Dear Mr. Read, I have had 73 years of reading, writing, and sharing books. My children, grandchildren and friends all have their favorite bookstores which, one by one, are closing their doors. Ask them why and it's the same answer--Amazon. Please, do not leave book lovers at the mercy of a greedy, monopolistic monster like Amazon. We used to have laws against monopolies in this country, for good reason. People need and deserve choice. Stand up for us. Stand up for books of all kinds and the pleasure of browsing and discovering them in bookstores. You are our last hope. Frances A. Miller, Chestertown, Maryland
