

Andreas Reindl

Andreas Reindl is the Executive Director of the Fordham Competition Law Institute. Prior to joining Fordham, Mr. Reindl was Principal Administrator in the OECD's Competition Division where he worked on competition law enforcement issues and international cooperation, as well as technical assistance projects. Mr. Reindl has also practiced U.S. and European antitrust law with the Washington, D.C. Office of Skadden, Arps, Slate, Meagher & Flom.

Mr. Reindl teaches courses on European and international antitrust, and antitrust and intellectual property at Fordham Law School and has also taught at the University of Michigan Law School and the American University Washington College of Law. Mr. Reindl has published in the areas of antitrust and intellectual property law.