

Job Aid | How to Run and Read a Criminal History Record

Purpose: The purpose of this job aid is to provide an overview of how to request a subject's criminal history and how to read the record information that is returned. Criminal histories are name-based checks initiated through the Justice Web Interface to NCIC (JWIN).

A Criminal History Record, also known as a Record of Arrests and Prosecutions (RAP) sheet, is obtained as the result of a name-based record check in the Interstate Identification Index (III). III searches a national index of criminal histories; the actual histories are located in each individual state's repository. These records are obtained from all 50 states and D.C., including some records retained by the FBI. The RAP sheet contains information about the subject's arrests, adjudications, and sex offender registrations if applicable.

Through the Tribal Access Program (TAP), criminal justice agencies such as Law Enforcement, Prosecutors, Corrections, Criminal Courts, Pretrial Services, and Probation/Parole offices can access criminal history information for investigative purposes and criminal justice employment checks. Non-criminal justice agencies like Civil Courts and Child Protective Services can also access criminal history information for limited purposes as described below.

Agency Use

- Law Enforcement, Prosecutors, Corrections, Criminal Courts, Pretrial Services, and Probation/Parole offices can run criminal histories for investigative purposes and criminal justice employment checks.
- Civil Courts can access criminal history information to aid in making decisions regarding subject's arrests for domestic violence and stalking.
- Child Protective Services can access criminal history information for subjects under investigation for child abuse, neglect, or exploitation.
- Social Services/Indian Child Welfare Programs do not have legal authority to run name-based record checks for non-criminal justice agency employment.
- Public Housing can request Law Enforcement to conduct name-based criminal Index Inquiry (QH) of employees or prospective employees, and on adult applicants or tenants receiving housing assistance for the purpose of screening, lease enforcement, or eviction. An affirmative or negative response is provided only.

A comprehensive name-based check may require up to three steps to obtain all available information. Follow these steps in this order:

- Conduct an Index Query (QH) to determine if the subject has a criminal history.
- Conduct a Record Request (QR) to receive copies of all available criminal histories.
- If a state search is needed, conduct an International Justice and Public Safety Network (Nlets) State Criminal History Record Inquiry (Identity Query (IQ)/Full Criminal History Query (FQ)).

How to read a Criminal History Record

The standardized FBI format contains four parts: Introduction, Identification, Criminal History and List of Agencies that contributed to this criminal history. The first Nlets return will usually be from the FBI records attached to the subject. Any other states that have history on the subject will follow with their own Nlets messages. If the subject has an extensive criminal history, there may be many Nlets messages. Every state can have its own format, but they follow a similar pattern. (Some states, such as AZ, will return one CR for each page of the Criminal History Record.)

Part 3 - Conduct an Nlets State Criminal History Record Check (IQ/FQ)

Step 3.1 – Run an IQ - Identity Query

If a state search is needed, conduct an Nlets IQ/FQ, State Criminal History Record Check. Like the QH/QR, obtaining a State Criminal History is also a 2-step process. The IQ (Identity Query) is used to determine if an individual has a criminal history in a particular state, similar to a QH, but at the state level. The FQ (Full Record Query) will produce the complete detailed criminal history record, like the QR, but at the state level.

Certification	Status	Expiration
Terminal Agency Coordinator	✓ Active	Non-expiring
NCIC Certification	✓ Active	01/31/2021
Full Access (All Forms)	✓ Active	Non-expiring

Select the destination(s) by state(s) and/or region from the drop down menu that best match the area you wish to search for the record. Complete the Required Information section and under Additional Information include the subject's sex, Date of Birth and race. (When searching for criminal history records in Nlets or III, if you use the name and date of birth, you must include sex and race.)

The screenshot shows the 'QUERY NLETS CRIMINAL HISTORY INDEX (IQ)' form. It has two main sections: 'AGENCY/CASE DATA' and 'PERSON DATA'. The 'AGENCY/CASE DATA' section includes fields for 'Originating Agency Code (ORI)', 'Destination ORI/Region Code (DRI)', 'Destination ORI/Region Code (DRI)', 'Attention of Recipient (ATN)', 'Purpose Code (PUR)', 'Requester Name (RSN)', 'Optional Control Field', 'Image Request (IMO)', and 'Reason for Request (RFB)'. The 'PERSON DATA' section includes fields for 'Name (NAM)', 'Sex (SEX)', 'Race (RAC)', 'Date of Birth (DOB)', 'Social Security Number (SOC)', and 'Miscellaneous Number (MNU)'. There are 'Submit' and 'Clear All' buttons at the top right of the form.
