I am writing because I am concerned about the lack of competition in agricultural markets.

I find it frightening that Monsanto works so hard to conceal what foods contain their GMO ingredients. If there is nothing the hide why are they trying so hard to hide it.

I am not aware of any tests concluding that these GMOs are safe for consumption by human or animal. Even if there were tests I am not sure that I would trust them as the Head of the FDA is a former VP of Monsanto and it seems that while the FDA is busy banning vitamins they don't seem to notice a filthy salmonella infested peanut factory in GA.

While you are prosecuting Monsanto you might want to look at conflict of interest charges against the FDA.

Thank you for giving me the opportunity to comment.

Sincerely,

Carol Loar
