

From: Ben E Daniels <bed7988@microsoft.com>
Sent: Monday, December 28, 2009 6:17 PM
To: ATR-Agricultural Workshops <agriculturalworkshops@usdoj.gov>
Subject: info on Rode-trol or Ro-con

This is a very safe and effective way to kill rodents with out harm to any other animals.

Why is it no longer available because of government requirements about it being toxic beyond the label ststement?

The product contains nothing to harm my dogs, they got tired of eating it because it had no great taste.

The contents are ground up corn cobs, which kill the rodents, molasses and corn oil as attractants in the small pellets.

The larger pellets contain flour as a binding agent to hold the pellet together.

This product needs to be made available to stop the secondary poisoning to several thousand animals, dogs, cats, and wild life that pick up rodents killed with blood thinning killers.

What can I do to help get this product get back on the market?

Thank You,

Ben E Daniels