Guide to Developing an Alaska Tribal Community Response Plan for Missing Person Cases

The United States Attorney's Office, District of Alaska looks forward to assisting Tribes in developing Missing and Murdered Indigenous Persons (MMIP) Tribal Community Response Plans (TCRP). Our MMIP Coordinator, Ingrid Goodyear (Ingrid.Goodyear@usdoj.gov or 907-306-0669) can assist with:

1. TCRP team development.
2. Scheduling and co-hosting listening sessions.
3. Providing TCRP guidance documents tailored to the specific needs, resources, and culture of a Tribal community.
4. Pre-planning the TCRP teamwork schedule.
5. Identifying stakeholders who need to participate in the work.
6. Assistance with drafting the TCRP.
7. Supporting the education and outreach of the adopted TCRP.

DOJ has also published its Guide to Developing a Tribal Community Response Plan for Missing Person Cases. This guide contains several helpful samples, forms and suggestions to assist Tribes in creating their own plans, including:

1. Developing Law Enforcement Agency Response Guidelines.
2. Developing Victim Services Response Guidelines.
3. Developing Media and Public Communications Response Guidelines.
4. Developing Community Outreach Response Guidelines.
