There is a lot wrong with our argibusiness today. A big part of it is that if a company has a lock on a sector we are at the mercy of that company. What if they are headed in the wrong direction? We don't have so much choice. Unlike refusing to buy a new machine from a certain company, we all have to eat. Monsanto is such a company and there are others like them. We need to rein them in. They talk one thing, but what they are doing is quite the opposite. Look behind the curtain. They are up to no good.

Think about it.
