Deanna

Coleman: Is he in his office now?

DeAnne

Anderson: He's in there, yeah.

Coleman: With who?

Anderson: I don't think anybody. AJ was in there but went out.

Coleman: Okay.

Tom

Petters: Come in.

Coleman: Just me.

Petters: Get my message?

Coleman: No. Did you leave one?

Petters: On your cell phone, yeah.

Coleman: Oh okay.

Petters: Why did...

Coleman: No, I was jus, I was um, just downstairs and I just got back up here. So I.

Petters: Jim Granat's taking care of it.

Coleman: You what?

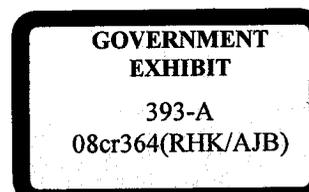

Petters: I got, Jim Granat's taking care of it for you.

Coleman: By who?

Petters: By the owners of Ark Royal. (UI) payroll (UI).

Coleman: Who are we getting money in from?

Petters: The owners of Ark Royal. It's a whole different problem. Nothing to do with Jim Granat. I just said.

Coleman: Oh.

Petters: (UI). I'll wire it to you and you can wire it to him. I don't know. They're gonna, they're gonna. They're gonna. They know the 5 million dollar problem exists. (UI) We're working on a much bigger level than they are. I mean, than he is. And I said I wanna get this off Deanna's list. So, the point is, I'm borrowing 5 million and they know we owe 5 million (UI).

Coleman: Okay, so is it, is it PO financing or is it just?

Petters: No, no. Pledge of stock.

Coleman: Pledge of stock?

Petters: It's a pledge of stock and it's a short term loan from them and we gotta take out (UI) bunch of shit.

Coleman: Good.

Petters: Let me finish with Mary and then come on. Listen to your voice mail and then come back in and if you understood anything I said, you're lucky.

Coleman: I didn't notice my phone ringing. (UI)

Petters: cell phone (UI).
