

From: Gail Lelyveld [mailto:berrydoor8[REDACTED]]

Sent: Thursday, June 21, 2012 11:42 AM

To: Read, John [John.Read@ATR.USDOJ.gov]

Subject: Suit against publisher because they set the price for ebooks and opened competition

Dear Mr. Read:

I believe the present state of affairs is fair to me. Why can't buy an ebook at a good price, and not be stuck with Amazon as a monopoly. I purposefully bought a nook to make a protest against the Amazon takeover of books. I want to be able to go to Barnes and Noble to get my ebooks. I want to go to the library and get ebooks. I want to go to Politics and Prose and get ebooks. Who is for this anyway, Amazon?

If you go through with this, I want you to put into the deal something that will help other booksellers.

Sincerely,

Gail Lelyveld

205 C Street NE Apt 1

Washington, DC 20002