FEDERAL MEDICAL CENTER INMATE SENTENCED TO 115 MONTHS FOR ASSAULT

LEXINGTON, Ky. – On Friday, Kevin Labracio Frazier was sentenced to 115 months in federal prison, by United States District Judge Danny C. Reeves, for an assault resulting in serious bodily injury.

According to testimony at trial, Frazier, an inmate at the Federal Medical Center in Lexington, assaulted another inmate that resulted in the victim suffering facial fractures and a deep laceration under his eye. Evidence further revealed that Frazier repeatedly punched the victim in the head and face outside of the housing unit, that the victim briefly lost consciousness, and the victim was transported to the University of Kentucky for medical treatment. Frazier was convicted at trial, in April of 2018.

Under federal law, Frazier must serve 85 percent of his prison sentence and will be under the supervision of the U.S. Probation Office for 3 years.

Robert M. Duncan, Jr., United States Attorney for the Eastern District of Kentucky, and Amy Hess, Special Agent in Charge of the Federal Bureau of Investigation's Louisville Field Office, jointly made the announcement.

The investigation was conducted by Federal Bureau of Investigation and the Bureau of Prisons. The United States was represented by Assistant United States Attorney Ron L. Walker, Jr.
