations are basically fronts to divert government welfare funds to the RSS.recently got a license for sending adopted kids to foreign countries.

[10] Vishva Vibhag (foreign affairs)

[11] Akhil Bhartiya Rashtriya Shikshak Mahasangh (teachers)

[12] Bhartiya Shiksha Mandal (education)

[13] Rashtriya Sikh Sangat (for propagating Hindutva among Sikhs)

DOJ-RLC Comment-002584

According to the Economic Times, the most aggressive organizations of the RSS are:

Dharam Jagaran Samanvay Samiti: It is the 'conversion' wing of RSS. Its Ghar Wapsi initiative made it to headlines after Modi government came to power. This outfit was led by Rajeshwar Singh. Its main task is to convert Christians, Muslims and Tribals to Hindutva. They allege that the Christians are offering education and medical treatment that induces people to convert. (If so, the question is: what prevents Hindutva organizations, since they claim to represent the vast majority of Indians, and has access to many times the funds and resources of Indian Christian organizations, to provide better education and medical facilities?).

Akhil Bharatiya Hindu Mahasabha: One of the oldest Hindutva organizations in India. They honor its most famous member Nathuram Godse, the assassin of Mahatma Gandhi.

Vishwa Hindu Parishad: It is one of the groups connected to the RSS. VHP is most active and even has overseas branches. They compete with other RSS outfits to show they can force more Christians to convert to Hindutva than their sister organizations.

National Hindu Movement: The group has held demonstrations in various places in Goa and Maharashtra, urging all Hindu parents not to "deprive" their children of Hindutva culture.

Rashtriya Hindu Andolan: This Maharashtra-based umbrella organization of many Hindutva groups has been protesting for years for removal of the word 'secular' from the Indian constitution. They want India to stop aspiring to be a secular country. Rashtrawadi Shiv Sena: One of its demands is that Indians must boycott all Pakistani products.

Shiv Sena Hindustan: The group in May 2015 defaced and blackened signages of roads named after Muslim kings Akbar and Firoze Shah in New Delhi.

Hindu Janajagruti Samiti: The group offers crash courses on "how to protect Hindu girls from Muslims" and "how to perform Ghar Wapsi" and has also accused PM Modi of being not harsh enough on religious minorities.

Hindu Dharma Sena: The group was accused of vandalizing a church in Jabalpur in March 2015 and five of its members were arrested..

Hindu Makkal Katchi: An extreme rightwing group in the southern state of Tamil Nadu that came to public attention for opposing writer Perumal Murugan's book, 'Maathorubagan', the group continued its protests even after the writer announced that he has given up writing, citing pressure from fundamentalists.

Hindu Rashtra Sena: The group was accused of distributing provocative pamphlets in Pune which led to unrest in the city, as well as to the murder of a 28-year-old technical expert.

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE
December 2, 2022

USCIRF Outraged by Omission of Nigeria and India from State Department's List of Countries of Particular Concern

Washington, DC – The U.S. Commission on International Religious Freedom (USCIRF) finds it inexplicable that the U.S. Department of State did not include Nigeria or India in its latest designations of "Countries of Particular Concern" (CPCs) under the International Religious Freedom Act (IRFA), turning a blind eye to both countries' particularly severe religious freedom violations.

"There is no justification for the State Department's failure to recognize Nigeria or India as egregious violators of religious freedom, as they each clearly meet the legal standards for designation as CPCs. USCIRF is tremendously disappointed that the Secretary of State did not implement our recommendations and recognize the severity of the religious freedom violations that both USCIRF and the State Department have documented in those countries," said USCIRF Chair Nury Turkel. "The State Department's own reporting includes numerous examples of particularly severe religious freedom violations in Nigeria and India."

Pursuant to IRFA, the State Department re-designated 10 countries as CPCs—Burma, China, Eritrea, Iran, North Korea, Pakistan, Russia, Saudi Arabia, Tajikistan, and Turkmenistan. The State Department also added Cuba and Nicaragua to its CPC list, both of which previously had been on the Department's SWL. In its 2022 Annual Report in April, USCIRF recommended re-designation of the 10 CPC countries, and also recommended CPC designation for Afghanistan, India, Nigeria, Syria, and Vietnam. At that time USCIRF recommended SWL placement for Cuba and Nicaragua based on conditions in those countries in 2021, but the situation in both has deteriorated in 2022.

The State Department placed on its SWL Algeria, the Central African Republic (CAR), Comoros, and Vietnam. USCIRF recommended in its 2022 Annual Report that Algeria and CAR be placed on the SWL, but also that Azerbaijan, Egypt, Indonesia, Iraq, Kazakhstan, Malaysia, Turkey, and Uzbekistan be included as well.

"USCIRF welcomes the State Department's recognition of the worsening situations in both Cuba and Nicaragua this year. We also appreciate the State Department's inclusion this year of CAR and Vietnam on its Special Watch List. While we believe conditions in Vietnam meet the CPC standard, we hope the State Department's SWL designation will encourage the Vietnamese government to take concrete steps to address long standing religious freedom concerns," said USCIRF Vice Chair Abraham Cooper. "USCIRF is disappointed that the State Department did not include Afghanistan as a CPC this year. While it did re-designate the Taliban as an 'entity of particular concern,' or EPC, that does not reflect the reality that the group is the de facto government of the country."

The State Department also designated nine EPCs, which are non-state actors that engage in systematic, ongoing, and egregious violations of religious freedom pursuant to IRFA. USCIRF recommended the redesignation of seven of these actors in its 2022 Annual Report: al-Shabaab, Boko Haram, Hay'at Tahrir al-Sham (HTS), the Houthis, Islamic State in the Greater Sahara (ISGS), Islamic State in West Africa Province (ISWAP) (also referred to as ISIS-West Africa), and Jamaat Nasr al-Islam wal Muslimin (JNIM).

Since the issuance of its 2022 Annual Report, USCIRF has consistently shared its recommendations with the U.S. Department of State and Congress. USCIRF's recent publications include updated reports on Religious Freedom Conditions in India, Blasphemy Laws in Nigeria, Violence and Religious Freedom in Nigeria, Religious Freedom in Afghanistan, Religious Freedom in Nicaragua, and Constitutional Reform and Religious Freedom in Cuba. During 2022, USCIRF held hearings on Afghanistan, Nigeria, and Nicaragua.

The excerpts of a paper by Dr. Kennedy published in a journal Vol.17 No.6 January-March 2018 is publicly available and quoted here:

The Santa Fe School in Goa, founded in 1540 by the Franciscans, was the first formal Christian educational enterprise anywhere outside Europe. In 1542 it was taken over by St. Francis Xavier and in 1548 it was raised to the status of a college and renamed as St. Paul's College.

Soon more missionary schools appeared in other parts of India — at Bassein (1546), in Cochin (1549), at Punnaicayil in Tamil Nadu (1567), in Madurai (1595), in Pondicherry (1713), a High School in Tamil at Ellacurichi in Tamil Nadu (1731) and a Sanskrit School at Mannanam in Kerala (1846)

He further notes: The period 1813 — 1833 can be termed as, the period of Elementary Schools wherein the focus was on elementary schools and primarily teaching was done through the medium of vernacular language. By 1818 the Serampore Missionaries established more than 100 schools with about 10,000 boys. However, in the period 1833 — 1857, the emphasis was shifted to secondary schools and colleges imparted through the medium of English language. It was during this period that some of the outstanding Christian colleges came into the forefront in India — St. Xavier's College in Kolkatta (1835), the Madras Christian College (1837), Robert T. Noble at Masulipatnam (which later was named as Noble College) (1843), Hislop College at Nagpur (1844), and St. John's College in Agra (1853)13 are highly reputed to this day. Till the beginning of the twentieth century Christian educational institutions had played a dominant role in the education of young Indians.

Other well known Christian colleges, established during this period were Scottish Church College (Kolkatta, 1830), Wilson College (Mumbai 1832), Madras Christian College (Chennai 1857), St. Joseph's College (Tiruchirappalli 1844), St. John's College (Agra, 1850), Christ College (Kanpur, 1866), St. Xavier's College (Mumbai 1869), Baring Union Christian College (Batala, 1874), St. John's College (Palayamkottai, 1878), St. Alosius College (Mangalore 1880), St. Stephen's College (New Delhi, 1881), and The American College (Madurai, 1881), and St. Joseph's College (Bangalore 1882). Some of the early colleges were started in big cities - Calcutta, Madras, Delhi and Bombay – but many early founders tended to prefer rural areas. Colleges were started in small towns like Agra, Kanpur, and Madurai, and remote places like Palayamkottai, Machilipattinam, Batala, Guntur, Indore and Nagercoil. They reflected the missionary determination to reach out to the ordinary people of India and not simply favor the urban high-caste elites.

Christians have been pioneering educational initiatives from pre independence time onwards and now has some 25000+ schools, colleges and universities even in very remote and rural areas, imparting quality education to all

The missionaries were the first to promote women's education in India. Women's education led to the enlightenment of Indian women of all religions, castes, and regions in modern times. The first ever Girl's school in India was opened by the missionaries at Kottayam in 181917. The CMS missionaries Mary Anne Cooke, and Mrs. Wilson started female education in Calcutta in 182018. Serampore Mission took the lead in organizing female schools in the Serampore area in 1821. With the progress made through Zenana visitation, a number of mission societies have established special societies such as the Zenana Mission and the Bible Medical Mission and the Church of England Zenana Missionary Society (1881)19. The first attempts towards the education of women in North East India were made at the turn of the twentieth century. The inception of women's education was a major breakthrough in the transformation of society at large.

Clearly Indian Christian Higher education has made women's education a priority. The first women's college, Isabella Thoburn College, was established in Uttar Pradesh State in 1886 with the noble goal of sharing with women the love of the Lord through higher education. Quite aptly the motto of the college is "We Receive to Give." This was followed by the establishment of the second college exclusively for women, Sarah Tucker College (1895), in Palayamkottai, Tamil Nadu, a highly conservative and underdeveloped area. In 1947, the year of independence, out of the seventy-two Christian Colleges in India, sixteen were exclusively for women. Quite interestingly, all four Christian colleges started in 1948, the first year of independence, were for women. Historically, the importance of providing education to women among Christians is well documented. In the co-educational Christian colleges, 56% are girls.

'Harvest of Hate' is an example of straight up communist style idealogically driven juvenile agit-prop. When I first saw the book my first instinct was one of rejection. This was based upon the title. What sane person wants anything to do with hate? It is ugly and unattractive and goes against every rule of successful propoganda and effective media promotion. It wins no hearts and convinces none. At best it adds to the many dust collecting publications that are read by none beyond those already convinced or those duty bound to read them.

Hello again

Re: my work w RSS. As u know I was raised a Hare Krsna went to traditional Hindu school from 4 to 14 in India. I was raised to be a Vaishnava 'preacher' thus I, like Tulsi, naturally looked to the politically and financially empowered Hindu orgs for support in my preaching efforts.

I never saw ny work w the RSS as political per se until the Orissa stuff came up. Before that they used to send me to NE India to inspire the Christians to support India rather than the separatists groups. Thats political no doubt but it wasnt as directly connected to any incidents etc as the Kandhamal crisis. Not once did I disparage Lord Jesus Christ or the Christian faith but warned against being manipulated by outside forces to secede in the name of Christ.

As for Tulsis politics; Hawaii is a Democratic party dominated state. Even her dad had to switch parties in order to remain politically viable. I know 100% she believes in God and in fact I used to attend weekly get togethers w her fam and sing about Jesus and Krsna. Im convinced shes personally a traditionalist but presents herself as a socalled progressive seeing this to be the path of least resistance

By the way since you talked of how much hurt you are, let me share with you honestly how hurt I am wth your comparing us with hardcore Jihadis and calling us rabid communalists.

What surprises me is that while you blame us for lack of professionalism and claim superior knowledge of human sentiments and skill of presentation etc, why one mail of yours throws such wild charges at a respectable movement and why again so much of bad blood within your own community.

You are right that we in RSS have not mastered the art of communication. You are the masters of it and we should learn from you. But see the

I then spent about 2 months in India at various RSS branches using their computers to research news articles online. CoincidentallyI arrived in Bombay 4 hrs before the terror attack so was stuck there for about 2 weeks but continued to research Kandhamal.

I then returned to my former home near Seattle and spent about 5 months researching and writing the report. Once completed I submitted it to Ram Madhav.

So the idea I was some kind of phony fromtman for an RSS propaganda anti christian hit piece is incorrect and demeaning of my efforts. It was a genuine and sincere attempt on my part to investigate the truth regarding Kandhamal and the related crisis.

There were indeed some issues with the way the RSS dealt with me and my effort but they are the typical kind of things that happen when dealing with large institutions.

1. The measly $500 I was paid for nealry a years work. Even then all my travel room board food was paid for by people connected to the RSS.

2. Upon receiving the final draft of my report the RSS made many changes without consulting me. I was specifically outraged by the title of Harvest of Hate. Their choice of pictures appaled me as well. Removal of chapter headings yet I didnt find any extreme changes to the actual report. I did not agree with the style they presented and demanded that they revoke the book from public distribution. Ram Madhav immediately complied and their version was removed from the public.

I had several angry email exchanges with Ram

I wish to express in my strongest voice my opposition to your so-called mandate to "protect" religious freedom. If you were serious about protecting religious freedom, you would support the separation of church and state, which is clearly part of our Constitution and embedded in our national heritage. I strongly object to my tax dollars going to pay for the fraud, waste and abuse that your committe represents. Your committee is nothing more than an excuse to impose a Christian theocracy on our country.

A Legacy Opportunity for President Trump:

Making Christian Persecution a Red Line in Global Trade, Aid, and Diplomacy

Submitted by: Neil Mammen, EVP - Every Black Life Matters, CTO - Revive Academies

A Legacy Opportunity for President Trump

This initiative could mark one of the most significant legacy moments of President Trump's career—becoming the first president in U.S. history, and world history, to formally link global trade, foreign aid, and diplomatic cooperation to the protection of persecuted Christians worldwide.

No leader—Reagan, Bush, Clinton, Obama, or Biden—has ever drawn this moral red line. By doing so, President Trump would secure a place in global history not only as a defender of American values, but as the first head of state to use America's full diplomatic and economic leverage to protect the world's most persecuted faith.

Christianity is the most persecuted religion on earth
As of 2024, over 365 million Christians—roughly 1 in 7 worldwide—live under severe persecution. In 2023 alone, nearly 5,000 Christians were killed for their faith, and over 14,000 churches and Christian properties were attacked—not to mention those beaten, oppressed, raped, forced into submission, or stripped of their land and jobs. These are not statistics—they are a call to moral action.

Even atheist and frequent mocker of Christianity, Bill Maher, has noted this
From Fulani tribesmen murdering Christians in Nigeria, to Hindu nationalist mobs burning churches in India, to Pakistan's courts shielding rapists while jailing Christians under blasphemy laws, and China's campaign of cross demolition, pastor disappearances, and Bible censorship—the time has come for America to say: enough.

The Commission should recommend that the President establish a Global Christian Defense Policy that cuts off foreign aid, freezes military cooperation, restricts trade, revokes visas, and imposes economic consequences for any nation that allows even one more act of violence or suppression against its Christian minority.

No hiding from the past
This policy must also include measures to investigate and punish past crimes, ensuring that those who murdered or terrorized Christians are brought to justice—no matter how long ago their actions occurred. By removing any statute of limitations, even if a future administration fails to act, every potential perpetrator will still fear eventual accountability from a future Republican administration. The message must be clear: there will be no refuge, no amnesty, and no escape from justice for those who persecute Christians. We will eventually make you pay.

We further recommend launching a secure international evidence portal, where victims can upload videos and documents proving persecution—creating an indisputable global record and a new level of accountability.

Finally, while I personally had to flee the Yemen Arab Republic due to persecution, we urge the Commission to invite renowned Indian author and Christian reformer Vishal Mangalwadi as a more powerful voice, who has personally endured threats, censorship, and targeted retaliation in India for his Christian faith and advocacy, to testify on what Christian persecution really looks like in regions often sanitized by diplomatic language. Vishal has expressed great interest and I will be happy to make the connections.

This is not about politics or press releases—it's about survival and justice. If we fail to act now, we will be judged not only by history, but we will also be judged by every silenced pastor, every raped girl, and every family mourning a loved one who died for their faith.

This proposal gives President Trump and this Religious Liberty Commission the opportunity to be remembered as those who did not hide, did not waver, and did not stay silent—thus securing their places in the annals of history.

Dear Members of the Religious Liberty Commission,

Please accept this email and the attached letter regarding your upcoming hearing on Religious Liberty in the Military on November 17, 2025, in Dallas, Texas.

In the letter, we, the Sikh Coalition, respectfully request that you include testimony from a Sikh American who has served in the U.S. Armed Forces with a religious accommodation for their articles of faith.

As detailed in the attached letter, we are particularly concerned about the move to "revert to pre-2010 grooming standards" and would welcome the opportunity to facilitate the participation of a Sikh servicemember to share their firsthand experience.

We believe their insights will powerfully underscore the compatibility of faith and service, which aligns with this administration's commitment to advancing religious liberty for all Americans.

We would be honored to assist you in arranging this testimony. Thank you for your time and for the vital work the Commission is doing.

Sincerely,

October 17, 2025

Dear Members of the Religious Liberty Commission,

We are writing to respectfully request that, at your upcoming hearing on Religious Liberty in the Military on November 17, 2025, in Dallas, Texas, you include testimony from a Sikh American who has served in the military with an accommodation for their religious articles of faith. Such testimony will be a powerful way to elevate the importance of maintaining robust religious accommodations policies for religious beards and other articles of faith in the U.S. Armed Forces.

For context, our organization has worked on the issue of religious freedom in the military for more than 15 years, including via bipartisan advocacy and landmark litigation cases. Given this body of work, we are particularly concerned about a recent memorandum, "Grooming Standards for Facial Hair Implementation," from Secretary of War Peter Hegseth, which directs the Department of Defense to "revert to pre-2010 standards" when facial hair waivers were generally not authorized and that "approvals will be limited to non-deployable roles with low risk of chemical attack or firefighting requirement." The mention of "pre-2010 standards" is especially significant, as 2010 marked a historic milestone when two Sikh soldiers—then-Captain Tejdeep Singh Rattan and then-Captain Kamaljeet Singh Kalsi—were granted accommodations to serve in the U.S. Army with their articles of faith, following a bipartisan request from 49 members of Congress. These were the first such accommodations for Sikh Americans since military grooming policies changed in 1981, marking a pivotal step toward religious freedom for all of our servicemembers. It is our concern that the new guidance appears to overlook the work to change these policies—as well as the capable and honorable service of Sikh, Muslim, Jewish, Christian, Rastafarian, and other troops who have defended our nation while staying true to their faith.

As you are likely aware, Sikhs are followers of Sikhism, or Sikhi, the world's fifth-largest organized religion, founded in the Punjab region of South Asia nearly 600 years ago. With roughly 750,000 adherents in the United States and 27 million worldwide, Sikhi is an independent, monotheistic faith tradition centered on belief in one all-pervading, eternal God. Sikhs maintain articles of faith as a central part of their religious practice, a requirement established by the tenth Sikh Guru in 1699 when he formally convened the community of initiated Sikhs. These five articles—Kesh (unshorn hair, usually maintained by a turban), Kanga (small comb), Kara (steel bracelet), Kirpan (religious article resembling a knife), and Kachera (soldier-shorts)—carry deep spiritual and temporal significance. They publicly affirm a Sikh's commitment to the values and ethics of the tradition, including service, compassion, honesty, and a resolve to combat injustice, including physically when necessary.

Sikhs have a longstanding history of military service—both in militaries around the world, and in the United States prior to 1981 and after accommodation policies began changing in 2010. Upholding a fair process for religious accommodations, rooted in respect for sincerely held beliefs, is vital to safeguarding the religious liberties valued by this administration. Should it be of interest, we would be honored to facilitate the participation of a Sikh servicemember to offer testimony at the November 17, 2025, hearing in Dallas, sharing firsthand insights that underscore the compatibility of faith and service, honor the contributions of religious servicemembers, support the military's recruitment from the broadest talent pool, and upholding the religious rights of all Americans—all priorities that we know align with this administration's commitments.

The Sikh Coalition stands ready to support the Commission in this endeavor in any way we can. Thank you for your consideration, and for the Commission's important work in advancing religious liberty across the nation.

Sincerely,

Harman Singh

Subject: [EXTERNAL] Thoughts from a plough man

To whom it may concern, Thomas Jefferson wrote morality is best known from a plough man. So this self educated plough man like to share some thoughts. Please bless my mess, year with a working with a shovel instead of a pen.

Why we fall into factions?
It all has to do with our autonomic nervous system. One part is sympathetic nervous system, fight or flight. The other is parasympathetic nervous system, "feed and breed" and "rest and digest".
The sympathetic nervous system is a call to action. Work is a call to action as is fighting. In the call of action called fight, some people will fight others will run. A fight with no truth is a never ending battle, which mean retreat has to happen. Where do we retreat? To the faction that will put us at rest.
The parasympathetic nervous system is rejoice and rest. We work or fight then feed and rest. The rest part is important. When can we rest, when we have a sense of accomplishment, also known as reward. With fighting there never is a sense of accomplishment, only work can supply the reward.
Enteric nervous system is in partnership with autonomic nervous system. Enteric nervous system likes rewards. Without the rewards, our bodies never find a balance.
Fighting for liberty, instead of working for liberty is what put George Washington into an early grave. George Washington died of chronic life stressor.
We fall into faction to rest as like minded thinkers. Independent thinkers have no rest when society action is fight.

In order to form a more perfect union, we have to secure blessing of liberty, which is found in Galatian. To secure these blessing of liberty, people need to learn to practice this law: Love thy neighbor as thyself.
Love thy neighbor as thyself is a balance between being selfless and selfish. Individual looking out for their best interest is called self-interest (my self-interest is Christianity). The best way for knowing the balance is to learn self-control, so it is up to the individual to make sound decision, otherwise known as practicing individual liberty.
That all men (human beings) are created equal, every human being has a executive function. Executive function resides in the prefrontal cortex, where our decision making process is made. The executive function allows us to decide what is in our mind and what motivation to take. Learning to have mastery over the executive function is a learned behavior. This behavior is learned with love, forgiveness, and discipline, so as to develop self-control.
When people control other people, which will happen in these systems: communism, free enterprise, capitalism, democracy, socialism, oligarchy, and the list goes on, the development of the executive function will be compromised. Without properly developed executive function and prefrontal cortex, rational thinking will not occur. In fact, if you want irrational behavior, control the people.
Galatian spells out the best living is with fruits of the spirit and fruits of the flesh is what we observe today (strife). Fruits of the spirit keeps the prefrontal cortex opened up and fruits of the flesh closes off the prefrontal cortex.
To form a more perfect (excellence not perfection) union, fruits of the spirit, individual liberty, and free market (invisible hand) would be best to practice.

Building Knowledge
Having full use of the prefrontal cortex (in the frontal lobe of the human brain) is important for knowledge building. What lessen use of prefrontal cortex is fear.
Within the prefrontal cortex is working memory and short-term memory. Working memory, the individual's consciousness, works with short-term memory to build long-term memory (knowledge), personalized long-term memory. This is the importance of full use of prefrontal cortex.
The fear system helps to build knowledge of the fear, if the individual decides to. All signals to the prefrontal cortex is for the individual's decision making. If the individual decides not to build, the individual runs the risk of being in a state of fear. In a state of fear, building productive knowledge is lost and destruction begins (Alzheimer's, dementia, etc).

A dog eat dog world puts society in a state of fear, the fear of losing control/power. On the other hand, meekness exercises control/power within. The fear is learned and the prefrontal cortex is at full use, building good personalized knowledge. To gain full use of the prefrontal cortex, meekness should be the preferred method. Meekness, a blessing of liberty, should be practiced and can only be practice when society in braces individual liberty. Individual's building knowledge for themselves is what makes America great.

Subject: [EXTERNAL] Concerning safety for Evangelists
Date: Thu, 16 Oct 2025 17:15:58 -0400
Importance: Normal

Good afternoon,

My name is Melissa Taylor, and I am from [redacted] First and foremost, I want to express my gratitude to Mr. President Trump for creating this department. It is quite wonderful to have a President that uses his position to talk about God and the Bible. I am an active member of the Church of God, and participate in preaching the gospel and various volunteer activities. One concern I have is about guidelines for those who are against evangelism. I understand we all have the right to freedom of speech, however what if someone who is against an evangelist causes uproar in public, stalks, or gets violent?

About two years ago, my friend and I were preaching outside of an Albertsons, and we preached to one lady who declined very angrily. We proceeded to leave that area and preached to another lady. At that time, the angered person proceeded to follow us, interrupted our conversation, and started screaming at us. She asked the lady to not listen to our preaching. She then followed us to our car and screamed at us to leave the area. We then got into our car and she put herself in danger by standing next to our tires. She continued to yell and harass us until we drove out of the parking lot.

One thing to note, is that we do not use microphones or megaphones while preaching. We politely approach others, and invite them to Bible study. If they are interested, we give them a card or ask them what is the most comfortable form of contact. We try to be courteous to not bombard those shopping, eating, or spending time with others. Sometimes they ask us for our numbers, or they freely give us theirs, or their email address. Before coming to the Church, we explain more about the area we are in and what our building looks like. Whether someone declines or accepts we thank them for their time.

Thank you for your time in reading this email. I am truly thankful for your interest in protecting Christianity, and supporting others. If there is a future event in Washington D.C., may I please join? I would appreciate the opportunity. Our Church has been awarded by President Trump for various volunteer activities, and we appreciate him and his support. We hope to meet you all in the near future.

Sincerely,
Melissa Taylor

Dear members of the Religious Liberty Commission, God bless you and bless your work. As you know Satan's lemmings, dupes and disciples are cleaver in how they introduce their poison in efforts to divide us.

Replacing BC and AD with BCE and CE is wrapped and then presented as more tolerant and inclusive. Tolerance and inclusion are code words for acceptance of evil and people with misguided compassion have been swallowing this lie hook line and sinker for decades. Christians are supposed to be offensive to Satan's thoughts and behaviors. The anti-religious world of academia is pushing this upon us and it's becoming more and more prevalent. At some colleges it's required. This is an obvious attack on Christianity.

I strongly suggest an executive order by President Trump prohibiting the use of Before Common Era (BCE) and Common Era (CE) throughout the federal government and any institution that receives money from the federal government.

Hello,

I was very encouraged by the recent hearing and meeting at the Museum of the Bible, which I was able to watch a portion of.

I am assisting the National School Chaplains Assoc. (NSCA) in an attempt to locate and secure funding for the purpose of placing school chaplains in every school across the country. Statistics from their past twenty years of service indicate that where there is a school chaplain:

1. There has never been a school suicide
2. There has never been a school shooting
3. Graduation is up by almost 80%
4. Teen pregnancy is down by 37%
5. Support to teachers, administrators and students overwhelmingly provides a calm presence.

Do you have any recommendations to point me to funding that may be available for this worthy organization? I am a certified grant writer and would appreciate any information in that regard.

Thank you again for the great work being done with The Religious Liberty Commission.

Warm regards,
Katherine Del Conte

Date: Mon, 06 Oct 2025 10:13:57 -0400

Dear Servants of God,

For several decades, a war imposed by Rwanda has been devastating the eastern part of the Democratic Republic of Congo. This war has taken the lives of more than ten million people, caused by the massacres of civilians and the systematic looting of our country's wealth, especially the strategic minerals that today sustain modern technology. These resources, extracted at the price of our people's blood, are used to build Rwanda's international image while millions of Congolese remain forgotten in suffering and death. This conflict represents a human tragedy without precedent, a moral and spiritual wound that calls out to every human conscience. "You, Lord, hear the desire of the afflicted; you encourage them, and you listen to their cry." (Psalm 10:17)

We, the Civil Society and the Living Forces of North and South Kivu, write to you today with heavy hearts, burdened by this human tragedy. We address this letter not only to bear witness to our suffering, but to plead for your justice, compassion, and spiritual intervention in the face of the atrocities inflicted upon our people in the eastern DRC. "The Lord is close to the brokenhearted and saves those who are crushed in spirit." (Psalm 34:18)

For decades, our communities have lived under the constant threat of Rwandan soldiers (RDF) and their allies. These foreign forces have carried out systematic massacres of civilians, committed rapes against women and girls, murdered children and the elderly, and destroyed entire villages. Sexual violence has multiplied, accompanied by the intentional spread of diseases, including HIV/AIDS, leaving shattered families and generations marked forever. "Do not turn away from the oppressed, and do not hide yourself from your own flesh and blood." (Isaiah 58:7)

Entire populations have been deported, and lands once inhabited by Congolese are now being occupied by foreign communities, forcibly installed to alter our cultural and ethnic identity. Despite the sincere and courageous efforts of our government to restore peace, these attempts are repeatedly undermined by deceit, manipulation, and complicity that trample every hope of reconciliation. "Woe to those who call evil good and good evil." (Isaiah 5:20)

Every ceasefire, every peace agreement seems to vanish like a mirage, as Rwandan forces continue to sow terror, insecurity, and chaos. The population asks simply and solemnly: that Rwandan troops return to their country and leave our people in peace, so that our families, our children, and our land may finally live without fear. "Learn to do right; seek justice. Defend the oppressed." (Isaiah 1:17)

We address you with a deep sense of moral responsibility. The situation in eastern Congo is not merely a political crisis—it is a profound human tragedy: innocent blood flows daily, mothers' tears flood our villages, and fear has become the daily reality of our children. "Defend the weak and the fatherless; uphold the cause of the poor and the oppressed." (Psalm 82:3)

Dear religious leaders, we do not seek revenge—we seek justice and the defense of human life. We ask that the world hear the cry of our people: the Congo is not a battlefield for foreign interests. Our children deserve innocence, our women deserve safety, and our villages deserve peace. "Blessed are the peacemakers, for they shall be called children of God." (Matthew 5:9)

Each day of silence in the face of the crimes committed by the RDF and their collaborators is a victory for injustice and a shame upon humanity. We implore you to act—to raise your voices against these massacres, these rapes, these deportations, and the attempt to erase our identity by force. "Speak up for those who cannot speak for themselves, for the rights of all who are destitute." (Proverbs 31:8)

The Congolese people have shown patience and resilience, but now we ask for one thing only: the immediate withdrawal of all foreign forces and the return of peace to our land. We call upon all religious communities, throughout the world, to rise as a shield for the innocent—to be the voice of the voiceless—and to remind the nations that human life is sacred and inviolable. "I know that the Lord secures justice for the poor and upholds the cause of the needy." (Psalm 140:12)

May God inspire and guide you in your prayers and in your actions. May your moral authority rise up to end this tragedy, restore justice, and allow our people to finally live in peace upon their own soil. "Do what is right and good in the sight of the Lord." (Deuteronomy 6:18)

With respect, sorrow, and hope,

The Civil Society and the Living Forces of North and South Kivu

Hello

I do hope someone can advise me, or direct me, on what steps I should take. As the founding president of what is now the nation's largest grouping of Santa Claus', I am hoping that we could encourage the Commission on Religious Liberty to work with the President to issue a decree encouraging all American's to celebrate using, "Merry Christmas," or "Happy Haunakah," and other Holiday greetings.

I and the thousands of Santa Claus and Mrs. Claus' across the United States, know that our President embraces the term, "Merry Christmas." And we would love to see a special decree from the President supporting that thought.

I know that Lt. Gov. Dan Patricks knows of the "Merry Christmas Bill," as he served as a State Senator for Texas when the bill passed and Governor Perry signed it. And now, it is our hopes, with support from the Commission, that we can see the signing of a special decree from President Trump.

But, before I inundate anyone with a slew of letters and emails from hundreds and thousands of Santas and other citizens, I wanted to open some communication with the team supporting the commission. In addition to the thousands of Santas in associations all over the United States, I have over 5700 graduates from my school, "The International University of Santa Claus," aka: "School4Santas."

For the past two decades I have enjoyed the privlege to be National Santa for the Marine Toys for Tots Foundation and support their work Additionally I annually join with Fox News on their All-American Tree Lighting, live on "The Five," in NYC. And I have had the honor of celebrating Toys for Tots with our First Lady, Melania Trump. You may find out more about me on my website at www.NationalSanta.com

Any advice or suggestions would be greatly appreciated.

Should you have any questions, please feel free to call, text, or email me.

God bless you, and may you always have the Christmas spirit in your heart.

With a Twinkle in the eye, I remain yours Santacerely,

Re: Comments Preceding the September 29, 2025 Hearing of the Religious Liberty Commission established by Presidential Executive Order 14291

Chair Patrick, Vice Chair Carson, and Members of the Commission:

The American Humanist Association (AHA) reiterates its strong rejection of the purported utility and partisan nature of the Religious Liberty Commission, established by President Donald Trump through Executive Order 14291 on May 1, 2025 under the guise of advancing religious liberty; and strongly urges that the Commission be disbanded.

As legally obligated by the Constitution of the United States of America, the U.S. government has a responsibility to ensure freedom of religion or belief for Americans of all faith and belief backgrounds, including nontheistic Americans. The Religious Liberty Commission is not prepared to heed this charge, as evidenced by the political showmanship that has taken place during its hearings on June 16, 2025 and September 8, 2025.

Legal precedent has long affirmed the right to religious liberty in education and the critical balance between freedom of conscience and a neutral government. These principles are being consistently tested and withered in American schools across the country by extremist right-wing officials seeking to overturn democratic foundations through the courts and lawmaking bodies.

Rights protected by the Establishment Clause are at risk as religious extremists attempt to rewrite our laws to enable government promotion of a specific religion. Christian Nationalist public officials are deliberately funneling public funds into vouchers for exclusive, private religious schools. They're mandating the use of materials that falsely assert America is a Christian nation. They're converting instructional time into time for religious activities. They're requiring the reading of religious materials for nonacademic purposes. They're demanding the prominent display of the Ten Commandments and other religious symbols or images in every classroom. These initiatives all share the dangerous goal of promoting government-sanctioned proselytization.

Moreover, under the guise of religious liberty, Christian Nationalists are curtailing the individual rights of students and encouraging discrimination. They're obstructing comprehensive, evidence-based sexual and reproductive health education. They're outlawing LGBTQIA+ study. They're pushing creationism in science class. They're coercing students to pray during school activities - all while intimidating people of faith and the nonreligious, directly and indirectly. This is a complete assault on the religious liberty of non-Christians, as well as the religious liberty of Christians that do not ascribe to the implementation of theocracy in the name of their faith. It is an affront to student and parental rights.

AMERICAN HUMANIST ASSOCIATION
GOOD WITHOUT A GOD

Students succeed best in schools that foster a welcoming and inclusive environment for students of all faiths and none, and that encourage individual freedom of expression. This requires evidence-based curricula and school policies that prioritize equipping students for a lifetime of critical thought in our pluralistic country.

These are just some of the matters advocates, educators, experts, parents, and others agree must be confronted, and which a U.S. commission dedicated to expanding religious liberty for all should address. However, based on the preceding hearings and the composition of the Commission, we have no confidence the Religious Liberty Commission will do so. The Commission has proven itself to be unconcerned with freedom of religion or belief and religious liberty in a balanced and inquisitive manner, and we note it has not once addressed discrimination and stigma against nontheists. Instead, it is alarmingly using its platform as a vehicle to perpetuate and legitimize Christian Nationalism.

The Religious Liberty Commission has not pursued the opportunity offered by the American Humanist Association, as well as others, to provide assistance as experts in the areas of religious liberty and freedom of religion or belief, including as they pertain to public education; thus, we must conclude that there is no genuine interest in the operation of balanced hearings or report findings. Therefore, we respectfully and strongly request the disbandment of the Religious Liberty Commission.

Questions pertaining to the AHA's comments can be directed to Isabella Russian, the AHA's Policy Manager, via email ([redacted]).

Date: Mon, 22 Sep 2025 12:49:20 -0400
Importance: Normal
Attachments: Letters_from_School_Administrators_RE_Repeal.pdf

Dear Honorable Members of the Religious Liberty Commission and Director Bush,

On behalf of Guiding the Impact, a coalition of religious liberty and medical freedom advocates and faith leaders, I respectfully submit these public comments for the record of your September 29th hearing on religious liberty issues in education funding. The attached testimonies from New York educators, administrators, and school board members, dated August and September 2019, highlight a critical violation of religious liberty in education resulting from New York State's June 2019 decision to eliminate religious exemptions for vaccinations.

On June 13, 2019, New York State passed legislation removing religious exemptions for vaccinations, mandating that students be vaccinated to attend public and private schools, with no provision for faith-based exemptions. The attached letters, authored by representatives from institutions such as St. John Lutheran School, Faith Christian Academy, Progressive School, and various school districts, detail the following impacts:

- Exclusion of students: Thousands of students from religious families were barred from attending schools, denying them their fundamental right to education and infringing upon their First Amendment right to free exercise of religion.
- Emotional and financial hardship: Families faced abrupt choices—vaccinate against their beliefs, homeschool with little preparation, or relocate—resulting in anxiety, depression, and economic strain, including job losses. Private schools, reliant on tuition, faced financial crises, with some, like Progressive School, risking bankruptcy after losing students and staff.
- Lack of due process: The legislation was passed with minimal public notice, often described as a "cover of darkness" move during end-of-year school events, without consultation with educators or consideration of the impact on school communities.
- Discriminatory impact: The policy disproportionately targeted religious families, creating a hostile environment and drawing comparisons to other state actions, such as the "substantial equivalency" proposal, perceived as attacks on private religious schools.
- No public health justification: Religious exemption holders posed no documented health risks, and existing public health measures, such as quarantines, were sufficient, rendering the law punitive rather than necessary.

These letters collectively emphasize the irreparable harm to students, families, and educational communities, urging judicial or legislative intervention to protect constitutional rights and allow time for families to adjust.

The concerns raised in these letters are directly relevant to the hearing's focus on religious liberty in education funding. New York's policy exemplifies a broader crisis where state actions exclude children from education based on their families' faith, undermining First Amendment protections and equitable access to education. By including these comments in the public record, we aim to highlight the urgent need to address such violations and protect religious freedom in educational settings.

We respectfully submit these comments and the attached letters to the public record of the September 29, 2025, hearing to ensure the voices of affected families, educators, and administrators are documented. Thank you for your leadership in addressing religious liberty in education. We pray that God guides your deliberations to uphold the rights of families and ensure equitable access to education for all children.

With gratitude,
Elyse Young

Dear Honorable Judge Hartman,

I am distraught at the state of affairs in the aftermath of the rushed change of New York State's religious exemption for immunizations that has impacted thousands upon thousands of students across the state this summer. New York has become a place that is hostile to religious individuals and their freedoms. Instead of the land of the free, home of the brave; our State is the land of the oppressed, home of the lobbyists. As the Superintendent of a private school, I have seen the devastating impact of this ill-advised, rushed, and half-baked legislation to our community. By removing the ability for a parent to decide if an injection is best for their child's individual needs and using the basic fundamental right of an education to put pressure on our families, the lobbyists are using manipulative games to push an un-american agenda.

The individual stories of our families whose lives are thrown into disarray are heartbreaking, even though not a single one of them has ever posed a health risk to our school population. The children who have attended our school their entire lives will no longer be able to receive any services from their religious community which they've called home. All over the state, the horrible individual situations are multiplied by the tens of thousands: students on the cusp of finishing their academic career now graduating from nowhere; jobs and income lost as one parent must stay home to educate their children the best they can despite little or no training; and families with young children leaving the state.

The first vote of this bill on June 13th in committee denied access to the floor. Moments later, the vote is changed because the "powers that be" didn't like the outcome? This is truly embarrassing for the State of New York. I hope you can bring reason to a failed roll out of new legislation, and grant a stay to this grossly implemented change.

Also, this is the second time this year an assault has been aimed at religious schools. The first was the planned new roll-out of substantial equivalency which attempted to give local public school boards the authority to close down their private competition. After a great outcry from private and public administrators, the new rules that would handcuff private schools in the state of New York were repealed. This last minute removal of religious exemptions for immunizations is another dirty political trick of the same design, of the same material, and it's wrong.

Please grant a stay for the thousands of kids negatively impacted by this poorly conceived bill. Give parents time to adequately plan for their child's educational and medical needs. Give students time to say goodbye to their supportive communities instead of being ripped away from them in the middle of the night. Please let wisdom prevail, and let America be the land of the free, the home of the brave.

Sincerely,

Rev. Joel Maus
Superintendent

St. John Lutheran School

August 29, 2019

To Whom it May Concern:

It is with deep sorrow that I am writing to you regarding the recent decision by New York State to remove the religious exemption for vaccinations. As principal of St. John Lutheran, we are faced with the ramifications of this new law. This bill clearly did not consider the effects students, parents, and educators would feel in this.

I know these families make these decisions based on their deeply held religious beliefs. They were given virtually no time to make other arrangements. The state is forcing them to vaccinate, home educate, or move out of the state. Children are deeply hurting because of the negligence of our leaders. Schools throughout the state are dealing with so many unknowns. There has been virtually no time to prepare. Private schools, like ours, rely very little on state funding. Please consider the financial and ethical ramifications. We rely on tuition for salaries and programs. In loosing these families, many schools are facing financial hardship. Our teachers have invested so much time into building relationships with these children and nurturing their development.

It appears has though New York State has become very hostile toward religious families. The plan for substantial equivalency only reinforces what families of faith are already feeling is an attack. What has happened to religious and parental freedom? These children deserve the right to a quality education. It appears as though the pharmaceutical industry has a greater influence in our legislature, than our families of ethical religious beliefs. Were pediatricians consulted with the untimely deadlines of these vaccinations? Some pediatricians in our area are refusing to give this number of vaccines in such a short period of time.

Please, I implore you, grant a stay for these tens of thousands of children and all those affected by this bill. Let New Yorkers, our families continue to have this freedom.

Sincerely,

Katie Gundell

Honorable Judge Hartman,

It is with a heart full of pain and perplexity that I am writing to you regarding a recent decision by the New York State legislature to remove the religious exemption for vaccinations from students and their families who make these decisions based on their deeply held religious beliefs. As Headmaster of Faith Christian Academy, as a father of two children, and simply as a human being, I find it inexcusable that those we elect to public office grant themselves full access to our health decisions without learning all the facts and without following due process.

To allow a law to go into effect just a few weeks before schools throughout the state begin the new school year offers parents no alternative except to pull their children out of school and thrusts them into the outrageous choice between their religious convictions and attendance in school. In a state that prides itself on being a national leader in the area of education it is inconceivable that our government officials would even contemplate depriving our families of the freedom to exercise their beliefs and receiving the education of their choice. I fully understand the issues of public health, however, this shortsighted decision by the governor and the legislature does more harm than good, and reflects nothing more than political posturing. It is a sad day, when we witness the political ambitions of adults being pursued at the expense of our children and their future.

Next month, we are opening the doors of our school for the new academic year and are already facing sweeping ramifications because of this new law. We are losing scores of precious children and their families who love our school and dream about coming to Faith Christian Academy to receive an education that they desire. I know that I represent not only our school and families but thousands of others throughout the state facing the same crisis. This decision is far reaching and detrimental for all children regardless of the school they attend, private or public. Therefore,

THE BRIDGES ACADEMY

CHARACTER • CONFIDENCE • KNOWLEDGE

August 7, 2019

Honorable Judge Hartman,

As an independent school administrator on Long Island, I am writing to express my disappointment with the decision in June to no longer allow religious exemptions for student vaccinations within our public and private schools. While I understand and appreciate the complexities of the issues and science behind vaccinations, the process that was followed in this matter was unacceptable and completely unfair to the children and families that were impacted.

What concerns me most is the accelerated timeline and process behind the passing of this law. As it was being passed through the legislature, my school, as well as hundreds of others, were celebrating the end of the year at our moving up day and graduation. In my 20 years in education, I have always witnessed these events to be joyous occasions as each child is celebrated for their accomplishments for the school year, thereby setting the stage for a smooth transition to the next. This occasion was no different, until, on the way home I had heard what had happened. Several of the very children we were congratulating that evening were given the hard news that they would no longer be allowed to attend our school unless their families would make a nearly impossible decision which would violate their first amendment right for religious freedom.

Furthermore, as I have witnessed this unfortunate situation unfold, I can't help but to draw a comparison to the equally unfair and unnecessary pursuit of "substantially equivalent" legislation that hundreds of independent, parochial and charter schools are currently disputing. While that case is far from over, you may know that a stay was granted last spring to at least allow for the appropriate process and public discourse to take place. It startles me that the state of New York is not willing to at least consider the same course of action when addressing this very serious situation. With the pursuit of extreme pieces of legislation such as these as well as the rising costs to live here, it is no wonder that families are choosing to leave the State of New York.

Finally, let's not forget the ripple effects of this legislation. Independent schools are fully self-funded, relying on little to no state funding at all. Because of this, we rely on tuition paying families to develop our programs, pay our teachers the salaries and benefits that they deserve and provide an exceptional experience for each of our students. Due to the loss of families who have been impacted by this law, many are now, unexpectedly, facing shortfalls in their budget planning and implementation. In other words, this could potentially impact jobs. With that in mind, I only hope that the state is taking into account the enormous financial and ethical ramifications that this matter has created.

It is my sincere hope that this law be given a thorough reexamination and a compromise is developed that will not only act in the best interest of the public but will allow our children the education that they deserve and are entitled to as we begin the 2019-2020 school year. Anything else, would simply be Un-American.

Respectfully,

Honorable Judge Hartman,

As an educator, school administrator, creative arts therapist and mother of four children, I am deeply concerned with New York State's decision to remove religious exemption for vaccinations without a fair and comprehensive process. As a private school we are being forced by this legislation to exclude children and families who are in need of our unique services and who are deeply connected to our community. Both emotionally and financially this is devastating.

New York State has made great strides in advocating for the social and emotional health of all students. The impact of this faulty vaccination legislation is now a mental health issue. Families are panicking, children are depressed at the thought of not going to school with their friends, and the community is being divided between vaccinated and non-vaccinated mindsets. The state has created a fear-based climate in which families are being bullied into having their children vaccinated in an untimely manner. This is a tremendous setback in New York State's claim to support emotionally intelligent problem solving and to implement restorative policies that take all voices into consideration.

I fully understand the value of vaccinations as a public health issue. I also know as an educator and mental health professional that it is unethical and negligent to expect a family to abandon their religious beliefs in order to have their children vaccinated by the time school begins in September. This is a complicated and moral decision that takes careful consideration. The timing of this legislation also feels deeply disrespectful to the value of our input as educators. This bill was passed in June, without much public notice, at a time when educators were celebrating the culmination of a year of hard work and service. There was no consultation with us regarding the impact of such a decision on our community. It was clearly pushed through rather than, thoroughly thought through.

Your Honor, we work diligently to teach our children the power of our judicial system and the obligation we hold as American citizens to speak out against injustice. I most respectfully implore you to look again. Please see the suffering this will cause if it stands as it is. From the heart of my devotion to children and families, I ask you to grant a stay that takes into consideration the whole child in developing a plan of action that is socially, emotionally and physically healthy.

Most Sincerely,

Honorable Judge Hartman:

Words cannot express what this rash and poorly conceived legal action taken by the NY government has done to my life, our non-profit school, our teachers, and the many healthy families affected. While I agree that the public health is a priority, the Dept. of Health already has tools at its disposal to deal with a potential outbreak, including quarantine, vaccinations, and temporary school closings.

In an attempt to gain the upper hand over a small group of Hassidic Jewish students with measles, we, the healthy bystanders, are caught in the crossfire and then ignored as collateral damage.

Progressive School is the flagship school of a global mission to bring people together, care for the environment, promote universal human values, and bring ethics to the forefront of education. It is one of the only schools in the world that doesn't promote competing for dominance over other countries, but actually uniting our efforts, and working together to solve collective global problems. I have gone to Australia, China, Sweden, Italy, Holland, India, Venezuela, Mexico and other countries to train teachers and bring people together as sisters and brothers. But now, our 35 year mission is on the brink of bankruptcy, literally overnight, due to this new law. Does anyone care? Our final day of school was transformed from a joyous family picnic to a crying funeral-like state of shock. We have already had to fire a quarter of our staff!

The new law claims the public health as its priority, but it allows all children to attend camps where everyone knows disease spreads most readily. It allows non-vaccinated families to go to the movies, use public transportation, eat in restaurants, attend public functions. The only thing it does do is take away their right to an education—which will not protect the health of society, rather it will harm it.

At a minimum, time should be given to allow programs like ours and all the people it serves to adjust and be given support to find solutions. Right now, we have had the rug pulled out from under us with no warning, and in my case, have had to watch as my life's work goes down the drain, taking the lifelong dreams of many good families with it.

Honorable Judge Hartman:

I write you today to respectfully share my concern with the recent decision to remove the religious exemption option from our students without dialogue with all constituents impacted by the decision. As a school official who is required by law to educate every child, I find myself in a position where I now have to turn children away because of their religious belief(s).

In my 23-year career, the religious exemption has never caused an issue or problem. Accordingly, I ask that you please grant a stay to the children who will be adversely impacted by this exclusion from school. Doing this will hopefully allow us to give our input and ask clarifying questions related to the future impact of this decision. Granting a stay will also allow the professionals in the field to explain the impact to the children and their future endeavors.

As my team prepares for the opening of the new school year, we find ourselves buried with parent meetings asking, "What do they do"? I got in the business of education because I love children and will do anything to help them thrive and be successful. Now I am put in a position to turn some students away due to this new law. As an educator and as a parent, I implore you to grant a stay so that we can work together for a solution to this situation.

Honorable Judge Hartman:

As an educator for 34 years, I am deeply disturbed by the 11th hour cover of darkness attempt to remove the religious exemption from our students without fully vetting the facts and in effect denying due process. As a school district we are now in the middle of cross fire between federal and state legislation, but the true victims here are the children and families who will be excluded from school without a full vetting of the facts and repercussions of this decision.

Your Honor, we strongly urge you to grant a stay so these children will not be adversely affected by this exclusion from school. It is not about the dollars and cents, it is about the irreparable damage done to even one child who is denied a free and public education.

In my 34-year career, the religious exemption has never caused one issue or one problem. It is unconscionable that legislators passed a bill on June 13th which for educators is akin to 4/14 for accountants. We were not consulted, we were not able to give our input and we were not asked to explain the full ramifications for this decision.

The bill was passed under the cover of darkness with very little public notice. We were busy preparing for graduation, moving up ceremonies, closing out the year when this bill was slipped under the radar.

As we begin to prepare for the upcoming school year, we are now faced with the horrific ramifications of this decision with no clear direction on how to serve these children. Students who commit crimes at least have clear guidelines on how to receive an education. As an educator, as a parent and a member of the human race, I implore you to grant a stay so that we can work together for a solution to this situation.

Very truly yours,

Dear Vice Chancellor Brown,

The Sayville Board of Education would like to express our concerns for students with sincere and genuine religious objections to mandatory vaccinations. Such children may be denied access to a public education and services by the hastily enacted revision to the Public Health Law Section 2164. These parents and students have expressed the harmful impact this will have on them. We support all of the children of our district and their religious and medical freedom. We strongly object to this law. We urge you to repeal and/or delay the implementation of this revision to the law so that these children may continue to attend school after the 14 calendar days.

While the Sayville Board of Education recognizes its obligation to follow the current laws of New York State, members of our community believe this law is unconstitutional and discriminatory. In following this law, we may be forced to exclude our children who attended our schools with religious exemptions. We strongly object to excluding such students. We also recognize this law puts our district at risk of a lawsuit being filed against us.

We fail to see the need for such an extreme and hasty revision to the law. As such, we ask you once again to reconsider the recent amendments to Public Health Law 2164.

Sincerely,

The Sayville Board of Education

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing you in regards to the recent passing of the law passed by the New York State legislature which removed the religious exemption to vaccinations from students based on their sincere religious beliefs. As a Board of Education Member for McGraw School District I am seeing the repercussions of this decision and know the irreparable harm it is already causing our students and their families. Some will now not receive special education services that they are in dire need of, some will be bullied outside of school at social events as their private medical information will now be obvious in a small town, some will have to move out of this state, some will suffer severe anxiety & depression as they feel the affects of being segregated and not welcomed in the school they love. I could go on and on about the harm as I know these families, I see their pain and the hard decisions they now have to make. Our students and families are being pressured to hurry and vaccinate with a large amount of vaccines in an untimely and unjust manner, against their sincerely held beliefs.

As a person in a position that is meant to help my community, my hands are tied and I am asking that you grant the stay so that all of these children can receive the education they deserve and deeply desire. These families deserve more time to make arrangements and make big changes in their lives that can forever affect them. We have no proof that any children who held a religious exemption have ever caused a problem in our school. Our school's policy is against religious discrimination. Our school in McGraw, NY was once the location of the New York Central College which opened in 1849 and was the first school in America to appoint black professors and allow people of all races, gender and religious beliefs to be educated together in the same classroom without prejudice. Our school's history means a lot to our community and we want to uphold protecting our student's constitution rights and religious freedoms and make sure no one is ever excluded for any reason.

Thank you for your time and consideration in this sensitive matter.

On behalf of the Riverhead Central School District and Board of Education, I write to you once again to share our concerns with the decision to remove the religious exemption option from our students, without input from school leaders. As a result, we are in a position where we are to violate the constitution and the civil rights of our students and their families.

I implore you to grant a stay to the students who have been impacted by this. More time will allow us to work together toward a better solution to this dire situation. Families are not able to plan and/or adjust with the current looming deadline. Adequate time has not been given so that families can make informed decisions with medical professionals about how to proceed. Dear Honorable Members of the Religious Liberty Commission and Director Bush,

On behalf of Guiding the Impact, a coalition of religious liberty and medical freedom advocates and faith leaders, I extend our deepest gratitude for your unwavering commitment to protecting religious freedom in education. Your upcoming September 29th hearing on religious liberty issues in school funding presents a critical opportunity to address one of the most pressing violations of faith-based rights in our nation today.

We urgently request that you include an agenda item on the GRACE Act (Guaranteeing Religious Accommodation in Childhood Education Act), sponsored by Congressman Greg Steube, in your September 29th hearing. This bill directly aligns with the hearing's focus, as it prohibits federal education funding to schools and agencies that deny students religious exemptions from vaccination requirements for classroom attendance, athletics and extracurricular activities. This bill confronts the egregious denial of educational access to children in states like New York, California, Connecticut, and Maine, where families are barred from schools due to their religious convictions regarding vaccination. This injustice not only violates the sacred principle of religious liberty but also strips countless children of their fundamental right to education -- a crisis that demands your Commission's immediate attention.

We remain steadfast in our fight for religious families, drawing inspiration from the tireless advocacy of Charlie Kirk -- a champion who stood firmly with us in this battle. In the weeks before his untimely passing, Charlie amplified this critical issue on X, declaring: 'We need to make sure parents have access to religious exemptions for vaccines for their children in all 50 states." His words remind us of the profound human cost: families torn apart, children sidelined from learning, all because of their deeply held faith. Bolstered by Charlie's unwavering support, we press forward today with renewed resolve. The GRACE Act stands as the bold, compassionate solution he envisioned -- one that ensures no child is ever excluded from the classroom simply for honoring their family's beliefs. Including this bill on your agenda will amplify the voices of persecuted families, signal to policymakers the urgency of this issue, and advance meaningful reform. Attached is a short memo detailing the GRACE Act's relevance to your hearing and its potential to protect vulnerable families nationwide.

We implore you to act swiftly to give this issue the platform it deserves. I would be honored to provide further information, connect you with affected families, or testify in person to underscore the human toll of these policies. Please contact me at [redacted] or reply to this email to discuss this request further.

Thank you for your courageous leadership and for considering this critical addition to your September 29th agenda. We pray that God guides your hearts to champion the cause of these families and uphold the sanctity of religious freedom in education.

With gratitude,
Elyse Young
Founder, Guiding the Impact

GUIDING the IMPACT

GRACE Act and Religious Liberty in Education Funding

Background

- On August 29, 2025, Congressman Greg Steube (FL-17) introduced the GRACE Act (Guaranteeing Religious Accommodation in Childhood Education Act).
- The bill prohibits federal education funding to schools and agencies that deny students religious exemptions from vaccination requirements for classroom attendance, athletics, and other activities.
- This legislation addresses the urgent crisis in states such as New York, California, Connecticut, and Maine, where children are barred from schools because their families uphold religious convictions regarding vaccination.

Why This Matters for the September 29th Hearing

The Religious Liberty Commission's upcoming hearing on religious liberty in education funding provides a critical platform to address one of the most severe violations of religious liberty in education today:

- The exclusion of children from schools based on their families' faith.
- A direct infringement of the First Amendment's Free Exercise Clause, undermining the constitutional rights of families.
- A real-world crisis impacting countless families across multiple states, who face educational exclusion, legal penalties, or economic hardship.

Key Points on the GRACE Act

- Restores fairness: Ensures equitable treatment by requiring religious exemptions where medical exemptions are permitted.
- Protects families of faith: Guarantees that no child is denied education for honoring their beliefs.
- Broad precedent: Forty-six states already balance public health and religious liberty by allowing exemption, demonstrating a workable model.
- Constitutional grounding: Conditions federal education funds in a narrowly tailored manner, designed to withstand judicial scrutiny.

Why Urgent Action by the Religious Liberty Commission Is Critical

- Families in affected states are suffering immediate harm -- denied education, facing legal penalties, or forced into economic hardship due to their faith.
- The GRACE Act directly addresses this crisis by tackling the exclusion of students from schools due to their families' religious objections to vaccination, ensuring equitable access to education while reinforcing constitutional protections.
- Including the GRACE Act in the September 29th discussion would highlight a legislative solution that safeguards faith-based exemptions, amplifying the hearing's impact on protecting religious liberty in education funding.

Dear Commissioners,

My name is Mina. I am a Catholic, not yet a parent, but I am deeply aware of the challenges facing children today and I hope to become more involved in supporting them. I often volunteer in public schools, and I want to share that becoming a substitute teacher is surprisingly easy — almost scarily so. Yet it is one of the few ways parents and community members can gain direct access to see what is happening in classrooms.

In my own experience as a teacher's assistant and substitute, I have witnessed how trans ideology plays out in real time with children — even in kindergarten. I also saw how other students, when confronted with it, were left confused and overwhelmed. These moments showed me just how much weight children are being asked to carry at such young ages.

At the same time, I noticed another troubling trend: the quiet removal of traditions that once grounded students in faith and country. In some schools, children no longer say the Pledge of Allegiance. In others, there is no prayer, no acknowledgment of God. These silences are not small. They reveal how far some institutions have drifted from the values that once formed generations of students in discipline, respect, and reverence.

What I saw firsthand is this: children need more than ideology or silence. They need dignity, protection, stability, and love. That is what I urge us to restore in our schools.

Please also consider this email as my interest in attending and or speaking the event.

Best,

Mina

Testimony as a substitute teacher in Denver Public Schools

One of the students I worked with was a kindergartner who had recently transitioned. Before class began, the lead teacher pulled me aside and instructed me to use the child's chosen pronouns and to exercise caution, since he had been "acting up" in class.

I'll be honest — I didn't know what to expect. But to my surprise, my time with him was nothing but pleasant. He never disrespected me. When I made a mistake and misgendered him, he simply, calmly corrected me. There was no anger, no rebellion — just a young child who wanted to be seen, acknowledged, and treated with dignity.

One moment I will never forget was overhearing him explain his transition to other children. As he spoke, I noticed the other kids looking at me with eyes full of confusion and overwhelm, as if silently asking me to explain what they could not understand. In that moment, I stayed silent. I didn't have the words or courage. What if I lost my income due to this moment>

I also remember one afternoon on the playground when he stood apart from the other kids. He wasn't being teased. He wasn't causing trouble. He was simply quiet, watching the others play, alone. And what struck me most was his hesitation — he didn't seem to know where he fit. Should he sit with the girls? Should he chase the boys? Should he join in at all? In that uncertainty, I saw not defiance, but fragility. It was as if his whole little world was carrying too much weight for someone his age.

These experiences taught me something important: the challenges children face in school are never just about pronouns or labels. So often, they come from deeper wounds — neglect, instability, or trauma in the home. I also worked with another boy in the same class who threw books and water bottles, not because he was "bad," but because he discovered it was the only way to get his mother to leave work and come spend time with him. His parents were going through a divorce, and he was at school care from 6:00 a.m. to 6:00 p.m. every day.

At this same school, I also observed that students do not pledge allegiance to the flag, nor do they pray. That silence struck me just as much as the other issues — it revealed how far some schools have moved away from grounding children in values of faith and country.

So I ask this Commission: what are we to do when school staff instruct us to abide by pronoun policies that go against our conscience? How do we say "no" while still showing respect and compassion for the child? What recourse do we have when we are pressured in this way?

And beyond that — how do we restore love of country in our schools? One concrete step could be a program that investigates which schools are no longer playing the national anthem. From there, we could support parents in petitioning to reinstate it, reminding administrators that our children deserve to hear it daily. I'll tell you this: students in China and Russia hear their anthem every day. Why shouldn't American children have the same grounding in their national identity?

Finally, I urge parents and community members to get involved. The most eye-opening step you can take is to volunteer or apply as a substitute teacher. The process is scarily easy — many districts use third-party companies that are desperate for substitutes. You can get paid about $100 a day, and it does not require extensive security checks. But what it does give you is direct access to witness what is really happening in our schools.

Our children need us to step into their classrooms, to see them, to advocate for them, and to restore dignity, faith, and stability to their education.

DIETY OF CHRIST IS FALSE!

Webster's Definition of DEITY: one exalted or revered as supremely GOOD or powerful

Jesus' Definition of DEITY: Mark 10:18 18 Jesus said to him: "Why do you call me good? Nobody is good, except one, God."

NO SALVATION ORIGIONATES FROM CHRIST! Christ had Jehovah's NAME and Jehovah's spirit to breathe words of JEHOVAH'S salvation. Truth of salvation was in Christ! Jehovah spoke into Christ about Jehovah and Christ repeated THAT SALVATION MESSAGE TO MAN! That is how salvation came THROUGH Christ!

John 6:44-45

44 No man can come to me unless the Father, who sent me, draws him; and I will resurrect him in the last day. 45 It is written in the Prophets, 'And they will all be taught by Jehovah.' Everyone that has heard from the Father and has learned comes to me.

Isaiah 54:13

Job 25:4-6

4 So how can mortal man be in the right before God,

6 How much less so mortal man, who is a maggot,
And a son of man, who is a worm!"

Psalms 146:1-4

1 Praise Jah, YOU people!
Praise Jehovah, O my soul.

2 I will praise Jehovah during my lifetime.
I will make melody to my God as long as I am.

3 Do not put YOUR trust in nobles,
Nor in the son of earthling man, to whom no salvation belongs.

4 His spirit goes out, he goes back to his ground;
In that day his thoughts do perish.

Psalms 118:8-11

8 It is better to take refuge in Jehovah
Than to trust in earthling man.

9 It is better to take refuge in Jehovah
Than to trust in nobles.

10 All the nations themselves surrounded me.
It was in the name of Jehovah that I kept holding them off.

11 They surrounded me, yes, they had me surrounded.
It was in the name of Jehovah that I kept holding them off.

Matthew 17:23

23 and they will kill him, and the third day he will be raised up." Consequently they were very much grieved.

Numbers 23:19

19 God is not a man that he should tell lies,
Neither a son of mankind that he should feel regret.
Has he himself said it and will he not do it,
And has he spoken and will he not carry it out?

Habakkuk 1:12

12 Are you not from long ago, O Jehovah? O my God, my Holy One, you do not die. O Jehovah, for a judgment you have set it; and, O Rock, for a reproving you have founded it.

JESUS WORSHIP AND JESUS SONGS ARE DEMONIC FALSE TEACHING! JESUS MUST NOT BE GLORIFIED OR PRAISED BY MANS WORDS! JESUS MUST BE GLORIFIED BY JEHOVAH WHEN WE TEACH JEHOVAH'S NAME!

John 5:41-42

41 I do not accept glory from men, 42 but I well know that YOU do not have the love of God in YOU.

Matthew 4:10-11

10 Then Jesus said to him: "Go away, Satan! For it is written, 'It is Jehovah your God you must worship, and it is to him alone you must render sacred service.'" 11 Then the Devil left him, and, look! Angels came and began to minister to him.

Luke 4:8

8 In reply Jesus said to him: "It is written, 'It is Jehovah your God you must worship, and it is to him alone you must render sacred service.'"

1 Thessalonians 2:6

6 Neither have we been seeking glory from men, no, either from YOU or from others, though we could be an expensive burden as apostles of Christ.

JESUS IS NOT GOOD! THE MESSAGE JESUS TAUGHT ABOUT JEHOVAH WAS JEHOVAH'S GOOD MESSAGE!

Matthew 19:17

17 He said to him: "Why do you ask me about what is good? One there is that is good. If, though, you want to enter into life, observe the commandments continually."

Mark 10:18

18 Jesus said to him: "Why do you call me good? Nobody is good, except one, God.

Luke 18:18-19

18 And a certain ruler questioned him, saying: "Good Teacher, by doing what shall I inherit everlasting life?"
19 Jesus said to him: "Why do you call me good? Nobody is good, except one, God. 20 You know the commandments, 'Do not commit adultery, Do not murder, Do not steal, Do not bear false witness, Honor your father and mother.'"

John 14:28

28 YOU heard that I said to YOU, I am going away and I am coming [back] to YOU. If YOU loved me, YOU would rejoice that I am going my way to the Father, because the Father is greater than I am.

JESUS CAME IN JEHOVAH'S NAME, SO WE MUST COME IN JEHOVAH'S NAME!

John 12:13

13 took the branches of palm trees and went out to meet him. And they began to shout: "Save, we pray you! Blessed is he that comes in Jehovah's name, even the king of Israel!"

Luke 13:35

35 Look! YOUR house is abandoned to YOU. I tell YOU, YOU will by no means see me until YOU say, 'Blessed is he that comes in Jehovah's name.'"

1 John 1:5-7

5 And this is the message which we have heard from him and are announcing to YOU, that God is light and there is no darkness at all in union with him. 6 If we make the statement: "We are having a sharing with him," and yet we go on walking in the darkness, we are lying and are not practicing the truth. 7 However, if we are walking in the light as he himself is in the light, we do have a sharing with one another, and the blood of Jesus his Son cleanses us from all sin.

JEHOVAH AND JESUS ARE FATHER AND SON SHARING SAME PURPOSE! TEACHING MAN THAT JEHOVAH IS ONLY GOD IN ONE PERSON IS THAT PURPOSE! JESUS AND JEHOVAH ARE SEPARATE PERSONS!

John 10:30

30 I and the Father are one."

Mark 10:6-9

6 However, from [the] beginning of creation 'He made them male and female. 7 On this account a man will leave his father and mother, 8 and the two will be one flesh'; so that they are no longer two, but one flesh. 9 Therefore what God yoked together let no man put apart."

John 17:22-23

22 Also, I have given them the glory that you have given me, in order that they may be one just as we are one. 23 I in union with them and you in union with me, in order that they may be perfected into one, that the world may have the knowledge that you sent me forth and that you loved them just as you loved me

1 Corinthians 6:16

16 What! Do YOU not know that he who is joined to a harlot is one body? For, “The two,” says he, “will be one flesh.”

IN JESUS’ NAME MEANS IN THE NAME OF TEACHING JEHOVAH’S NAME AS SALVATION TO MAN! IN ASKING JEHOVAH FOR SPIRIT OF JEHOVAH WE ENTER INTO KINGDOM AND ARE SEALED FOR HEAVEN!

John 10:25

25 Jesus answered them: “I told YOU, and yet YOU do not believe. The works that I am doing in the name of my Father, these bear witness about me.”

John 5:43

43 I have come in the name of my Father, but YOU do not receive me; if someone else arrived in his own name, YOU would receive that one.

Luke 11:2

2 Then he said to them: “Whenever YOU pray, say, ‘Father, let your name be sanctified. Let your kingdom come.

John 17:11, 26

11 “Also, I am no longer in the world, but they are in the world and I am coming to you. Holy Father, watch over them on account of your own name which you have given me, in order that they may be one just as we are.
26 And I have made your name known to them and will make it known, in order that the love with which you loved me may be in them and I in union with them.”

Acts 22:12-16

12 “Now An·a·ni´as, a certain man reverent according to the Law, well reported on by all the Jews dwelling there, 13 came to me and, standing by me, he said to me, ‘Saul, brother, have your sight again!’ And I looked up at him that very hour. 14 He said, ‘The God of our forefathers has chosen you to come to know his will and to see the righteous One and to hear the voice of his mouth, 15 because you are to be a witness for him to all men of things you have seen and heard. 16 And now why are you delaying? Rise, get baptized and wash your sins away by your calling upon his name.’

John 20:17

17 Jesus said to her: "Stop clinging to me. For I have not yet ascended to the Father. But be on your way to my brothers and say to them, 'I am ascending to my Father and YOUR Father and to my God and YOUR God.'"

JEHOVAH IS GOD TO JESUS THE MAN, JEHOVAH IS GOD TO MICHAEL THE CHRIST BEFORE HE WAS MAN, JEHOVAH IS GOD TO MANKIND! JESUS IS SLAVE TO JEHOVAH, MAN IS SLAVE TO JEHOVAH! JEHOVAH IS LOVE!

Jude 9

9 But when Mi´cha·el the archangel had a difference with the Devil and was disputing about Moses' body, he did not dare to bring a judgment against him in abusive terms, but said: "May Jehovah rebuke you."

1 Corinthians 10:1-4

1 Now I do not want YOU to be ignorant, brothers, that our forefathers were all under the cloud and all passed through the sea 2 and all got baptized into Moses by means of the cloud and of the sea; 3 and all ate the same spiritual food 4 and all drank the same spiritual drink. For they used to drink from the spiritual rock-mass that followed them, and that rock-mass meant the Christ.

Zechariah 3:1-5

1 And he proceeded to show me Joshua the high priest standing before the angel of Jehovah, and Satan standing at his right hand in order to resist him. 2 Then [the angel of] Jehovah said to Satan: "Jehovah rebuke you, O Satan, yes, Jehovah rebuke you, he who is choosing Jerusalem! Is this one not a log snatched out of the fire?"

Isaiah 14:9-27

9 "Even She´ol underneath has become agitated at you in order to meet you on coming in. At you it has awakened those impotent in death, all the goatlike leaders of the earth. It has made all the kings of the nations get up from their thrones. 10 All of them speak up and say to you, 'Have you yourself also been made weak like us? Is it to us that you have been made comparable? 11 Down to She´ol your pride has been brought, the din of your stringed instruments. Beneath you, maggots are spread out as a couch; and worms are your covering.'

12 "O how you have fallen from heaven, you shining one, son of the dawn! How you have been cut down to the earth, you who were disabling the nations! 13 As for you, you have said in your heart, 'To the heavens I shall go up. Above the stars of God I shall lift up my throne, and I shall sit down upon the mountain of meeting, in the remotest parts of the north. 14 I shall go up above the high places of the clouds; I shall make myself resemble the Most High.'

15 "However, down to She´ol you will be brought, to the remotest parts of the pit. 16 Those seeing you will gaze even at you; they will give close examination even to you, [saying,] 'Is this the man that was agitating the earth, that was making kingdoms rock, 17 that made the productive land like the wilderness and that overthrew its very cities, that did not open the way homeward even for his prisoners?' 18 All other kings of the nations, yes, all of them, have lain down in glory, each one in his own house. 19 But as for you, you have been thrown away without a burial place for you, like a detested sprout, clothed with killed men stabbed with the sword that are going down to the stones of a pit, like a carcass trodden down. 20 You will not become united with them in a grave, because you brought your own land to ruin, you killed your own people. To time indefinite the offspring of evildoers will not be named.

21 "Make ready, YOU men, a slaughtering block for his own sons because of the error of their forefathers, that they may not rise up and actually take possession of the earth and fill the face of the productive land with cities."

22 "And I will rise up against them," is the utterance of Jehovah of armies. "And I will cut off from Babylon name and remnant and progeny and posterity," is the utterance of Jehovah.

23 "And I will make her a possession of porcupines and reedy pools of water, and I will sweep her with the broom of annihilation," is the utterance of Jehovah of armies.

24 Jehovah of armies has sworn, saying: "Surely just as I have figured, so it must occur; and just as I have counseled, that is what will come true, 25 in order to break the As·syr´i·an in my land and that I may tread him down on my own mountains; and that his yoke may actually depart from upon them and that his very load may depart from upon their shoulder."

26 This is the counsel that is counseled against all the earth, and this is the hand that is stretched out against all the nations. 27 For Jehovah of armies himself has counseled, and who can break [it] up? And his hand is the one stretched out, and who can turn it back?

WHEN JESUS CALLED HIMSELF SON OF MAN, HE SAID HE WAS A WORM, A SLAVE, AND NOT GOOD, AND NOT GOD! JESUS THEREFOR PROVED ONLY JEHOVAH'S WORDS HE GAVE WERE GOOD, MAKING HIS SERVICE GOOD; AS OUR EXAMPLE OF GOOD SLAVES!

Bottom Line - Trinity True or False?

Jesus is not Almighty God

New American Standard Bible (©1995)
For a child will be born to us, a son will be given to us; And the government will rest on His shoulders; And His name will be called Wonderful Counselor, Mighty God, Eternal Father, Prince of Peace.
Isaiah 9:6
Prince: a male member of a royal family other than the sovereign (especially the son of a sovereign)

A.) Jesus was to be called "A Mighty God" because he was given God's word to teach as a representative of God. Jesus was not a replacement for God nor God himself, but mighty in that he was Jehovah's son and could not be stopped.

New American Standard Bible (©1995)
I said, "You are gods, and all of you are sons of the Most High. Psalm 82:6

A.) Judges of Israel were also called Gods by Jehovah because they represented God in the judgment of his people, and were directed by his spirit like the Angelic sons with the Angelic sons.

New World Translation
1Consequently Jehovah said to Moses: "See, I have made you God to Pharaoh, and Aaron your own brother will become your prophet. 2You—you will speak all that I shall command you; and Aaron your brother will do the speaking to Pharaoh, and he must send the sons of Israel away from his land.
Exodus 7:1-2

A.) Moses was A god not GOD. This is why Jesus said he was " the greater Moses" as Jesus was also A God who taught Jehovah's will like Moses did, but Jesus was also the Son thus he was greater than Moses.

International Standard Version (©2008)
Therefore, if anyone is in the Messiah, he is a new creation. Old things have disappeared, and-look!-all things have become new! 2 Corinthians 5:17

A.) Jesus was given the title of "Eternal Father" meaning (in Greek) "Father of our Future" because his faithful and true sinless example brought us Jehovah's privilege of Holy Spirit for all who ask. When Jesus died faithful to Jehovah, Jesus became father of the re-established faithful and true soul, meaning Jesus' example is what all must do to be faithful and true to Jehovah. Jehovah's Spirit is how we are matured and taught by Christ to be faithful to Jehovah.

A.) When Jehovah God was on the earth he only dwelt in the "Holy of Holy's", The "Most Pure Sanctified Place" in the Temple. Jesus was born from a physical woman, therefore not good. Dear Religious Liberty Commission,

Would you consider advancing Christian revival in our nation through the submission and use of my scholarly book entitled, "Is Jesus Christ Really In My Heart?"

My name is Kristian Klepes. I am a Christian scholar, author, and lawyer committed to equipping fellow Christians with biblical assurance and spiritual vitality.

"Is Jesus Christ Really In My Heart?" is a theological and pastoral call to revival grounded in the biblical truth that transformation begins with the active realization of and reliance on Christ's indwelling presence.

My scholarly book:

(1) Builds on my peer-reviewed article published in The Canadian American Theological Review, which identifies a chiasm in John 14-16 affirming the Paraclete's (Holy Spirit) role in bringing Christ's presence to the believer*;* and

(2) Synthesizes the biblical context of ten key passages to reveal the necessity and power of "Christ in you" as the foundation for sanctification, assurance, and gospel witness.

Included below are:

- A link to a press release for the book;
- A link to my peer-reviewed article in The Canadian American Theological Review;
- A link to a YouTube interview for the book; and
- A summary video attachment introducing the book's message

Thank you for your consideration. I believe this resource aligns with your mission to support faith-based renewal and spiritual vitality across our communities. I would be honored to contribute to that mission.

Listen, I filed this case long ago revealing religious persecution by news and government and it involved my faith and so the Federal Courts were on notice and chose to ignore and disregard the claims and the Charlie Kirk is killed by the same persecution. Somebody needs to look into my cases.

Hello,

I don't agree with my Howard County, MD School striving to earn recognition as a rainbow ribbon school from this group, by incorporating all of these LGBTQ topics, in the manner outlined by this group in the link below. I've attached an email I sent to our principal.

https://www.cary-hoco.org/our-goals

Who were the groups in the Montgomery county school district that protested this in Montgomery county schools, which I read about in a Christian Post article?

Thanks,
Dana

Hello Mrs. Rivas,

Thank you for your kind words and Happy Thanksgiving to you and your family. The SEL lesson, as I shared it with you, will remain an option for our intermediate teachers to use. It is in alignment with all HCPSS curriculum related policies. Affirming symbols of allyship being visible to students, such as the Pride flag, are part of the requirements to be a Rainbow Ribbon School. We are working on a 2-3 year process to earn this award. Our neighboring schools of Dayton Oaks and Clarksville have already earned this distinction. You can read about it here. https://www.cary-hoco.org/rrslist. Unless school system policies and priorities change, I do not plan to remove the flag from the cafeteria.

Warmly,

Hello,

I hadn't heard from you in a while. Just following up on this. I think it was very inappropriate that during an SEL class, my daughter received a lesson on what the colors of the pride flag represented and then asked to color a flag. That's sexual content. Can you reassure me that this won't happen again in the future?

And that is why I am asking for the pride flag to be taken down in the cafeteria. I can't imagine a parent of a Kindergartener or 1st grader would be ok with you describing what each of those colors are intended to mean on that flag? That would be you teaching sexual content to young kids. This is wrong. With the pride flag being in the cafeteria, where the audience is K-5th graders -- to me, that is your intention. Why don't you move the flag to the teachers' lounge, if you'd like to have it somewhere?

I appreciate your hard work and I hope you have a Happy Thanksgiving!

Dana

I'm going to believe my child when they said they were told what each letter of LGBTQ meant and which color represented each letter. And then given a flag to color in, making them feel like they were supposed to choose one of the colors associated with L or G or B ...etc.

This is not appropriate and I hope that it won't happen in the future.

Regarding the pride flag in the cafeteria.
I understand that you want to communicate to those who identify as LGTBQ+, that they can feel safe and respected as TRES.

But then what about others...?

Last year there was an uptick in derogatory speech about black people - yet you didn't feel the need to place the Black Lives Matter flag in the cafeteria.

And we do have students at TRES and other community members who are members of the black community.

Some Jewish friends of ours who attend a different HoCo school (not TRES) were being picked on for several weeks at school last year for being Jewish. That school didn't put an Israeli flag in the cafeteria.

These instances were all handled by addressing the school community, like you said, by reminding/teaching kindness and respect for others regardless of our differences. I think you handle this well.

All these different identities shouldn't be our focus, we should focus on the same Spirit that we all share.

Hello Rivas Family,

Thank you for your patience while I worked to find out about the lesson you referenced. The lesson was provided as a menu of possible options for teachers during SEL time during June last year. The lessons were focused on pride and identity. For the flag lesson, students were provided with a blank flag and encouraged to design a flag that represents their pride in their identify. The color meaning on the Pride flag was shared with some classes. Here is what was shared:

The colors on the rainbow flag each have a specific meaning.

The colors on your flag can mean anything you want.

The Pride flag in our cafeteria communicates to all members of the community that TRES is a place were members of the LGTBQ+ are welcomed and can feel safe. We do have students at TRES and other community members who are members of the LGTBQ+ community.

Dating is not a topic of our curriculum for any grade. We teach respecting others regardless of our differences. During SEL we discuss never being unkind to others based on aspects of their identities.

I wanted to reach out about a concern I had during the last school year at TRES.

Last year, I was disappointed that children were given a "lesson" on what the pride flag and LGBTQ ment and that children felt like it was a lesson to be gay, by giving them a flag to color in.

We were shocked that this went on in school. This should not be a part of the school year curriculum, and hope it won't happen again this year.

The acts of individuals who are rejecting the fullness of who God made them to be (some probably due to past abuse), should not be celebrated, they should be helped by caring professionals.

And having that giant pride flag in the cafeteria - I feel is like the school telling kids as young as 5 yrs to think about / ask your parents about the topic of who people date. This isn't right.

This flag should be replaced now by the schools motto or Treasure traits or the DEBUG strategy...etc

And if one teacher decides to decorate their room by placing pride flags every where - that's ok, I feel that's the teachers space -- but I hope another teacher would be allowed to fill her room with Palestine flags and another teacher with Israeli flags and another teacher with Christian flags, if they wish.

Thank you,

Dear Religious Liberty Commission,

My name is Weon Deok Seo, serving as a minister at a local Korean American community church in North Carolina. I am also a seminary student in a Master of Theology program of Trinity Evangelical Divinity School after graduating from Liberty University Divinity School with a Master of Divinity program. I am writing to report urgent information about a developing situation that threatens religious freedom in South Korea.

President Donald Trump has recognized that churches are under political threats in South Korea. On August 25, before meeting with South Korean President Lee Jae-myung, President Trump expressed his concerns over "vicious raids" on churches in South Korea to reporters during the State Department's briefing. He also mentioned the issue to President Lee during the meeting when a reporter asked a question about Trump's concerns about South Korea.

Rev. Hyun-bo Son, a South Korean pastor who has served Segero Church in Busan, South Korea. Pastor Son also led 'Save Korea,' a Christian prayer gathering that organized rallies opposing the impeachment of former President Yoon Suk-yeol and supporting the conservative political leaders and movement this year. He also invited conservative leaders to his church.

Recently, in South Korea, the court issued an arrest warrant for him on charges of violating the election act. The judge issued it because of flight risk, although Rev Son has served Segero Church for over 30 years. Police already raided his house and church. Some conservative politicians view it as clear political retaliation from the new government of South Korea. The Christianity of South Korea has faced religious suppression and political retaliation from the new government. Many Christians have been worried about the current situation in South Korea.

The alliance between the United States and South Korea draws its profound strength not merely from a defense treaty, but from a spiritual foundation built upon the ground of shared Christian values. Specifically, I respectfully request that the Commission give this matter its immediate and serious attention, taking all appropriate actions. Furthermore, I urge you to formally convey the seriousness of this situation to the Trump Administration and advocate for a strong diplomatic response to protect religious freedom in South Korea.

Thank you for your time and consideration of this urgent matter.

Sincerely,
Weon Deok Seo

Subject: Grateful, but education still needed

To all principals of NMUSD, Superintendent and School Board -

I am grateful for the schools that have tried to stop hate and educate our students and staff with programs like Student to Student or visiting the Orange County Holocaust Educational Center at Chabad of Newport and for those that do field trips to the Museum of Tolerance in Los Angeles.

I'd like to bring attention to education in the classrooms about the Holocaust. The first time my daughter and her classmates heard of the Holocaust was in 8th grade several years ago when their English teacher had them read Night, by Ellie Wiesel, a memoir of a survivor in the Concentration Camps. It was just a book meant for literary lessons of "memoirs", but had no educational nor historical reference about the content. Don't get me wrong, I was extremely pleased the class read it like I did when I was in 8th grade many decades ago. I asked the teacher if I could Zoom a Holocaust survivor into class as there are so few of them left to recount their stories. I was so grateful she said yes. However, the EXTREMELY SAD thing I learned is that since no educational context was given to the students, several of them had thought Night was a FICTION book until they heard the survivor on Zoom. I don't blame the English teacher at all because her job is to teach English, not history.

Fast forward to my daughter's 10th grade AP World History class...the second time they learned about the Holocaust was when they were learning about WW2 and the class finally did a lesson about the Holocaust that took a small part of one class. This is the largest historical genocide whose sole purpose of Hitler and his Nazi regime was to rid the WORLD of all Jews, and they succeeded murdering over 6 million of them, plus many others were murdered like priests who helped the Jews. The Holocaust was not a war between countries or two groups, but a war by one dictator, Hitler, along with his followers against humanity. This can't be a lesson shrunk down to a small part of one class for all of high school and middle school. This is the biggest lesson to learn about hate and what can happen when uneducated. I'm grateful that the teacher took some to speak of it, but wonder who is in charge of curriculum at the district level that would care about this?

As we have all seen since October 7, 2023, the rise in antisemitism and hate has grown and stems from lack of education, as well as, insidious and devious people leading those who are uneducated. If we are going to help prepare students to go off to college or into the work world, it's imperative that they learn how to ask questions, be curious, learn not to hate and get educated on real facts.

Because of Oct. 7th and the uneducated masses that have followed the deviant people who want chaos in our universities and city streets, a curriculum was made to teach people real facts about Israel and Jews. Unfortunately, even textbooks the kids use today are not accurate and are very different from books I learned from decades ago. There has been a movement to erase the real facts about Israel as one example: https://worldisraelnews.com/qatar-influence-rewriting-us-school-curricula-to-promote-anti-israel-narrative/ Several of us have been reading through the AP World History books throughout Orange County and there are facts about Israel and Jews that are inaccurate or have no context or are misleading. We have been in contact with the book publisher, Macmillan, to have them fix these items. So, knowing there is limited education and bad textbook information, I'd like to bring to your attention this free and accurate curriculum about Israel and Jews that was made recently https://www.camera-edu.org/israel-curriculum/ Perhaps this is something the district would like to take a look at? Or is it that we only follow curriculum of the College Board, a company that made over $1 billion in 2023 and the CEO makes over $2million a year? Why do we allow them to dictate what our kids learn?

There is also a fear of the Ethnic Studies class and how it affects Jews because across the country, teachers have been able to make up their own curriculum. If they are uneducated, they will not teach real facts as we've seen with Santa Ana school district, Santa Monica City College and Palo Alto Unified all either sued or threatened to be sued for their ethnic studies teachings against Jews. Look on the Camera link and under tab, "K-12" you will see information for school boards and administration, along with ethnic studies tab and the most important tab, "curriculum".

Lastly, there is a documentary in theaters now, for just one more week, called Oct. 8th through AMC. It discusses why there is so much antisemitism since Oct. 7th and I highly recommend everyone see it as it's about how our democracy is being affected. So much so, that I'd be willing to purchase 2 tickets for someone to see it. I have a few other friends who would also be willing to sponsor a couple tickets, so please email back if you'd like me to buy a couple tickets for this week. (We are just apartment renters so I wish I could buy everyone tickets, but I will try to find people to sponsor more tickets if needed): https://www.october8film.com/

Thank you for all you do caring for our children and for your consideration,

Leslie

To the Esteemed Religious Liberty Commision - I am so thrilled after having seen the presentation at the Museum of the Bible.

I've been praying for a sign that someone in the government can help me as I've contacted many Senators and Congressmen and have never heard back from anyone, nor heard anythign in the news about an interest in this.

We have 2 HUGE problems in our country and both stem with our educational system. The first problem I've seen firsthand through my daughter is the lack of education relating to Judaism, The Old Testament, Holocaust. I have an email I will send next that explains what I told our school district.

The second is the following email chain...I was able to reach the EVP of a publishing company of an AP World History book that kids learn from across the country. Unfortunately, his response was placating and not resolving the problem, at best. Sometime during the last few decades, people in the publishing companies have changed history. The history lacks depth of knowledge and is actually teaching distorted information. The amount of Islamic history compared to Christian and Judaic history is 4 times or more the amount.

If you would be so kind to research this and find a way to get real history back into our schools and childrens' minds.

Thank you,
Leslie

We are writing to you in hopes you will be able to assist us in getting to the root problem of incorrect, historical facts being taught in our high school educational system.

If you read our email from the bottom up, you will read our interaction with an Executive VP of a large textbook publisher and his flowery, yet meaningless responses.

You will also read, in the last email sent today to some Congress people who sit on the Education Committee, how the connection between textbook publishers and AP College Board needs to be investigated. We believe the AP College Board has nefarious intentions.

We truly appreciate your work for the American people and hope we can make education great again!

Dear Esteemed Congresspeople-

I had copied some of the previous, and now some current, Education Committee on our emails to a publisher of a National textbook, Macmillan/BFW about AP World History open to ANY U.S. High School student. The Executive Vice President, Charles Linsmeier, gave us a friendly brush off twice about the book's false historical information about Israel.

When students take a high school AP course, they also pay about $100 for each exam to take the AP College Board exam in hopes of "testing out" of the class in college, and more importantly, the AP class raises their high school GPA so they can be more competitive being accepted in college. Most students take as many AP classes as possible, anywhere from 1-6 classes a year.

We've also reached out a few times to the AP College Board, but they didn't respond. We aren't sure if the AP College Board is the chicken or egg in the problem. Does the AP College Board ask publishers (nefarious ones?) for curriculum for their exams because they make money from each student who takes the exam? Or are there just textbooks with incorrect facts in use that the AP College Board makes a test for?

Follow the money is what my husband always says. If you'd like to learn why the AP exams are not actually good for our students: Shortchanged: How Advanced Placement Cheat Students, Annie Abrams. OR, just google problems with AP exams like this one: https://www.totalregistration.net/AP-Exam-Registration-Service/Follow-The-Money-History-of-College-Board-Finances.php "In 2023, the most recent 990 available, the College Board held $1,775,694,188 in Cash and Investments. They hold over 1.77 BILLION dollars that can be used to finance any College Board related activity. " What are the activities? Do they pay publishers for "scholarly experts" at book publishers? Do they pay the nefarious organizations or teachers that are haunting our college campuses? What exactly does this NON PROFIT do with all their money? Are they the ones behind Ethnic Studies?

We are asking, and honestly praying, you take this information and find a way to learn why and when the textbooks for our youth changed to give false information and find a way to make changes to the textbooks with real historical facts. We are also asking if you could get to the bottom of the AP courses influencing what our children learn with their money-making business to stress our children out with all their AP courses.

Although we are concerned about information about Israel, it makes you wonder what else is false teachings or what narrative they are pushing?

Thank you for your consideration,
Lesile and Judy

ANY U.S. student taking AP World History. It is time to take meaningful action against the racist antisemitism that this text fosters.

We've waited to respond because, frankly, we were extremely upset with the "changes" you proposed by way of your "Jewish and Middle Eastern scholars". We were also waiting until the new Government's Education and Workforce committee started because the last committee was copied on the original complaint and this new committee should know that publishing companies like yours, Macmillan/BFW, and their counterpart to the exam for this class, AP College Board, have either nefarious people working for them and changing history, or perhaps, just misinformed people making changes to history.

As you stated in your last email below, "history is more than just a timeline of events; rather it's a wealth of human experiences shaped by cultural, political, and social contexts". We beg to differ. History is actually FACTS, not social contexts of present-day people giving their biased views of the facts.

It is quite clear that your "scholars" need a schooling on Israel and the responses are not only inadequate, but they are meaningless and frankly insulting attempts at appeasement. Do you seriously think that replacing the word 'foster' with its synonym 'contribute to' or that adding the word 'disputed' to 'Israeli-occupied territories' represents meaningful change?

We have attached some links to listen to at the bottom of this email, so you and your "scholars" might learn real history about Israel and the Middle East. If your scholars want to read a book about Israel with accurate historical information, Noa Tishby's book, Israel, has good information.

There is unfortunately a movement that occurred in the last several decades trying to erase the real history of Israel. Perhaps you should look back at your own textbooks from the 1970s or even encyclopedias as we would imagine they don't have words like "colonialism" or "Israel occupied territories" or "disputed territories". Why? Because your "Modern History" look at history is CHANGING history.

The following is a list of changes required to correctly represent the Jewish people and the history of the State of Israel.

1. P. 30 – Remove the following:

   "This idea of a single supreme deity or Devine Presence, the sole source of all life and being, was a radical cultural innovation. It created the possibility of a universal religion, open to all of humankind, but it could also mean an exclusive and intolerant faith."

   Your supposition that G-d is a 'cultural innovation' is not a recognized or acceptable idea among millions of people who believe in G-d. It has no place being presented as fact in a history book. In addition, you have no authority to be pushing an antireligious doctrine to high school students.

Correct the term 'Israel/Palestine' to 'Israel' to accurately reflect that the country is Israel and not Palestine. There NEVER was a country or nation called Palestine, only a region that was named by the Romans after they conquered Judea where Jews and others lived.

P. 31 –Remove the offensive and inaccurate depictions of the Jewish God as being a 'jealous deity' and a 'god of war.' In addition, the Jewish God neither 'evolved' or 'transformed' so that language needs to be removed.

3.

From a different edition: Correct the inaccurate description of dhimmis to read as follows:

"...actively seeking converts but permitting Jews, Christians and other non-Muslims to live as 'non-believers' under the status of "dhimmis". In exchange for this 'protected' status dhimmis were required to pay a special tax. Other restrictions for non-believers under Islam included being forced to wear distinctive clothing, not being allowed to practice their religion in public and not being allowed to own a horse (a symbol of nobility). Islamic law also held that the testimony of Jews and Christians against Muslims was invalid.

P. 367 – Correct

"By the end of the nineteenth century, a small Zionist movement, seeking a homeland in Palestine, had emerged among Europe's frequently persecuted Jews."

To read:

"By the end of the nineteenth century, a growing Zionist movement emerged as a result of Jewish persecution throughout Europe and Russia, seeking nationhood in its historical, indigenous homeland in the region of Palestine."

5.

P. 535 -Correct the map to label Syria, Iraq, Transjordan and Palestine as Palestinian Territories which accurately depicts their status at the end of WWI. Correct the legend to read: "...In Europe were independent. The Palestinian Territories were administered by Britain and France as mandates of the League of Nations."

6.

P. 557 -Correct

"More specifically, it sent many of Europe's remaining Jews fleeing to Israel and gave urgency to the establishment of a modern Jewish nation in the ancient Jewish homeland. That action outraged many Arabs, some of whom were displaced by the arrival of the Jews and has fostered an enduring conflict in the Middle East."

To read:

"The Holocaust confirmed the need to establish Israel as a national homeland where Jews could live without fear of constant persecution. Survivors of the Nazi concentration camps tried to make their way to Palestine, despite British efforts to restrict Jewish immigration after WWII. At the same time the British turned a blind eye to Arab immigration into the area, swelling Arab numbers with recent migrants."

7. P. 608 -Remove red coloring from sections of Israel and completely remove legend reading "Israeli-occupied territory". There is no reference or historical context in the text material to this territory. This depiction and language on the map serve no purpose other than to vilify Israel.

8. P. 692 -Remove the following:

"Despite formal independence, foreign intrusion still persisted. Israel, widely regarded as an outpost of the West, had been reestablished as a Jewish state in the very center of the Islamic world in 1948. In 1967, Israel inflicted a devasting defeat on Arab forces in the Six-Day War and seized various Arab territories including the holy city of Jerusalem."

The paragraph is about fundamentalist rejection of Western value and culture. The establishment of the state of Israel (and the Six-Day War) is not a cause of this fundamentalist rejection and is a red herring for the topic of the paragraph. Any suggestion that Islamic extremism is connected to the success of the state of Israel is completely false.

We look forward to hearing that these changes will be implemented immediately in the digital version of the textbook and in the next print edition of the textbook. We also would like you to address all schools and their districts that have your textbook with an insert and letter describing your changes.

As we continue to review the textbook we will contact you if we find further items that warrant your attention.

Dear Leslie and Judy,

Thank you for your patience as we conducted research to explore in depth the concerns you raised. At BFW Publishers, we and our authors approach learning materials with the understanding that history is more than just a timeline of events; rather it's a wealth of human experiences shaped by cultural, political, and social contexts. Creating educational products that are both historically and contextually accurate is one of our top priorities, and the feedback we get from our customers and the community is critical to doing just that.

We partnered with our authors and with experienced Jewish and Middle Eastern scholars to better understand the concerns you mentioned. As a result of our evaluation, we determined that we can improve the presentation of material in several areas you referenced in your letter to us. We're making some changes immediately in the digital materials and are implementing a multi-step solution to update the course materials in other formats. Incorporating feedback and continually refining our content is a hallmark of the publishing process. We will continue to refine coverage in the next edition and editions that follow; you are welcome to submit resources for our consideration.

Here's an overview of the changes we're making:

Clarifying Maps:

On page 608, we plan on changing the language from "Israeli-Occupied Territory" to "Disputed/Israeli-Occupied Territory." The terminology used aligns with language common to that period, including terms used by the UN and other international bodies. We're also updating page 535 to improve clarity. Sovereign states and mandated territories will now be distinguished by using italics which is a different font style with an updated map key to clarify the distinction.

Improving Context

On page 557, we're making some initial edits now and evaluating more substantial changes in the next edition to offer better context from Jewish, Israeli, Palestinian, and diverse perspectives and experiences in the region. In this edition, the word "fostered" will be updated to "contributed to" to clarify the language. We've updated several sentences on page 692 to provide greater context. These revisions will provide more balance and clarity while remaining concise enough to fit within the current page space constraints. To that end, we're adjusting from:

> "Israel, widely regarded as an outpost of the West, had been reestablished as a Jewish state in the very center of the Islamic world in 1948. In 1967, Israel inflicted a devastating defeat on Arab forces in the Six-Day War and seized various Arab territories, including the holy city of Jerusalem."

To now read:

> "Israel, granted statehood in 1948, was widely regarded among Arabs as an outpost of western imperialism. Arab states sought to counter this perceived threat by attacking Israel in 1948-9 and 1967. But Israel prevailed in these conflicts, resulting in the seizure of territories from their adversaries and the displacement of about a million Palestinians"

The aforementioned changes will be made immediately so that students using the digital materials will have access to them. That said, we believe this is a work in progress, and future revisions of Ways of the World will include these alongside an even deeper presentation of perspectives.

We recognize that the topics and concerns you raised are deeply important and do have an impact on students. We appreciate your feedback and advocacy for accurate and inclusive educational materials and we remain steadfast in our commitment to ongoing review of this and other content within all of our course materials.

Bedford, Freeman and Worth Publishing executive team and parent company, Macmillan Publishing executive team -

It was brought to our attention in September that there is an egregious attempt at antisemitism within the AP College Board Exam and Textbooks for AP World History.

In September I received a petition with over 8,500 signatures which I attached at the bottom of this email about misinformation for AP World History. We've sent a separate email to College Board and another email in September was sent to Cengage Publishers and now we are sending this out to you, another egregious textbook publisher.

This is request of the immediate correction of the College Board's AP World History, "Modern History", course and exam which includes false and misleading information about Jewish history and the State of Israel which is part of the reason there is a rise of antisemitism.

We would expect that misinformation and lies are not what you should want anyone to learn, especially easily, influenced teens.

From our research of the textbooks for this class, we understand there are several textbooks and editions that cater to this class by publishers Cengage and Bedford. We have been studying the textbooks finding all sorts of false information for our students to learn. Not only do these books have false information, but Princeton and Kaplan review study guides and their online information both share similar false information as they track the textbooks and exam.

An immediate, full review of all information is needed pertaining to Israel and Judaism. A recall is needed of all the books and study material that are supporting this class and exam and new information should be sent to all AP World History classes asap.

One popular textbook for AP World History: "Ways of the World, A Global History with Sources..For the AP World History Modern Course" publisher, Bedford St. Martin, has a plethora of writings that are inaccurate and left this way, will continue to fuel the rise of antisemitism. As it states, "Modern History" is an oxymoron because history is NOT modern, unless it's made up.

We have identified these problems from this specific textbook (but not limited to) as there may be more:

Example 1 p. 535. Mapping History, the Map of Europe and Middle East after WW1 depicts Palestine as a state. The legend specifically describes it as one of several "Newly created states". This is completely false as no sovereign state of Palestine existed after WW1, nor has a sovereign state of Palestine or a Palestinian government ever existed. Also, this map teaches students, incorrectly, that the State of Israel usurped an existing state of Palestine.

Example 2, p. 557 states: "More specifically, it sent many of Europe's remaining Jews fleeing to Israel and gave urgency to the establishment of a modern Jewish nation in the ancient Jewish homeland. That action outraged many Arabs, some of whom were displaced by the arrival of the Jews, and has fostered an enduring conflict in the Middle East." The problems with this statement are as follows:

1. The first sentence's depiction of Israel as the 'ancient Jewish homeland' suggests that it was a Jewish homeland only millennia earlier – in ancient times. It does not acknowledge that Jews have been living there continuously since ancient times to the present, i.e. that there have continuously been Jews in Israel for the last 3,200 years.

2. 'some of whom were displaced' ignores two facts: a. Jews who arrived in British mandated Palestine purchased their land from existing owners. Sometimes these were absentee landlords b. The Israeli government invited all Arabs living in the newly created state of Israel to remain as peaceful citizens of the new state. The focus on Arabs being displaced by Jews only serves to foment hate against Jews.

3. "has fostered an enduring conflict in the Middle East." This sentence suggests that the establishment of Israel created conflict which did not exist before 1948. This is an often-repeated lie. The historical record shows many Jewish-Arab conflicts and violence against Jews in the region for centuries prior to the establishment of the state of Israel.

Example 3, p. 608: Map of The Middle East, ca. 2000 clearly labels areas in Israel as 'Israeli-occupied territory." The message of this map is that Israel is an occupier, and possibly by extension a colonizer. There is no context to this map. It does not state that all Arab nations became nations in the 1930s/1940s but Jewish people lived there prior to being called a nation like in Iran, Iraq, Syria, Lebanon, etc. It does not place the map's borders in the context of the 1967 War where Egypt, Syria and Jordan attacked Israel and Israel captured this territory. It doesn't mention that frequently borders have changed throughout history as a result of wars. It does not include that in the same war, Israel captured the Sinai Peninsula but exchanged that 'land for peace' with Egypt. It depicts Gaza as occupied even though the book's edition is 2020 and Israel completely withdrew from Gaza in 2005.

Example 4, p. 692: "Israel, widely regarded as an outpost of the West, had been reestablished as a Jewish state in the very center of the Islamic world in 1948. In 1967, Israel inflicted a devastating defeat on Arab forces in the Six-Day War and seized various Arab territories, including the holy city of Jerusalem." The statement, "in the very center of the Islamic world" does not acknowledge the continuous 3,200 year Jewish religious and cultural existence in the region. It might lead the reader to believe that a Jewish state does not belong in the "Islamic world". Also, " Israel inflicted" suggests Israel took the role of aggressor in 1967. Nothing is further from the truth. Israel was attacked on multiple fronts and repelled Arab forces. Furthermore, "*seized...the holy city of Jerusalem", do*es this really imply that Jerusalem is holy only to Islam but not, even more so, for 3200 years, holy to Judaism? The sentence does not explain that prior to the Six-Day War Jerusalem was divided and Jews were not allowed to set foot at their holiest religious site, the Western Wall of the Jewish temple (in violation of the 1949 Armistice Agreement). The Six-Day War reunited the city of Jerusalem.

Example 5: Princeton Review and Kaplan gives a summary of Middle East history and the students use this as a basis for learning and there is too much objectionable material. For example, Princeton states, "while a few Jews managed to stay in the region, most bolted for Europe and other areas.' The truth is that there were significant Jewish communities continuously in Jerusalem, Hebron, Safed and other towns from the time of the first Jewish Temple (957 B.C.E.) Furthermore, the Jews that left did not 'bolt,' they were forcibly expelled by conquering empires, but stayed in the region as there were tens of thousands of Jews in the modern day areas of Iran, Iraq, Syria, Jordan, Lebanon, until they also were expelled. Their description of Jewish and Arab population movements is completely false.

These are just some of the example in one textbook, as well as, an example from Princeton Review. We can send you more, but I'm sure you get the gist. A common incorrect theme emerges: Israel stole Palestine from the Arabs, Israel is an aggressor and a colonizer, the Jews don't have a legitimate claim to the land of Israel. Is it no wonder that college students call for "freeing Palestine", see Zionists as evil usurpers of Palestinian rights and shout for Jews to go back to Poland? I bet if we looked at less, "Modern" History books, we'd find the truth.

This kind of education in our public schools is a disservice to our students, to our communities and to our society. Something needs to change.

Jew-hatred is fueled by ignorance, and it is unacceptable that students are being taught lies about Israel and not real history.

We demand the College Board correct the historical errors in the AP Modern World History class and its exam. We demand that all books by Macmillan, Bedford St. Martin used for the class have accurate historical information. We demand a recall of their textbooks and fix them. We demand supplemental information with the real history sent to all classes asap for this year's class material.

Petition sent in September with over 8500 signatures: https://actionnetwork.org/petitions/demand-the-college-board-correct-inaccuracies-about-israel-in-ap-world-history-curriculum?source=twitter&

D. Statement of Claims

Edward Hoid's Statement of Claims

My Church, the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints, is a Christian faith. I have practiced that faith my entire life. That is my practice. The faith is the practice of nearly twenty million members, all around the world, the majority of members reside in Third World countries. Countries like the Philippines, Sierra Leone, Mexico and almost every country on Earth. Countries where people actually have reasons to complain and cry out for attention. I personally will not and never have devoted any of my attention to radical, spoiled and inferior persons and hecklers residing in my Country. I have suffered, truly and for a long time. I am not shocked or frightened by the latest agendas and life styles of radical groups in America. My church has seen its share of persecution, the cause of this persecution stems from the founder, having received revelation about what defines a human being, and that revelation does prove that every person is related.

Brothers and Sisters.

32 And again, the Lord God hath [a]commanded that men should not murder; that they should not lie; that they should not [b]steal; that they should not take the name of the Lord their God in [c]vain; that they should not [d]envy; that they should not have [e]malice; that they should not contend one with another; that they should not commit [f]whoredoms; and that they should do none of these things; for whoso doeth them shall perish.

33 For none of these iniquities come of the Lord; for he doeth that which is good among the children of men; and he doeth nothing save it be plain unto the children of men; and he [a]inviteth them [b]all to [c]come unto him and partake of his goodness; and he [d]denieth none that come unto him, black and white, [e]bond and free, male and female; and he remembereth the [f]heathen; and all are alike unto God, both Jew and Gentile.

The above is a passage from the truth published during the founding of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints, there was never a founding of the Mormon Church.

I am reluctant to even display our practice and scriptures in Courts of Law. This was published while the practice was and still is abiding with the Holy Bible, the King James Version, this is a Christian faith pure and simple and it is a lawful practice. The above displayed passage from the Book of Mormon is demonstration of a more detailed practice. The passage was published in 1834. This was published and became practice of The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints, before slavery was abolished in 1865. Because of this practice, viewing all people as equals and as brothers and sisters, be them black, white, male or female, bond or free and any gender, and while the governments and other faiths practice was slavery and bondage, despite the constitution, Joseph Smith was murdered in prison, while his young children witnessed it and he was imprisoned and murdered for reporting that blacks, women, and all genders are equal to white men and other faiths. Then the members of the church who practiced this equity and charity, were exiled to a hostile and unoccupied West. The Church was exiled to the West with nothing and their homes and Churches were burned down, because blacks and whites and all genders and people were considered by the Church as worthy and equal, at a time when other faiths and the government practiced slavery, abuse and rape of women and Blacks.

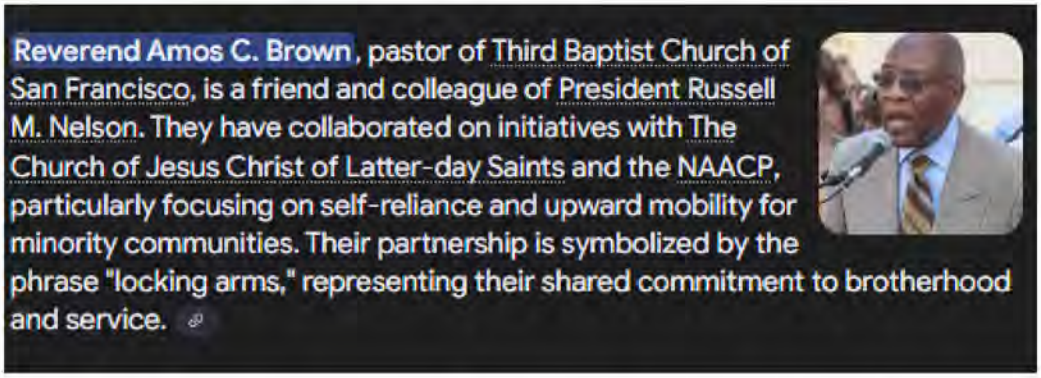
The Church, when exiled worked hard, loved their families and abided in the commandments of Jesus Christ within the Holy Bible.

We were persecuted and endured, and stayed faithful, this resulted in success, a capacity to practice love and charity. There was a war in 1857 through 1858, The Utah War of 1857.

DOJ-RLC Comment-002775

My ancestors have earned our practice, and that being charity, equity, love, Christianity and hard work.



The Church was accused of bigotry during some presidential campaigns. Our practice is well known and supports progress and freedom for needy and oppressed people around the world, mostly to populations in third world countries. To human beings that cannot heckle and cannot complain. The Churches success was, is and always has been for the purpose of helping people in need, and selflessly.

This generation has given rise to radical and abusive practices by law. The Constitution of the United States of America is the law. The People are in charge in this Country by and through that law.

The First Amendment of the Constitution does not protect defamatory speech that incites lawless acts, especially when the acts are intended to incite persecution of a people, culture or religion. The First Amendment does protect the people to practice religion and forbids religious persecution.

Recently, small groups of people in a number of states, mostly California, have been filing lawsuits, not police reports, 91 people, living in California, mostly men, filed lawsuits accusing The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints of sex abuse scandals. Accusing that my practice is sex abuse. It is a felony offense to falsely accuse another of a sex crime. Most of the accusations out of California, report that between twenty to fifty years ago, while the hecklers were 3 to 6 years of age, they were sexually groomed by my practice, or by the entire church. They accuse that church leaders failed to report sex abuse to authorities, and it is questionable how the accusers could possibly remember any events that took place when they were three or so years of age, and while reporting that they were raped decades ago. Most of the accusers were not members of the church and none reported anything over the span of decades. Why? When parents fail to report rape of their children that is misprision. That is the act of failing to report rape and sex abuse. The accusers report that the Church, 20 million members strong concealed and hid sex abuse, for decades, as if the Church has been involved with these people at all during the decades that passed in order to prevent the accusers from reporting rape and sex abuse. Some of the accusers deliberately placed their own children at risk and in dangerous circumstances, or in any situation where a member of the Church would be involved with their kids and then they start making accusations, decades later.

Tom Stollings, sued the Church as a whole, and that involves me. The stories told by Stollings and his wife, are that they were coerced by parents of Jensen to go for a night out. The Jensen's son is accused of sex offenses. The Stollings left their 3-year-old child with the Jensen's son to be baby sat. Jensen allegedly raped the three-year-old. The Stollings did not report the offense to police. The Stollings began calling church members all over the country looking for Jensen instead. The Church leaders whom the Stollings contacted instructed Stollings to call the police and that is on record. Stollings refuses and fails to report to police that his 3-year-old child was raped by Jensen. Who is responsible to report to the parents? The members of the Church are not involved nor is the so-called leadership. Regardless the Church did on record guide Stollings to call the police and that would be the appropriate procedure. Stollings issues a contradicting statement that Jensen was actually living with Stollings and that Stollings did not drop the child off to be babysat by Jensen. Jensen may or may not have a history of sex offense. Stollings claims that Jensen did and Stollings left the child with Jensen anyway. The Stollings file a lawsuit against me and my entire Church and report that they found 42 other children being sexually abused in the Church and that there is a Church scandal covering it up as though the Church is operating a sex scandal like Ebstein. Jensen is reported by Church and Courts for sex offenses and is placed in prison. The Stollings now publish untrue accusations calling the church a sex scandal and accusing me of practicing sex abuse. The Stollings complain and feel they are traumatized by the events; I have been traumatized by significant and actual events and severe harms committed against me the Stollings would never fathom. Were the alleged sex offenses committed by a random person or random baby sitter, what procedure would the Stollings follow? The proper thing to do is report felony crime to the proper authorities. I sympathize with the Stollings child if the events actually occurred, however the Stollings like all the other accusers of the faith are not filing police reports and are out on a get rich scheme at the expense of a good religion, and their own children. The Stollings will likely coach and force their child to keep the story straight and will condemn the Church to the child who would otherwise benefit from the Church.

Jensen, the accused is where he belongs, in prison, for acts he committed and that is the result of Church guidance.

DOJ-RLC Comment-002779

The Mormon Church settled a sexual abuse case in Berkeley County nearly five months ago. Now, some families are speaking up with allegations that there were sexual abuse cover ups by an individual who has a history of sexual abuse.

It's a case that rattled the Mormon Church community. Allegations of sexual abuse hidden for years by one of their own members at The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints in Martinsburg .

"They stop at nothing to attack the parents," said Tom Stollings, a former member of the church who is speaking up now.

Tom Stollings and Kelly H., are among the nine plaintiffs who sued the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints in Martinsburg, saying the church covered up years of sexual abuse, involving member Christopher Michael Jensen. They say the case was prolonged for nearly five years before a date for the civil trial was set in January in West Virginia.

Kelly advised parents on how to identify signs of child abuse. "I want you to reach your children's behavior. When your children come to you and they tell you someone touched them or they don't want to play with somebody, you need to listen to them."

Jensen was sentenced in 2013 to 35 to 75 years in prison for sexually abusing two children, ages three and four.

"They tried to silence us, but we refused," said Stollings.

Kelly alleges that she and Tom found out about 42 children who had been assaulted in over eight years.

When we reached out to the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints, they issued this statement, saying in part:

> "The church does not tolerate abuse of any kind. While the church is, and will always be, heartbroken about the terrible actions of this individual, we are thankful that he is behind bars, where he should be."

DOJ-RLC Comment-002780

The event featured Natasha Helfer; Brian Breese; Shelly and Mary of the Latter-Day Lesbian Podcast; Kristy Johnson; and Stollings.

As can be seen above, the Church even admits that our practice is not raping children and never has been and that they are glad Jensen is in prison, a police report the Stollings would not initiate themselves. There is justice there and the Church was maliciously sued for acts we did not participate in and now as can be seen above the Stollings are accusing others of rape, 42 others and the Defendants in this case are inciting the offenses while promising people huge pay outs for suing a faith and falsely accusing the Church members of sex abuse and rape, even boasting that a police report is undesired. So, the Defendants in this case take accusations and reports of rape and sex abuse and do not report the felony acts to proper authorities like police and Child Protective Services, this is deliberate so that the Defendants can enter false statements during lawsuits where they are guaranteed to get some sort of pay from either the accusers or as ordered by a Court. It isn't the case of whether or not Jensen raped the three-year-old, it is the case that it doesn't involve me and that I am being persecuted for my lawful and good faith and so is the rest of the Church. The Jensen situation appears to be a slightly traumatic, criminal case, not involving my practice or beliefs.

DOJ-RLC Comment-002781

The other accusers whom the Defendants are inciting, don't file police reports of felony crime and are unfounded claims that decades ago the accusers were groomed by the Church. The accusers seek attention and a means or party to blame for their lifestyle choices and they mostly seek huge compensation from a Church for accusing a member of the Church of abusing them sexually, all the accusers need to do is talk about the Church member and obtain a miniscule amount of information so they can author a story and make the accusation to a law firm and publish it on Google, then they might get millions or billions of dollars that would otherwise save lives. It is a scam. Whatever Jensen did was not a scam and it was crime. The Defendants aim to destroy the Church and render our children deprived and place us at an increased risk. That is abuse of at-risk persons and children.

I have been like my entire family and 20 million other members of the church, active and involved with the Church for decades. The entire Church was sued and the accusers attacked our tithing funds which supplies aid to people who are actually unable to voice the abuse they actually suffer in foreign nations and in this Country.

By attacking the Church and our charity and claiming it is my practice the accusers are accusing me of practicing sex abuse. The entire church could testify that it is not our practice and would likely have records that would prove that the accusers only became involved with the church for free food or charity, decades later after learning that the Church has a reported large amount of money, and influenced by radical political agendas, people began to grab at the Churches hard earned money and our tithing money. I am not representing the Church at this time. The Church is good enough that they did not put up much of a fight or raise a commotion, that is not the practice of the Church Leadership.

Should 20 million members testify against the lawsuits? It is after all our money; it is after all our practice. We do not want to pay attention to the accusers, we never did. The accusers simply wish I was a sex abuser.

There is a wave of video ads being published in view of the entire public. Numerous law firms are publishing reports that my faith and the practice of the Church is sex abuse and that the Church is concealing thousands of rapes and child molestation. The ads report that thousands have been substantially compensated, the ads report the estimated net worth of the Church and the ads report that individuals have been awarded billions of dollars for accusing the Church of sex abuse. The ads coach viewers about what titles or roles there are in the Church, the ads report that one does not need to file a police report and that it does not matter how long ago one was raped or sexually abused by a member of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, basically, the ads coach the public that if they can identify a member of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, they can simply accuse that member of rape and the law firm will sue the Church as a whole.

The ads are targeting members of the Church; the ads are luring people with promises of millions of dollars for accusing members of the church of rape and sex abuse. The ads incite, intentionally, persecution of a faith, a religion and false accusations of sex abuse and rape.

The ads promise huge pay outs.

The ads promote the attack of the Churches money, which is the result of 20 million members work and contributions and which funds charities and life saving aid around the world. The ads attack the needy and at-risk persons who the Churches charity helps and aids. The ads do cause the deprivation and abuse of at-risk people who cannot have a voice in the third world circumstances they reside.

I do not care about the few people who were members of the church and who went to prison for allegations of sex abuse, that is the proper procedure, report felony sex offenses to the proper authorities, police for arrest and investigation. The law firms who are filing lawsuits and report that no police report is necessary, are in fact refusing to report accusations of felony sex offense to proper authorities, and this is so the law firms can falsify the record and compromise the integrity of Courts in order to file false accusations of rape and sex abuse while they challenge the Church to hire expensive representation or settle for money.

The law firms publishing the video ads, have reported and removed ads published by church missionaries, which are video ads where innocent missionaries invite people to web pages and interactions with sister missionaries, I have reported the unlawful ads to google which incite religious persecution, abuse of at-risk persons and false accusations of rape towards members of the LDS Church. Google will not remove the unlawful ads, yet they silence the lawful speech of innocent church missionaries.

Google censors and is participating in religious persecution and incitement.

The same law firms did litigate settlements involving the Boy Scouts of America, singling out the LDS Church during those lawsuits, and the Boy Scouts are not a component of the Church. I have personally been employed by several good men; non-members of the Church who were devote Boy Scouts and several other persons not members of the Church who were devote Boy Scouts and they report and would testify that there was no sex abuse or sex scandal within the Boy Scouts. The Girl Scouts of America is the exact same practice and why are churches not being persecuted for that practice. The defendants are targeting young men and mostly those of the Catholic and LDS faith.

The Baptist Church is the same practice; the other Christian Churches are the same practice. The defendants are inciting lawless acts to be committed against one faith, the LDS faith. It is hands down, religious persecution with intentions of robbing the Church of innocence and money.

Regardless of the intentions or goals, the defendants practice is unlawful and violates the first amendment and several other laws.

The defendants report in the ads that no police report is necessary and so admits that if a felony rape or sex offense did occur, the defendants do misprision and fail and refuse to report felony acts to proper authorities and instead they file fraudulent lawsuits with intentions of harming the LDS faith. Google is well aware of the law and they have been notified of the incitement, which is not speech protected by the first amendment and after removing lawful speech, they are participating in the offense and have caused damages to my church and so me personally while my church pays millions of dollars for settlements surrounding false accusations of rape and sex offenses against members of the LDS Church, but only the white men who are members of the Church.

I personally have been accused of rape, and it is the result of the offenses, I was seen speaking to a missionary by a transgender who was standing outside of a bar in an alley in Longmont Colorado. I couldn't walk at the time the church was helping me when I lost the ability to walk for 6 years and while I was untreated for Type One Juvenile Diabetes.

The transgender man was drunk and rushed me and tried to make me kiss him by force. I slapped the man in the face. I was arrested and charged with domestic violence. I'm not gay and I don't know the man. The man's name is Darryl Cleavland. Darryl went onto sue, or attempt to sue a pastor at the Lutheran Church, The Heart of Longmont Church claiming the pastor tried to coerce sex. Darryl was allowed to sleep at the Church and was later trespassed. I know because I had to get food and aid at that Church later on.

I have been accused of trying to rape and murder kids. My life became an open book because of news offenses which this Court is familiar with and I have no fear of reporting any detail of my life, this Court is very familiar and is familiar with the false accusations of rape and murder.

The members of my Church are Black, White, Male, Female, Young and Old. They are family. It is humiliating and destructive to be falsely accused of raping kids.

The accusations are not reported to law enforcement by the defendants, but are published. The Defendants are ruining the Churches livelihood and want to halt the Church from doing good deeds for needy people.

I am personally being accused of practicing sex abuse of children by the defendants and the defendants are targeting me and are inciting false accusations of rape and sex abuse, while promising assailants big cash pay outs by the Church.

DOJ-RLC Comment-002787

Google is aware of this and Google is the platform where the ads are aired and Google removes the decent and lawful publications by church members, but promotes and airs the defamatory and destructive airings published by the defendants. Google has participated in the Church, and all the members being persecuted for false accusations of rape. This has led to immense pay outs by my church, and not individuals who are not the practice, and further more the accusations are doubtful and may have led to persons becoming imprisoned for false accusations of rape, that is not my concern however it is a fact that the defendants are inciting felonious acts and false accusations of rape to be carried out against Church members, the Defendants need to be all inclusive and accuse every Christian of rape. The Defendants incite the offense; the Defendants are responsible for immense damages and religious persecution. If the Defendants would propose that they have not falsely accused me or my church family of sex abuse and rape, then they did cause and incite the offense and they can seek damages from the supposed thousands of people reporting that my practice is rape. In some of the ads, which are both forms written and video aired and published repeatedly and abroad, the defendants report about sex offenses involving the FLDS Church and sex abuse claims involving that organization. They report that the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints is responsible for sex abuse and is liable for claims of rape and sex abuse involving the other Church. The FLDS

DOJ-RLC Comment-002788

Church is not affiliated with the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints, and never has been it is not the same practice or institution and so the Defendants in fact falsely accuse my Church of rape and sex abuse allegedly taking place in a completely separate church. If the Defendants are truly seeking justice and are driven to report and stop sex abuse and scandals involving my Church, and they are inciting persecution against our practice, then they need to advertise and persecute the entire church and every member. I wish the defendants would carry out the practice in another country where most members of the church reside. The defendants demonstrate their actual intentions and malpractice by not attacking the deprived and needy church members living in third world countries, those members are assumed to be poor and don't possess the money which the defendants seek from the members living in America. It is disgraceful that the money the defendants are able to get by inciting false accusations of rape against members of the church in America, is what little relief third world country survivors would enjoy.

The attack is always aiming at children and therefore the defendants need to get something out of children, useful towards the fraudulent lawsuits and that is actual child abuse and the subject of what they need kids to say in support of fraudulent lawsuits accusing me and the practice of sex scandal and child rape, is sexually oriented and is in fact grooming children, any the defendants can manipulate and use, with sexual content.

I live in the State of Colorado. Part of elementary school curriculum now involves sixth graders being asked if they are comfortable in their own skin and if not, they are told they may be transgender or sexually oriented, regardless this is grooming the children for sexual activities. The Federal Court dismissed claims filed by parents arguing this fact. It is an equal protection issue and is very obvious that the Defendants are part of a radical new agenda, or one of those such as cancel culture, and it is assumed that the Church is all Republican and white men by these radical and totally ignorant movements and agendas, regardless the defendants demonstrate the desire and willingness to destroy a culture, and one that is protected by the Constitution. The Defendants and their practice take aim at young white boys. The Defendants' practice threatens the future and I and attempt to destroy the Country, or at least a significant portion of the Country, and a religion through incitement. The Defendants are liable for the damages they have caused to a religion. I am part of the religion and have suffered damages personally. I have kids. They likely don't appreciate their dad, their mom and family being accused of rape and sexually abusing kids. The entire church numbers 20 million members and now a couple hundred people are accusing the men, women, children and elderly of the church of sex abuse. The damages sought are for the amounts of damages the incited persecution and false accusations of rape against the practice and the Churches tithing and investment funds that are being preoccupied. The entire Church is paying for accusations of other churches raping and sexually abusing kids.

The Courts that even entertain this, practice incarcerating people. It is well known that men get raped and preyed on in those institutions. When I was arrested for slapping a gay man having tried to force me to make out with him randomly, I was charged with domestic violence as though I were gay and I am not. That is the same extent of sexual grooming as the defendants are filing lawsuits and attacking an innocent institution over. I propose that I be allowed to sue every transgender person and every church and every state who practices jailing anyone where there are gender identifying labels. I will file that claim and if it is dismissed then the claims and antics of these defendants must be dismissed and blocked. Also, because I can't sue a State due to constitutional immunities whose practice it is to sexually abuse people in jails and prisons, and because the Defendants are likewise not allowed to persecute a religion because of constitutional immunities and protections, then the damages they have achieved are owed to me and my religion. By reporting and publishing statements and accusations that the members of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints and the Church in General is practicing sex abuse and is concealing it, and at the same time as the Defendants admit that they don't even require a police report, the Defendants admit that they are not entitled to protection under the First Amendment to publish the untrue statements because the statements are not information supplied by a criminal investigation or governmental agency and are therefore not issues of public interest, it is in fact in the Defendants interest to not violate the First Amendment and persecute a religion and incite lawless acts and felonious false accusations of rape to be committed against a religious people. It is in Googles best interest to not censor truth and incite the religious persecution as well. When I, a member of the Church reported to Google that the ads are inciting felonious and damaging offenses against a religion and mine in particular, they reported back stating that they cannot remove the ads. Yet Google removed and censored the lawful ads published by young women members of the Church when the Defendants reported those ads. It is censoring and for religious persecutions sake, and has caused severe harms. Some of the accusers, are men, actually most of them are. They generally accuse that many decades ago a male church member sexually abused them as if they would remember anyway. In the past, the LDS church was accused of discrimination against transgender practices. Now the recent accusers are accusing that the Churches practice is transgender oriented sex abuse. This is a blatant contradiction and it all becomes very obvious that the Defendants are interested in two things, destroying a faith and taking money from the needy people who cannot have a voice in the matter, and who the church supplies medicine, money and other forms of aid to.

This action is taken against the current incitement and religious persecutions described. I would wager, that if the reports were lawfully filed with law enforcement, the findings would accuse the Defendants of incitement and the people that fall for the Defendants scam, would likely, for the most part, be charged with felonious false reporting of sex offenses. This is likely why the Defendants don't require police reports, and it is likely that the Defendants won't file claims if there were police reports.

The Defendants are guilty of inciting lawless acts and felony offense of falsely accusing Christians of sex offense.

The Defendants are not entitled to First Amendment protection for the speech accusing me and my church members of rape and sex offense when they know the statements are false and are not information supplied by criminal investigations.

The Defendants are guilty of perjury and falsifying legal records by entering the false statements on record.

The Defendants are guilty of fraud, collusion and compromising the integrity of the legal system while persecuting a good faith with no charges, warrants or probable cause.

DOJ-RLC Comment-002793

In the Western States most have encountered a member of the Church and know very well why the members are loved and welcomed, especially by those who get free food and money upon request, and without membership in the Church. The ridiculing and heckling bloggers are typically viewers of the ads and are desperate for the Churches attention and are prone to attack innocent church members and falsely accuse them of sex abuse, typically homosexual sex abuse.

I file these claims on my own behalf for my civil rights being violated by the Defendants.

My current roommate has Parkinsons. He chose to become a member of the Church and loves it, and they love him. They help him with living and medicine. Should I fear leaving him alone with members of the Church who are always accompanied by other members?

The Defendants practice is disgraceful and is destructive as well as is reported to authorities like the F.C.C. and this Court, as well it is religious persecution for money. The Defendants don't care about those they are harming, mostly residents in third world nations and children. I wish another would accuse me of rape again, I know how to litigate, and unlike the Church leaders, I will with ferocity. The Defendants are accusing my practice and so me, of rape and sex abuse, and are inciting the public to commit felony offense and while promising huge cash payouts.

The practice must stop as a matter of law, and the speech can be silenced legally. This Court is compelled to report the incitement and religious persecution to the F.C.C. and the Dept of Justice.

The activities make it consequential to practice Christian faith. The activities threaten to cause severe harm to members of the Church for practicing Christian faith. That is religious persecution and does violate the First Amendment. When Google silences the decent and wholesome ads by the young church members, they silence speech on public forums and silence faith-based speech and that is religious persecution. Both violate civil rights of 20 million members of the Church.

See Below,

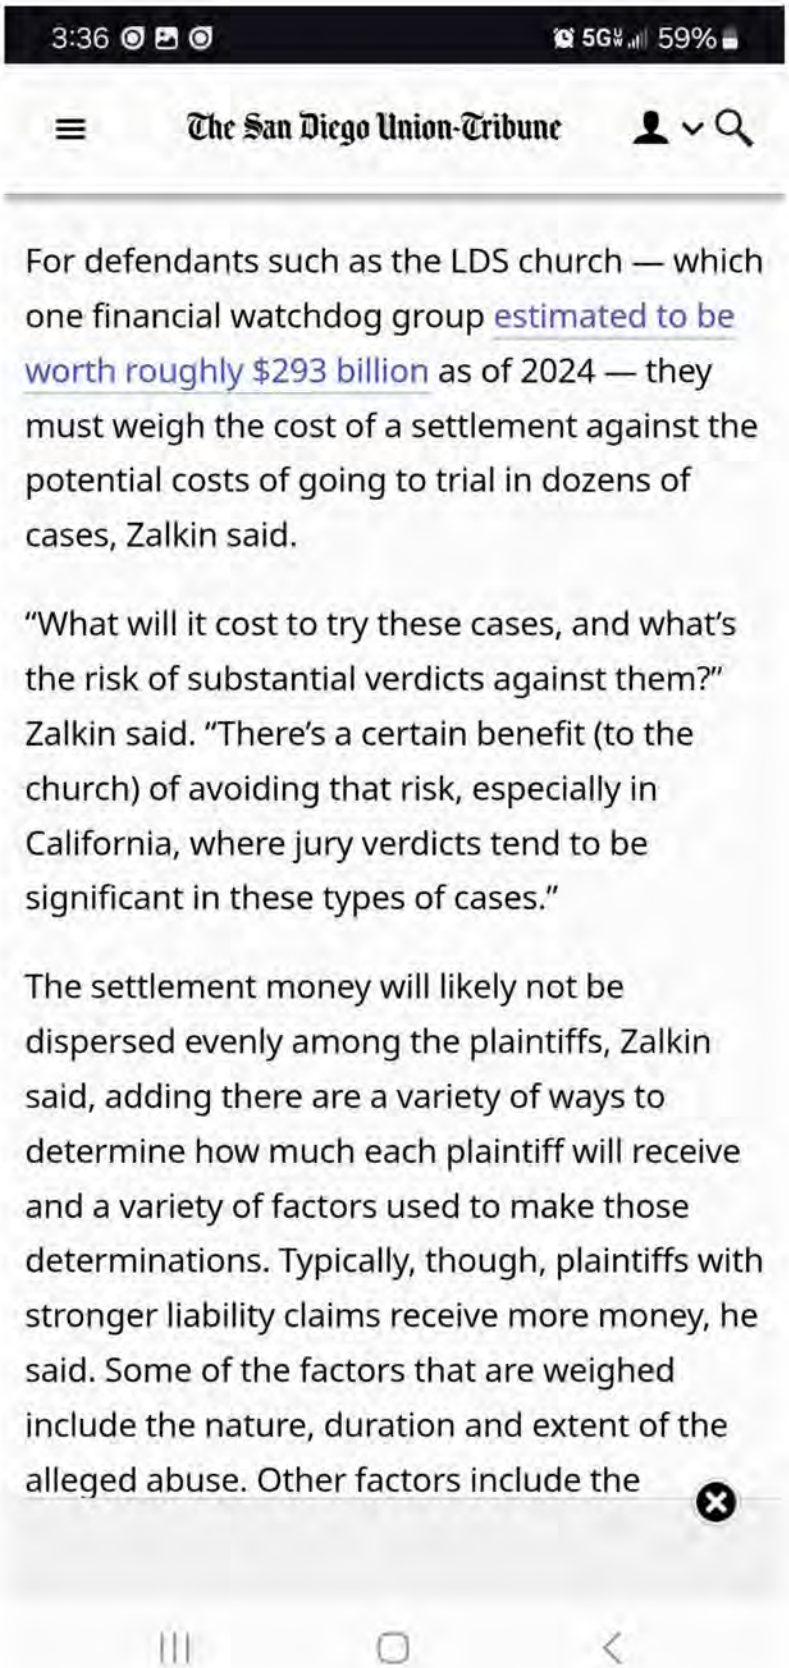
The FLDS are not even a Church to my knowledge, and that is definitely not any affiliate of my Church and practice and this defendant boasts that the Boy Scouts of America was completely dismantled by fraudulent claims attacking the LDS Church only, attacking me personally and my practice when there was no involvement with sex abuse or sex scandals from my practice or my Church members in the Boy Scouts organization, I was never a Boy Scout. The attack was driven by the accusations against a completely different Church or organization and the claims of sex abuse involving the Boy Scouts are not common antics with the Girl Scouts.

Below is ultimately the cause of the disgraceful and unlawful practice and assault.

DOJ-RLC Comment-002797



For defendants such as the LDS church — which one financial watchdog group estimated to be worth roughly $293 billion as of 2024 — they must weigh the cost of a settlement against the potential costs of going to trial in dozens of cases, Zalkin said.

"What will it cost to try these cases, and what's the risk of substantial verdicts against them?" Zalkin said. "There's a certain benefit (to the church) of avoiding that risk, especially in California, where jury verdicts tend to be significant in these types of cases."

The settlement money will likely not be dispersed evenly among the plaintiffs, Zalkin said, adding there are a variety of ways to determine how much each plaintiff will receive and a variety of factors used to make those determinations. Typically, though, plaintiffs with stronger liability claims receive more money, he said. Some of the factors that are weighed include the nature, duration and extent of the alleged abuse. Other factors include the

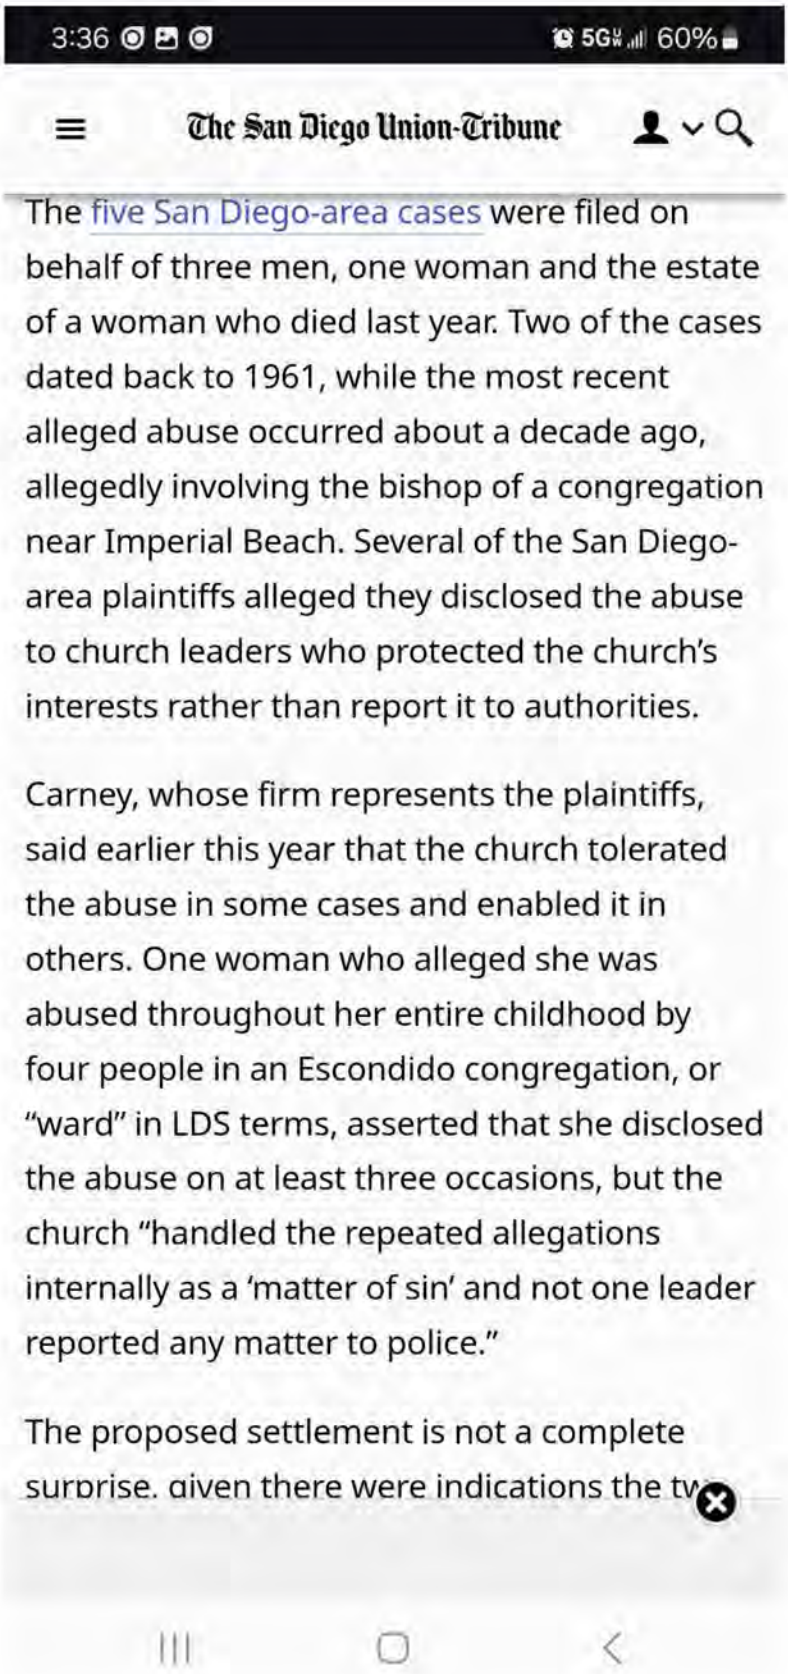
These defendants feel that they can take hundreds of billions of dollars by force, and they believe they have to get past the white men and harm them by harming their children who are members of the Church. The Defendants promise the public a cut if they will accuse any member of the Church of sex offense.

DOJ-RLC Comment-002799



DOJ-RLC Comment-002800

Above displays the age of the claims, also displayed is the accusers admitting they refused to report to police claiming they instead reported rape to Church roles multiple times over the span of decades. The Defendants are obligated to report to police; rape, and do not because that would render them liable for making false police reports about sex offense. The defendants misprision for fraudulent purposes and religious persecution.

DOJ-RLC Comment-002801

DOJ-RLC Comment-002802

As can be seen above, the Defendant claims that the Church is the Mormon Church, and that is not the Church that is a book and the defendant claims that Mormons primarily belong to the Church of Latter Day Saints, it's the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, and the Defendant claims there are 250,000 members, there are 20 million, also the Defendant claims that the headquarters is in Missouri, our world wide headquarters is in Salt Lake City. The Defendants do not care about facts, they do not want the people they incite to falsely accuse me and my practice of rape to file police reports they simply want the Churches tithing money and to cancel our religion and culture which is decent and wholesome. This proves that the Defendants will collect any false statements and file fraudulent claims in order to damage a religion and get paid for doing so.

Maxwell Hemric Statement of Claims

I became a member of The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints after months of visiting home missionaries provided me with aid and love. I was adopted into the family and faith, it is a Christian faith and I have severe Parkinsons. The Church and the other members give me care. I was ordained a priest by my best friend, another critically disabled person whom the Church gives life saving aid to, Edward Hoid. We were both in despair and likely to die without help, which we could not get anywhere.

DOJ-RLC Comment-002803

I am being accused of sex abuse for the faith and practice, like all the members of the Church and this is being incited by the Defendants for malicious purposes and while they are desperate to take away from the Church and this takes away from me and my livelihood. I am being affected by the same incited offenses as every member of the church and I concur with the statements of Edward Hoid, the litigation involves the same incidents and offenses being committed in an exact fashion against both Plaintiffs in this action and by the same Defendants. The public are lured into identifying a member of the Church, my practice and to accuse us of sex abuse while the Defendants promise huge cash pay outs for doing so and if they sue the Church while falsely accusing me or any member of the Church of rape. I am being persecuted because of my religion.

I am an at-risk person, I have Parkinsons and I am increasingly vulnerable to abuse and I am at risk because of my severe impairment.

I respectfully move the Court in accordance with FRCP 20 to invoke permissive joinder of the parties and plaintiffs. I raise the exact same claims having suffered the exact same harms by the exact same Defendants and so the Claims presented now are both my claims and those of Edward Hoid. This is a class action, there could result the exact same claims being raised by numerous other people who suffer the same harm by the same offenses and defendants.

Above is an example of surveys the public can submit and the survey teaches the public what to call the person who they will accuse of rape, i.e. Bishop, Elder, etc.

Claim Two; Asserted Against; Select Justice LLC

Legal Malpractice-18 USC § 287-Federal False Claims (perjury), Fraud

The Defendant is entering false claims on federal record accusing my practice of raping kids and of sex abuse, and while attempting to defraud the Church by doing so.

Claim Three; Asserted Against; Select Justice LLC

Violations of the First Amendment

The Defendant is persecuting me for my religious faith. The Defendant is threatening me by inciting lawless acts and false accusations of rape by the public, whom they promise to make rich for doing so, the Defendant threatens to cause harm for me practicing my faith.

The Defendant is threatening the religion with consequences for the religious practice. The Defendant is inciting offense to be committed against a religion. The Defendant reported wholesome ads and videos in order to have the ads blocked and removed because the wholesome videos contradict the untrue statements the

Defendant publishes, proven untrue when the Defendant accuses the LDS Church members of sex abuse because of allegations against an FLDS Church.

The Defendant silences lawful speech and religious speech by reporting and blocking the lawful ads.

Claim Four; Asserted Against; Select Justice LLC

Child Abuse, Abuse of at-Risk Persons

I am an at-risk person. Millions of high-risk persons residing in many nations depend on the Church for food, medicine and life. I did. The Defendant is determined to deprive these at-risk people of the vital resources supplied by the Church. That is abuse of at-risk people. The false accusations have at times involved children being forced to tell stories of events that never occurred and those stories are sexual in content. That is grooming children with sexual content. The few instances of sex offense anywhere and involving any creed or religious type person result in police reports and child protective services intervention, that is the lawful procedure and anytime that was not the practice and which happens to be the case for most of the claims the Defendant files, the Defendant is guilty of misprision and conceals sex offense in that way.

DOJ-RLC Comment-002810

Damages

The damages are obvious, children in the church are humiliated and harassed. The Defendant incites the public to target any member of the Church and to claim sex abuse in order for the Defendant to get money and fees. The false accusations don't require prosecutions and the Defendant undoubtedly collects an up-front fee or portions of settlements they are not entitled to. The Defendant causes the Church and myself financial burdens. The Defendant is depriving very needy people around the world of the only resources they get. It is humiliating and damages individuals' reputations when they are accused of practicing sex scandals and child sex abuse because of their faith. The Defendant is causing harm to families. This harm does affect children of the good men being falsely accused of rape. In a monetary sense the damages to my practice are boasted to be hundreds of millions of dollars.

Claim Five; Asserted Against; Dolman Law Group

Defamation Per Se, Incitement

The Defendant is frequently airing on YouTube and other media broadcasting platforms, accusations that my practice, the LDS faith is sex abuse of children. The Defendant is deliberately inciting the public to identify me or any person who is a member of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints and promises large cash pay outs to the public for falsely accusing me and any identified member of the Church of sex offense. The Defendant admits not having protection, when they urge the public to not make a report with police. The Defamatory speech is not information supplied by a criminal investigation and therefore it is in the public's interest for the Defendant to not publish the defamatory statements and to not incite the public to commit felonious offense against members, including me, of the LDS faith with promises of huge cash pay outs for doing so.

Claim Six; Asserted Against; Dolman Law Group

Legal Malpractice-18 USC § 287-Federal False Claims (perjury), Fraud

The Defendant is entering false claims on federal record accusing my practice of raping kids and of sex abuse, and while attempting to defraud the Church by doing so.

Claim Seven; Asserted Against; Dolman Law Group

Violations of the First Amendment

The Defendant is persecuting me for my religious faith. The Defendant is threatening me by inciting lawless acts and false accusations of rape by the public, whom they promise to make rich for doing so, the Defendant threatens to cause harm for me practicing my faith.

The Defendant is threatening the religion with consequences for the religious practice. The Defendant is inciting offense to be committed against a religion. The Defendant reported wholesome ads and videos in order to have the ads blocked and removed because the wholesome videos contradict the untrue statements the Defendant publishes, proven untrue when the Defendant accuses the LDS Church members of sex abuse because of allegations against an FLDS Church.

The Defendant silences lawful speech and religious speech by reporting and blocking the lawful ads.

Claim Eight; Asserted Against; Dolman Law Group

Child Abuse, Abuse of at-Risk Persons

I am an at-risk person. Millions of high-risk persons residing in many nations depend on the Church for food, medicine and life. I did. The Defendant is determined to deprive these at-risk people of the vital resources supplied by the Church. That is abuse of at-risk people. The false accusations have at times involved children being forced to tell stories of events that never occurred and those stories are sexual in content. That is grooming children with sexual content. The few instances of sex offense anywhere and involving any creed or religious type person result in police reports and child protective services intervention, that is the lawful procedure and anytime that was not the practice and which happens to be the case for most of the claims the Defendant files, the Defendant is guilty of misprision and conceals sex offense in that way.

Damages

The damages are obvious, children in the church are humiliated and harassed. The Defendant incites the public to target any member of the Church and to claim sex abuse in order for the Defendant to get money and fees. The false accusations don't require prosecutions and the Defendant undoubtedly collects an upfront fee or portions of settlements they are not entitled to. The Defendant causes the Church and myself financial burdens. The Defendant is depriving very needy people around the world of the only resources they get. It is humiliating and damages individuals' reputations when they are accused of practicing sex scandals and child sex abuse because of their faith. The Defendant is causing harm to families. This harm does affect children of the good men being falsely accused of rape.

Claim Nine; Asserted Against; Miller and Zois LLC

Defamation Per Se, Incitement

The Defendant is frequently airing on YouTube and other media broadcasting platforms, accusations that my practice, the LDS faith is sex abuse of children. The Defendant is deliberately inciting the public to identify me or any person who is a member of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints and promises large cash pay outs to the public for falsely accusing me and any identified member of the Church of sex offense. The Defendant reports during the ads that the assailants

The Defendant admits not having protection, when they urge the public to not make a report with police. Cases of LDS Mormon Church Sexual Abuse

There have been several notable cases before the wave of recent litigation against the LDS Mormon Church. Some of these include the following:

- Jeremiah Scott: In this case, Scott, a Portland man, sought $1.5 billion in damages from the LDS Mormon Church for withholding knowledge that Franklyn Curtis, an 88-year-old member of the church, was accused of molesting children. Scott alleged that Curtis abused him in 1991 after his mother invited Curtis to live with them. Though Curtis had previously been excommunicated when he was accused of molesting children, when he went to live with the Scotts, the church restored his membership and gave him the title of high priest. The Church paid $3 million as a settlement.

victims allege that the church officials never reported to authorities about the abuse the victims reported to the church officials. The lawsuits claim that bishops would tell the victims to remain quiet so that the church would conduct its own investigation. Yet, the church investigations rarely punished abusers, allowing them to continue in their roles or be transferred to different troops.

In June 2020, 72-year-old Joseph Neipp, a former Bishop in San Jose, was accused of sexually abusing two sisters. A lawsuit was filed against the Church itself as well, claiming they knew about the abuse and could have prevented it from happening but failed to do so.

In February 2021, David Hiser, an Oregon man, came forward alleging that he experienced sexual abuse at the hands of a youth leader in the Church back in the 1980s. His lawsuit alleges that the Utah-based church failed to protect him even though there were warning signs from the abuser and the television and radio, I reported to Google that people have accused me of rape and it was destructive. DOJ-RLC Comment-002851

Google refuses to remove the unlawful speech knowing it is persecution and inciting lawless acts to be committed against an innocent religious group. Google did allow for the lawful speech to be removed. The defendants have succeeded at causing massive harm through this means. Google censors and accommodates religious persecution while silencing free speech and perpetuating unlawful defamatory offense that incites persecution and false accusations of rape launched at members of the Church which includes me.

Conclusion

The First Amendment and right to practice religion are a fundamental legal principle and this is therefore an issue of public significance, especially because of the number of people being affected by the offenses and religious persecution.

Subject: [EXTERNAL] Inquiry about an AI-integrated Bible curricula IDEA for K-12
Date: Mon, 08 Sep 2025 11:41:24 -0400
Importance: Normal

Dear Religious Liberty Commission Team,

I hope this email finds you well. My name is Amanda Gardner and I'm a widowed single mother to a beautiful daughter in elementary school, entrepreneur, journalist, Moms For Liberty NJ District 38 Leader, community leader and church member who's passionate about using AI technology to uphold religious freedoms and foster moral education back in our nation's schools. Patriotism was taken from the last generation of children and with President Trump at the helm, this is our time to bring back teachings of America's history, our Founding Fathers and the connection we have as a nation to the Bible and faith.

I am writing this to pitch an innovative idea for an add-on feature to an AI platform, called Patriot.AI, which I believe aligns closely with the Commission's mission to protect and promote religious liberty in the United States. Patriot.AI is an advanced artificial intelligence tool designed to empower children, individuals and communities with personalized, values-based learning and decision-making support. It draws on American principles of freedom, patriotism, and ethical guidance to help users navigate modern life while reinforcing foundational virtues.

As a curriculum specifically tailored for K-12 students, Patriot.AI's Bible Curriculum Module would integrate interactive AI-driven experiences to make the Bible accessible, engaging, and profoundly personal for each user. Imagine students using AI to explore biblical stories through customized narratives, simulations of historical events, virtually walking through the signing of the Declaration of Independence, with AI narrating dynamically to their excitement or curiosity, exploring Biblical principles tied to America's founding. Including daily reflective prompts that adapt to their age, learning style, and personal interests; turning ancient teachings into relatable, everyday applications. This isn't just education; it's an emotional journey that reignites patriotism and faith in a time when both are at risk.

This feature would not only teach the history and narratives of the Bible but also guide students in implementing its teachings into their daily lives. For instance, AI could generate scenario-based lessons where a child learns about forgiveness, stewardship, and compassion in a simulated environmental project. By making the Bible interactive and individualized, it ensures that children absorb these timeless truths in a way that resonates deeply, building character, empathy, and resilience from a young age.

The importance of this initiative cannot be overstated, especially in today's educational landscape. Religious liberty is a cornerstone of our nation's founding, yet many schools face challenges in incorporating faith-based education without infringing on diverse beliefs. Patriot.AI's module respects these boundaries by offering an opt-in, parent-approved tool that empowers families to instill biblical values at home or in supplemental curricula, free from government overreach. In an era where children are bombarded with secular influences, this AI add-on would safeguard religious expression by equipping the next generation with the moral compass of the Bible promoting virtues like integrity, honesty, and justice that echo America's Judeo-Christian heritage. Ultimately, it helps prevent the erosion of these principles, ensuring that our children grow into responsible citizens who live out biblical teachings in their interactions, decisions, and communities. My mission is to ensure kids, including my own, grow up with the knowledge and pride to thrive in today's society.

I would greatly appreciate the opportunity to discuss this proposal further and explore how it might support the Commission's efforts in advising on religious liberty policies/faith-based education. Could we schedule a brief call or meeting to share more details so we can bring this idea to reality?

Thank you for your time and dedication to protecting religious freedoms. I look forward to your response.

Kind Regards,
Amanda Gardner

I'm the pastor of a small church in Tacoma, WA. Since 2010 we have participated in after school programs at a local elementary school, bringing the gospel message to children and families who want to participate. This program is called Good News Club. We did not provide a club during COVID. And again, beginning last school year (2024-2025), we have been denied access to providing a club. The local principal and the school district have placed multiple procedural road blocks in our path, usually in the form of obscure administrative requirements which we are not informed about, and when we are informed it is difficult to find the administrative staff who handles this requirement. This typically manifested itself as "don't call us, we'll call you" in order to delay, or deny access This campaign against us pretty much ate up all of the last school year.

Elementary school began on Wednesday, September 3rd. And we have firmly run into the "don't call us, we'll call you" tactic again. The school district has an after school program which they tout called "After the Bell". I think it is run by the local YMCA. It has even been advertised on the school district website. I bring this up because the Supreme Court ruled that religious organizations have equal access to after school program availability if there are any after school programs at all.

I understand that this situation is likely not within the Religious Liberty Commission purview at all. But I have to start somewhere. If you could assist me in reaching the correct governmental department, that would be greatly appreciated. Thank you for your kind consideration.

The President's Religious Liberty Commission
September 3, 2025

Dear Members of the Commission,

My name is Dr. Adam Porcella, Senior Vice President and Provost at Cairn University in Langhorne, Pennsylvania. Along with Dr. Todd Williams, President of Cairn University and Chairman of the Board of Governors of The John Jay Institute, I respectfully request the opportunity for us to address the Commission at its upcoming meeting at the Museum of the Bible in Washington, D.C., on September 29, specifically regarding issues of regulation and accreditation in relation to religious liberty.

Allow me to briefly introduce Cairn University. Founded in 1913, Cairn is a private, evangelical Christian university committed to integrating faith and learning. Our community is grounded in sincerely held religious convictions based on the authority of the Bible, which we affirm as the inspired, authoritative Word of God. At Cairn, we firmly believe that the integrity of biblical higher education depends on a consistent application of historically understood biblical truths to all areas of life, thought, and practice.

Like many Christian colleges and universities committed to teaching from a distinctively biblical perspective, Cairn has faced significant challenges in recent years from accrediting bodies and state agencies. These include the Middle States Commission on Higher Education (MSCHE), the Council on Social Work Education (CSWE), the Council for Accreditation of Counseling and Related Educational Programs (CACREP), and the Pennsylvania Department of Education (PDE).

Several years ago, after more than fifty years of operating a School of Social Work, our Board of Trustees made the difficult decision to close the program. While multiple factors contributed to this decision, an important consideration was the trajectory of CSWE requirements, standards, and cultural commitments that increasingly conflicted with our mission and biblical convictions. Here is an article Dr. Williams wrote not long ago on Cairn's decision to close our School of Social Work due to accreditation overreach from CSWE.

Cairn also recently decided to withdraw from pursuing CACREP accreditation for our counseling program. CACREP required changes that would have fundamentally altered the program's quality and distinctly biblical focus. These changes would have made it difficult, if not impossible, for us to continue educating students to become biblically minded, well-educated, and professionally competent men and women of character who serve Christ as professional counselors.

Our School of Education faced additional challenges when the Pennsylvania Department of Education adopted the Culturally Relevant and Sustaining Education (CR-SE) Framework in 2022. This framework was designed to shape both educator preparation programs and ongoing professional development throughout the state. Among the competencies, the framework required educators to "Design learning experiences and spaces for learners to identify and question economic, political, and social power structures in the school, community, nation, and world" (CRSES.E). While training students to think critically about structures of power has value, this standard appeared to suggest that authority structures are inherently flawed and untrustworthy. Such a perspective is difficult to reconcile with Scripture, which teaches that authority is instituted by God (Romans 13:1-7; 1 Peter 2:13) and is part of God's design for creation (Matthew 28:18; Philippians 2:10-11).

Even more concerning, several of the CR-SE standards used credal language. For instance, CRSE9.A required educators to "Believe and acknowledge that microaggressions are real." Similarly, CRSE6.A and CRSE7.E adopted the same credal formulation. Such language raised significant constitutional questions because it is nearly impossible to assess the internalization of belief, and because compelling an educator to "believe" appears to require an affirmation of ideological conviction. The establishment of this type of credal language in state standards risked infringing on First Amendment protections.

Unsurprisingly, these standards became the subject of legal scrutiny. In April 2023, several school districts, educators, and parents filed suit against the Pennsylvania Department of Education, arguing that the CR-SE framework compelled ideological beliefs and had been adopted without proper legal procedures. That case concluded in October 2024 with a settlement that rescinded CR-SE and replaced it with a new framework known as the Common Ground Framework, which removed some of the most prescriptive and credal elements.

Dr. Williams and I would be honored to share with the Commission Cairn University's experiences in navigating these challenges. We believe they raise significant questions about the boundaries of accreditation, the overreach of accrediting bodies, the protections of religious liberty, and the rights of faith-based institutions to remain faithful to their convictions while continuing to provide excellent education. It would be our privilege to provide any perspective and experiences that might aid in the advisement of our nation's leaders and policy makers.

We are grateful for the Commission's important work and respectfully request the opportunity to present at your September 29 meeting. Please let us know how we might serve you and the Commission's mission.

Sincerely,

Dear Honorable Members of the Religious Liberty Commission and Director Bush,

We pray that God moves your hearts to embrace the message in this letter and feel compassion for the countless families enduring hardship and persecution for their faith. On behalf of Guiding the Impact, a coalition of religious liberty and medical liberty advocates and faith leaders, we extend our heartfelt gratitude for your steadfast leadership in advancing the cause of religious freedom in education.

With your upcoming hearings on September 8th and September 29th focused on religious liberty in education, we respectfully urge you to include an agenda item on the recently introduced GRACE Act (Guaranteeing Religious Accommodation in Childhood Education Act), sponsored by Congressman Greg Steube.

This bill addresses what we believe is one of the most grievous violations of religious liberty in education today: children in states such as New York, California, Connecticut, and Maine are being barred from schools simply because their families uphold religious convictions regarding vaccination. Denying a child access to education based on their faith is a profound injustice that demands urgent national attention and immediate action by your Commision and the President.

Attached is a policy memo on the GRACE Act, which we believe is directly relevant to your hearings. While the GRACE Act represents a critical step toward ensuring no child in America is excluded from the classroom for honoring their family's beliefs, families need relief now. Including this issue in the September 8th or September 29th hearings would underscore its urgency and amplify the voices of families currently facing persecution.

Thank you for considering this request. I would be honored to provide additional information, testify in person, or connect you with families directly impacted by these policies.

With gratitude,
Elyse Young
Founder, Guiding the Impact

GUIDING the IMPACT

The GRACE Act and Religious Liberty in Education

Background

- On August 29, 2025, Congressman Greg Steube (FL-17) introduced the GRACE Act (Guaranteeing Religious Accommodation in Childhood Education Act).
- The bill prohibits federal education funding to schools and agencies that deny students religious exemptions from vaccination requirements for classroom attendance, athletics, and other activities.
- This legislation addresses the urgent crisis in states such as New York, California, Connecticut, and Maine, where children are barred from schools because their families uphold religious convictions regarding vaccination.

Why This Matters for the September 8th and September 29th Hearings

The Religious Liberty Commission's upcoming hearings on religious liberty in education provide a critical platform to address:

- One of the most severe violations of religious liberty in education today: the exclusion of children from schools based on their families' faith.
- A direct infringement of the First Amendment's Free Exercise Clause, undermining the constitutional rights of families.
- A real-world crisis impacting countless families across multiple states, who face educational exclusion, legal penalties, or economic hardship.

Key Points on the GRACE Act

- Restores fairness: Ensures equitable treatment by requiring religious exemptions where medical exemptions are permitted.
- Protects families of faith: Guarantees that no child is denied education for honoring their beliefs.
- Broad precedent: Forty-six states already balance public health and religious liberty by allowing exemption, demonstrating a workable model.
- Constitutional grounding: Conditions federal education funds in a narrowly tailored manner, designed to withstand judicial scrutiny.

Why Urgent Action by the Religious Liberty Commission and the President Is Critical

- Families in affected states are suffering immediate harm -- denied education, facing legal penalties, or forced into economic hardship due to their faith.
- The GRACE Act offers a concrete, active legislative response to this crisis.
- Including the GRACE Act in the September 8th or September 29th hearings would amplify the voices of impacted families, underscore the Commission's commitment to religious liberty, and urge swift presidential action through an Executive Order to provide immediate relief.

Dear Chair Patrick, Vice Chair Carson, and members of the Religious Liberty Commission:

On behalf of Americans United for Separation of Church and State, we write to the Commission to outline the historic landscape of religious liberty in public education; explain the threats to religious liberty that come from policymakers; provide examples of how students' and families' religious liberty is violated in public schools and the grave harms they face for taking action to protect their rights; and recommend that the Commission work to secure everyone's religious liberty in public education.

Founded in 1947, Americans United is a nonpartisan educational and advocacy organization dedicated to preserving the constitutional principle of church-state separation, which is the foundation of true religious freedom for all Americans. We fight to protect the right of individuals and religious communities to practice religion—or not—as they see fit without government interference, compulsion, support, or disparagement. We represent people of all faiths and none and have a network of more than 380,000 members and supporters across the country.

Americans United is the only organization in the country dedicated solely to defending and promoting the separation of church and state. Our 78-year legacy of protecting religious freedom and expertise as an organization staffed with constitutional lawyers means that we are uniquely positioned to offer guidance and information for your discussion of religious liberty issues in public education.

Religious freedom is a fundamental American value and a cornerstone of our democracy that is meant to be a shield that protects and should not be used as a sword to discriminate. But our national history of religious freedom has been misrepresented and misused by those who wish to use the government to promote only their religion and to force others to live by their religious beliefs. The true threats to religious freedom in this country come from Christian Nationalists and their extremist allies that are working to erode the separation of church and state and impose their specific set of values on all Americans.[1] Efforts to undermine religious freedom are especially egregious in our public schools, where families and students suffer the most harm.

In our diverse society, America's public schools are a unifying factor among people of different religions and beliefs. One of the hallmarks of public education is that it is secular and accepts all students, regardless of what religion—if any—they follow. When public schools promote religion or coerce students to participate in it, departing from the neutrality required by the Constitution, it weakens public schools, and undermines students' and families' religious liberties.

Historic Landscape of Religious Liberty in the Public Education Setting

Students' religious freedom rights are guaranteed by the Establishment Clause and Free Exercise Clause of the First Amendment to the United States Constitution. Religious freedom ensures that students and their families—not politicians or public school officials—get to decide whether and how to engage with religion. No student should ever be made to feel excluded, whether it's in a classroom or a locker room, because they don't share the religious beliefs of their teachers, coaches, or fellow students. And no parent should have to worry that their child is receiving religious instruction in a public school.

In recent decisions, the Supreme Court has held that the Establishment Clause "must be interpreted 'by reference to historical practices and understandings,'" and that the "'line' . . . 'between the permissible and the impermissible' has to 'accor[d] with history and faithfully reflec[t] the understanding of the Founding Fathers.'"[2] Helpfully, the Court itself has explained the historical understanding of the meaning of the First Amendment at the founding and the relevant historical practices.

The Supreme Court explained more than 60 years ago that the Establishment Clause was in part based "upon an awareness of the historical fact that governmentally established religions and religious persecutions go hand in hand."[3] Our Founders knew "from bitter personal experience, that one of the greatest dangers to the freedom of the individual to worship in his own way lay in the Government's placing its official stamp of approval upon one particular kind of prayer or one particular form of religious services."[4] Accordingly, the Establishment Clause's "first and most immediate purpose rested on the belief that a union of government and religion tends to destroy government and to degrade religion."[5] "The Establishment Clause thus stands as an expression of principle on the part of the Founders of our Constitution that religion is too personal, too sacred, too holy to permit its 'unhallowed perversion' by a civil magistrate."[6]

The Establishment Clause requires a "wholesome 'neutrality'" with respect to religion, which "stems from a recognition of the teachings of history that powerful sects or groups might bring about a fusion of governmental and religious functions," which "the Establishment Clause prohibits."[7] Specifically, the government may not "promote one religion or religious theory against another or even against the militant opposite" because the First Amendment "mandates governmental neutrality between religion and religion, and between religion and nonreligion."[8] This includes a prohibition on the government coercing anyone to participate in religion. Indeed, just three years ago, Justice Gorsuch explained that the government coercion of religion "was among the foremost hallmarks of religious establishments the framers sought to prohibit when they adopted the First Amendment."[9]

These principles are particularly important for public school students. The Supreme Court has long recognized "there are heightened concerns with protecting freedom of conscience from subtle coercive pressure in the elementary and secondary public schools."[10] Because students are "impressionable, and their attendance is involuntary," courts must be "particularly vigilant in monitoring compliance with the Establishment Clause in elementary and secondary schools."[11]

Students are especially vulnerable to the coercion (subtle or otherwise) and influence of their teachers and coaches. Teachers and coaches have tremendous authority over students, and vast power over students' experiences. They assign students' grades, decide whether they get playing time, write college recommendations, and can make or break their shot at an athletic scholarship. Students know that disappointing a teacher or coach, such as by refusing to join them in prayer, could jeopardize their school experience—or their future.

This tremendous potential for coercion has led the Supreme Court to repeatedly hold that public schools, school officials, and school employees are forbidden to sponsor, support, lead, initiate, participate in, arrange for, or encourage prayer involving students or otherwise to promote religion to students.[12] In Lee v. Weisman, for example, the Court held that a school violated the Establishment Clause's prohibition against religious coercion when a public school invited a member of the clergy to deliver prayers at a middle school graduation ceremony.[13] And in Santa Fe Independent School District v. Doe, the Court prohibited a public high school from offering student-led, student-initiated invocations at football games because "[t]hese invocations are authorized by a government policy and take place on government property at government-sponsored school-related events."[14]

The Constitution's prohibition against public school-sponsored religion is not limited to school-sponsored prayer. For example, nearly 80 years ago, in McCollum v. Board of Education, the Court invalidated a public school program that invited religious instructors to provide religious instruction in classrooms during the school day.[15] The Court explained that the Establishment Clause prohibits using a "tax-supported school system in aid of religious instruction."[16] The Court also struck down a law requiring public schools to post the Ten Commandments in every classroom, explaining its only effect would be to "induce schoolchildren to read, meditate upon, perhaps to venerate and obey, the Commandments," which is barred by the Establishment Clause.[17] In order to protect against school sponsored religion, federal courts have also struck down displays of religious items[18] and distribution of religious texts[19] in schools.

The historic landscape of religious liberty in public education is one that protects the religious freedom of all students and their families, regardless of their specific religious beliefs. It is one that guarantees a student the right to pray, or otherwise engage with religion, in school so long as it is voluntary, non-disruptive, student-led, and student-initiated while also ensuring the school does not sponsor prayer or allow employees to initiate or participate in these practices with students. The United States is home to more than 2,000 religious groups, traditions, denominations, and sects.[20] This diversity of thought and religion is one of our nation's greatest assets, and public schools should foster an environment where everyone feels welcome and included. That's why the government is constitutionally required to remain neutral between religions, and between religion and nonreligion.

Present Threats to Religious Liberty in the Public Education Setting from Policymakers

In the past few years, there has been an increase in threats to religious liberty in public schools through harmful state legislation and policies.

Religious Public Charter Schools

A hallmark of our public schools, including public charter schools, is that they are open to all students and do not teach religion nor instill religious beliefs in students.

Yet in 2023, the Oklahoma Statewide Virtual Charter School Board approved the nation's first religious public charter school, St. Isidore of Seville Catholic Virtual School. The school, which would have been controlled by the Catholic Archdiocese of Oklahoma City and the Diocese of Tulsa, demanded the right to receive taxpayer funding to operate as a public school while simultaneously operating "as a Catholic School," integrating religious teaching into every aspect of the school. St. Isidore's policies and practices would have discriminated against students, families, and employees on the basis of the school's religious beliefs.

The Constitution ensures that public schools do not teach religious curriculum. This protects the religious freedom of public school students, their families, and taxpayers by ensuring that public-school students are not forced into religious instruction and public funds are not used to pay for religious education. Public charter schools, just like any other public schools, must abide by the Constitution.

There were two separate lawsuits challenging the Charter School Board's action—one brought by faith leaders, public-school parents, and public-education advocates[21] and one brought by Republican Oklahoma Attorney General Gentner Drummond. The Oklahoma Supreme Court decisively ruled that St. Isidore violated the Oklahoma Constitution, state law, and the federal Establishment Clause, explaining that "St. Isidore's educational philosophy is to establish and operate the school as a Catholic school. Under both state and federal law, the State is not authorized to establish or fund St. Isidore."[22] In May 2025, the U.S. Supreme Court issued a per curiam opinion affirming the decision of the Oklahoma Supreme Court by an equally divided vote.[23]

Ten Commandments Displays

In recent years, state legislators across the country have introduced bills to post a version of the Ten Commandments—a religious text—in public schools. Just this year, Americans United has tracked nearly 40 bills across 20 states. Many of these bills mandate a state-endorsed version of the text be displayed in every K-12 classroom in the state.

Displaying the Ten Commandments in public schools violates the religious freedom of public school students and their families, and violates the U.S. Constitution.[24] Doing so coerces students to read, reflect on, and obey a religious text.[25] Families should be able to trust that their public school will not impose religion on their children nor pressure them to adhere to a religious code—that's the safeguard provided by the Constitution.

Despite the avalanche of bills introduced, only Louisiana, Arkansas, and Texas have enacted legislation. These acts were immediately challenged in court by families who are Jewish, Baptist, Presbyterian, Unitarian Universalist, non-denominational Christian, interfaith, Hindu, humanist, agnostic, atheist, and nonreligious.[26] Whether they adhere to the Ten Commandments as part of their faith traditions or not, the families have acted to vindicate their religious freedom rights.

A unanimous Fifth Circuit panel and federal district courts in Arkansas and Texas declared all three laws "plainly unconstitutional."[27] Judge Timothy L. Brooks went even further in his opinion asking, "Why would Arkansas pass an obviously unconstitutional law? Most likely because the State is part of a coordinated strategy among several states to inject Christian religious doctrine into public-school classrooms."[28]

Judge Brooks' rhetorical question makes clear that the real threat to religious liberty in public schools comes from efforts to use public schools to force religion on students.

Chaplains in Public Schools

Another way legislators have sought to promote religion in schools is by pushing laws to bring chaplains into public schools. Legislators disingenuously point to shortages of school counselors when championing the introduction of chaplains to public schools. But chaplains are clergy members who are trained to provide religious and spiritual care, not serve as replacements for qualified, licensed school counselors. Public schools are constitutionally prohibited from inviting religious leaders into schools to offer spiritual guidance and counseling.[29]

Nonetheless, Texas, Louisiana, and Florida have enacted school chaplain laws and, in 2025, twenty-four states introduced similar bills.

Chaplains themselves understand that they should not provide services in public schools. More than 300 chaplains signed an open letter explaining that these proposals "are harmful to our public schools and the students and families they serve."[30] They also write that as "trained chaplains, we strongly caution against the government assertion of authority for the spiritual development and formation of our public school children."[31]

Faith communities also oppose the idea of chaplains in public schools. Thirty-eight organizations that represent or serve religious denominations or are formally affiliated with religious communities explained that "proposals to place chaplains in our public schools are greatly flawed and threaten the well-being, education, and religious freedom of our students."[32] They recognize that having " a school chaplain of any faith would amount to government-sponsored religion and create an environment ripe for religious coercion and the indoctrination of students."[33]

Families can rely on clergy in their communities if and when they want religious counsel. Allowing chaplains—who aren't required to have any training—to provide critical services like mental health counseling will endanger students, waste educational resources, and create liability for public schools. Students need counselors, not chaplains.

Teacher- and School-Sponsored Prayer

Religious freedom promises that all of our children can attend public schools without being coerced by teachers or coaches to join in someone else's prayers. This ensures that public schools are a welcoming place to all families, regardless of religious belief.

That's why the Supreme Court has, for more than 60 years, repeatedly ruled that school-sponsored prayer is unconstitutional. No public school student should feel like they have to pray to play sports or get a part in the school play. And no student should ever be made to feel excluded—whether it's in the classroom or on the football field—because they don't share the religious beliefs of their teachers or coaches.

The Court's 2022 decision in Kennedy v. Bremerton School District reaffirmed this vital constitutional safeguard, explaining that protecting against government coercion of religion was a key purpose of the First Amendment.[34] In Kennedy, the Supreme Court simply held that a public school had to allow a football coach to say a brief, quiet, private, and personal prayer. As the Court explained, the prayer was permissible because the coach "offered his prayers quietly while his students were otherwise occupied"[35] and during a time when "coaches were free to attend briefly to personal matters."[36] But prayer that is coercive—including where teachers pray with or in front of students—is still unconstitutional.

Yet, after Kennedy several state legislatures went well beyond the limits of that opinion. They introduced bills explicitly designed to permit teachers to pray in front of, with, or over students. Although the sponsors alleged these bills merely codified the Kennedy decision, they are blatant attempts to encourage teachers and other public school employees to pray in ways that violate the Constitution. Just this year, Texas enacted a law allowing schools to adopt a "period of prayer and reading of the Bible or other religious text" that would let teachers to pray with students.[37] In 2023, Idaho enacted a law that might have similar effects.[38]

These measures grossly misinterpret the Kennedy decision and therefore invite religious freedom violations and put schools at risk of litigation.

Mistinterpreting Student Religious Freedom Rights

The First Amendment not only protects students' rights to be free from religious coercion in public schools but also protects their rights to voluntarily pray and express religious viewpoints. Students may engage in prayer, so long as it is voluntary, student-initiated, student-led and does not coerce other students. They also have the right to read a religious text, including the Bible, whenever they have free time to read other texts.

At the same time, schools may maintain control of student expression in curricular activities[39] and are constitutionally required to prohibit certain types of religious expression that could result in coercion or disrupt the schools' education mission.[40] Schools also must prevent students from using the classroom and assignments to proselytize fellow students, even if the work meets the requirements of the assignment. There is a constitutionally significant difference between a student making a speech about Christianity's influence on world history versus speech asserting that all students must accept Jesus Christ in order to achieve salvation.

Under the guise of protecting public school students' religious expression, legislators have introduced bills, often called "Religious Viewpoint Antidiscrimination Acts" or "Student Religious Liberty Acts," that are designed to encourage students to pray and proselytize in public schools. Although they may correctly outline students' existing religious and free speech rights, these bills fail to include the necessary limits imposed by the Establishment Clause. Rather than creating stronger protections for students, they instead cause confusion and harm. School districts and teachers would face pressure to follow such a state law, but doing so could easily lead to unconstitutional student religious activities in public schools.

Teaching Religion, including the Bible, in Public Schools

Public schools may teach about religion, but they may not teach religion. To be sure, the Bible has considerable significance in Western literature, art, and history. But the Constitution requires that any lessons about religion or the Bible, including courses designed to focus specifically on the Bible, must be taught from a secular, non-devotional, noncoercive, and objective perspective that does not favor any religion.[41] Public schools cannot teach that the Bible is a true and literal historical record. Despite these clear constitutional requirements, public schools often fail, violating families' religious freedom.[42]

DOJ-RLC Comment-002886

Yet state legislators and politicians continue to try to require public schools teach the Bible. For example, in 2024, Oklahoma Superintendent of Public Instruction Ryan Walters issued a mandate that all the state's public schools incorporate the Bible into the curriculum in grades 5 through 12.[43] Earlier this year, Walters released a new set of academic standards for social studies that unconstitutionally present Bible stories as literal, historical facts; inaccurately proclaim the Bible and Christianity's influence on the founding of America and the country's laws; and favor Christianity over other faiths and beliefs.[44] Dozens of students, parents, public school teachers, and faith leaders have filed two lawsuits challenging Walters.[45]

The intent behind these efforts is not to teach about the Bible in an objective manner, but instead is to promote one specific type of Christianity. Supporters of these efforts often claim they need to put God "back" in public schools. Indeed, Walters said during an interview that the Supreme Court had "lo[st] their mind" by "driving God and prayer out of school," and his efforts will counter that, claiming that "[w]e're going to have prayer in school" and "[w]e're going to have the Bible in school in Oklahoma."[46]

Attempts to teach religion in public schools are not limited to the Bible. Despite long-standing Supreme Court precedent that teaching creationism is unconstitutional,[47] we continue to see efforts to replace the teaching of sound science with religious beliefs. Last year, West Virginia enacted a law designed to pave the way for presentation in the classroom of a kind of creationism called "intelligent design." Like in West Virginia, these policies may not explicitly reference creationism, but often use euphemisms like "theory of how the universe came to exist," "scientific weaknesses," "full range of scientific views," and "evidence for and against," intended to misrepresent scientific knowledge and undermine students' education about evolution. That's why a federal court prohibited a school not only from referring to "intelligent design" creationism in science class, but also from "denigrating or disparaging the scientific theory of evolution."[48] constitutional—but only if there are important safeguards to ensure public schools do not get involved in religious instruction in any way.[49]

In recent years, legislators have introduced bills to require every school in their state to adopt a release time policy, regardless of the desire and capacity of the school, local board of education, and community. There have even been bills that would allow students to receive academic credit for attending religious classes.

Release time programs, particularly when offered for credit, create pressure for students to participate to fit in with their peers who attend. Students who belong to minority faiths that do not have institutions to offer religious courses and nonreligious students could feel ostracized by their classmates and teachers for not enrolling in a release time course.

How Public Schools Have Harmed the Religious Freedom of Students and Families

When schools promote religion or coerce students to engage in religious practices, children and their families—particularly those who are nonreligious or follow nonmajority faiths—face marginalization and harassment.[50]

Here are just a few examples of students' experiences:

- A Louisiana public school teacher proselytized and harassed a 6th grader who is Buddhist so badly that the student became physically sick every morning before school. The student was repeatedly mocked and disparaged because of his religious beliefs by his teacher, who coerced him into completing assignments and listening to lectures that promoted Christianity as truth, and at one point disparaged Buddhism as "stupid." When his parents attempted to resolve the issue, the Superintendent told them that the solution was to either change the child's religion or transfer him to another school with "more Asians."[51]
- Native American students have faced numerous challenges to their religious freedom in public schools. School officials conducting routine lice checks cut the hair of two Lakota students in Nebraska, in violation of their Native American religious tradition and without the permission or consent of their parents.[52] This practice continued even after the parents raised concerns. A Texas public school suspended a 5 year-old boy because he wore his long hair in two braids, in accordance with his father's Native American religious tradition.[53]

- When an Ohio second grader did not attend a release time program, she was bullied, ostracized, and told she was going to hell by her classmates. She was called a "leftover" and had to report to study hall in the gym during the release time.[54]
- A South Carolina middle schooler, who is nonreligious, was forced to attend a middle school assembly that included a sermon, a performance by a Christian rapper, and a prayer with local church members where students were pressured to pledge themselves to Christ. He endured repeated bullying and punishment, even at the hands of his teachers and school administrators, for his beliefs. When he forgot to wear a belt as part of the school uniform, he had to copy an essay stating that he thanks God every day and would not forget his belt again. School officials told him and his family that their beliefs were wrong and that they should "get right with God" because they were not Christian.[55]
- In Florida, a school district spent a decade developing policies and practices encouraging school-sponsored prayer, proselytization of students, and school-sponsored religious services.[56] The handbook at one of the District's schools instructed teachers to "embrace every opportunity to inculcate, by precept and example, the practice of every Christian virtue."[57] Teachers and coaches regularly assigned students religiously oriented school work, led or invited students to lead pre-game prayers, preached to students using a bullhorn, and pressured students to join religious clubs.
- In another Louisiana case, parents and students challenged rampant violations of their religious freedoms, including faculty harassment of minority-religion and nonreligious students, forced memorization of prayer in class, and proselytization and encouragement of religious practice through school athletic programs. A teacher even told students they had to believe in Jesus to be "good people."[58]
- A head high school football coach prayed with his students, encouraged students to pray, invited local clergy to deliver religious messages to the team, hosted team dinners at local churches, used school social media to endorse religious student clubs, and attended religious club meetings to directly proselytize attending students. After he retired, the next head football coach engaged in almost the same behavior, taking it a step further by baptizing one of his players at a team meeting he held at a local church.[59]
- School officials too often host religious assemblies in elementary, middle, and high school with missionaries or clergy members to give them an opportunity to proselytize and pray with students. These assemblies have featured rappers, rock bands, weight lifters, martial artists, dazzling light shows, and more. Sometimes the assemblies are mandatory for students and sometimes students are threatened with in-school suspension if they don't attend. At the assemblies, students are pressured to pray, take devotional materials, attend local churches, and even join an altar call to the stage and be saved.[60]

Retaliation Against Students and Families Protecting their Religious Freedom Rights

Unfortunately, the fear of intimidation and physical harm is all too real for people who take action to protect their religious freedom. Students and families who challenged unconstitutional religious practices in their public schools have faced community backlash, direct hostility from local officials, and targeted acts of violence against them. This kind of retaliation not only undermines our constitutional rights, but also sends a chilling threat to anyone who might speak up against a violation of religious freedom.

Many of the following examples include graphic details of violence and threatened violence, references to the Holocaust, and abhorrent language. We include these details because we believe it is important to document the reality of what families and students who are not part of the majority faith experience when they seek to uphold their rights and be fully included in their public schools.

Here are a few examples of what students and their families have faced:

- The Lane family, in Louisiana, faced severe harassment after challenging the prolific promotion of religion in their children's school. The family had to transfer one of their children to a different school 25 miles away, in an attempt to avoid the daily bullying and harassment the student faced because he was Buddhist. The children's mother received threatening calls and was accosted outside her home by three people wearing KKK-type hoods who called her a "f—ing n—r Asian-loving b—ch."[61]
- Students in New Jersey who complained about the high school football coach leading the team and other students in prayer during pre-game meals and before games were subjected to racist, antisemitic, misogynistic, and violent slurs. Jewish cheerleaders were harassed and threatened. Fellow students sent anonymous antisemitic emails, wrote virulent chat room posts accusing these cheerleaders of lodging complaints, and made threats against the cheerleaders and any students who defended them. Comments included:
    - "First they crucify Jesus, then they got [the coach] fired . . . Jews gotta learn to stop ruining everything cool."
    - "The jew is wrong. [The coach] is right. Let us pray."
    - "dn jews . . . then you wonder why hitler did what he did back in the day."

- "MAYBE if [the coach] held a gun to the jjjjewwws head and was like b*tch get on ur knees and pray to jesus!! then that might be breaking the law . . . ehhh maybe not! . . . just suck it up if u don't fu*ing like whats going on in america then GO THE FU*K BACK TO YOUR COUNTRY AND STAY THERE AND PRAY . . ."
- "Heil Hitla!!! sieg heill."[62]

The cheerleaders also faced harassment and bullying—taunts, spitting, and items being thrown at them—from their fellow students at pep rallies and football games. They suffered severe stress and feared escalating attacks.[63]

- The Anderson family, from South Carolina, received hate comments online and were harassed at home after they challenged school-sponsored prayer, preaching, and religious activities in their school district.[64]
- Jessica Ahlquist required a police escort to and from school in Rhode Island after she challenged a prayer banner in her school.[65] Many in her community, including her state representative, publicly labeled her "an evil little thing."[66] She was sent a tweet that noted her home address was posted online, called her a "*ing worthless c," and hoped she would get "curb stomped."[67] Months after she won her case, Ahlquist received a letter that said the police would not watch her forever, people knew where her father worked and what cars they owned, and "WE WILL GET YOU—LOOK OUT!"[68]
- Tammy Kitzmiller received a death threat that told her to "watch out for a bullet" after she challenged the unconstitutional teaching of creationism in her children's public school in Pennsylvania.[69] When Judge John E. Jones III ruled that the school had violated the Constitution, he received threats against him and his family, serious enough to warrant 24/7 U.S. Marshal protection.[70]
- After Louisiana families challenged the religion-infused practices of their public school, the school responded with a series of events and campaigns designed to further ostracize these students, including urging students to draw a blue line on their hands on a specific school day to show solidarity with the board—and, thereby, putting a clear target on any students not supporting school-sponsored religion.[71] Similarly, after Catholic and Latter Day Saints families challenged school-sponsored prayers at their Texas high school, "Administrat[ors], officials, counsellors, teachers,

- Lisa Herdahl, from Mississippi, received bomb threats and harassing phone calls after she challenged school prayer, eventually being driven to quit her job to stay home and protect her family.[73] She faced extreme ostracization, as nearly every house and business posted signs opposing her suit.[74] Herdahl's children were also bullied by their classmates, who called them "devil worshippers."[75]
- Joann Bell's home, in Oklahoma, was burned to the ground after she challenged school-sponsored prayers. She was also assaulted by a school employee who smashed her head against a car door multiple times, and school authorities celebrated the attack.[76] Her son's prize goats were "slashed and mutilated with a knife,"[77] and callers threatened to physically assault her children and rape her.[78]
- After Madalyn Murray O'Hair, from Maryland, challenged official prayer and Bible readings in public schools, her children were physically attacked. Her home was firebombed, and the fire department took a "particularly circuitous route" that took them forty minutes to respond.[79]
- Vashti McCollum, from Illinois received more than a thousand threats in the mail after she challenged a school program that offered religious instruction.[80] She was fired from her job and pelted with rotten produce, and the family cat was lynched.[81]

Opportunities to Secure Religious Liberty in Education for the Future

Everything outlined above poses a real, ongoing threat to students' and families' religious freedom and full inclusion in their schools and communities. The Constitution protects the rights of students to attend public school without being pressured to participate in religious activities. Many of these efforts, including religious charter schools, Ten Commandments displays, and school-sponsored prayer, violate the Constitution. Even those that could be constitutional in specific circumstances, such as teaching about the Bible and release time programs, are blatantly being pushed beyond their constitutional limits in order to unlawfully coerce students.

Using our public schools to promote a specific type of Christianity is also part of a broader attack on their role as a unifying, inclusive, and democratic force in our communities—and on public education more broadly. The same groups pushing the laws and policies outlined in these comments are also engaging in a dangerous campaign to undermine, defund, and replace public schools. They have created false controversies over books, curricula, and policies to sow distrust in our public schools, in order to push for radical changes to our education system, including the creation of universal private school vouchers and religious public charter schools. These efforts are all part of a plan to use the government to impose one narrow view of religion on all of our children and undermine the foundational principle of church-state separation.

Sadly, the harm of these efforts is not limited to threats to our Constitution, the law itself, or our public schools. These attacks on religious freedom ultimately harm children and families. They harm students who do not belong to the majority faith, whether they belong to a different Christian denomination, belong to a minority faith, or are nonreligious. They send the message to some that they "are outsiders, not full members of the . . . community, and an accompanying message to [only certain] adherents that they are insiders, favored members of the . . . community."[82]

As shared above, these efforts also result in chilling threats of physical harm to the real people who must go to court to enforce their religious freedom rights. Students and their parents who filed lawsuits to challenge the promotion of religion in public schools have been physically assaulted, received death threats, been fired from their jobs, and more. These horrific incidents will only increase if states continue to push problematic and unconstitutional policies like the ones described here.

The Religious Liberty Commission has unique power. It can use its platform to highlight the issues discussed in these comments and to ensure they do not continue. It can work to guarantee that all our students and families, no matter their faith or beliefs, are protected, feel welcomed, and are not threatened by merely showing up at school.

The Commission can also help people understand what religious freedom means and how state legislatures and school officials can best protect everyone. At a future hearing, we urge the Commission to call on parents and students who had to speak out to vindicate their rights and experienced retaliation to better understand their stories–and ask how the Commission and the law can better work to protect them.

Conclusion

America is a greater nation when we protect religious freedom for all, not just for some; when we are all free to believe or not, as we see fit, and to practice our faith—without hurting others; and when the government does not use our public schools to promote religion or coerce students to participate in religious exercise. to religious freedom, particularly in the public education setting, and ensure everyone enjoys their right to religious freedom.

We urge the Commission to address the real threats to religious freedom in public education. In doing so, the Commission must consider the ostracization, bullying, religious coercion, and even physical violence that students and families face when public schools are used as a platform to proselytize and promote a single set of religious beliefs–the very threats the First Amendment was designed to prevent.[83]

Re: Constitutional Challenge to California's SB 277 - Denial of Religious Exemptions from School Vaccine Mandates – September 8, 2025 Hearing on Religious Liberty in Public Education

Dear Commissioners:

We write to bring to your attention a critical religious liberty case currently on appeal in the Ninth Circuit that demands urgent consideration: Doescher, et al. v. Pan, Ninth Circuit Case No. 25-4531; Eastern District of California Case No. 2:23-cv-02995-KJM-JDP.

The Constitutional Crisis

California's SB 277 has created an unprecedented and illegal burden on religious freedom by eliminating all religious exemptions from school vaccine requirements while maintaining broad secular exemptions. Devout families are being forced to choose between their sincere religious convictions and their children's access to public education—a choice no American family should face.

SB 277's Constitutional Defects

Discriminatory Exemption System: SB 277 exempts vast numbers of students – over 30% statewide, and over 50% in urban districts like Los Angeles. Carve-outs exist for Special Education students, those with medical issues, homeless students, children of military, those over the age of majority, undocumented students, and foster youth. Yet religious families—regardless of their sincere convictions—receive no consideration whatsoever.

Given these vast exceptions, California cannot claim with a straight face that the tiny numbers of religiously devout students – 0.58% – would "break the bank" – and it is impossible to claim that SB 277 does not inexplicably single out the religious.

Not Generally Applicable: SB 277 imposes selective burdens on religion and it is not generally applicable. A court cannot deem a statute neutral and generally applicable if it treats any comparable secular activity more favorably than religious exercise. Church of Lukumi Babalu Aye, Inc. v. Hialeah, 508 U.S. 520, 537–538 (1993). Such a statute therefore triggers strict scrutiny under the Free Exercise Clause, which SB 277 fails.
Lack of Neutrality: SB 277 was enacted despite published California Senate Judiciary Committee warnings about Free Exercise violations. Church of Lukumi Babalu Aye, Inc. v. Hialeah, 508 U.S. 520, 533 (1993).

Failure of Strict Scrutiny: As the Supreme Court held in Fulton v. City of Philadelphia, 141 S. Ct. 1868, 1877 (2021), the government cannot claim a compelling interest while "making [exemptions] available to others" but denying them to religious adherents. SB 277 undermines its own stated public health goals by exempting vast categories of unvaccinated students for secular reasons.

Real Families, Real Harm

Our plaintiffs suffer concrete injuries beyond ideological disagreement, including financial hardships for independent study due to SB 277's restrictions; homeschooling expenses after explicit rejection from public schools; and imminent enforcement action and educational disruption.

These families' children experience educational limitations, social isolation, and stigma—all because California refuses to accommodate their religious beliefs while accommodating secular objections.

The Supreme Court's Clear Direction

The legal landscape for religious freedom fundamentally shifted in 20202 with Roman Catholic Diocese of Brooklyn v. Cuomo, 592 U.S. 14 (2020), which the Ninth Circuit itself called "a seismic shift in Free Exercise law." This watershed decision confirmed that where a law treats religious institutions less favorably than comparable secular activities, such law imposes an undue burden on the free exercise of religion.

As Justice Gorsuch noted, off-cited cases like Jacobson v. Commonwealth of Massachusetts, 197 U.S. 11 (1905) and its progeny pre-date modern constitutional formulations and absolutely must be confined to the conventions in modern precedent. Roman Catholic Diocese of Brooklyn v. Cuomo (2020) 592 U.S. 14, 23 (Gorsuch, concurring).

The Supreme Court has consistently applied this principle, reversing every lower court decision that failed to protect religious exercise during the pandemic. See, e.g., Harvest Rock Church v. Newsom, 141 S. Ct. 889 (2020); Robinson v. Murphy, 141 S. Ct. 972 (2020); High Plains Harvest Church v. Polis, 141 S. Ct. 527 (2021); S. Bay United Pentecostal Church v. Newsom, 141 S. Ct. 716 (2021); Tandon v. Newsom, 141 S. Ct. 1294 (2021).

Legal Precedent Supports Religious Families

Recent federal court decisions uniformly support our position:

- The Fifth Circuit struck down similar policies in U.S. Navy Seals v. Biden, 27 F.4th 336, 350-53 (5th Cir. 2022).
- The Sixth Circuit applied strict scrutiny to hold that a county public health order closing all schools, including religious schools, was not generally applicable because it permitted various secular businesses to remain open in Monclova Christian Academy v. 10 Toledo-Lucas Health Dept., 984 F.3d 477, 482 (6th Cir. 2020)
- A Mississippi federal court recently held that providing medical but not religious exemptions violates the Constitution in Bosarge v. Edney, No. 1:22CV233- HSO-BWR, ECF 87 (S.D. Miss. August 29, 2023).

The Path Forward

This case represents more than a dispute over vaccination policy—it tests whether religious Americans can participate fully in public life without compromising their faith. The Supreme Court's recent precedents provide a clear roadmap: laws burdening religious exercise must be neutral and generally applicable, and California's discriminatory exemption system fails both tests.

We respectfully urge the Commission to:

1. Monitor this case as a critical test of religious accommodation principles.
2. Consider filing an amicus brief supporting constitutional religious exemptions.
3. Use this case to illustrate the ongoing need for robust religious liberty protections.

The stakes could not be higher. If California can force religious families to choose between their faith and their children's education, fundamental religious liberty is at risk nationwide.

Thank you for your consideration of this urgent matter.

Respectfully,

Christina Hildebrand

My question to the commission is regarding the use of a conference room in a senior living government subsidised apartment building.

The facility has a meeting room that may be reserved for private meetings. However, a resident was told that it may not be used for a private Bible study. And should the manager happen to walk by the closed door and hear such a discussion they would have to stop it and forbid the use of the room for such a purpose.

Is this true?

There is no blanket invitation to other residents. There are only about 10-12 friends of the resident and only for 1 1/2 hour per week on a week day afternoon.

Also we want to know if any reference to the nativity or birth of christ is still forbidden by display etc in public schools or may they now display a nativity etc in the classroom?

Please restore our rights to celebrate our christian religious liberty wherever we are in America.

From: David Pautsch

1st District, Iowa

Dear Commission Members,

My wife Peggy and I were honored to attend the Religious Liberty Commission meeting this past June in Washington, D.C. I want to thank you for the important work you are doing to preserve and promote one of our most sacred national principles—religious liberty. It was a privilege to witness the sincere thought and perspective being offered from every corner of the room.

As a biblical Christian and a Constitutional conservative, I was especially encouraged by the boldness, clarity and compassion with which many of you are confronting the cultural confusion of our day. I left the meeting hopeful, touched and energized, but also burdened by a key issue I believe still needs to be addressed with greater clarity: What is religion?

I had private conversations with several attendees about this question, and I appreciate the honesty and humility in their responses. Some noted that this is a difficult question, or that the courts must decide, or that they prefer not to offend others. Many also expressed a sincere desire to define it more precisely—and I commend that openness.

In that spirit, I'd like to offer this perspective:

In its purest form, I believe religion is the honor and worship of the Judeo-Christian God —YHWH—our Creator and Redeemer. True religion is rooted in love and guided by righteousness. As Jesus said in John 10:10, "The thief comes only to steal and kill and destroy; I came that they may have life and have it abundantly."

Though this is my deeply held belief, I respect the 1st Amendment right of people to pursue a belief system contrary to mine, whether it be Buddhism, Hinduism, Sikhism, folk religions, or others.

But we must also recognize the difference between sincere religious practices and destructive ideologies that hide behind the word "religion."

As such, I do not believe that every ideology which claims the title of "religion" is worthy of the protections guaranteed by our Constitution. When a belief system is built on doctrines of murder, torture, perversion, or the persecution of Jews—when it exalts Satan or seeks to destroy life—it crosses a line. It no longer serves the spiritual good of mankind; in fact, it becomes a threat to national security and civil order.

As a Congressional candidate, I am deeply vested in helping define and defend the foundational freedoms our nation depends on. I believe religious liberty is not only the first freedom mentioned in the Bill of Rights—it is the bedrock of all others.

If we cannot define what religion is, we will struggle to defend it, and worse, we may unintentionally protect ideologies that threaten the very freedoms we seek to uphold.

Similarly, we need to make a distinction between religious ideology and national values. While, I don't believe in forcing conversion to Jesus Christ on anyone, we must recognize that we are a nation of Christian values, because this is what our Founders chose.

We cannot live by everyone's values, nor can we practice value and moral neutrality. Both are categorically impossible! But it is imperative that we make it a stated national policy that we uncompromisingly adhere to Judeo-Christian morals and values.

I welcome continued dialogue with the Commission and would be grateful for any opportunity to contribute to the Commission's work as you move forward. Thank you again for your leadership, and may God continue to grant you wisdom and courage in the days ahead.

With deep respect,

I have been informed that the September 8, 2025 meeting of this commission has overlooked the discussion of the referenced topic in the agenda items.

Religious liberty does not end at the school gate any more than it does anywhere else. It is imperative that parents make decisions for their children - all enshrined in our Constitution's Four Freedoms. Managing health is sometimes linked to religious practices and must not be ignored in education.

I vigorously petition you to add this topic to the agenda.

I am writing with deep concern regarding the upcoming September 8, 2025 hearing on vaccine-related educational policy, which currently excludes any discussion of religious exemptions. As a citizen who values both public health and constitutional freedoms, I urge you to immediately reconsider this exclusion.

Families in Connecticut have been denied school access for their children due to sincere religious objections to vaccination—yet their voices have been silenced. This is a devastating blow to families who are simply trying to follow their conscience and faith. To deny them a forum at the Religious Liberty Commission is to deny their First Amendment rights.

We respectfully ask that you:

Allow discussion of religious exemptions at the September and October 2025 education hearings.

Schedule a dedicated hearing on vaccine-related religious liberty issues as soon as possible—waiting until 2026 will leave countless children without access to education this school year.

These are urgent and deeply personal matters for thousands of families. Please ensure that their concerns are not only heard but given the full and fair consideration they deserve under our Constitution.

Thank you for your attention and service.

Dear Members of the Religious Liberty Commission,

This matter is directly tied to the fundamental principles of religious liberty. Subject: [EXTERNAL] Religious Liberty and Education Access: A Request for Inclusion in RLC Hearings
Date: Thu, 14 Aug 2025 00:44:26 -0400
Importance: Normal

To the Religious Liberty Commission,

I am writing out of deep concern and frustration regarding the upcoming September 8, 2025 hearing, which, as currently described, does not appear to include any discussion of religious exemptions to vaccination—despite this issue affecting thousands of families' access to public education.

It is deeply troubling that in states like NY, CT, CA, and ME, children are being denied the right to attend school simply because their families hold sincere religious objections to vaccination. These families continue to pay taxes, support the public school system, and yet are excluded from it based on their beliefs. This exclusion is not only unjust—it is a violation of their First Amendment rights.

What's more, many vaccines do not stop transmission, and children with medical exemptions are still being accommodated. Why, then, are religious exemptions entirely ignored? This double standard is not based on science or fairness—it is discrimination.

I urge the Commission to:

1. Ensure that religious exemptions are formally included in the discussions at the September and October 2025 education hearings.

2. Schedule a dedicated hearing on vaccine-related religious liberty concerns as soon as possible. Families cannot wait until 2026 or beyond for their rights to be addressed—school is starting now.

This is a pressing civil rights matter. No family should be forced to choose between their faith and their child's education. Please ensure this issue is treated with the urgency and constitutional seriousness it deserves.

Sincerely,

Nadezhda, CT

Importance: Normal

Hello Religious Liberty Commissioners,

I'm anxiously awaiting the link to register as I have already secured transportation and lodging. I do not see it on the website. Is it available?

I provided a lengthy testimony prior to the first hearing. My greatest confrontation with the loss of religious freedom is over bodily autonomy. The COVID shots and other vaccines continue to be forced on babies, pre-k, k-12 and college students in the state of Connecticut. Our Legislators and Governor stole our Religious Liberty in April, 2021, and now many other states, possibly the whole nation, want to follow suit.

This is the most important conversation to have as children and families are suffering from vaccine injuries. Doctors refuse to even acknowledge that a child has suffered a reaction from mandated shots. The very people professing to "do no harm" are damaging children and adults every day. What else could be more important?

Yes, I've fought on the front lines as a Christian mom over CRT and SEL in the schools. I have pushed to ban Planned Parenthood's sex curriculum out of public schools. I've fought against the dramatic influx of LGBTQ+ and sexualizing our children. All these things are important, sure, but, thankfully, we have options to opt-out.

That's not the case with the 100+ different shots forced on children and young adults today in Connecticut. Why would CT and three other states be allowed to remove the free choice of raising our children without vaccines? What could be more important than stopping these states from forcing a potentially toxic product on a human being?

If we're going to get to the root of religious liberty then we have to have an honest conversation on public health policy. In the state of Connecticut, when 18 boys were nearly killed by the first rounds of COVID shots (https://www.nbcconnecticut.com/news/coronavirus/connecticut-confirms-at-least-18-cases-of-apparent-heart-problems-in-young-people-after-covid-19-vaccination/2494534/), the Governor of Connecticut fired the acting health commissioner who allowed that factual information to be publicized. Let's have some real discussions about the government's role in deciding to keep the truth from the public, covering up the potential for harm, and then, over the next six months, forcing all college students and state employees to comply. Who was automatically exempt? The Governor's office, the legislature and the government employees were NOT part of the mandates they inflicted on the public.

The declared "war on drugs" of our government is operating as a war against Americans. We have the government aligned with the drug manufacturers, gifting them unlimited amounts of our tax money. The legislature is pushing policies and laws on the people to force them to take the drugs created in part with taxpayer money. Yet the public is not allowed to point to evidence (we were silenced) or ask questions (we were ridiculed) or refuse (we were fired) the system created by the government and pharmaceutical companies with our money. How is this Constitutional?

That is the biggest issue at the root of defending religious liberties. President Trump has tasked you with coming up with policy so that this very thing will never, ever happen in America. Let's cover it now and reverse all the laws that have forced bodily compliance to vaccines and shots against our will.

Thank you,

Mona Colwell

Dear Members of the Religious Liberty Commission,

I am writing to respectfully request that the Commission include the issue of removing the religious exemption in education as a discussion point for your upcoming September 8th hearing.

This matter is directly tied to the very principles the Commission is tasked with upholding. The religious exemption in education impacts the ability of families to freely exercise their faith in how they choose to educate their children. Avoiding or omitting this topic risks undermining the Commission mission to safeguard religious liberty for all.

Addressing this issue would provide an important opportunity to hear from affected communities, examine the legal and constitutional implications, and reaffirm the Commission commitment to protecting religious freedom in all areas of public life, including education.

I appreciate your dedication to ensuring that religious liberty remains a fundamental and protected right, and I urge you to ensure this critical topic is given the attention it deserves at the September 8th hearing.

Thank you for your time and service.

Dear Members of the Religious Liberty Commission,

I am writing to respectfully request that the Commission include the removal of the religious exemption in education as a discussion point for the September 8th Religious Liberty Commission hearing.

This issue is directly tied to religious liberty. Excluding it from the hearing not only leaves a critical concern unaddressed, but also risks undermining the Commission's stated mission of protecting religious freedom for all. The removal of the exemption has deeply impacted individuals and families who hold sincere religious beliefs, and it is imperative that this matter receive the thorough, public consideration it deserves.

While I understand there are vaccine-related matters being addressed separately, the removal of the religious exemption in education is not solely a health policy matter — it is fundamentally a question of constitutional rights and religious liberty. Avoiding this discussion sends the wrong message to those who look to this Commission for protection and advocacy.

I urge you to reconsider and ensure this issue is placed on the September 8th agenda. Thank you for your time, consideration, and dedication to upholding the principles of religious freedom.

Dear Ms. Bondoc,

I'm writing to express concern over President Trump's recent public statements suggesting that homeless individuals should be removed from urban areas and sent "far, far away"—even if that means separating them from their loved ones and the faith based organizations that are their principal sources of support. Such rhetoric raises serious questions about the moral and constitutional implications of forcibly relocating vulnerable populations. Sadly, it also presents our Chief Executive in a decidedly un-Christian light.

I understand that people who offer opinions at odds with those of our current President tend to get terminated with prejudice. And I don't know you personally. But if you took your current position out of a sincere desire to see our country uphold its Christian heritage, let me recommend three verses you may want to review:

- Matthew 25:35–40
- Luke 6:20
- James 2:5–6

These verses reflect a consistent theme in the New Testament: that care for the poor is not optional—it's central to living out the gospel.

History may look quite favorably on the growing list of government people of conscience who spoke their truth.

Best of luck.

Good Afternoon ,

I hope this email finds you well . As part of the impact the home school community hopes to have in restoring religious exemptions ; to ensure the community is successful , I am writing to encourage you in considering including the removal of religious exemption in the hearing September 8th , 2026 . The homeschool community is a strong one and we are hoping to get the answers and justice we need for equal opportunities for education in CT , NY , ME and CA. This has been an ongoing fight and with persistence the community is hoping to prevail and prosper to restore these rights to our children . The hearing will help us be heard . This is a fight for all children and they need to know that there is a village behind them that will fight for their first amendment rights to be validated in these states . It has been tough to say the least , the last few years since the act of removing the right . Families have been coerced into homeschooling their children because their rights have been stripped from them in a country that fought for these freedoms. I hope you take this into consideration and allow our community to speak at the hearing come September .

Thank you for your time

Dear Lt. Gov. Patrick,

I hope this email finds you well.

I am writing to submit to the Religious Liberty Commission a report I've produced on the current landscape of religious liberty violations in America.

The report, Cases and Trends Implicating Religious Liberty in the United States, includes suggested cases for the commission to consider, along with proposed witnesses. Cases pertinent to the upcoming September and October hearings on religious liberty in education include:

- A Minneapolis-area public school district is refusing to give Christian and Muslim parents a real (as opposed to illusory) opportunity to opt their children out of religiously-objectionable material aimed at changing their beliefs on sexual orientation and gender (p. 13).
- The Montgomery County, Maryland, public school district is refusing to graduate at least two students because it denied their parents, who are traditional Christians, a right to opt their children out of religiously-objectionable LGBTQ instruction in a mandatory health class (the "Jane Doe" case) (p. 16).
- The Loudoun County, Virginia, public school district is punishing Christian and Muslim students for their faith-based objections to a female using the boys locker room with them, and discriminating against the Christian students by dropping its disciplinary proceedings only as to the Muslim student (p. 19).

I also include several other proposed cases to investigate in other areas, including church autonomy, religious land use, and employment discrimination. The report includes a suite of proposed recommendations to the Administration to address these cases and others.

I am hopeful that the commission finds this report helpful to its mission.

In addition, I would like to submit the following recent published essays I have written of relevance to the commission's work, for your consideration and for inclusion in the weekly news emails. In both of these pieces I am identified as a commission advisory board member.

- Supreme Court Protects Religious Freedom in Maryland, Dallas Morning News, July 5, 2025.
- Reviving the Spirit of American Religious Liberty, Berkley Forum, Georgetown University, Berkley Center for Religion, Peace, and World Affairs, July 30, 2025.

Thank you for your leadership of this commission and for your consideration of this submission.

Sincerely,

Ismail Royer

DOJ-RLC Comment-002928

Executive Summary

Our survey of the landscape of religious liberty reveals several categories of religious liberty violations that continue to stand in the way of fulfilling the promise of religious liberty freely exercised in America. Among these categories are: government impingement on religious institutional autonomy; discrimination against religious institutions in state programs; infringement of parental rights; infringement of the free exercise rights of public school students; discrimination in religious land use; the failure to accommodate inmate religious practice; hate-motivated violence against persons and institutions; and discrimination in employment and housing. We have collated representative cases in each of these categories to illustrate the nature and extent of the threat to religious liberty.

We have also identified cases under each of these categories that we recommend the Religious Liberty Commission examine in future hearings. The following cases may be of particular interest to the commission:

- A Minneapolis-area public school district is refusing to give Christian and Muslim parents a real (as opposed to illusory) opportunity to opt their children out of religiously-objectionable material aimed at changing their beliefs on sexual orientation and gender (p. 13).

- The Montgomery County, Maryland, public school district is refusing to graduate at least two students because it denied their parents, who are traditional Christians, a right to opt their children out of religiously-objectionable LGBTQ instruction in a mandatory health class (the "Jane Doe" case) (p. 16).

- The Loudoun County, Virginia, public school district is punishing Christian and Muslim students for their faith-based objections to a female using the boys locker room with them, and discriminating against the Christian students by dropping its disciplinary proceedings only as to the Muslim student (p. 19).

To aid the commission, we have conducted an in-depth review of each of these cases. We have collected key documents and spoken with the parties themselves or their representatives. We provide detailed information in this report or will provide it upon request, and have suggested witnesses for the commission to call.

Finally, we provide the commission with actionable recommendations to submit to the White House to address each area of religious liberty violations, including specific cases such as those cited above.

DOJ-RLC Comment-002931

I. Introduction

On May 1, 2025, the President established the Religious Liberty Commission through Executive Order , with a mandate to "vigorously enforce the historic and robust protections for religious liberty enshrined in Federal law." The commission will achieve this by investigating the history and foundational principles of religious liberty in America as well as specific issues and cases in which religious liberty is under threat.

The Executive Order creating the commission states that it will issue a "comprehensive report" about threats to religious liberty and strategies to "increase awareness of and celebrate America's peaceful religious pluralism." The report will address issues such as parental rights in education, conscience protections in healthcare, free speech for religious bodies, institutional religious freedom, and attacks on houses of worship. Furthermore, the commission will recommend policies to safeguard religious liberty for all Americans.

The commission's mission is serious and urgent. As a member of the Lay Leaders Advisory Board, and in my capacity as Director of Islam and Religious Freedom at the Religious Freedom Institute (RFI), I and my colleagues respectfully submit this report with the aim of aiding the members of the commission in achieving this mission.

This report highlights for the commission categories of religious liberty violations, which are of particular concern. We define those categories and illustrate them with representative cases that are either recent or live controversies. Furthermore, within each category, we identify one or more cases of religious liberty violation that we recommend the commission investigate, along with the names of suggested witnesses should the commission choose to investigate the case. Finally, we suggest recommendations that the commission can make to the President in order to address these specific cases or the broader categories of religious liberty violation.

In preparing this report, we consulted with several religious liberty advocacy organizations and attorneys, who in turn contributed their insights and, in some cases, statements for inclusion in the report. In particular, RFI would like to thank for their contributions and advice: the American Hindu Coalition, the Sikh Coalition, Agudath Israel of America, the Center for Public Justice, Attorney Avi Schick, and Attorney Paul M. Rivera. Finally, this report would not have been possible without the research and writing contributions of Kimberly Blood and Olivia Spivey, both RFI summer 2025 interns.

II. Trends and Cases

We have organized this section of our report by category of religious liberty violation. First, the nature and scope of each category is described in broad terms, then illustrated with representative cases. We then include detailed case studies of violations for each category. Finally, we provide the names and contact information for proposed witnesses to the incidents described. In many cases, we have included statements provided to RFI from witnesses and experts to these events.

A. Autonomy of Religious Institutions

1. Summary

"Church autonomy is usually explained as a means of protecting religious institutions from state control, ensuring that religious organizations can control their own beliefs and internal affairs, or ensuring that the state does not establish a religion."[1] A steady stream of media reports and litigation in recent years illustrates that institutional religious autonomy continues to be an area in which the religious liberty of Americans is in need of robust defense.

For instance, in Catholic Charities Bureau v. Wisconsin Labor & Industry,[2,3] Catholic Charities Bureau was discriminated against for "not being religious enough" to meet the requirements for a tax exemption, to which the Supreme Court responded, "[T]he government should not entangle itself in second-guessing the religiosity of a faith-based organization's activities."[4] Another instance of government infringement on church autonomy is the ongoing case Union Gospel Mission of Yakima v. Ferguson, in which a Christian non-profit shelter is challenging Washington state's anti-discrimination law that restricts the religious organization's right to decline employment to individuals who do not align with its beliefs regarding sexual orientation, a right protected by the establishment clause.[5,6] Similarly, in Foothills Christian Church et al v. Johnson et al, a group of California churches is appealing the dismissal of their challenge to a state law that requires religious preschools to allow children to opt out of religious services, arguing it violates their right to self-govern their religious institution.[7,8] Finally, Yeshiva University, an Orthodox Jewish school, was sued for denying recognition to a student Pride Alliance group. In response, New York courts refused to recognize the school as a religious institution,[9] yet another illustration of the state undermining a religious organization's autonomy.

2. Case Study: New York Targets Yeshivas

An ongoing case underscoring this pattern of violating the autonomy of religious institutions (as well parental rights) is New York State's war on the Orthodox Jewish education system. The New York City education departments "[want] to force religious schools to come into substantial equivalence with the [public] schools," but attempts to do so by significantly infringing on the Jewish community's constitutionally protected institutional autonomy.[10] The key attorney representing Orthodox Jewish institutions, Avi Schick, provided RFI the following outline of what this case entails:

> Since at least 2018, the New York State and New York City education departments have been trying to gain greater control over Jewish parochial schools (known as yeshivas). As part of those efforts, the New York State Education Department enacted regulations in 2022 that required local school districts (such as the New York City Department of Education) to conduct review of private schools operating within their districts.
> As we feared, those reviews have focused exclusively or just about exclusively on Jewish schools. And as we feared, the local school authorities have used their leverage in conducting those reviews to subject them to discriminatory treatment that threatens their missions and jeopardizes their ability to educate students in the faith and tradition chosen by their parents.

Below is a summary of this concerning discrimination—discrimination that I believe warrants the federal government's attention. I also encourage the Advisory Board and the Religious Liberty Commission to review the complete complaint that several yeshivas filed with the Office of Civil Rights on January 13, 2025. It provides a full account of the discriminatory conduct and the grounds to take action to prevent further discrimination.

Here are some of the most egregious forms New York's discrimination has taken:

1. Forcing yeshiva students to read specific secular texts from reading lists it approves;
2. Interfering with yeshivas' constitutional autonomy to select their faculty;
3. Refusing to respect cultural and religious classroom norms of the Yeshivas;
4. Targeting Jewish Studies curricula for disfavored and discriminatory treatment;
5. Prohibiting Yeshivas from providing dual-language instruction.

1. Forcing Religious Schools to Use State-Approved Secular Texts

New York is forcing private religious schools to use state-approved secular texts to instruct their students in order to be deemed compliant. Specifically, New York requires religious schools to use "a range of fiction and non-fictions texts" approved by New York to instruct their students.

Shockingly, Robin Singer, Deputy Counsel for the NYC Department of Education, has explicitly admitted that the reason for this requirement is to ensure that students at religious schools are exposed to material that "parents and schools wouldn't otherwise" put before them. On at least three other occasions, Ms. Singer has threatened religious schools that their instruction would be deemed insufficient unless they submitted in writing a list of the fiction and non-fiction texts to her and others for pre-approval. In each instance, Ms. Singer explained that the reason for this requirement was to ensure that students are exposed to material and ideas that their parents and schools wouldn't otherwise put before them.

This is no idle threat. New York has already penalized one of my clients by deeming its curriculum deficient because it doesn't include enough "fiction and secular nonfiction texts to create opportunities for students to engage with a variety of topics and texts."

2. Micromanaging Who Religious Schools Select as Faculty

Even though the United States Constitution protects religious educational institutions from government interference in matters of faith and doctrine—particularly as the instructors they select to sustain their faith and tradition—New York is interfering with that core right. New York is scrutinizing religious schools' hiring decisions under the pretense of assessing competence.

For example, New York is actively intruding on the hiring decisions made by yeshivas by demanding that they allow them to review their hiring processes and criteria, including resumes, interview materials, and other hiring documentation. The stated purpose is to determine whether my clients' instructors are "competent." But we know that is not the real reason.

After New York observed in-class instruction by my clients' faculty, the reported observations plainly reflected teacher competence. But New York nevertheless concluded that "there was insufficient evidence demonstrating that [the yeshiva] teachers have the appropriate knowledge, skill, and disposition to deliver substantially equivalent instruction."

New York should be confirming that students are learning, not what criteria religious schools use to select their faculty.

3. Disrespecting Religious Schools Cultural and Religious Norms

New York is also using the review process to disrespect important cultural and religious norms in private schools. For reasons of modesty, gender separation is a widely observed practice in chasidic communities. Their schools are single-sex, not coeducational, with female faculty teaching at schools for girls and male teachers providing instruction in boys schools.

But when a Brooklyn yeshiva requested that the City send male evaluators for an eighth-grade classroom observation, it refused. Since eighth-grade students are generally 13 years old and thus obligated by chaisidic custom and their faith to observe strict sex separation, my client made a respectful request that the City accommodate the cultural norms and faith practiced by the school and its students and send a male evaluation team to observe the eighth-grade classroom. The City flatly refused the yeshivas' several requests for reasonable accommodation.

4. Targeting Religious Curriculum for Disfavored Treatment

New York is also using its purported regulatory oversight to punish religious schools for having religious instruction. Like most religious schools, the yeshiva curriculum includes instruction in matters of faith and tradition, sometimes referred to as "Jewish Studies." The instruction students receive in Jewish Studies courses integrates and satisfies key learning objectives from the required subjects with Jewish texts, history, and culture. It is intellectually rigorous, and it instills and preserves culturally important values and traditions.

But New York wholly discredits that instruction. It has advised my clients that their Jewish Studies classes do not count at all toward satisfying New York's educational requirements. Yeshivas are being told by New York that their instruction will be deemed deficient unless they replace their current emphasis on Jewish Studies.

5. Prohibiting Religious Schools from Instructing in Culturally and Religiously Important Languages

New York has also put religiously and culturally important languages in its cross hairs. And it has done so with no shame for the patent hypocrisy of its double standard. New York City alone operates more than 200 dual-language programs in its public schools. These are not classes geared to non-English speakers. Rather, these programs permit English speakers to learn a foreign language by receiving up to 90% of their instruction in that foreign language. It is clear that New York generally is a proponent of dual-language instruction.

Yet when it comes to religious dual-language instruction, New York takes a very different position. That is deeply concerning. Instruction in Yiddish, Hebrew, and Aramaic is a critical component of the mission of virtually all Jewish schools. Those languages are part of the shared ancestry and tradition of the Jewish people. Instruction in English alone is impossible in the context of Jewish Studies because most of the material is in the original vernacular.

Incredibly, New York education officials have openly admitted that they have different standards for yeshivas and for public schools. On November 2, 2023,

DOJ-RLC Comment-002937

David Frank, the senior official within the New York State Education Department with responsibility for parochial schools admitted at a training for local school authorities that its English-only language requirement "is one difference between…what happens in district [public] schools" and nonpublic schools. Mr. Frank acknowledged that public schools are permitted to teach required classes in languages other than English but that Yeshivas do not have that right. And he made clear that this double standard targets yeshivas. He explained: "[I]f you do go to a school where they say we have great history instruction and it's actually happening in the morning in our Talmudic class, and you go to see it and it is in Aramaic, that would not qualify" as credited instruction.

That double standard is plainly discriminatory. Whatever New York's reasons, they aren't legitimate. New York cannot credit the instruction of publicly educated students in Spanish or Chinese but discredit the instruction of yeshiva students in Yiddish, Hebrew, or Aramaic.

* * * * *

What is happening in New York deserves attention and action. Parents choose to send their children to private religious schools because they are different from public schools. New York has no right to come in and impose secular uniformity where the Constitution and federal law protect religious distinctiveness.[11]

B. Discrimination Against Religious Institutions in State Programs

1. Summary:

The First Amendment's prohibition on religious discrimination extends to public benefit programs that enlist private organizations to advance public goals.[12] The Supreme Court has affirmed that when the government implements a program extending public benefits to private organizations, the Free Exercise Clause prohibits the exclusion of religious organizations from participation and prevents the government from requiring these organizations to secularize as a condition for inclusion. In cases like Carson v. Makin (2022), the Court ruled that states cannot exclude religious schools from generally available public benefits solely because of their religious status. This decision reaffirmed that government programs must remain neutral toward religion and cannot discriminate against faith-based organizations. Despite these clear principles, state programs habitually discriminate against and withhold funding from religious institutions. As legal scholars Nicole Garnett and Tim Rosenberger have demonstrated, many state programs continue to sideline religious entities, often under the guise of maintaining secularism.[13] This persistent exclusion not only defies the Constitution but also threatens to limit the availability of essential services, particularly for underserved communities that often rely on faith-based providers. Such prejudicial exclusion has been repeatedly imposed upon Pre-K programs, as examined below.

2. Case Study: States Restrict Religion in Pre-K Programs

Publicly funded Pre-K programs have become a universal priority for state funding. However, a pattern has emerged in which religious institutions' efforts to provide Pre-K schooling have been frustrated by funding restrictions placed on the schools by state program leaders. Religious institutions have faced unjust restrictions in Georgia,[14] Alabama,[15] and California,[16] where state funding is contingent on their not promoting concepts such as religious worship, praying before meals, or the use of religious symbols on holidays—clearly a biased demand for secularization.

C. Parental Rights[17]

1. Summary

Parents have a fundamental right to guide the upbringing of their children according to their religious conscience.[18] Notwithstanding the strong basis of this principle, parental rights in the context of religion have been severely challenged in recent years.

A paradigmatic recent case of the violation of parental rights in public schools is that of the public school district in Montgomery County, Maryland.. RFI worked closely to support the parents in this case. This author spoke at[19] and helped to organize[20] rallies outside school board meetings. We prepared parents and citizens to testify at those meetings and helped compose their testimony, met with municipal officials to advocate on behalf of the parents, and, along with local parents associations, helped lead strategy meetings. We led the media relations campaign for the parents, and advocated for them on multiple broadcast media outlets,[21] and wrote published essays about the case.[22] We helped introduce the Becket Fund to parents as they sought legal representation. RFI also joined four amicus briefs in Mahmoud v. Taylor at all stages of the proceedings, from the appellate court to the Supreme Court.[23]

Montgomery County is not an isolated case. The St. Louis Park School District near Minneapolis, Minnesota refused to let parents opt their children out of "gender identity" and sexuality curriculum, disregarding their religious objections.[24] Additionally, in February 2024, an infant was removed from her parents' custody and subsequently administered a vaccination against the religious beliefs of her Rastafarian parents which require natural methods of healing.[25] Furthermore, as discussed in greater detail below, a Christian high school senior in the Montgomery County School District who has been identified in media reports as "Jane," was prohibited from graduating because she and her parents, citing their religious objections, refused to let her participate in an "anti-Christian, pro-LGBTQ+ health class that insists Christians are effectively white supremacists and that queer lifestyles are normal and healthy."[26,27,28] In an equally troubling case currently awaiting approval for an en banc rehearing, Littlejohn v. School Board of Leon County, two parents sued the school because it facilitated their 13-year-old daughter's "social transition" without their consent and in opposition to their religious beliefs.[29,30] These cases reflect a broad pattern of infringements on parents' rights to direct their children's religious upbringing—an issue further highlighted by similar disputes in another Minneapolis-area school district and the Montgomery County School District, both summarized below.

2. Case Study 1: Minneapolis-area School Districts Versus Parents

Osseo Area Schools, a school district near Minneapolis, informed parents on March 8, 2024 of a scheduled "LGBTQIA+ High School Advisory Lesson," which included content on identity, pronouns, and "creating a brave space." This instructional material was met with widespread resistance from parents. Liberty Counsel, representing some of the parents, sent a letter on March 28, 2024, demanding that the district honor the religious rights of teachers, parents, and students to opt out of the LGBTQ lesson scheduled for early April, underscoring the legal grounds for suitable accommodations under Minnesota State laws, Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, the First and Fourteenth Amendments, and the Protection of Pupil Rights Amendment. Following their letter, the district acknowledged that both teachers and students could request religious accommodations, leading to nearly 2,000 high school students and over a dozen teachers opting out. However, parents criticized the opt-out process as overly burdensome, requiring in-person visits and ID checks, while the opt-out form itself was difficult to locate. Therefore, despite the letter demonstrating obvious legal precedent and the effectiveness of legal pressure in securing limited but significant policy concessions, full relief was unmet as the district appeared to make the process intentionally difficult.[31,32]

Naima,[33] a Muslim parent and community leader who lives in the Osseo area school district, provided RFI with a narrative describing what parents have been experiencing. Naima has chosen to send her children to a private school because of the district's attempts to indoctrinate students, but she serves as an interpreter for Somali parents in their negotiations with school officials. Her statement is as follows:

> In June 2021, Gender Inclusion Policy 508 was passed by the Osseo School Board. In June 2022 the LGBTQIA+ History and Culture Resolution was approved by the School Board by a vote of 4-2, with no input from the community and the families Osseo Area District serves. The families were disheartened to find out that The Resolution and 508 policy require students to celebrate and embrace the LGBTQIA+ lifestyle by dedicating lesson time to teach them about the culture and history of Lgbt lifestyle,as well as dedicating a whole month celebrating Lgbt lifestyle and raising Pride flag on school buildings. Elementary students are being taught about gender identities and that gender social construct rather than biological reality. All of these issues contradict Muslim families' deeply held religious beliefs.
> As a result, many families have been compelled to withdraw their children from public schools and seek refuge in private or charter schools that better align with their convictions. This decision, though made out of deep concern for their children's well-being and religious upbringing, has come at a significant cost. Families are now facing substantial financial burdens to cover tuition fees, additional transportation expenses, and logistical challenges, all while continuing to pay taxes that fund the very public school system from which they felt forced to withdraw.

DOJ-RLC Comment-002942

> We believe that families are being penalized for seeking an education consistent with their beliefs. We believe that public schools should be a place where all children can learn in an environment that respects and accommodates diverse religious backgrounds, not one that forces families to choose between their faith and their access to public education.

Similarly, in St. Louis Park, Minnesota, six Somali-Muslim families raised concerns in October 2023 after third- and fourth-grade students encountered LGBTQ-themed children's books—such as My Shadow Is Pink—during English instruction, complete with teacher-led discussions on LGBTQ identities that conflicted with the families' religious beliefs. Their opt-out requests to the school were initially denied, prompting them to submit testimony at a school board meeting and later issue legal demand letters in November 2023 via First Liberty Institute and True North Legal, citing violations of parental notice requirements under Minnesota law and free exercise rights under the First Amendment.[34] Within weeks, the district implemented a new "Alternative Learning Procedure." However, like Osseo's, this program proved excessively cumbersome. It included a mandatory section requiring parents to provide complex, detailed written explanations of the religious basis for their objection. After continued pressure from parents, the district finally relented in early 2024 and granted opt-out accommodations for all six families (as well as dozens of others) across elementary, middle, and high school levels—establishing a compliant opt-out process that no longer required parents to explain their religious beliefs.[35]

These two cases reveal a troubling inconsistency in how Minnesota school districts respond to parental and religious objections to LGBTQ-inclusive instruction. While St. Louis Park eventually permitted exemptions following legal notice and then reformed its needlessly complicated procedures to establish a clearer, more accessible, and religion-neutral opt-out process, Osseo Area Schools has refused to fully cooperate. Although Osseo also eventually acknowledged students' and teachers' rights under federal and constitutional law to opt-out, Osseo's persistent imposition of unnecessary administrative hurdles effectively discouraged participation in the opt-out process, propagating a subtle but dangerous obstruction of rights. The district engaged in ploys seen in other districts, including selectively granting opt-outs on a case-by-case basis, allowing schools like Osseo to reduce the outrage and momentum needed for widespread parental or legal pushback without having to formally acknowledge a policy shift. This demoralizes concerned parents, complicates legal challenges (which generally favor clear-cut violations), and strategically diffuses controversy. While these tactics may reduce the risk of lawsuits, they do not reflect a good-faith respect for parental rights. Rather, they present an opportunity for advocates to expose the performative nature of such methods and highlight the urgent need for genuine transparency and accountability in educational settings. RFI expects to see an increase in similarly illusory accommodations following the Supreme Court's recent ruling in Mahmoud v. Taylor,[36] which reaffirms the obligation of schools to permit parents to opt their children out of material that seeks to change their religious views. This will further complicate school districts' tenacious efforts to provide compulsory LGBTQ instruction.

3. Case Study 2: Montgomery County Board of Education Refuses to Let Traditional Religious Believers Graduate

There are at least two cases of Montgomery County Public Schools (MCPS) refusing to allow students to graduate because their parents sought to opt their children out of LGBTQ instruction in the district's health class. These are the cases of "Jane," referenced above, which is being litigated in state court under the name Janss v. Montgomery County Board of Education, and Gottesman v. Montgomery County Board of Education, which has been removed to federal district court.[38] Both cases arose in early 2022 when new internal training materials introduced by MCPS for health teachers were leaked and circulated among the community. These materials stated that LGBTQ "resources" would now be used in every unit of the health class rather than solely in the Family Life and Sexuality unit. Notably, MCPS has affirmed what is stated in this training materials in administrative and court proceedings in both cases. This is significant because Maryland state law requires schools to permit opt outs from this unit.[39] As with the LGBTQ language arts curriculum at issue in Mahmoud v. Taylor, MCPS's strategy is clearly to take LGBTQ materials from the unit which parents have a statutory right to opt out of, spread those materials throughout the curriculum, and then deny opt outs on various specious grounds. The parents of the students in both Janss and Gottesman proposed alternative instruction to the health course, but MCPS rejected those options as unapproved. For its part, MCPS proposed alternatives to the health class, but–as in the Minnesota cases–this was an illusory opt out, since, among other reasons, the "alternative" instruction would have contained the same material the parents objected to. MCPS informed the parents that it would not allow their children to graduate on the grounds that the students had failed to complete the required health course. On May 29, a federal judge denied Mr. Gottesman's motion for a temporary restraining order to allow his son to graduate.[40] Ultimately, MCPS did not allow either student to graduate with their class on May 30, 2025. The Board of Education's motion to dismiss Mr. Gottesman's lawsuit is currently pending.

One of the internal training materials leaked in 2022 used by MCPS to train health teachers, stating that "LGBTQ+ resources" will be incorporated "throughout the ENTIRE course."

D. Free Exercise in Public Schools

1. Summary

The Supreme Court recently affirmed that "the right to free exercise, like other First Amendment rights, is not 'shed . . . at the schoolhouse gate.' Government schools, like all government institutions, may not place unconstitutional burdens on religious exercise."[41] As such, students have the right to freely express and exercise their religious convictions in school. However, a pattern of schools disregarding free exercise rights continues to afflict religious students in America. Notably, in the 2023 case, Fellowship of Christian Athletes v. San Jose Unified School District, the San Jose Unified School District discriminated against a student Christian club by derecognizing them when they required its leaders to affirm the group's religious beliefs, even though other student groups can enforce their own membership criteria.[42] Likewise, a young man's request to start a Bible club was denied by his middle school despite the school's support of other secular extracurriculars. In December of last year, after two years and a legal demand letter, the school yielded and recognized the student's constitutional rights.[43,44] In Jane Doe v. Fairfax County Public Schools, a Virginia court ruled in December 2024 that the district's policies that required students to use each other's preferred pronouns and allowed bathroom access based on gender identity violated students' constitutional rights to free speech and religious exercise.[45,46] This year, students from the Moses Lake School District in Washington were asked to conceal rosaries and only wear them "discreetly," on the ground that rosaries are "associated with gang affiliations."[47] In several instances, including one this May, high schools have attempted to limit the free exercise rights of graduating seniors by censoring their commencement speeches to remove any mention of God or religious language—until legal counsel informed them of the students' constitutional protections.[48,49,50,51] Another graduating senior was initially prohibited from wearing an eagle feather and receiving a traditional quilt at her graduation ceremony, consistent with her Native American spiritual convictions, despite Mississippi state law allowing the practice. The school board reversed their decision after receiving a legal demand letter.[52] The case of a Muslim and two Christian boys, outlined below, once again underscores the persistent problem of religious discrimination faced by students in public schools.

2. Case Study: Virginia School District Punishes Christian and Muslim Students for their Faith-Based Objection to a Female Using The Boys Locker Room

When three male students, two Christians and one Muslim, expressed discomfort with sharing a locker room with a transgender-identifying female student, the Loudon County, Virginia school district brought a Title IX sexual harassment investigation against them. The female student also filmed the three boys discussing their discomfort in the locker room despite strict school rules prohibiting the use of recording devices in locker rooms. All three boys explained that their discomfort at being in a changing room with a female stemmed at least in part from their religious beliefs. The students secured legal representation with the Founding Freedoms Law Center and lodged a complaint with the Department of Education's Office of Civil Rights (OCR), claiming that Loudon County Public Schools (LCPS)'s investigation was intended to punish them on the basis of their religious beliefs and sex. The school subsequently dropped the charges against the Muslim student but added an additional charge to each of the Christian students, leading them to raise a further claim of religious discrimination, given that the facts were identical for each student .[53]

On July 25, 2025, the Department of Education announced that it had concluded its investigation of LCPS's conduct in this case and found that the district had discriminated against the male students on the basis of sex in violation of Title IX of the Education Amendments of 1972.[54] However, the Department's OCR has advised that it does not have jurisdiction over the charge of religious discrimination and that it has referred that claim to the Department of Justice.

E. Religious Land Use

1. Summary

The land use provisions of the Religious Land Use and Institutionalized Persons Act of 2000 (RLUIPA) "protect individuals, houses of worship, and other religious institutions from discrimination in zoning and landmarking laws."[55] However, recent years have seen numerous transgressions of this protection. For example, as of April 30, 2025, the city of Toms River, NJ plans to seize Christ Episcopal Church's 10-acres of property for a recreational center, seemingly in retaliation for the church's request to build a homeless shelter.[56] Additionally, on June 2, 2023, the city of Miami Beach agreed to pay $1.3 million to a small Orthodox Jewish group over claims of discrimination and code enforcement harassment. The group cited excessive inspections and surveillance and the city treating its home-based prayer gatherings as an illegally operating religious institution.[57] Stafford County in Virginia similarly violated RLUIPA by creating new zoning laws to block the construction of an Islamic cemetery.[58] Finally, Micah's Way, a nonprofit that feeds people experiencing homelessness in Santa Ana, sued the city in 2023 after being denied an operating permit due to zoning restrictions. The city claimed food distribution is not allowed in the area, but Micah's Way argued, and the U.S. Department of Justice agreed,[59] that its charitable work is a protected religious practice. The dispute was ultimately resolved through settlement.[60,61] Regrettably, the Apache plaintiffs in Apache Stronghold v. United States have not yet received the same level of government support afforded to Micah's Way through the Department of Justice, a matter detailed below.

2. Case Study: Congress Hands Over Apache Religious Sites to a Foreign Corporation for Destruction

A multinational mining corporation was granted control of an Arizona Apache worship site by Congress in 2014 where it plans to construct a copper mine on the land valued at over $150 billion for its copper reserves.[62] The Apache sued, arguing that the federal government's transfer of the land was a substantial burden on their religious exercise protected under the Religious Freedom Restoration Act (RFRA). "Our way of teaching is through oral stories, but these oral stories are connected to the land. Our teachings are connected to the land," said Nosie, a member of the Apache. "How do I teach [my daughter] to become an Apache woman when that place is gone forever?"[63] For centuries, Oak Flats has been used by the Apache to perform sacred acts that cannot be conducted anywhere else.[64]

The Oak Flat copper deposit in Arizona has been at the center of controversy for decades. Originally protected from mining in 1955 by President Eisenhower, the land remained off-limits until a 2014 legislative maneuver by Senator John McCain authorized a land swap allowing mining company Resolution Copper to acquire the area. Efforts to reverse this transfer, including a 2021 bill led by Rep. Raúl Grijalva, ultimately failed.[65]

After the Apache filed their initial complaint in 2021, a 3-judge panel of the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit ruled against the Apache, holding that the destruction of a sacred worship site does not constitute a "substantial burden" under its interpretation of RFRA. Despite their perseverance, the Apache were once again ruled against under limited en banc review and subsequently denied a request for full en banc review. Prospects for judicial relief were totally eliminated when the U.S. Supreme Court declined to hear their case on May 27, 2025.[66,67]

RFI filed two separate amicus briefs in the Supreme Court in support of the Apache's petition for review and other briefs in lower court proceedings. The first refutes the Ninth Circuit's concern that granting the Apache relief in this case would require an interpretation of RFRA that would afford Native Americans a veto over the use of all public land.[68] The second, a multifaith brief joined by RFI's Islam and Religious Freedom Action Team, argues that, contrary to the Ninth Circuit's interpretation of RFRA, the federal government's plan to annihilate a site central to Apache religious practice constitutes a clear "substantial burden" under the statute's protections, a position affirmed by Justice Gorsuch in his dissent to the Supreme Court's denial of the petition for a writ of certiorari.[69,70,71]

> Physical and visual impacts on TCPs, special interest areas, and plant and mineral resources caused by construction of the mine would be immediate, permanent, and large in scale. Mitigation measures cannot replace or replicate the Tribal resources and TCPs that would be destroyed by project construction and operation. The landscape, which is imbued with specific cultural attributions by each of the consulting Tribes, would also be permanently affected…
> The direct impacts on the TCP and special interest areas from construction of the mine and associated facilities constitute an irreversible commitment of resources. TCPs cannot be reconstructed once disturbed, nor can they be fully mitigated. Sacred springs would be eradicated by subsidence or construction of the tailings storage facility, and affected by groundwater drawdown. Changes that permanently affect the ability of Tribal members to access the TCP and special interest areas for cultural and religious purposes also consist of an irreversible loss of resources.[73]

F. Free Exercise of Institutionalized Persons

1. Summary

The First Amendment protects a prisoner's right to practice his or her religion of choice. Congress has acted to reinforce this protection through its passage of RLUIPA.[74] Regardless, inmates representing various religions in U.S. prisons still struggle to practice their beliefs freely and without constraints. The Chair of the U.S. Commission on Civil Rights, Rochelle Garza, says, "Religious freedom is a constitutional right that does not end at the prison gate. Yet, our [2025] report shows that incarcerated individuals, especially those from minority faiths, continue to face serious barriers in practicing their religion. These challenges often stem from bias, inadequate accommodations, and broken grievance systems."[75] These issues, emphasizing their impact on Sikh individuals, are further explained in a letter sent to RFI by Harman Singh, Executive Director of the Sikh Coalition:

> Individuals who are being held by the government for any number of reasons still have civil rights. Unfortunately, incarcerated and detained Sikhs have seen their rights—specifically, their religious rights—infringed upon by the federal government and state governments alike.
> Staff in federal and state prisons must respect the civil and religious rights of all incarcerated persons. For Sikhs, this often means accommodations for articles of faith as well as religiously-mandated dietary needs. Instances of egregious disrespect (including forced shavings or the wanton destruction of turbans) are completely unacceptable, and betray a lack of humanity towards one's fellow man that many faith traditions would find abhorrent.
> Sikh migrants who are detained in DHS (including ICE and CBP) custody have encountered similar issues. In addition to the confiscation and destruction of articles of faith as well as issues related to diet, public reporting has indicated that detained Sikhs have faced a lack of clean places to pray and inadequate access to Punjabi language translation services. How we choose to treat these vulnerable people, many of whom may be seeking asylum for their political and/or religious beliefs, is a reflection of not just our laws and policies, but our values—who we are as a nation.

The failure of officials to accommodate prisoners' religious practices seems to be a perennial pattern. In 2022, Quaker inmates at New York's Green Haven Correctional Facility lost their latest court battle when the U.S. Supreme Court declined to hear their challenge to a decision by prison officials to shut down a longstanding weekly Quaker worship service and unilaterally replace it with a service designed by the officials.[76] A 2019 study by the organization Muslim Advocates "reviewed more than 160 free exercise lawsuits filed by incarcerated Muslims in federal court, and found that many involved a lack of religiously-approved meals, an inability to observe traditional religious fasting or being barred from praying in groups."[77] For example, in the case Holt v. Payne,[78] Alabama prison officials ended their previous practice of providing fasting Muslim inmates a fast-breaking meal equivalent to the meals served to non-fasting inmates, forcing Muslim inmates to choose between practicing their faith and receiving the caloric intake received by other inmates.[79] A similar case involving a Native American inmate is presented below.

2. Case Study: Jerome Meraz v. Dexter Payne[80]

Jerome Meraz, an inmate in the Arkansas Division of Corrections, filed a civil rights complaint on March 13, 2024, alleging that prison officials violated his First Amendment right to freely exercise his Native American religion. Meraz claimed he was denied access to essential religious practices, including use of a sweat lodge, medicine bag, peace pipe, and ceremonial herbs. His subsequent request for a transfer to another facility that might accommodate his religious needs was refused. Following Meraz's complaint, the defendants filed a motion for summary judgment, arguing that Meraz had failed to exhaust the prison's grievance procedures. However, on June 13, 2025, the district court adopted a magistrate judge's recommendation and denied the motion, finding that Meraz had sufficiently exhausted administrative remedies and permitting Meraz to proceed to trial on his free exercise claims.[81,82]

1. Summary

A fundamental principle of the American constitutional order is that every human being has the right to be secure from violence inflicted on them by others on the basis of their religion. This is equally true of religious institutions. Nonetheless, Americans continue to be vulnerable to religion-based hate crimes. According to the most recent FBI Hate Crime Report released in 2023, "There were 2,699 reported incidents based on religion. More than half of these (1,832) were driven by anti-Jewish bias. Incidents involving anti-Muslim (236) sentiments rose from last year, while anti-Sikh (156) incidents fell slightly compared to 2022."[84] We list below significant incidents illustrating this disturbing trend.

2. Case Studies

a) Catholics and Catholic Institutions

Catholics and their churches, charities, and institutions have faced a persistent pattern of violence and property defacement over the past several years. A catalog of the hate crimes their institutions have undergone from January 1, 2020 through June 21, 2025 in the forms of vandalism and property destruction is presented in the Appendix. The recorded statistics are from instances that have been publicly reported in news media and compiled in a list by the United States Conference of Catholic Bishops.[85] RFI produced a similar report documenting attacks on religious pro-life Americans from 2020-2022, including Catholic sites of various kinds.[86]

were 9,354 antisemitic incidents across the United States, marking a "5% increase from the 8,873 incidents recorded in 2023, a 344% increase over the past five years and a 893% increase over the past 10 years."[87] These incidents included 196 assaults and 2,606 acts of vandalism against synagogues, cemeteries, cultural sites, and educational institutions.[88]

The injuring of nine people by Molotov cocktails thrown at a pro-Israel gathering on June 1, 2025 and the murder of two Israeli Embassy staffers in late May 2025 prompted the FBI to issue a public warning: "The ongoing Israel-HAMAS conflict may motivate other violent extremists and hate crime perpetrators with similar grievances to conduct violence against Jewish and Israeli communities and their supporters. Foreign terrorist organizations also may try to exploit narratives related to the conflict to inspire attacks in the United States."[89] Unfortunately, the recent war is only exacerbating a pre-existing pattern of violence against Jewish communities.

One instance of such violence occurred when an undocumented immigrant of Moroccan origin shot and killed a 39-year-old Jewish man walking to a synagogue. The victim was easily identifiable as Jewish as he was wearing a kippah at the time of the attack and the community where the shooting took place, West Rogers Park, has a large Orthodox Jewish population. After the assailant shot the Jewish man, he targeted the first responders who arrived at the scene, firing his gun and yelling "Allahu Akbar," meaning "God is most great," which led officers to conclude that the crime was motivated by religious hatred.[90] The suspect committed suicide while in custody shortly after his arrest.[91]

c) Muslims and Mosques

As one community leader puts it, "hate crimes—such as mosque vandalism, threats during Ramadan or Eid, and harassment during prayer—continue to endanger Muslim communities."[92] An example of such agression occurred on March 1, 2025, the first day of Ramadan, when a physical therapy clinic owned by Iranian American Muslim Negeene Mosaed was vandalized with anti-Muslim graffiti.[93] Additionally, on June 20, 2025, a Muslim woman was violently attacked on the subway in Queens, New York after confirming her faith to her assailant. The man, Naved Durrni, struck her repeatedly in the face, fracturing bones, and was later charged with assault as a hate crime.[94] The same man had several hate crime charges filed against him for anti-Muslim actions committed in June and July of 2021, including pursuing, robbing, striking, and yelling anti-muslim rhetoric at several victims.[95] In October 2023, a six-year-old Palestinian-American boy was fatally stabbed 26 times because of his murderer's hatred of Muslims and Palestinians. This attack was classified as an anti-Muslim hate crime, spurred by fears related to the onset of the Israel-Hamas war. In February 2025, his murderer was sentenced to 53 years in prison for this crime.[96]

d) Sikhs and Gurdwaras

Harman Singh of the Sikh Coalition provided us with this summary of hate crimes experienced among the Sikh community:

> Sikhs have experienced targeted violence in the United States for generations, from the Bellingham Riots[97] in the early 1900s through a new wave of post-9/11 hate crimes.[98] One of the deadliest attacks on an American house of worship in history occurred on August 5, 2012, when a white supremacist gunman's deadly assault on a gurdwara[99] (Sikh house of worship) in Oak Creek, Wisconsin, ultimately led to the deaths of seven worshippers. As a result of that attack, the Sikh community led a successful advocacy campaign to ensure that the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) began tracking anti-Sikh hate crimes and bias incidents. Since 2014, when that data was first publicly released, Sikhs have consistently remained among the most frequently targeted religious groups for hate crimes and bias incidents, including assaults, robberies, and instances of vandalism where bias was a motivating factor. While some instances of anti-Sikh violence have been linked to mistaken identity, it is important to note that there are plenty of documented cases where Sikhs have been specifically targeted due to their faith or other aspects of their intersectional identity.

Some suggest the Khalistan movement, a Sikh separatist effort, is responsible.[101]

H. Employment Discrimination

1. Summary

Title VII of the 1964 Civil Rights Act "forbids [religious] discrimination when it comes to any aspect of employment, including hiring, firing, pay, job assignments, promotions, layoff, training, fringe benefits, and any other term or condition of employment." The law also requires "an employer or other covered entity to reasonably accommodate an employee's religious beliefs or practices," which applies to dress and grooming, scheduling, and other workplace policies.[104] As illustrated by the 2023 case of Groff v. Dejoy,[105] in which the postal service refused to accommodate an evangelical Christian employee's request to observe the Sabbath,[106] employers continue to violate the rights of their religious employees. For instance, on June 4, 2025, the U.S. Equal Employment Opportunity Commission filed a lawsuit against a construction company for denying an Apostolic Christian employee's religiously motivated request to wear a close-fitting skirt over her pants, a request that complied with safety regulations. The employee was fired when she would not remove the skirt.[107] Similarly, a Muslim man attended prayer meetings on Fridays during his lunch break and informed his supervisor when he would return late but was harshly reprimanded for tardiness and eventually fired. On March 6, 2025, the court upheld his claims against his employer of religious discrimination and failure to accommodate.[108]

Harman Singh of the Sikh Coalition underscores the employment discrimination faced by Sikhs, asserting that extending policy protection to this community would also provide protections to other religious groups:

> No one should have to choose between their job and their religious beliefs. Sikhs, unfortunately, often face unique challenges with regard to workplace discrimination—often due to employers' failure to understand their obligations in the eyes of the law.
> Equality of opportunity is a bedrock American value, reflected in federal and state-level laws that protect employees' religious rights. Whether in the public or private sectors, however, Sikh employees often encounter discrimination in their workplaces…Sikhs [and other minority religious groups] can encounter discriminatory treatment rooted in bias against their perceived or actual religion, race, or national origin. Employers also often fail to understand their obligation to accommodate Sikhs' articles of faith in the least-restrictive means possible; this can range from uniform policies that wrongfully prohibit turbans, claims that unshorn hair contradict safety standards or are incompatible with personal protective equipment (PPE), or misplaced fears that kirpans violate anti-weapons policies.
> Advocacy for Sikhs' rights to practice their faith while employed often overlap with other groups who encounter similar issues. The same policy that ensures a Sikh man's right to his turban or a Sikh woman's right to her kirpan could extend the same protection for a Muslim woman's hijab or a Jewish man's yarmulke. Moreover, a wide range of religious employees require assurances of their rights as employees pertaining to daily prayer, diet, and days off for religious observances.
> Stopping employment discrimination is one of the most challenging areas to tackle with proactive policies, given that legal cases often begin with an employer in violation of established laws already on the books. However, the Sikh Coalition won't stop fighting to pursue new policies or reforms that can alleviate persistent burdens on Sikh employees, including with a specific focus in modernizing uniform and grooming standards as well as making PPE more inclusive for individuals in and beyond the medical and first responders fields.

2. Case Study: Brown v. Alaska Airlines

Brown v. Alaska Airlines, a case currently pending in the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit, is another example illustrating employment discrimination against religious individuals. Alaska Airlines posted on its internal company website its support for the Equality Act, a Congressional bill that would have prohibited companies from discriminating on the basis of "sexual orientation" and "gender identity." The company promised that it welcomed questions and invited people to express their different perspectives on its website. Two flight attendants commented about the proposed legislation's risk to religious freedom and about the danger of opening up women's restrooms in a way that could be exploited by predators. Alaska Airlines called the comments discriminatory and fired both flight attendants.

The flight attendants sued the company in federal court under Title VII of the 1964 Civil Rights Act. Discovery revealed hostility by Alaska Airlines management toward the former employees. The district court ruled for the airline, finding that it was protecting other employees from hearing offensive ideas. The court also found that the flight attendants' comments were not protected by Title VII because they were not "religious," in that not all Christians shared their views and that they merely reflected general ethical principles. The flight attendants are now appealing to the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit.[109]

The district court's narrow view that religious beliefs are not protected if they are not shared by all members of a religious community, if they are shared by other religions, or if they concern universal human precepts departs from well-established law. Title VII's protection is not limited to beliefs that are shared by all members of a religious community. Likewise, sincerely held beliefs that parallel the beliefs of other religions or are claimed to be universal also enjoy protection under Title VII. The district court's narrow interpretation of Title VII, especially if it is widely adopted, would have serious negative ramifications for people of all faiths.

I. Housing Discrimination in Local Land Use Laws and Practices

1. Summary

Federal laws such as the Fair Housing Act (FHA) protect religious individuals and institutions from housing discrimination based on their beliefs and practices.[110] Municipalities may violate the FHA by, among other things, "[p]rohibiting or restricting the development of housing based on the belief that the residents will be members of a particular protected class" such as religion.[111] Despite this legal protection, numerous instances demonstrate officials failing to uphold this standard in recent years, especially among Jewish communities. For example, in the ongoing case Lost Lake Holdings, LLC v. Town of Forestburgh,[112] an Orthodox Hassidic developer is suing the city of Forestburgh, NY for religious discrimination in the form of permit denials, illegal property searches, inflated property assessments, and increasing local fees due to fear that their proposed housing development will attract Orthodox Jews. Likewise, this year in Jackson Township, New Jersey, a top code enforcement official was caught coordinating with an anti-Orthodox activist group and filing complaints that mirrored discriminatory rhetoric targeting Jewish residents. This incident follows a broader pattern of bias in the township, which has already faced lawsuits and federal oversight for zoning and code enforcement actions aimed at discouraging Orthodox Jewish settlement.[113] In Hendricks County, Indiana, the Muslim community faced similar discrimination when county officials twice denied zoning approval for Al Hussnain Inc.—an Islamic seminary, school, and residential housing project. In September 2024, the Department of Justice reached an agreement with Hendricks County, determining the denials violated RLUIPA and FHA by discriminating on the basis of religion.[114,115] Another New Jersey city, Linden, has likewise applied discriminatory regulations to their zoning procedures, as elaborated on below.

2. Case Study: Linden, NJ Discriminatory Zoning Ordinances

Linden has demonstrated bias and discrimination towards Jews in their design to "prevent Orthodox Jews from moving there." Evidence of discrimination include their mayor outwardly expressing his desire to "keep our community from being taken over by guys with big hats and curls" and the creation of zoning changes to keep Jews from worshiping within their city such as increasing "the minimum lot size for houses of worship from 25,000 to 90,000 square feet—an almost unachievable benchmark within the city limits." Appallingly, members of the Orthodox Jewish community were reportedly denied entry to a Linden City Council meeting on April 18, 2025, potentially violating New Jersey's Open Public Meetings Act, which ensures public access to government meetings.[116]

III. Recommendations

We advise the commission to make the following recommendations to the President:

A. Autonomy of Religious Institutions

Recommendation: Protect and Affirm the Tax-Exempt Status of Religious Institutions

a) Affirm and protect the institutional autonomy and tax-exempt status of religious institutions with different religious and spiritual beliefs and missions.
b) Promote agency guidance throughout the faith-based offices across the executive branch that reaffirms 501(c)(3) protections as consistent with First Amendment guarantees.
c) Through the White House Faith Office, convene and consult with diverse religious institutions and nonprofits to better understand the theological, legal, and programmatic nuances at stake.

Recommendation: Initiate Enforcement Action Against New York City and New York State

a) Respond to the January 15, 2025, Title VI complaint submitted to the Department of Education's Office of Civil Rights on behalf of several yeshivas, by investigating New York City and New York State for religious discrimination related to those governments' efforts to infringe on the yeshivas' institutional religious autonomy, and taking appropriate action to enforce the institutions' statutory and constitutional rights.

B. Discrimination Against Religious Institutions in State Programs

Recommendation: Encourage States' Universal Pre-K Programs to Utilize Indirect Funding Models

a) The Departments of Education and Health and Human Services should issue joint guidance encouraging states to utilize indirect funding mechanisms—such as scholarships, certificates, or vouchers—in universal childcare and Pre-K programs to promote equal treatment of faith-based organizations and ensure that parental choice drives selection of providers, including providers that share their religious and moral values.
b) The White House Faith Office, in coordination with the Domestic Policy Council, should recommend this model as a best practice, aligning with the principles of Charitable Choice and recent Supreme Court precedent.
c) The Department of Health and Human Services should update or clarify regulations under Head Start or Child Care and Development Block Grant (CCDBG) to emphasize indirect funding as the preferred model where state discretion exists and reaffirm the right of faith-based providers to retain their religious character and staffing practices.

C. Parental Rights

Recommendation: Create a Parental Rights and Institutional Religious Freedom Taskforce

a) Create a taskforce staffed by the Departments of Justice, Health and Human Services, and Education to consider what federal action (including proposed legislation) can counteract the strong tendency of states to construct universal pre-K systems that exclude faith-based participation and faith-filled curricula, even while those states regularly receive federal child care dollars (Child Care and Development Block Grant Act funds), which are required to be spent in a way that strongly accommodates faith-based providers and families desiring faith-based child care.
b) Empower the taskforce to modify Head Start and Early Head Start programs to become faith-accommodating to better serve religiously pluralistic communities.

Recommendation: Investigate Osseo Area School District

a) Direct the Department of Education or Department of Justice to launch a Title VI investigation into the Osseo (Minnesota) Area School District, with particular scrutiny on the district's practice of offering misleading or superficial opt-out options with the aim of frustrating parents' exercise of their fundamental rights.

Recommendation: Investigate Montgomery County Public Schools

a) Direct the Department of Education or Department of Justice to launch a Title VI investigation into the practice and policy of Montgomery County (Maryland) Public Schools to refuse to permit parents of students to opt their children out of health class instruction aimed at changing their views on sex and gender, and to refuse to permit those students whose parents removed them from such instruction to graduate.

D. Free Exercise in Public Schools

Recommendation: Strengthen the Enforcement of Anti-Discrimination Laws in Schools (K-12 and Higher Education)

a) Direct the Department of Education to issue updated guidance to public school districts reminding them that students have the right to pray, wear religious attire, or express religious views in class assignments.

DOJ-RLC Comment-002964

b) Mandate policies for religious accommodation (e.g., allowing students to make up exams or assignments missed for religious holidays like Eid or Yom Kippur).
c) Clarify that protections under Title VI of the 1964 Civil Rights Act extends to religious status when it intersects with race, ethnicity, or national origin (e.g., protecting Muslim, Sikh, and Jewish students from harassment and discrimination).

E. Religious Land Use

Recommendation: Protect Sacred Apache Lands in Oak Flats, Arizona

a) This threatened violation of Apache religious liberty has unfortunately proven not to be redressable in the judicial system. This creates an opportunity for the Executive Branch to step in to protect this worship space. We advise the commission to recommend that the administration direct federal agencies to take no further action to transfer the land to Resolution Copper on the ground that doing so would violate the Religious Freedom Restoration Act and render any agency action in furtherance of the transfer ultra vires.[117]

F. Free Exercise of Institutionalized Persons

Recommendation: Protect the Religious Rights of Individuals in Custody

a) In collaboration with community stakeholders, host trainings and regularly publish and disseminate updated rules and guidance for staff at the Federal Bureau of Prisons, state departments of corrections, and individual correctional facilities underscoring the obligation to respect religious and civil rights religion-based harassment in the workplace and provide reasonable accommodations for religiously observant incarcerated persons across confinement settings.

Recommendation: Strengthen Anti-Discrimination Laws in Public Institutions such as Hospitals, Government Offices, Prisons, etc.

a) Update public accommodation laws to ensure that religious dietary needs (e.g., halal, kosher) are met in government-funded institutions such as prisons, hospitals, and shelters.
b) Require chaplaincy services in correctional facilities and hospitals to accommodate a range of faiths.
c) Ensure training for public employees (e.g., police, social workers) on engaging with diverse religious communities respectfully and lawfully.

[117] See, e.g., Attorney General's Memorandum on Religious Liberty, 82 FR 49668 (October 26, 2017)(noting that "RFRA prohibits the federal government from substantially burdening a person's exercise of religion," and that "RFRA applies to all actions by federal administrative agencies…").

DOJ-RLC Comment-002965

G. Hate Crimes Against Individuals and Institutions

Recommendation: Prevent, Address, and Track Hate Crimes

a) Mandate that local and state law enforcement provide accurate and verifiable hate crime reports to the FBI to combat the prolific problem of the under-reporting of hate crime data.
b) Implement provisions of laws like the COVID-19 Hate Crimes Act, the Jabara-Heyer NO HATE Act, and the Non-Profit Security Grant Improvement Act of 2022 to ensure that the resources provided under these laws are accessible, including making these materials available in various languages so more communities can find and effectively utilize them.
c) Protect the Community Relations Service and allow this critical component of the Department of Justice to carry out its congressional mandate to keep the peace in communities, mediate conflict, and de-escalate tensions.

H. Employment Discrimination

Recommendation: Combat Employment Discrimination

a) Host trainings in collaboration with community stakeholders and regularly publish and disseminate updated rules and guidance on employers' obligations to address religion-based harassment in the workplace and provide reasonable accommodations for religiously observant employees in a wide range of employment contexts.
b) Proceed with the federal project titled "Fit Testing of Respirators on Those Wearing Beard Bands," announced in 2024, and initiate other such research projects to gain further insight into PPE for workers with religiously-mandated facial hair.
c) Ensure that the nation's largest employer, the Department of Defense, is dedicated to adopting policies across all military branches that permit military personnel of faiths that require beards, long hair, or headwear, to comply with uniform and grooming requirements, as the Army and Air Force have already done in their policies.

Recommendation: Expand the Civil Rights Divisions of Federal Agencies in Religious Liberty

a) Increase staffing and funding specifically for cases involving religious discrimination or profiling, including at airports, schools, workplaces, and law enforcement agencies.
b) Mandate regular public reporting on how religious discrimination complaints are handled, broken down by religion, setting (e.g., workplace, school, government), and resolution.

DOJ-RLC Comment-002966

I. Housing Discrimination in Local Land Use Laws and Practices

Recommendation: Guidance and Funding to Mitigate Fair Housing Violations by Municipalities

a) Direct the DOJ and HUD to issue guidance to municipalities encompassing or adjoining minority religious communities to inform them of their obligations under the FHA, Title VI, and RLUIPA.
b) Maintain and strengthen HUD's Fair Housing Initiatives Program (FHIP) as a bulwark against housing discrimination on the basis of religion, ethnicity, national origin, etc. by local and state governments and private parties. Policy concerns with FHIP can be mitigated by conditioning FHIP grants on combating disparate treatment (as with, e.g., the housing discrimination against Orthodox Jewish communities in New Jersey) rather than disparate impact.

Recommendation: Investigate New Jersey Municipalities That Are Intentionally Discriminating Against Orthodox Jews

a) Direct DOJ's Housing and Civil Enforcement Section to investigate the city of Linden, New Jersey, and, if appropriate, take legal action against it to enforce the Fair Housing Act's (FHA) prohibition against disparate treatment of Orthodox Jews in its housing laws and practices.

Importance: Normal

Dear Members of the Religious Liberty Commission,

I am writing to respectfully request that the Commission include the removal of the religious exemption in education as an important discussion point for the September 8th Religious Liberty Commission hearing. This matter is directly tied to the fundamental principles of religious liberty. The removal of this exemption in education impacts the ability of individuals to freely exercise their religious beliefs without undue government interference. Avoiding this topic undermines the Commission's mission to protect and uphold religious liberty. Given its direct relevance, I urge you to ensure that this issue is addressed during the upcoming hearing alongside any other vaccine-related matters.

Thank you for your consideration and for your ongoing commitment to defending religious freedom.

Sincerely,

I am writing with deep concern regarding the upcoming September 8, 2025 hearing on vaccine-related educational policy, which currently excludes any discussion of religious exemptions. As a citizen who values both public health and constitutional freedoms, I urge you to immediately reconsider this exclusion.

Families in Connecticut have been denied school access for their children due to sincere religious objections to vaccination —yet their voices have been silenced. This is a devastating blow to families who are simply trying to follow their conscience and faith. To deny them a forum at the Religious Liberty Commission is to deny their First Amendment rights.

We respectfully ask that you:

Allow discussion of religious exemptions at the September and October 2025 education hearings.

Schedule a dedicated hearing on vaccine-related religious liberty issues as soon as possible—waiting until 2026 will leave countless children without access to education this school year.

These are urgent and deeply personal matters for thousands of families. Please ensure that their concerns are not only heard but given the full and fair consideration they deserve under our Constitution.

Thank you for your attention and service.

Respectfully,

Larissa Dunay

To Whom it May Concern,

The removal of students from school due to their religious beliefs is both unjust and a direct violation of our constitutional rights, which guarantee the free exercise of religion for all Americans. Denying children access to education on the basis of their faith is discriminatory, harmful, and sets a dangerous precedent that erodes the very freedoms our nation was founded upon. It is imperative that the commission address this urgent matter by ensuring that religious freedoms are openly discussed during the September and October 2025 education hearings. Furthermore, because vaccine mandates are directly impacting our children's ability to attend school today, we demand an immediate, dedicated hearing on vaccine-related policies so that these pressing issues can be resolved without further harm to students and families. Our children's rights and futures cannot be postponed —they require action now.

Thank you in advance,

Subject: Request for First Liberty's Support to Protect Religious Liberty in Education

Dear Mr. Shackelford,

It was such a privilege to meet you after the first hearing of the Religious Liberty Commission! I'm deeply grateful to Ms. Prejean Boller for connecting us, though I wish we'd had more time to discuss the vital work ahead. Attending that historic event was truly an honor—a powerful reminder that religious liberty is our first freedom and courage our first virtue.

As you may know, Guiding The Impact has been leading a coalition of religious liberty and medical liberty organizations, alongside religious leaders, in urging President Trump to issue an Executive Order on July 4, 2025. This order would withhold discretionary federal funds from educational institutions that deny religious exemptions to childhood vaccination requirements, a policy that currently bars approximately 350,000 children from schools in New York, California, Connecticut, and Maine, forcing families to compromise their faith. We commend President Trump's steadfast commitment to religious freedom and believe swift action is critical to address these First Amendment violations.

My understanding is that the second hearing of the Religious Liberty Commission, scheduled for September 8th, will focus on education, presenting an ideal opportunity to advance this issue. However, the ongoing harm to families in these four states underscores the urgent need for executive action before the next hearing, ensuring children can start school this fall without sacrificing their religious beliefs.

Attached is our coalition's package, which includes a cover letter to President Trump urging immediate action to protect religious liberty, a comprehensive letter to the Religious Liberty Commission detailing First Amendment violations by these four states, and a proposed draft Executive Order, "Preserving Access to Education and Free Exercise of Religion" for signing on July 4, 2025, to withhold federal funds from educational institutions denying religious exemptions to vaccination requirements. On Independence Day, the President's Executive Order can reaffirm America as a beacon of faith and freedom, ending the persecution of religious families.

First Liberty's unparalleled leadership in defending religious freedom makes it uniquely positioned to champion this cause. We urge you to endorse this package and leverage your influence to place it before President Trump, ensuring swift action to protect these families. I would be deeply honored to discuss our proposal further with you, hear your invaluable insights, and explore how we can collaborate to advance this critical mission. Please let me know a convenient time for us to connect.

Thank you for considering this opportunity to uphold religious liberty and strengthen America's moral foundation.

Sincerely,

Subject: Urgent: Address First Amendment Violations Denying Religious Exemptions in NY, CA, CT, and ME
To: <[redacted]>

Dear Mr. Shackelford,

We are a coalition of religious and medical liberty organizations commending President Trump's commitment to religious freedom and urging swift action to address First Amendment violations in New York, California, Connecticut, and Maine. These states' policies deny religious exemptions to childhood vaccination requirements, barring children from public and private schools and limiting healthcare access, forcing families to compromise their faith.

During the White House press briefing on June 3, 2025, Amanda Head, a reporter with Real America's Voice, asked Press Secretary Karoline Leavitt about the administration's efforts to protect religious exemptions to childhood vaccination requirements, highlighting the defiance of Democratic-led states like New York, California, Connecticut, and Maine, which deny these exemptions and bar children from schools, aligning with our coalition's urgent call for federal action to safeguard religious liberty in education. In response, Leavitt affirmed President Trump's support for religious exemptions to vaccination requirements and committed to raising the issue at the White House for potential executive action.

To this end, please find attached our coalition's letter to the Religious Liberty Commission detailing First Amendment violations in New York, California, Connecticut, and Maine and a proposed action plan to restore religious liberty. We are calling on President Trump to issue an Executive Order on Independence Day to reaffirm America as a beacon of faith and freedom, ending the persecution of religious families.

As indicated in our letter, we have gathered substantial evidence from families in New York, California, Connecticut, and Maine documenting the religious discrimination and hostility they face due to unconstitutional policies, and we respectfully request a meeting in June to deliver this evidence.

We eagerly await President Trump's leadership, alongside the Religious Liberty Commission, in restoring religious liberty for families facing persecution, confident that his decisive action will uphold America's founding principles of faith and freedom.

Sincerely,
Elyse Young and Lorraine Miller

Importance: High
Inline-Images: image001.png

Dear Mary and the Dear Religious Liberty Commission,

Elyse Young suggested I reach out to you. On behalf of A Voice for Choice Advocacy (AVFCA), I would like to thank you for the important work your commission is doing to safeguard religious freedoms across various sectors of public life. Over the past decade, our organization has been actively championing religious liberties in California, particularly in the areas of school, secondary education, and workplace vaccine mandates.

We understand that the upcoming meeting on September 8th will include a discussion on religious liberties in schools. This is a topic of great importance to us. I, along with AVFCA, have been working closely with Elyse Young in her dedicated efforts to bring the issue of religious exemptions for school vaccine requirements to the forefront.

AVFCA currently has two active lawsuits challenging California's vaccine mandate laws (SB277), both of which can be found on our website here: https://avoiceforchoiceadvocacy.org/avfca-litigation/ One lawsuit addresses the right to use antibody titer testing as an alternative to vaccination, while the second challenges the lack of a religious exemption on constitutional grounds. More information on the latter can be found at: https://avoiceforchoiceadvocacy.org/litigation/ca-school-vaccine-religious-exemption-lawsuit/

We believe this religious exemption case is the strongest of its kind filed to date, both due to the unique nature of our plaintiffs and the constitutional arguments it presents. I have cc'd our legal team who are leading this lawsuit forward.

It would be an honor if the commission would consider inviting one of our attorneys to speak at the upcoming meeting. I would also be happy to present on the current status of vaccine exemptions in California, or more broadly, in the four states that do not currently offer such exemptions. Please let us know if we can be considered as speakers, or if there are materials or a formal submission process required for consideration.

With appreciation,
C

Good Day Ladies and Gentlemen of the Commission,

The opportunity to submit this letter to you for public comment is appreciated. My name is Michael Pantos Jr., and I am a lifelong citizen of Massachusetts. I have been blessed to live in a small town with a faith filled community. Unfortunately, the Commonwealth of Massachusetts has a state legislature that repeatedly attempts to infringe on our religious liberty. This is of great concern to me, and is the primary reason I am writing to you today.

On Friday, 6 June 2025, myself and a large number of other concerned citizens testified at the Massachusetts State House in front of the Committee on Public Health. This particular public hearing was for bills regarding vaccinations. This was my first time ever going to the state house, because this issue is so important to me. I testified in opposition of bills H2554 and S1557. These bills are a further infringement on the religious freedom and religious liberty of Massachusetts residents. If passed, these bills would remove the religious exemption from vaccination for students at K-12 schools across the commonwealth. These bills have been presented year after year in the legislature, despite the repeated strong opposition from citizens. When bills that infringe on civil rights do not pass on their own, the language is often later added to budget bills in order for it to pass.

Having been a lifelong resident of beautiful Massachusetts, I plan to start my own family here. As a devout Christian, my future children will need religious exemptions from vaccinations in order to attend school. My sincerely held religious beliefs will not cave. Still, members of our government and those looking to remove religious exemptions often disregard faithful people like myself or treat us as second class citizens. This particular issue is just the most recent example of the infringements on religious liberty in Massachusetts.

My question for you is as follows. What will be done at the federal level to secure, protect, and defend the rights of citizens of The United States that live in states where religious liberty is constantly under attack and stripped away?

Thank you very much for taking the time to read this letter. It gives me much hope to know that there are people in the administration that care deeply about protecting religious liberty for all citizens. Our society was founded to defend religious liberty and we must keep it that way.

God Bless America. Jesus Christ is Lord.

Yours in Freedom,

Michael Pantos Jr.

To the Members of the Religious Liberty Commission,

A Voice for Choice Advocacy respectfully urges the Commission to take prompt and decisive action regarding deeply troubling violations of religious freedom occurring in New York, California, Connecticut, and Maine. These states have stripped away the right of families to access education if childhood vaccinations are against their sincere religious convictions, a right clearly protected by the First Amendment.

By abolishing religious exemptions while continuing to permit medical ones, these states place people of faith in an impossible position—forcing them to choose between adhering to their beliefs or forfeiting their children's access to in person education. For many, this has meant withdrawing from schools entirely or uprooting their lives to find refuge in states that still honor freedom of conscience. This is not theoretical—it is a lived reality for thousands who have long held objections grounded in their understanding of divine will and the sanctity of the body.

Our organization, A Voice for Choice Advocacy is supporting an active lawsuit in California that argues SB 277 (the law that removed the right for parents to decline vaccines on religious grounds) goes against the US Constitution's First Amendment's Free Exercise Clause and demands that California law must include a Religious Exemption in the statute requiring children to get vaccines to be enrolled in public or private school. If this lawsuit succeeds it will mean parents of all children in California will be able to exempt their children from school required vaccines if they have sincere religious beliefs.

However, there is no guarantee AVFCA will win with this lawsuit, so we ask that the Commission recommend strong federal action and encouragement Congress to pass legislation ensuring that no child is barred from school because of their family's faith. Finally, I urge the Commission to advocate that the Department of Justice and the Department of Health and Human Services step in to defend the Constitution and make clear that religious liberty does not end at the school house door.

The ability to live in accordance with one's faith is a foundational American value. It is the Commission's role to protect this principle, and we hope you will do so boldly and swiftly.
With gratitude,

Dear Religious Liberty Commission Members,

I'm reaching out on behalf of the undersigned organizations committed to defending religious liberty and informed consent in health care.

In light of the Commission's charge to assess conscience protections in the context of vaccine mandates, we are submitting the enclosed position statement: "A Constitutional Path Forward to Defend States' Rights and Religious Exemptions to Vaccination in All States."

Our message is simple but urgent: religious liberty cannot be preserved through federal overreach. Any well-meaning federal action to enforce vaccine exemptions risks triggering a Supreme Court ruling that could erode those exemptions nationwide. We respectfully urge the Commission to elevate federalism and the Tenth Amendment as essential safeguards in protecting the religious rights of Americans.

Position Statement: A Constitutional Path Forward to Defend States' Rights and Religious Exemptions to Vaccination in All States

Dear Members of the Religious Liberty Commission,

The undersigned organizations represent citizens defending health freedom by advocating for informed consent and policies that protect natural rights, including freedom of conscience and religion.

The White House's Executive Order "Establishment of the Religious Liberty Commission" calls for a comprehensive report on the foundations of religious liberty in America, the impact of religious liberty on American society, current threats to domestic religious liberty, strategies to preserve and enhance religious liberty protections and explicitly includes the topic of "conscience protections in the health care field and concerning vaccine mandates." We are writing to urge you to elevate federalism in your review of the foundations and impact of our religious liberties, and in any potential strategies relevant to vaccine mandates. The federal government's powers are enumerated, and we are living in a time of great overreach, where data and personal information can easily be weaponized by central authorities. The undersigned organizations have linked arm in arm to take a stand for states' rights and be the voice for protection of our God-given rights.

Any suggested federal action that would invite a lawsuit based on religious exemptions to vaccination mandates and states' rights will put religious exemptions in peril in the U.S., which is a domain constitutionally reserved to the states. Federal actions such as the following would put religious exemptions in danger across all 50 states: (1) an Executive Order and legislation to withhold federal funds from educational institutions denying religious exemptions to vaccination requirements; (2) legal action by the US Attorney General against New York, California, Connecticut, West Virginia and Maine for First Amendment violations; and (3) regulations and legislation to prohibit medical providers, who receive federal funds, from denying non-emergency care based on religious objections to vaccinations. We strongly disagree with these three strategies on the grounds of federalism.

DOJ-RLC Comment-003033

We affirm our unwavering commitment to restoring religious liberty for families in New York, California, Connecticut, West Virginia and Maine, where sincerely held religious beliefs are not honored as valid grounds for exemption from mandatory vaccination laws. While it may not technically violate the First Amendment's Free Exercise Clause as interpreted in precedent-setting Supreme Court cases like Jacobson v. Massachusetts (1905)[1] and Prince v. Massachusetts (1944)[2], the denial of religious exemptions to vaccination in these five states—exemptions that are explicitly codified in the public health laws of 45 other states—is nonetheless a clear violation of religious freedom.[3]

While the undersigned organizations do not support any form of medical mandates, including vaccine mandates, we assert that the appropriate venue for addressing religious and conscientious exemptions is at the state level. Our advocacy for states' rights in this context is not an endorsement of coercive public health policies, but a defense of the constitutional structure that serves as a safeguard against federal overreach.

It is our position that the people's best defense against tyranny is found in the U.S. Constitution itself, which preserves the authority to protect the health and welfare of a state's citizens for state government. Placing pressure on the President of the United States and Congress to reach beyond enumerated constitutional powers to usurp roles that are historically reserved to the states not only interferes with the balance of power between state and federal government, but it also sets a dangerous precedent for the erosion of our nation's decentralized governmental system. Once state authority is ceded to the federal government, it is unlikely ever to be returned to the states.

Particularly in public health policy and law, we don't have to look further than the federal government's response to the Covid-19 pandemic to find evidence for why state authority over public health law must be defended. It was the decentralized structure of the U.S. that empowered each state, albeit belatedly in many cases, to implement individualized responses—creating opportunities for greater public input and a check on federal overreach. While many states adopted harmful or coercive policies, this constitutional structure ensured that no single federal policy could override all dissent or impose a one-size-fits-all response nationwide. Unlike nations with centralized governments, the United States' federal system served as a critical check on federal power, safeguarding Americans from the widespread tyranny observed around the world.

In the wake of September 11, 2001, the U.S. Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) set a goal to expand police powers that could be wielded by public health officials during a public health emergency declared by the Secretary of DHHS or a state governor.[4]

DOJ-RLC Comment-003034

Because public health is not a power delegated to the federal government in the U.S. Constitution, it is reserved to the states under the Tenth Amendment.[5] This meant CDC officials could not impose their goals through a federal mandate. Instead, they partnered with attorneys at Georgetown University and Johns Hopkins University to draft the Model State Emergency Health Powers Act (MSEHPA) and then lobbied state legislatures to adopt it.[6]

In a nation still reeling from the shock of 9-11, by 2002 most state legislatures had passed some version of the MSEHPA, which included provisions that would allow state public health officials to use the state militia during public health emergencies to:

- take control of all roads leading into and out of cities and states;
- seize homes, cars, telephones, computers, food, fuel, clothing, firearms and alcoholic beverages for their own use (and not be held liable if these actions result in the destruction of personal property);
- arrest, imprison and forcibly examine, vaccinate, and medicate citizens without consent (and not be held liable if these actions result in your death or injury).

Though the passage of these laws was influenced by federal authority, the fact remains that state legislators have the authority to repeal the MSEHPA, if they so choose. It is up to the citizens of each state to ensure that their elected representatives protect civil liberties and natural rights when it comes to public health policy and law.

While we support elevating the natural right for Americans to exercise freedom of conscience in vaccine decisions–which includes the free exercise of religious beliefs–to national awareness, we strongly oppose strategies that would call for any branch of the federal government to intervene in state public health lawmaking effectively contravening state authority. These well-meaning efforts could have catastrophic consequences for religious liberty nationwide, when an inevitable lawsuit challenging either the authority of state legislatures to make their own vaccine policy - or the power of the President or of Congress to override state public health authority - is driven to the U.S. Supreme Court (SCOTUS). Such a lawsuit would open the door for SCOTUS to make a ruling that re-affirms the scientifically and morally bankrupt ruling in Jacobson v. Massachusetts, which could further restrict religious exemptions to vaccination that is now allowed in 50 states.

The seminal Jacobson v. Massachusetts ruling by SCOTUS was a case in which a Lutheran pastor, Henning Jacobson, challenged a state law mandating smallpox vaccination by arguing that forcing him to be vaccinated was “an assault on his person” and violated his constitutional rights. The Court stated that “the liberty secured by the Constitution of the United States to every person within its jurisdiction does not import an absolute right in each person to be, at all times and in all circumstances, wholly freed from restraint. The Court concluded that the

"police power" of the states includes "such reasonable regulations established directly by legislative enactment as will protect the public health and safety."[7]

Whether or not one agrees with the scientific and moral underpinnings of the rationale used by SCOTUS to make the ruling in Jacobson, the high court unequivocally affirmed the constitutional authority of state legislatures to make public health laws, which may or may not include exemptions to those laws. It is important to acknowledge that the immediate past and current Supreme Court majority has a record of repeatedly ruling in favor of liability protection for vaccine manufacturers, federal vaccine mandates and limited vaccine exemptions.[8] [9] In addition, federal court decisions have upheld the authority of the government to eliminate religious exemptions to vaccination, citing flawed precedent-setting cases like Employment Division v. Smith.[10]

The risk is real, and it is structural. If the Supreme Court is asked to rule on an executive order or federal legislation involving public health lawmaking, it would not be deciding the constitutionality of a state legislature denying religious exemption to a vaccine mandate – the Court would be deciding whether the federal government has the power to override state authority and use federal dollars to control state public health policy and lawmaking. If SCOTUS upholds that federal power, we could find ourselves in a scenario where all 50 states lose the legal right to exercise freedom of religion when it comes to public health policy.

What, then, should be done? We believe the priority must be to preserve states' rights when it comes to making public health policy and law. With elected state legislators voting to enact the will of the people, we have 50 opportunities to defend freedom of conscience and autonomy instead of placing all authority in a centralized federal government.

Over the past decade, there has been an increase in citizen participation in the vaccine law making process of state legislatures. Advocacy for vaccine freedoms has resulted in the introduction of many more bills in state legislatures that protect informed consent rights, restrict new vaccine mandates and expand vaccine exemptions. In fact, in the past few years there have been more positive vaccine-related bills proposed in state legislatures than bills which erode informed consent rights.[11]

The only way to make meaningful change in public health policy and law, without sacrificing our safeguard against federal overreach, is to continue the hard work in the states that will result in constructive permanent change. This is a winning strategy for securing lasting legal protection of informed consent and religious freedom for all Americans.

DOJ-RLC Comment-003036

Regarding religious exemptions to vaccine requirements, the Religious Liberty Commission's report could review the Attorney General's memorandum of 2017 entitled "Federal Law Protections for Religious Liberty", which should be revised and updated in light of disastrous Covid-era lockdowns and censorship policies, which targeted citizens with religious beliefs.

We support the Religious Liberty Commission in its effort to investigate threats to religious freedom. At the same time, we urge the Commission to proceed cautiously and with a clear understanding of the constitutional challenges and potential danger in attempting to alter the balance of power between the federal and state governments, which could jeopardize fundamental liberties for future generations.

Please, let us fight the right battle, in the right venue, with the right arguments at the right time. The stakes are way too high to get this wrong.

ADDENDUM

After completion of our letter above, the draft of a proposed Executive Order for President Trump's consideration written by those calling for federal action to resolve denial of religious exemptions to vaccine mandates in some states, was brought to our attention.

We have three grave concerns about this proposed EO which are outlined below:

DOJ-RLC Comment-003037

First, the proposed EO is framed as the President's findings "Based on available evidence and constitutional analysis." This framing infers the specious claim that the US Constitution authorizes vaccine mandates. Nowhere in the US Constitution or any of our founding documents is the government authorized to mandate a pharmaceutical product or other medical intervention. In fact, our nation's founding documents serve as a restraint on government, not on the people. Our natural rights do not come from any government entity; they come from our Creator.

While Jacobson v. Massachusetts, a 1905 US Supreme Court case, determined that state legislatures could promulgate vaccine mandates during smallpox epidemics, this ruling by eight justices interpreted constitutional rights through a utilitarian lens. That ruling was morally bankrupt, scientifically flawed and legally unsound, and has had a profound negative effect on public health policymaking. It was used by the Supreme Court in 1927 (Buck v. Bell) to justify the practice of eugenics and forced sterilization of women deemed by government officials as unfit to procreate, which illustrates how wrong the courts can be. Jacobson v. Massachusetts is a court case, not the US Constitution.

Second, Sec. 4 of the proposed EO is titled "Ending Vaccine Mandates that Do Not Provide a Religious Accommodation." This language serves to affirm that a government entity should mandate vaccines in the US as long as a religious accommodation is provided in the vaccine law.

There are citizens living in every state who stand with us in supporting the ethical principle of informed consent for all medical interventions. We reject the use of coercion and societal sanctions for declining to comply with federal vaccine recommendations, and take the position that no government entity, federal or state official, private business owner, educational or other institution has the moral authority to mandate use of any pharmaceutical product or medical intervention.

The Ninth Amendment to the US Constitution makes clear that the Bill of Rights is not an exhaustive list of the rights of the people. While autonomy is not explicitly addressed in the Ninth amendment, there can be no freedom more fundamental than the freedom to protect bodily integrity in all matters. If Americans are not free to make their own voluntary decisions about how to stay well, we do not live in a free country.

Third, the proposed EO tacitly sanctions a variety of government regulated medical protocols such as "individualized assessment or alternative protective measures," deemed acceptable to justify mandating certain medical procedures for "preventing disease transmission." The proposed EO states, "(b) Any compelling governmental interest in preventing disease transmission can be achieved through less restrictive means, including but not limited to: individualized health assessments, temporary exclusions during outbreaks, enhanced health monitoring, alternative educational arrangements, or other accommodations that protect both public health and religious exercise." Implicit in this language is a continuation of coercive and unscientific Covid era policies such as electronic tracking, testing, exclusion, and forced alternative education for unvaccinated children. In effect, these policies represent not only an invasion of privacy, they discriminate against healthy unvaccinated children and their families by violating informed consent rights and applying societal sanctions through shaming, isolation, and removal of the ability to receive a school education and otherwise fully participate in society.

In closing, while we acknowledge the goodwill and perspective of those offering this proposed EO, we, the undersigned, strongly reject the notion that any local, state or federal official or agency has the Constitutional authority to mandate medical interventions, including mandating use of a pharmaceutical product labeled a "vaccine," a product that the US government in 1986 (National Childhood Vaccine Injury Act) and the US Supreme Court in 2011 (Bruesewitz v. Wyeth) both acknowledged can injure or kill an individual.

Testimony to the Religious Liberty Commission, June 16, 2025

John Gilmore

Executive Director, Autism Action Network

Thank you for this opportunity to submit written testimony to the Religious Liberty Commission. We deeply appreciate the task the Commission has undertaken,

While there are many assaults on religious liberty going on in New York, where we are headquartered. Our primary concern is to strongly encourage the Commission to explore ways to restore the longstanding right to a religious exemption from vaccine mandates to attend school in New York and the three other states that that in recent years have repealed those rights.

The Autism Action Network is a 501(c) 4 organization that advocates on issues related to autism, developmental disabilities, and related civil and parental rights. Our comments will be confined to New York, the state with which we have the most experience. In the 20 years since we were founded, we have seen a steady erosion of religious liberties in New York that have especially impacted education and healthcare, and increasingly encroaches on many other parts of life. .

Long standing liberties based on religious belief have been eroded or eliminated by New York State and other governments. Healthcare professionals and healthcare facilities operated by religious organizations are pressured to perform procedures at odds with their reason for existing. Counselors and mental health professionals are compelled by law to promote sexual behavior contrary to the values of many religious groups. Public schools are compelled to teach concepts of human identity and existence that conflict with not only religious beliefs of many but biological reality as well. We also see public institutions compelling adherence to ideologies that are clearly spiritual, and therefore, religious in substance.

But the most egregious abuse in the state of New York, in our opinion, has been the steady erosion of religious rights culminating in the repeal of the religious exemption from vaccine mandates to attend school. The fact that 46 other states have no issues with religious exemptions speaks for itself.

Religious Exemptions from Vaccine mandates to go to attend school were eliminated in 2019

Similar to California in 2016, and Connecticut and Maine in 2021, New York repealed our longstanding religious exemption from vaccine mandates to attend school in 2019.

Students with religious exemptions made up less than 0.5% of total school enrollment and posed no threat to herd immunity. There was no compelling public health reason for eliminating religious exemptions to attend school.

Students not fully compliant with the state vaccine schedule were given two weeks to comply after the repeal was passed by both houses and signed by the governor in a single day on June 13, 2019. 27,000 students, including most of Amish students in New York, lost their right to go to school. The result was thousands of families left the state, many more began homeschooling, and some people felt they had no options other than to violate their religious convictions to comply with the new law.

New York Elected officials expressed contempt for religious beliefs

Proponents of the repeal of the religious exemption were explicit in their contempt for religious beliefs of New Yorkers. Assemblymember Jeffrey Dinowitz, the author of the 2019 repeal bill, said in in an interview on the official Assembly website:

"There's nothing, nothing in the Jewish religion, in the Christian religious, in the Muslim religion, that I am aware of, anybody else is aware of, that suggests that you can't get vaccinated, that you shouldn't get vaccinated. It's just utter garbage."

See it here: https://www.facebook.com/JeffreyDinowitz/videos/441644779709395/

Dinowitz and others also expressed a clear idea that religious beliefs are not a matter of personal conscience, but compliance with the dogma or policies of a religious institution, even though New York courts have repeatedly held that membership in an organized religion is not necessary, and all that matters is the personal beliefs of an individual. Sherr v. NORTHPORT-EAST NORTHPORT U. FREE SCH. D., 672 F. Supp. 81 (E.D.N.Y. 1987)

Dinowitz and other legislators claimed to be unaware of longstanding doctrines and practices of Christian Scientists, Jehovah's Witnesses, the Dutch Reformed Church, Seventh Day Adventist, the Amish and Old Order Mennonites, among many other traditions, that conflict with some or all vaccinations.

Similarly, Dinowitz and every other member of the New York legislature was made aware of a 2005 statement from the Vatican's Pontifical Academy for Life, Moral Reflections on Vaccines Prepared from Cells Derived from Aborted Human Fetuses, which at the time was led by Cardinal Joseph Ratzinger, later Benedict XVI, which said,

"Therefore, doctors and fathers of families have a duty to take recourse to alternative vaccines (if they exist), putting pressure on the political authorities and health systems so that other vaccines without moral problems become available. They should take recourse if necessary to the use of conscientious objection with regard to the use of vaccines produced by means of cell lines of aborted human foetal origin."

New York subjected parents to religious sincerity tribunals prior to repealing the exemption

Prior to the repeal of the religious exemption parents who wanted a religious exemption for their children were subjected to religious sincerity tests administered school employees and contractors. Parents were required to compose and defend extensive essays explaining beliefs. Others were subjected to multiple hours long interrogations by school personnel and attorneys about their religious beliefs

It is not an exaggeration to say that the tribunals were in fact inquisitions. School employees were allowed to use any criteria they chose to evaluate parents beliefs.
(See a New York religious inquisition here: (See http://www.mykidsmychoice.com/my-story.html)

New York only recognized some religious objections

When New York had religious exemptions, the only religious option the State would allow was an objection to all vaccines, completely ignoring that many people object to some vaccines for specific reasons, such as those vaccines made using aborted fetal tissue, while others had objections to those that use pig tissue or other ingredients objectionable on religious grounds.

New York Universities refused religious exemptions for students from COVID shot mandates

The 2019 repeal did not apply to college students yet during the COVID event the State University of New York and the City University of New York ignored students right to a religious exemption to COVID shots mandated for students, yet at the same time did not require SUNY and CUNY faculty and employees to get the shot. Numerous private colleges also refused religious exemptions.

Currently, there is a bill in the legislature to repeal religious exemptions for colleges and employment in New York, sponsored by Jeffrey Dinowitz, the author of the 2019 law that repealed religious exemptions for school.

Again, we thank the Commission for this opportunity to submit this testimony.

We welcome any assistance the Commission can offer in restoring religious exemptions from vaccine mandates to attend school in New York, California, Connecticut and Maine.

The White House

Washington, DC 20500

Dear Commission Members:

We are sending you this letter on behalf of our members, especially those in California, New York, Connecticut, and Maine. It is with both profound joy, and profound trepidation, that we write to you today. As a staunch defender of the First Amendment, we are of course elated that President Trump has ordered the formation of this body to investigate and report on, among other things, "current threats to domestic religious liberty," including "the First Amendment rights of pastors, religious leaders, houses of worship, faith-based institutions, and religious speakers"; "conscience protections in the health care field and concerning vaccine mandates;" and "parents' authority to direct the care, upbringing, and education of their children, including the right to choose a religious education." Indeed, we have brought litigation concerning all of these issues, including a federal lawsuit currently ongoing in defense of Milford Christian Church in Connecticut, whose daycare and preschool was threatened with closure by the state, simply because the church allows parents to opt out of vaccinations due to their religious objections. We also recently filed a federal lawsuit against the Ventura, California Unified School District, and other state and local officials, after a high school student was expelled from school for asserting a religious exemption to required school vaccinations, and his parents later charged with truancy.

In California, New York, Connecticut, and Maine, families are denied the option to decline one or more vaccinations required for school attendance, even if they have a sincere religious objection to those vaccinations. Even in states where education is recognized as a fundamental right under the state constitution (as it is in California[1] and Connecticut[2], for instance), these states have been permitted to provide education to those who do not have religious beliefs opposed to vaccinations, while denying education to those who do. This is a very clear violation of the First Amendment's guarantee of the right to the free exercise of religion, as well as other protections enshrined in our Constitution.

Some have urged you to recommend federal action against these states in the form of executive orders, litigation brought by the Attorney General, and other actions. Others have urged the federal government to refrain from taking any action at all, in favor of the states retaining power over public health. Our position is clear: we do not believe that any government – local, state, or federal – should have authority over individual health decisions. Even assuming that the state has the authority to mandate vaccinations under its police power, as held by the U.S. Supreme Court in Jacobson v. Massachusetts, 197 U.S. 11 (1905), this power cannot be exercised without exception. And this power can never be exercised in such a manner as to blatantly violate the First Amendment by refusing to allow individuals to refuse to be vaccinated based on their sincere religious objections, even in the face of a public health emergency. The Jacobson court did not hold otherwise. More recently, the U.S. Supreme Court has ruled that "…even in a pandemic, the Constitution cannot be put away and forgotten."[3]

Nevertheless, we do not believe that an Executive Order issued by President Trump would be the best course of action to restore religious liberty in these four states where it has been lost. If upheld, it would set a dangerous precedent that allows the President to punish states that do not comply with its dictates regarding vaccinations, religious liberty, and more. A future President may withhold funding from states, for instance, that do not mandate covid shots for school or work. If this President can withhold funding for not allowing people to opt out of vaccination mandates, what is to stop a future President from withholding funding from states that refuse to mandate vaccinations?

Beyond this, a "victory" for such an Executive Order could adversely affect ongoing legal efforts to restore the religious exemption to school vaccinations in those states. Presently there is litigation ongoing in multiple states that could soon result in the Supreme Court considering the issue of religious exemptions as a violation of the First Amendment, litigation that has been unfolding for years. The aforementioned lawsuits brought by our organization are just two examples, but there are more. A Supreme Court ruling in favor of the plaintiffs in any of these cases would have lasting effect, and would create precedent that would prevent a future administration – or any state – from issuing a vaccination mandate without exemptions. But if the Supreme Court ruled tomorrow that the President has the power to withhold funding from states that do not allow exemptions, prompting those four states to change their laws so that exemptions are now permitted, the aforementioned lawsuits would be dismissed as moot. When a future President withdraws that Executive Order, the states are very likely to once again repeal the religious exemption, and all of this litigation would have to begin anew, further delaying a permanent victory.

[1]See Butt v. California, 4 Cal. 4th 668, 680-81; 685 (1992): "In view of the importance of education to society and to the individual child, the opportunity to receive the schooling furnished by the state must be made available to all on an equal basis. ... the California Constitution makes public education uniquely a fundamental concern of the State and prohibits maintenance and operation of the common public school system in a way which denies basic educational equality to the students of particular districts. The State itself bears the ultimate authority and responsibility to ensure that its district-based system of common schools provides basic equality of educational opportunity."

[2] See Sheff v. O'Neill, 238 Conn. 1 (1996): "Our Connecticut constitution, by contrast, contains a fundamental right to education and a corresponding affirmative state obligation to implement and maintain that right."

[3] Roman Catholic Diocese of Brooklyn v. Cuomo, Order on Application for Injunctive Relief (November 25, 2020).

But leaving it to the states is equally troublesome. What we learned during the covid pandemic was that states cannot be trusted to protect individual freedoms. In New York, Governor Cuomo closed local businesses statewide and even churches. Governor Newsom did the same thing in California. But these horrific infringements on individual liberties were not restricted to places like New York and California. In Dallas, Texas in 2020, salon owner (and now state representative) Shelley Luther was arrested for refusing to close her salon. And at a park in Meridian, Idaho the same year, Sara Walton Brady was arrested and charged with trespassing simply for using a playground with her children, that had been closed as part of the covid restrictions. These are just two of many examples of egregious local and state government overreach even in allegedly "free" states.

And freedom should not be dependent on one's zip code, in any event. The U.S. Constitution should be applied and enforced equally in Connecticut and Texas, in California and Idaho. Sadly, not everyone has the option of fleeing from one of these four states – that collectively represent 20 percent of the nation's population – to one of the 46 states that permit religious exemptions to vaccination. Single parents who share custody with a former partner who objects to such a move are one such example.

That is why the solution must come from the Judicial Branch, not in the form of an order from the Executive Branch, or even a law passed by Congress. We already have a law that protects the free exercise of religion, and that is the Supreme law of the land – the U.S. Constitution. Since the U.S. Supreme Court is the body ultimately tasked with interpreting the constitutionality of laws, it must be left to the Court to decide this issue and provide relief. Ultimately, we believe that the ongoing private litigation is poised to bring this issue before the Court in relatively short order, negating the need for any federal involvement. However, if the Commission determines that federal action is necessary to address the religious persecution in these states with regard to school vaccination mandates, we ask that it be restricted to a recommendation for legal action by the U.S. Attorney General, seeking declaratory and injunctive relief. To be clear, our request is very narrow. We ask not that the Attorney General seek any expansion of federal power, or any ruling which allows the President to withhold funding or otherwise punish states that do not allow religious exemptions from vaccination. The question presented in the lawsuit must be limited to whether a state's denial of religious exemptions for required school vaccinations violates the U.S. Constitution, especially the First and Fourteenth Amendments. We believe that this is the safest and surest path to restoring religious liberty in these states.

Thank you. I just wanted to ensure the attached letter was also included as part of our public comment? Also, I requested to register for the meeting on 6/16 and was wondering if that has been confirmed so I can book travel arrangements? Thank you so much for coordinating all the important work of this commission!

> Dear M. Ashleigh Bondoc and Members of the Religious Liberty Commission,

Please accept our written public comments below and attached in response to the Federal Register document 2025-09557, published on May 28, 2025, titled "Meeting of the Religious Liberty Commission".

We are a coalition of religious and medical liberty organizations commending President Trump's commitment to religious freedom and urging swift action to address First Amendment violations in New York, California, Connecticut, and Maine. These states' policies deny religious exemptions to childhood vaccination requirements, barring children from public and private schools and limiting healthcare access, forcing families to compromise their faith.

During the White House press briefing on June 3, 2025, Amanda Head, a reporter with Real America's Voice, asked Press Secretary Karoline Leavitt about the administration's efforts to protect religious exemptions to childhood vaccination requirements, highlighting the defiance of Democratic-led states like New York, California, Connecticut, and Maine, which deny these exemptions and bar children from schools, aligning with our coalition's urgent call for federal action to safeguard religious liberty in education. In response, Leavitt affirmed President Trump's support for religious exemptions to vaccination requirements and committed to raising the issue at the White House for potential executive action.

To this end, please find attached our coalition's letter to the Religious Liberty Commission detailing First Amendment violations in New York, California, Connecticut, and Maine and a proposed action plan to restore religious liberty. We are calling on President Trump to issue an Executive Order on Independence Day to reaffirm America as a beacon of faith and freedom, ending the persecution of religious families.

As indicated in our letter, we have gathered substantial evidence from families in New York, California, Connecticut, and Maine documenting the religious discrimination and hostility they face due to unconstitutional policies, and we respectfully request a meeting in June to deliver this evidence.

We eagerly await President Trump's leadership, alongside the Religious Liberty Commission, in restoring religious liberty for families facing persecution, confident that his decisive action will uphold America's founding principles of faith and freedom.

Sincerely,

Elyse Young and Lorraine Miller

Dear Members of the Religious Liberty Commission,

The undersigned religious liberty, medical liberty, related organizations, and religious leaders write to commend the establishment of the Religious Liberty Commission and to urge immediate action to address critical violations of religious liberty in four states—New York, California, Connecticut, and Maine—that deny religious exemptions to childhood vaccination requirements for school attendance and cause discriminatory practices in healthcare. These policies unconstitutionally infringe upon the First Amendment rights of religious families, barring children from public schools as well as private schools that wish to accept these children, and denying access to publicly-funded medical care based on their sincerely held religious beliefs which prevent these families from injecting their children with one or more vaccines.

We respectfully request that the Commission include specific recommendations in its report to the White House Faith Office and the Domestic Policy Council, including: (1) an Executive Order and legislation to withhold federal funds from educational institutions denying religious exemptions to vaccination requirements, ensuring access to education; (2) legal action by the Attorney General against New York, California, Connecticut, and Maine for First Amendment violations; and (3) regulations and legislation to prohibit medical providers receiving federal funds from denying non-emergency care based on religious objections to vaccinations, ensuring healthcare access.

The United States Constitution enshrines the fundamental right to religious liberty in the First Amendment. As President Trump has stated, "Our Founders understood that no right is more fundamental to a peaceful, prosperous, and virtuous society than the right to follow one's religious convictions." The Founders envisioned a nation where religious people and institutions are free to practice their faith without fear of discrimination or hostility from the government. To safeguard this principle, the executive branch has committed to vigorously enforcing the robust protections for religious liberty enshrined in federal law. However, the policies of New York, California, Connecticut, and Maine directly undermine this right by targeting conscience protections and denying parents the ability to direct the upbringing and education of their children in accordance with their faith.

While 46 states allow religious exemptions to childhood vaccination requirements for school attendance, the four states at issue permit only medical exemptions – and even then in name only - directly discriminating against families of faith. Education is compulsory in every state, so parents face potential referrals to child protective agencies, fines, court proceedings, or even criminal charges, despite schools blocking their child's access over vaccination status. This denial forces religious parents into three untenable options: (1) vaccinate their children against their sincerely held religious beliefs, with eternal consequences; (2) homeschool, which is impractical for most due to work, financial, or educational constraints; or (3) relocate to a state that respects religious freedom, a choice burdened by career, financial, and family obligations. These often-impossible choices have led to profound consequences for children and families in these states. Since 2015 in California, 2019 in New York and Maine, and 2021 in Connecticut, significant numbers of children have faced substantial challenges due to restricted access to education. These challenges have impacted their academic progress, social development, and emotional well-being—particularly during critical developmental years. The long-term consequences of disrupted educational opportunities are profound and, in many cases, irreversible. These policies violate the U.S. Constitution and contradict the liberty our Founding Fathers fought to protect.

The urgency of addressing these violations is underscored by widespread religious objections to vaccination, as evidenced by millions of evangelicals who, as reported by the New York Times, decline certain vaccinations due to "deeply held spiritual convictions." These beliefs, shared by many within faith communities, highlight the significance of this issue to the Commission's mandate. Yet, liberal courts in Democrat-controlled states like New York and California dismiss such convictions. For instance, in March 2025, the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Second Circuit in New York rejected Amish families 'claims against vaccination requirements, stating that the burden on their religious beliefs did not constitute an "existential threat" (Miller v. McDonald, 130 F.4th 258, 271 (2d Cir. 2025)). This precedent was swiftly used by a California federal court to deny a similar claim (Royce v. Pan, No. 3:23-cv-02012-H-BLM (S.D. Cal. Mar. 17, 2025)), leaving families without timely relief. Across faiths—Jewish, Christian, Muslim, Hindu, and others—believers object to vaccines, particularly those derived from aborted fetal cell lines, viewing their bodies as sacred temples of God. These sincerely held beliefs, protected by the First Amendment, are unjustly disregarded by New York, California, Connecticut, and Maine, necessitating immediate action to restore religious liberty.

Religious objections to vaccination are diverse, individualized, and deeply rooted in faith, and they include but are in no way limited to:

- Viewing the body as God's temple, sacred and inviolable by foreign substances.
- Trusting in divine protection over human medical intervention.

- Ethical concerns about vaccines developed using aborted fetal cell lines, which may suggest acceptance of abortion, and supporting companies that use aborted fetal cell lines.
- Beliefs that injecting DNA fragments from aborted fetuses is impure or unclean.
- Objections to vaccines for sexually transmitted diseases, which may imply condoning premarital sex.
- The view that injecting disease to prevent disease is ungodly.
- Adherence to halal dietary laws that conflict with vaccine ingredients.

These objections reflect the deeply personal and spiritual convictions of religious families, which the First Amendment protects. Yet, the policies of these four states penalize children for their families ' beliefs, denying them access to education—a fundamental right essential to their development and participation in a pluralistic democracy. Some of the most severe violations of religious liberty have occurred in New York State, where strict vaccination policies without religious exemptions have disproportionately affected conservative Jewish and Amish communities, barring them from attending even their own faith-based schools and deepening their marginalization. This pattern of religious hostility extends beyond schools, as doctors 'offices in these states, and increasingly across the U.S., often deny basic medical care to families who, due to religious objections, do not comply with the CDC's recommended vaccination schedule, further restricting their access to essential services.

A federal judicial precedent supports the unconstitutionality of such policies. In August 2023, the United States District Court for the Southern District of Mississippi (Bosarge v. Edney) ruled that Mississippi's law, which allowed only medical exemptions to school vaccination requirements, violated the First Amendment. The court found that favoring secular medical exemptions over religious exemptions unconstitutionally prioritized secular conduct over religious conduct. By this logic, New York, California, Connecticut, and Maine are in clear violation of the United States Constitution. Despite this ruling, these states persist in their unconstitutional policies, discriminating against religious families and undermining America's tradition of religious liberty.

We respectfully request that the Religious Liberty Commission recommend the following actions in its report to the White House Faith Office and the Domestic Policy Council:

- Protect Religious Freedom in Education through Executive and Legislative Action: Issue an Executive Order barring discretionary federal funds from being used to support any educational service agency, state educational agency, local education agency, elementary school, secondary school, or institution of higher education that does not permit religious exemptions to vaccination requirements. Congress should then enact a statute to codify this policy, ensuring alignment with First Amendment protections and safeguarding the rights of religious families to access education without compromising their faith.

- Initiate Legal Action and Enforce the First Amendment: Notify the Attorney General that New York, California, Connecticut, and Maine are in violation of the First Amendment, as articulated by the Mississippi precedent. Request they initiate appropriate legal action against these states to enforce constitutional protections for religious families so they can access education without compromising their faith.

- Protect Access to Healthcare for Religious Families: Direct the Department of Health and Human Services to issue guidance or regulations prohibiting medical providers receiving federal funds, such as through Medicare or Medicaid, from denying non-emergency care to patients based on religious objections to vaccinations, and collaborate with Congress to enact a statute codifying this protection. This would ensure that religious families maintain access to essential healthcare services without compromising their faith, reinforcing First Amendment protections against discriminatory practices.

The Religious Liberty Commission's mandate to investigate emerging threats to religious liberty and recommend policies to safeguard this fundamental right is critical to addressing these violations. Your focus on parental rights, conscience protections, and the First Amendment rights of students aligns directly with the plight of religious families in these four states. President Trump's proven commitment to defending religious liberty, as evidenced by his establishment of this Commission, underscores the urgency of restoring the freedom of these families to practice their faith without government interference.

We have gathered substantial evidence from families in New York, California, Connecticut, and Maine documenting the religious discrimination and hostility they face due to these unconstitutional policies, and we respectfully request a meeting in June to deliver this evidence and discuss further action. Please kindly contact us at [redacted] to arrange this meeting.

We implore the Commission to act swiftly to protect the children and families suffering under these unconstitutional policies. By including these recommendations in your report, you can help ensure that America remains a nation where religious liberty is celebrated and protected for future generations.
