Subject: Call To Action: Songwriters

I am an American singer/songwriter/composer. I am writing this comment to express my deep concern about the compensation that online digital music services, such as Pandora; etc, have been collecting as a result the consent decrees. I think the songwriter should be compensated considerably for the contributions made to these digital services. Without the music there would be no platform for these services to exist. Therefore, I think the songwriters that contribute creative works to these online digital music services should be given the proper royalties. Thank you.
