Dear Madam and Sirs,

I am very concerned about the control of corporations in our nation's food supply. They seek only wealth and do not truly care about the health of the American people or the long term sustainability of our farming system.

We must ensure that small farmers and independent food researchers always have a say in our food policy and food supply.

Small family farms have been disappearing as fast as Americans have been gaining weight and suffering new diseases. Healthy food requires farmers who are connected to people.

Please support small and independent farmers, healthy, GMO free and organic farming methods and independent research into food safety.

Our children are relying on us!
