

2014 PROPOSED APPROPRIATIONS LANGUAGE

Department of Justice

The information provided below provides the proposed appropriations language, by account, for the Department of Justice for 2014. New language proposed for 2014 is italicized and underlined, and 2013 enacted language proposed for deletion is bracketed. In addition, any substantive changes from the Department of Justice Appropriations Act for 2013 are described in more detail; changes such as new funding levels, changes in the number of motor vehicles, changes in references to fiscal years, minor program name changes, and deletion of references to emergency funding designations and prior year rescissions are not discussed.

JUSTIFICATION. The Department proposes to delete the proviso prohibiting amending or changing the definition of curio or relic. The Department also proposes to delete a proviso that prohibits ATF from initiating notice and comment rulemaking to explore whether and how federal firearms licensees might be required to account for their firearms inventory, as the absence of such accountability undermines ATF's ability to investigate lost or stolen weapons in a timely manner. The Department also includes three provisos that historically have been repeated annually in spite of hereafter/thereafter language that made them permanent. The Department's FY 2013 appropriation did not include these provisos, and we agree that they are not necessary. Finally, the Department has deleted hereafter/thereafter language in certain provisos since they are typically included annually.

Federal Prison System,

The Department proposes the deletion of the provision for the care and security of Cuban and Haitian entrants, as the level of applicable entrants is minimal and it limits BOP's use of carryover authority and operational flexibility. JUSTIFICATION: New language in FY 2014 includes: a provision for up to a 2 percent research and evaluation set aside from OVW programs, not including the formula STOP and Sexual Assault Services Program; and clarification that victims of dating violence are potential beneficiaries of transitional housing assistance grants. The Department also includes clarifying language in paragraph (11) regarding the consolidated program supporting families in the justice system. We note that we are evaluating the extent to which the recent passage of the Violence Against Women Reauthorization Act, 2013 (Public Law 113-4) may require additional language changes.
