

From: daryl jackson <daryljackson22@live.com>
Sent: Wednesday, December 30, 2009 7:36 PM
To: ATR-Agricultural Workshops <agriculturalworkshops@usdoj.gov>
Subject: Comments

As a professional fisheries biologist I am continually amazed at the number of times I encounter negative effects to our aquatic habitats due to agriculture and resource management agency methods.

The process of bioaccumulation and drift effect make application of questionable chemicals a widespread problem far beyond our current understanding. Until we fully understand the effect of these substances we should act with precautionary forethought.

daryl jackson

, 97544