I am writing because I am horrified by Monsanto's monopoly of the seed market in the U.S., but also here in Canada and many other parts of the world. Their use of intimidation in struggling rural communities (please watch the documentary, The World According to Monsanto) is frightening and needs to be stopped. Why is Monsanto allowed to make huge profits off the backs of the poorest and hardest-working Americans, driving them to financial (and also often to psychological) ruin?

Thank you for giving me the opportunity to comment.

Sincerely,

Abbey Huggan
