US Department of Justice

Dear US Department of Justice:

As a citizen who sure would like to eat breakfast, lunch and supper without having to worry about how my food might be either genetically modified or outright poisoned, I'm writing to say that I'm VERY MUCH AGAINST the Monsanto corporation's control over this nation's seed supply.

I'm sure you already know that despite their near-monopoly, Monsanto makes available very few seeds - and those are genetically modified to be dependent on chemicals they manufacture.

I want you - as my representatives/guardians - to include in your investigation/mindset the understanding that a) Monsanto's stuff cross-pollinates readily, so even healthy food is contaminated by their products, and b) seeds/food should be in the public domain.

Thanks for all your work.

Sincerely,

Judith Arcana
