

Daniella Pierre

President, NAACP Miami-Dade County Branch

Daniella Pierre is a Miami based community advocate and president of the Miami-Dade Branch of the NAACP.

As a Freedom Fighter of the NAACP, the nation's oldest and boldest Civil Rights organization, Daniella has led many initiatives in the areas of affordable housing, homeownership and equitable development.

Daniella has served as an active member of the Miami-Dade Branch of NAACP since 2011. She is a graduate of the NAACP's National Leadership Training Program - NEXTGEN, and former branch vice president.

She holds a master's degree in Human Resources Management from Florida International University(FIU); a resident of Miami-Dade County District 3; and is the recipient of many awards for her contributions and service within society.

Daniella serves for the greater good because she's a firm believer that all individuals should have equal rights without discrimination based on race.
