TABLE SET II: THE UNITED STATES ATTORNEYS

B. Offenses: Explanatory Notes For Table Set II.B

Table Set II.B examines charging practices. As explained in the text of the Survey, when the modern use of the federal death penalty began in 1988, the only offenses subject to capital punishment were narcotics-related offenses under the DKA, and therefore all 52 submissions in the pre-protocol period were in cases where the defendant was charged with committing such offenses. With the enactment of the FDPA in 1994, prosecutors were authorized to seek the death penalty for a variety of offenses. Table 6 lists all of the federal offenses currently punishable by death.

Table 7 reports the extent to which each federal offense punishable by death has been charged against the 682 defendants reviewed in the post-protocol period, providing information about the total number of cases under each statute as well as the United States Attorneys' recommendations for and against seeking the death penalty. The information in Table 7 is reported on a statute-by-statute basis, and does not contain information about particular districts.

Tables 8-1 and 8-2 provide offense-related information about each district. Specifically, Table 8-1 reports on the subset of those cases in which United States Attorneys recommended seeking the death penalty, and Table 8-2 reports on the subset of the overall cases in which United States Attorneys recommended that the death penalty not be sought.

In any given case, the defendant's conduct can violate more than one federal statute that is subject to capital punishment, and many defendants have been charged with more than one capital offense in a single indictment. As a result, the total number of offenses reported in Table Set B.2 exceeds the total number of defendants charged with capital offenses in the post-protocol period.

The fact that defendants can be charged with multiple offenses in a single case also means that the method of counting can affect the statistics. In compiling Table Set II.B, multiple counts in an indictment charging the same statutory violation against the same defendant were counted only once, but different statutory violations charged against the same defendant in a single indictment were counted separately. Thus, for example, assume that in District A, there were capital charges against two defendants: one White defendant charged with five different murders, all in violation of the same statute, and one Black defendant charged with five different statutory offenses punishable by death. The report for that district would show that one offense was charged against White defendants and five offenses were charged against Black defendants. To help account for the effects of this methodology, each entry for a specific district in Tables 8-1 and 8-2 also report the total number of defendants charged in that district.
TABLE 6: FEDERAL CAPITAL OFFENSES

Table 6 provides information about the 59 sections of the United States Code that define criminal offenses punishable by death, with part 1 of the table listing offenses defined under Title 18 of the United States Code and part 2 listing offense defined under other titles of the United States Code. The description accompanying each citation is drawn from the name of the section as set forth in the United States Code, with additional parenthetical information added where appropriate. With one exception, the procedures set forth in the FDPA, 18 U.S.C. §§ 3591 to 3598, apply to capital prosecutions arising under all of the statutes listed below. The exception is that capital prosecutions arising under 21 U.S.C. § 848(e) (continuing criminal enterprise) are subject to the similar but not identical procedures of the DKA, as set forth in 21 U.S.C. § 848(g)-(r).

All but three of the statutes listed below provide for imposition of the death penalty only for offenses resulting in death. Under the terms of 18 U.S.C. §§ 794 (espionage), 2381 (treason), and 3591 (providing for imposition of the death penalty for violations of 21 U.S.C. § 848(c) involving trafficking in large quantities of narcotics by continuing criminal enterprise; or attempting, authorizing or advising the killing of any officer, juror or witness by a continuing criminal enterprise), the government need not prove that the offense resulted in death in order for capital punishment to be available. The federal government has not sought the death penalty for any offense not resulting in death since the reintroduction of the capital punishment into the federal criminal justice system in 1988.

Offenses under 18 U.S.C. §§ 32 and 33 (Nos. 4 and 5) are eligible for capital punishment by virtue of 18 U.S.C. § 34, which does not itself define a criminal offense, but instead provides that the death penalty may be imposed as punishment for any offense under Chapter 2 of Title 18 (aircraft and motor vehicles) that results in the death of any person. Likewise, offenses under 18 U.S.C. § 2241 (No. 39) are eligible for capital punishment by virtue of 18 U.S.C. § 2245, which does not itself define a criminal offense, but instead provides that the death penalty may be imposed as punishment for any offense under Chapter 109A of Title 18 (sexual abuse) that results in the death of any person.

Some offenses under 21 U.S.C. § 848 (No. 55) are eligible for capital punishment by virtue of 18 U.S.C. § 3591, which does not itself define a criminal offense, but instead provides that the death penalty may be imposed in certain circumstances as punishment for certain violations of 21 U.S.C. § 848(c). When the DKA was enacted in 1988, it provided for imposition of the death penalty for certain specified offenses, codified at 21 U.S.C. § 848(e). The FDPA added a provision, codified at 18 U.S.C. § 3591(b), that a defendant found guilty of engaging in a continuing criminal enterprise (as defined in 21 U.S.C. § 848(c)) could be sentenced to death if (1) the offense involved specified amounts of narcotics, or (2) the defendant was a leader of the enterprise and sought to obstruct an investigation or prosecution by attempting to kill an officer, juror or witness (or a member of any such person’s family).
