NATIONAL CRIME
VICTIMS'
RIGHTS WEEK
(April 23-29, 2023)

United States Attorney's Office
Southern District of West Virginia

MESSAGE FROM THE UNITED STATES ATTORNEY

William S. Thompson
United States Attorney, SDWV

Every year, millions of lives are changed forever by crime. Many suffer life-altering mental or physical injuries requiring ongoing care and support. These people are our family, neighbors, friends, and colleagues.

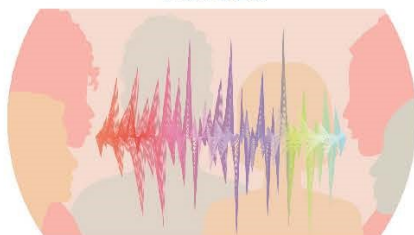

While prosecuting criminals, holding offenders accountable and seeking justice for victims is essential to maintaining a civilized society, it has only been within the past 40 years that crime victims have been given: rights to be notified of court proceedings and speak at sentencing, access to crime victim compensation, and access to services to help rebuild their lives. Through decades of advocacy and hard work, we have come a long way.

National Crime Victims' Rights Week, April 23-29, 2023, provides an opportunity to not only reflect on great strides in victims' rights, but also remind us that many challenges remain. During this week, I encourage you to raise awareness in your community of the impact of crime on victims, highlight the importance of victims' rights, and celebrate and honor survivors and those who serve them. This toolkit provides useful information and ideas to promote awareness in your agencies, organizations and communities.

Whether you are managing shelters, operating crisis centers, serving victims in homes or hospitals, or helping victims navigate the criminal justice system, — thank you for your service and commitment. Thank you for helping victims find their voice and strength, and move from victim to survivor.

ABOUT NATIONAL CRIME VICTIMS' RIGHTS WEEK

Since 1981, National Crime Victims' Rights Week (NCVRW) has challenged the Nation to confront and remove barriers to achieving justice for all victims of crime. During NCVRW, we celebrate the accomplishments of the victims' rights movement and reflect on how far we have come.

Every April, the United States Department of Justice, Office for Victims of Crime, leads communities throughout the country in their observance of NCVRW.

The 2023 theme—Survivor Voices: Elevate. Engage. Effect Change.—calls upon communities to amplify the voices of survivors and commit to creating an environment where survivors have confidence that they will be heard, believed, and supported.

Use the 2023 NCVRW theme artwork and sample proclamation to help your organization raise awareness about victims' rights and services.

Proclamation

by Governor Jim Justice

- Whereas, the term “victim” is more than just a label and has legal standing and protections that go along with it; and
- Whereas, crime victims’ rights acts passed here in West Virginia and at the federal level guarantee victims the right to meaningfully participate and use their voice in the criminal justice process; and
- Whereas, victim service providers, advocates, law enforcement officers, attorneys, and other allied professionals can help survivors find their justice by enforcing these rights; and
- Whereas, the right to provide an impact statement ensures that victims’ voices are considered in court during the sentencing and, when applicable, restitution processes; and
- Whereas, including and elevating the voices of survivors makes certain they are heard and seen and creates a path to forging and sustaining community trust; and
- Whereas, engaging survivors creates responses and services that are credible, meaningful, and centered on individual needs; and
- Whereas, survivors’ lived experience can serve as a catalyst for implementing innovative programs, shifting existing programs in new directions, and changing policies or practices that prevent survivors from accessing services or pursuing justice; and
- Whereas, National Crime Victims’ Rights Week provides an opportunity to recommit to listening to crime survivors in every space where decisions are made that could impact them; and
- Whereas, the Great State of West Virginia is hereby dedicated to amplifying the voices of survivors and creating an environment where survivors have the confidence that they will be heard, believed, and supported.

Now, Therefore, Be it Resolved that I, Jim Justice, Governor of the Great State of West Virginia, do hereby proclaim April 23-29, 2023 as:

Crime Victims’ Rights Week in the Mountain State and encourage all citizens to join me in this observance.

In Witness Whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of West Virginia to be affixed.

Done at the Capitol, City of Charleston, State of West Virginia, this the Thirtieth day of March, in the year of our Lord, Two Thousand Twenty-Three, and in the One Hundred Sixtieth year of the State.

Jim Justice
Governor
