CROWNPOINT MAN SENTENCED TO FORTY-ONE MONTHS IN PRISON FOR FEDERAL ASSAULT CONVICTION

ALBUQUERQUE – This morning, Frederick Jimmie, 22, was sentenced to a 41-month term of imprisonment for his assault conviction by a federal judge in Santa Fe, N.M. Jimmie, an enrolled member of the Navajo Nation who resides in Crownpoint, N.M., will be on supervised release for three years after he completes his prison sentence. Jimmie also was ordered to pay $39,258 in restitution to cover the medical costs of the victim.

U.S. Attorney Kenneth J. Gonzales said that Jimmie and his codefendant, Ronald Yazzie, 36, a member of the Navajo Nation who resides in Tohatchi, N.M., were charged with assaulting a Navajo man on Feb. 2, 2011, in Crownpoint, which is located on the Navajo Indian Reservation.

Jimmie and Yazzie were indicted on Sept. 14, 2011, and charged with two counts of assault with a dangerous weapon and one count of assault resulting in serious bodily injury. Both men were arrested on Sept. 22, 2012, and have been in federal custody since that time.

On March 14, 2012, Jimmie and Yazzie each pled guilty to the assault resulting in serious bodily injury charge. In entering his guilty plea, Jimmie admitted that, on Feb. 11, 2011, he and Yazzie assaulted the victim by punching and kicking him in the face. Jimmie also admitted that he later stabbed the victim in the chest and arms.

During his plea hearing, Yazzie admitted assaulting the victim by punching and kicking the victim in the face and driving his vehicle over the victim's leg. Yazzie also acknowledged driving Jimmie to the place where Jimmie stabbed the victim. Yazzie is scheduled to be sentenced tomorrow morning.

Court filings reflect that the victim suffered several deep stab wounds, a broken fibula and ankle, broken orbital walls and a broken nose as a result of the assault.

The two remaining counts of the indictment against Jimmie were dismissed after Jimmie was sentenced.

The case is being prosecuted by Assistant U.S. Attorney Roberto D. Ortega, and was investigated by the Gallup office of the FBI with assistance from the Crownpoint Division of the Navajo Nation Department of Public Safety.
