QUESTION PRESENTED

Whether the court of appeals erred in refusing to set aside the determination by the Bureau of Prisons that petitioner was not entitled to credit against his federal sentence for time he spent in state custody, where credit for that time had been awarded by the State against petitioner's state sentence.

DOUGLAS EDWIN PIERCE, PETITIONER

COLE JETER, WARDEN

ON PETITION FOR A WRIT OF CERTIORARI TO THE UNITED STATES COURT OF APPEALS FOR THE FIFTH CIRCUIT

BRIEF FOR THE RESPONDENT IN OPPOSITION

OPINIONS BELOW

The opinion of the court of appeals (Pet. App. 1a-3a) is not published in the Federal Reporter but is reprinted in 150 F. App'x 344. The order of the district court (Pet. App. 4a-5a) is unreported.

JURISDICTION

The judgment of the court of appeals was entered on October 14, 2005. The petition for a writ of certiorari was filed on December 23, 2005. The jurisdiction of this Court is invoked under 28 U.S.C. 1254(1).

STATEMENT

In 2004, petitioner filed a petition for a writ of habeas corpus pursuant to 28 U.S.C. 2241, arguing that the Bureau of Prisons (BOP) had erroneously failed to grant him credit for time spent in state custody. Gov't C.A. Br. 2. The district court denied his petition, Pet. App. 4a-5a, and the court of appeals affirmed, id. at 1a-3a.

1. On January 25, 2000, petitioner was arrested on state charges for engaging in organized crime and conspiring to manufacture methamphetamine. Sixteen days later, he was released on bail. On April 8, 2000, state authorities arrested him for bail jumping and failure to appear, and his bond was revoked. On January 17, 2001, while still awaiting prosecution on the state charges, petitioner was transferred into federal custody, on the basis of a writ of habeas corpus ad prosequendum, pending his trial on federal drug charges. App., infra, 2a; Gov't C.A. Br. 4.

Petitioner eventually pleaded guilty in the United States District Court for the Western District of Texas to conspiring to manufacture methamphetamine, in violation of 21 U.S.C. 841(a)(1) and 846. On January 3, 2002, the federal district court sentenced him to 78 months of imprisonment, to be followed by five years of supervised release. App., infra, 2a-3a; Gov't C.A. Br. 4-5. The federal judgment and commitment order was silent on the relationship between the federal sentence and any future state sentence. App., infra, 15a; Pet. 2.

On February 13, 2002, petitioner was returned to state officials. In state court, petitioner pleaded guilty to bail jumping, and the State dismissed the drug charges against him. Pet. 2-3; Gov't C.A. Br. 4-5. On February 21, 2002, the state court sentenced petitioner to three years of imprisonment, to be served concurrently with his federal sentence. App., infra, 3a; Gov't C.A. Br. 5; Pet. C.A. Br. Exh. H (state judgment).¹

2. On June 28, 2002, petitioner was paroled from his state sentence directly to the U.S. Marshals Service for commencement of his federal sentence. Pursuant to 18 U.S.C. 3585(b) and BOP Program Statement 5880.28, Sentence Computation Manual CCCA, BOP credited petitioner with 33 days that he was in state custody before his federal sentencing because those days had not otherwise been credited against another sentence.² BOP did not credit petitioner for any of the other time

¹ The state court judgment notes that the terms of the plea agreement include that “[s]entence to run concurrent with any federal sentence, as applicable.” Pet. C.A. Br. Ex. H, at 2 (emphasis added). The judgment similarly states that the sentence shall be concurrent “if applicable” in its description of the terms of the punishment, id. at 3, although in the concluding paragraph it states simply that “Sentence to run concurrent with federal sentence,” ibid.

² Section 3585 provides:

Calculation of a term of imprisonment

(a) COMMENCEMENT OF SENTENCE.—A sentence to a term of imprisonment commences on the date the defendant is received in custody awaiting transportation to, or arrives voluntarily to commence service of sentence at, the official detention facility at which the sentence is to be served.

(b) CREDIT FOR PRIOR CUSTODY.—A defendant shall be given credit toward the service of a term of imprisonment for any time he has spent in official detention prior to the date the sentence commences—

(1) as a result of the offense for which the sentence was imposed;
or

(2) as a result of any other charge for which the defendant was arrested after the commission of the offense for which the sentence was imposed;

that has not been credited against another sentence.

he served on his state sentence. App., infra, 2a-4a; Gov't C.A. Br. 5.

On October 3, 2002, as part of its process to determine how much credit to afford petitioner for his time in state custody, BOP contacted the Texas Department of Criminal Justice to determine the amount of credit petitioner received on his state sentence. See App., infra, 3a-4a, 10a-11a. On October 7, 2002, BOP received information from the State indicating that petitioner received credit on his state sentence from April 24, 2000, until his parole to federal authorities on June 28, 2002. See id. at 12a-13a. On May 29, 2003, BOP also contacted the Probation Office in the Western District of Texas to seek the views of the federal sentencing court with respect to the operation of petitioner's federal sentence in relation to his state sentence. See id. at 3a, 14a-17a.³ By letter dated June 20, 2003, the Probation Office informed BOP that "[t]he Court wishes this inmate's sentence to run consecutive to his State sentence." Id. at 18a.

³ Under BOP Program Statement 5160.05, "[a] designation for concurrent service of sentence will be made only when it is consistent with the intent of the federal sentencing court or the goals of the criminal justice system." Federal Bureau of Prisons, U.S. Dep't of Justice, Program Statement No. 5160.05, at 4 (2003). The Program Statement further provides that information that the BOP will consider in making that determination includes the "intent of the federal sentencing court, if available." Ibid. When an inmate makes a request for pre-sentence credit toward a federal sentence for time spent in service of a state sentence, the Program Statement provides that "[i]n making the determination, if a designation for concurrent service may be appropriate (e.g., the federal sentence is imposed first and there is no order or recommendation regarding the service of the sentence in relationship to the yet to be imposed state term), the [BOP] will send a letter to the sentencing court (either the Chambers of the Judge, U.S. Attorney's Office, and/or U.S. Probation Office, as appropriate) inquiring whether the court has any objections." Id. at 6.

3. a. Beginning on June 28, 2003, petitioner challenged, through BOP's administrative review process, BOP's decision not to credit him with 652 days that he spent in state custody. See App., infra, 20a-28a; Pet. C.A. Br. Exh. D. He contended that he was entitled to the credit because his state judgment provided that his state sentence was to run concurrently to his federal sentence. See App., infra, 20a, 24a. Petitioner's appeal was denied at each level, including by the Regional Director. See id. at 26a-28a.

On November 14, 2003, the Regional Director explained in his decision that Section 3585(b) "authorizes credit for time spent in official detention prior to the imposition of a sentence that has not been credited against another sentence." App., infra, 27a. The Regional Director informed petitioner that "[a]s a result of language on your state judgment reflecting the sentence should be served concurrently with your federal sentence, institution staff contacted the U.S. Probation Officer," who contacted the sentencing judge and were "informed the court intended for your federal sentence to be served consecutively to your state sentence." Id. at 27a-28a. The Regional Director further noted that the State had confirmed to BOP that petitioner had received credit from the State for the time for which he sought credit. Id. at 27a. As such, the Regional Director explained that to award credit would be "contrary to the intent" of Section 3585(b). Ibid.

Nevertheless, the Regional Director indicated that BOP had considered petitioner's request as one to have BOP designate, nunc pro tunc, his state custody as the place of service of his federal sentence. App., infra, 27a-28a. After consideration of “the available information, consistent with Title 18 U.S.C. § 3621” and the guidance of BOP Program Statement 5160.05, the Regional Director stated that BOP had concluded: “In your specific case, we find commencement of your federal sentence by way of a concurrent designation is not consistent with the goals of the criminal justice system.” Id. at 28a.⁴

In December 2003, petitioner appealed the Regional Director’s decision to the BOP Central Office. See Appendix to Gov’t Resp. to Pet. Traverse at 005. On February 2, 2004, the Central Office denied petitioner’s appeal, stating that it “concur[red] with previous findings in that the Bureau of Prisons computed your sentence according to the applicable statutes and in accordance with Program Statement 5880.28, Sentence Computation Manual CCA.” Id. at 004.

b. In May 2004, petitioner filed pro se the instant habeas corpus action under 28 U.S.C. 2241 against the warden of his institution.⁵ He argued, inter alia, that “[c]ontrary to the plain language of 18 U.S.C. §3584(a),” respondent “has failed to properly grant prior jail credit time to Petitioner’s sentence calculation and has refused to acknowledge and amend the appropriate changes.” Pet. for Writ of Habeas Corpus at 3

⁴ Section 3621(b) provides in pertinent part that “[t]he Bureau of Prisons shall designate the place of the prisoner’s imprisonment.” 18 U.S.C. 3621(b).

⁵ At the time of petitioner’s administrative complaint and the initiation of this action, L.E. Fleming was the warden of petitioner’s federal institution; respondent is the current warden. Gov’t C.A. Br. 2 n.1.

(filed May 10, 2004).⁶ In response, the government filed a motion to dismiss and a motion for summary judgment. The latter motion included a declaration and supporting documents (see App., infra, 1a-19a) demonstrating that petitioner received credit on his state sentence for the time at issue. The government argued that petitioner failed to state a claim for relief because, under 18 U.S.C. 3585(b), petitioner was not entitled to credit for time spent in official custody when that time had been credited against another sentence. The government also argued that the federal sentencing court had discretion, under Section 3584(a), to order that petitioner's federal sentence be served consecutively to his as-yet-unimposed sentence. See Gov't Mot. to Dismiss at 3-5.

c. In a brief Order, the district court dismissed for the reasons discussed in the government's motion to dismiss, rejecting petitioner's claim that "he has not received proper credit for time spent in state custody prior to federal custody." Pet. App. 4a-5a & n.1.

4. On appeal, petitioner, again proceeding pro se, argued that, under Section 3584(a), the federal court

⁶ Section 3584(a) provides in pertinent part:

If multiple terms of imprisonment are imposed on a defendant at the same time, or if a term of imprisonment is imposed on a defendant who is already subject to an undischarged term of imprisonment, the terms may run concurrently or consecutively[.] * * * Multiple terms of imprisonment imposed at the same time run concurrently unless the court orders or the statute mandates that the terms are to run consecutively. Multiple terms of imprisonment imposed at different times run consecutively unless the court orders that the terms are to run concurrently.

lacked authority to impose a federal sentence consecutive to an as-yet-unimposed state sentence. The government responded that “[t]he Attorney General, through the Bureau of Prisons (BOP), determines what credit, if any, will be awarded to prisoners for time spent in custody prior to the commencement of their federal sentences,” Gov’t C.A. Br. 11, and that petitioner was not entitled under Section 3585(b) to the time at issue because he already had received credit for that time from the State, id. at 16. In response to petitioner’s argument that the state court had ordered the state sentence to run concurrently, the government contended that a state court has no authority to order how a federal sentence is computed. Id. at 12. The government further noted that Fifth Circuit precedent afforded the district court discretion under Section 3584(a) to run petitioner’s sentence consecutively to his impending state sentence, and that, “absent language in the sentencing decision to the contrary,” Section 3584 dictated that they be served consecutively. Ibid.

The court of appeals affirmed in a short, unpublished per curiam. Relying on United States v. Brown, 920 F.2d 1212, 1217 (5th Cir. 1991), cert. denied, 500 U.S. 925 (1991), and Section 3584(a), the court of appeals held that “[t]he sentencing court had the discretion to order that a federal term of imprisonment run either consecutively to or concurrently with an anticipated, but not yet imposed, state sentence.” Pet. App. 2a. The court observed that “the fact that the state court ordered the state sentence to run concurrently with the federal sentence does not change the consecutive nature of the federal sentence,” because federal authorities are not bound by sentencing orders from state courts. Id. at 3a. Finally, the court held that

“because the record indicates that the time that [petitioner] spent in federal custody pursuant to a writ of habeas corpus ad prosequendum was credited against his state sentence, the BOP correctly applied 18 U.S.C. § 3585(b)(2) when it did not include this time as credit towards [petitioner’s] federal sentence.” Ibid.

ARGUMENT

Petitioner contends (Pet. 5-30) that the district court did not have the authority to direct that his sentence run consecutively to a state sentence that had not yet been imposed. According to petitioner, 18 U.S.C. 3584(a) restricts a district court’s ability to impose a sentence consecutive to a state sentence to instances where the defendant “is already subject to” the state sentence. 18 U.S.C. 3584(a). Petitioner contends that the court of appeals’ rejection of that interpretation conflicts with decisions of other courts of appeals.

Petitioner is correct that the courts of appeals disagree on whether a federal court has the authority to direct a sentence to be served consecutively to a yet-to-be imposed state sentence. In addition to the Fifth Circuit, the Eighth, Tenth, and Eleventh Circuits have ruled that district courts have such authority. See United States v. Andrews, 330 F.3d 1305, 1306-1307 (11th Cir.) (per curiam), cert. denied, 540 U.S. 1003 (2003); United States v. Mayotte, 249 F.3d 797, 799 (8th Cir. 2001) (per curiam); United States v. Williams, 46 F.3d 57, 58-59 (10th Cir.), cert. denied, 516 U.S. 826 (1995). The courts of appeals for the Sixth, Seventh, and Ninth Circuits have held that district courts lack that authority. Romandine v. United States, 206 F.3d 731, 738 (7th Cir. 2000); United States v. Quintero, 157 F.3d 1038, 1039-1040 (6th Cir. 1998); United States v.

Clayton, 927 F.2d 491, 492 (9th Cir. 1991). This case, however, does not present that question, and in any event, resolving that conflict is unnecessary. Further review is not warranted.⁷

1. Although both parties and the lower courts framed the issue as turning in part on a court's authority under 18 U.S.C. 3584(a) to order consecutive sentences, this case does not present the question whether a district court has authority under that Section to order a federal sentence to be served consecutive to an as-yet-unimposed state sentence. Here, the district court did not even purport to do so. As petitioner concedes (Pet. 2), the federal sentence was silent on the relationship between the federal sentence and any future sentence. See App., infra, 15a. The question presented by the petition—"whether a federal judge can require a defendant to serve a term of imprisonment consecutively to another sentence that has not yet been imposed," Pet. i (emphasis added)—is therefore not presented by the facts of this case.

Properly understood, this case involves BOP's authority under 18 U.S.C. 3585 and 3621, not a sentencing court's authority under 18 U.S.C. 3584. As this Court held in United States v. Wilson, 503 U.S. 329 (1992), BOP, not the federal sentencing court, has the authority to determine how much credit a defendant should receive for time spent in official detention before the commencement of his federal sentence. See id. at 332-337 (interpreting Section 3585). That is because, “[a]fter a district court sentences a federal offender, the Attorney General, through BOP, has the responsibility for administering the sentence. Id. at 335 (citing 18 U.S.C. 3621(a)).

⁷ The Court denied review of the issue in Lackey v. United States, 125 S. Ct. 2963 (2005) (No. 04-9286); Martinez v. United States, 125 S. Ct. 1299 (2005) (No. 04-7129); and Andrews v. United States, 540 U.S. 1003 (2003) (No. 03-136). The same question is raised by the petition for a writ of certiorari in Cox v. United States, 125 F. App'x 973 (10th Cir.), petition for cert. pending, No. 05-454 (filed Oct. 5, 2005); and Cruz v. United States 153 F. App'x 587 (11th Cir. 2005), petition for cert. pending, No. 05-8866 (filed Jan. 10, 2006).

Here, as the court of appeals concluded, “BOP correctly applied 18 U.S.C. § 3585(b)(2)” when it declined to credit petitioner for the time that already had been credited against his state sentence. Pet. App. 3a. BOP also did not abuse its discretion in refusing to designate, nunc pro tunc, state custody as the place of petitioner’s federal confinement. See 18 U.S.C. 3621(b). As explained in the decision of the Regional Director, BOP determined that “commencement of [petitioner’s] federal sentence by way of a concurrent designation [wa]s not consistent with the goals of the criminal justice system.” App., infra, 28a. BOP reached that conclusion after taking into account the federal sentencing court’s wishes. But the letter from the Probation Office that conveyed the court’s “wishes,” id. at 18a, was not part of the judgment and commitment order, and the court had no power, 18 months after sentencing, to amend the judgment or modify the sentence. See Fed. R. Crim. P. 35(a) (limiting correction of “arithmetical, technical, or other clear error” to within seven days after sentence); see, e.g., United States v. Penna, 319 F.3d 509, 512 (9th Cir. 2003) (“The district court must correct a sentence within seven days after orally pronouncing it or else it loses its jurisdiction to modify the sentence.”). The Regional Director’s decision (App., infra, 26a-28a) and BOP’s relevant Program Statement (see note 3, supra) make clear that, while the court’s intentions are an important consideration, they are only one of the considerations taken into account in making a designation decision under Section 3621(b).⁸

The circuits appear to agree that BOP has broad discretion to determine whether to allow a federal inmate to serve his federal time in state custody. See Romandine, 206 F.3d at 738-739 (agreeing with the Second and Third Circuits that that the Attorney General has discretion under Section 3621 effectively to run sentences concurrently by designating the state institution as the place for service of the federal sentence); see also Abdul-Malik v. Hawk-Sawyer, 403 F.3d 72, 75-76 (2d Cir. 2005); Taylor v. Sawyer, 284 F.3d 1143, 1147-1150 (9th Cir. 2002), cert. denied, 537 U.S. 1119 (2003); Barden v. Keohane, 921 F.2d 476, 483-484 (3d Cir. 1990).⁹ Petitioner, in any event, does not challenge BOP's exercise of discretion; rather he seeks to challenge only action by the federal sentencing court. Because this case actually concerns BOP's refusal to allow petitioner credit for time in state custody for which he already received time under his state sentence, rather than any order by a district court made under Section

⁸ To the extent that language in the warden's earlier administrative decision (App., infra, 23a), or the government's briefs in the lower courts, suggests that the district court's indirect expression of its "wishes" was somehow a binding order on BOP, that was incorrect. The warden's decision, moreover, was not BOP's final word, and the Regional Director's decision did not rely on Section 3584. See App., infra, 26a-28a.

⁹ Although the Second Circuit has suggested that Romandine disagreed on this score, see Abdul-Malik, 403 F.3d at 75-76, that cannot be squared with Romandine. See Romandine, 206 F.3d at 738-739 (noting that it agreed with the Second Circuit's "bottom line" that "[t]he Attorney General has discretion" to decide when to start the federal sentence by designating the place of service).

3584, the question raised by petitioner is not at issue here.

2. In any event, resolving whether district courts have the power to impose a sentence that is to run consecutively to an as-yet-unimposed state sentence is unnecessary because a district court's order that a defendant's sentence be served consecutively to future state sentences is not binding on state courts. This Court has long recognized that although federal and state courts "co-exist in the same space, they are independent, and have no common superior." Ponzi v. Fessenden, 258 U.S. 254, 261 (1922) (quoting Covell v. Heyman, 111 U.S. 176, 182 (1884)) (emphasis added). "[O]ur federal system is one of 'dual sovereignty,' and not one in which the Supremacy Clause controls sentencing." Taylor v. Sawyer, 284 F.3d at 1150 (quoting Strand v. Schmittroth, 251 F.2d 590, 605 (9th Cir.), cert. dismissed, 355 U.S. 886 (1957)). Each sovereign has "full power to set punishment for crimes against the * * * sovereign" unconstrained by the other sovereign. 284 F.3d at 1151. Consequently, "a determination as to concurrence of sentence made by one sovereign does not bind the other." Jake v. Herschberger, 173 F.3d 1059, 1065 (7th Cir. 1999). Thus, as a general matter, neither state courts nor state prison systems are bound by federal court orders concerning consecutive or concurrent sentencing. Cf. Federal Bureau of Prisons, U.S. Dep't of Justice, Program Statement No. 5160.05, at 3 (2003) ("Just as the federal government has no authority to prescribe when a state sentence will commence, the state has no authority to order commencement of a federal sentence."); cf. United States v. Gonzalez, 520 U.S. 1, 11 (1997) (in a case involving consecutive sentence under 18 U.S.C. 924(c)(1), which then provided that no term of imprisonment imposed under it “shall * * * run concurrently with any other term of imprisonment,” reserving the question “whether a later sentencing state court is bound to order its sentence to run consecutively to the [18 U.S.C.] § 924(c) term of imprisonment”).

States may make their sentences concurrent to federal sentences if a defendant is in primary federal custody by designating the defendant’s federal institution for service of the state sentence. If a defendant is in primary state custody, the state court can make the state sentence effectively concurrent to a subsequent federal sentence by deducting the length of the federal sentence from the time spent (or to be served) in the state system at sentencing, or by suspending a portion of the sentence. In addition, a defendant in state custody, a state court, or a state prison system can seek to have the Bureau of Prisons designate the state facility as the place for service of his federal sentence. See Program Statement No. 5160.05, supra, at 4-7.¹⁰

Petitioner disputes (Pet. 13-17) the effectiveness of such measures and argues that they require state courts to engage in unseemly maneuvers to effectuate their sentencing intentions, which is asserted to be an affront to “important sovereign interests of state criminal justice systems.” Pet. 13. But the interplay of state and federal sentencing intentions simply reflects the fact that each sovereign is entitled to decide whether its punishment should be cumulative of the other’s. Here, the federal district court expressed its “wishes,” through a letter from the Probation Office to BOP, that the federal sentence should be consecutive to petitioner’s state sentence. BOP considered that intention in deciding that it was not “consistent with the goals of the criminal justice system,” App., infra, 28a, to credit petitioner’s sentence for his federal drug conviction with time he served on his state bail-jumping conviction. The federal government should not be required to surrender its independent judgment about the proper extent of a defendant’s federal punishment, and reduce the length of federal imprisonment, in order to abide by the terms of the plea agreement that petitioner made with the State and that the state court accepted.

¹⁰ Here, petitioner claims (Pet. 15) that, because the federal sentence was silent on its effect on any future sentence, “the state court had no reason to believe that it was required to reduce its sentence * * * in order to ensure that its intent was effectuated.” But BOP’s Program Manual clearly states, with respect to subsequently-imposed state sentences, that “[i]f the federal sentence is silent * * * then the federal sentence shall not be placed into operation until the U.S. Marshals’ Service or the Bureau of Prisons gains exclusive custody of the prisoner.” BOP Program Statement 5880.28, at 1-32A.

In sum, the disagreement over whether federal courts have the legal power to provide that a federal sentence shall run consecutively to a future state sentence does not have sufficient practical importance to warrant this Court’s review. Even if it did, the Court should await a case where the issue is presented by the facts of the case, unlike this one where it is not.

CONCLUSION

The petition for a writ of certiorari should be denied.

Respectfully submitted.

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT FOR THE NORTHERN DISTRICT OF TEXAS
FORT WORTH DIVISION

No. 4:04-CV-357-A

v.

L. E. FLEMING, WARDEN

DECLARATION OF JAMES E. HAZELTON

In accordance with the provisions of § 1746 of Title 28, United States Code, I, the undersigned, James E. Hazelton, do hereby make the following declaration, under penalty of perjury to the above-styled and numbered cause:

1. I am presently employed by the United States Government as the Inmate Systems Manager for the Federal Medical Center (FMC) located in Fort Worth, Texas. I have held this position since May 1998. The official duties and responsibilities of my current position include Official Custodian of Records for all inmates incarcerated at FMC Fort Worth. In this respect, I monitor inmates' files to ensure and verify that accurate sentence computations are performed. Pursuant to my official responsibilities, I have access to records maintained in the ordinary course of business by the Federal Bureau of Prisons, including records reflecting an inmate's sentencing data.

2. Petitioner, Douglas Edwin Pierce, Register No. 03473-180, is a 34-year-old inmate currently serving a 78-month term of imprisonment with a five-year term of supervision for Conspiracy to Manufacture Methamphetamine in violation of 21 U.S.C. §§ 841 and 846. Petitioner was sentenced on January 3, 2002, in the United States District Court for the Western District of Texas. He is currently projected to satisfy this sentence on February 16, 2005, via Good Conduct Time Release. See attached Exhibit "A" Sentry¹ Sentence Monitoring Computation Data.

3. Petitioner was received at FMC Fort Worth on October 4, 2002, and remains here at present. In the petition, the petitioner seeks 652 days of federal custody credit. Petitioner was arrested on January 25, 2000, by the Hill County Sheriff's Department for Engaging in Organized Crime and Conspiracy to Manufacture Methamphetamine. He remained in jail until his release on bail on February 10, 2000. See attached Exhibit "B" letters dated October 3, and October 7, 2002. Petitioner was credited for 17 days of federal confinement for those days. On April 8, 2000, Petitioner was arrested for Bail Jumping and Failure to Appear by the Hill County, Texas law enforcement authorities. On January 17, 2001, the petitioner was transferred to the custody of the United States Marshals Service on the basis of a Writ of Habeas Corpus Ad Prosequendum for his federal court appearance. The petitioner was sentenced in the Western District of Texas on January 3, 2002, to 78 months incarceration for Conspiracy to Manufacture Methamphetamine. After sentencing, the petitioner was returned to the state and received a three-year sentence. On or about February 17, 2002, petitioner received a three-year sentence for his state offenses. The petitioner was paroled from his state sentence on June 28, 2002, to the U.S. Marshals Service for service of his sentence.

4. The petitioner states the state judge ordered his state sentence be run concurrent with his federal sentence. The U.S. Probation Office, Western District of Texas, was contacted to determine the Honorable Walter S. Smith's, Jr., U.S. District Judge, intention as far the operation of the petitioner's federal sentence relative to his state sentence. See attached Exhibit "C" correspondence dated May 29, 2003. In correspondence, dated June 20, 2003, U.S. Probation stated it was the court's intention the petitioner's federal sentence run consecutive to his state sentence. See attached Exhibit "D"

5. The petitioner states he should be awarded additional prior custody credits on his federal sentence from April 24, 2000 through January 2, 2003. 18 U.S.C. § 3585(b) and Bureau of Prisons Program Statement 5880.28, Sentence Computation Manual CCCA furthers defines prior custody as official detention that is a result of the instant federal offense or any other period of detentions that occur on or after the date of the federal offense and prior to commencement of the sentence and has not been credited to another sentence. Information was received from the Texas Department of Criminal Justice indicating the petitioner received credit on his state sentence from April 24, 2000, until his parole on June 28, 2002. The arrest of the petitioner on April 8, 2000, was a not a result of the instant federal offense. However, credit was awarded from April 8, 2000, to April 23, 2000, (16 days of federal custody credit) on the petitioner's federal sentence in accordance with 18 U.S.C. § 3585(b) and Bureau of Prisons Program Statement 5880.28, Sentence Computation Manual CCA. Petitioner received 33 days of prior custody credit.

6. As custodian of inmate records at FMC Fort Worth, I certify that the report titled Sentence Monitoring Computation Data attached here to as Exhibit C is a true and correct copy of that report for the petitioner. I also certify that his release date calculated as February 16, 2008, is correct and computed in accordance with Bureau of Prisons Program Statement 5880.28 and Title 18 U.S.C. § 3568.

I declare under penalty of perjury that the foregoing is true and correct. Executed this 21st day of June 2004.

RE: PIERCE, Douglas Edwin
Reg. No. 03473-180
Case Number: W-01-CR-006(01(

Dear Ms Suniga:

Mr. Pierce, Douglas is currently serving a 78-month term of imprisonment in the Federal Medical Center, at Fort Worth, TX. He has requested a nunc pro tunc designation which would allow his federal sentence to be served concurrently with his state sentence.

Mr. Pierce was originally arrested by State of Texas law enforcement officials. Mr. Pierce was sentenced to a 3-year term in the Texas Department of Criminal Justice. He was produced in the Western District of Texas on the basis of a Writ of Habeas Corpus Ad Prosequendum. On January 3, 2002, Mr. Pierce was sentenced in federal court to 78- months imprisonment for Conspiracy to Manufacture Methamphetamine. The Court did not specify whether the federal sentence should be served concurrently or consecutively with his state sentence. After sentencing, Mr. Pierce was returned to state custody. On June 28, 2002, Mr. Pierce was paroled from the State of Texas and his federal sentence commenced.

In accordance with the Bureau of Prisons Program Statement 5160.03, Designation of State Institution for Service of Federal Sentence, and Title 18 U.S.C. 3584, “if multiple terms of imprisonment are imposed at different times (emphasis added) without the judge specifying whether they are to run concurrently or consecutively, they will run consecutively unless the statute specifies otherwise.”

SENSITIVE - LIMITED OFFICIAL USE

In addition, any decision concerning concurrent or consecutive service of a federal sentence with a state sentence is not dependent on the order of which sentence is imposed first. Since the federal judgment and commitment order is silent and state authorities had primary jurisdiction over Mr. Pierce, the federal sentence will be served consecutive to the state sentence.

The federal sentencing judge may order the federal sentence to run consecutive to a state sentence to be imposed. The Bureau of Prisons interprets Title 18 U.S.C. 3584 to also permit the federal judge to order concurrent service with a state sentence. To allow the federal sentence to commence, the Bureau of Prisons designates the state correctional institution for service of the federal sentence. This designation is made effective nunc pro tunc to the date of federal sentencing. This decision is not dependent upon whether a state sentence has been imposed or will be imposed in the future.

Currently, Mr. Pierce's federal sentence has been computed to commence on June 28, 2002, the date he was released from the State of Texas. However, Mr. Pierce has requested a nunc pro tunc designation to commence his federal sentence on January 3, 2002, the date of federal sentencing.

As a result of the decision in Barden v. Keohane, 921 F.2d 476 (3rd Cir. 1990), the Bureau of Prisons considers an inmate's request for presentence credit toward a federal sentence, for time spent in service of a state sentence, as a request for a nunc pro tunc designation. The Court in Barden held that the Bureau must consider an inmate's request for concurrent service of the state and federal sentences.

Pursuant to our program statement, a designation for concurrent service of sentence should be made only when it is consistent with the intent of the sentencing federal court, or with the goals of the criminal justice system. Therefore, our office is seeking your assistance in bringing this matter before the Court. If the Court wishes for Mr. Pierce's federal sentence to commence on January 3, 2002, we ask that you please forward a letter or amended order to our office.

We have enclosed Mr. Pierce's Judgment and Commitment Order for your information. If you have any questions or concerns, please do not hesitate to contact James E. Hazelton, Inmate Systems Manager, at (817) 413-3051.

Your assistance in this matter is appreciated.

Part A - INMATE REQUEST

Pursuant to my initial computation data time sheet I was credited 652 days towards [sic] my current sentence for my state sentence because the state Judgment and Commitment [sic] Order specified my state sentence was to run concurrently to my Federal sentence. Subsequently on 6-11-03 the records department, without explanation, removed and denied the 652 days credit thus deeming my new projected release date as being that of 2-16- 2008 as opposed to 11-18-2005 as stated in the initial computation sheet. I am requesting that I be re-granted the 652 days against my sentence.

PIERCE, Douglas

REG. NO.: 03473-180

FILED: 08-13-2003

REMEDY NO. 307637-F1

PART B - RESPONSE

This is in response to your Request for Administrative Remedy, dated August 11, 2003, wherein you request your federal sentence to run concurrent with your state sentence and to be granted 652 days for service of a state sentence as ordered by the state Judgment and Commitment Order.

An investigation was conducted and found on May 29, 2003, the U.S. District Court for the Western District of Texas, was contacted to determine if the Court had any objections to your federal sentence running concurrent with your state sentence. This inquiry was based on your state sentence being ordered to run concurrent with your federal sentence and your request to Inmate Systems Management staff. On June 22, 2003, a letter was received from the U.S. District Court for the Western District of Texas stating it was the Court's wish for your federal sentence to run consecutive to your state sentence. Based on the Court's wishes, your sentence was computed to show a start date of June 28, 2002, when you were released from state custody. You cannot receive credit from April 24, 2000, to January 2, 2003, as the state awarded this credit to your state sentence. As outlined in Program Statement 5880.28, Sentence Computation Manual (CCCA of 1984), Title 18 U.S.C. 3585(b) is the statute authorizing the award of presentence credit. This statute authorizes credit for time spent in official detention prior to the imposition of a sentence that has not been credited against another sentence. To award credit that was applied to your state sentence would be contrary to the intent of this statute. You cannot obtain relief under Willis v. U.S., 449 F2d 923(CA 5, 1971) because your federal sentence was specifically ordered to be consecutive to your state sentence.

Based on the above information, your request is denied.

If you are not satisfied with this decision, you may appeal to the Regional Director at Bureau of Prisons, South Central Region, 4211 Cedar Springs Road, Suite 300, Dallas, Texas 75219, via a BP-230(13). Your appeal must be received in the South Central Regional Office within 20 days of the date of this response.

PIERCE, Douglas Edwin

REG. NO. 03473-180

RECEIPTED: 09-18-03

CASE NO. 307637-R1

PART B - RESPONSE

You are appealing the Warden's response to your complaint regarding your sentence computation. You are requesting 652 days of credit be applied to your federal sentence.

Investigation reveals you were arrested by state law enforcement officials on April 8, 2000, for Bail Jumping and Failure to Appear. On January 17, 2001, you were transferred to the custody of the U.S. Marshals Service on the basis of a Writ of Habeas Corpus Ad Prosequendum for your federal court appearance. You were sentenced in the Western District of Texas to 78 months imprisonment for Conspiracy to Manufacture Methamphetamine. After sentencing, you were returned to the state and received a three-year sentence for the state charges. You paroled from your state sentence on June 28, 2002, to the U.S. Marshals Service for service of your federal sentence.

You were designated to the Fort Worth Federal Medical Center for service of your sentence. As a result of the language on your state judgment reflecting the sentence should be served concurrently with your federal sentence, institution staff contacted the U.S. Probation Officer. The Probation Officer contacted the sentencing judge regarding the issue of concurrent service of your state and federal sentences. Staff were informed the court intended for your federal sentence to be served consecutively to your state sentence.

Program Statement 5880.28, Sentence Computation Manual (CCCA of 1984), states time spent under a writ of habeas corpus from non-federal custody will not, in itself, be considered for the purpose of custody credit. The primary reason for custody is not the federal charge. It is considered the federal court “borrows” an individual under the provisions of the writ for the purpose of the court appearance. Contact with the Texas Department of Criminal Justice has confirmed you received credit on your state sentence from April 24, 2000, until you were paroled on June 28, 2002.

As outlined in Program Statement 5880.28, Sentence Computation Manual (CCCA of 1984), Title 18 U.S.C. 3585(b) is the statute authorizing the award of presentence credit. This statute authorizes credit for time spent in official detention prior to the imposition of a sentence that has not been credited against another sentence. To award credit that was applied to your state sentence would be contrary to the intent of this statute.

You indicate the state judge ordered your state sentence to run concurrently with your federal sentence. However, your federal sentence was not operative when you were sentenced in state court. In addition, an order by the state judge is not binding upon the Bureau of Prisons. The state judge has no statutory authority to commence the federal sentence.

As a result of the decision in Barden v. Keohane, 921 F.2d 476 (3rd Cir. 1990), the Bureau of Prisons considers an inmate’s request for presentence credit toward a federal sentence, for time spent in service of a state sentence, as a request for a nunc pro tunc designation. The Court in Barden held that the Bureau must consider an inmate’s request for concurrent service of the state and federal sentences. However, in accordance with our policy, a designation for concurrent service of sentence, is made only when it is consistent with the intent of the sentencing federal court, or with the goals of the criminal justice system.

When reviewing cases for possible concurrent designation to a state facility, we consider the available information, consistent with Title 18 U.S.C. § 3621, Imprisonment of a Convicted Person. We are also provided guidance in Program Statement 5160.05, Designation of State Institution for Service of Federal Sentence. In your specific case, we find commencement of your federal sentence by way of a concurrent designation is not consistent with the goals of the criminal justice system.

You have received all applicable credit, and your sentence computation is correct. Therefore, your appeal is denied.

In the event you are dissatisfied with this response, you may appeal to the Bureau of Prisons, Administrative Remedy Section, 320 First Street, NW, Washington, D.C. 20534. Your appeal must be received in that office within 30 days from the date of this response.
