

From: Sarah Fitzpatrick Anderson <seeyoubeyou@hotmail.com>
Sent: Wednesday, January 13, 2010 1:57 PM
To: ATR-Agricultural Workshops <agriculturalworkshops@usdoj.gov>
Subject: my child's food

Hello,

I am a 27 year old wife and mother living in the Midwest. I am extremely afraid and worried for our four month old daughters safety because of genetically engineered food from Monsanto. Why isnt there a warning label on foods that have been genetically engineered here in the US? Warning labels exist in other countries. It has been proven by scientists that it causes organ failure, among many other issues.

Genetically engineered food is everywhere and I dont know how to avoid buying it and I am terrified!!! The economy has been rough on myself and my little family. We can barely afford to keep our utilities on, let alone purchase a completely organic diet. I think about the millions of Americans who are in a similar state and cannot afford to eat foods that havent been genetically engineered.

I dont see how we are supposed to thrive as a species if the long term effect of our food supply is completely unknown. How is it even possible that the FDA approved genetically engineered plants when scientists practically are screaming that they are so unsafe? Is money really that important?

Thank you for taking the time to read this. Any response at all is much appreciated.

Sarah Fitzpatrick Anderson

Hotmail: Free, trusted and rich email service. Get it now.