

Virag Balogh

Virag Balogh is currently a visiting International Fellow at the FTC's Bureau of Economics, Consumer Protection. She is spending three months at the Bureau, sent by the Hungarian Competition Authority, where she has been working at the Consumer Section for three years. She is involved with the Authority's international relations in the area of consumer protection, including International Consumer Protection and Enforcement Network (ICPEN), as well as in the work for creating a more sophisticated economical background for consumer protection cases. She graduated with a law degree in 2004 and is currently finishing her BA in economics.