Our distinguished Speaker, in listing the things that he thought should be included in the congressional program, has mentioned the RFC. The distinguished majority leader, the Senate, Hon. Mike Mansfield, in listing a number of measures that in their opinion were necessary to preserve the private enterprise system in this country, and to aid the economy, one of the essential measures proposed was the reconstitution of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

Mr. Speaker, I invite the Members of the House to join me in support of the bill, H.R. 1677 to reconstitute the Reconstruction Finance Corporation which I have introduced. This bill should be passed at once.

PERMISSION FOR COMMITTEE ON THE JUDICIARY TO MEET TODAY, NOTWITHSTANDING CLAUSE 31, RULE XI OF THE RULES OF THE HOUSE

Mr. RODINO. Mr. Speaker, I lack unanimous consent that the Committee on the Judiciary be granted special leave to meet this afternoon, Wednesday, December 11, 1974, without regard to clause 31, rule XI of the Rules of the House.

There was no objection.

ANTITRUST PROCEDURES AND PENALTIES ACT

Mr. RODINO. Mr. Speaker, I lack unanimous consent to take from the Speaker's desk the Senate bill (S. 782) to reform consent decree procedures, to increase penalties for violation of the Sherman Act, and to revise the Expediting Act as it pertains to appellate review, with a Senate amendment to the House amendment, and concurred in the Senate amendment.

The Clerk read the title of the Senate bill.

The Clerk read the Senate amendment to the House amendment, as follows:

Page 8 of the House engrossed amendment, strike out all lines 4 over to and including line 14 on page 11 and insert:

Sec. 4. Section 1 of the Act of February 11, 1903 (32 Stat. 823), as amended (15 U.S.C. 26; 47 U.S.C. 44), commonly known as the Expediting Act, is amended to read as follows:

"Section 1. In any civil action brought in any district court of the United States under the Act entitled 'An Act to protect trade and commerce against unlawful restraints and monopolies', approved July 2, 1890, or any act like purpose that have been or hereafter may be enacted, in which the United States is a party to the suit and the United States files a notice of appeal from a final judgment entered in any such action by the Supreme Court of the United States Code, Any appeal from an interlocutory order entered in any such action shall be taken in the circuit of appeals pursuant to sections 1292(a) (1) and 2107 of title 28 of the United States Code. Any appeal from a final judgment pursuant to subsection (a) shall be taken to the Supreme Court upon certification as provided in section 1294(a) of title 28 of the United States Code."

"(b) An appeal from a final judgment pursuant to subsection (a) shall be taken to the Supreme Court if, upon application of a party filed within fifteen days of the filing of a notice of appeal, the court of appeals certifies that immediate consideration of the appeal by the Supreme Court is of general public importance in the administration of justice. Such order shall be filed within thirty days after the filing of a notice of appeal. When such an order is filed, the appeal and any cross appeal shall be docketed in the time and manner prescribed by the rules of the Supreme Court and shall thereafter either (1) dispose of the appeal and any cross appeal in the same manner as any other direct appeal authorized by law, or (2) in its discretion, deny the direct appeal and remand the case to the court of appeals, which shall then have jurisdiction to hear and determine the same as if the appeal and any cross appeal therewith had been docketed in the court of appeals in the first instance pursuant to subsection (a)."

Sec. 8. (a) Section 401(d) of the Communications Act of 1934 (47 U.S.C. 401(d)) is repealed.

"(b) Section 3 of the Act entitled 'An Act to further regulate commerce with foreign nations, and to provide for the establishment of the Interstate Commerce Commission' (49 U.S.C. 2107), is amended by striking out "proceeding," and inserting in lieu thereof "proceedings," and striking out thereafter the following: Provided, That the provisions of an Act entitled 'An Act to expedite the hearing and determination of suits in equity pending or thereafter brought under the Act of July fourth, eighteen hundred and eighty-seven, or any other Act having like purpose that have been or hereafter may be enacted, in which the United States is a party to the suit and the United States files a notice of appeal from a final judgment entered in any such action by the Supreme Court of the United States Code, Any appeal from an interlocutory order entered in any such action shall be taken in the circuit of appeals pursuant to sections 1292(a) (1) and 2107 of title 28 of the United States Code. Any appeal from a final judgment pursuant to subsection (a) shall be taken to the Supreme Court upon certification as provided in section 1294(a) of title 28 of the United States Code."

"(2) The Senate amendment is confined to the change in procedures for posttrial appellate review.

"At the time that S. 782 as amended was passed, before the House report was filed, both the House bill and the Senate version thereof were in an agreement that present law providing for direct appeal of litigated district court judgments by either party to the Supreme Court ought to be changed, and appeals henceforth made to circuit courts.

"As an exception to this change in law that both House and Senate versions expressed and agreed to, the House and Senate bill would allow the Attorney General to certify directly to the Supreme Court that immediate consideration of the appeal by the Supreme Court is of general public importance in the administration of justice. The Senate amendment restores the version originally approved by the Senate whereby either party could file for such direct Supreme Court review if the district judge who adjudicated the case determined that the appeal is of such importance in the administration of justice. The Senate amendment also equal opportunity for possible direct Supreme Court review to either party to the case. This, I should add, is a position of fairness already expressed in current law whereby following the litigation, either party may file for direct review to the Supreme Court with that court.

"The requirement of the concurrence of the district court judge had been eliminated in the House bill because it was the committee's intention, basically, to add safeguards against the filing of frivolous appeals and, thus, adding to the Supreme Court's docket. The Senate amendment, in effect, achieves the same result intended by the Judiciary Committee by requiring an impartial, objective determination of the alleged importance of the case by the judge who adjudicated the case.

"For these reasons, it is readily understandable why the original Senate and House sponsors of the Senate bill supported the House amendment; why representatives of the President and of the Justice Department have urged House acceptance of the Senate amendment; and why bipartisan support for the amendment has been expressed by the members of the House Judiciary Committee and its Monopolies and Commercial Law Subcommittee.

Mr. HUTCHINSON. Under the present law, as I understand it, in an antitrust case, the losing party in the lower court may file an appeal directly to the Supreme Court. In all other cases an appeal would lie with the circuit court of appeals. Now, as I understand it, the Senate amendment provides that the district judge who heard the case will determine whether an appeal shall lie directly to the Supreme Court or whether the appeal will lie with the circuit court of appeals; is that correct?

Mr. RODINO. That is correct.

Mr. HUTCHINSON. With that explanation, Mr. Speaker, I withdraw my reservation of objection, and I have no objection to the Members of the House concurring with the Senate amendment.

The SPEAKER. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from New Jersey?

There was no objection.

The Senate amendment to the House amendment was concurred in.

A motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

REAL ESTATE SETTLEMENT COSTS

Mr. PATMAN. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent for the immediate consideration of the conference report on the Senate bill (S. 3164) to provide for greater disclosure of the nature and costs of real estate settlement services, to eliminate the payment of kickbacks and unearned fees in connection with settlement services provided in federally related mortgage transactions, and for other purposes.

The Clerk read the title of the Senate bill.

The SPEAKER. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Texas?

There was no objection.

Mr. PATMAN. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that the statement of the managers be dispensed with.

The SPEAKER. Evidently a quorum is present.

Mr. PATMAN. Mr. Speaker, the legislative agreement embodied in the conference report on S. 3164, the Real Estate Settlement Procedures Act of 1974, in my view represents the best possible resolution of the differences between the House and Senate measures.

Almost without exception, the agreement reached among the conferees reflects acceptance of the strongest consumer protection provisions of both bills. On balance, the bill emerging from the conference is a tool with which both home buyers and home sellers can protect their interests and their pocketbooks. I am certain that in the months and years ahead this measure will stand as a barrier to the deceptive and fraudulent practices which have bilked home buyers and home sellers of hundreds of millions of dollars.

The provisions of the bill are of particular importance to low- and moderate-income families who have been drained of hard-earned funds at the hands of unscrupulous attorneys, title insurers, mortgage lenders, title insurers, and others involved in the real estate settlement industry. Indeed, abusive settlement practices have often resulted in robbing low- and moderate-income families of homeowner- ship opportunities because they could not afford inflated and unjustified charges and fees they were required to pay in order to purchase a home. In a real sense, these unchecked abusive settlement practices mocked achievement of our congressionally adopted national housing goals, especially the case of low- and moderate-income families, those most in need of decent dwellings in suitable living environments.

Concerning major aspects of the report: Both the House and Senate bills contain provisions for the preparation and distribution of special information booklets to inform home buyers about the nature and costs of real estate settlement services. In this connection, the Senate bill required that the average amount of settlement costs in the market where the settlement is made be presented in the special booklets. The House bill did not contain such a requirement.

Conferences agreed to accept the Senate provision with an amendment which directs HUD to conduct pilot demonstration programs to determine the most practical and efficient method to acquire and analyze data in order to present to Congress not later than July 1, 1976.

Mr. Speaker, the question at hand is whether HUD can report such information to home buyers in a manner which will acquire and analyze such information for inclusion in the special information booklets. The conferences agreed that disclosing the range of charges for settlement services would be a highly desirable and useful shopping tool for prospective home buyers. Moreover, HUD has already demonstrated its capability to obtain such information. It did so in following a directive of the Emergency Home Finance Act of 1970 to de-
