INDICTMENT

The Grand Jury in and for the District of New Jersey, sitting at Camden, charges:

COUNT 1
[18 U.S.C. § 1040 – Disaster Fraud]

2017 OCT 11 P 12:10
U.S. DISTRICT COURT
DISTRICT OF NEW JERSEY RECEIVED

I. Background

1. At all times relevant to this Indictment:

Federal Emergency Management Agency

a. The Federal Emergency Management Agency (“FEMA”) was a constituent agency of the United States Department of Homeland Security and a member of the Executive Branch of the United States Government. FEMA was responsible for, among other things, preparing the nation for hazards, managing federal response and recovery efforts following any national incidents and administering the National Flood Insurance Program (“NFIP”).

National Flood Insurance Program

b. In 1968, Congress enacted the National Flood Insurance Act of 1968 (“NFIA”) which established the NFIP. See 42 U.S.C. §§ 4001–4129.

The NFIP was underwritten by the United States Treasury in order to provide flood insurance below actuarial rates. See 42 U.S.C. § 4017. The NFIP was administered by FEMA. See 42 U.S.C. § 4011.

c. In 1983, FEMA established a program within the NFIP known as “Write Your Own” (“WYO”), which allowed for certain private insurers to issue standard, government-guaranteed flood insurance policies in their own names with limits of up to $250,000 for flood-based building damage and $100,000 for flood damage to personal property. WYO insurers charged a fee for administering the policy, but when claims were made, they were paid out of the United States Treasury.

Disaster and Fraud on FEMA Generally

d. When a natural disaster struck and a Presidential Disaster Declaration was made pursuant to the Robert T. Stafford Disaster Relief and Emergency Assistance Act, 42 U.S.C. §§ 5121-5206 (“The Stafford Act”), eligible individuals could seek financial assistance from FEMA when displaced by the natural disaster.

e. When a natural disaster or federal emergency occurred in the United States, federal agencies such as FEMA were designed to provide relief and assistance to affected individuals and entities. FEMA provided financial assistance by, among other things, helping affected individuals repair their property and paying for emergency housing (rental assistance to ensure the affected individuals had a habitable place to live while their property was being repaired).

The Defendant and Other Entities

f. Defendant NICHOLAS OCHS was a resident of Ambler, Pennsylvania.

g. Defendant NICHOLAS OCHS's elderly mother resided at a property in Ocean City, New Jersey (hereinafter "the Subject Property"). The back of the Subject Property accessed the Great Egg Harbor Bay.

h. Wells Fargo Home Mortgage, a division of Wells Fargo Bank, N.A., held a mortgage on the Subject Property. As part of that mortgage, defendant OCHS's mother maintained flood insurance through Fidelity National Property and Casualty Insurance Corp.

i. Builders #1 and #2 were contractors that worked in the Ocean City, New Jersey area.

j. The Wright Insurance Group ("Wright"), located in Uniondale, New York, was an insurance company that provided various types of insurance. Wright National Flood Insurance Company ("Wright Flood"), located in St. Petersburg, Florida, was a member of Wright.

k. In 2011, Wright purchased Fidelity National Property and Casualty Insurance Corp.'s flood insurance business. Fidelity National Property and Casualty Insurance Corp. was a WYO program insurance carrier that participated in the issuance of flood insurance under the NFIA. Fidelity

National Insurance Services, L.L.C. (“Fidelity”) was a third-party vendor that serviced the federal flood insurance policies issued by Fidelity National Property and Casualty Insurance Corp.

The Damage from Hurricane Sandy

1. In October 2012, the various counties of New Jersey, including Cape May County, suffered a severe storm, Hurricane Sandy, which caused significant damage due to wind, rain, and flooding (hereinafter “Hurricane Sandy”).

m. On or about October 30, 2012, President Barack Obama signed a Presidential Disaster Declaration for the State of New Jersey (DR-4086 – Hurricane Sandy) pursuant to The Stafford Act. This enabled eligible individuals to seek financial assistance from FEMA when displaced by the storm.

II. Defendant’s Scheme

The Charge

2. From in or about January 2013 to in or about December 2013, in Cape May County, in the District of New Jersey, and elsewhere, in a matter involving benefits authorized, transported, transmitted, transferred, disbursed, and paid in connection with a major disaster declaration under the Robert T. Stafford Disaster Relief and Emergency Assistance Act, 42 U.S.C. § 5170, defendant knowingly made materially false, fictitious, and fraudulent statements and representations to FEMA, verbally and in writing, in a matter involving benefits authorized, transported, transmitted, transferred, disbursed, and/or paid in connection with a major disaster declaration.

The Scheme

3. On or about January 4, 2013, defendant NICHOLAS OCHS, on behalf of his elderly mother, filed an application with FEMA seeking federal rental assistance and assistance for personal property damage under FEMA's Individual Assistance Program claiming that the Subject Property was damaged as a result of Hurricane Sandy and was unfit for occupancy.

4. On or about January 4 and 7, 2013, an inspector working on behalf of FEMA inspected the Subject Property and determined that the Subject Property was uninhabitable, that repairs were required, and that the home owner had moved. During the inspection, defendant NICHOLAS OCHS, acting as power of attorney, signed the application on behalf of his mother attesting that all the information on the application was true and correct. By signing the application, defendant OCHS acknowledged that any disaster relief money awarded would be returned if his mother received insurance benefits for the same loss.

5. On or about January 7, 2013, FEMA sent defendant NICHOLAS OCHS's mother a letter addressed to the Subject Property, notifying her that FEMA denied the claim because the Subject Property was covered by a flood insurance policy. The letter advised that defendant OCHS's mother could re-apply if some of the damage was not covered by her insurance policy but she would have to send in her insurance settlement documentation or denial letter to FEMA.

6. On or about January 22, 2013, FEMA received a flood declaration page, a homeowner declaration page and schedule of forms and endorsements for the Subject Property, which falsely stated that Fidelity would not pay any insurance money for the loss.

7. On or about February 8, 2013, FEMA awarded defendant NICHOLAS OCHS's mother funds for rental assistance and home repair based on the January 22, 2013 false submission.

8. In applying to FEMA for home repair and rental assistance claiming that his mother was displaced by Hurricane Sandy, defendant NICHOLAS OCHS submitted false and fraudulent leases claiming that, as a result of being displaced, his mother was renting another property on the same block in Ocean City. Defendant OCHS also provided false and fictitious rental receipts. Defendant OCHS failed to disclose that the property his mother was renting was owned by his family and that no rent was ever paid.

9. To support his mother's continued need for rental assistance, defendant NICHOLAS OCHS was required to complete FEMA forms, including Declaration of Continuing Need for Temporary Rental Assistance. The forms were sent via facsimile to FEMA in Hyattsville, Maryland. Each form contained a declaration that it was submitted under penalty of perjury. At various times between January 2013 and December 2013, to support his mother's continued rental assistance, defendant OCHS also faxed false and fraudulent lease agreements and rental receipts.

10. On or about February 8, 2013, defendant NICHOLAS OCHS contacted FEMA and made a claim for transportation assistance based on his false claim that his mother's 1985 Mercedes Benz was damaged by Hurricane Sandy. In applying to FEMA for transportation assistance on behalf of his mother, claiming that his mother's 1985 Mercedes Benz automobile was damaged by Hurricane Sandy, defendant OCHS made false representations and submitted false and fraudulent documentation to support the claim.

11. Between February 2013 and December 2013, FEMA paid defendant NICHOLAS OCHS's mother $17,229 for rental assistance and $4,345 for home repairs, through the issuance of direct deposits through electronic funds transfers into bank accounts that defendant OCHS controlled. Defendant OCHS then used the money to pay his personal expenses.

12. The total amount of FEMA benefits for rental assistance and home repair that defendant NICHOLAS OCHS collected to which he was not entitled was approximately $21,574.

In violation of Title 18, United States Code, Sections 1040(a)(2) and (b)(3), and Title 18, United States Code, Section 2.

3. On various dates between December 2012 and June 2013, Fidelity and Wright Flood paid approximately $61,642 to defendant NICHOLAS OCHS's mother for damage to his mother's personal property within the Subject Property. Wright Flood paid approximately $169,518 to Wells Fargo for damage to the Subject Property's structure. Wells Fargo held those funds in escrow on behalf of defendant OCHS's mother pending the completion of repair work.

6. It was further part of the scheme and artifice to defraud that defendant NICHOLAS OCHS submitted to Wells Fargo false and fraudulent invoices from the Builders that inflated the value of the work that the Builders performed so that Wells Fargo would release the escrowed insurance funds.

7. It was further part of the scheme and artifice to defraud that defendant NICHOLAS OCHS caused Wells Fargo to mail to the Subject Property checks which represented insurance payments addressed to his mother and some addressed to his mother and the Builders based on the false and fraudulent invoices.

8. It was further part of the scheme and artifice to defraud that defendant NICHOLAS OCHS, on behalf of his mother, and based on the false and fraudulent invoices, received approximately $231,160 in insurance reimbursements from Fidelity and Wright Flood, which were held in escrow by Wells Fargo, for damages to the Subject Property.

9. It was further part of the scheme and artifice to defraud that defendant NICHOLAS OCHS signed his mother's name and deposited the checks into bank accounts that he controlled. Thereafter, defendant OCHS used the money to pay personal expenses.

NICHOLAS OCHS
